This splendid organization appeared at the Royal Alexander Theatre, Toronto, last week, and will appear at His Majesty's Theatre, Montreal, next week. The cast of players intact, from star to utility man, will be seen at the Grand, with complete and superb productions for each play. This engagement is in promise for admirers of Mr. Mantell and the type of drama with which his name and fame have been so long associated.

TAKE BACK MEDALS SAY WAR VETERANS

Thirty Thousand Men Protest Government's Lack of Appreciation.

LONDON, Sept. 20—United News —'Take back your medals,' thus cried 30,000 British War Veterans.

Resenting the government's alleged lack of appreciation for the way "they did their bit," the veterans have simultaneously decided to return their 100,000 medals to the war office. The association of ex-service civil servants is promoting the great medal returning scene.

Members of the Association objects to the government failure to admit them to the full status of civil servants without the necessity of passing examinations.

The returns of the medals will be a real sacrifice in many cases where the act will mean that the ex-soldiers must give up his pension.

CLUMSY YANKEE QUIETS CANUCK

Paul Berlenbach Adds Another Knock-out To His String.

STOPPED REDDICK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press.)—Paul Berlenbach, of New York, added another victim to his long list of knockouts, by stopping Jack Reddick, of Canada, in the eighth round of a scheduled 12 round bout, in Madison Square garden last night. Reddick made a game bout of it, while he was able to keep his feet, and there were times when he had Berlenbach looking bad. As a matter of fact, it looked at one time as though the Canadian would stop the clumsy New Yorker.

At long range Reddick had all the better of it, but he could not hold off the plunging Berlenbach, who took many a wallop as he tore in after connecting. In the fifth and sixth rounds Reddick let several hard rights fall on his opponent's chin and the crowd thought that the jig was up for Berlenbach, but he weathered them and his body punches finally told.

ABANDON SEARCH IN DUMMER CASE

Only Unofficial Search Being Carried Out— Large Parties Fail To Find Trace of Missing Man.

WARSAW, September 20. —(Special).—Constable Clements of Warsaw has abandoned officially the search for Henry Hughes, the 74 year old man who has been missing from his home since September 10. The only search now being carried on is by private parties interested in the family. Mr. Clements abandoned the search after Thursday, when he scoured the woods with thirty-five men.

The search has been accompanied with considerable danger to the searchers, through the probability of men unacquainted with the rough country wandering away to be lost. While some of the searchers were temporarily wandered there were no serious difficulties of this kind. G. A. Brethen, M.P., joined the search ers and lent his asisstance in other ways.

SLAIN BY NATIVES.

Herbert Rigby, of Toronto, Killed In French Guiana.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.— Herbert Rigby, aged 24, son of John Rigby, of 22 Milverton Boulevard has been killed by the natives in French Guiana. His father has received a letter dated September 14, acquainting him of the death of his son, but given few particulars.

Last January, he was home for a few months before leaving to join a United States trading ship at Duluth. Mrs John Rigby is trying to get more information from the British consul here.

Just a few years ago, Mr. Rigby lost his wife when the Empress of Ireland went down.

OBITUARY.

JOSEPH SISSON.

The death of Joseph Sisson occurred on Friday, September 19th, at the residence of his brother, Wm. Sisson, 308 Pearl Avenue, Peterboro. The deceased was in his 74th year, and was a resident of Peterbroo for the last six years. There are left to mourn his loss two brothers and two sisters: Mrs. James Jackson, Bailieboro; Mrs. G. Harkness, Ida, Cavan; Mr. C. Sisson, of Cavan, and the brother with whom he resided.

The funeral will take place on Monday, September 22, and proceed to St. John's Cemetery, Ida, for interment.

Miss Gladys Walton is visiting Mrs. William Gallagher in East City for the week-end.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir: I am very pleased to note that Mr. G. N. Gordon M.P. has at last taken a more humble attitude and is now becoming quite tame and subdued. His last letter shows a less aggressive tone and a willingness to toady to Mr. Meighen, even though it may be at the expense of this city and county, which it is his duty, for the time being, to faithfully represent.

I did not mean in the least degree to call forth from Mr. Gordon this declaration: "I really do think it does hurt Mr. Dennes' feelings to find that I was honored by a government of which I was not a supporter with the appointment as one of His Majesty's counsel; but I cannot help that because the recommendation was made by a committee of judges of the Supreme Court, who probably had a somewhat better idea of my qualifications than Mr. Denne." Now Mr. Gordon has stated over his own signature that his appointment as K.C. was made on the recommendation of a "committee of Judges."

I challenge Mr. Gordon to produce the proof. The Drury K.C.'s were created in two batches. The first batch was created on the recommendation of a committee of judges, and the last was created on the recommendation of political "healers." Mr. Gordon's name is not to be found in the first batch; as a matter of fact it does not matter to which batch he rightfully belongs. But why should this wonderfully "self-made" man so boastingly worship his own maker? I quite agree with Mr. Gordon when he says "that this would hardly appeal to a pork barrel philosopher." But, joking aside, be humble Mr. Gordon, and frankly admit that you carved up Peterboro County to suit your own ends, and you are trying to blame it on Mr. Meighen; while everyone knows the chief person concerned is yourself—for your own good—and it does not concern the past Prime Minister.

Another matter I would like to call Mr. Gordon's attention to, and that is he says that no more money is to be spent on public works until the budget balances, if it can possibly be postponed, or words to that effect. He says Mr. Meighen agrees with this, but Mr. King claimed last session that the Government had a surplus of $30,000,000.

Mr. Gordon can now feel that he need no longer hesitate, but can make a fresh start to do something for the general advantage of this city and county; the electors do not want promises, but they do want performances. He promised election night that he would make the caretaker of the Custom House "walk the plank," which he was small enough to do. But he soon found out when he saw the Prime Minister, Mr. King, that he could not appoint his ward heeler. It was already done by the Civil Service Commission. He was going to bounce all hands on the dredge. He again fell down. Also the whistles of the factories were to blow when he said the word. Now is the time to make the whistles blow. Men and women are out of work, and surely now is the time to make your promise good.

I hope Mr. Gordon will kindly allow me credit of writing this letter. Practise makes perfect. I might remind Mr. Gordon that I was writing letters in the days when he was office boy for Judge O'Connell. Yours truly,

ROLAND DENNE.

General Chang-Tso-Lin To Bomb Several Gulf Ports.

SHANGHAI, September 22 (Canadian Press).—Heavy gunfire, starting at midnight in the direction of Kiating, Hwangtu, and Lunghwa, sectors to the north and west of Shanghai, announced that the Kiangsu Army has resumed the offensive against the city and its anti-Pekin defenders, the provincial forces of Chekang.

WARNS FOREIGNERS.

MUKDEN, Manchuria, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Chang Tao-Lin, the military dictator of Manchuria, yesterday requested the British and United States Consuls to warn their countrymen at Ching wang-tao, a gulf port on the Manchurian-Chi-li border, and Changhaikwan, an adjoining town, of his intention to bomb these places.

The Consuls were asked to advise the foreigners to leave.

General Chang also suggested that foreign ships stand clear of gunboats of the Pekin Government lying off Ching-wang-tao, since his planes intended to bombard them.

He invited the leading foreign residents to his headquarters and expressed appreciation of the good relations existing. He assured them of his efforts to afford protection, but asserted that he was engaged in a life and death struggle and could not stop at half measures.

SOUTH SEA BRIDE AND THRONE TO VIOLINIST

Toscha Seidel Regarded As Miracle Worker By Islanders.

BERLIN, Sept. 22.—(Associated Press).—Toscha Seidel, the young violinist, well known in America, who recently returned from a tour of Austria, New Zealand and the South Sea Islands, won such favor in one of the smaller islands by his music that he had great difficulty in rejecting the swarthy daughter of a lamented king and refusing to become the ruler of the tribesmen, who regarded him as a miracle worker.

Seidel was the first violinist ever to play for the tribe and was regarded as a messsenger direct from Heaven. The tribe showered him with gifts of spears, furs and war trophies.

MA FERGUSON CREATES BIG WORLD WIDE STIR

AUSTIN, Texas, Sept. 22.—The fame of Mrs. Miriam Ferguson, first woman nominee Governor, has become world-wide. She has received an application from a job from a laboring man living in England, according to her husband, James E. Ferguson, a former Governor.

Letters and telegrams of congratulations and requests of various kinds continue to come to the Ferguson home in Temple from all corners of the country and from foreign lands, he said today. She received congratulations this week from Switzerland.

MacLAREN HOME.

British Aviator Congratulated On His Courageous Flight.

LONDON, September 22 (Canadian Press Cable). — Squadron Leader MacLaren, whose attempt to fly around the world ended when his machine was wrecked in Siberia, was deluged with congratulations and besieged by callers at his Hampstead flat on his arrival home.

The London Star declares that surprise and indignation was widely expressed when it became known that not an official of the Air Ministry was at the station on Friday to welcome him and his companions.

The Star compares this treatment with that accorded the American world fliers at Croydon when a galaxy of Aero Club and Air Ministry officials welcomed them.

The Star adds that MacLaren's fellow-officers of the Air Force were furious over the treatment accorded MacLaren here, contrasting it with the great welcome given the airmen in Canada.

GIRLS GOT LIQUOR BY PRESCRIPTION METHOD

LINDSAY, Sept. 22.—The two girls, Edna Mathieson of Lorneville, and Edith Lafontaine of Beaverton, who went on a rampage with an automobile while under the influence of liquor Friday, came before Police Magistrate Bradford on Saturday. The Beaverton girl was fined $100 and costs and her companion from Lorneville $200 and costs.

According to the story told by the girls they received scripts from a doctor at Cambray while on their way to Lindsay, and when they reached town proceeded to a drug store and purchased their liquor. After consuming a portion of one bottle they started out to see the sights and came to grief after ramming another automobile.

STARTLING ANSWERS ON TO-DAY'S PERSONALITIES ARE GIVEN BY WISCONSIN NORMAL STUDENTS

FOND DU LAC, Wis., Sept. 22.—Prospective teachers at the Fond du Lack County Normal School were asked recently to describe Senator La Follette in an "identification test." One young woman described the Progressive candidate for President as "a Frenchman who came to America during the war." She admitted she had always lived in Wisconsin.

Another student said Teapot Dome was "an old tomb discovered in Egypt about a year ago." A few of the more startling answers were:

Ober-Ammergau—A great German politician.
Herrin—A title used in Germany.
Pinchot—A race horse.
Frances E. Willard — American pugilist.
Obregon—A province in Germany.
De Valera—A bandit in Mexico.
Lloyd George—King of England.
Ford—Ran for President and backed out.
Helen Keller—A great airplane flier.
John Wanamaker — A watchmaker.
Mussolini—A region in the southern part of Eurasia.
Tariff—A city in France.
Leonard Wood—An aviator.
Venizelos — Country in South America.
Henry Cabot Lodge—Place where societies meet.
Volstead — Experimenter about laws in physics.
Fiume—A mountain in Japan.
Babe Ruth—World heavyweight champion.
Muscle Shoals—A great coal mine in Italy.

Wait Till Novelty Wears Off, Says Convict in Joliet 24 Years.

CURIOUS VISITORS

JOLIET, Ill., Sept. 22.—Charles Lendewall, 95 years old, serving a life term in the State Penitentiary here for murder, is something of a philosopher.

Each morning as Nathan Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb trudge along in line from their cellhouses to the workshops they pass Charlie basking in the sun. Charlie has been an inmate for twenty-four years, having entered prison when he was 71.

Whenever he sees the slayers of little Robert Franks pass him he shifts his quid of tobacco from one side of his mouth to the other and airs his views of these prisoners and their "new-fangled" ideas.

Says Boys Must Suffer.

"I understand," said Charlie, "that these lads are supposed to be enjoying their stay here. Don't you believe it, mister. I give them another week to enjoy the novelty of the place and then they'll begin really to suffer.

"I once read where some poet said that 'Stone walls do not a prison make, nor iron bars a cell.' That's true as far as an old fellow like me is concerned. I like the place here. They treat me nice and it's the only home I ever had. But with these youngsters—it's different.

"They'll miss the admiring eyes of the crowd, they'll miss their exercise, they'll miss what their money was able to buy them, and fresh

KANSAS EDITOR AS INDEPENDENT OPPOSING KLAN

William Allen White Assails Chiefs of Two Old Parties for Silence.

RUN FOR GOVERNOR

Calls Klan Menace to Nation —Sees Kansas a Byword in Nation.

TOPEKA, Kan., Sept. 22. — Denouncing the Ku Klux Klan as a national menace and a disgrace to his State, William Allen White, the Emporia editor, filed Saturday as an independent candidate for Governor, with the avowed purpose of running the Klan out of Kansas. Carr Taylor filed with him as a candidate for Lieutenant-Governor.

"I am proud of my State," said Mr. White's statement, issued in connection with the filing of his candidacy, "and the thought that Kansas should have a Government beholden to this hooded gang of masked fanatics, ignorant and tyrannical in their ruthless oppression, is what calls me out of the pleasant joy of my life and into this distasteful but necessary task. I cannot sit idly and see Kansas become a by-word among the States."

Mr. White declared that Ben Paulen, the Republican nominee for Governor, had received Klan support in the primary, had prevented the Republicans from adopting an anti-Klan resolution and "by silence has further tied the Klan to him and disgraced his party in Kansas."

Jonathan M. Davis, the Democratic nominee, Mr. White declared, has refused to disclaim the Klan and had its endorsement in the Democratic primary, although his party threw it over.

Denounced Paulen Candidacy.

Mr. Paulen was endorsed by the Ku Klux Klan before the primary and received the support of Republican Klansmen. Immediately after that, Mr. White announced that "my business just now is with Ben Paulen. He is the man who is degrading my party and allying it with the forces of ignorance and terror."

Then it was that Mr. White decided to run for Governor as an independent candidate. His petitions were sent to every county except his own in the State, and 7,500 names were signed in two days. Only 2,500 were necessary to get on the ballot.

Mr. White's statement in full, reads as follows:

"I have filed my petition for Governor and am in this race to win. It is the largest independent petition ever filed for any office in Kansas. Nearly three times more names were signed to these petitions for Carr Taylor and myself, for Lieutenant-Governor and Governor, than were needed. None of these petitions came from my home town or county. I wished honestly to test sentiment.

"There can be no doubt about the sentiment. The issue in Kansas this year is the Ku Klux Klan above everything.

"The Ku Klux Klan is found in nearly every county. It represents a small minority of the citizenship and it is organized for purposes of terror. Its terror is directed at honest, law abiding citizens, negroes, Jews and Catholicc. These groups in Kansas compose more than one-fourth of our population. They are entitled to their full constitutional rights; their rights to life, liberty and pursuit of happiness. They menace no one. They are good citizens, law abiding, God-fearing, prosperous, patriotic.

"Yet, because of their skin or their race or their creed, the Ku Klux Klan in Kansas is subjecting them to economic boycott, to social ostracism, to every form of harassment, annoyance and every terror that a bigoted minority can use.

"And the leaders of two major parties in this State lift no hand to defend those people. Ben Paulen, the Republican candidate for Governor, accepted the Ku Klux Klan endorsement in the primary, and owes his small plurality entirely to Ku Klux votes.

"Before the primary his party papers urged him to disclaim this un-American crew. After the primary, before the Party Council, again his fellow Republicans of all factions warned him that public senti-

Ironworker Fell 90 Feet Crushed By Heavy Beam

OSHAWA, September 22 (Special to The Examiner). — John Dell, an ironworker from Caughnawaga, Quebec, near Lachine, who was working for the Dominion Bridge Company, of Montreal, erecting a huge water tower for the Oshawa Waterworks Commission, was fatally hurt here on Saturday afternoon.

He was unbolting an iron beam when in some unknown manner he lost his balance, falling 90 feet to the ground below.

The beam on which he was working landed on top of him, breaking nearly every bone in his body, and shortly after his removal to the hospital, he died from the injuries.

LINDSAY TOTAL 30,000 AT FAIR

Big Attendance on Closing Day—Rain Did Not Affect Gate Receipts.

CIRCUS A MISTAKE

LINDSAY, September 22. — The Lindsay Central Fair came to a close on Saturday evening, and the directors claim a new record was established in the attendance for the closing day. The weather conditions were threatening in the morning, when a light rain fell for several hours, but it cleared up towards noon. Rain fell, however, in the afternoon before the day's events came to a close.

Several estimates have been made relative to the attendance on Saturday, as well as on the four days of the Fair. A conservative estimate however, places the total attendance at 30,000.

The directors are well pleased with the success scored this year, and it is understood that they will have a tidy balance to their credit.

Trouble with Circus.

Boyd and Linderman's Show which the directors booked as a star attraction, appears to have had some trouble during its tour of Canada. It came to Lindsay from Ottawa, where it was booked during the fair at the capital, and agreed to pay the Fair directors $700 for the privilege of pitching their tents on the grounds. During the progress of the Fair a portion of this amount was paid over the management claiming that they were short of funds, and would pay the balance as soon as they did some business. It appears that the show made a week's stand at St. Thomas during the Old Home seek, and agreed to pay the executive in charge of the event $1000 for the privilege. They paid over $500, but got out of the city before the balance was handed over.

On Friday a representative of the St. Thomas city council came to Lindsay with all the necessary credentials preparatory to making a seizure.

When the directors of the Lindsay Central Fair were acquainted with this fact they immediately proceeded to collect the balance due them. Several of the directors established themselves in the manager's tent and did not leave until the money was handed over. The man from St. Thomas then arrived on the scene, and finally succeeded in getting his $500.

Some of the directors of the Fair contend that a mistake was made in bringing this circus feature to Lindsay, and establishing it on the Fair grounds. Owners of features on the midway held to the same opinion, and considerable difficulty was experienced by the Fair management in collecting money from some of the concessions.

Peterboro horses figured prominently in the speeding events on Saturday.

In the 2.14 pace or trot Major Hal, owned by S. Blewett, won first money and Bessie Brooks (F. Montgomery) second. The results of the different events were as follows:

2.14 Pace or Trot:
Major Hay, S. Blewett, Peterboro 1 1 1

PRINCE OFF TO PRAIRIE RANCH VISITED WIDOW OF ROOSEVELT

From Luxuries of Long Island Mansions and the Multitudes of New York to the Quiet Open Spaces of Alberta.

STARTED WEST SATURDAY NIGHT

SYOSSET, New York, Sept. 22.—The Prince of Wales, accompanied by his staff, left his vacation home here last night to board a special train which will take him direct to his ranch in the province of Alberta, Canada.

After going to bed at 3 o'clock Saturday morning, the Prince was suddenly awakened at 8 as a stream of furnace coal shot from a big truck into the cellar of the Burden residence.

Coal Drowns Prince's Protest.

Although State troopers and other guards have been keeping all visitors away, the prestige of a coal man at this time of the year is such that he had an unquestioned entree when he chose the hour of 8 a.m. to execute his contract with the Burdens. It was a Syosset dealer, who had been there before, and he drove the truck just under the Prince's window. There was a grating crash and a roar as the coal started down the iron chute.

The Prince put his head out the window and shouted something which could not be heard over the coal. He kept on shouting. Though he could not hear the Prince, the coal man was able to make the correct inference from the royal expression. He shut off the stream of coal and drove away.

Motors To Sagamore Hill.

The Prince motored to Sagamore Hill where he was received by Mr. and Mrs. Kermit Roosevelt and introduced to Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt, Sr. The Prince called at Sagamore Hill on his visit in 1919, when he laid flowers on the grave of Theodore Roosevelt at Oyster Bay, but Mrs. Roosevelt was absent at that time.

The Prince arrived at the polo game in the third period. Just after he arrived there was a prolonged battle for the ball at a spot in the field just under his stand. After the ball had been motionless for an incredible period under the mallets of both teams, it was tapped into the open by Lacey. Pedley recovered it on its way to make the eighth tally for the Californians.

"That was a good play wasn't it?" called the Prince to Major Metcalfe, his equerry. The Prince stayed until the fourth period when the Californians were leading the Hurricanes, on which three Englishmen were playing, by 8 to 7. Then he spent a few minutes at an adjoining field where teams led by Hitchcock and Milburn were playing.

At the clubhouse the Prince was surrounded by an overwhelming force of photgraphers. He posed again.

"Weren't you with the party in 1919" asked the Prince of one of the photographers. The camera man answered in the affirmative.

"I thought I remembered you," said the Prince. He then asked after one of the correspondents by name.

"I think I saw him out here," said the Prince. When he was told the correspondent had already left, the Prince said:

"I wish you would remember me to him."

Canadian Experts Develop Grain With Great Promise

OTTAWA, Sept. 19.—(Associated Press).—The Central Experimental Farm here has completed distributing among 50 large western grain growers samples of two newly evolved wheat varieties, which promise to revolutionize the crop calendar and frustrate the devastating rust.

Branded "Reward" and "Garnet," both the new varieties are of exceptionally early maturity and ripen even before the Marquis, the earliest grade now grown commercially throughout the grain Provinces.

Test plantings of these varieties at the experimental farm ripened before the rust season set in. Thus, although the new varieties are not considered rust-resisting, it is believed that if the promise of the tests materializes in commercial plantings, they will prove the long-sought means of frustrating the blight.

Numerous efforts have been made in recent years to develop an early variety of wheat which would beat the rust season. Several such varieties actually have been produced, but they fell so far short of standards in size of grain and acre yield that they proved unprofitable commercially.

Plebiscite Bulletin

The O.T.A. Has Made Good

Prohibitory legislation is most difficult of enforcement in the large centres of population. There the criminals—hive. There people of divers languages settle in colonies. And there life is fast and furious for those who lust for excitement.

Toronto represents one-fifth of the population of Ontario. If tolerably good results from a law abolishing the liquor traffic are obtained here, the province-wide results must be of a gratifying character, even assuming that this city has an exceptionally fine police force with which to enforce the O.T.A.

Police court figures for the last two years, compared with the figures for 1914, do not indicate any failure of prohibition to realize the hopes of those whose only concern is the welfare of the community. Look at these as samples:

	1914.	1921.	1922.
Drunk	14,247	4,727	4,059
Disorderly	2,734	1,084	985
Vagrants	2,015	1,053	731
Total	18,996	6,864	5,775

It will be seen that between 1914 and 1922, while the population of Toronto was increasing from 470,144 to 529,083, the number of cases of drunkenness, disorderly conduct and vagrancy fell from 18,996 to 6,864, which is a greater reduction than most temperance people had looked for. The year 1922 was an improvement over the year 1921. And the showing made by Toronto can be duplicated by nearly every town and city in the province.

KEEP THE O.T.A.

No system of dealing with the liquor evil can completely rid the community of drunkenness, bootlegging and tippling. When the government licensed and controlled bars and shops, the evils mentioned were immeasurably greater than they are to-day. They are much worse under the government sale of liquor in Quebec and British Columbia to-day than they used to be here under license.

Ontario, so far as the drink evil is concerned, is a more wholesome place in which to rear a family than at any time in its history. It can bear comparison with any other part of the world. It is getting better results from its method of temperance reform than othe communities obtain in trying out other ideas.

So long as the O.T.A. continues to work out as favorably as it is doing at present, there is no excuse for experienting with something different. Everybody knows that the element most insistent in demanding a change is not interested in keeping down then amount of drinking.—The Toronto Star.

OLD FRIENDS MEET.

A Pleasant Re-union Took Place in the City Over the Week-end.

A pleasing re-union of three old friends took place here on Saturday, when a trio of theatrical men, who had not met for many years, renewed old acquaintanceship.

John Curran, advertising agent for a forthcoming attraction, "The Gingham Girl," strolled into the rotunda of the Empress Hotel, after having dinner there on Saturday night, and met Henry Sayers, advance man for the Robert Mantell Company. Mr. Curran worked for Mr. Sayers fifteen years ago, when the latter was manager of a show called "Tuxedo," and had not seen him in the meantime. The two were exchanging hearty greetings when John Dunn, manager of the "First Year" Company, which played here on Saturday night, and whom neither had seen for many years, walked in and added his voice to the general chorus.

The trio spent a happy week-end, exchanging reminiscences and looking over old theatrical programmes. Mr. Sayers and Mr. Curran, were entertained last evening at the home of Mrs. F. A. Hodgson, whose husband, the late Fred. A. Hodgson, was a friend of both. Mr. Sayers is a veteran theatrical man of over seventy years of age, and was the composer of several of the old-time popular songs, including the old favorite, "Ta-ra-ra-boom-de-ay" and "Dear Louise."

TOBIN LANDED MONSTER FISH

Measures 44 Inches in Length and Weighs 20 Pounds.

IN A CONTEST.

Forty-four inches long, eighteen inches in girth, twenty pounds in weight is the story of the biggest fish caught this fall. The 'lunge is on exhibit to-day in White Bros. store on Charlotte street.

M. Tobin caught the monster at Seven Oaks, near the first bridge in the Otonabee, using a three-spoon Buffalo bait. It fought for three-quarters of an hour, and was followed by several smaller fish.

The 'lunge has been entered in the contest being conducted by White Bros., in which the largest bass and the largest 'lunge will win prizes for the owner.

A few days ago a six and three-quarter pound pickerel was handed in, still alive, and was kept in a tank for a day.

Leo Tobin, brother of the man who caught to-day's whopper, last year landed the biggest 'lunge caught in these waters.

SEARCH FOR YOUTH.

Toronto Member of Expedition Has Not Been Heard From.

TORONTO, September 22 (Canadian Press). — What has happened to Herbert Rigby, who is 24 years of age, and who left Toronto last January for Duluth?

The last word heard of him was contained in a postal card supposed to have been signed by Mrs. Roper, of the Seamen's Mission, and dated 14th September.

The card bore a New York postmark.

It merely stated that the young man had gone inland to French Guiana, and had been killed by the natives.

The meagre details of the message caused John Rigby, father of the boy, to write at once to Mrs. Roper at the Mission, asking for further details.

In a day or two he received a reply stating that the message had not emanated from the Seamen's Mission, but offering the institution's help towards locating the ship on which the young sailor had proceeded to South America.

Mr. Rigby also obtained the address of the British Consul in French Guiana, and has written seeking his aid in locating his son.

The boy's father stated that he felt that his son had been a victim of foul play.

VILLAGE ON FIRE.

Telephone Girl Stuck To Her Post and Warned the Residents.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22. (Special.) —The village of St. Contant is ablaze. A strong wind is now blowing and it may be wiped out.

This startling news came over the long distance teelphone this morning from Aileen Langton, the telephone operator, at the Bell Telephone Company's office in the village, who heroically struck to her post, sending out calls for help when the flames were threatening to engulf the building.

The first news came at 5.05 o'clock this morning when Aileen called Montreal and St. Lambert fire brigades, and asked them to rush to the rescue. Previously the plucky girl, dressed only in her night gown and slippers raced down the village street a quarter of a mile and roused M. Goyette, the Sacristan, who hurried to the church and rang an alarm on the bells. Two hundred men of the village jumped from their beds, and commenced the desperate work of saving their homes and their beloved church. Rev. Father Rabeau, the parish priest, entered the burning church and saved the holy sacrament. He then led the villagers in their attack against the on-rushing flames. Fire broke out in the home of J. Corbeil, and after destroying it spread to that of Mayor Baillarge, which was also burned.

FOLLOWED HER VICTIM.

Double Tragedy In Wake of Automobile Accident.

BERLIN, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Upon being informed that a pedestrian, Count Dominicus Von Strachwitz, a prominent agrarian, whom she had run down with her high-powered automobile, in a crowded thoroughfare, had died of his injuries ,Frau Anita Huettman, wife of a well-known banker from Valparaiso, Chile, committed suicide in her apartment to-day.

Friends who tried to visit her in her apartments, arrived just as she sent the bullet crashing through her left temple.

LIFE IN THE OLD LAND

(By F. M. DelaFosse)

I once knew a man who informed me, after a six weeks' sojourn in the wilds of Canada, that he proposed to write a history of the country, with special attention to the fauna and flora of the North-west. He had never been there, and did not even propose to go there, but he thought that he could get enough information from Government publications to make up a fairly readable volume. His stay in Canada was to be very short, a mere two months' holiday, and, in the simplicity of his soul, he deemed himself equal to producing a work that would be read and commended by the world at large.

That book was never written, and bearing the memory of that man in my mind, I propose to steer clear of all questions of a controversial nature, and also of descriptions that might lay me open to the charge of having culled my information from the guide-books. If I were to attempt a dissertation on the Labor question, for instance, or on the present policy of the British Government, either in the foreign or domestic field, I might be tempted to use language that would show me lagging very much in the rear as a humble follower of Abou Ben Adhem. It seems to me that for a man who is neither a capitalist nor a horny-handed son of toil it is the part of wisdom to leave such questions as affect them so intimately to the protagonists themselves, and to the pundits and politicians who endeavour, often very successfully, to make labor for the capitalist and capital out of labor.

Having delivered myself of one of the essential principles underlying the Golden Rule, that of the beauty of minding one's own business, I turn with pleasure to an account of certain things that interested me during my stay, and which, so far as I know, are not mentioned to a marked extent in any of the Guide-books. Apart from any consideration of massive cathedral or historic monument, the thing that impressed itself most on my mind was the beauty of the English gardens and the close watch that the Englishman keeps on his home treasures. No open lawns for your Englishman. His home is his castle, and behind his well-trimmed hedge and high garden wall he tends his plants, and asks his friends, big-heartedly and sincerely, to share his pleasures with him. English flowers are glorious; English fruits are wonderful. When you have to pay sixpence or ninepence for a peach, you may realize that it is not of the variety for which you need pay only a dollar a basket in Canada.

English country life is, perhaps, the acme of existence. To be domiciled, as I was for too brief a time, in an old English farmhouse in the heart of Somersetshire, was to feel that here were the very conditions that could make poets even out of princes, and breed the very finest type of thinkers that the world has produced.

As I looked from my bedroom window across the velvety lawn to the peaceful pasture lands that lay beyond, thoughts of Herrick and Crabbe and Cowper and George Herbert came to my mind, along with many other who had enriched the literature of their country, and who had rounded out the even tenor of their lives amid like surroundings. The hum of the motor cars, three-quarters of a mile away, could scarcely be heard; a more pleasant medley of sound filled the air—the drone of bees, the lowing of cattle, the trickle of the water in the disused mill-stream hard by. Embosomed in a thick grove of chestnut and elm trees, the old farmhouse has harbored for many generations members of the same family. The old lady who owns it at present is the last in the direct line, and when she passes on the property will, in all probability, go into alien hands. But at present the glamour of direct descent remains and enhances the interest with which one gazes at the various objects of value with which the house is stored. There are splendid steel engravings in that house, wonderful walnut cases loaded with books of a bygone day, sermons by Tillotson, a copy of Dr. Johnson's dictionary and encyclopædias whose usefulness must have been on the wane when our grandfathers and grandmothers were infants. The furniture is as solid and substantial as bed-rock, the silver is as solid as the furniture. If ever I felt cupidity enter into my soul it was when I cast my eyes on two marvellously-wrought candlesticks which did duty on the sideboard. But my interest did not end with the things seen in the morning rooms. There were two Chippendale chairs in the kitchen doing the duty of ordinary seats. One of the finest tributes to their stability might be found in the fact that they had, for years out of number, afforded a safe seat to many a buxom serving maid. There they were still, little recked of by the old lady, whose interest in them was entirely a sentimental one, and to whom an appraisement of their value in dollars was simply horrific. In the bedrooms, and there were many of them, were huge four-poster bedsteads, canopied in polished mahogany and enclosed by the heaviest of curtains. When I climbed into mine at night and found, to my joy, that there was a good, hard mattress, and not an abominable one of feathers, I thanked my lucky stars, but my joy was somewhat tempered as I looked above me and saw the ponderous canopy swaying with the motion produced by my leap. Another such bound and I felt that the whole structure would have been about my ears and flattened me out like a pancake.

But the most interesting of all the interesting objects that that house sheltered was the dear old lady herself. Long past the age allotted by the Psalmist, she still retained a stateliness and a carriage that one does not often see in women of half her years. Bred through a whole lifetime to principles of orderliness and punctuality, she was a martinet, though a gentle one, in having everything set to rule and done at a certain specified time. Prayers were said in the dining-room at precisely 8.30 every morning. At their conclusion, the maids went softly out and returned in a few moments with the breakfast. And such a breakfast. Butter, eggs, bread, jam, bacon and coffee—all of the finest, and in such profusion. At one o'clock, luncheon would be served; at five o'clock, afternoon tea; and at 7.30, dinner. There were no late hours kept in that house. Punctually at ten o'clock the maids came in with lighted candles and solemnly gave a candlestick apiece to each member of the family, said "Good night," and curtseyed and went out. Then began a solemn parade upstairs, the old lady leading the way. On the landing, there was a formal "Good night" said all round, and then each went his or her way to seek repose.

There was something very reminiscent of the England of fifty years ago in all this formality and serenity of existence. In the hurry and rush of present-day life, one cannot but feel that something has been lost. The very fact that the saying of family prayers has so largely become a thing of the past carries its own moral. Things are not as they used to be, and one cannot but wonder if with the passing of such a feature of old days, there has not been a weakening of the whole structure of family life and character.

I cannot say that I regarded the light of a candle as at all conducive to bedroom comfort. Being one of those who loves to read himself to sleep, I found one small, flickering glim an abomination. Even a lamp would have been preferable. But it was a case of making a virtue of necessity, and it took some time to get used to doing without my usual sedative. Night after night I used to sit, propped up on my pillows, and watch the moonbeams straying across the carpet in that huge room, and, all unconsciously, started to weave stories of the lives of those who had slept in that room before me. Sometimes I reflected, sadly, on its seclusion from the rest of the household, and the ease with which a murder might be committed in that room and nobody be cognizant of it. The occasional hooting of an owl from a branch of the old elm tree on the lawn did not tend to add cheeriness to my cogitations. For my mind had been loaded up recently with tales of horror. In Bath, I had, only a few days before, heard from the lips of a friend the strange tale of a spectral lady who used to come to her bedside in the dead of night and gaze sorrowfully at her and then fade away. This friend lived in Park Street, close to where I was staying. "I rented that house," she said, "in the absolute unconsciousness that it was said to be haunted. The cheapness of the rent decided me in taking it. For several months after I entered into residence nothing happened, and then one night I wakened to find at my bedside the figure of a tall lady, in grey, looking silently down at me I told her to go away, and even lit matches and threw them at her in my fright, but she didn't move. Finally, I fainted. When I wakened in the morning, I thought the whole thing must have been a dream, but the burnt matches on the floor showed me that it had certainly been no dream. Nothing happened for some weeks, till one night I wakened again to find the spectre standing beside my bedside. This time I simply called on the Lord Jesus to save me, and the figure quickly moved from my bedside and passed through a closed door leading into the garden. I have never seen it since and think that I must have exorcised it. But I went to the trouble to find out if anyone had seen the spectre besides myself, and found that the house had had the reputation of being haunted for years, and that the story was that many years before, a lady living in the house had murdered her infant child and had buried it in the garden, and that it was her ghost that haunted the premises."

How would any of my Peterborough friends like to live in a house like that?

THE MODERN CITY.

Overhead Cost of Living in Cities is Becoming Unbearable.

The modern city has done its work. The city has taught us much. But the overhead expense of living in such places is becoming unbearable. The cost of maintaining interest on debts, of keeping up water supply, sewerage and sanitary systems, the cost of traffic control and of policing great masses of people are so great as to offset the benefits of the city.

This is Henry Ford's idea, expressed in an interview in Automotive Industries Magazine.

Ford says he believes that sharp competition will compel industries to move out into small communities. Overhead costs and living expenses would be lower there.

Some years back, Ford advanced the idea of establishing factories in rural districts where farmers could work in their dull season of the year. Growing most of his own food, each industrial producer under this system would be if industries owned the farm-homes and supervised them ruthlessly, as is now done with homes and gardens in many mining towns.

Today the big city is an industrial centre. Ford predicts a time when the industrial center will be a chain of small towns, each with its factories and mills, farms nearby.

Ford does not reckon with the part the airplane may play in breaking up big cities. If planes get safe, fool-proof and as inexpensive as auto flivvers, father could live far out in the country or even the woods and fly hundreds of miles to and from work in the city.

The city would no longer be a residential district on any big scale. It would have factories, mills, stores and theatres.

With airplanes cheap and fast, and radio bringing movies and music and news to the far-off home, the problem of city congestion would be easily solved.

The public, however, might object to isolation —even in groups of families. City dwellers are responding to much the same spirit that makes bees flock together in a common hive, wasps in a paper nest, ants in a hill.

WOMEN'S INSTITUTE BUSY ORGANIZATION

Reports at Regular Meeting Show Many Activities — Twenty Members Present.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. — The Seymour West Women's Institute meeting was held on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Longmuir, Mrs. Geo. Vonvolkenburg, president, presiding.

Discussion arose as to the number of prizes given at the school fair and which school got the most prizes. It was decided on motion of Mrs. Macoun and Mrs. David Stillman, that the secretary write to Mr. Smith, agricultural representative at Brighton and ask about the prizes that were given to the different schools last year.

The cemetery fund was discussed but was left over till next meeting.

The Institute are packing a box of fruit for the Sick Children's Hospital, Toronto, at the home of Mrs. Marshall Longmuir about the first week in October, to be left in the hands of the following committtee: Mrs. Vonvolkenburg, Mrs. Wheatley, Mrs. Thos. Dunham, Mrs. Roy Flemming, Mrs. Geo. Longmuir, and the secretary, Miss May McArthur. On motion of Mrs. Wheatley and Mrs. Reg. McCullogh. There was a motion carried that all bills of the Institute be paid by the secretary. Mover and seconder Mrs. Stillman and Mrs. Dunk.

The roll was called and every member responded with 'my best job,' which was serving.

A very interesting item on the programme was a report, given by Miss Beavin McConnell, on her trip to the Boys' and Girls Club Congress held in connection with the International Stock Show at Chicago. A splendid paper, entitled, 'Country Women's Problems,' was given by Mrs. Thos. Dunham. There was also a contest prepared by Mrs. David Stillman.

Mrs. Geo. Longmuir tendered a vote of thanks to those who took part in the programme and who had helped prepare it.

There were twenty members present. Lunch was served at the close of the meeting.

KANSAS EDITOR

ment would not stand for a minority secured entirely by the Ku Klux Klan. In the Republican Party Council there was a strong element intent upon divorcing the Republicans from the Ku Klux Klan.

"Ben Paulen, the Republican Gubernatorial nominee, in the Committee on Resolutions, defeated an anti-Klan resolution. Then he went before the State Party Council, and, with his prestige as party leader, prevented even a debate upon the Klan on the floor of the convention, and by silence further tied the Klan to him and disgraced his party in Kansas. Since then, in declaring he was not a Klansman, he used the phrase 'at this time,' the one phrase that all Klansmen use when denying their membership.

"The Democratic Gubernatorial nominee, Jonathan M. Davis, never before the primary or since, has uttered one syllable which would offend the most ardent Klansman. He had the Klan endorsement in the primary. His party threw it over, but Davis has not disclaimed it.

"So here are the two major parties in Kansas led in the race for Governor by men who had Klen support in the primary and who will not disavow that support to-day. A man who has not the courage and does not rise to righteous indignation to denounce and defy the Ku Klux Klan in the primary and in the election is not going to oppose it seriously in the Governor's chair.

"I want to be Governor to free Kansas from the disgrace of the Ku Klux Klan. And I want to offer Kansas people afraid of the Klan and ashamed of that disgrace a candidate who shares their fear and shame. So I am in the race to stay, and to win.

"Kansas, with high intellegence, and pure American blood, of all States, should be free of this taint of bigotry and terror. I was born in Kansas and have lived my life in Kansas. I am proud of my State. And the thought that Kansas should have a government beholden to this hooded gang of masked fanatics, ignorant and tyrannical in their ruthless oppression, is what calls me out of the pleasant joy of my life into this distasteful, but necessary task. I cannot sit idly and see Kansas become a by-word among the States.

"I call to my support, least of all, those who are oppressed by the Ku Klux Klan. We must have no class issue here. I call to my support rather all fair-minded citizens of every party, of every creed, to stop the oppression of the minority of our people.

"It is a nation-wide menace, this Klan. It knows no party. It knows no country. It knows only bigotry, malice and terror. Our National Government is founded on reason and the Golden Rule. This Klan is preaching and practicing terror and force. Its only prototype is the Soviet of Russia. So I feel that I am walking the path of duty in going into this race.

"I ask my fellow-Kansans to come with me and to stand with me for free government and the righteous guarantees of our Constitution for all its citizens."

DOMINION LOAN TO FLOAT SOON

Bonds Sold To Canadian Syndicate To Redeem Victory Loan.

NOTABLE FEATURES.

OTTAWA, Sept. 20. — It was announced last night by Hon. James A. Robb that $85,000,000 of Dominion Government bonds have been sold to a strong Canadian syndicate, proceeds to be used in redeeming the Victory loan maturing on November 1 next. It is also announced that this transaction will complete the 1924 refunding programme.

The $85,000,000 issue consists of $35,000,000 of two year 4 per cent bonds, and $50,000,000 of 20 year 4½ per cent. bonds. These will be offered to the public at an early date.

A satisfactory feature of the Canadian issues, as of that issued in New York, two days ago, is that there will be considerable saving in interest charges to the government. The $107,000,000 loan due on November 1 next bears interest at 5½ per cent. while the two conversion issues now being made a saving of one per cent. in one case and 1½ per cent. in interest charges in the other will be effected.

Still another notable fact is that the acting Minister of Finance was not compelled to ask for anything near the full amount of the loan due in November, as the finances of the Dominion are in a healthy condition.

GANGSTER FOUND SLAIN.

Louis Cassara Had Two Bullet Wounds In Chest—Revolver Nearby.

NEW YORK, September 20. Canadian Press. — Louis Cassasa, the notorious east side gangster, known as "Dutch Louie," was found dead in a rear hallway of a Roosevelt street tenement house early to-day with two bullet wounds in his chest. Nearby was found a pistol with one dead shell. The police believe that he was not murdered in the tenement house, and the Chief Medical Examiner Chas. Norris, said the gangster had been killed at least seven hours before the body was found.

A sister of the dead man said he had recently been pestered by a girl."

Thinks Prison Deteriorating.

Charlie thinks that the prison is fast deteriorating.

"Why, I remember the time," he said, "when we used to work ten hours a day, see visitors every two months, and wore striped suits. Them was the good days. We was always happy then. But now the place ain't what it used to be because they's too many of these d— foreigners coming in."

Visitors continue to pour into the prison, making vain efforts to try to find the two boys at work.

Mail for the two boys also continues to pour in. Letters of advice, admiration and pity, from all over the country, most of which go straight into the Warden's waste-basket.

The boys will be able to see each other soon, it became known today. On the 28th and 29th of this month the Jewish New Year will be celebrated, at which time they will be able to meet and talk to each other. At the present time they are entirely shut off from one another.

No One to Admire Loeb.

All day long the "eyes," as the visitors are called by the inmates, tramp through the prison looking for the boys. Leopold, looking like a Maxwell street fish hawker in his oversized uniform and big cap, never looks up from his work as the "eyes" tramp wonderingly through. They mean nothing to him. He wouldn't care if they never came through. All day long the "eyes" tramp past Loeb's window in the chair shop and as Dickie stands hour after hour boring holes in chair legs he can see them pass him by and he often gulps hard. He hardly expected to get that sort of break. A great criminal sent up for life and no one to admire him.

The big day has come and the house is ahum from the earliest hours of hte morn. Excitement is brewing and something is doing as soon as the daybreak has come.

The breakfast is served from the old kitchen sink, for no time can be wasted today. Poor mother and dad barely have time to think, and the little folks get in the way.

The drawers of the dressers are packed good and tight and the tinware is put in some tubs. While father is making the house look a sight, the wash lady washes and scrubs.

The rugs are rolled up and the furniture's moved, as much as can be, to the hall. Poor mother's disgusted, she's dusted and dusted and made no impression at all.

All morning there's hustle and bustle and tear; by noon many muscles are sore. The things are all ready, with folks waiting there till the movers drive up the door.

MANVERS SCHOOLS HAD ANNUAL FAIR

Many Entries and Well Attended Affair Drew Commendation—Presbyterian Anniversary.

JANETVILLE, Sept. 22. —The School Fair was held in the new park last week and was patronized by a large gathering of people.

The following are the names of teachers, schools and contests, with the winners of the prizes in the various contests.

In the public speaking contests Rev. Mr. Walker, of the Presbyterian church, and Rev. Mr. Ross, of the Methodist church, were chosen judges:

Schools and Teachers.

S. S. No. 1, Manvers—Miss Vera Squire.

S. S. No. 5, Manvers—Mr. Mere Todd.

S. S. No. 6, Manvers—Mr. John Adair.

S.S. No. 7, Manvers—Miss Gladys Gray.

S. S. No. 10, Manvers—Mr. John Cawood.

S. S. No. 16—Miss Loise Richardson.

Contests.

Public speaking — 1st Everett Porter; 2nd prize, George Stratton; 3rd prize, J. E. Jerdin.

Personals.

His friends regret to note the severe and sudden illness of Mr. Wm. Arthurs, of Janetville, who was seized with a paralytic stroke last week in Toronto, and lies very low at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Heaslip, in that city.

Rev. and Mrs. Ross have returned from the west after visiting in Winnipeg and Saltcoats, Saskatchewan. Mrs. Ross has been away since April last visiting her sister in Winnipeg, and her daughter, Mrs. (Dr.) Wollard, of Saltcoats. Mr. Ross was absent from his pulpit for two months, but he left his work well supplied with men from Lindsay, Peterborough and Toronto.

The pastor of the Methodist church preached on Prohibition on Sunday evening, swinging his church in line for the great temperance campaign.

The congregation is looking forward to a great day on Sunday next in connection with the Sunday school rally.

Presbyterian Anniversary.

The Presbyterian church an Janetville held its anniversary on Sabbath last with abundant success. The officials and pastor of the Methodist cause handed over their edifice for the evening, as was done last year, and withdrew the Methodist evening service. Rev. Mr. McConnachie, of Centreville, was the preacher of the day, and delivered two excellent sermons, one in the afternoon in the Presbyterian church and the other in the Methodist church at night. Great harmony exists between the pastors and congregations at Janetville.

ASTERS PROVIDE GARDEN PROBLEM

Disease For Which No Remedy Has Been Found, Thwarts Chicago Growers.

An increasing number of gardeners complain of the difficulty of growing asters. Diseases attack them and aphides feed on their roots. Ground in which they have thrived apparently becomes impregnated with disease and they no longer do well there.

There is no remedy for stem rot, which is believed to be due to a fungus carried in the soil. It causes heavy losses in greenhouses and no remedy has been discovered for it there. It is likely to come on aster plants which have been started in hotbeds or greenhouses. If seed be sown in the open on fresh soil the chances of success are better, though blossoming plants are not likely to be had before September. There is compensation in the fact that such plants will escape the black aster-beetle which works havoc in August.

Single Aster More Popular.

Double asters are not so popular with florists as they once were. The single is considered much more decorative by the new-school florists, who pay much attention to composition in floral arrangements. The single asters also are better plants for the border. They have landscape value. They are much grown in England, where many named varieties have been developed and these will be available in this country if the singles grow more in favor. The only one generally obtainable now is Marechal Joffre, large, red and very beautiful. Seed in colors may be had, however, for white, dark blue, pink, lavender and mauve single asters.

EXPRESS MAN IS GIVEN SENTENCE

T. C. Smith Convicted of Stealing Liquor—Detective Howard Helped In Case.

LINDSAY, Sept. 20.—At the session of the Police Court held in Midland on Thursday, T. C. Smith, formerly of Lindsay, who has been an expressman on the C.N.R. running out of Midland, was sentenced to three months in the Barrie Jail for the theft of liquor from a car. Detective Howard, of Peterboro, who is in the employ of the C.N.R., assisted the authorities in securing evidence in the case, which resulted in conviction. From time to time during recent months it had been noted that shortages had been reported after almost every run he had made, and as this did not happen with other messengers, suspicion fell upon Smith in connection with these losses. The matter was brought to a climax when several cases of liquor disappeared from a car which he had brought in one evening. While there was no direct evidence to connect Smith with the offence, circumstantial evidence was sufficiently strong in the opinion of the Magistrate to warrant him registering a conviction.

Shanghai May Surrender.

Defenders Admit Possibility, But Deny Their Troops Are Routed.

SHANGHAI, Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press.)— The surrender of Shanghai to the Kiag-su armies, seeking to capture it, was admitted this morning at headquarters of the defenders at Lung-wha, to be a possibility. It was asserted, however, that, contrary to common reports, the defending Chekiang soldiers were not in retreat.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

ON PROHIBITION.

The human being in the first or state of nature recognizes only the needs of nature and knows nothing of the higher life, religion, culture, self-restraint, honor and virtue, which are voluntary and ideal. Although man in the second state, the higher or spiritual state, endeavors to rise above the lower or animal state, he has great difficulty in doing so. The very minute trouble begins, such as war, or famine, or drunkenness, he lowers himself to his animal state and endeavors to preserve his body by the old method, ignoring for the time being the higher or spiritual life of selfrestraint, religion and the other evidences of what we call civilization, which he has so passionately preached. When, therefore, we see the havoc occasioned, not by liquor, but by the evil passions of men giving way to the lust for liquor, we see that these men are hopelessly back in the animal state. We catch them, pen them in and subdue them in order to prevent their doing themselves and us harm. In order, however, to succeed with such men we find it necessary to treat all men and women in the same way, thus giving up altogether culture, self-restraint, religion and the spiritual life to the rude animal necessities of the case. We say to ourselves: "Oh! It is all very well to preach religious reform through conversion, the higher life, etc., but it does little good. It does not compare for effectiveness with the plain practical animal way of our first and uncivilized state. We therefore proceed to "prohibit" all and sundry, good and bad alike, thus giving up as weak and ineffective, in fact as untrue, the so-called higher life which we find to be merely talk and nothing more, thus destroying with one hand what we do with the other, thus laughing to scorn what the moment before we proclaimed as the only thing worth living for. This is the first time in history that this frankly retrograde step has been taken. It is the first time in history that a measure of force called Prohibition has been introduced in lieu and stead of the old method of persuasion of winning souls from wickedness and ruin by the appeal to the higher life. We give up the one when we take to the other, do we not? There is no denying that, and the effect of our action is visible in the state of irreligion and strife in our own part of the world to-day. The contradictory nature of our actions shows itself to the young. They say, "Oh! These good people who have preached to us so long do not believe a word they say about regeneration through Christ and the higher life. If you want to improve things you have got to do it in the old way, in the primeval, the animal way." And thus a new era has been introduced to the world, the era of force of restraint, but not self-restraint. Prohibition taught women that the way to obtain their right to the franchise was by violence, and it has left its black mark upon them and upon the world today. Is the old way then to disappear for ever? It is for you to say on October 23rd. Have your faith and courage departed? Are you convinced that reform can come only by material means and not by the spirit by force and not by appeal to the higher life? If so, you must know that it is vain to expect evidences of the higher life amongst us when we have deliberately destroyed it to make room for something we consider more effective. This faith and courage is the very basis of the higher life. Once we lose it or give it up we are right back where we were before civilization began. The long, long years of developing an ideal state of mind and body, the spiritual state, were wasted. You have decided it is all talk, a sham, a pretence, and the rising generation will take you at your word. It is doing so now, and is defying you by means of that new system of violence which you yourselves have introduced.

To curb or abolish drunkenness is of course desirable, but does it pay to abolish it by a method which abolishes everything else worth living for? The results of your action are around you everywhere. They are terrible, more terrible, than anything else that has ever come upon us. They threaten the complete ruin of society. Is it not better to accomplish our ends by saner and better methods? You would, if you could, say to God Himself that He must not furnish men with the natural agencies required to produce alcohol. According to you, God is guilty of making illicit means of manufacture of liquor. Is it not plain that you are going the wrong way to your object? Perhaps, however, you do not believe in the higher life. If so, Prohibition is the thing for you to vote for. Think for a moment how absurb it is for a preacher to preach to people and beg of them to turn from their wickedness and live when he really believes that the best way is to make them do it whether they like it or not. If that be so, then let the preacher give up his preaching and turn policeman. He is wasting his time and ours.

CURB CRUISERS.

In several cities in the United States—and Peterborough is not without its specimens—they are greatly agitated over the activities of the species called in the vernacular "curb cruisers," otherwise the motorists who endeavour to entice girls into their cars.

Representative Meachan of Seattle declares that he will introduce a bill at the next session of the Legislature setting up the whipping post as a punitive instrument for "girl-hunters."

There is little good that can be said of the people against whom the bill is designed, but, after all, the worthy representative seems to be looking at the matter from the wrong angle.

Reform in this respect should commence in the home.

Girls with the right family training are in no danger from "curb cruisers."

They are not in the least likely to entrust themselves with strangers, no matter how luxurious the automobile may be.

The majority of girls who allow themselves to be persuaded to get into motor cars with men about whom they know nothing go because they want to go.

Home training should warn such girls of the folly of their conduct—and if this fails, legislation will not supply the remedy.

PROVIDING EMPLOYMENT.

The Ontario Government proposes, it is understood, to proceed with the construction of the cottages, dining-hall and other buildings in connection with the Bowmanville farm for boys' welfare work and to carry on the work during the winter.

This enterprise will afford employment for a considerable number of men throughout the cold weather, and the decision to go ahead immediately instead of deferring construction until next spring will be welcomed as indicating that there is a practical way by which Governments can assist in solving the unemployment problem.

The opening out by Provincial and Federal Governments and by municipal administrations as well of any public works that may be pending would go a long way towards mitigating the suffering caused by the unemployment situation.

Admittedly the cost of carrying on such work during the winter would be higher, but what of that if the payment of doles is rendered unnecessary and if work is provided for a large portion of those at present facing a jobless winter.

It would be cheaper in the long run, and the effect upon the general morale would be marked.

It is manifestly more desirable to take care of the unemployed by giving them work than it is to continue the demoralizing system of having the state or the municipality provide them with the necessaries of life.

TOURIST TRAFFIC.

Just what the motor tourist traffic has grown to mean to Canada is shown by the figures issued by the National Parks Department for 1923 estimating the money left in this country by visitors.

The total is $136,000,000, made up as follows:

British Columbia	$36,000,000
Alberta	10,000,000
Saskatchewan and Manitoba	10,000,000
Ontario	30,000,000
Quebec	30,000,000
Maritime Provinces	20,000,000

It may seem strange to learn that British Columbia leads in tourist trade, but the explanation is not hard to find.

The Pacific Province early recognized the value of publicity in attracting tourists, advertised lavishly and received its reward in the volume of business done with tourists.

Here in Ontario we can learn something from British Columbia.

Although tourists left $30,000,000 here last year, there is no reason why that amount could not be doubled.

More advertising is the first step toward reaching that result.

We must tell the world about ourselves and our Province.

And, then, better hotel accommodation and good roads to the lake and river resorts are almost as necessary.

This tourist industry is merely beginning.

Ontario in general, and Peterborough in particular, should make sure that a fair share comes our way.

THE BLUSH OF 80 YEARS.

They opened the Mark Twain Memorial Park at Florida, Mo., a few days ago, and a very considerable number of old-timers were present who "knew Sam Clemens when," etc. Reminisced? Of course, they did, and had a fine time doing it.

"That Clemens boy" certainly made his mark in the community of that early day, and some of it was dark but most of it was white—all of it was humorous. Anne Levering Bower, aged 83, went to school with Sam and moved in the circle that knew him best and most at the time.

"Sam," said Mrs. Bower, "had one habit the girls used to talk about."

She paused and her eyes drooped in confusion before her auditor, and pink of the natural kind colored her aged cheeks.

Then she brightened bravely and continued: "I guess it's all right, for I'm thinking you are married and will understand. Sam," she continued still with some confusion and searching for the most chaste manner of expression, "Sam used to have a habit of pulling up his—his—his socks when he was with a girl. He didn't wear any supporters, I guess."

More blushes and a long sigh of relief because she had finally relieved her gentle old chest of the scandalous doings of Sam, who brazenly adjusted his hose in the horrified presence of the young ladies!

This is 1924. We of the time know and have seen legs of all kinds, colors, shapes and lengths, clothed and unclothed. They are on parade anywhere and everywhere. They mean but little in our blase existence, excite little attention or interest.

But Anne Levering Bower, at 83, can still blush confusedly as she recalls that Sam Clemens, some 70 years ago, pulled up his socks in the presence of a lady!

We have gone far in one direction or another—so far, that our octogenarians seem to be about the only ones among us that have not forgotten how to blush.

IT IS APPALLING.

It is estimated that motor mishaps on this Continent in the three-day holiday period last week-end accounted for no less than 2,000 deaths, not to speak of many more injured in similar accidents. The total is an appalling one. In this district, we were fortunate, but readers of newspapers daily note the items which tell of road and crossing casualties and the record this year will be higher than it ever was before.

If 2,000 persons lost their lives in one accident, such as the sinking of a steamer or a theatre fire, the whole country would be shocked. Columns upon columns would fill the newspapers. Investigations would promptly be set in motion to prevent, if possible, a similar disaster.

But the summer holiday accidents pass comparatively unnoticed except by the communities directly affected by some particular case. The attention of only a few is called to the tremendous total of casualties. And the sad part of it is that most of these fatalities never should have happened. A little more care in driving in the constantly increasing traffic would have prevented them.

Many drivers believe that their responsibility ends when they observe the rules of the road themselves. They forget the huge number of inexperienced, careless and scatter-brained operators with whom they have to contend. They forget the absent-minded persons who sails merrily along thinking of anything but the road. Some of them insist upon claiming the rights of way—a position in which they are justified, except for the fact that some operators forget all about such details as soon as they have passed their driver's examination. To insure the car should be sufficiently under control to pull up quickly at a cross road to allow another to pass ahead of it whether it has the right of way or not. And even in doing that danger exists, for the brakes of the driver behind may not be in condition. The safest way is to drive slowly even if it is irksome, whenever traffic is heavy.

Some men like to "taxicab"—to shoot for holes in traffic barely large enough to get in. This may be sport and undoubtedly it expedites matters if haste is necessary—and the judgment of such spaces is sound. But it is neither safe nor courteous. Someone has said that the average person is fairly considerate on foot in a crowd. He will stop to allow someone else to pass ahead without disputing rights of way. But just as soon as he gets behind the wheel of an automobile he adopts one rule, "Me first." And the fatalities increase.—St. Catharines Standard.

GOSSIP AND DENIAL.

"Pour oil on the troubled waters." The saying has lost its significance since oil has become the object of search and competition between the nations, says the Hamilton Spectator. It is a source rather than a solvent of trouble, and has led to all manner of suspicion and accusation. Recently, Secretary of State Hughes found it necessary to contradict the insinuation that the foreign policy of the United States was dictated by a desire to forward the interests of concession-hunters, particularly the hunters of oil concessions. "What grotesque perversion it is!" declares Mr. Hughes. "As I have said, this Government made no barter of its rights for this or any other concession." In the British House of Commons Lord Curzon was called upon to defend himself from slanders to the effect that he had been fighting at Lausanne "on behalf of oil interests alleged to be British national interests." Lord Curzon asserted that "there was not a word of truth in the allegation." He denied that he had ever spoken to or interviewed or been interviewed by an oil magnate during his tenure of the Foreign Office, or negotiated with a concessionaire or would-be concessionaire for oil in any part of the world. "My share in the matter, when I became Foreign Secretary," proceeded Lord Curzon, "was confined to the declaration that, so far as the British Government was concerned, we had not the slightest desire to claim for the British company any monopoly in the matter, and that we would willingly welcome the participation of other interested powers, whether they were America or Turkey or Italy. The above facts are well known to every one concerned with the case. I challenge contradiction on any one of them."

Seeing that these baseless rumors have gained considerable circulation, it is well to give this categorical denial the fullest publicity. In the monthly letter of the National City Bank of New York the contradiction is reprinted at length, though not much hope is entertained that it will put an end to the "irresponsible gossip" which gives such idle rumors their wide currency. "They will be passed on from one irresponsible conveyor to another, until by simple repetition the public has been made far more familiar with the charges than it is with the denials. This illustrates the process by which much public opinion is made." The thrust is severe, but who shall deny the truth it contains?

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

FLY BRITISH FLAG.

To the Editor of Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice by the minutes of the last regular meeting of the Campbellford Town Council that the Clerk was instructed to write Superintendent Killaly of the Trent Canal and ask him to instruct lockmen not to open the gates to yachts which did not fly the British flag. I also note that the attention of the Council was drawn to this matter by Mr. A. H. McKeel, who stated that American yachts pass through the canal without flying the British flag. In reply to this, I wish to state that I have been continuously in charge of the Highway bridge over the Trent Canal at Campbellford ever since the canal was opened for navigation, and to my knowledge not one American boat has passed under this bridge which has not had flying the British flag. On one occasion a few years ago an American yacht approached the bridge flying the Stars and Stripes alone. I immediately drew the occupants' attention to the absence of the colors of the nation in whose waters they were sailing. The British flag was at once displayed, and they proceeded on their journey.

If there is any considerable violation of international regulations in regard to this matter, I am certain it is not perpetrated at the Campbellford Highway bridge.

Yours truly,
JOS. J. POULTON.

WILLIAM. L. DOUGLAS, SHOE MAN, DEAD

Was Former Governor of Massachusetts; Built Huge Business.

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 22.—William Lewis Douglas, former Governor of Massachusetts, died at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital here Sept. 17.

The former Governor has been seriously ill for the last month and had undergone three operations. Physicians had reported that he had borne the shock of each operation as well as could be expected of a man 79 years old.

Mr. Douglas was born in Plymouth, Mass., in 1845. After a brief schooling he started to work pegging shoes. He later became an operative in cotton mills in various Massachusetts towns. Later Douglas returned to the trade of bootmaking and rose from journeyman to foreman. In 1876 he started a small shop of his own. His business developed rapidly and he died the president of the W. L. Douglas Shoe Company, a concern which retails its product throughout the country.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, Sept. 21 — Owing to the advance in prices for grain in the Winnipeg market on Friday exporters here received little response from foreign buyers to the offer made overnight and in consequence business on Saturday in this direction was much quieter than it has been of late. The inquiry in cash grain in the domestic market was al so quiet, but the feeling was steady.

The feature of the local flour situation on Saturday was the stronger feeling that developed in the market spring wheat grades and millers generally advanced prices twenty cents per barrel. A stronger feeling that developed in the market spring wheat grades and millers generally advanced prices twenty cents per barrel. A stronger feeling also prevailed in the winter wheat section and prices would be advanced in the near future.

There was no change in the condition of the market for mill feed, prices being firm. The market for standard grade of rolled oats was firm.

The market for strictly fresh eggs was firm and the volume of business was moderate sized. Storage grades were also.

Heavy Run of River Salmon Keeps Canadian Fishers Busy

VICTORIA, B.C., Sept. 22—The salmon run in British Columbia rivers is the largest since the record of 1919, according to reports received by Hon. William Sloan, provincial commissioner of fisheries. Canneries along the Fraser, Skeena and Naas rivers are working day and night shifts in an effort to take care of the catch.

The catch of sockeye, Mr. Sloan said, will be the heaviest in years. The marked increase in quantity this year will mean greater prosperity for the salmon industry.

The total value of the fisheries production of Canada was $42,565,545 last year, according to the annual report, or an increase in value of $765,335 over 1922.

The amount of capital represented in fishing vessels, boats, nets, traps, piers, and wharves employed in catching and landing the fish in 1923 was $23,645,316. The number of men employed in these operations was 53,517.

RESTRAINT OF TRADE CHARGED BY COUNSEL AT OIL HEARINGS

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 22—(Associated Press.)—The entire gasoline trade in America, and even in some foreign countries, is involved in evidence being produced in the gasoline price hearings conducted here by Attorney General Jesse W. Barrett, of Missouri, in the opinion of well informed authorities.

Contracts brought forward at the hearing between the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and nearly all the other important companies of the United States, and applying to their foreign trade, are pronounced a violation of the anti-trust laws both by United States' Attorney General Stone and Attorney General Barrett.

Some weeks ago the United States Department of Justice filed a suit against 48 oil companies doing inter-state business, charging that by a system of licenses on "cracking process" patents, the gasoline trade of the United States was being restricted and monopolized, and asking that the defendants be enjoined from a continuance of the contracts and their effects. The contracts, the existence of which was alleged by the government, were produced at the Missouri hearing by the Standard Oil Company and admitted to be in effect at the present time.

A form of engagement which was particularly denounced by Attorney General Barrett is illustrated by the contract between the Standard Oil Company of Indiana and the Standard Oil Company of California. This recites that the Texas Company is owner of certain cracking patents; that the Texas Company authorizes the Standard Oil Company of Indiana to grant licenses under the Texas patents; that the Standard of Indiana thereby licenses the Standard of California under the Texas Company's patents on the condition that the Standard of California sells none of the gasoline so produced in Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Minnesota, Michigan, Wisconsin, Missouri, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado or Oklahoma or in the Dominion of Canada or the Colony of Newfoundland.

This, Attorney General Barrett asserts, is a plain restraint of trade and not justified by any rights granted under letters patent.

CHAPTER XVI

MOTHER AND SON

Early on the morrow—so early that scarce had the Shehad been recited—came Biskaine-el-Borak to the Basha. He had just landed from a galley which had come upon a Spanish fishing boat, aboard of which there was a young Morisco, who was being conducted overseas to Algiers. The news of which the fellow was the bearer was of such urgency that for twenty hours without intermission the slaves had toiled at the oars of Biskaine's vessel—the capitana of his fleet—to bring her swiftly home.

The Morisco had a cousin—a New-Christian like himself, and like himself, it would appear, still a Moslem at heart—who was employed in the Spanish treasury at Malaga. This man had knowledge that a galley was fitting out for sea to convey to Naples the gold destined for the pay of the Spanish troops in garrison there. Through parsimony, this treasure-galley was to be afforded no escort, but was under orders to hug the coast of Europe, where she should be safe from all piratical surprise. It was judged that she would be ready to put to sea in a week, and the Morisco had set out at once to bring word of it to his Algerine brethren that they might intercept and capture her.

Asad thanked the young Morisco for his news, bade him be housed and cared for, and promised him a handsome share of the plunder should the treasure-galley be captured. That done he sent for Sakr-el-Bahr, whilst Marzak who had been present at the interview, went with the tale of it to his mother, and beheld her fling into a passion when he added that it was Sakr-el-Bahr had been summoned that he might be entrusted with this fresh expedition, thus proving that all her crafty innuendoes and insistent warnings had been so much wasted labor.

With Marzak following at her heels, she swept like a fury into the darkened room where Asad took his ease.

"What is this I hear, O my lord?" she cried, in tone and manner more the European shrew than the submissive Eastern slave. "Is Sakr-el-Bahr to go upon this expedition against the treasure-galley of Spain?"

Reclining on the divan he looked her up and down with a languid eye.

"Dost know of any better fitted to succeed?" quoth he.

"I know of one whom it is my lord's duty to prefer to that foreign adventurer. One who is entirely faithful and entirely to be trusted. One who does not attempt to retain for himself a portion of the booty garnered in the name of Islam."

"Bah!" said Asad. "Wilt thou talk forever of those two slaves? And who may be this paragon of thine?"

"Marzak," she answered fiercely, flinging out an arm to drag forward her son. "Is he to waste his youth here in softness and idleness? But yesternight that ribald mocked him with his lack of scars. Shall he take scars in the orchard of the Kasbah here? Is he to be content with those that come from the scratch of a bramble, or is he to learn to be a fighter and leader of the Children of the Faith that himself he may follow in the path his father trod?"

"Whether he so follows," said Asad, "is as the Sultan of Istambul, the Sublime Portal, shall decree. We are but his vice-regents here."

"But shall the Grand Sultan appoint him to succeed thee if thou has not equipped him so to do? I cry shame on thee, O father of Marzak, for thou are lacking in due pride in thine own son."

"May Allah give me patience with thee! Have I not said that he is still over young?"

"At his age thyself thou wert upon the seas, serving with the great Ochiali."

"At his age I was, by the favor of Allah, taller and stronger than is he. I cherish him too dearly to let him go forth and perchance be lost to me before his strength is full grown."

"Look at him," she commanded. "He is a man, Asad, and such a son as another might take pride in. Is it not time he girt a scimitar about his waist and trod the poop of one of thy galleys?"

"Indeed, indeed, O my father!" begged Marzak himself.

"What?" barked the old Moor. "And is it so? And wouldst thou go forth then against the Spaniard? What knowledge has thou that shall equip thee for such a task?"

"What can his knowledge be since his father has never been concerned to school him?" returned Fenzileh. "Dost thou sneer at shortcomings that are the natural fruits of thine own omissions?"

"I will be patient with thee," said Asad, showing every sign of losing patience. "I will ask thee only if, in thy judgment, he is in case to win a victory for Islam? Answer me straightly now."

"Straightly I answer thee that he is not. And, as straightly, I tell thee that it is full time he were. Thy duty is to let him go upon this expedition that he may learn the trade that lies before him."

Asad considered a moment. Then: "Be it so," he answered slowly. "Shalt set forth, then, with Sakr-el-Bahr, my son."

"With Sakr-el-Bahr?" cried Fenzileh, aghast.

"I could find him no better preceptor."

"Shal thy son go forth as the servant of another?"

"As the pupil," Asad amended. "What else?"

"Were I a man, O fountain of my soul," said she, "and had I a son, none but myself should be his preceptor. I should so mould and fashion him that he should be another me. That, O my dear lord, is thy duty to Marzak. Entrust hot his training to another, and to one whom, despite thy love for him, I can not trust. Go forth thyself upon this expedition with Marzak here for thy kayia."

Asad frowned.

"I grow too old," he said. "I have not been upon the seas these two years past. Who can say that I may not have lost the art of victory. No, no."

He shook his head, and his face grew overcast and softened with wistfulness.

"Sakr-el-Bahr commands this time, and if Marzak goes, he goes with him."

"My lord——" she began, then checked.

A Nubian had entered to announce that Sakr-el-Bahr was come and was awaiting the orders of his lord in the courtyard. Asad rose instantly, and for all that Fenzileh, greatly daring as ever, would still have detained him, he shook her off impatiently, and went out.

She watched his departure with anger in those dark, lovely eyes of hers, and anger that went near to filming them in tears, and after he had passed out into the glaring sunshine beyond the door, a silence dwelt in the cool, darkened chamber—a silence disturbed only by distant trills of silvery laughter from the lesser women of the Basha's house. The sound jarred her taut nerves. She moved with an oath and beat her hands together. To answer her came a negress, lithe and muscular as a wrestler, and naked to the waist; the slave ring in her ear was a massive gold.

"Bid them make an end of that screeching," she snapped to vent some of her fierce petulance. "Tell them I will have the rods to them if they again disturb me."

The negress went out, and silence followed; for those other lesser ladies of the Basha's harem were more obedient to the commands of Fenzileh than to those of the Basha himself.

Then she drew her son to the fretted lattice commanding the courtyard, a screen from behind which they could see and hear all that passed out yonder. Asad was speaking, informing Sakr-el-Bahr of what he had learned and what there was to do.

"How soon canst thou put to sea again?" he ended.

"As soon as the service of Allah and thyself require," was the prompt answer.

"It is well, my son."

Asad laid a hand affectionately upon the corsair's shoulder, entirely conquered by his readiness.

"Best set out at sunrise to-morrow. Thou'll need so long to make thee ready for the sea."

"Then, by thy leave, I go forthwith to give orders to prepare," replied Sakr-el-Bahr, for all that he was a little troubled in his mind by this need to depart again so soon.

"What galleys shalt thou take?"

"To capture one galley of Spain? My own galeasse, no more; she will be full equal to such an enterprise, and I shall be the better able, then, to lurk and take cover—a thing which might well prove impossible with a fleet."

"Aye—thou art wise in thy daring," Asad approved him. "May Allah prosper thee upon the voyage."

"Have I thy leave to go?"

"A moment yet. There is my son Marzak. He is approaching manhood, and it is time he entered the service of Allah and the State. It is my desire that he sail as thy lieutenant on this voyage, and that thou be his preceptor, even as I was thine of old."

Now here was something that pleased Sakr-el-Bahr as little as it pleased Marzak. Knowing the bitter enmity borne him by the son of Fenzileh, he had every cause to fear trouble if this project of Asad's were realized.

"As I was thine of old!" he answered with crafty wistfulness. "Wilt thou not put to sea with us to-morrow, O Asad? There is none like thee in all Islam, and what a joy were it not to stand beside thee on the prow as of old when we grapple with the Spaniard."

Asad considered him.

"Dost thou, too, urge this?" quoth he.

"Have others urged it?"

The man's sharp wits, rendered still sharper by his sufferings, were cutting deeply and swiftly into this matter.

"They did well, but none could have urged it more fervently than I, for none know so well as I the joy of battle against the infidel under thy command and the glory of prevailing in thy sight. Come then, my lord, upon this enterprise, and be thyself thine own son's preceptor, since 'tis the highest honor thou canst bestow upon him."

Thoughtfully Asad stroked his long white beard, his eagle eyes growing narrow.

"Thou temptest me, by Allah!"

"Let me do more—"

"Nay, more thou canst not. I am old and worn, and I am needed here. Shall an old lion hunt a young gazelle? Peace, peace! The sun has set upon my fighting day. Let the brood of fighters I have raised up keep that which my arm conquered and maintain my name and the glory of the Faith upon the seas."

He leaned upon Sakr-el-Bahr's shoulder and sighed, his eyes wistfully dreamy.

"It were a fond adventure in good truth. But no—I am resolved. Go thou and take Marzak with thee, and bring him safely home again."

"I should not return myself else," was the answer. "But my trust is in the All-knowing."

Upon that he departed, dissembling his profound vexation both at the voyage and the company, and went to bid Othmani make ready his great galeasse, equipping it with carronades, three hundred slaves to row it, and three hundred fighting men.

Asad-ed-Din returned to that darkened room in the Kasbah overlooking the courtyard, where Fenzileh and Marzak still lingered. He went to tell them that in compliance with the desires of both Marzak should go forth to prove himself upon this expedition.

But where he had left impatience he found thinly veiled wrath.

"O sun that warms us," Fenzileh greeted him, and from long experience he knew that the more endearing were her epithets the more vicious was her mood, "do then my counsels weigh as naught with thee, are they but as the dust upon thy shoes?"

"Less," said Asad, provoked out of his habitual indulgence of her licenses of speech.

"That is the truth, indeed!" she cried, bowing her head, whilst behind her the handsome face of her son was overcast.

"It is," Asad agreed. "At dawn, Marzak, thou settest forth upon the galeasse of Sakr-el-Bahr to take the seas under his tutelage and to emulate the skill and valor that have rendered him the stoutest bulwark of Islam, the very javelin of Allah."

"When I take the seas with that dog-descended Nasrani," he answered hoarsely, "he shall be where rightly he belongs—at the rowers' bench."

"How?" It was a bellow of rage.

Upon the word Asad swung to confront his son, and his face, suddenly inflamed, was so cruel and evil in its expression that it terrified that intriguing pair.

"By the beard of the Prophet What words are these to me?"

He advanced upon Marzak until Fenzileh in sudden terror stepped between and faced him, like a lioness springing to defend her cub. But the Basha, enraged now by this want of submission in his son, enraged both against that son and the mother whom he knew had prompted him, caught her in his sinewy old hands and flung her furiously aside, so that she stumbled and fell in a panting heap amid the cushions of her divan.

"The Curse of Allah upon thee" he screamed, and Marzak recoiled before him. "Has this presumptuous hell-cat who bore thee taught thee to stand before my face, to tell me what thou wilt and wilt not do? By the Koran Too long have I endured her evil foreign ways, and now it seems she has taught thee how to tread them after her and how to beard thy very father Tomorrow thou'll take the sea with Sakr-el-Bahr. I have said it Another word thou'lt go aboard his galeasse even as thou saidst should be the case with him—at the rower's bench to learn submission under the slave-master's whip."

Terrified, Marzak stood numb and silent, scarcely daring to draw breath. Never in all his life had he seen his father in a rage so royal. Yet it seemed to inspire no fear in Fenzileh, that congenital shrew whose tongue not even the threats of rods or hooks could silence.

"I shall pray Allah to restore sight to thy soul, O father of Marzak," she panted, "to teach thee to discriminate between those that love thee and the self-seekers that abuse thy trust."

"How?" he roared at her. "Art not yet done?"

"Nor ever shall be until I am lain dumb in death for having counseled thee out of my great love, O light of these poor eyes of mine."

"Maintain this tone," he said with concentrated anger, "and that will soon befall."

"I care not so that the sleek mask be plucked from the face of that dog-descended Sakr-el-Bahr. May Allah break his bones What of those slaves of his—those two from England, O Asad? I am told that one is a woman, tall and of that white beauty which is the gift of Eblis to these Northerners. What is his purpose with her—that he would not show her in the sok as the law prescribes, but comes slinking here to beg thee to set aside the law for him? Ha! I talk in vain. I have shown thee graver things to prove his disloyalty, and yet thou'lt fawn upon him whilst thy fangs are bared to thine own son."

He advanced upon her, stopped, caught her by the wrist, and heaved her up.

His face showed gray under its deep tan. His aspect terrified her at last, and made an end of her reckless froward courage.

He raised his voice to call.

"Ya anta! Ayoub"

She gasped, livid in her turn with sudden terror.

"My lord, my lord!" she whimpered. "Stream of my life, be not angry What wilt thou do?"

He smiled evilly.

"Do?" he growled. "What I should have done ten years ago and more. We'll have the rods to thee."

And again he called, more insistently—"Ayoub!"

"My lord, my lord" she gasped in shuddering horror now that at last she found him set upon the thing to which so often she had dared him. "Pity! Pity!"

She groveled and embraced his knees.

"In the name of the Pitying the Pitiful be merciful upon the excesses to which my love for thee may have driven this poor tongue of mine, O my sweet lord O father of Marzak!"

Her distress, her beauty, and perhaps, more than either, her unusual humility and submission may have moved him. For even as at that moment Ayoub—the sleek and portly eunuch, who was her wazeer and chamberlain—loomed in the inner doorway, salaaming, he vanished again upon the instant, dismissed by a peremptory wave of the Basha's hand.

Asad looked down upon her, sneering.

"That attitude becomes thee best," he said. "Continue it in future."

Contemptuously he shook himself free of her grasp, turned and stalked majestically out, wearing his anger like a royal mantle, and leaving behind him two terror-stricken beings, who felt as if they had looked over the very edge of death.

There was a long silence between them. Then at long length Fenzileh rose and crossed to the meshrabiyah—the latticed window-box. She opened it and took from one of its shelves an earthenware jar, placed there so as to receive the slightest breeze. From it she poured water into a little cup and drank greedily.

She slammed the inner lattice and turned to Marzak.

"And now?" quoth she.

"Now?" said the lad.

"Aye, what now? What are we to do? Are we to lie crushed under his rage until we are ruined indeed. He is bewitched. That jackal has enchanted him, so that he must deem well done all that is done by him. Allah guide us here, Marzak, or thou'll be trampled into dust by Sakr-el-Bahr."

Marzak hung his head; slowly he moved to the divan and flung himself down upon its pillows; there he lay prone, his hands cupping his chin, his heels in the air.

"What can I do?" he asked at last.

"That is what I most desire to know. Something must be done, and soon. May his bones rot! If he lives thou art destroyed."

"Aye," said Marzak, with sudden vigor and significance. "If he lives!" And he sat up.

"Whilst we plan and plot, and our plans and plots come to naught save to provoke the anger of my father, we might be better employed in taking the shorter way."

She stood in the middle of the chamber, pondering him with gloomy eyes.

"I, too, have thought of that," said she. "I could hire me men to do the thing for a handful of gold. But the risk of it—"

"Where would be the risk once he is dead?"

"He might pull us down with him and then what would our profit be in his death? Thy father would avenge him terribly."

"If it were craftily done we should not be discovered."

"Not be discovered?" she echoed, and laughed without mirth. "How young and blind thou art, O Marzak! We should be the first to be suspected. I have made no secret of my hate of him, and the people do not love me. They would urge thy father to do justice even were he himself averse to it, which I will not credit would be the case. This Sakr-el-Bahr—may Allah wither him!—is a god in their eyes. Bethink thee of the welcome given him! What Basha returning in triumph was ever greeted by the like? These victories that fortune has vouchsafed him have made them account him divinely favored and protected.

"I tell thee, Marzak, that did thy father die tomorrow Sakr-el-Bahr would be proclaimed Basha of Algiers in his stead, and woe betide us then."

"May his grave be defiled!" growled Marzak.

"His grave?" said she. "The difficulty is to dig it for him without hurt to ourselves. Shaitan protects the dog."

"May he make his bed in hell!" said Marzak.

"To curse him will not help us. Up, Marzak, and consider how the thing is to be done."

Marzak came to his feet, nimble and supple as a greyhound.

"Listen, now," he said. "Since I must go this voyage with him, perchance upon the seas on some dark night opportunity may serve me."

"Wait! Let me consider it. Allah guide me to find some way!"

She beat her hands together and bade the slave who answered her to summon her wazeer, Ayoub, and bid a litter be prepared for her.

"We'll to the sok, O Marzak, and see these slaves of his. Who knows but that something may be done by means of them! Guile will serve us better than mere strength against that misbegotten son of shame."

"May his house be destroyed!" said Marzak.

CHAPTER XVII

COMPETITORS

The open space before the gates of the Sok-el-Abeed was thronged with a motley, jostling, noisy crowd that at every moment was being swelled by the human streams pouring to mingle in it from the debouching labyrinth of narrow, unpaved streets.

There were brown skinned Berbers in black goat-hair cloaks that were made in one piece with a cowl and decorated by a lozenge of red or orange color on the back, their shaven heads encased in skull-caps or simply bound in a cord of plaited camel-hair; there were black Saharowi, who went almost naked, and stately Arabs, who seemed over-muffled in their flowing robes of white with the cowls overshadowing their swarthy, finely featured faces; there were dignified and prosperous looking Moors in brightly colored selhams astride of sleek mules, that were richly caparisoned, and there were Tagareenes, the banished Moors of Andalusia, most of whom followed the trade of slave dealers; there were native Jews in somber black djellabas, and Christian Jews—so-called because bred in Christian countries, whose garments they still wore; there were Levantine Turks, splendid of dress and arrogant of demeanor, and there were humble Cololies, Kabyles and Biscaries.

Here a water seller, laden with his goat-skin vessel, tinkled his little bell; there an orange hawker, balancing a basket of the golden fruit upon his ragged turban, bawled his wares. There were men on foot and men on mules, men on donkeys and men on slim Arab horses, an ever shifting medley of colors, all jostling, laughing, cursing in the ardent African sunshine under the blue shadow of the yellow tapia wall squatted a line of whining beggars and cripples, soliciting alms; near the gates a little space had been cleared, and an audience had gathered in a ring about a Meddah—a beggar-troubadour—who, to the accompaniment of gimbri and gaitah from two acolytes, chanted a doleful ballad in a thin, nasal voice.

Those of the crowd who were patrons of the market held steadily amain, and leaving their mounts outside, passed through the gate through which there was no admittance for mere idlers and mean folk. Within the vast quadrangular space of bare, dry ground, enclosed by dust colored walls, there was more space. The sale of slaves had not yet begun and was not due to begin for another hour, and meanwhile a little trading was being done by those merchants who had obtained the coveted right to set up their booths against the walls; they were vendors of wool, of fruit, of spices, and one or two traded in jewels and trinkets for the adornment of the Faithful.

A well was sunk in the middle of the ground, a considerable octagon with a low parapet in three steps. Upon the nethermost of these sat an aged, bearded Jew in a black djellaba, his head swathed in a colored kerchief. Upon his knees reposed a broad, shallow black box, divided into compartments, each filled with lesser gems and rare stones, which he was offering for sale. About him stood a little group of young Moors and one or two Turkish officers, with several of whom the old Israelite was haggling at once.

The whole of the northern wall was occupied by a long penthouse, its contents completely masked by curtains of camel-hair; from behind it proceeded a subdued murmur of human voices. These were the pens in which were confined the slaves to be offered for sale that day. Before the curtains, on guard, stood some dozen corisars with attendant negro slaves.

Beyond and above all the wall glistened the white dome of a zowia, flanked by a spear-like minaret and the tall heads of a few date palms, whose long leaves hung motionless in the hot air.

Suddenly in the crowd beyond the gates there was a commotion. From one of the streets six colossal Nubians advanced with shouts of:

"Oak Oak Warda!" (Way! Make way!)

They were armed with great staves, grasped in their two hands, and with these they broke a path through th motley press, hurling men to right and left and earning a shower of curses in return.

"Ballak Make way Way for the Lord Asad-ed-Din, the exalted of Allah Way!"

The crowd, pressing back, went down upon its knees and groveled as Asad-ed-Din on a milk white mule rode forward, escorted by Tsamanni his wazeer and a cloud of black robed janissaries with flashing scimitars.

The curses that had greeted the violence of his negroes were suddenly silenced. Instead, blessings as fervent filled the air.

"May Allah increase thy might May Allah lengthen thy days The blessings of our Lord Mahomet upon thee Allah send thee more victories" were the benedictions that showered upon him on every hand.

He returned them as became a man who was supremely pious and devout.

"The peace of Allah upon the Faithful of the Prophet's House," he would murmur in response from time to time, until at last he had reached the gates.

There he bade Tsamanni fling a purse to the crouching beggars, for is it not written in the Most Perspicuous Book that of alms ye shall bestow what ye can spare, for such as are saved from their own greed shall prosper, and whatever ye give in alms, as seeking the face of Allah, shall be doubled unto you?

Submissive to the laws as the meanest of his subjects, Asad dismounted and passed on foot into the sok. He came to a halt by the well, and, facing the curtained pent-house, he blessed the kneeling crowd and commanded all to rise.

He beckoned Sakr-el-Bahr's officer Ali, who was in charge of the slaves of the corsair's latest raid, and announced his will to inspect the captives. At a sign from Ali the negroes flung aside the camel-hair curtains and let the fierce sunlight beat in upon those pent-up wretches. They were not only the captives taken by Sakr-el-Bahr, but some others who were the result of one or two lesser raids by Biskaine.

Asad beheld a huddle of men and women—though the proportion of women was very small—of all ages, races, and conditions; there were pale, fair-haired men from France or from the North, olive-skinned Italians and swarthy Spaniards, negoes and half castes; there were old men, young men and mere children, some handsomely dressed, some almost naked, others hung with rags. In the hopeless dejection of their countenances alone was there any uniformity. But it was not a dejection that could awaken pity in the pious heart of Asad. They were unbelievers who would never look upon the face of God's Prophet, accursed and unworthy of any tenderness from man.

For a moment his glance was held by a lovely black-haired Spanish girl who sat with her locked hands held fast between her knees, in an attitude of intense despair and suffering the glory of her eyes increased and magnified by the dark brown stains of sleeplessness surrounding them. Leaning on Tsamanni's arm, he stood considering her for a little while; then his glance travelled on. Suddenly he tightened his grasp of Tsamanni's arm, and a quick interest leaped into his callow face.

On the uppermost tier of the pen that he was facing sat a very glory of womanhood, such a woman as he had heard tell existed but the like of which he had never yet beheld. She was tall and graceful as a cypress tree; her skin was white as milk, her eyes two darkest sapphires, her head of a coppery golden that seemed to glow like metal as the sunlight caught it. She was dressed in a close gown of white, the bodice cut low and revealing the immaculate loveliness of her neck.

Asad-ed-Din turned to Ali.

"What pearl is this that hath been cast upon this dung-heap?" he asked.

"She is the woman our lord Sakr-el-Bahr carried off from England."

Slowly the Basha's eyes returned to consider her, and insensible though she had deemed herself by now, he saw her cheeks slowly reddening under the cold insult of his steady, insistent glance. The glow heightened her beauty, effacing the weariness which the face had worn.

"Bring her forth," said the Basha shortly.

She was seized by two of the negroes, and to avoid being roughly handled by them she came at once, bracing herself to bear with dignity whatever might await her. A golden-haired young man beside her, his face haggard and stubbled with a beard of some growth, looked up in alarm as she was taken from his side. Then, with a groan, he made as if to clutch her, but a rod fell upon his raised arms and beat them down.

Asad was thoughtful. It was Fenzileh who had bidden him come look at the infidel maid whom Sakr-el-Bahr had risked so much to snatch from England, suggesting that in her he would behold some proof of the bad faith which she was forever urging against the corsair leader. Out of curiosity had he obeyed her promptings. But that and all else were forgotten now in the contemplation of this noble ensample of Northern womanhood statuesque almost in her terrible restraint.

He put forth a hand to touch her arm, and she drew it back as if his fingers were of fire.

He sighed.

"How inscrutable are the ways of Allah, that He should suffer so luscious a fruit to hand from the foul tree of infidelity"

Asad-ed-Din, watching him craftily, a master-sycophant profoundly learned in the art of playing upon his master's moods, made answer:

"Even so perchance that a Faithful of the Prophet's House may pluck it. Verily, all things are possible to the One"

"Yet is it not set down in the Book to be Read that the daughters of the infidel are not for True-Believers?"

But Tsamanni, knowing full well how the Basha would like to be answered, trimmed his reply to that desire.

"Allah is great, and what hath befallen once may well befall again, my lord."

Asad's kindling eyes flashed a lance at his wazeer.

"Thou meanest Fenzileh. But then, by the mercy of Allah, I was rendered the instrument of her enlightenment."

"It may well be written that thou shalt be the same again, my lord," murmured the insidious Tsamanni.

There was more stirring in his mind than the mere desire to play the courtier now. 'Twixt Fenzileh and himself there had long been a feud begotten of the jealousy which each inspired the other where Asad was concerned. Were Fenzileh removed, the wazeer's influence must grow and spread to his own profit. It was a thing of which he had often dreamed, but a dream he feared that was never like to be realized, for Asad was ageing, and the fires that had burned so fiercely in his earlier years seemed now to have consumed in him all thought of women. Yet here was one as by a miracle, of a beauty so amazing and so diverse from any that ever yet had feasted the Basha's sight, that plainly she had acted as a charm upon his senses.

"She is white as the snows upon the Atlas, luscious as the dates of Tafilalt," he murmured fondly, his gleaming eyes considering her what time she stood immovable before him.

Suddenly he looked about him, and wheeled upon Tsamanni, his manner swiftly becoming charged with anger.

"Her face has been bared to a thousand eyes and more," he cried.

"Even that has been so before," replied Tsamanni.

And then quite suddenly, at their elbow, a voice, that was naturally soft and musical of accent but now rendered harsh, cut in to ask:

"What woman may this be?"

Startled, both the Basha and his wazeer swung round. Fenzileh, becomingly veiled and hooded, stood before them, escorted by Marzak. A little behind them were the eunuchs and the litter in which, unperceived by Asad, she had been borne thither. Beside the litter stood her wazeer, Ayoub-el-Samin.

Asad scowled down upon her, for he had not yet recovered from the resentment she and Marzak had provoked in him. Moreover, that in private she should be lacking in the respect which was his due was evil enough, though he had tolerated it. But that she should make so bold as to thrust in and question him in this peremptory fashion before all the word was more than his dignity could suffer.

Never yet had she dared so much nor would she have dared it now but that her sudden anxiety had effaced all caution from her mind. Her hold upon Asad was growing tenuous. To snap it utterly no more was necessary than that he who of late years had scarce bestowed a thought or glance upon a woman should be taken with the fancy to bring some new recruit to his harem.

Hence her desperate, reckless courage to stand thus before him now, for although her face was veiled there was hardy arrogance in every line of her figure. Of his scowl she took no slightest heed.

"If this be the slave fetched by Sakr-el-Bahr from England, then rumor has lied to me," she said. "I vow it was scarce worth so long a voyage and the endangering so many valuable Moslem lives to fetch this yellow-faced, long-shanked daughter of perdition into Barbary."

Asad's surprise beat down his anger. He was not subtle.

"Yellow-faced? Long-shanked?" quoth he.

Then reading Fenzileh at last, he displayed a slow, crooked smile.

"Already have I observed thee to grow hard of hearing, and now thy sight is failing, too, it seems. Assuredly thou art growing old."

And he looked her over with such an eye of displeasure that she recoiled.

He stepped close up to her.

"Too long already hast thou queened it in my harem with thine infidel, Frankish ways," he muttered, so that none but those immediately about overheard his angry words.

"Thou are become a very scandal in the eyes of the Faithful," he added very grimly. It were well, perhaps, that we amended that."

Abruptly then he turned away, and by a gesture he ordered Ali to return the slave to her place among the others. Leaning on the arm of Tsamanni he took some steps towards the entrance, then halted, and turned again to Fenzileh.

"To thy litter," he bade her peremptorily, rebuking her thus before all, "and get thee to the house as becomes a seemly Moslem woman. Nor ever again let thyself be seen roving the public places afoot."

She obeyed him instantly, without a murmur; and he himself lingered at the gates with Tsamanni until her litter had passed out, escorted by Ayoub and Marzak walking each on one side of it and neither daring to meet the angry eye of the Basha.

Asad looked sourly after that litter, a sneer on his heavy lips.

"As her beauty wanes so her presumption waxes," he growled. "She is growing old, Tsamanni—old and lean and shrewish, and no fit mate for a Member of the Prophet's House. It were perhaps a pleasing thing in the sight of Allah that we replaced her."

And then, referring obviously to that other one, his eye turning towards the pent-house, the curtains of which were being drawn again, he change his tone.

"Didst thou mark, O Tsamanni, with what a grace she moved?—lithely and nobly as a young gazelle. Verily, so much beauty was never created by the All-Wise to be cast into the Pit."

"May it not have been sent to comfort some True-Believer?" wondered the subtle wazeer. "To Allah all things are possible."

"Why else, indeed?" said Asad. "It was written; and even as none may obtain what is not written, so one may avoid what is. I am resolved. Stay thou here, Tsamanni. Remain for the outcry and purchase her. She shall be taught the True Faith. She shall be saved from the furnace."

The command had come, the thing that Tsamanni had so ardently desired.

He licked his lips.

"And the price, my lord?" he asked in a small voice.

"Price?" quoth Asad. "Have I not bid thee purchase her? Bring her to me, though her price be a thousand Philips."

"A thousand philips!" echoed Tsamanni amazed. "Allah is great!"

But already Asad had left his side and passed out under the arched gateway, where the crowd was groveling anew at sight of him.

It was a fine thing for Asad to bid him remain for the sale. But the dalal would part with no slave until the money was forthcoming, and Tsamanni had no considerable sum upon his person. Therefore in the wake of his master he set out forthwith to the Kasbah. It wanted still an hour before the sale would be held, and he had time and to spare in which to go and return.

It happened however that Tsamanni was malicious, and that the hatred of Fenzileh which so long he had consumed in silence and dissembled under fawning smiles and profound salaams included also her servants. There was none in all the world of whom he entertained a greater contempt than her sleek and greasy eunuch, Ayoub-el-Samin, of the majestic, rolling gait and fat, supercilious lips.

It was written, too, that in the courtyard of the Kasbah he should stumble upon Ayoub, who indeed had, by his mistress's commands, been set to watch for the wazeer. The fat fellow rolled forward, his hands supporting his paunch, his little eyes agleam.

"Allah increase thy health, Tsamanni," was his courteous greeting. "Thou bearest news?"

"News? What news?" quoth Tsamanni. "In truth, none that will gladden thy mistress."

"Merciful Allah! What now? Doth it concern that Frankish slave-girl?"

"By the Koran thou tremblest, Ayoub!" Tsamanni mocked him. "Thy soft fat is all a-quivering; and well it may, for thy days are numbered, O father of nothing"

"Dost deride me, dog?" came the other's voice, shrill now with anger.

"Callest me dog? Thou?" Deliberately Tsamanni spat upon his shadow. "Go tell thy mistress that I am bidden by my lord to buy the Frankish girl. Tell her that my lord will take her to wife, even as he took Fenzileh, that he may lead her into the True Belief and cheat Shaitan of so fair a jewel. Add that I am bidden to buy her though she cost my lord a thousand philips. Bear her that message, O father of wind, and may Allah increase thy punch!"

And he was gone, lithe, active, and mocking.

"May thy sons perish and thy daughters become harlots," roared the eunuch, maddened at once by this evil news and the insult with which it was accompanied.

But Tsamanni only laughed as he answered him over his shoulder:

"May thy sons be sultans all, Ayoub!"

Quivering still with a rage that entirely obliterated his alarm at what he had learned, Ayoub rolled into the presence of his mistress with that evil message.

She listened to him in a dumb, white fury.

"We must act, Ayoub, and act swiftly, or I am destroyed, and with me will be destroyed Marzak, who alone could not stand against his father's face. Sakr-el-Bahr will trample us into the dust." She checked on a sudden thought. "By Allah, it may have been part of his design to have brought hither that white-faced wench. But we must thwart Asad, or thou art ruined, too, Ayoub."

"Thwart him?"

"First, Ayoub, to place this Frankish girl beyond his reach."

"That is well thought—but how?"

"How? Can thy wit suggest no way? Hast thou wits at all in that fat head of thine? Thou shalt outbid Tsamanni, or, better still, set some one else to do it for thee, and so buy the girl for me. Then we'll contrive that she shall vanish quietly and quickly before Asad can discover a trace of her."

CHIEF BROWN MAKES STATEMENT OF CASE

Letter To Port Hope Times Tells Dismissed Police Chief's Side of Issue.

Port Hope,
September 16th, 1924.
The Editor of the Daily Times,
Port Hope, Ont.
Dear Sir,—

I would ask you to be kind enough to publish the following proceedings in connection with the dismissal from my position as Chief of Police for the Town of Port Hope after refusing to resign.

I wish the charges aired now so that the public can judge for themselves. I place the charges herewith in rotation, together with my answers to same, and I defy either the Mayor or Councillors to confute them.

Councillor Crowhurst's (Chairman of the Police Committee) Complaints.

1. That I told Mr. Alf. George last winter that he (Councillor Crowhurst) complained as to the snow not being cleaned off the sidewalks opposite a house owned by him on Walton Street.

Answer: I admit if Mr. George said so that this is correct, and that I ought to have refrained from stating who the complainant was.

2. That I did not carry out my duties in connection with the Coal By-law.

Answer: In this matter, Councillors Crowhurst and Galbraith came to my office last winter and asked me to attend to the Snow By-law, the Coal By-law, the Market By-law and the O.T.A., also the Pool Rooms. I asked them if they could get me any information as to anything being wrong with the pool rooms, and I got no satisfaction.

In dealing with the Coal By-law, I called on all the coal dealers and told them that they must have their loads of coal weighed on the town scales before delivery to customers, and since then I have invariably examined the carter's slips from time to time and found that they had had their loads of coal weighed on the town scales.

3. That I did not carry out my duties in connection with farmers selling meat on the market, or rather that I had allowed them to peddle mear around town after leaving the market.

Answer: When this matter was drawn to my attention last winter, I notified the farmers that, according to the by-law governing them, they could not peddle meat around town. They felt rather indignant, and one of them told me that he could peddle around town as he had just been informed to this effect by Mr. Chesher. I took the farmer to the Town Clerk's office, and on reading the by-law over, the farmer was then convinced that he could not peddle meat in town. I have watched on different streets in the town to see if I could catch any of them peddling, but without avail. No doubt, because none of them have had to appear in court, it is presumed I have not been doing my duty. Again, one must consider that it is out of the question to think that I, on foot, can follow after the farmer around town with his motor meat waggon.

Councillor Galbraith's Complaints.

1. That while Councillor Crowhurst and he were in my office one day last winter complaining about snow on the sidewalks, I said I was not going to walk my feet off in going after people who had not cleaned their sidewalks.

Answer: I admit saying so, or words to that effect. Nevertheless, I did not act up to what I said, but persisted in people cleaning their sidewalks, and with patience had them do so without causing one person to appear in court. I feel that in this connection, and from my own observation of other towns and cities, they were not in any way to be compared with the cleanliness of the sidewalks of that of Port Hope last winter. Again, it must be considered that as I was practically a stranger in town then, that it entailed a lot of trouble in finding out who was responsible for cleaning sidewalks where vacant lots are situated, the owners of which are not residing in town.

2. That I did not recognize him when passing him on the streets.

Answer: I have passed Councillor Galbraith many times on the streets and he never yet lifted his eyes off the sidewalk to recognize me. I don't wish to be sarcastic, and I leave for those who know Councillor Galbraith better than I do to judge for themselves.

Councillor Galbraith practically corroborates Councillor Crowhurst in other statements.

Councillor Scott's Complaints.

1. That one day while he and I were conversing on Ontario Street, opposite the Ontario Hotel, a man passed carrying a club bag, and although I had said that while in Sudbury I searched a great many club bags for whisky, I allowed this man to go, making the excuse that if I had another man with me I would have done so. He also stated that he had seen this particular man with a club bag several times since.

Answer: This is another case which happened shortly after I came here. It is so trivial that one requires a good memory to recall it, but if I remember it rightly, I only illustrated this case showing that in the north country, which is principally composed of foreigners, what was done there. I hesitate to search a person's baggage in this part of the country without having good grounds to cause me to do so. I wonder if Councillor Scott would have had the courage to assist me to search this particular club-bag had I called upon him to do so. If he was sincere and thought that the club-bag that this man carried contained whisky, why did he not mention it to me so that I could have been on the watch and formed my own opinion as to whether I had sufficient reason to believe that action should be taken. Of course, the untrained mind is like a log in the water—it can be moved any way.

2. That he thought it ridiculous that I should not have interfered before I did in connection with a private matter between Mr. T. B. Speirs and Mr. Robinson, the plumber here.

Answer: This is a matter in which Mr. Speirs wanted to use me as a tool to suit his own purpose and to save him the expense of a civil action. Mr. Spiers occupied the top flat and Mr. Robinson the bottom flat of the old Fire Hall on Ridout Street. Mr. Robinson bought the old Fire Hall from the town, and the last day of Mr. Speir's tenancy, which was about the end of June last, if I am not mistaken, he came to me in the forenoon and told me that the electric wiring in the old Fire Hall belonged to him; that about one o'clock he was going to take it down, and that he would like me to be there while he was doing so. I told him it was a delicate matter and one which did not come under my jurisdiction. However, I said I would be there to prevent a breach of the peace. Before I arrived at the old Fire Hall, Mr. Robinson was on his way meeting me and complained about Mr. Speirs having men on his premises and were taking down the electric wiring. I told him I could do nothing in the matter, and when we got inside the building he told the two young men who were taking down the wiring to leave it alone, that it was his property, or words to that effect, and they came down the ladders which they were using for that purpose, and left the building without saying a word, and went into the street beside the waggon which Councillor Scott was looking after, he (Councillor Scott) being an employee, a teamster, or something of that sort, to Mr. Speirs. Mr. Speirs came along the passage from, I presume, the top flat, and asked me what this meant. I told him I never said a word, that I had nothing to do with the matter, and he posted himself inside the doorway. Mr. Robinson then told him that he could go through to his own premises, but he was not going to allow him to linger on his premises. Mr. Speirs then said, "Put me out; put me out," and when Mr. Robinson tried to do so Mr. Speirs struck Mr. Robinson a blow with his clenched fist, and a friend of Mr. Robinson's went forward and assisted in ejecting Mr. Speirs from his premises. When they got him outside I intercepted and separated them. It might appear to those who don't understand the proper procedure in matters of this kind that I should have interfered sooner. I don't at this point wish to say anything further, but those who are conversant with such matters can testify as to my pursuing the proper course. I am sorry that I should have to bring two business men's names into this matter, but it is Mr. Speirs' employee (Councillor Scott) that has been the cause of it, and I have heard so much about this case that I feel it only proper that the circumstances should be known, especially to those who understand the law in this respect.

Mayor Smith's Complaint.

1. That I did not attend to the sanitary work.

Answer: This is a big question to answer and to even do the sanitary work of Port Hope in a fair manner it would occupy one man's time solely. I attended to all complaints in this connection and to the satisfaction of the Board of Health, and I thought that was all that was expected. If I am not mistaken, Mayor Smith is overriding the Board of Health when he does not consult them in matters which require attention, or which he thinks require attention. Mayor Smith also said I should have inspected the dairies and slaughter houses, which, I find, are the duties of the Medical Health Officer.

It is known to the people of this town that the Medical Health Officer, Dr. Dickinson, has not been able to attend to these matters through sickness this year; but why try to place the responsibility upon my shoulders. Had I been asked to attend to them I would have done so to the best of my judgment.

At the open Council meeting last night, Councillor Crowhurst asked me if I would like the charges made known to the public. I said it was immaterial to me. Now, I wish to point out my reason for not doing so, and I now feel sorry I was not able to read the minds of those Councillors before they gave their decision to dismiss me, or I certainly would have, and been proud to have had the satisfaction of airing exactly what was at the back of the minds of those men.

However, at a private meeting held a few days ago it leaked out to me afterwards that at that meeting I had not gained the Council's favor for not submitting and admitting that I was at fault, and it struck me that by giving Councillor Crowhurst his option in the matter that I would gain the Council's favor, for it seemed to me that I should not have an opinion of my own, but submit to whatever charges the above-named Councillors had against me, whether they were right or wrong.

I don't wish publicity, but I do want the public to know the whole facts as to my being dismissed from the post of Chief Constable for the Town of Port Hope, and my reputation blasted through incompetent men being pushed into a Council by acclamation where solid thinking men have refrained from taking a part in. If the Police Department had been governed by a Police Commission, which is composed of the Judge, Magistrate and Mayor, instead of by the Council without a doubt such an action would never have occurred. Would any Council with fair-minded men have entertained such petty, childish complaints if one can call them such. Such men are to be pitied more than laughed at. I am proud to be able to say that I can look any person in the face and know that I have a clear conscience. This is, perhaps, more than some people can do.

With reference to Councillors Galbraith and Crowhurst's special instructions regarding the enforcement of the O.T.A., I would like to point out that I have done everything possible to enforce this Act as far as it lies in my power. Councillor Crowhurst told me of his suspicions of two places in town handling liquor. I immediately investigates both places, but I found that there was no liquor being sold at either place, and the suspicions were unfounded. It must be remembered that the police cannot go and search places on rumours. The police must have definite grounds for suspicion, and they can only search when they have a search warrant. Councillor Crowhurst kept after me so much about the enforcement of the Act and about the "awful conditions in Port Hope," that I told him that I did not see where conditions were such as he tried to make out, but if they were so then the only thing to be done was to get the Provincial Police in to clean it up. Councillor Crowhurst did not give me any satisfaction on this point, but stated that the fines would go to the Province, and did not say that I should do so.

However, without making it known to any person, I had arranged to get in the Provincial Police, and somehow or other this matter came back to my hearing, and I immediately cancelled it.

As I have already said, a policeman cannot act on rumours. He must have just grounds for his actions. He told me about a man Councillor Galbraith had seen lying drunk in a lane. It must be remembered that I did not see this man; but I told Councillor Crowhurst if either Councillor Galbraith or himself were sincere, they had the same opportunity to lay a charge against this man as I had. They took no action, and it would appear that what they wanted was for me to take action on their statements, but they did not want to do anything themselves.

Yours truly,
JOHN BROWN.

Three Billion Dollars Carried Through Street When Over Three Hundred Armed Men Guard

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—Federal Reserve Bank yesterday, successfully completed the removal of three billion dollars in cash and negotiable securities from its old vaults on Nassau street to its new quarters at Liberty street and Maiden Lane. The treasure was the largest ever moved through the streets of New York City and the greatest ever transported in the history of the world.

Deadlines were established by the police three blocks away from each of the bank buildings, machine guns were mounted and more than 300 armed men guarded the progress of the bank's treasure.

TEMPERANCE IS BIG TOPIC NOW

Campbellford Had Rally of Twenty Workers—Plans Outlined.

LEADERS APPOINTED.

CAMPBELLFORD, September 22—A special meeting of temperance workers was called on Friday night in the Salvation Army Citadel at 8 o'clock. W. J. Armstrong, chairman for the town of Campbellford, presided, and about twenty ladies and gentlemen were present. The first important work to be done is to see that every name be put on the voters' list at the Court of Revision to be held next week, the audience was told.

Plans for furthering the cause were discussed, and arrangements will be made to have some prominent speakers during the next few weeks to place the issue of temperance before the people.

Committees of ladies and men were appointed for each ward and the following are the convenors:

Ward 1, T. H. Rowe, Front Street.
Ward 2, R. C. Weston, Rear Street.
Ward 3, Rev. W. Elliott, Canrobert Street.
Ward 4, S. A. Maguire, Sebastopol Street.

There will be a rally of all the workers next Thursday night at 8 o'clock in the Presbyterian Sunday School Room, to which all are invited.

The mover and seconder of this rally are Rev. C. F. McIntosh of St. Andrew's Church, and Rev. W. Elliott of the Methodist Church.

Funeral Held.

The funeral of the late Miss Jennie Johnston, whose remains were brought home to her parents on Ranney Street, took place on Thursday afternoon at two o'clock, Rev. C. F. McIntosh having charge of the service.

The following were the pall-bearers: Messrs. Warren Hay, Allan Bonnycastle, John Storie, Walter Rutherford, John Wallace of Campbellford, and Mr. Jack White of Toronto.

The floral tributes were beautiful. One, a spray, was sent from the Memorial Hospital at Niagara Falls, United States, where she has been as nurse-in-training since January. She had been ill since June. She was born at Stanwood about twenty-four years ago, and she with the family moved into town when quite a young girl. She has been a resident of Campbellford since then till she went to the hospital at Niagara.

Her mother and one sister pre-deceased her some years ago.

Temperance Meeting.

The prayer meeting in the interest of temperance held on Friday afternoon in the Methodist Church was in charge of Mrs. R. Weston, president of the W.C.T.U. Mrs. Ashton, as well as the president, spoke a few words in reference to the work on hand at present. Those present showed their interest in the work.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. James Jones of Meyerburg, who purchased the house on Grand Road from Mrs. Seaborn, moved into town on Tuesday.

Dr. and Mrs. Richardson of Toronto visited this week at the home of their uncle, Mr. J. W. Nesbitt, Front Street.

Miss Jennie Johnston, of Belleville, spent a few days with Mrs. David Durran in Percy.

Mrs. O'Shea, who has been visiting in Foxboro and Belleville for three weeks, returned on Thursday night to her home with her daughter, Mrs. J. W. Nesbitt, Front Street.

Mrs. (Rev.) Egan and her mother, Mrs. Adamson, of Fort William, who have been spending three months visiting in Parry Sound, Toronto, Weston, Markdale, Listowel, Galt, St. George, and Stouffville, came to Campbellford last week to spend the winter with Rev. W. and Mrs. Elliott, at the Methodist parsonage. Mrs. Egan is a sister and Mrs. Adamson the mother of Mrs. Elliott.

THE O.T.A. PLEBISCITE BALLOT

1 Are you in favour of the continuance of The Ontario Temperance Act?

2 Are you in favour of the sale as a beverage of beer and spirituous liquor in sealed packages under Government control?

This is the exact form of ballot that will be used by Ontario voters in deciding the fate of the Ontario Temperance Act on October 23. A cross opposite the question to which the voter gives assent constitutes a valid vote. Two crosses, one opposite each question, nullifies it, according to Attorney-General Nickle's statement.

C.N.R. BUILDING ATTRACTS CROWD

Wembley Pavilion of Canada's Railroad Is Popular Institution.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—That the C.N.R. Pavilion continues to be one of the chief attractions at the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley is seen in the fact that over a quarter of a million visitors passed through the building during the week ending August 23, bringing the total number of visitors to the Pavilion since the opening of the Exhibition to 5,422,960. In addition to this number, close on twenty thousand people attended the hall during the same week. Where moving pictures are shown and lectures held, depicting scenes along the lines of the National system.

Several important railway and business men of European countries and other parts of the Empire have been recent visitors to the C.N.R. Pavilion, chief among whom have been A. C. Olshon, deputy general passenger and freight agent of the Victorian Railways, Melbourne, Australia, and H. Otto Elander, president of the Elander Printing and Publishing Company of Sweden. Both these distinguished visitors showed keen interest in the Canadian National Railway's exhibit. Other visiting business men to the Pavilion have been A. M. Kemp, Brussels, Belgium; C. Buckley, manager of the Dean and Dawson Tourist Agency, Rochdale, England; K. L. Wheeler, manager of Crabtrees Tourist Agency, Oakland, Calif., and W. H. Ingram, of the Canadian Press Association, Paris.

CLERK CONFESSES FRAUDULENT DEAL

Three Arrests Made and a Warrant Out For Fourth —At Hamilton.

HAMILTON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Further sensational developments will result from the clean-up of civic finances, it was learned last night.

Three arrests have already been made, and the warrant for a fourth has been issued. Independent auditors are checking the accounts and a huge sum is missing, it was learned.

Prominent citizens might be involved before the probe closes. Ernest E. King, clerk in the City Tax Office, held with George Saunders and Arthur Hartley, of the Federal Income Tax Office, on a charge of "conspiracy to defraud," with the police and auditor, on Saturday, went over the books and made a confession of the whole scheme.

METHODIST CHURCH DICTRICT MEETING

Every Circuit In Campbellford Represented —Interesting Addresses.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 22. — The financial district meeting of the Campbellford district was held in the Methodist church, Campbellford, on Thursday, every circuit in the district being represented, and Rev. C. W. Barrett, chairman of the district, presiding.

The morning session was taken up with matters of a financial character The allotments for the connexional funds were presented and accepted by the meeting, and interesting and helpful discussion took place as to the urgent need of these funds and the best means of raising them.

In the afternoon session a number of inspiring addresses were given upon themes of vital importance to the church, Rev. J. S. J. Wilson, B. A., B.D., of Brighton, president of the Bay of Qunte Conference, gave a timely and practical message on "Intensive Evangelism." He impressed upon the session the great need and the vast importance of personal effort to win people to Jesus Christ. The churches and pastors ought not to be satisfied without results in additions to the church.

Rev. Lloyd Smith, B.A., B.D., representing the Methodist Mission Board, delivered a most interesting and stirring address on the missionary work of the church. In an impressive manner he referred to the work of the missionary in the home field, among the Indians, and in Japan, and showed that such splendid work and sacrifice were worthy of the most generous financial support of the church. After his message was delivered the district meeting accepted the financial objectives, presented by the District Missionary Committee.

The Liquor Traffic.

The Department of Evangelism and Social Service was represented by Rev. H. B. Kenny, a member of the Board of this Department. His address dealt with the liquor question, as it presents itself now before the people of Ontario. Mr. Kenny was pronounced in his opposition to the introduction again into this province of the liquor traffic by any method. He made it clear that "Government control" means government sale, and that bootlegging is not remedied in Quebec or British Columbia by their present system of government sale.

At teh close of the address a resolution was unanimously passed commending the O.T.A. and pledging every effort to sustain it on October 23rd.

The District Meeting passed a resolution expressing sympathy with Rev. E. O. Seymour of Havelock, whose wife is very seriously ill in Belleville.

SCOTCH TAX COLLECTORS OUT AFTER DELINQUENTS

ABERDEEN, Sept. 19.—(Associated Press).—The burden of taxation which has depopulated England of the country squire and the lord who owned large sections of counties is beginning to be felt in the Highlands.

Because their highland estates are largely unproductive and their extent somewhat doubtful, the owners have heretofore not been held strictly to account by the tax-collector. Recently, however, the tax surveyors have been busy in the northern Scottish counties and large tax bills have been sent to the lairds, representing to them a dead loss. Now scores of castles and manors with centuries of historic connections and thousands of acres of land are offered for sale.

One of the most famous in the Pingask Castle with 13,827 acres of land, which was built in 1594 and has been connected with all the important events of Highland history, particularly the escapades of Bonnie Prince Charlie.

Despite many inducements the owners cannot find a market for their estates.

WOMEN'S AUXILIARY MET IN HAVELOCK

Peterboro Deanery Held Annual Meeting—Progress Reported.

HAVELOCK, Sept. 22.—The annual meeting of the Peterboro Deanery of the Women's Auxiliary was held in Havelock on Friday. There was a celebration of Holy Communion at eleven o'clock in St. John's Church. The Rector, Rev. Mr. Stanley, officiated, assisted by Rural Dean Rev. J. O'Connor-Fenton.

A large and enthusiastic gathering of delegates met upstairs after lunch.

Reports read from all the branches showed good progress in missionary work.

The Deanery officer, Mrs. J. P. Archer, of Campbellford, introduced the special speaker, Miss Cartwright, Principal of St. Hilda College in Toronto, also Dioscesan President of the W.A. She gave a very interesting address of the Women's Auxiliary work, pointing out the great scope of the Women's Missionary endeavor, and the incessant demands, which were being made upon the women. She referred especially to the importance of junior work, and called upon the senior members to make sacrifices, to foster the work among the juniors, because the future of the W. A. depended on the girls of to-day. A striking reply to those who refused to assist in church work, upon the ground that they "don't want to be tied down," was given in the words: The only people who have an interesting time in life are those who have some work worth doing, in which they are really interested.

The speaker made special mention of work done in the West, in China, in India and in Japan.

An interesting reference was made to the fact that at Trinity College, Toronto, this year, one student would be the daughter of the first native Bishop in Japan. Her name is Miss Motado. The Women's Association are bearing all expenses for her education. She will be at Trinity for four years.

A vote of thanks was tendered to Miss Cartwright for the very splendid address, and also to the Havelock ladies for their hospitality, moved by Mrs. Evans, of Peterboro, and seconded by Mrs. G. C. Clarke, of Campbellford.

Special mention should be made of the wonderful reports sent in by the juniors. Miss Cartwright spoke also of the work of the Little Helpers.

The Girls' Auxiliary of Christ Church, Campbellford, was the only branch represented, having eight members present.

There were about thirty-five present from Campbellford, twenty-four being members of the W. A. and the rest church members.

The meeting closed with a hymn and prayer.

BANS SEA NYMPHS FROM WINDSHIELDS

A well regulated universe may provide a place for everything, but the place for paper cut-outs of mermaids or bathing beauties, is not upon the windshied or the rear window of motor cars.

Such is the ruling delivered by Frank A. Goodwin, registrar of motor vehicles in Boston, Mass., who has ordered all such decorative silhouettes removed from automobiles within his jurisdiction.

In the first place, says registrar Goodwin, the practive is foolish to the verge of insanity. But, secondly, and more important, it tends to interefer wit hthe vision of a driver, he sates. If motorists insist on placarding their machines with Shebas of the sands, he suggests that the front of the radiator is the most suitable place, as there they will not obscure the line of vision, and will be near their native element—the water.

In Peterboro also the bathing beauty has made frequent appearances of recent months, upon motor windshield. Will the City of Churches follow the example of the City of Culture?

It remains to be seen.

Investigating Irregularities.

Royal Commissioner's Report Commented on by Hon. G. P. Graham.

OTTAWA, September 22 (Canadian Press). — Grave irregularities in regard to contracts for the supply of coal to the various Militia buildings in Winnipeg have been found by Royal Commissioner David Campbell of Winnipeg.

Hon. George P. Graham, acting Minister of National Defence, issued a statement last night in which he said:

"The report of the Commissioner will be referred to the Justice Department for advice as to what should be the next step in order to clean up what, according to the report of the Commissioner, is a disgraceful condition. This coal was purchased by tender, and if in spite of all restrictions and safeguards that are thrown around these transactions, frauds have been perpetrated on the Government and on the taxpayer, the guilty ones ought to be punished."

TWO SHOT THEMSELVES.

Toronto Was Scene of Two Suicides Over the Week-end.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Two men, said to have been temporarily deranged, shot and killed themselves during the week-end. Both were dead when found. Investigations were made by coroners and no inquest will be held in either case.

With a bullet wound in his head, Russell Carter, aged 42, was found dead at his home on Saturday night. Mrs. Carter discovered her husband's body with a revolver near by. Coroner G. W Clendenan was notified.

James Henry, aged 25 years, shot and killed himself in his room early on Sunday morning. Henry had been visiting on Ontario Street, and on his return home went into his room, taking a .43 calibre rifle and shot himself in the head.

DEATH TOLL OF TORNADO.

Upwards of a Score Reported Killed—Monetary Loss Heavy.

THORP, Wis., Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press): —Five known dead two others reported killed and about fourteen injured besides heavy monetary loss is the toll of a tornado which struck this section of the State yesterday afternoon. It is reported that six persons were killed and seven injured on farms at Ashland.

OPEN NEW MONASTERY.

Four Benedictine Fathers Arrive From Fort Augustus, Scotland.

QUEBEC, Sept. 22.—Among the cabin passengers of the Canadian Pacific steamer Montcalm, which arrived here from Liverpool, was a party of four reverend fathers of the Benedictine Order from Fort Augustus, Scotland. The party is in charge of Rev. Father A. T. Macdonald, O.S.B., who, with his confreres, is proceeding through to Washington, D.C., to open a new monastery in that city.

Practically all the third class passengers on the Montcalm were Britishers and after passing their examinations at the immigration building, boarded a special Canadian Pacific train for their various destinations in the western provinces. Many of the men who left for the west were accompanied by their families and are going to settle on farms which they had purchased before sailing from the old country.

Would Make Life Easier For British Pensioners

LONDON, Sept. 22 — Roland Bourne is endeavoring to create communal settlements in South Africa for Englishmen with small incomes who can no longer live in England in accordance with the standards to which they are accustomed. He says that England abounds in retired army and navy officers, and others with practically no capital but with small fixed incomes varying from $1,500 to $4,000 a year.

England has too forbidding a climate for such people, but in South Africa, on holdings of from two to five acres, they could be very happy.

AVERAGE FRENCHMAN APTLY PICTURED BY PARIS NEWSPAPER

PARIS, Sept. 22 — (United Press).—When Premier Herriot returned from the reparations conference in London he said he brought a message for the average Frenchman, Then the question was asked: "Well, what is the average Frenchman?" M. Herriot didn't answer, but while he was engineering the London accords through the senate and chamber the newspapers studied the phrase.

The average American conception of the "average Frenchman" is a man with gorgeous whiskers, a coat drawn in absurdly at the waist, and a funny high hat, sitting at a table of a sidewalk cafe sipping strange drinks and watching the women go by. That is as unfair as the French conception of the average American millionaire rushing about madly making more millions and getting divorced because his wife ran off to Hollywood with the chauffeur. M. Andre Laphin, in the "Intransigeant, gives a more honest portrait of the "average Parisian."

The Average Parisian.

"He is about 40," says the writer, "a trifle stout, eats a great deal of break and smokes 'caporal.' He married a girl with a dowry when he was 27, and has two children. In his button-hole is a much-worn foreign decoration. He goes to the movies every Saturday, and to the theater when he is given free tickets. He has obtained an extension on his lease, but does not like his landlord and wants to find another flat He has not yet paid his taxes, and his wife cannot get a servant. He receives a month's extra pay on January 1, and has an annaul fortnight's holiday which he spends at the home of his mother-in-lw, with whom he generally quarrels. Every morning he cleans the boots, and fetches the milk, while his wife makes coffee. He has a foot that aches when the weather is about to change. He loses one umbrella a year, and has never seen a summer like the present one."

Perhaps that explains why Premier Herriot's appeal to the "average Frenchman" was answered with acceptance of a complete reversal of Poincare's policies.

Powder Charges Start Airplanes on Flight

WASHINGTON, Sept. 22—(Associated Press).—The motive force of explosives may surplant that of compressed air in catapulting airplanes from the decks of naval vessels as a result of recent tests at the Anacostia, D. C., air station.

In the new catapult a pistol shot ignites a powder charge which literally "blows" the carriage on which the plane rests to the rail at the rate of 60 miles an hour. The car is stopped abruptly by hydraulic bumpers, but the plane continues on its way.

Space occupied by air compressors is saved in the improved type and loss of time, formerly devoted to recharging the tanks for each flight, is averted.

EAT WHALE MEAT AND AVENGE OLD JONAH

VANCOUVER, B.C., Sept. 22—(United Press).—West Africa is avenging Jonah. Descendants of the whale that swallowed the Biblical character are being swallowed in large quantities by the inhabitants of the West African coast. British Columbia's entire output of canned whaled meat last year was marketed, according to provincial trade authorities, among the settlements between Liberia and the Congo.

The new market has given the whaling industry in British Columbia a new impetus and promises to bring it great prosperity in the future. Whaling operations this year are reported to have been more successful than for many seasons.

Execution of Four Pirates Made Gala Day By Chinese

TSINGTAO, Shauntung, China, Sept. 19.—The execution here a few days ago of four pirates attracted a crowd estimated at 5,000 persons. It emphasized the callousness which is a recognized trait in Chinese psychology. The day was converted into a festival. Peanut, candy and soft drink vendors along the route to and on the field where the execution occurred did a thriving business. An immense throng formed a sort of triumphal procession behind the doomed men as they trudged to their death and looked on wide-eyed at the spectacle of the shooting.

The hapless pirates were arrested while trying to carry out a conspiracy to seize the flagship of Admiral Wen.

WEDDING BELLS.

BEATTIE—NAYLOR.

A wedding was solemnized in Walmer Road Baptist Church on Wednesday evening, when Greta Iona, daughter of Mrs. S. E. Naylor, was united in marriage with Dr. Herbert James Beattie, of Campbellford, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Beattie, Toronto, Rev. John MacNeill officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. C. B. Naylor, of Los Angeles, Cal., and looked charming in a gown of ivory crepe Romaine, with veil held in place by coronet of lace and orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Myrtle Johnston, was pretty in beige georgette, with hat to match, and carried sunburst roses. The bridegroom was assisted by his brother, Mr. Milburn McCarty. During the signing of the register Mrs. McCarty sang "Beloved." Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. D. D. Johnston, Westmoreland Avenue, after which Dr. and Mrs. Beattie left on thier honeymoon, the bride wearing a French three-piece suit of navy cashmere cloth, small black hat and marten fur. On their return they will live in Campbellford, Ont.—Mail and Empire.

GOTHA, Germany, Sept.22 —The new edition of the Alamanac de Gotha carries one line referring to the Romanoffs, the former reigning family of Russia. Six finely printed pages did not suffice for the annals of this family before the war.

Americans honored

TOKIO, Sept. 19.—Special honorary memberships in the Japan Red Cross and medals of merit have been conferred on Admiral Edwin A. Anderson, U.S.N., and Major-General George W. Read, U.S.A., in recognition of relief services at the time of Japan's great earthquake last September.

At that time Admiral Anderson commanded the United States Asiatic Fleet, which brought the first outside aid to the stricken areas, and General Read was in command of the Department of the Philippines, from which the first considerable shipments of relief supplies were sent.

Among other foreigners who received similar recognition is Giacomo de Martino, the Italian Ambassador.

ROYALTY IN WEST.

Duke of Alba and Party Will Visit Alberta and May Buy a Ranch.

TORONTO, Sept. 20.—The Duke and Duchess of Alba, accompanied by the Duke and Duchess of Peranda, the Marquis of Coquila, Count Escandor and Mrs. M. Hyde, society dictator of continental Europe, left Toronto at 10.30 last night on two Canadian Pacific Railway special cars en route to Banff, Alberta. The royal specials, which are attached to C.P.R. train No. 3, will arrive in Banff.

The Duke of Alba who is "Master of the House" for the King of Spain and a direct descendant of Christopher Columbus, King James II and the Duke of Berwick, stated on leaving Toronto, that he hoped to follow in the footsteps of his kinsman, the Prince of Wales, and buy a ranch in Alberta. He and his party arrived in Toronto early Tuesday morning from the Polo games on Long Island and he declared that the Prince of Wales had said such nice things about Canada that he could not forgo the opportunity of seeing the country for himself with the possibility of acquiring land in the West.

The Duke declared that there was an impression in this country that he had been responsible for much of the unrest in Spain. "As a matter of fact," he said, "I have lost all track of what is going on in Spain since my arrival in America." The Duke is still a member of the Upper House of Lords at Madrid. Duke Alba who is 26 years old and who is often referred to as the "Spanish Grandee" will remain in Banff four days with his royal guests. They will leave Banff September 23 for Sicamous where they will spend the night, arriving in Vancouver Wednesday evening and Victoria Thursday morning at 10.30. Thursday and Friday will be spent in Victoria when the Royal party will return to New York via Seattle, San Francisco, Los Angeles, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

The Duke of Peranda, a brother of the Duke of Alba; and the Marquis of Viana, is the young Duke's father-in-law. Mrs. M. Hyde is the wife of the former American Ambassador at Berlin and Constantinople and is universally recognized as being on more intimate terms with royal families of Europe than any other woman in the world. The royal party numbers 14 persons, including three maids and three valets, travelling in a special drawing room car and a special diner.

Fried bacon rinds are excellent for baiting mouse traps and often prove more tempting to mice than cheese.

MARMORA MAN WON PRIZES AT THE FAIR

Arthur Hart Successful In Fancy Cooking Class With Iced Fruit Cake.

MARMORA, Sept. 22.—Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hart and Mrs. Priscilla Blanchard of the Hub Dining Rooms, Delora, attended the annual Bay of Quinte Mohawk Fair at Shannonville on Sept. 17. The former exhibited a fancy iced fruit cake, for which he was awarded a special prize. At the forthcoming Marmora Fair Mr. Hart will exhibit a display of artistic cookery. Those interested in domestic science are assured something well worth their keenest inspection.

Personals.

Dr. and Mrs. D. Thomson spent Thursday in Peterborough, where the former attended the medical convention.

Miss Muriel Gunter of Coehill spent a few days in town this week amongst her former schoolmates.

Mr. Matheson of Havelock spent Thursday evening with Mr. Clarence Gladney of town.

The friends of Miss Annie Linn are sorry to learn that she is still confined to her home by illness.

Mr. Frank Grant spent Wednesday afternoon at Stirling Fair.

MRS. ARTHUR ROBSON BURIED AT LAKEFIELD

Was Resident of Village For Many Years—Died Suddenly.

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 20.— The funeral of the late Mrs. Arthur Robson took place on Tuesday last, the service being held in the Baptist Church where for many years the deceased lady was a faithful and devout worshipper. Rev. T. L. White, pastor of the church officiated and paid a tribute to her unshaken loyalty which was a constant inspiration to him in his work. In spite of failing health she attended both Sunday services and the weekly prayer meeting regularly and took a keen interest in all branches of the church work.

The pall bearers were: Messrs. S. Hunter, S. Spence, D. Darling, Alex MacDonald, Robert Garbutt and James Campbell.

Mrs. Robson died suddenly on Saturday night, September 13th at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Walter Northey, Queen street.

The deceased's maiden name was Rebecca Carr and for many years she had been a resident of the village, being held in the highest respect by all the residents of the village. Her husband pre deceased her ten years ago. Two daughters, Mrs. Walter Northey of Lakefield and Mrs. Jesse Riddle of Penticton, B.C. survive, also a sister, Mrs. Patterson of Miama, Man. and a brother, Owen Carr of Brandon, Man. Mrs. Robson, who was aged 75 years and 6 months had performed her usual household duties and been out to attend the Saturday night shopping in the evening so that her sudden death was a shock to the entire community.

ELECT TOM MOORE TO SEVENTH TERM

Trades and Labor Congress Concludes Sessions at London.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 20.—(Canadian Press).— The Dominion Trades and Labor Congress concluded its sessions here last evening with the re-election of Tom Moore to a seventh term in the office of president, to which he was first elected in Quebec.

Mr. Moore was opposed by Tim Buck, of Toronto, but won out by a vote of 156 to 44.

James Simpson, Toronto; J. T. Foster, Montreal, and Bert Merson, Toronto, were chosen vice-presidents.

GOVERNMENT LOAN.

Twenty Year Bonds Now Available to the Investor.

The announcement that the Dominion Government has arranged to issue $50,000,000 of new twenty-year bonds, payable in Canada, will be welcomed by investors as a whole. One of the outstanding features in connection with the bond market during the last few weeks has been a shortage of the higher grade of bonds, and with $107,000,000 of Victory Bonds maturing on November 1st, some questions have arisen in the minds of many investors as to the channel in which their funds would find investment.

Bonds are now being offered by a strong financial syndicate consisting of A. E. Ames & Co., Wood, Gundy & Co., Dominion Securities Corporation, Limited, National City Company, Limited, Bank of Montreal, The Royal Bank of Canada and the Canadian Bank of Commerce.

The new issue of bonds payable in Canada amounts to only $50,000,000, as compared with $107,000,000 of maturing bonds, and while it will not be possible for all present holders of bonds maturing on November 1st next, to participate in the new issue, many will undoubtedly find this an ideal opportunity for reinvestment. New buyers, of course, will have an opportunity of participating in this loan, inasmuch as the offering terms indicate that this is not a renewal loan, but that in order to grant a special concession to those who now own maturing bonds, such bonds will be accepted at face value on or before October 15th, the purchaser having first detached the interest coupon due November 1st. In other words, the purchaser buying bonds receives practically double interest for a period of over two weeks.

Those in close touch with the financial situation anticipate that the new offering will be quickly oversubscribed in the course of a week and investment bankers generally are urging haste on the part of those who desire to participate.

The Government's official announcement indicates that the present loan completes all refunding operations that are necessary for some time to come. It is pointed out that the indebtedness of the Government will be reduced by about $22,000,000, and as a substantial amount of new money has been obtained in United States, the supply of Canadian payment bonds in Canada has been reduced by a very large amount.

It is felt that the distribution of the new loan between Canada and United States should prove satisfactory to all schools of thought in Canada. Certain interests have felt that it would be better to bring a large volume of new money into Canada. Others have felt that present holders of Victory Bonds should be given an opportunity to renew their loans to the Dominion Government. The result of this operation is that a large amount of new money will be brought in, but those investors who wish to extend the term of their investment may do so provided they act before oversubscription is announced.

Y.W.C.A. ACTIVITIES

DONALD KIRKE GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

Popular Actor Says Medicine Completely Overcame Stomach Trouble And Nervousness.

That Montreal playgoers are literally packing the Orpheum Theatre at every performance is at once a tribute to the high standard of the entertainment offered and to the finished artistry of the famous Duffy stock players, not the least popular of whom is Donald Kirke.

Mr. Kirke is not only a favorite on the legitimate stage, but is a screen player of note, and it is a further tribute to his consummate acting that, even while tortured with stomach trouble, nervous and other ills, he kept "on with the play" day in and day out until he found relief by taking Tanlac. As he says:

"My stomach had almost failed me and I wonder now how I ever kept up, I ate so little. Nights I would toss and turn for hours in nervousness; piercing sick headaches made me suffer agony, and at times on the stage I was so nervous, weak and trembly that I could hardly remember my lines.

"I would have given a thousand dollars to get the relief Tanlac has given me for less than five dollars. My appetite was never better. I eat everything and have gained 12 pounds. I'm never a bit weak or nervous, never have a headache, and I feel fine. I will gladly confirm these facts by 'phone or letter."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LOSE WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit, 1 stuffed tomato on a bed of lettuce hearts, 1 cup chicken en casserole with 2 slices white meat, 1 cup fruit salad, 2 tablespoons maple mousse, 2 crisp pieces gluten toast, 1 gluten roll, 2 salad wafers, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1152. Protein, 287; fat, 294; carbohydrate, 571. Iron, .0204 gram.

Of course the "cup of chicken" means the vegetables in the dish. Two slices from the breast of the chicken provide about 200 calories and the vegetables add another 100.

Stuffed Tomato Salad

One medium sized tomato, 1 tablespoon diced pineapple, 1 tablespoon chopped English walnut meats, 2 tablespoons cottage cheese, salt and paprika.

Scald tomato, slip off skin and put on ice to chill. Cut slice from stem end and scoop out seeds. Sprinkle inside lightly with salt and turn upsidedown in the ice box to drain and chill. Combine pineapple, nuts and cheese, season with salt and pepper to taste and fill tomato with mixture. Serve on a bed of lettuce hearts.

Total calories (exclusive of lettuce), 206. Protein, 43; fat, 95; carbohydrate, 68. Iron, .0016 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One-half grapefruit with 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 codfish and potato puff, 4 corn meal pancakes, 2 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 1 cup cream of peanut butter soup, 1 stuffed tomato on bed of lettuce hearts, 1 cup chicken en casserole with 1 whole thigh and 2 slices white meat, 2 corn fritters with 2 tablespoons sirup, 1 cup fruit salad, 4 tablespoons maple mousse, 1 large piece sunshine cake, 2 tablespoons croutons with soup, 2 whole wheat bread and butter sandwiches, 2 Parker House rolls, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 4331. Protein, 522; fat, 1799; carbohydrate, 2010. Iron, .0226 gram.

This stuffed tomato is made rich with mayonnaise and Neufchatel cheese is used in place of cottage cheese. This adds about 300 calories to the salad.

If you serve a simple sugar sirup with the corn fritters in place of maple sirup the maple mousse will be more keenly appreciated.

Codfish and Potato Puffs.

One cup salt codfish, 2 cups mashed potato, 4 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons butter, 3 eggs, pepper.

Freshen codfish and shred. Add potatoes and mix thoroughly. Add butter and cream and beat well. Beat yolks of eggs until thick and lemon colored and add to potato mixture. Beat whites of eggs until stiff and dry and fold into first mixture. Turn into six well buttered molds and bake 20 minutes in a moderate oven.

Total calories, 1360. Protein, 406; fat, 584; carbohydrate, 370. Iron, .0123 gram.

Wilcox Brother's Small Capital Proved No Deterrent

When the Wilcox brothers—Jim and Harry—went into the retail shoe business with a capital of only $4,000, the most important contract either of them signed, was a North American Life Business Insurance Policy.

The plan was simple. Jim Wilcox insured his life for $5,000, making the firm the beneficiary. Harry did the same thing.

Immediately with these policies they were able to establish and maintain credit. Besides this, of course, the insurance provided:

(1) That in case of the death of either partner, the ensuing crisis would be tided over.

(2) That the partnership would be indemnified against the loss of a life whose energy, brain and credit meant so much to the firm's success.

Most businesses, however small, have their "indispensable" men. With such firms, Business Insurance is a matter of good business sense.

Municipality Takes Up The Undertaking Trade

PARIS, September 22.—Canadian Press. — The Muncipality of Cuisery, near Chalons-Sur-Seine, has gone into the undertaking business, and is waging an advertising campaign in true "Go-getter" style. All over town gaily colored posters show how much cheaper is the cost of municipal burial than the cost of living. "First-class interments $3."

FABLES ON HEALTH.

SOME HYGIENE RULES.

One day little Molly Mann came home with a card on which was printed the slogan: "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Mrs. Mann smiled as Molly announced: "We've got hygiene at school now, and I'm going to help you keep the house all cleaned up."

"That's fine," nodded Mrs. Mann.

"Well, teacher said first to start with the kitchen," said Molly "We've got to keep it well aired all the time. And the sink must be kept clean. And did you know that if the pipes under the sink are not cleaned regularly (they will draw bugs and things?

"Yes, and it causes smells, too. Then we have to scald all the milk bottles so that no germs can collect.

"The refrigerator is important in summer. We must be very careful that no old foods stays there and decays. It's a breeding place for germs, the teacher said. And the ice should be washed before being put in so that there can be no dirt."

"Well, I guess that's enough for one afternoon," suggested Mrs. Mann, with a smile. "And, mind, you remember those rules when you are my age as well as you do now."

RADIO NEWS

The most talked of receiver shown at the Exhibition just closed in Toronto was the new Marconi model, Marconiphone V, exhibited to the public for the first time during the Fair. A seven-valve instrument with built-in loop antenna and loudspeaker, it is enclosed in an unusually handsome console model cabinet. Like the Marconiphone III, which is a six-valve receiver, it works on the neutragenerative principle, a Marconi development, and embodies the patented Marconi bridge circuit.

Three of the seven valves are for radio frequency amplification before the detector valve. After the detector there are two stages of audio-frequency amplification and one stage of push-pull amplification. There are but two tuning controls and stations can be brought in with greatest ease. Other features of Marconiphone V are a lead-lined tray for "A" storage battery, space within the set for "B" batteries, place for a battery charger, including all necessary leads for any type of charger; and a long and short wave loop switch which gives the set a remarkable range of wave lengths.

While built for use with its own built-in loop, it can be operated with a Marconi directional loop antenna or an outdoor aerial, the necessary terminals and openings being provided.

THE POSTAL EXHIBIT

Too much notice cannot be given to the educational Post Office exhibit held at the Peterborough Central Exhibition.

This exhibit was held with a view of giving the general public a full knowledge of the many different ways by which the Post Office may serve them, viz: the C. O. D. system on parcels, insurance of parcels which may be had for a small fee in addition to the regular postage.

Then the illustrated postal talks were an education in themselves, giving one a full knowledge of the volume of mail which passes through the Post Office daily and the efficient system by which it is handled.

When one viewed the "dead" letter office section with its army of clerks trying to locate the senders of mis-sent mail matter and the number of parcels improperly wrapped, you cannot but appreciate the fact that the Post Office is not always at fault for the non-delivery of mail matter.

If the public will only co-operate with the Post Office in doing up all mail matter properly, checking the address and putting on the return address of the sender, it would speed up delivery and assure a much better service.

The slogan of the Post Office Department is: "If a letter contains anything of value, register it. If a parcel is worth mailing, it is worth insuring."

By these educational Post Office exhibits, the Post Office is endeavouring to co-operate with the public, and requests that the public co-operate with the Post Office for a better service.

England Still Guarding Two Germans Arrested As Spies

LONDON, Sept. 19.—(Associated Press).—Stories of the sometimes romantic exploits of spies are recalled by the release from Dartmoor prison of Courtenay Henslot de Rysbach, who in October, 1915, was sentenced to penal servitude for life as a spy in Germany's service.

De Rysbach, a vaudeville actor and the son of a one-time Austrian subject who was naturalized in England, was arrested after the postal censor had stopped two songs mailed by him to an address in Switzerland. One was "The Ladder of Love" and the other was "On the Way to Dublin." When they were chemically treated, an account of conditions in England written in invisible ink appeared. After imprisonment De Rysbach divulged German espionage methods.

At the Home Office it is stated that only two spies now remain in prison in this country.

HOT WATER EVERY MORNING

Makes You Feel 100% Better

If you do not feel well start to-morrow and take one Tanol Calomel Tablet before meals or two at bedtime and don't forget to drink a cup of hot water first thing in the morning to wash all the poisons and wastes from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels before more food is taken in. This simple treatment will render you immune from such troubles as headaches, gas on the stomach, constipation, biliousness, rheumatism, foul breath etc. The secret of the success of these tanol Calomel Tablets is due to the fact that Calomel is the only drug known that acts upon the liver, without having to take Salts or Seidlitz. Get a few of these simple tablets and you will sure eat better, sleep better, work better and feel 100% better. These tablets can be obtained from F. C. Webber, Charlotte street.

A FATAL COLLISION.

Well Known Cement Expert Met Death in Accident.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A collision of a motor car and a motor cycle at Gravesend yesterday resulted in the deaths of H. K. G. Bamber, one of the greatest experts in the cement world, and his brother, Montague Bamber, of Colombo, while a Gravesend couple who were in the sidecar of the motor cycle were seriously injured and A. K. Bamber, son of H. K. C. Bamber, was slightly injured.

H. K. C. Bamber was for twenty-four years managing director of Associated Portland Cement Manufacturers, Limited, and for twelve years was managing director of British Portland Cement Manufacturers, Limited. He relinquished these positions at the end of last year. He erected works in British Columbia at Bambertown, which adopted his name.

PYJAMAS NOT THE BEST OF NIGHT ATTIRE TO WEAR IN JUGOSLAVIA

By ROBERT H. BEST

BELGRADE, Sept. 22.—(United Press).—Hear Ye! Hear Ye!—pajama wearers in particular being meant by "ye."

If you are planning to come to Belgrade soon, it might be just as well to leave your unmentionables at home. Makes no difference whether they be of the finest silk or of the most lowly cotton, or of screeming colors or modest design. Leave them in Ameirca, or else keep them carefully concealed after crossing the Jugoslav frontier. In this country they are associated with lunacy. Two persons, at least, have had reason during the past few days to cure the ingenious individual who decreed originally that they are more fashionable in the 20th century than the old fashioned nighties of our grandparents.

Watch Pajama Wearers.

For many years probably since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary, pajamas have been the official evening, afternoon, and morning dress of all inmates of the local lunatic asylum. The police accordingly keep a sharp lookout for those so attired.

Recently a number of well-to-do persons who wish to become "westernized" in every respect adopted the modern bi-furcated night attire. The police are not yet accustomed to the change; and so the stage remains always set for a series of surprise comedies. For instance, while borrowing without permission some pieces of silverware from a merchant neighbor's home, a few nights ago, a burglar was "surprised" to see said neighbor suddenly appear in the doorway attired in a "lunatic suit" He showed his surprise by making for an open window without taking a second look and without asking any questions. The merchant followed in hot pursuit; and down the street went the two of them, both yelling for the police at every step.

Eventually a policeman was found and then Mr. Merchant got the surprise of his life! The policeman arrested him as an escaped lunatic and thanked the burglar for assisting in the capture. Next morning came the policeman's time for a surprise. The asylum keeeper refused to identify the merchant as one of his boarders; and a bit later wife appeared on the scene with hubby's clothes and swore by Morpheus that she was still willing to risk her life in the merchant's hands even though he continued to wear pajamas.

Not quite so fortunate was another young man, a bachelor who also has become addicted to the pajama habit! The evening was exceedingly warm; sleep would not come; and in a nearby public square an orchestra concert was being given. Incautiously the young man wandered down into the garden and then out through the gate. Hardly had the gate latch clicked behind him, hofever, when he felt a heavy hand on his shoulder and a "come with me" order whispered in his ear.

He wore a Waste Basket.

Protestations were of no avail; the more energetically the poor fellow protested the more firmly became the policeman's belief that he had caught a real "hard case." Next morning he too was released when the asylum keeper refused to identify him; but the releases was hardly a sugar-coated pill. It was broad daylight; he had no street suit with him; and no policeman was obliging enough to either to obtain such for him or to permit him to spend the day in the station house.

Jugoslavia is not a prohibition country; and so the police had not empty barrels to lend. Finally he hit on the happy idea of borrowing a wastepaper basket. Donning this, he sallied forth and reached home without being recognized by any of his friends. He encountered only his landlady; and this good soul was merciful enough to keep quiet after giving him a short lecture of his foolishness in adopting "them outlandish new-fangled American things."

A course in pajamaology is now said to be in process of preparation for the police force in order that the asylum keeper may not be called from his regular duties in the future for the purpose of indentifying "freaks" who wish to dress like lunatics when they go to bed.

HAD MASS MEETING.

Interesting Services at St. James' Church on Sunday.

A well-attended open mass meeting, under the auspices of the Treasure Seekers' Bible Class of St. James' Methodist Church, was held in the church yesterday afternoon. Addresses were given by Mayor Turner and by the pastor, Rev. J. D. Richardson, who spoke in place of Mrs. H. Fallis, prevented from attending by illness. The chair was occupied by Alderman J. O. Fife, teacher of the Treasure Seekers' Class. Several pleasing vocal selections were rendered by a chorus of male voices, directed by F. W. Chenhall, and a vocal solo was also given by Edwin Rowe. Rev. W. H. Buckler led in prayer.

Rev. Mr. Richardson spoke on "How to Get Rich," basing his address on advice in procuring the true riches of life, not of dollars and cents, but through education, service and the development of character.

Mayor J. J. Turner's discourse, entitled "Foundation Stones in Civic Building," was an interesting talk, giving a recipe for making a successful town or city. Included in the twenty-two structural stones which the speaker cited as necessary in the inhabitants were those of pep, snap, push, energy, good schools, churches, morality to inculcate the virtues of life, harmony, concord, cordiality, sincerity, heartiness in welcoming strangers and newcomers, proper advertising of the advantages of the community, persistence, endurance, public spirit and co-operation. The city and its location should be spoken well of, and its good points emphasized and advertised, its merchants should be patronized, and its people should elect good men to office. By "good men" the speaker did not refer merely to rich or influential men, but to those who were honest and reliable. As music is an essential to a community as well as to good health in individuals, support of a good band was recommended.

These ingredients should be thoroughly mixed and allowed to bake for about ten years, as patience and perseverance, not impatience, were necessary for successful results.

Prince Made Fifteen Minute Break in Montreal To-day.

MONTREAL, September 22 (Canadian Press). — The Prince of Wales made his first stop in Canada when his special train stopped for fifteen minutes at St. Henri Station, within Montreal city limits to-day, en route from his American visit to his ranch at High River, Alberta.

The train arrived at 11.55 a.m. and after a brief stay left for Ottawa.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

Sporting Editor of Examiner:

The Peterboro fans do not want the Toronto ladies soft ball team to go away with the impression that they played an all-star Peterboro team, because that is not so.

The Toronto ladies played an amalgamated C.G.E.-Woollen team, with a Thistle ball team pitcher. The C.G.E. pitcher having left town and the Woollens pitcher not the best, they chose the Thistle pitcher.

The Woollens and the C.G.E. are by no means the best players in Peterboro. The pitcher not having her own catcher she could not do her best. Thanking you for the space for this, I remain, STRUCK ON CHIN.

Accident at Baseball Game at Tamworth.

(Special to The Examiner).

KINGSTON, Sept. 22. — An unfortunate accident occurred at Tamworth, during the baseball game between Tamworth and Marlbank, when John Benn, of the Marlbank team, was struck on the point of the chin by the ball and sustained a fracture of the lower jaw on one side. The player was at the bat and the ball which struck him was thrown by Keller, the Tamworth pitcher. The injured player was brought to the Kingston General Hospital.

HELD UP A TRAIN.

LONDON, Sept. 22. — United Press. — Twenty bandits seeking to kidnap Premier Hoppoulis of Greece held up a train near Phillipopolis according to Central News despatches to-day.

The premier was not on board so the bandits robbed the passengers of their money and jewelry and fled.

BATTALION RE-UNION.

Peterboro Will Be Scene of Gathering Next Year.

(Special to The Examiner).

KINGSTON, Sept. 22.—A decided success in every way was the sixth annual re-union of the 21st Battalion (Canadian Infantry) held here on Friday night. Peterboro was well represented at the gathering, and Peterboro was the unanimous choice for the re-union of 1925. It was held in the Electric City in 1921, and the veterans of that city have assured a splendid time for all. Captain Wills, of Belleville, invited the members to hold next year's re-union in that city, but it was agreed that the invitation of the Peterboro representatives should be accepted on account of the following rotation having been established: Ottawa, Kingston, Peterboro, Belleville.

Ex-members of the unit were present at the re-union held at the Froneenac Hotel from all parts of Eastern Ontario, and one of the special features of the proceedings was the roll call of "A," "B," "C," and "D" Companies, Signal Section, Machine Gun Section, Scout Section headquarters, pipe and brass bands and buglars. A telegram of greeting was sent to Brigadier-General W. S. Hughes, D.S.O., the first commander of the unit, who was unable to be present owing to press of business in the West. In his absence, the duties of toastmaster were carried on by Lieut.-Col. H. E. Pense, D.S.O., M.C., who succeeded the late Lieut.-Col. Elmer W. Jones, D.S.O., of Brockville, in command of the 21st Battalion.

Mayor Thomas B. Angrove, an honorary member of the Kingston Club, his son having served with the unit, was called upon for an address, and he expressed his keen interesrt in the "21st."

All present were mindful of the sacrifice of 430 of their number, whose remains lie in honored graves in France and Belgium, and the following was responded by the gathering standing in silence for two minutes:

"Enough of merit has each honored name
To shine untarnished on the rolls of fame,
And add new lustre to the historic page."

"Happy Memories with the Old 21st." which was proposed by the "padre," Major the Rev. W. E. Kidd, M.C., brought happy responses from the following: Lieut.-Cols. T. E. Elmitt, D.S.O., and H. D. McLean, Major K. E. Cooke, Lieut. Norman Nicholson and Sergeants W. P. Doolan and J. T. Hawkey.

A MEETING TO-DAY.

Ministry Considers Matter of Loan to Russia.

LONDON, September 22 (Canadian Press). — The first meeting of the British Cabinet since Parliament adjourned on 7th August, is being held to-day, with Prime Minister MacDonald presiding.

The Premier returned from Scotland on Saturday, and is suffering from a cold and sore throat.

The Cabinet will make preparations for the re-assembly of the House of Commons on 30th September, when measures for setting up the Irish Boundary Commission will be introduced.

The Ministry will also consider the strong opposition of the Liberals to the proposed loan to Soviet Russia.

EXPLORER THROUGH.

Disappointed at Attitude of Britain Towards Wrangel Island.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.— (Special.)—The Canadian explorer, Vihjalmur Stefansson, who organized the expedition which was headed by Allan Crawford of Toronto, and which claimed Wrangel Island for Great Britain in 1921, will make no move to try to have the territory saved for the British Empire. So he informed your correspondent, who interviewed him after the seizure of the island by the armed Soviet transport, "Red October."

"I'm through," he said. "The British discovered the island in 1848 and it belongs to them. I organized the expedition in 1921, which reaffirmed the British claim, and I established the colony on the island for the same purpose by right of discovery and occupation it is theirs. But both the Canadian and British Governments have refused to recognize that Wrangel is theirs and I will do no more. I have devoted years and all my money to the purpose of maintaining British possession, and they do not want it. Now I am through. My interest in the whole question is academic. I am not thinking of the present. Fifty or a hundred years from now every piece of land in the Arctic will be valuable. The present is the time to establish title."

EVACUATION RUHR.

Berlin Cabinet Will Meet and Seek Admission in League.

(By Carl D. Groat—United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Sept. 22. — Germany will ask for admission to the League of Nations during the present session of the League Assembly at Geneva, it was stated authoritatively to-day.

The Cabinet meets to-morrow, but it is likely two sessions will be necessary before it finally approves the text of the application, which will then be sent to the League's secretary.

The earlier evacuation of the Ruhr and an assurance of a seat in the League Council are understood to be the two things which battered down the German opposition to entrance. Dr. Fritdjof Nansen, the League investigator, is understood to have promised both if Germany would enter the League.

According to the promises, the Ruhr will be exacuated in January, 1925.

Meanwhile the Bavarian Premier has taken a stand against the nation's entrance into the League. He has also warned Bavarians against the possibility of a new putsch and said:

"If we want a dictator we will call our Bavarian King."

HELD EUCHRE PARTY.

Presence of Ladies added Additional Interest to Gathering.

At the euchre party on Friday evening of the Triple Link Club, the presence of the ladies added additional interest to the gathering. The several valuable prizes up for competition were keenly contested for, with Mrs. Martin, winner of the ladies' first prize, and Mrs. G. Harris 2nd place.

The winners of the gentlemen's prizes were Mr. R. J. Craig, 1st, and George Worboy, 2nd.

On Saturday night the club's stag euchre had for winners, Mr. R. J. Martin, 1st, and Mr. Geoge Benton, 2nd pize. The attendance on both nights was good.

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

VIALO DANA WAS STAR AT FIFTEEN

Now Playing Heroine in Metro's All Star Cast of "Revelation"

Viola Dana, appearing in Metro's all-star production of "Revelation," opening at the Capitol to-day Theatre, is one of those stars who came to fame in childhood. When only fifteen years old she was a stage star on Broadway.

Born in Brooklyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Flugarth, Miss Dana started to play childrens' parts as soon as she could walk. When eleven years old she visited the Edison studio where John H. Collins, the casting director, gave her a part in "A Christmas Carol." She appeared in a number of other child parts for Edison, and then went back to the stage.

After playing in "Rip Van Winkle" and "The Littlest Rebel," she was cast as the little French girl in "The Model." Eleanor Gates and Arthur Hopkins, just at the time were seeking an actress to play the title role of "The Poor Little Rich Girl," a play by Miss Gates. They decided that Miss Dana was just the girl they wanted and engaged her for the part. The result was that Miss Dna starred in the Broadway presentation of the play for the next eight months.

After going on the road with the show, Miss Dana returned to the Eidson company where she was starred in "Molly, the Drummer," "The Stoning" and other productions, after which she was placed under contract by Metro with whim she has been ever since.

Among the pictures in which she has appeared for Metro are "Blue eJans," "The $5 Baby," "Love in the Dark," "A Chorus Girl's Romance," "The Heart Bandit,' "In Search of a Thrill," "Rouged Lips," "The Social Code' 'and "Don't Doubt Your Husband."

"Revelation' is a Metro picture based on Mabel Wagnalls's "The Rosebush of a Thousand Years," and adapted and directed by George D. Baker.

AT THE GRAND.

"THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG."

Commencing next Thursday matinee and night at the Grand, the sensational story of John Lee, known the world over as "The Man They Could Not Hang," will be presented twice daily for three days. It would be difficult to imagine anything either fiction or fact that provides so much material for dramatic situations as the account of this most marvellous case in the annals of criminal history. Emma Keyes, a Maid of Honor to the late Queen Victoria, was murdered and the circumstantial evidence pointed to Lee. Despite his protests of innocence, he was convicted and sentenced to death. On the eve of his appointed execution Lee dreamt the gallows would not work, and surely enough his dream came true. The story is not shown purely as a picture, a prologue is acted immediately prior to the presentation of the picture, and during the screening the story is graphically told by W. Leonard Howe, the well-known English actor, while vocal items incidental to the picture will be sung. Special orchestral music is quite a feature of the presentation.

COMING TO PETERBOROUGH. GREAT DE MILLE SPECTACLE COMING TO PETERBOROUGH.

Final booking arrangements have been completed for the presentation at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday, 30th September and 1st October, and twice daily on Wednesday, the first time in Peterborough of Cecil B. De Mille's mighty ramatic spectacle, "The Ten Commandments." The picture is a Paramount production, and is presented by Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky. Last season it was shown only in New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia, Los Angeles, and in London. This season it is being presented in regular theatres only by touring units each of which carries its own orchestra, projectionists, mechanics, and all electrical equipment, thus ensuring perfect presentation in every detail. The orchestral score for thirty pieces was arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld.

"The Ten Commandments" is a pictorial narrative of the Exodus of the Israelites from Egypt; the miracles that were performed for their safe-guarding, and the bestowal of the tablets of stone upon Moses, together with a melodramatic modern story of the danger of transgressing against the ancient fundamental laws.

Twenty-five hundred people were employed in making the picture and the construction of the buildings required was the labour of many months. The result is the most impressive motion picture so far made.

Seat sale opens on 26th September. Mail orders with remittance now.

AT THE ROYAL.

MOROSCO ANSWERS PICTURE KNOCKERS WITH "SLIPPY McGEE."

Successful Producer Says the Worst Criticisms Come from People Who Never Attend Motion Picture Theatres.

Who's doing the most talking now regarding motion pictures — those who see hem or those who don't?

Oliver Morosco, who has observed popular waves before in his score and more of years as one of the country's foremost producers, believes it is the "don'ters."

Morosco's suggestion in the present situation is to bring those who are talking the loudest into the theatres. He believes actual contact will do much to silence the persons whose popular sport is to stay at home and "pan the movies."

"If it were possible," says the veteran producer who, besides operating his large theatrical interests also is picturising his stage successes, "I would like to have every person opposed to pictures see our latest production, 'Slippy McGee.' I believe it would change their viewpoint. They would find out that pictures are good!

"Here we have taken a popular Book and shown the story in action on the screen. Now I know that there are thousands who have read the book who oppose pictures. Yet there is nothing on the screen that is not between the covers of the book. Where is the consistency?

"This wail against pictures is ludierous. All pictures have not been good and all have not been bad. But the silent art is still so young that the public has not learned to discriminate. A picture is regarded as a picture—all with the same appeal. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"On the stage we have the various forms of amusement from burlesque to drama. The theatre-going public makes its distinctions. The day is coming when theatre patrons will do the same thing. It is manifestly unfair to classify all screen productions under the same heading.

"Pictures have been made the victim of their own popularity. Envy was created. Their appeal was too wide.

"My prediction is this. In the cycle of things to talk about pictures will have their run as a target. Then the pendulum will swing back the other way and attendace will be greater than ever.

"Of course there will be better pictures, just the same as there will be better automobiles, better watches, better railroad engines, better clothing, and better government. It is a part of progress.

"Take the best drama of the period when motion pictures were only that and nothing more. Compare that drama with the best stage efforts of to-day. Naturally there has been advancement. But compare the first motion pictures with the latest productions. What a difference!

"No one contends that motion pictures have arrived at the pinnacle. But they have come a long, long way with a speed never before equalled in the world's entertainment mediums."

"Slippy McGee," the First National attraction to which Mr. Morosco refers, will be the feature at the Royal Theatre for three days, commencing to-day.

NEW LEATHER PUSHERS AT THE ROYAL.

The first of a new series of the famous "Leather Pusher" stories makes its bow to Peterborough audiences to-night. The new series stars Billy Sullivan of "Fast Steppers" fame. The first one, "The Kid from Madrid," commences to-day.

Minister In Gaol on Charge Of Double Murder.

MOUNT VERNON, Ills., Sept. 22.—(United Press).—The Rev. Lawrence Hight, middle-aged pastor of Ina, a village ten miles south of here, confessed to-day to the poisoning of his wife and Wilford Sweetin. The authorities announced after an all-night grilling, Hight admitted placing arsenic in his wife's coffee. Later he admitted poisoning the water which he gave to Sweetin while he was ill.

Rev. Hight, circuit rider pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church for Ina and five surrounding towns, said he wanted to put his wife "out of her sufferings," and that he poisoned Sweetin for the same reason.

The minister continued to deny that there was anything between himself and his victim's pretty widow. He attributed the murders to temporary insanity.

In January alone, this country exported nearly 200,000 pounds of radio apparatus, worth $331,849.

C.G.E. Defeat Delora - Sacred Heart Out Of Race - Giants Lead Only Half A Game

C. G. E. WIN THIRD OF THE SERIES AGAINST MINERS

"Bun" Frost and Lealle, Opposing Pitchers, Were Well Supported.

DIAMOND ROUGH

C.-G. E. Bunched Hits in the Seventh and Eighth — Score 5 to 2.

Five runs to two was the score by which C.G.E. beat Deloro at Colborne in the deciding game of their third round Intermediate O.B.A.A. series. The game was fast and loose. From the time Umpire Colling called "batter up" till Abbie Rose grabbed Art Quinn's fly for the third out in the ninth was just one hour and forty-five minutes.

The Colborne infield is about as smooth as a log road and the grounders took many erratic hops. Several cheap hits were registered because of these same bumps.

The day was somewhat cool and the pitchers were content to throw them over and let their support do the work. Leal and Frost were the rival moundsmen and each struck out two men. Both hurlers were strong in the pinches and were given good support.

The ground conditions were against good fielding but both teams turned in some good work. All the infielders played first-class ball with MacPherson as the star.

The hits were very evenly distributed. Schultz, Boyce, Rose and Barrie collected two apiece. Frost and Regan had the only extra-base knocks.

Frost kept the Deloro blows well scattered allowing two hits in the seventh and the others in separate innings. The Electricians bunched six of their hits in the seventh and eighth.

Art Quinn had the misfortune to be badly spiked in the eighth when Rose stole second but pluckily stayed in the game after receiving first aid.

His brother behind the bat was not nearly so successful in throwing out base stealers as in other games most of his throws being high. The first man to go down on Ross was out by yards and no other attempt was made.

Manager Primeau beat his rival from Deloro in calling the toss and elected to take the field.

Colling and Nurse of Belleville were the officials and no complaints were made on their decisions.

The Canadian Generals will likely entertain Kingston Hussars or Wolfe Island here next Saturday in the Eastern finals.

Review of Play.

Schultz opened the game with a clean single to right. Art Quinn tried to sacrifice him along but bunted a pop fly to MacPherson. Johnston forced Schultz, Rose to Barrie, but took second when Barrie threw over Dugan's head. Boudreau raised a long fly that Turner dropped, scoring Johnston. J. Quinn lifted to Wolfe.

The Electricians soon got it back. Wolfe was safe on Johnston's error and stole second. Quinn made a nice catch of McCarney's Texas Leaguer. Ross hit a hot one which Leal deflected enough for Quinn to throw the batter out, Wolfe going to third, scoring on a wild pitch. Rose flied out to Brown.

The Smelters went out on flies in the second frame. Regan lifted to Barrie, who next fumbled Brown's roller. Boyce flied to Turner and Leal's high one was taken by Ross.

The locals were just as easy. Dugan was thrown out by Johnston. Frost and Turner hit foul flies to Leal and Regan.

Deloro threatened in the third. Schultz smashed one through the box for a base. He moved up on Quinn's grounder to MacPherson and Johnston's long fly to Turner. Boudreau rolled to Rose.

C.G.E. also made a bid for the lead. After Barrie had rolled to Quinn and McPherson had fouled to Leal, Wolfe was safe on Regan's He stole second and took third on McCarney's single. McCarney stole second but Leal grabbed Bob Ross' hard drive and tossed him out.

Deloro came close in the fourth. J. Quinn was safe when Dugan missed his roller. Regan hit to deep left for a double. With runners on second and third Frost tightened up and retired Brown and Boyce on strikes. Leal hit to MacPherson who threw to the plate to catch Quinn.

Rose and Frost lifted to Boudreau and Brown. Dugan was safe on A. Quinn's error but went out stealing.

Schultz drew the first walk of the game in the fifth but was forced out by Quinn, Barrie to Rose. A. Quinn died stealing and MacPherson made a wonderful stop and throw to get Johnston at first.

Turner rolled to Johnston. Barrie got an easy hit when his bounder took a sudden slide and hit Quinn on the foot. He took second after J. Quinn grabbed MacPherson's foul and was stranded when Wolfe flied out to Boyce.

In the sixth Quinn singled to left Regan lifted to McCarney and Brown forced Quinn, MacPherson to Barrie.

In the Electricians half McCarney grounded to Johnston, Brown took Ross' fly after a hard run. Rose beat out a tap down the first base line and stole second. Dugan rolled to Leal.

Scored In Seventh.

Deloro broke the deadlock in the seventh. Boyce got a hit when his roller to short hit a bump and bounded into Rose's face. Leal hit to Frost forcing Boyce but Rose threw past Dugan giving Leal another base. Schultz fouled to Ross. Quinn got a hit past Dugan scoring Leal. Johnston grounded to MacPherson.

Beginning of End.

The Generals quickly got it back. Frost slammed a double to left and took third on Ranger's infield out. Barrie dropped a single in left, scoring Frost, and stole second third on a passed ball while MacPherson was striking out. Wolfe beat out hit to Regan on which Barrie scored. Wolfe stole second but McCarney could not beat out a bunt.

Boudreau started the eighth with a hard drive to left centre but a good throw by Wolfe caught him at second. J. Quinn walked. Regan lifted to Ranger. Brown forced Quinn, MacPherson to Barrie.

The C.G.E got another pair in their half. Ross beat out a tap to Leal but was nipped off first. Rose shot a single to right and stole second. Dugan singled to left to score Rose and stole second. He moved up a base when Boyce dropped Frost's fly. Both runners were safe when Quinn threw high to second on a double steal. Ranger struck out and Barrie rolled to Quinn.

The ninth was soon over. Boyce led off with a hit and moved up on Leal's tap in front of the plate. Schultz grounded to Barrie and A. Quinn popped to Rose.

WORLD'S SERIES OPENS OCT. 4TH

Unless Tie in Either League Requires Play-Off—Detroit Out.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The world's series will open in the American league city winning the pennant on Saturday, October4, unless a tie in either league necessitates a play-off. This was definitely decided Sunday at a meeting of the club owners of the five leading teams with Commissioner Kenesaw Mountain Landis.

The first, second and sixth games will be played in the American league city and the third, fourth and fifth in the National league city. Games will be played on consecutive days, the teams travelling at night. If a seventh game is necessary the owners of the two contending teams will meet and toss a coin to determine in which city the deciding contest will be held. All world's series games will start at 2 o'clock eastern standard time.

If either league race ends in a tie, the president of the league in which the tie exists will call the owners of the tied teams together to arrange for a series of three games to determine a winner. In event this is necessary, the dates for the world's series will have to be changed.

New York and Washington in the American League and Brooklyn, New York and Pittsburgh in the National League were represented at the meeting. Detroit was not represented owing to the fact that the Tigers are virtually out of the running.

McCORMICK JUNIORS WON.

WILLOWVALE PARK, September 22. — McCormick Juniors defeated Guelph for the second time on Saturday afternoon in the semi-finals of th O.B.A.A. series, the score being 8 to 0 in the sixth inning, when the game was called.

McCormicks qualify to meet the winner of the Peterborough-Kingston series.

HAGEN DEFEATS BARNES.

FRENCH LICK, Indiana, September 22 (Canadian Pres).— Walter Hagen of New York added another title to his list when he defeated Jim Barnes of New York on Saturday, by two up in the 36-hole finals for the national professional golf championship over the championship course at French Lick.

FOURTH ROUND NEXT!

OSLERS DEFEAT BELLEVILLE IN ONE BIG INNING

Jack Oulette Started With Lame Shoulder and Game Broke Against Him.

SCORE WAS 7 TO 3

Oslers Crowded Seven Hits Into First Inning for Six Runs.

A bad first inning in which Oslers bunched a flock of hits and sent six runs over the plate beat Belleville Saturday in the second game of the O.B.A.A. semi-final senior series, the Toronto representatives winning on their band box Hampden Park by 7 runs to 3. Jack Oulette went into the game with a lame shoulder and lacked his usual stuff, especially in the first frame. Williams failed to field the first ball hit and Hughers followed with a single. Egan hit an infield roller and Fleming was called safe at the plate, a very close decision. Three doubles in succession into the crowd in short left field followed and before the side was retired six counters were in.

Oslers got but one more during the game, a home run by Pitcher Joe Spring. Belleville took Oulette out after the fifth to save him for the third game and Keon finished, blanking Oslers in the sixth and seventh. The game was called at the end of Belleville' half of the eighth.

It was a disappointing fixture for the 5500 fans. Osler's big first inning took a lot of the excitement out of the struggle and the rain which started to fall at the end of the first frame and kept falling all the way through did the rest. Belleville looked to be stalling in the hope that the necessary four and a half innings could not be played. At all events they failed to show any hustle and the result was a draggy game played under miserable conditions.

Spring No Mystery.

If Oulette's arm returns to form Belleville has a good chance of winning the play off. Joe Spring turned in a nice game on the rubber for Oslers Saturday but he was no particular mystery to Belleville who collected eight hits and three runs, and might have scored more if the early Osler lead had not forced them to try for a flock of counters instead of picking up a run at a time. Spring pitched the whole game, Oslers evidently not wishing to take any chances after Belleville had yanked their ace. It was a mystery to many fans why the veteran Osler heaver was not relieved after a safe lead had been set up, seeing that he has to come back on Wednesday.

First Inning.

Belleville—Ross doubled to left; Weir bunted safe, Ross taking third and being injured sliding into the bag, Casey running for him. A fielder's choice forced Ross out, Fleming to Benson. Weir stole third. H. Mills popped to Breen. No runs, Two hits. No errors.

Oslers—Fleming got an infield hit. Hughes singled to left, Fleming takin third. On the throw-in Hughes went to second. Fleming scored on a fielder's choice, the hit going to Meagher at second who attempted to throw Fleming out at the plate. Egan stole second. Burt doubled to left, scoring Hughes and Egan. Breen double to left, Burt counting. Jones fanned. Benson walked. Spring singled over third, filling the bases. Fleming at bat for the second time fanned. Hughes singled to left, Dodds scoring and Benson was caught off third. Six runs. Seven hits. No errors.

Second Inning.

Belleville—Williams fanned. Meagher also. Casey flied to Burt, a nice catch. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Oslers—Egan hit over second and was thrown out, Weir to Meagher, trying to stretch. Burt safe on Williams error. Breen flied to Casey. Burt out stealing, W. Mills to Weir. No runs. One hits. One error.

Third Inning.

Belleville—Oulette fanned. Ross also. Weir was Spring's sixth whiff. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Oslers—Dodds fanned. Jones, batting from the right side, popped to Weir. Benson flied to Weir. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Fourth Innings.

Belleville—W. Mills double to right. H. Mills popped to Breen. The heavy rain now falling is chasing the crowd to cover. Hagerman scratched an infield single, W. Mills moving up. Williams doubled to centre, W. Mills scoring. Hagerman scored on Meagher's grounder, Wiliams going to third on Egans' high throw to Benson. Casey fanned. Oulette out, Fleming to Hughes. Two runs. Three hits. One error.

Oslers—Spring hit a homer over the left field fence. Fleming flied to Hagerman. Hughes got his third over second. Egan hoisted to Ross, who doubled Hughes at first. One run. Two hits. No errors.

Fifth Inning.

Belleville—Ross safe on Fleming's error. Weir doubled to left, Ross scoring. W. Mills popped to Spring. H. Mills fanned. Hagerman rolled out, Spring to Hughes. One run. One hit. One error.

Oslers—Burt walked and stole. Breen out, Meagher to H. Mills. Dodds sacrificed, Meagher to H. Mills. Jones hoisted to Ross. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Sixth Inning.

Belleville—Breen threw out Williams. Meagher safe on Breen's bad throw. Casey singled to left. Oulette forced Casey at second. Ross out, Fleming to Hughes. No runs. One hit. One error.

Oslers—Keon, another right hander, now pitching for Belleville. Benson fanned. Spring was tossed out by Weir. Fleming walked. Hughes safe on Weir's low throw, Fleming taking third. Hughes stole and Fleming was run down between third and home, Weir making the put-out. No runs. No hits. One error.

Seventh Inning.

Belleville—Weir lined to Dodds. W. Mills hoisted to Dodds. H. Mills walked, Springs first fast. Hagerman forced H. Mills at second. No runs. No hits. No errors.

Oslers—Egan singled to right. Burt hit into a fast double play, Weir to Meagher to H. Mills. Breen out, second to first. No runs. One hit. No errors.

Eighth Inning.

Belleville — Williams fined to Jones. Meagher singled to left. Casey forced Meagher at second. Keon out, Egan to Hughes. No runs. One hit. No errors. The game was called on account of rain.

DODGERS CLOSE TO THE GIANTS

Only Half a Game From Leaders After Beating Pirates Sunday.

CUBS HIT GIANTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Brooklyn regained second place and advanced to within half a game of the Giants to-day by defeating Pittsburgh in a ten inning battle by 2 to 1. It was the farewell game of the Pirates here and the struggle took on the aspect of a world-series contest. Burleigh Grimes went the route. Kremer kept pace with Grimes until the sixth, giving way to a pinch hitter in the eighth and Pittsburgh shifted pitchers three times in a little over one inning.

WARSAW DEFEATED SOUTH END UNITED

Dummer Boys Won Junior Game Handily By Score of 3 to 0.

The two new Junior teams, Warsaw and the South-End United, met in the first round for the possession of the Turner trophy on King Edward Park on Saturday evening. Warsaw ran out easy winners by 3 goals to none.

The United won the toss and Watkins made a run and centred well. Harrison relieved and sent to W. Little, whose final effort went over the bar. From the goal kick, Selkirk, who was the best man on the field, made a break-away and scored a splendid goal. From the centre kick J. Coleman and S. Parkins, by some nice play, got within shooting range, Hamblyn heading out of danger. Garbutt passed to P. Little, who again beat Hutchingson. Half-time arrived with the score standing in favor of Warsaw by 2 goals to none.

Upon resuming, Warsaw became very aggressive. Taylor at back for the United and B. Walker were playing a great game. Walker gave a nice pass to Watkins, whose centre went begging. Hamblyn sent out to S. Payne, who in turn gave to W. Little, who sent in a daisy cutter which Hutchingson had no chance to save. The Warsaw men were now in control of the game, and their forwards were playing a nice game. Walker and A. Downer tried to get through, but Hamblyn again averted disaster. Garbutt made another raid; Walker just robbed him in time. The United forwards were now at sea and could make no impression on the Warsaw defence. Time was called with the score standing in favor of Warsaw by 3 goals to none.

At the conclusion of the game the visiting teams were entertained to supper by the Junior Association.

The teams:
Warsaw—C. Hamilton; G. Hamblyn and H. Harrison; C. Payne, R. Hamilton and H. Selkirk; W. Little, H. Thyne, Garbutt, S. Payne and P. Little.

South-End United—Hutchingson; Taylor and Cross; B. Walker, Griffin and S. Parkins; Watkins, K. Mitchell, G. Coleman, J. Coleman and A. Downer.

Referee—S. Calladine.

THREE IN ROW FROM YANKEES

Detroit Took Two During Week-End From the Champions.

SENATORS WIN

DETROIT, Sept. 21. — A wild pitch by Beall, who had relieved Hoyt in the sixth inning, gave Detroit the run that resulted in a 4 to 3 victory for the Tigers to-day and gave them three straight wins over New York. Wild throws paved the way for all three Tiger victories, Dugan's wild throw to first in the ninth inning of the first game resulting in the winning run being scored, while Shawkey's wild pitch Saturday let in the deciding counter.

Hoyt, Beall and Hoffman, Bengough and Autrey; Whitchill, Dauss and Bassler.

LEAD BY TWO GAMES.

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 21.—Washington made it two out of three by defeating the Browns in to-day's game here 6 to 4. Owing to a heavy downpour the start of the game was delayed one hour and a half and was called on account of darkness at the end of the seventh inning. By taking to-day's game the Senators gained a lead of two full games on the second place Yankees, who lost to Detroit.

C. P. C. JUNIORS HELD TO DRAW

First Round Mayor Turner Cup Game With North Dummer.

GOALS IN 1ST HALF

The C.P.C. Juniors and North Dummer met in the first round of the Turner Charity Cup competition on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon and after an excellent exhibition of football, the game ended in a draw of one goal each.

The Township men won the toss, and had the advantage of the wind, and in the first moment Darling tested Bradley with a shot which Bruce fisted out of danger. Halliday, who played his best game, sent out A. Mitchell and gave Bryan a handfull which he threw over the touch line. Mitchell took the kick and placed nicely, Bryan bringing off a great save; the Township left being well placed in possession and Hiliard Darling had hard luck. His shot hit the post. He met the rebound, and Bradley made a great save. Montgomery sent well down the field; Strudley trapped the ball, and sent to Foster who was well placed, and after a tricky movement sent in a shot which Bryan from the centre kick; the Township men went at it in earnest and experienced hard luck, Munro just grazing the cross bar from the goal kick. Montgomery sent well up the field. H. Jory headed to H. Darling, who in turn gave to Harold Darling, whose shot Bradley had no chance to stop. The game was now very fast. The township men were having the best of the exchanges. Half time arrived with the game standing 1-1.

Second Half.

With the wind behind them it was expected that the Packers would force matters. James and Mitchell were soon testing Bryan, A. Jory coming to the rescue. F. Bell sent out Payne, who raced away and beating all opposition sent in a ground shot which Bradley fielded finely.

The Township defence were in great form and the Packers were trying their level best to score, but Bryan and his backs were safe. H. Jory was prominent, placing the ball nicely to H. Munro. Bradley saved a certain goal by throwing full length at the ball and turning it around the post. The game was very exciting, both goals having narrow escapes, the defense on both sides held out. There was no further scoring, nad one of the best and most pleasant games ended in a draw of 1 goal each.

The teams:
C.P.C. — Bruce Bradley; J. Downer, T. Montgomery, J. Buchan, A. Halliday, J. Chambers, T. Foster, J. Robertson, M. Strudley, W. James, J. Mitchell.

North Dummer — Bryan, A. Jory, W. Carveth, G. Little, H. Jory, F. Bell, R. Payne, A. Tighe, H. Munro, Harold Darling, H. Darling.

HUMEWOOD WON IN FIVE INNINGS

Sacred Heart Team Took Long Chances on Bases and Errors Were Costly.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 3

Rain ended the Midget semi-final play-off at Bowmanville on Saturday with the score 5 to 3 in favour of Toronto Humewoods against the Sacred Heart team of Peterborough.

Jupiter Pluvius must be the Humewood outfit's godfather, for he sure proved of service to them because his timely entrance into the game was the luckiest stroke in their favour. All day long it had looked like rain, and a gentle fall began in the middle of the second innings. It continued and growing stronger all the while until at the end of the fifth Umpires Rodden and Chalk took the foolish judgment of calling the game for ten minutes to see if it would clear. It didn't, and a discussion followed, with the result that the game was called final. It could certainly have been played into more innings, as it was not a heavy pour.

It was the worst possible luck for the Peterborough youngsters, who were slamming young Duff, the Humewood twirler, for fair, and it looked at any moment as though they would break out and put the game on ice, but the rain intervened, and their chance never came.

Even as it was, with decent baserunning the Sacred Heart should have at least had the score tied, but the wild chances the youngsters took on the bases in the fifth innings were their undoing.

The diamond proved to be a rough field where once in years past baseball had been played. On the rough ground a ball was hard to judge, and hence both teams' fielding suffered. The Petes had four errors which all proved costly and the Toronto team had three, two being overthrows.

Neither of the pitchers were the mystery to the batters that they had been on the two former occasions, and the ball was being clouted frequently. However, both pitchers were always on top and came through in the pinches, allowing but four hits each. Duff struck eight and "Casey" Masterson whiffed seven.

Duff certainly received the best of support, "Casey's" men letting him down badly frequently with serious results.

Masterson came through with two of his team's four hits and handled himself like a coming star throughout. Austin out in left field handled two fly balls nicely.

Summary of Scoring.

The Sacred Heard threatened to score in the first innings when Kennealy got on when hit by Duff. Kennealy stole second and Masterson singled. With two down Walton, after fouling a couple of balls, was out on strikes.

Toronto got three runs on two bad errors and two doubles which came after the errors. The Sacred Heart got two runs in the second, in which an error figured and threatened to get more, a man dying on third and second. No runs again crossed the plate until the fourth, when each team got one. Starr first up was hit by pitcher. Stealing second he scored on Austin's neat single. For Toronto, Duff was safe on an error, stole second, and came in when Rishea bungled Reynolds' clout. In the fifth Rishea walked, stole second and reached third on McWiliams' overthrow to second. He was out trying to steal home on a short pass ball. Masterson next up singled smartly, stole second and was out attempting to steal third. Walton retired on strikes. For Toronto, Scott walked and stole second. Reid was thrown out by Masterson and Laker fanned. McWilliams singled, sending in Scott. McWilliams was out at second on Kennealy's peg to second.

It was a hard break and a hard game to lose under trying circumstances, but the Sacred Heart team proved themselves sports, and took it like gentlemen. They warned the Humewoods that they (the Sacred Heart) would meet them again if the Humewoods were in the play-offs next year.

G.W.V.A-THISTLE ONE-GOAL DRAW IN GORDON CUP

Vets Were Superior in First Half, While Scots in Next

GOOD CROWD PRESENT.

With Ten Minutes To Go McPhail and Hanson Scored

The Gordon Cup semi-final between the G.W.V.A. and Thistle ended in a drawn game of one goal each at King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon before a good attendance of spectators. Both sides tried hard for victory adn the best possible players available were on view. Hotston replaced Young who cannot play in thisc up tie while the Soldier boys made four changes, the ninety minutes was void of anything in football as the ball was mostly up in the air.

The Game

The kick-off was timed for 3 o'clock and half an hour after that point the Vets' centre, Maher, set the ball a-rolling, the Thistle being the first to make ground, to let Hotston shoot behind. Afterwards, for a time the Vets were the more dangerous bunch, but they found the Scots defence much too good for them. Although they did succeed occasionally to penetrate the full-backs without any issue. A little later, Hotston came into the limelight with a strong drive from the touch line that missed by inches. Then Richmond made progress again into Vets area but his parting shot left the field of

Vets Superior on Midfield

Dyer at centre half for the Vets, was the most conspicuous man in the twenty-two. Getting the ball in mid-field, he sent Monks away on the right wing to get a convex. The flag kick was perfect. Curtis throwing himself up in thes air to first, the ball out to Monk's foot who timely shot past. At the other end, a foul against Crowe looked dangerous as Jackson rattled the sphere past the corner of the upright. From the goal kick, Jackson trapped quickly, swung the ball out to McPhail. The inside man drew up the defense to leave him an opportunity to shoot for goal which Griffine handled quietly. During this attack, Crowe of the Vets, was attended by his club mates when his left knee gave away, three times from under him. The ball was taken six yards out from the goal. Wasson cleared to Maher, who was robbed easily by Jackson. Dyer tackled him, to send Monk into the corner and wasting no time had Curtis picking up the cross in a flask. The goalie kicked out to Carmichael who traonsferred the play to Vets territory amidst great excitement. Burgess accepted the pass on the touch line, evaded the right half quickly and sending across with his right foot. Dyer and Richmond battled it between themselves until the Scot gained the verdict as his left foot shot made the Vets goalie grasp a rolling ground effort. During the major portion of this half the Vets had had the best of the game and they were value for a slight lead whicvh Dame Fortune denied them, halft-ime arrived with no goals registered.

Half-Time.

The second half hadn't gone long ere the spectators got thrills to warm their blood. First it was the Vets inside right who refused a chance for a possible goal; then it was Hotston who sent a rocket swinging shot against Griffin. Then Richmond, with Dyer at his heels, was spoiled in the act of shooting. Ultimately a foul kick against Ross was diverted to Vets goal where Hotston and Richmond had a try at the desired spot but Burgess' shot was the one that Griffin found had the sting. This half opened up in the Thistles' favour while the Vets seemed to dwindle away to nought, except Wasson and Dyer.

Hotston Good on the Right.

There was no harder worker that the nippy Hotston when he was on the ball, and no doubt Griffin found him a dangerous shot. Determined play by the Thistles' forwards collapsed before the great defence of Dyer & Company, and McPhail and Richmond on two different occasions had, respectively good tries for the counters but failed to get the "bull," while the Vets on the other hand had very hard lines in front of goal. Later good play was shown on both sides, with the attacks never as good as the defences. The only two forwards that found their bearings were Hotston and Burgess and the latter tricking three players lifted the ball into goal.

McPhail and Hotston Scored.

With only seven minutes to go, Richmond and Crowe both mis-kicked, Mann stopped the ball smartly, but McPhail made no mistake as he picked the open space left vacant for the opening goal. After this sudden reverse the Vets awakened up more so than ever.

Monks travelled down into the corner four minutes later, sent an accurate centre across, Maher headed the ball out to Hanson, who was lying unmarked, had no difficulty in equalising with the same kind of shot that McPhail delivered. Now the last few minutes arrived like a second as the Jags were in the Vets vicinity as the final blow of the whistle announced a game of soccer minus of any combination—only up in the air—one goal a-piece.

Goal scorers—McPhail, Thistle, and Hanson, Vets.

The teams:

G.W.V.A.—Griffin, goal; Crowe and Wason, backs; Maher, Dyer and Mann, half-backs; Monks, Bryce, D. N. Maher, Gash and Hanson, forwards.

Thistle—Curtis, goal; Rae and Anphai, Richmond, Williams and Burderson, backs; Ross, Jackson and Carmichael, half-backs; Hotston, Mcgess, forwards.

TOMMY THE TORCH

Most Daring of America's Polo Stars Once Swam The Rhine to Escape the Germans.

TOMMY HITCHCOCK

'He'll try anything once," That's what they say of Tommy Hitchcock, youngest and most daring of America's polo stars. Tommy Started playing polo at the age of 10. Six years later he was a champion. At 17 he was an aviator in the World War. He fell behind the German lines, was made a prisoner and escaped by swimming the Rhine. At 18 he was a major. Now at 5 he is the most colorful figure in the polo world. "Tommy the Torch" they call him, a flaming figure in every skirmish.

WINBOURNE SCORED AS POLO DICTATOR

Loss of Match Makes Leader of Team Most Unpopular Sportsman In England.

LONDON, Sept. 20.—Lord Wimbourne, now on his way to Paris, where his wife is residing, has been made the most unpopular sportsman in England by the newspapers, following the crushing defeat of the British polo team by America.

The special writers sent to Meadowbrook denounce him in their dispatches for failing to pick a truly national team and for sending such a weak crew to try to lift the cup. Their reflections are echoed to-day by Lord Wodehouse, himself an international player, who said:

"We have to thank Lord Wimborne for the two crushing defeats sustained in America. He has been dictator in English polo for the last year and a half, and never having been even a first class player, was not able to pick the right type of players for an international contest."

Poloists here deny that Lord Wimborne heavily financed the team, and the figure of $75,000 mentioned as having been advanced by him is reduced by his own friends to $20,000.

STARS ON BOYS' TEAM

Seventeen-Year-Old Michigan Girl Plays Bang-Up Shortstop on Strong Semi-Pro Outfit.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Sept. 20.—Michigan nominates 17-year-old Mildred Gordon, a farm girl from Nunica, Mich., as the country's best girl baseball player.

She started playing ball with her big brothers on the Nunica Independent team. At 15 she was starring on the high school baseball team, showing the boy stars how shortstop should be handled.

Her fame soon spread and a progressive manager from a rival town Conklin, induced her to play on his semi-pro. aggregation.

This she has been doing all summer and the Conklin team has won a long string of victories with the girl shortstop more than holding her own on a team made up otherwise exclusively of male talent.

Mildred is no Babe Ruth but she hits solidly and frequently, usually just over the infield. She is small and hard to pitch to. Opposition pitchers pass her often. On the bases she is a flash and has stolen many bases on good catchers.

But it is in the field where she really shines. In the last three games played she accepted 15 fielding chances without an error.

Mildred plays for the fun of it and receives nothing for her services on the semi-pro. team. She plans to go to college and will try to make the baseball varsity.

"The girls' varsity, you mean?" an interviewer asked.

"The boys' varsity or none!" she replied.

TORONTO GIRLS WON SOFTBALL

Queen City's Diamond Queens Had Big End of 6-1 Score.

CROWD WAS BIG

Against the high-class battery work of Miss Grace Conacher on the rubber, and Miss Conny Hennessy behind the bat, the Peterborough girls soft ball team made a splendid showing in their game with the bobbed hair ball tossers from the Queen City, at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, the visitors winning the contest by the score of 6 to 1.

The Toronto softball pitching ace injected a "Dick Merriwell" stunt into the game when she made a belated appearance at the grounds and with the Toronto team trailing the Petes, went into the box, and in addition to preventing further scoring by the locals helped her team mates to win the game.

Miss Babe Vincent twirled a steady and effective game for the Petes, and fielded her position well. Miss Mortimer, her catcher, was unfortunate in losing several pitched balls, which helped the visitors to score, but she made numerous catches on foul flies and other plays to stop the Toronto attack. Miss C. Taylor played a strong game at first, accepting twelve chances without an error. It was interesting softball all the way through and a big crowd witnessed the game.

Toronto went out in a row in the first; a nice play by Miss Vincent to the catcher stopping a Toronto run.

Peterboro's Counter

Miss Taylor who opened for the locals, singled. Miss Mann walked and Miss McCarthy fanned. Miss Vincent dropped one behind first base, the visiting first sacker losing the ball. Miss Taylor scored on the play and Miss Mann was thrown out at third. Miss Adams fanned.

In the second, Toronto put two on but failed to score. The Petes were dangerous fallowing a single by Miss Langton. A long smash to left by Miss Logan was ruled foul and the side was retired on some nice fielding by the visitors.

Toronto evened it up in the third a passed ball allowing Miss Trinnell to score. With two on, Miss G. Conacher, jumped into the game, only to be retired on a fly to Miss White. Miss D. Conacher flew out to Miss Taylor.

Along Came Grace

With Miss Conacher pitching, Miss Taylor fanned, but got to first on the catcher's error. Miss Mann flew out to the catcher and the next two fanned.

Miss Honsberger's double, a stolen base and a passed ball put Toronto in the lead in the fourth. Miss Murray lined out to first, Miss Weston waited and Miss Grosse singled. To prevent further scores, Miss Vincent took Miss Underwood's pop fly and Miss Mortimer made a nice catch on Miss Tunnell's foul play.

The Petes went out in a row in their half.

A wild pitch following a pass to Miss G. Conacher gave Toronto a third run in the fifth. The locals got a runner to second when Miss Batley singled and stole.

In the sixth a fast double play by Miss Vincent to Miss Taylor stopped the visitors. The Petes went out in a row.

Toronto Got Two

A passed ball, a pass and an error helped the Toronto girls to score twice in the seventh. Miss Wesley's triple and Miss Hennessey's single tallied a sixth run in the ninth.

The Petes put two on with one out in the eighth but failed to register and they were retired in order in the ninth.

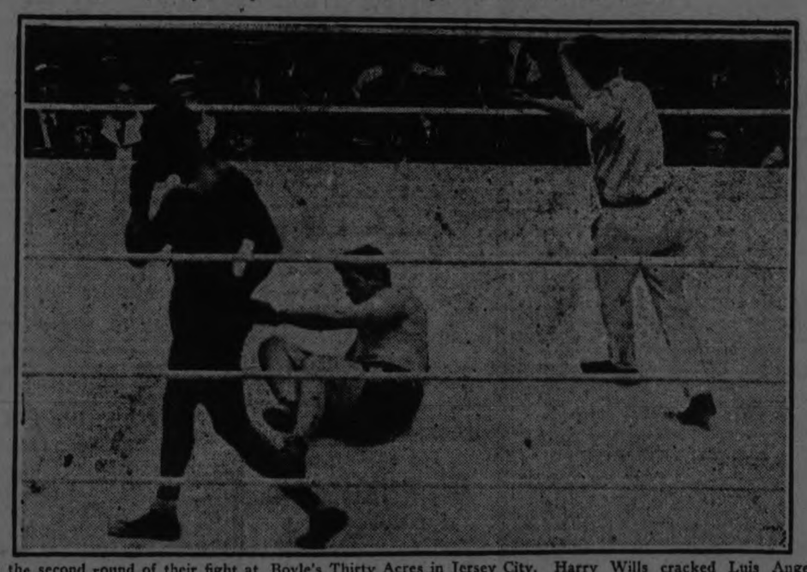
OTTAWA DEFAULTS ROUND TO LEAFS

Maple Leafs have won another round in the O.B.A.A. Juvenile race through the default of the Ottawa entry. The Leafs will either be paired with Toronto in the next round or be given a bye that will take them into the finals.

"ONE, TWO," SAID REFEREE, THEN FIRPO GOT UP.



In the second round of their fight at Boyle's Thirty Acres in Jersey City, Harry Wills cracked Luis Angel Firpo a hard right to the jaw, and the South American rested for a count of two on the canvas.

FAST WORK BY MISS R. GROSSE

Toronto Lady Sprinter Seen In Interesting Race With Johnny Ward.

Miss Rosa Grosse, of Toronto, showed a nice turn of speed in her exhibitions of sprinting at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon, when she did 100 yards with Johnny Ward, and finished six yards behind the local runner.

The Peterboro team also won the relay race with the Toronto girls, Ward giving his team-mates a lead that was maintained throughout the race. Following a mishap to Toronto runners, the crowd asked for another race, and in a second 100 yards dash with Ward and McBrien and three Toronto girls taking part, Ward won by two yards in front of Miss Grosse.

The afternoon's programme was given a large attendance, and was in every way a fine success.

SIX OF SOCCER GAMES DRAWN

Crowd of 40,000 Saw Arsenal Defeat Sheffield United by 2-0.

LONDON, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Forty thousand people saw Arsenal defeat Sheffield United by two goals to nothing on Saturday, a game in which the veteran Rutherford scored in the second successive match. The win reclaimed for Arsenal their position as runners-up to Huddersfield Town. The latter, on their own ground, were able only to split points with Blackburn Rowers, a feat on the part of the Lancasterans that is considered highly meritorious. No less noteworthy was the sound trimming of Newcastle United by Manchester City in the three goal to one contest which revealed still further the inconsistent football that the Tynesiders are playing this season. Of the two remaining Metropolitan teams, the 'Spurs had to accept a four to one defeat handed out by Sunderland, and West Bromwich took a draw from Aston Villa.

The first points of the season for Preston North-End were gathered in Saturday at the expense of Birmingham. Preston's single goal was registered by Robert, who, it is alleged, had refused during the week to be transferred to Arsenal.

Six of Saturday's games were drawn. Leeds United divided the issue with Burnley, the tally being made by Thom, who is credited with having pulled Leeds' forwards together since his introduction to the team. Notts County slipped down several rungs in the League ladder when they were unable to overcome their fellow-townsmen, the Foresters while Everton and Bolton Wanderers engaged in a rapid scoring, no result game. Two goals were scored by each team.

In the Second Division, Derby County forwards had a great time at Wolverhampton, whom they bombarded to the tune of four goals to nothing. In the game between Chelsea and Clapton Orient, Andy Wilson, who was transferred last year from Middlesboro, played inside left instead of centre, and got in the best shot of a goalless game. The battle between Coventry City and Leicester furnished a rare tidbit for the Midlands. The veteran Shea secured all of Coventry's four goals. Middlesboro took Bradford City into camp by one tally. The northerners, like Chelsea, are playing splendid football since their relegation, and they are entertaining great hopes of being able to return soon. Their stumbling block, however, is Derby County, who narrowly obtained promotion last season.

There are at present only two undefeated teams in the First and Second Divisions, Huddersfield Town and Portsmouth, respectively.

In the First Division of the Scottish League, only eight games were scheduled, and in these contests only two visiting teams emerged with full points. Curiously enough, the score in each case was the same. Hibernians trounced Raith Rovers, and Hamilton defeated Kilmarnock by the score of 3 to 1.

Hearts gave Airdrieonians their first defeat on Saturday at Edinburgh, thus furnishing some reassurance to their supporters who had begun to be somewhat doubtful of the Midlothian team this year.

Two teams in the First Division of the Scottish League have not yet succumber, both of them from the Metropolis. Rangers and Celtic have yet to taste defeat. Neither team was slated for League play on Saturday, the Rangers being engaged in the Glasgow Cup contest.

While Firpo was slow in learning American fighting ways, he apparently had no trouble in mastering the great American alibi.

HORNSBY AND RUTH STAY IN FRONT IN RACES FOR BATTING LAURELS

Cardinals' Star, with .422, is 51 Points Ahead of Wheat in National League—Babe 6 Points in Front of Stephenson—Vance and Johnson Lead Pitchers.

Rogers Hornsby of the Cardinals is hitting for a mark of .422, according to the latest set of unofficial averages and is still far in front in the race for the individual batting championship of the National League. He is 51 points ahead of Zack Wheat of the Robins, who ranks second. Ross Young of the Giants is third among the regulars with .358, Cuyler of the Pirates is fourth with .357 and Ed. Roush of the Reds is fifth with .47. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored — Frisch, New York, 118.

Most hits made—Hornsby, St.Louis 214.

Most two-base hits—Hornsby, St. Louis, 41.

Most home runs—Fournier, Brooklyn, 27.

Most stolen bases—Carey, Pittsburgh, 44.

Leading pitcher—Vance, Brooklyn, 27 bictories, 4 defeats, .871.

Babe Ruth of the Yankees is still setting the pace for the batsmen of his league in the race for the individual batting championship of the season. His average is now .383. This is six points higher than that of Stephenson of the Indians, who has taken part in only 64 games. Bib Falk of the White Sox ranks third among the regular batsmen with a mark of .358. Jamieson of the Indians is fourth with .335 and Eddie Collins of the White Sox is fifth with .354 Leaders in other phases of the play follow:

"I KNEW HER WHEN—"

Recalling When Mary K. Browne, Now Famed as a Golfer, Was Queen of the Tennis Courts.

MARY K. BROWNE ON THE TENNIS COURTS IN 1912

On the tennis courts to-day. Short skirts. Bobbed hair. Flying feet. An occasional glimpse of epidermis. Whizzing rackets. Volcanic speed. ....It was a bit different when Mary K. Browne was winning the national title year after year. (The same Mary K. Browne who recently surprised the nation by going to the finals in the national golf tournament on her first appearance in the event).

Mary and the others were more chaste in the matter of dress, if less appealing to the pictorial editors. It was the stylish custom in those days. Gleaming white duck skirts that all but swept the turf, waists that screamed their colors to the blue skies, and hats that rested at perilous angles.

But the grade of tennis was about as high. Mary K. Browne was just as much a dominant figure from 1912 to 1914 as little Helen Wills is to-day. And speaking of Helen, we wonder if she'll be able to command the headlines in sport in 1926?

DIED FOLLOWING FALL.

Jack Delmir Fell 100 Feet From Top of Water Tower.

OSHAWA, September 22. — Canadian Press. — Jack Delmir of Montreal, died in the Oshawa General Hospital at 2 o'clock on Saturday afternoon, about two hours after he had fallen a distance of nearly one hundred feet from the top of a huge water tower now under course of construction here. Delmir was employed by the Dominion Company of Montreal, who have the contract for erecting the 500,000 imperial gallon tower.

WOOLLENS FOR GORDON FINAL

The Quakers Fell to Woollens By Three Goals to Nothing.

MEET VETS OR THISTLE

The Canadian Woollens defeated the Quaker Oats three goals to one in the Gordon Cup semi-final game at Nicholls Oval on Saturday afternoon. Each team trotted out the best men it had for the positions and the general run of play was worth a one-goal lead—not three. The Woollens will now meet the winners of the G.W.V.A.-Thistle cup tie game.

First Half.

There was no advantage to be gained by winning the toss and the Canadian Woolens were the first to find their bearings, but unfortunately the unlucky play fell upon Honor's shoulders when he gave away a penalty kick that simply took the heart out of the porridge boys. Chambers scored. Undaunted they made things interesting as the game progressed. The Quakers retaliated in strenuous fashion, but their attack was often put out of joint by Monkman's fine play at centre half-back, the Woollens' backs being equal to most calls. A breakaway by Sayers on the left wing brought fruits of good play as the ball landed in below the bar, from the touch line, out of Bain's reach. Half-time, Woollens 2, Quakers 0.

Half Time.

After the customary rest, the teams settled down to the next forty-five minutes with real enthusiasm that was accompanied by a nice brand of combination play by the forwards of each team. Mayette on the extreme right was well watched by Blowers, who found his opponent a smart man on the ball and used tactics to prevent him from gaining possession favorably. Gardner at centre forward tried to feed his forwards but the hard working halfbacks of the Woollens gave him no latitude, until he made a solo effort against Hillman's charge. He went right in close, shot hard, to witness his parting shot hit the goal posts and the ball landing at Craig's foot, he reduced the magin in the score. A later moment, Mitchell put the verdict out of all questioning when he made the Woollens' total three to one. Full time Woollens 3, Quakers 1.

Goal-scorers — Woollens: Chambers, Sayers and Mitcell; Quakers: Craig.

Quakers — Bain, goal; R. Willshaw and Jas. Willshaw, backs; Scott, Metclafe and Walker, halfbacks; Mayette, Wyllie, Gardner, Craig and T. William, forwards.

Woollens— Hillman, goal; Cridland and Chambers, backs; Foster, Monkman and Blowers, half-backs; Clark, Gaskill, Mitchell, Hodgson and Sayers, forwards.

Referee—J. Clark.

PETERBORO TO PLAY WINNERS

Result of Wolfe Island-Hussars Game Will Be Known To-day.

(Special to the Examiner.)

KINGSTON, September 22. — The Fourth Hussars of Kingston, had no trouble in defeating Wolfe Island, at the island, on Saturday, by a score of 11 to 4, and tied up the round in the Intermediate O.B.A.A. play-off.

The deciding game will be played at Gananoque on Monday afternoon.

Moore, who pitched for the Hussars, had splendid control and was never in danger. The Islanders only reached him for four hits, while the Hussars knocked out 16 hits off Kyle, the Islanders' twirler. The umpires were Howard, at the plate, and Wiley on the bases, both of Ottawa. They will also handle the final game at Gananoque on Monday. Two Kingston teams are playing off Monday as the Circle Six team is playing with Peterboro at Belleville in the junior series.

The Peterboro team is now waiving the result of the Wolfe Island-Hussars' game, and will take up the race with the winners of this district.

In Saturday's game between the Hussars and the Wolfe Islanders, the island outfield was weak, LaRush booting three chances, but the general support was good, and it was the heavy hitting and team work of the Hussars behind Moore's faultless pitching, that won the game.

The teams could not agree on umpires for the match. Both were agreeable to George Sullivan of Kingston, but Wolfe Island would not accept "Jack" Derry of Kingston, and the O.B.A.A. being asked to appoint a man sent Wiley and Howard from Ottawa, Wolfe Island falling in for the heavy expenses incurred. The umpires came to the city by train at 3 p.m., and were taken over to the island in a fast motor boat. Gourdier's playing at first fo the Hussars, was a feature.

Rev. Father Day was a chaplain in the war, and recently published a book on his war experiences at Gallipoli.

LOAN BROKE RECORD.

Entire Offering Subscribed In Less Than Three Hours.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—The Dominion Government Refunding Loan has broken all records. At noon to-day subscription books were closed, the entire offering of $50,000,000 having been oversubscribed in less than three hours.

While the subscription books have been closed and no large blocks are available, it is pointed out that there are still some bonds left in the hands of dealers, which are available for individual subscribers.

No official word is available regarding institutional subscriptions, but it is believed that applicants for large blocks will only be allotted about fifty per cent. of their subscriptions.

MEN IMPRISONED.

Five Men at Work In Mine When Explosion Occurred.

SPRING CANYON, Utah, Sept. 22 — (Canadian Press). — Rescue crews were working frantically this morning to reach five men imprisoned in L. F. Rains Mine of the Carbon Fuel Co. near here since early last evening as the result of an explosion. The mine is not on fire, as reported in despatches, and progress is being made in clearing away the debris. The mine company officials said that while the check showed only five men were at work cutting and blasting when the explosion occurred, it is possible there were others. Normally the mine employs about 200 men, but the work crews were off shift at the time.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor Examiner:

Dear Sir: I suppose I should apologize to you and the public for wasting ammunition on small game but as Mr. Denne is unacquainted with the public issues the scope of the debate is necessarily much restricted.

You can also appreciate, it is necessary to explain to him in very plain English, why his dizzy theories do not hold. Neither does he understand much about King's Counsel, or the manner in which they are appointed; but one can readily understand that, as Mr. Denne does not associate very much with them.

In the last letter to which Mr. Denne placed his signature, he intimated that he wrote these letters. Let me tell him that I do not believe him.

Mr. Denne always tries to get away from the position which he rather stupidly allowed himself to fall into. He told the Norwood people about his efforts to induce Mr. Meighen and the Conservative party to adopt his (Mr. Denne's) plans of re-distribution, which Mr. Denne thought would be easy and pleasant for him.

However, Mr. Meighen had seen Mr. Denne perform at the time of his big rally in the 1921 by-election, and Mr. Meighen had come to the conclusion that the proper course for him and the Conservative party to take, was to do exactly the opposite to which Mr. Denne recommended, and in that respect I agree that Mr. Meighen was right.

Then Mr. Denne, peeved and sore because his Leader threw him down, went to Norwood and told the people there, that I was to blame for the re-distribution situation, when he knew that that was not true—that I was not to blame. He had in mind at that very time, that Mr. Meighen and the Conservative party had refused to accept the plan outlined by him, and yet he failed to disclose the most material part of the whole case.

aTke 3 Gordon C tiv,iu|sa izarthe

In the concluding part of the letter which Mr. Denne signed, but did not write, he has a supercilious sneer for a position, honest, if somewhat lowly and obscure. That has always been the position of those who are high-born. They always have a contempt for honest toil, and the toiler.

Let me say this, I would rather have commenced my life at the very bottom of the ladder, in an obscure honest position, and by earnest effort have succeeded in obtaining the confidence of the community, than be in Mr. Denne's position of having been made a merchant-prince by others money, and then wound up on the scrap-heap as a busted politician.

Your truly,
G. N. GORDON.

BREAD MAKING DESCRIBED BY JAMES DUTTON

The Head of Peterborough's Largest Bakery Gives Interesting Talk

AT ROTARY CLUB

Traces Progress From Biblical Days To 1924—Why Housewives Fail.

In an illuminating and highly interesting address at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club at noon today, James Dutton reviewed the growth of the bread-making industry from its earliest days and described the modern practice. Mr. Dutton is secretary-treasurer of the Stock Bread Company, and President John W. McDermid said, "nearly the whole show".

Introducing bread as the chief food in life, and declaring that the conditions surrounding its manufacture should be of moment to everyone, Mr. Dutton said modern bakers have learned a great deal about the early processes from sculptures in marble and bronze that have been preserved from early ages. The first mention of the making of bread is in the Bible, where many references are made to the processes and uses of the universal food. In early Greek and Roman history, it is apparent that there were no commercial bakeries, and every household had to grind its own wheat and bake its own flour. At the excavating of Pompeii, flour mills and machinery for baking bread were found, an the bakers' names were even stamped in the bread in the same manner as to-day. Later, the tomb of a Roman baker gave up pictures of the processes of baking in his day, when the dough was mixed by horse power.

In modern times, Mr. Dutton said, the baker has been looked down upon. The first bakes read about was hanged, and every baker since then seems to have been the subject of ridicule. "There is nothing in the industry to make the baker any less than his neighbour in another business, but from his very calling he must deny himself many of the privileges other men enjoy." The speaker told of the night work of the baker and how it prohibits his mixing in the social activities of his friends, and although the working conditions are becoming ameliorated the baker has still a strenuous life. Even the salesmen have hard work, being on the job every day in rain, hail or shine.

Good Wheat Here

"In Canada we are in pre-eminent position regarding flour," declared Mr. Dutton, "We have the finest grades of wheat in the world. Our No. 1 Northern cannot be matched anywhere." A large percentage of the flour milled from Ontario wheat cannot be used for commercial break baking, the speaker said, but a wonderful change in the quality has been noticed in the last few years. Better seed selection may be responsible, but farmers have been unable to account for the improvement. The qualities sought in flour are strength color, flavor, and drinking capacity. Yeast, which is so powerful that one pound of it will raise 150 times its own weight, is a most important ingredient of bread and requires careful handling. It must not be allowed to stay in a place above 40 degrees temperature in summer, and in winter great care is required to prevent its freezing. Salt is used to give flavor to the bread and to control fermentation. Milk is used simply for its food value, in a genuine desire to provide bread with 100 per cent. food value. Sugar supplies the food on which the yeast lives and grows. Malt accelerates the action of the yeast, and shortening makes the crumb tender and palatable and increases the keeping qualities of the loaf.

Processes Develop

Remarking that in the realm of processes the industry has made its greatest strides, Mr. Dutton told of the evolution of the system to a highly scientific business. Calculations of quantities of ingredients are made with mathematical precision, temperature in the process rooms is carefully regulated, and in summer, when the water from the city mains is drawn at 80 to 84 degress there is from 10 to 15 hundred weight of ice used daily to bring it to the proper temperature.

That sour bread is rare nowadays is a tribute to the skill and care of the baker, the speaker said. Souring is caused by the yeast dying after having consumed all the sugar provided, and prevention is obtained by carefully computing and measuring the amount of sugar necessary to sustain the yeast until its functions are fulfilled.

The old fermentation method was superceded by the sponge method, which in turn gave way to the straight dough method of baking. To-day, commercial bakers use the no time dough method, in which all the ingredients are mixed and taken straight from the mixing machine to the oven to be baked. Whereas it formerly took from 12 to 14 hours for a batch of bread, four hours sufficed last Saturday to put a batch of 1,000 loaves through all the processes, from mixing to loading on the vans.

Bakers, Mr. Dutton said, are trying to educate their workers to meet the new conditions, and to this end have obtained a plot of ground at the Agricultural College, Guelph, where will be erected a modern school of bakery. Men will there be trained as masters of their craft, producing the best food for the people.

As an aside, Mr. Dutton pointed out that the per capita consumption of wheat in Canada is the greatest in the world, the principal countries ranking as follows: Canada 9.5 bushels per capita; Great Britain 6 bushels per capita; United States 5.3 bushels per capita, and Germany 3.2 bushels per capita.

Referring to the failures of young housewives in baking bread and cake, the speaker said injudicious use of ingredients without an appreciation of their relations to one another or chemical actions is responsible for a great deal of the trouble.

NATIONS MUST UNITE TO PREVENT WAR AS PRELUDE TO ARMAMENTS REDUCTION CONFERENCE IN 1925

Ratification of Agreement to Arbitrate International Disputes Essential to Disarming.

On Arbitration and Security Presented to Disarmament Commission at Geneva.

GENEVA, Sept. 23.—If three or four of the great powers— Great Britain, France, Italy, Japan — which have permanent seats on the Council of the League of Nations, and ten other states members of the League of Nations ratify the protocol of arbitration and security, which was made public Monday, there will open at Geneva on June 15, a great international conference 15, 1925, a great international conference for the reduction of armaments.

The United States, like Germany, Russia and other members of the league has been invited to participate in the conference, the programme of which will be prepared under the direction of the Council of the League.

The long awaited protocol draft was presented yesterday officially to the commission on disarmament by the "Big Twelve" composing the sub-committee, and speeches were made by Dr. Edouard Benes, of Czecho-Slovakia, Arthur Henderson, Great Britain, Signor Schanzer, Italy, M. Boncourt, France, M. Poullet, Belgium.

Slightly Changed.

The sub-committee, labored on the text until the very last minute, modifying clauses and introducing new ones, so that the delegates had three distinct documents before them. When they finally re-arranged the various clauses and amendments they discovered that the committee's draft did not differ in any great essential from the original Benes draft for the outlawry of war.

The new draft was presented under impressive circumstances all the delegates sitting silently in their places and looking rather solemn, as if they were subconsciously aware of taking part in a historic meeting destined perhaps to direct the world definitely into the paths of peace. The elements did their best to record the hour for a violent thunder storm broke over the city.

The protocol provides a plan of arbitration for disputes of whatever nature. It also provides securities for countries like France and Belgium by authorizing regional accords, stipulating that they must open covenants and quite definitely arrange for a conference for the reduction of armaments.

Non-Member States.

From the standpoint of interest of the U. S. two clauses stand out prominently. One permits states non-members of the League to adhere to the protocol of arbitration and security. This clause serves as a corrollary to Article 17 of the Covenant, whereby non-member states, are permitted temporarily to assume the obligations of membership in the league in case of dispute with league members and submit their case to inquiry by the council. The protocol clause provides that ten member states can accept the protocol "so as to assure specific solution of conflicts with signatories of the protocol."

The second article of the protocol declares that ratification of the protocol must be filed with the secretariat of the league by May 1, 1925, at the latest, and that if the protocol ratifications are insufficient in number the secretary-general of the league will cancel the invitations.

Preliminary Details.

The entering into force of the protocol will be suspended until the plans for the reduction of armaments have been adopted by the conference. The league council will prepare the agenda, and the programme will be communicated to all the governments two months before the opening of the conference, or sooner, if possible.

A clause which is regarded as exceedingly important is the one declaring that the conference itself will lay down the conditions under which the council of the league may later proclaim that the reduction project voted by the conference has not been executed and that consequently the protocol of arbitration and security ceases to exist.

Perhaps the protocol is especially designed to strengthen the Covenant of the League. The preamble emphasizes that its object is to facilitate complete application of the system provided in the Covenant for the peaceful solution of differences arising between members of the international community.

It affirms the desire of nations to attain the reduction and limitation of armaments as called for in Article 8 of the Covenant.

Aggressor Defined.

An aggressor state is defined as a country which resorts to war after refusing arbitration or declines to abide by the decisions of the council suspending all mobilization during the critical period. Any state which violates the statutes relating to the demilitarized zones also becomes an aggressor.

The arbitration proceedings stipulated by Article 15 of the Covenant are defined and extended and a system is set up whereby all possible differences between nations must be submitted to arbitral bodies, even then the council of the League is unable to reach a unanimous decision.

In the course of a striking address, Arthur Henderson, the British Home Secretary, emphasized Great Britain's readiness to come forward with the sanctions provided by the Covenant. He declared that the last Great War made it perfectly clear that the loss of communications and the loss of raw materials and foodstuffs by any attacked power constitute a terrific blow to that power, and argued that any British economic blockade carried out at the request of the league in the interest of general peace would be a powerful sanction.

GOVERNMENT CONTROL APPROVED BY PRIMATE

Manitoba's System Satisfactory, Says Archbishop Matheson at Anglican Synod.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 23.—"From my observation, I find that the system of Government control in Manitoba has proven very satisfactory," stated Most Rev. Archbishop Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land Primate of All Canada, in an interview yesterday on conditions in the west.

Archbishop Matheson is in London for the first time in 13 years and is presiding at the Sessions of the House of Bishops, which opened a two-day conference on Monday as a forerunner to the annual session of the Geneal Synod of Canada opening at Cronyn Hall Wednesday.

Archbishop Matheson, in referring to the question of prohibition in the west, pointed out that at the present time some difficulty was being experienced in connection with hotels.

"The Government is experiencing difficulty with hotel keepers at the present time, who are inclined to exceed the restrictions of control," he said, "but I would say that the system of Government control in general has worked out very satisfactorily in the Province of Manitoba."

FOUND DEAD AT PLOUGH TO-DAY

River Road Man Died of Heart Failure in the First Furrow.

Turning his first furrow shortly after seven o'clock this morning, Alfred Delong, 60, of 51 River Road, dropped dead, and was found at 8.30, with the driving lines fastened around his body, the horses pacing restlessly near by, still harnessed to the broken plough.

Mr. Delong suffered from heart trouble, and it is supposed that the shock when the plough struck a large stone, was sufficient to break the slender thread by which his life was sustained.

At six o'clock this morning Mr. Delong left his home in apparently good health, and in exceptionally good spirits. He had suffered considerably of late months, having been confined to bed for two months in spring, and was delighted with the prospect of working for a few hours. Only a small patch of the field had been left by his son yesterday, and this Mr. Delong expected to finish by noon. His body was found lying in the first furrow that he turned over.

At 8.30 Mrs. Epgrave noticed the horses standing idle and sent a little girl to look for Mr. Delong. The child returned in a few minutes with the news that he was lying dead.

Helpers were quickly at hand and the body was removed to Comstock's undertaking parlor.

Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young, on viewing the body, found only superficial bruises and scratches and came to the conclusion that death was due to natural causes, the deceased having died of heart trouble and possibly sustaining the cuts when the horses dragged the plough over him.

It was at first though by the family that Mr. Delong had been struck and killed by the plough handle but none of the bruises justified this supposition, Dr. Young found.

Dr. H. M. Yelland had been attending Mr. Delong for some months, and at one time told the family that the patient might die without an instant's warning.

A daughter of the deceased man called at Mr. Ephgrave's home, a few yards from the scene of the tragedy, with a lunch for her father, but did not notice his plight.

The funeral will be held from the family residence, on Thursday, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon. The deceased leaves to mourn his loss his widow and twelve children.

The children are: Mrs. A. White, Bennett street; Mrs. W. Manley, Chemong Road; Mrs. W. King, Bennett street; Mrs. H. Mitchell, River Road; Mrs. C. Brown, River Road; Mrs. C. Batchelor, River Road; and the Misses Irene, Greta, Olive and Verna, at home; and Melville, Caddy street, and Cecil, at home.

WOMAN TO SPEAK.

Innovation For the Toronto Canadian Club.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—For the first time in many years a woman will be the principal speaker at the Canadian Club luncheon in Toronto next Tuesday. Miss Margaret Bondfield, M.P., has accepted an invitation to address the club. She is Parliamentary Under Secretary in the British Government, and is making a tour of Canada to observe conditions here.

MOTHER BURIED BELIEVING SONS HAD NEVER WED

Had Exacted Promise They Would Remain Her Sons Eternally.

BOTH MARRIED

Lived Double Lives in Chicago to Spare Her Shock of Deception.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—This is the strange story of two elderly brothers—business men—who lived a lie for many years in order to save the life of their mother.

That mother, Mrs. Marie Thalhofer, was buried last Wednesday. She was 81 years old. With her death her sons are free from the grotesque promise with which she bound them.

The sons are Gustaf and Andrew Thalhofer, two business men of a type now unfortunately almost extinct — sturdy craftsmen of an old school. For many years they have run a jewellery shop at 104 West Van Buren Street.

Asked Sons Not to Wed.

A score of years ago Mrs. Thalhofer, an invalid with a weak heart, feeling herself wholly dependent on her two stalwart ons, extracted from them a promise. Rising from her sick bed, she pleaded with them never to marry. If they married, she said, she would die. Eternally they must remain her sons, and her sons only.

But the Thalhofer boys did marry.

For a long time they ignored their own happiness, their own futures, their own livelihood to live up to the promise and remain single. But half a dozen years ago Gustaf felt his mother's demand unjustifiable. She was an invalid, hardly able to move, in her dotage. He was in love. And he married—secretly.

The younger brother, Andrew, following his mother's wishes, remained single and lost, it appeared, the great romance of his life. The girl with whom he was in love waited—waited for years and years. But Mrs. Thalhofer lived on, and she stuck grimly to her demand.

His Girl Marries Another.

Then Andrew's girl decided she could wait no longer. She married some one else. But a year and a half ago the husband died. Andrew came back and paid court again. He was successful and he forgot his old oath. And he married her — secretly.

Both sons, then, were married. And both sons knew that if it ever became known to their mother the news would kill her. And so they set about systematically and jointly to live a double life.

Mrs. Thalhofer was taken to a residence at 5958 South Sawyer Avenue. There her daughter, Mrs. Otto Weber, took care of her. But the boys continued to support her in practically every sense, and, what is more, most of the time actually stayed and lived with her.

Then the boys bought a house. It is located at 503 West 46th Street. In the house each installed his wife. And the two couples set up a double homestead — in absolute secrecy. Even close neighbors didn't know of the arrangement—the house became a house of mystery.

Visit Wives In Secret.

Thus affairs lasted for over a year. The wives were hidden away. The Thalhofer boys visited them covertly and continued to support the mother. Finally last Tuesday the mother died. She died still believing that her promise had faithfully been kept—and would be kept. She never knew.

"I resent any intrusion in my private affairs," said Andrew Thalhofer from his jewellery counter yesterday. "It is true that I have been married a fear and that my mother never knew of my marriage. But that is my own business."

Mrs. Weber, the daughter, said that it was all "a joke."

"Yes, both my brothers are married and have been married contrary to my mother's wishes," she admitted. "Mother never knew it. Mother's health was so poor the shock would have killed her. That is the only reason she was not told."

The Thalhofer double residence at 46th Street is not indexed in the 'phone book. Still "the boys"—now elderly men—live under a pall of secrecy. Still the spirit of the mother, indomitable even in death, hangs heavily upon them.

And she never knew.

Women Prettier Fifty Years Ago, Says Artist

PARIS, Sept. 23.—Women were fifty per cent prettier fifty years ago than now, says Jean Gabriel Doumergue, French Painter, who is said to have painted more beautiful women than any other man alive.

Their figures are less lovely, too, he asserted, in an interview at Biarritz. He continued:

"From my observation the beautiful women of today are not included in the ranks of the rich—or very few of them are. They are too pampered, take too little exercise, eat and drink far too much, and the habit of having their own way—this applies to American women has given to their faces a peculiar peevish pout that is not at all conducive to beauty."

PLAN OF DAWES FAILS GERMANY

Delay in Expected Loan from Britain and America Brings Disappointment.

BUSINESS IS HIT

BERLIN, Sept. 23. — Great disappointment for Germany marks the operation thus far of the Dawes plan. It has not produced the boom in business which was expected.

On the contrary, reports show that the visible results so far are increased unemployment, higher prices, a decline in the value of stocks on the Bourse and a continuance of the general business depression because of lack of credits.

The hope which the German business world has been pinning on the American and English loan is being deflated by the fact that even the initial negotiations for the loans have not yet begun.

Silence on Loans.

The sudden silence in America and England on the subject of the loans which were promised Germany if she would ratify the London pact and accept the Dawes programme is not understood here and is beginning to cause worry.

Incidentally, the American management of reparations collection and payment is not going quite so smoothly as has been so widely heralded. Inside circles are aware that neither Owen B. Young, the American agent general for reparations, nor Rufus Dawes, brother of the author of the report, and now representing Agent Young in Berlin, is wholly satisfied.

Their disappointment is not with the Germans in this instance, but with the Allies. The expenditures by the Allies are running about two and a half million dollars higher per month than the payments by Germany provided for under the Dawes plan.

Coal Deliveries Cut.

The consequence has been that Young has ordered a 10 per cent. cut in German coal deliveries to the Allies, with resultant dissatisfaction on the part of the Italians and Belgians.

The cost of living has increased 7½ per cent. and unemployment has increased 2 per cent., while the best stocks on the Bourse have dropped from 10 to 40 per cent.

The floating of the $200,000,000 American and British loan, carrying in its wake private credits and loans of almost an equal amount, it is hoped will change the situation.

But the loan is not yet in sight.

T. N. D. KELLY WAS STRUCK BY TRAIN

Crossing Track at Donegal Street—Car Carried Fifty Feet Along the Track.

T. Noble D. Kelly, of Kelly Bros., Proprietors of the Peterboro Fuel and Transfer Co., was seriously injured at 9.40 this morning when the automobile in which he was riding was struck by Canadian National engine 2515. He was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital under the care of Dr. J. M. O'Brien.

Mr. Kelly was proceeding south on Donegal street when the engine coming east struck his car, carrying it fifty feet along the track. The injured man was picked from under the wreckage. He was unable to speak, although he recognized his name and gave signs of recognizing his friends. He is suffering from severe cuts about the face and head, and the extent of his boily injuries had not been ascertained.

The automobile was badly smashed, one side being broken in while a wheel was striped of its spokes and all glass was broken.

A telephone message from the G. Walter Green office to the police station brought a quick response, Constaple John Naples arriving before the ambulance.

SHANGHAI LINES REINFORCED BY FRESH TROOPS

Machine Guns and Field Pieces Sent Up to the Chekiang Front.

MOVED IN NIGHT

Commander of Defense Armies Declares Intention of Fighting to Decision.

SHANGHAI, September 23 (Canadian Press). — Fifteen hundred reinforcements for the Chekiang troops defending Shanghai from the aggressive Kiangsu armies went under cover of darkness last night and yesterday morning into the front battle lines during the night-time lull in the fighting.

With the men who were sent particularly to positions in the "railway" sector—Kiatinge to Hwangtu to Tsingpu — to strengthen the lines most attacked, went a number of machine guns, mountain guns, and field pieces.

Defence Reserves.

Reliable reports received from the south yesterday morning declared that Lung Hsiang, the commander of the defence armies, who has declared he will capture Nanking before he voluntarily gives up the fight, has 10,000 reserves ready for action along the Shanghai-Hangchow Railway between Sun King and Kashing.

The reserves are supplied with trains all located to move them on short notice should it prove necessary to use them to prevent a possible drive to the south from Tsingpu, or to block a sudden shift on any of the fighting fronts.

The cruiser Huaaichow, the principal vessel of the group which deserted the Chekiang cause earlier, returned to the Wangpoo (Shanghai Harbour) last night.

It was reported that the crew of the cruiser refused to join the enemy fleet at Nanking, and forced the ship's officers to return to Shanghai.

FIGHT TO FINISH.

SHANGHAI, September 23 (Canadian Press). — Reiteration of his determination to prosecute the present Civil War until he wins or is decisively defeated, was expressed in statement issued by Lu Yung-Hsiang commander of the Chekiang armies defending Shanghai, from his headquarters at Lungwha last night.

"When this struggle is ended," General Lu declared, "I will either be in Hanking (the provincial capital of his opponent, Chi Shieh-Yuan) or I will be eliminated."

Robt. Franks' Toys Sold As Household Breaks Up

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).— The crowd of curious far outnumbered buyers at the auction Monday of the household effects of the family of Jacob Franks, whose son, Robert, was kidnapped and murdered by Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold, Jr., now serving life prison sentences.

A few belongings of the slain boy, including a radio set, a blackboard still showing childish drawings, some games and a desk were included in the articles for sale.

Mrs. Franks withdrew from sale a stained glass window showing Robert with his sister, Josephine, and Brother Jack. The family sold the home and have moved to a hotel.

MURDER TRIAL OPENS MONDAY

Lindsay Sets Court Stage for Trial of Fred. McGauhey —Counsel Ready.

INTEREST KEEN

LINDSAY, Sept. 23.—The stage is all set for the trial of Fred McGauhey, charged with the murder of Beatrice Fee, of Toronto, and formerly of Omemee, on Monday, September 29th. It has been announced that the Crown Prosecutor will be Peter Smith, K.C., of Toronto, while Frost Bros., of Lindsay, will defend the prisoner.

From what can be learned in court circles the defence will put up a fight on the question of the sanity of the accused. It will be contended that McGauhey was not in his right state of mind when the offence was committeed. It is understood that several doctors have examined McGauhey since his incarceration in the jail, and they will give expert evidence for the defence.

There promises to be a record attendance at the trial, as the whole countryside has been stirred over the tragedy. Already representatives of the city newspapers have been arranging reservations at Lindsay during the trial.

TELEGRAPHERS BACK.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 23.— A number of Canadian Press telegraphers who have been out on strike returned to work yesterday on the terms contained in the invitation issued by the Company this morning. Montreal, Toronto and Western Ontario day and night circuits are now fully manned, and the management to-day expressed confidence that remaining circuits would be in operation within a very short time.

TRIAL OF SMITH, BANK EMPLOYEE, CLOSING TODAY

Evidence Concluded Monday and Argument By Counsel Began at Once.

AUDITOR NEXT.

Defense Counsel Contended That Smith Was Not Responsible for False Returns.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—To-day will finish up the trial of the first of the officials of the defunct Home Bank charged with offences under the Bank Act. Evidence in the trial of Ocean G. Smith, chief accountant of the bank, charged with sending false returns to the Finance Department of the Government, was concluded Monday morning, and D. L. McCarthy, K.C., Crown prosecutor, finished his address to Judge Coatsworth. Gordon N. Shaver, counsel for the defence, addressed the Judge throughout the entire afternoon session, and will probably resume this morning. Immediately upon the conclusion of the trial of Smith the court will take on the case of Sidney Jones, chief auditor of the Home Bank, who is charged with making out false returns to the Government.

Manager's Instructions.

Smith, under cross-examination by Mr. McCarthy yesterday, said he knew nothing about appropriations made by the bank for big loans to certain companies. In referring to these in his reports to the Government, he had simply taken instruction from the general manager. Neither had he questioned any of the securities given by companies, taking his instructions as to their value from the books of the bank and reporting on these figures to the Department. His cross-examination was completed by 11 o'clock, and Mr. McCarthy started and finished his address before noon.

Failed In Duty.

Mr. McCarthy said that the Crown contended that the accused had deliberately refrained from finding out the true condition of the bank for his reports to the Government. As accountant, continued the Crown prosecutor, he stood between the bank and the public as a protection, but he did not inquire into the bank's affairs any more than to accept the entries from book. Mr. McCarthy said that the Bank Act specifically called upon the accountant to render a true account of the bank's affairs to the Denartment , and that the accused had failed in performing this duty.

Only Routine Duties.

Mr. Shaver argued that the accountant could in no way have anything to do with the policy of the

Drink Institutes Have Disappeared

WHEN PEOPLE TELL YOU that there is more drinking under Prohibition than there was under license, or would be under Government sale, be sure you get facts. If what they say is true then there would be more "drunks" and "disorderlies" to-day than formerly. There would be, also, more men needing treatment for alcoholism.

But there are not.

Up until 1914 the commitments in Peterborough for "drunk" and "disorderly" had been increasing steadily for years. Then came Prohibition. Since then they have decreased from 143 in 1914 to 14 in 1923. Why this sudden reversal? Prohibition did it, Prohibition does prohibit.

ALCOHOL CURES.

In the old days we used to hear of people—sometimes from Peterborough—addicted to the liquor habit, who went away for weeks to the "Neal" and other institutes for the cure of alcoholism. If there is more drinking to-day, these Institutes would be full to overflowing. Instead they are being closed for lack of patients.

Referring to his Canadian and United States Institutes, Dr. R. G. Neal published the following letter recently in the San Francisco "Examiner":

A BUSINESS KILLED BY PROHIBITION.

Editor, "Examiner"

Sir,—What has Prohibition accomplished to date? Here are facts not generally known.

I am President of sixty-five Neal Institutes for the treatment of the "drink habit," that were located in the principal cities of Canada and the United States.

During the twelve years before Prohibition became effective, we treated more than 125,000 drinking men and women. Chicago and Cleveland Institutes treated more than 100 patients a month. Los Angeles and San Francisco averaged twenty-five to thirty a month. Neal Institutes have now all closed from lack of patronage, and I am giving all my time to another business.

Sincerely,

B. G. NEAL, M.D.,
President Neal Institute Company.

HOME BANK CASE.

Gordon Shaver Continues Defence For Ocean Smith.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Gordon N. Shaver, counsel for Ocean G. Smith, Home Bank accountant, charged with sending false returns to the Government, continued his address to the Judge when the court resumed this morning, and was not through at the noon adjournment. Mr. Shaver has now spoken over five hours, and is expected to take up most of this afternoon. D. L. McCarthy, K.C., Crown prosecutor, will reply. The Judge granted a request of Mr. McCarthy that if the Smith trial was concluded to-day that the trial of Sidney Jones, bank auditor, would not proceed until to-morrow.

Mr. Shaver continued arguing that Smith, as an accountant, was purely a routine officer of the bank and could in no way be responsible for the bank's position. "Surely we cannot load the shoulders of this accountant who was getting a salary of $2,000 with the responsibility of the Home Bank wreck," said Mr. Shaver. He maintained that Smith's work was merely checking up returns and papers he received, and that he was not responsible for whether they were true or not. He said that Smith handled 40,000 returns a year, which was proof, he thought, of the kind of a job he held.

LAKE STORM OVER.

Vessels Moving Freely Again On The Great Lakes.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press). — To-day conditions appear to have returned to normal in the navigation world, and steamships are moving as usual. The steamer Caribou, of the Dominion Transportation Line, left last evening for Michipicoten, 24 hours late, having been delayed in reaching Sault Ste. Marie by fog, which tied up lake and river traffic generally on Sunday. Two steamers, the W. P. Palmer and the Ogem, the latter an old lumber vessel, which were aground near Detour, have been released by the tug Favorite. It is reported here that the steamer Wacondah is aground at Cove Island in Lake Huron, and tugs have been sent FOUGHT PRAIRIE FIRE.

NEVILE, Sask., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Three hundred men were forced to fight a prairie fire nine miles south of here yesterday, which destroyed a stretch five miles long and a mile wide.

SUDDEN DEATH HASTINGS MAN

Patrick Shaughnessy Dropped Dead While Talking To a Number of Men.

HASTINGS, Sept. 23. — A very sudden death occurred in Hastings on Monday afternoon, when Patrick Shaughnessy dropped dead of heart failure.

Mr. Shaughnessy has for some years suffered with heart trouble, but death came suddenly. Deceased was talking to some men in the vacant store of Mr. Wm. Lynch when he complained of being dizzy. Before assistance was given he fell to the floor. Dr. MacDonald was called at once and pronounced life extinct.

Deceased was sixty-nine years of age, and was born in Percy Township on the Cobourg Road, and has lived all of his life in this locality.

Those surviving are one brother, Mr. Thomas Shaughnessy, of Hastings, and one sister, Miss Ann Shaughnessy, of Hastings.

Particulars of funeral later.

Fractured Hip.

Mr. Gilbert Ireland, of Hastings, met with a serious accident. While he was unloading grain in the barn of Mr. Norman Ruaw on the Cobourg Road, he slipped off of the wagon, falling to the floor and fractured his hip bone. Mr. Ireland was also hurt internally, and Dr. A. Moir, of Peterboro, was called, who advised his being removed to the Nicholls Hospital, Peterboro. On Monday he was removed to the hospital and an operation was performed. The latest reports are that the operation was successful, and the patient was doing as well as can be expected.

A Big Fish.

A thirty-two pound maskinonge was caught by Mr. Charles Staple, of Buffalo. The fish was caught near Walker's bar at Rice Lake, about two miles from Trent Valley Lodge, where Mr. Staple has been a summer guest. The fish measured forty-four inches in length.

An eighteen and one-half pound maskinonge was caught on Saturday afternoon in the Trent waters, near Hastings. It was landed by Mrs. W. Fisher, of Rittman, Ohio, who has taken it to Peterboro, where it will be mounted for him to take home to Rittman, as a souvenir of his holiday efforts in Hastings.

Stickles—Murray.

The marriage took place on Friday evening at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Manse, when Mrs. Murray of Peterboro and Mr. Samuel Stickles of Hastings were united in the holy bonds of matrimony, Rev. D. A. Thompson performing the ceremony. Mr. and Mr. Stickles will reside in Hastings.

Shipping Stock.

The local stock dealer, Mr. Richard Walsh, shipped from the local C.N.R. Stock Yards on Monday eight carloads of hogs to Peterborough. The local price paid was 9 1-2 cents per pound.

One carload of cattle and one carload of sheep and calves were shipped to Toronto.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Fisher, of Toronto, are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Wilson.

Mr. Frank Prest, of Huntsville, is the guest of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Prest.

Mrs. A. B. Soellman is visiting friends in Peterborough and other points west.

Mrs. D. E. Scriver is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. J. Saunders in Lindsay.

Miss Kathleen McMillian is the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. McMillian, on the Dutch Line.

Mr. W. E. Tate, of Cobourg, spent the week-end at his home here.

Messrs. A. Cassidy, Leonard Carter, Ormond Cruikshank, and Douglas Baker were in Cobourg on Sunday.

Mr. George Quigley, of Kingston, is spending some time in Hastings.

Mr. Douglas Greenley was in Havelock on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. J. Wallace and Miss Jean Wallace, of Campbellford, Miss K. White of Worcester, Mass., and Miss Helen Johnson of Toronto, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Tate, on Sunday.

MURDER SPIRIT MAN.

Canadian Mounted Police Report Another Murder In North Country.

VANCOUVER, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Belief in the power of the sorcerer and necromancer which exist among Indian tribes in the little known portions of Northern British Columbia is said to be responsible for the murder of a man named Atol or Mocassin, by his fellow tribesmen of a nomadic band in the Laird Valley.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police patrol has reached Telegraph Creek with a woman who, it is alleged, killed the youth when the Indians became convinced that he was practicing sorcery. Four others were brought to Telegraph Creek as accessories.

According to the brief accounts contained in the official reports telegraphed here, the killing took place late last year, at Thirty Mile Bar, on the Laird River. It is alleged that Atol was suspected of casting spells and invoking the malignant influences of spirits to work ill to other members of the band. Deaths among the tribesmen, poor hunting and other disasters were credited to him.

He was seized and tied to a pole, head down, and was slowly dying when, it is stated, a squaw cut his throat to hasten his death. The others who are charged with being accessories to the murder are said to have assisted in the deed.

VILLAGE DESTROYED.

Twenty Building Destroyed In Another Village Fire.

MOSTREAL, September 23 (Canadian Press). — More than twenty buildings have been destroyed and 150 people are homeless as a result of the fire which broke out early this morning in the village of St. Urbain, about 25 miles from Montreal, and at latest advices the fire was threatening the entire village.

St. Urbain is within a few miles of St. Constant, practically destroyed by fire yesterday.

The fire is reported to have begun in the home of J. Dubuc, and to have spread through the neighbouring part of the village with great rapidity.

The villagers were aroused from their slumbers in the middle of the night by the clanging of the church bells sounding an alarm.

TAX SCANDAL GROWS.

Auditors Turn Up More Shortages In Hamilton.

HAMILTON, September 23. Canadian Press. — Hamilton's tax scandal grows uglier—so much so that the city officials have been counselled to authorize no further arrests until a complete audit has been made. Additional disclosures of dishonesty are being made by the auditors, and when the latter reported on their day's work last night it was stated that the alleged shortage in money is increasing.

For the time being it has simmered down to a cold auditors' analysis of all the tax records for the past four or five years. This audit, it is now believed, will consume at least two or three weeks.

Three of the citizens implicated hurried to the tax office yesterday morning, made confessions, and paid their taxes in full. Their money was accepted. This action, though, the Mayor said, would not immunize them from prosecution. He was asked to give their names but he declined to do so.

WEMBLEY LOSES MONEY.

Exposition's Deficit is Expected To Be Millions of Pounds.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—(Associated Press.)—Although the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley has been a big success from the point of view of exploiting the resources of the empire's dominions, its authorities face an enormous deficit and the show's finances are expected to be the subject of a Government inquiry as soon as Parliament reassembles.

The Government has already guaranteed £600,000 and the Treasury officials are determined to make a searching investigation of the way the exhibition has been conducted before releasing any of this sum.

Those who have been watching the show say that it is only too apparent that large sums of money must be lost and that a call for at least 10 shillings in the pound will be made on all who guaranteed the financing of the project. Such a call would cost the Duke of Devonshire alone £200,000.

Although the aggregate loss cannot yet be estimated, the Treasury officials are talking about a deficit in the millions of pounds, and in authoritative circles it is declared no attempt will be made to carry the exhibition another year, as was suggested earlier.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Is the Denne-Gordon fight a private fight or can anybody get into it? Once upon a time a man had a wife, and because he wouldn't give her plenty of money to cut a dash she went crazy, and when she did that he got mad and he went crazy. Now, sir, I think our good friends are both going crazy. Would you please, sir, tell us readers of your valuable periodical what the row is about. Was it about who made the world or Ashburnham or the 9th Line?

Now, sir, I don't want the 9th Line in this town, I can tell you that, and if Mr. Denne or Mr. Gordon is trying to get it here, they'll be beat at the next election, and I know it. One Who Knows.

THE GREAT GERMICIDE.

Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—Are those people who are stating how bad a thing alcohol is, aware that it is the very best germicide in the world and is so considered and utilised by medical science? There is absolutely nothing known to medical science so fatal to malignant germs as ethyl or drinkable alcohol, and yet there are people who would abolish it off the face of the earth and the God who gave it to mankind.

We must not allow our lives to be ordered by the ignorant according to the standard of the weak and the vicious. What has Prohibition done for the United States? From the highest to the lowest judge in the land the statement goes to Congress that the "United States is the most lawless nation in the world."

CAVAN NEWS.

CAVAN, Sept. 23.—Mr. G. Howson, of Keene, visited his mother here on Thursday.

Rev. D. N. McCamus and Mrs. McCamus, of London, came down last week to see Mr. McCamus' sister, Mrs. Howson, who has been ill for some time.

Miss Littlefield, of Montreal, is the guest of Cavan friends.

Miss Winona Cathcart was a visitor to Janetville last week.

KILL LEECHES RULING CHINA SAYS WAR LORD

Chang Tso Lin Declares He Fights Against Brigands and Robbers.

USE ALL STRENGTH.

Is Not Planning Monarchy and Will Refuse Presidency of China.

(By Ray G. Marshall, United Press Staff Correspondent).

MUKDEN, Manchuria, Sept. 23.—Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord in an exclusive interview with the United Press to-day pledged war to a finish, "against the brigands and robbers who are destroying China and making her name farcical before the world."

In his Northern stronghold, whence he is directing attacks upon the Chi Li forces before Shan Hai Kwan, Chang paused in the midst of his military duties to declare.

Every ounce of Manchurian strenght will be used to capture Pekin, President Tsau Kun of the Pekin government wanted war," the Manchurian Tuchan charged. "It was I who desired peace. Wu Pei Fu, leader of the Chi Li party, desired to run Manchuria. That is how the present conflict started.

"I am ashamed for them because they are plundering and oppressing.

"I will strike hard at Pekin and if I am successful I will make either Tuan Chi Jui or Wang Shih Ching president of China. I will personally see to the establishment of an honest and efficient government. Respected by the powers and co-operating to the fullest extent with foreigners. I want to obtain international friendship.

"China' abundant wealth is evidenced by the billions now stored in Tien Tsin by retired presidents, Tuchuns, Ministers and other robbers. "I want the United Press to assure foreigners that I have observed every humanity to protect foreigners. I will only bomb the Presidental palace by a combined air and land attack.

"I do not believe the report that Americans are helping Wu Pei Fu. Americans in China know whether China or Manchuria is the best governed. Japan is not helping me either.

"I positively am not planning a Monarchy. Such reports are ridiculous. Neither will I accept the presidency when this fight is over.

I will give attention again to the development of Manchuria. My soldiers are patriotic and ready. There will be a real fight, True, I have a foreign legion of many Russians who have volunteered. We are all ready. I regret all this bloodshed but I must destroy the leeches who are now ruling."

Wu Pei Fu Rushing Troops.

General Wu Pei Fu is taking every mode of travel to rush troops to reinforce him on Shan Hai, Kwan and Jehol frontiers according to dispatches to the London Times. Troop trains are passing through in an endless procession going going to the front. It is understood that 200,00 soldiers are being massed along the battle line. A limited number of highways are also filled with troops marching to the front, according to the despatches.

INTERNATIONAL LOAN.

To Support 10,500,000 Greek Refugees—Floated In Two Months.

LONDON, Sept. 23. — (United Press).—The first instalment of the £10,000,000 international loan for the support of 10,500,000 Greek refugees will be floated within two months, according to a statement by the Greek Finance Minister, Tsoudorous, in the Financial News. The first instalment will be £8,500,000.

The loan is authorized by the League of Nations, and it is understood it will be floated with a London banking group as the intermediary.

SHIP IN DISTRESS.

LONDON, September 23 (Canadian Press). — The United States Shipping Board steamer Cranford yesterday evening sent out an S.O.S. from a position about 50 miles off the north-west tip of Spain, and the liners Orsova and Leitrim rushed to her assistance at top speed.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

MILLBROOK, Sept. 23.—The opening meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Methodist Church was held last week at the home of Mrs. John Spence, about forty members being in attendance.

The removal of the former president, Mrs. S. T. Tucker, who has ably filled the office during the five years Rev. Mr. Tucker was pastor on the circuit, made the election of a new president necessary, and Mrs. F. W. Howard was the unanimous choice of the Auxiliary for the position.

Group "A," Mrs. F. W. Smith (convener), was responsible for the meeting which opened the fall and winter work, Mrs. G. W. Sayles taking the chair. Missionary readings were given by Mrs. F. Smith and Mrs. R. Edmunds, and recitations by two little girls, Marie Douglas and Bernice Smith, were much enjoyed.

Mrs. T. H. Aiken was appointed delegate to the annual district convention to be held in St. James' Church, Peterboro, on Tuesday, September 30th. There will be morning and afternoon sessions, and Miss Luella Rorke, now home on furlough from Japan, will be among those who will address the gathering.

Two new members, Mrs. W. West and Mrs. Lambert, sen., were welcomed among the Auxiliary workers on Wednesday. In serving refreshments at the close of the meeting, Mrs. Spence was assisted by Group "A," the opportunity for a social reunion, after th two summer months during which the Auxiliary meetings were discontinued, being fully taken advantage of for an hour or two before the gathering dispersed.

Held Re-opening

The Young People's League, of the Methodist Church, held a very successful re-opening meeting on Monday evening, with over sixty in attendance. An impressive devotional period was followed by a social good time when games, contests, and music gave opportunity for renewing old acquaintances and forming new ones, as many of the pupils who have come in to attend the Continuation School were among the guests of the evening. It was also the first occasion when the new pastor, Rev. F. W. Howard, with his wife and family, had met with the young people of the circuit at any public gathering, and they were warmly welcomed by the Leaguers on this occasion.

The devotional side of League work was emphasized by the president, Miss Estella Hetherington, in her brief address, when the fall and winter activities were outlined and the young people invited cordially to give their support, by interest and presence, to this branch of church work.

Cake and ice cream were served before the gathering was finally dismissed.

Miss Gertrude Gray is visiting her aunt, Mrs. J. Black, ot Brockport, N.Y., joining her mother, Mrs. John Gray, who has been the guest of her sister, as well as friends at Rochester and other points for the past four or five weeks.

Rev. D. N. and Mrs. McCamus, of London, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. Hanbidge, at Peterboro, and will also visit friends in Cavan and Monaghan before their return home. Mr. McCamus, who, forty-seven years ago, was received as a probationer in the Peterboro district, was among the speakers who addressed the annual financial meeting in the Reid Street Sunday School Hall last week, sounding a strong note of personal evangelism in his remarks. Over thirty years ago, Mr. McCamus was pastor on the Millbrook circuit, and has many warm friends in this vicinity.

Mrs. M. Jenkyns, principal of the Continuation School, was absent for a few days last week owing to the death of her father, the late David Annis, of Woodville, who passed away in his 84th year.

Mr. A. Larmer, of Oshawa, a former townsman, was a recent visitor with his brother, Mr. William Larmer, and other friends, for a brief stay.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Stinson and two children, Jean and Jack, have spent the past week with his mother at Janetville.

Mrs. W. Montgomery, of Embro, who has been the guest of Mr. and Mrs. I. E. Needham, for the past few weeks, returned home on Tuesday.

Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Ware, of Indianapolis, are guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. I. M. Nattrass.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Spence and family motored to Lindsay on Saturday and attended the Fair.

Miss Eileen Higgs, teacher at the Marsh School, was a week-end guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Burnham.

Mrs. E. Kenyon, of Peterboro, was a recent visitor with her sister, Mrs. G. W. Sayles.

Dr. A. Jemison, Mrs. W. Montgomery, and Miss M. Needham were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Weston Fallis, Scotts' Corners, on Sunday.

Miss Phyllis Richards is holidaying with friends in Omemee, Port Hope and Peterboro. Miss M. Wood, of South Monaghan, is taking her place at the telephone office during Miss Richards' absence.

Miss May Brock, who has been enjoying her annual two weeks' holiday, is again on duty at the local telephone office.

Miss Mary Pitt, clerk in Burnham Bros.' store, is visiting friends at Lindsay and other points during her annual two weeks' vacation.

Judge L. F. and Mrs. Clarry, who have spent the summer at Pleasant Point, left last week for their home in Calgary. They were guests of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Clarry, for a few days before leaving for the West.

The Rural School Fair for Millbrook will be held on Monday, September 29, at 1 p.m. All exhibits are asked to be in place in the building before noon to give the judges an opportunity to complete their work at as early an hour as possible.

GEORGIAN WAR OVER.

Concentration of 60,000 Russian Troops Disbanded Opponents.

TREBIZONDE, Sept. 23—(United Press).—The Georgian revolt is definitely broken, following the concentration of 60,000 Russian troops at Batoum. The Georgians fled to the mountains, and the only troops which still are resisting are 5,000 stationed at Poti, on the Black Sea.

HOWARD KEEGAN DEAD.

Was Well Known Resident of Cavan Township—News of Cavan.

CAVAN, September 23. — The death took place at his home in Cavanville yesterday afternoon of Howard Keegan, aged 60 years.

He is survived by his sorrowing wife (formerly Miss Ida Kincaid), two brothers, James and Edward, both of Cavan, and three sisters, Mrs. J. Carey, Valentia, Mrs. A. Staples, Hamilton and Mrs. John Staples, of Cavan

Wedding Bells.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized on Wednesday, September 17th, at 5 o'clock, at the home of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. David Hunter, when Letitia Georgiana, the daughter of Mrs. Margaret Matchett, Cavan, and Thomas Raymon Syer, the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Syer, Cavan, were united in the holy bonds of matrimony. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Finlay Matheson of Stratford, a relative of the bride. The bride was given away by her uncle, D. J. Hunter, and looked charming in a dress of sand crepe marine and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. Mrs. J. C. Swain played the wedding march. The happy couple left by motor for Peterboro where they took the train for Montreal. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Syer wil reside in Cavan.

The groom's gift to the bride was a rope of pearls, and to the organist a bar pin.

Rev. Mr. Harwood of Plainville, preached at Cavan on Sunday evening.

Next Sunday, September 28, "Rally Day" services will be held at Fairmount. The Cavanville Sunday school will join with them.

The Gospel Singers have moved their tent from Bethany to Cavanville and are holding services there.

The many friends of Mr. John McNeil will be pleased to know that he is again able to walk about the house, having so far recovered from the effects of a fall, when he injured his hip.

Miss Ruth White, of Lindsay spent the week end with her friend, Miss Gwendoline Hunter.

Mrs. B. Perrin, Mr. Meredith Perrin, and Miss Benson of Bewdley, visited Mr. and Mrs. H. Lang on Sunday, and attended Cavan church.

Among those from this vicinity who atended the Lindsay Fair on Saturay, were Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. R. Matchett, Miss Muriel and Archie Matchett, F. M. Staples, Miss Helen Syer, J. Thompson, C. Elliott, J. Cathcart, J. Swain, William Tinney and Mr. and Mrs. J. Smith.

PRINCE IN CANADA IS PRINCE INDEED

Incognito Abandoned For the Trip Through Dominion —To Visit Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales will stay in Ottawa for three days, from October 16th to 18th, on his return from the "E. P." ranch in Alberta, it was officially announced here last night.

There will be a State dinner on the night of October 16th, a public reception at Parliament Buildings on the afternoon of October 17th, and a dance at Government House on the evening of October 17th, for which the younger set of the capital are already all agog. In the mornings he will play golf at the Royal Ottawa Golf Club, and take part in other functions which are being arranged for him. Before coming here he will visit for two days in Toronto and leave here for Montreal.

He will not be a guest of the Governor-General at Jasper Park, and will not see His Excellency until he returns here. He is travelling in Canada as the Prince of Wales and not as Lord Renfrew, it was definitely stated by Captain Lascelles, who, with General Trotter and Captain Metcalfe, is accompanying him.

TRIAL OF SMITH

bank, and that his duty in his reports to the Government consisted entirely of reporting matters as they were on the books and as they were reported to him. "Where the duty has been performed there cannot be any charge of not doing it," said Mr. Shaver, who contended that the Crown case failed at this point. He argued that the duties of the accountant were purely routine, and that he could not be held responsible for the bank's condition.

"Perhaps the man responsible for the condition of the bank will be discovered and punished, but it cannot be the man who did his duty," said Mr. Shaver. He backed his argument about making reports from the books by a declaration of Mr. Justice Decarie in the trial of D. C. Macarow, of the Merchants' Bank, and added: "What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander."

GERMANY WOULD ENTER LEAGUE

Cabinet To-day Decided In Favor of Membership.

SOON AS POSSIBLE.

BERLIN, Sept. 23. — (United Press).—The German Cabinet today decided in favor of this country joining the League of Nations at the earliest possible moment.

The Cabinet voted, however, to inquire of the League Council regarding guarantees as to Germany's position before formally asking for admission.

NEWS TRENT RIVER.

Dance and Box Social Was a Big Success—Personal Mention.

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 22.—The dance and box social, held under the auspices of an appointed committee for benevolent purposes, was a success.

The Bon-Ton orchestra furnished the music for the occasion, and there was a good attendance, notwithstanding other counter-attractions. During intermission the boxes were auctioned off, and after refreshments the dancing continued until two a.m. The proceeds in full amounted to over $66, but expenses had to be paid out of this amount.

STRANGE CONTRASTS.

It is difficult sometimes to comprehend the fact that thousands of men in Ontario are facing the prospect of a workless winter.

The other day nearly 8,000 people assembled in St. Thomas to see a baseball game, and it was estimated that the total value of the motor cars parked in the vicinity of the grounds was $1,500,000.

Ten thousand more people saw the final day's racing at Thorncliffe track, near Toronto, Saturday, and here again were several thousand automobiles.

It's a strange old world.

Thousands of people always ready to spend money on amusement or recreation, millions of dollars invested in automobiles, millions wagered on horse races every year, communities suspending business for a baseball game—and yet in every centre men out of work, no coal in sight for the winter round the corner, no income, nothing to look forward to but a grim fight to keep the wolf from the door.

KEEPING THE WOLVES AWAY.

In warning widows and other beneficiaries from life insurance policies to guard their money carefully and to keep it secure from the hands of "get-rich-quick" promoters, the Belleville Chamber of Commerce is doing a very useful work.

It is an inevitable as well as a very sad feature of dubious investment propositions that the majority of victims are people whose income is small, just such people as are being warned by the Chamber of Commerce.

High-pressure salesmen seek out that class because the fact that they have come into the possession of funds is usually generally known.

They are nearly always people who have little or no knowledge of business, and they are therefore easy victims for the glib-tongued salesmen of doubtful stock.

Ontario is a happy hunting ground for sharks of this description, and it is well therefore that such organizations as Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce, composed of representative business men, should consider it their duty to seek to protest those who by reason of their inexperience in business matters are exposed to the wileness of every smooth-talking, unscrupulous promoter or stock salesman who seeks them out.

PUZZLED VOTERS.

The class of citizen who has the greatest difficulty in making up his mind as to how he should mark his ballot when the plebiscite is submitted on Oct. 23rd is he who is concientiously endeavouring to decide for himself which method of dealing with the liquor problem promises to be the most beneficial.

The out and out prohibitionist who refuses to admit that any system of sale can have a single good point and the man who frankly admits that he wants to be able to buy liquor whenever he desires to do so, need no time to think about the matter.

They already know how they are going to vote.

But there are large numbers of people not in these classes who are honestly puzzled.

They are for the most part adverse to supporting any policy that will increase intemperance.

But they are unable to see the Ontario Temperance Act as it is pictured by prohibitionists.

They know that violations of the present Act are numerous, that bootleggers have been plying a busy trade, that opportunities to drink are placed before young people of both sexes, that the kitchens in many a household have been converted into amateur breweries, and they wonder whether or not the Government sale of liquor carefully restricted might remove some of these conditions.

They don't want to vote Ontario "wet," but they are just trying to figure out for themselves as to how "dry" Ontario is under the Ontario Temperance Act, and how "wet" the Province would be under a system of Government sale.

The fate of the Ontario Temperance Act depends largely upon how many of such puzzled voters there are and upon how the majority of them eventually decide to mark their ballots.

A HOUSE IN THE AIR.

A home on wheels was built by Will A. Harris, Texas educator. He constructed it on a motor truck. Painted grey, this travelling house of two rooms is 18 feet long.

In eight weeks Harris and his wife and young daughter travelled almost 4,000 miles this summer.

You've seen such homes on wheels. They are vivid illustrations of how the auto has in less than a generation virtually placed the entire Continent at the door of the car owner.

Distance, which was like jail bars, has been conquered by the auto. A man of very moderate means can get into his flivver and take a vacation trip such as was available only to the extremely rich not so many years ago.

The auto has given us a new form of liberty—releasing us from being confined to a very small section of the earth's surface.

With the invention of the auto, people have become rovers. Nearly every one can gratify the wanderlust instinct that lurks in all human blood.

Back a few years ago a man who took a trip of a few thousand miles was the talk of the town for years. Now he comes back; few have noticed his absence; they merely lift their eyebrows politely when he recounts the marvels of his trip.

Travel used to be almost exclusively available only to the rich. Now every one can travel, "see the country."

The next step in human liberation will be popularization of the flying machine. Wandering airplane houses will come, just as surely as we now have travelling homes on motor trucks.

It may seem a wild dream, but that's merely because people are afraid to ride in planes. This fear will disappear when flying becomes primarily a useful business instead of a sport—when the aviator's craze for speed and long distance gives way to concentration on how to make planes safe, fool-proof and cheap.

Flying homes would solve the rent problem—if Government provided free parking space. You may live to see the day when giant corporations will be fighting for a monopoly on desirable airplane parking grounds.

A TRIBUTE TO ENGLAND.

In the gloom that follows the constant series of defeats by British athletes in various sports at the hands of the United States representatives, Canadians are apt to forget the fact that, although for the present Britain's supremacy has waned, England is still the greatest sporting country in the world.

There are more English people indulging in athletic sports than there are citizens of any other country in the world.

And from England came most of the games.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger is one United States paper that recognizes the debt owing to England.

Its tribute contains much information that Canadians should know. It is as follows:

"England taught us track and field games. Since 1896, the year of the revived Olympics, we have consistently beaten our teachers. The British taught us golf. At this we have more than held our own with them. They taught us tennis, and for five years we have held the emblem that symbolizes world etnnis supremacy. Polo we imported from the British Isles, and for a long time we ate the dust of Britain's brilliant best. Latterly they have been utterly routed in polo. America's four horsemen on Tuesday afternoon rode the British off the field, ending in brilliance what they so brilliantly began on Saturday. The British Isles are the admitted cradle of sportsmanship, but their old-time supremacy, for the present, at least, has gone. Their own pupils have surpassed and outclassed them."

CRIME AND THE FILMS.

The alarming growth of crime since the war has become a frequent subject of comment in North American newspapers. There is no lack of statistics to show that in this respect the New World has completely outstripped the Old. Every day we read of robberies in banks and mail trains, of gun-fights in crowded streets, of the hold-up of peaceful pedestrians by masked men in motor cars. It was believed at first, a little too readily perhaps, that the culprits were for the most part returned soldiers, rendered bold and callous by experience in a hundred scenes of carnage. This explanation, nideed, is still frequently offered, though investigation has shown that gunmen are for the most part men—and women—between the ages of twenty and twenty-five. It is therefore nonsense to suggest that these desperadoes could have even smelt "the battle afar off, the thunder of the captains, and the shouting." At the time when hostilities terminated most of them could have known no more about fighting than can be learnt on the baseball diamond or the football field. Another cause than the war must therefore be sought for the lawlessness of North American youth, and the blame is usually laid on the moving pictures.

Yet how can the movies be held responsible? Admitted that in some cases they may be vicious in sentiment and detestable in taste, that they may exalt low passions and ignoble objects, this should have no other effect on young people who have been well brought up than to excite their ridicule and disgust. There would be no desire to emulate the low scoundrel of a Hollywood drama, if there were knowledge "to refuse the evil and choose the good." There might, probably would, be an eagerness to rival his exploits, if there were no consciousness of right and wrong, no standards of comparison by which to distinguish the base from the noble metal. To blame the Silent Drama is to blame its patrons. We may talk very big about making the film an educative medium, but we cannot divest ourselves thereby of our own responsibility in education. To a public quick to censure bad taste, offence will rarely be given; to one without right judgment anything may be offered with success. Indeed films of high quality and lofty sentiment (and there are many of these today), will only be caviare to the general, where the public taste is at fault. For did not the murderers of the Franks boy date their moral depravity from the time of reading Treasure Island?

However ridiculous this contention of their Chicago counsel may be, it is none the less true that evil minds can find food for evil passions in the purest circumstances. Anything is a weapon in the hands of a savage. And it is just as true that for those of finer instincts there is a lesson in the foulest story. It all depends upon the upbringing of the man who reads it. A generation ago boys eagerly devoured the stories of Sherlock Holmes, yet there was no marked degeneration in the national character. If some aspired to follow in the footsteps of the great detective, it is safe to assume that very few had any ambition to be Moriarty. In those days, it seems, children were taught "to refuse the evil and choose the good."

Today this is not so. In our haste to prepare the young for the battle of life, we sharpen their wits and leave their souls to rust. They are taught to confound brutality wtih manliness, cunning with cleverness, scruples and honesty with weakness of character. The secret of personality, they are told, is to be a good "mixer"; which means an ability to consort on terms of easy familiarity with men of low and dissolute habits. Is it surprising that, with this training, they find their friends among the villains rather than among the heroes of the moving pictures? Can we, in these conditions, lay the whole blame on the Hollywood producers for the crime wave which is sweeping this Continent?—Montreal Star.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

When people talk about the silent vote in the coming plebiscite they must be thinking about the bootleggers.

It's getting so that a person who owns a corner lot, according to the Manitoba Free Press, has to take it in nights lest there might be a gasoline station on it in the morning.

St. Paul has adopted a safety first slogan that should be remembered, "Look first and last longer," and it applies as well to Peterborough as to St. Paul.

An exchange thinks that the bathing suit manufacturer who has retired after accumulating a fortune must have made his money on the material he didn't use.

The Prince of Wales, says the Boston Transcript, may be pardoned if he asks whether he is a guest or an exhibit.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

Anything can happen. They arrested a prizefighter in Los Angeles instead of a movie star.

Thirty thousand coal miners are striking in Brussels, so perhaps it is just our annual coal strike touring abroad this year.

In Brazil the rebels have been forced to evacuate Piraju, but shouldn't mind much giving up a town named that.

A cement plant burned in Ragland, Ala., so there may be a shortage of heads for congressional blocs next time.

And in Anniston, Ala., when a society woman started to sing the piano toppled over, but failed to get away.

A pessimist is a politician discussing what the other side has done.

Some take too much trouble in making pleasure and others too much pleasure in making trouble.

In Spokane a bank cashier shot himself over his monthly total, so you might say he was a total wreck.

Fall is coming and the midiron will give way to the gridiron.

A woman from New Orleans took poison while in New York, but this was not the reason.

Two were injured in Cincinnati because an auto driver thought a girl looked better than the road.

You would think the two Chicago murderers were running for office, the way their past has been dug up.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 23. — There were not as many heavy exporters on offer yesterday morning. The first load averaged just over 1,200 pounds each, and cost $7.00 a cwt. Prices were no better than last week, but it is doubtful whether the quality was as good. Rogers & Maybee bought 500 yesterday morning and will take up to 1,200 head for the week.

Export steers are being taken at $6.50 to $7.50 a cwt.; heifers $6.00 to $6.50; bulls $4.00 to $4.25; and short keep $5.50 to $6.25 a cwt. The choice is not nearly as free ar a week ago.

The real active demand for butchers was in baby beeves. Frank Hunnisett wanted little else, and bought several at $7.50 to $10.00 a cwt. One buyer was looking for bologna bulls and complained that there were very few of these to be had. A fair load of Ontario short keeps about 1,100 pounds each sold at $6.00 a cwt. and a bunch of light stockers went at $3.85. The demand for stockers and feeders is beginning to increase.

The demand for butcher cattle is not too good and one of the best loads of heifers on the market, averaging 940 pounds each, was sold by Shields & Co. to the Harris Abattoir at $6.35 a cwt. Butcher cows were moving well at about steady prices. A few for kosher killing sold at $5.50 to $6.00 a cwt., but the average good cows went from $4.00 to $4.50. The pick of the market as usual was taken during the first three hours and then the trade flattened out with the certainty of a large left-over for to-day's business in the medium and common butchers.

Calves were just about steady with last week's close, with fewer good calves on sale. Bunches of grassers sold at 4 to 4 1-2 cents a pound.

Good calves were 9 1-2 to 10 1-2 cents a pound, and choice ones half a cent a pound higher. Medium calves averaged about 8 cents pound.

The Jews will be partly out of the market the next three weeks, and Buffalo will not need as many. This is expected to depress prices.

The lamb market continues unsettled and bids were hard to get in the early business. Few sales were reported during the morning.

Chas. Lunness bid $11.40 a cwt for a good bunch of lambs, but they were taken 10 cents higher.

The market is holding between 11 and 11 1-2 cents for ewes.

Hogs are up 25 cents a cwt. in the bid price to $9.25 a cwt. f.o.b., and the runs continue light.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, September 23 (Canadian Press). — Trade in the domestic cash grain market yesterday was moderately active. There was some demand from exporters for oats, and sales of job lots of No. 2 Canadian Western were made at 4 1-4 cents over the Winnipeg October option, c.i.f. day ports.

There were no further developments in the local flour situation yesterday, but the undertone was firm, maintaining recent advances. The foreign demand for spring wheat grades was fair. A fair trade was also done in winter wheat grades, and prices were well maintained. The tone of the market for white corn flour was firm.

The demand for mill feed from most sources continued steady and a fairly active business done. Transactions in standard grades of rolled oats were modified and prices ruled firm.

There was no change in the condition of the marked for baled hay, prices being well maintained. There was no change in the local egg market, prices for all grades being firm.

Owing to the continued steady demand from foreign buyers for supplies in the butter market yesterday, priced moved up 1-4 cent per pound.

A firm feeling continued to prevail in the cheese market, and a fair volume of business was done in this line.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, September 23 (Canadian Press).—Cattle receipts 20,000; weighty fed steers closing very slow at recent sharp decline. Liberal supply unsold, most medium grade and stale offerings held over from last week, yearlings and desirable handyweights strong to 25c higher, mostly 10c to 15c up; top yearlings $11.25, mixed steers and heifers upward to that price, numerous loads $10.50 to $11.00, handyweights averaging 1,113 pounds $11.25, some 1,206 pound average $11.00, best big weight steers $10.65, average weight 1,406 pounds, few loads weighty bullocks $10.50 to $10.60, these grades very choice, rough weighty steers averaging 1,554 pounds, $9.25, 1,644 pounds average $9.75, Western grassers steady to strong, spots sharply higher on better grades, bulk to killers $6.00 to $7.00, two loads upward to $7.65 to killers, Montana yearlings to feeder dealers upward to $7.50, she stock very uneven, steady to strong, closed weak, bulls 10c to 15c higher, vealers and stockers and feeders steady.

Hogs, receipts 27,000; desirable grades fairly active, mostly 15c to 20c higher, slaughter high and light lights largely 25c up, others slow, strong to 10c higher, top $10.30, bulk better 160 to 230 pound weight $9.90 to $10.25, good and choice 250 to 350 pound butchers largely $9.75 to $9.90, majority better 140 to 150 pound kind $9.50 to $9.90, bulk packing sows $8.60 to $8.90, strong weight slaughter pigs largely $8.75 to $9.25; estimated holdover 11,000.

Sheep, receipts 20,000; fat lambs steady to strong, spots 20c higher, sorting moderate bulk natives $12.50 to $13.00; few to outsiders $13.25; bulk Western lambs $13.00, some held higher, few yearling wethers $9.50, sheep steady, aged wethers $7.00, bulk fat ewes $4.75 to $6.50, feeding lambs fully steady, few yearlings and wethers $9.50, bulk desirable feeders $13.00 to $13.10, top $13.25, full-mouthed breeding ewes $7.00 to $8.25.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 23 (Canadian Press), — Active general selling in the corn market yesterday led to a much lower range of prices for corn. The selling was estimated by enlarged receipts of corn here and by continued absence of any heavy damage from frost.

Corn closed weak, 2 7-8c to 4 1-4c net lower, December 103 5-8 to 103 7-8.

In wheat the closing was unsettled at the same as Saturday's finish to 5-8c up, December 133 3-8 to 132 1-4 and May 137 5-8 to 137 3-4, with oats 1-4c to 3-4c down, and provisions varying from 7c lower to 15c gain.

NINETEEN KILLED.

Property Damage Estimated At Several Thousand Dollars.

ST. PAUL, Minn., September 22.—Canadian Press. — Nineteen known dead, at least ten injured, and property damage estimated at hundreds of thousands of dollars, was the toll of tornadoes and windstorms that swept across Minnesota and Wisconsin late yesterday. Unconfirmed reports place the dead at thirty. Interrupted wire communication with the afflicted areas makes it impossible to obtain property loss details.

WANT TO GO BACK.

Striking Telegraph Operators Will Now Accept Arbitration Board.

TORONTO, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press.) — By nominating J. G. O'Donoghue, Toronto lawyer, their representative on Board of Conciliation granted by the Labor Department to the Canadian Press, its striking telegraphers to-day withdrew from their attitude in striking rather than arbitrate. Men now offer to return to work to-night, but this, General Manager Livesay declines, saying that many positions are now open, being filled by automatic telegraph printers and he enumerates conditions on which some of the men will be taken back individually. Several men have already voluntarily returned to work and these the company will amply protect.

"I Suffered Terribly With Sore, Aching Back"
Mrs. Roland Ferguson, 194 Lake St., Peterboro, Ont., writes:

"For over two years I suffered terribly with sore back. I was almost mad with the pain, and had doctored with it until I was discouraged. Then my father, who is a firm believer in Dr. Chase's Medicines, advised me to try Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. I followed his advice, and am glad to say I was completely relieved of that torturing pain in my back. It is over a year since I used these pills, and I have had no return of the trouble, but always keep them in the house."

HOUSE AT BEWDLEY BURNED TO GROUND

William Dixon Suffers Loss —Furniture Saved, But Much Damaged.

BAILIEBORO, Sept. 23.— On Friday evening about 6.30 p.m. a fire broke out in the upper storey of Mr. William Dixon's house in Bewdley. The house was burned to the ground despite all the efforts put forth by the villagers to save the dwelling, although the greater part of its contents were freed from the flames, much damage being done to the furniture.

The cause of the fire was thought to be due to some matches in a store-room, which were disturbed by mice and the fire made a great deal of headway before it became visible.

The annual rally day service was held in the Baliieboro Methodist Church on Sunday evening, September 21. The church was beautifully decorated with a wonderful display of flowers and the rally program was followed out. The service was held a week or so earlier due to the fact that the anniversary services on Bailieboro circuit are following closely.

ARRANGE BALL TOUR.

Canada Included In Itinerary of Giants and White Sox.

CHICAGO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Preliminary arrangements for the European tour of the New York National and Chicago American League baseball teams were announced last night by President Charles A. Comiskey, of the Chicago White Sox. It will be the first baseball expeditionary force since the world tour of the same teams in 1919.

While the other trip, despite an initial outlay of $100,000, was a profitable venture, the agreement signed this time provides that all profits shall be turned over to charity.

The countries to be visited by the teams are Canada, British Isles, France, Germany, Italy and Belgium.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 23.—The Ladies' Missionary meeting, held in St. Andrew's Ladies' Parlor on Saturday afternoon, was well attended over a hundred being present. Mrs. Williams, returned missionary from Formosa, was the speaker for the afternoon.

She told of her work there, especially at Tamsui, where she and Rev. Mr. Williams are stationed, and also some experiences there. To the older girls and women in the schools, lessons were given in caring for babies and children. Many of the girls in the schools are becoming Christians. The only lady doctor in the island of Formosa was a student in their school.

A special feature of the afternoon was the presentation of a life member certificate of the Women's Missionary Society. This certificate was presented by Mrs. Fred Dinwoodie, who was the first president of the society that was organized in Campbellford about forty years ago. Mrs. A. Haig spoke a few words during the presentation, telling of the pleasure of the W.M.S. in presenting the life membership to Mrs. Williams.

Another pleasing event was the presentation of a life membership pin to Mrs. Williams from the Mission Band, also a beautiful bouquet of asters from the Band.

The address was read by Jean McArthur, and Elsie Connor presented the pin and Wilhelmina Allan the bouquet.

During the meeting, Mrs. R. Scott and Miss K. Connor favored the audience with vocal solos, Miss Robertson playing the accompaniments. Mrs. Robert Bell, president of the St. Andrew's W.M.S., very ably presided over the meeting. An opportunity was given to the ladies to see the curios and to visit with Mrs. Williams. The ladies of the other churches in town appreciated the kind invitations to attend this meeting, and a good number from all the churches were present. At the close of the afternoon, the ladies were served to ice cream and cake.

A Special Day.

Sunday in St. Andrew's Church was a very special day, as the congregation had the privilege of hearing Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, their own missionaries at Formosa, who are home for a rest. At ten o'clock the Sunday School met, and Mrs. Williams gave a very interesting talk to the school. Their two youngest children, Gordon, aged four, and Betty, aged two, were present, and were dressed in Formosan costumes.

The young ladies' mission circle of the church presented little Betty with a junior W.M.S. life membership certificate and a pin. Miss Lillian Hay, president of the circle, made the presentation.

At eleven o'clock and seven o'clock, Mr. Williams preached two very able sermons. The morning address was chiefly given to missionary work in Formosa, and the evening to his personal experiences during the five years of work on the island. The congregations were large both morning and evening, and all enjoyed hearing Mr Williams.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl West, of Thorold, are spending a few days with his mother, Mrs. S. J. West, Sebastapool Street.

Dr. Joe Irwin and Dr. Elliott, of Toronto, are spending the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Irwin at the Irwin Cottage at Bradley Bay.

Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Montgomery and little daughter, Dorothy, spent Friday with Mr. Montgomery's parents in Stirling.

Mr. James Irwin, of Toronto, is spending a few days in Campbellford with friends.

Mr. W. Wismer, of Kitchener, was in town on Thursday on a business trip.

Miss Irene Davidson, daughter of Reeve and Mrs. Davidson, Mill Street, left for Toronto on Monday morning where she will attend Normal School.

Mr. Montgomery, of Kingston, Government egg inspector, was in Campbellford for a few days last week attending to his work in looking after egg business at the stores and egg circles headquarters.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Weatherill and Mr. Carl Johnston, of Burnbrae, one day last week visited friends at Brighton.

Mr. R. F. Baghott, of London, made a business trip to Campbellford and spent Friday in town.

Mr. Evans, of Evans & Evans Coy., was in town on Saturday. He intends spending a few days hunting and fishing at Healey Falls.

Messrs. Jack Hartman, Alvin H. Beyer, Miles Buemling and Gerald Zent, all of Fort Wayne, Indiana, are spending some time at Mr. R. Cole's cottage at Healey Falls, and are having great success in fishing. Mr. Hartman was a very happy man when he caught a twenty-two pound lunge on Friday. This beauty was captured with a double spoon bait. The four men were as happy as schoolboys over the success in getting so large a fish. They had it sent away to be mounted.

Mrs. Florence Shannon and daughter, Florence, left for Grafton on Thursday night, where they will spend a few days with Mrs. Shannon's sister, Mrs. Wright. Mrs. Shannon intends spending some time with her sister, while her daughter will be away.

Miss Shannon leaves for Toronto on Sunday where she will visit Mrs. Vandewater. On Tuesday she leaves for New York, where she will resume her duties as nurse-in-training at St. Vincent's Hospital.

Miss Shannon, who has spent nearly two years in training, was called home on account of her mother's illness for three months. She is expecting to finish her final year now, if her mother's health permits.

Mr. Thomas Brown, of Seymour, has purchased the restaurant business at Havelock, lately owned by Mr. George Godden. He takes possession November 1st. Mr. Brown intends having an auction sale of his farm stock and implements early in October.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Sloggett and child, of Toronto, motored to Campbellford on Saturday and spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sloggett, Bridge Street.

Campbellford has a Rally Week for this week:—Monday night, at 8 o'clock, in Public Library—Rally for the Township of Seymour for all temperance workers to plan for the coming plebesite. Tuesday night, at 8 o'clock, in the Methodist Sunday Schoolroom—Royal Templars' rally. Rev. Mr. Daniel, of Seymour circuit, gives the address on the temperance question; also musical programme. Thursday night, at 8 o'clock, in St. Andrew's Church, a rally of all in town who are interested in temperance for further planning and organizing. Sunday—Rally service in the Methodist Sunday School. Service will be held upstairs in the auditorium at half-past two.

The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist Church will hold their September meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. J. A. Irwin, on Thursday afternoon at three o'clock.

Rev. J. F. Joblin, of Rawdon, who exchanged pulpits with Rev. W. Elliott, of the Methodist Church, on Sunday, preached two splendid and very interesting sermons.

Miss Essa Dafoe, of the High School staff, spent the week-end with friends in Norwood.

CAUGHT IN STORM.

Big Storm Sweeping Over the Great Lakes.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., September 22 (Canadian Press). — Caught in the first equinoctial gale of the season sweeping over this section of the Great Lakes, an unknown steamer ran aground last night and is hard ashore on the point westward of the Detour Light.

The steamer in distress was reported early this morning by the upbound steamer Valcartier.

Officers of the Valcartier reported that about midnight they heard distress signals and saw red lights flashing in that neighbourhood.

Owing to the gale, the Valcartier was unable to get close enough to make definite observations or give assistance.

Confirmation of the reported vessel in distress was given by other steamers this morning.

Assitance will be sent as soon as the weather moderates.

The north-west gale which prevailed all night with rain and thunderstorm, swung to the south-west this morning.

"FIRST TEETH" IMPORTANT

First teeth! How many parents realize their importance?

They are known technically as deciduous teeth.

They arrive about the fourth month of a baby's life, or thereabouts. They should be shed between the age of 6 and 12 years.

There are a great many people who attach little importance to them. Oh, they'll lose them, anyway, the parents say.

But this is why they are important: The period of most rapid growth with a child is the period in which the deciduous teeth are used. This is the period in which a child should have 100 per cent. chewing power. They are used for anywhere between six and ten years.

They are quite as important as permanent teeth and in health or disease they have an important influence on the growth of the child's body and mind.

Don't neglect the "first teeth."

PRESS COMMENT.

What the Newspapers Think of Judge Caverly's Sentence.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Life imprisonment in the cases of "Dickie" Loeb and "Babe" Leopold may be justified only if these two youthful murderers are placed in a confinement so deep that they will never be heard of again. This is a preponderant note in editorial comment gathered from all sections of the United States to-day on the action of Judge Caverly in the famous Chicago murder case.

Newspapers, as well as many judges who have been interviewed, hold the view that too much responsibility was placed upon Judge Caverly. It is agreed that no State should permit a person accused of first-degree murder to plead guilty. If a sentence of death follows such a plea it smacks of legal suicide. If an atrocious crime is palliated by life imprisonment, it shows that tender-hearted judges do not always follow the intent of the law. Most of the States require a jury trial in first-degree murder.

Eastern Newspaper Comment.

The Newark News is most outspoken in its belief that "such travesties as this" will strengthen the conviction already widely held, "that there is one law for those who can command unlimited resources and the highest legal talent; another for the poor devil who must take his chance with the best he can afford."

The New York Times takes up the cudgels against this sort of comment. It says Judge Caverly felt hanging of two youths was not upheld by modern practice or opinion, and draws the conclusion that "such a decision for such a reason will break the charge that Leopold and Loeb escaped death solely because their families were rich enough to pay large fees to lawyers."

The Baltimore Evening Sun believes that if the case had been brought before a jury there might have been greater likelihood of capital punishment, but it laments that "even in cases of jury trial it is becoming more and more difficult to exact the extreme penalty of the law."

Opinions from the West.

The Denver Post is characteristically blunt in its comment that the decision is "rotten."

The Portland (Ore.) Journal agrees that Loeb and Leopold were not normal, but it asks, "What murderer isn't abnormal? If abnormality is to be considered as an excuse for murder where will society get protection?".

The Salt Lake Deseret News takes the philosophical view that the decision should be accepted, and adds: "Let Illinois be sure that Loeb and Leopold are kept where they can do no more harm, and let the world get back to normal thought again."

The San Francisco Bulletin fears that "the social and political effects of Judge Caverly's verdict are grevously to be dreaded. It will be widely regarded as illustrating a fatal weakness and a moral defect in our system."

The Milwaukee Journal declares the sentence "strikes another blow at the courts," and avows "no crime could be committed that calls for capital punishment if this doesn't."

The Kansas City Post boldly asserts that "the theory that there is one set of laws for the rich and another for the friendless poor has received substantial support as a civil propaganda gnawing at the very vitals of national confidence and pride."

To the St. Paul Dispatch it is "narrow legalism" to excuse Loeb and Leopold because of their youth and their pleas of guilty. Their crime was "not the outburst of youthful irresponsibility."

The Nashville Tennesseean says society does not seek revenge. "It wants protection from such criminals," and will be protected if the sentences are served.

The Birmingham News, commenting that respect for courts does not exist to the degree that it should for the safety of American institutions, concludes that "this decision will not serve to increase that respect."

Expressions from Canada.

A Canadian view of the situation is expressed by the Toronto Star. Laconically it says: "The two Chicago degenerates have been sentenced to life imprisonment, but in Chicago that may mean a quiet release after a few months in which to let public interest turn in other directions. It is not surprising that the Chicago murder record is about the worst in the world."

"If any murderers in all the annals of American crime" deserved capital punishment the Syracuse Herald believes the kidnappers and slayers of Robert Franks did. The Albany News is one of the papers that believes capital punishment should either be wiped from the books or it should be administered.

The Utica Observer-Dispatch demands that the sentences be served to the full, for it says no trumped-up expert testimony can ever satisfy the public that these boys deserve release. The Washington Star regards the decision as a shock "that may have a serious reaction," evoking expressions inimical to the prestige of the courts as the agency for the enforcement of the law.

A WEALTHY WEDDING.

International Banker and a Duchess Hook-up.

PONTOISE, France, Sept. 22.—Duchess Demarchena, richest woman in Spain, and Sir Basil Zaharoff, the International banker, reputed to be the wealthiest man in Europe, were married at noon today in the private chapel of Brides Chauteau, Balincourt, near Paris. They had been friends for many years. Sir Basil Zaharoff, frequently alluded to as Europe's man of mystery, is a national of France, although born in Constantinople of Russian father and Greek mother. He is reputed to have great possessions through investments in all parts of the world and is one of the principal owners of concession for famous casino at Monte Carlo.

"WILL NOT WORK."

What One Man Thinks of the League of Nations.

MONTREAL, Sept. 22.—(Canadian Press).—Dr. Moritz J. Bonn, of the University of Berlin, does not believe in the League of Nations. "It will not work," he told a packed audience at the People's Forum in the Church of Messiah last night, when lecturing on "Problems of Central Europe."

The reason that "it will not work," the German economist argued, was that while such states as the Hedjas, Haiti and the Republic of Libera were admitted, Germany, Russia and Hungary were not, and the United States was not a member.

ESTABLISHES RECORD.

Early Production of Eggs Credited To a Pullet.

TARA, September 22 (Canadian Press). — A. R. Foster, of Tara, is the owner of a Barred Plymouth Rock pullet which has established a new record for early production of eggs. This bird has commenced to lay at scarcely over three and one-half months of age.

Robert Newman of Allenford also has a pullet of the same breed which commenced laying at four months.

PARIS (By mail to United Press).—The crime of bobbing a girl's hair is classed with assault on a minor by M. Barthe, deputy from Herault, who has brought an action for damages against a country coiffeur for clipping the tresses of his daughter without permission of her parents.

The honorable deputy returned home from an unusually hectic session of the Chamber of Deputies to be greeted by his 17-year-old daughter, completely transformed by a haircut. His remarks, colored by Quai d'Orsay atmosphere, were ineffective in restoring her, so he went to the coiffeur and, in parliamentary fashion, brought up a question of order. He established that the coiffeur obeyed the request of the girl without the consent of her parents. Monsieur, the deputy from Herault, declared that his daughter was under the age of consent, and he brought suit.

Your Silent Partner

A silent partner, with money, wishes to take a place in your organization but does not ask for voting power or any voice in control.

He will agree to 'team-up' with any valued official, or other person, ready to compensate in cash for the loss of this person to your firm through death.

This will maintain your credit and get you over the readjustment period when the shock comes. If you should estimate the loss at $35,000 and your official is age 42, the salary demanded by the 'silent partner' is only $1,000 a year,—to be reduced substantially year by year.

PRINCE DESIRES QUIET IN WEST

Met By Premier King During Brief Stay in Ottawa.

ONLY 15 MINUTES

OTTAWA, Sept. 23.—No cheering thousands greeted his Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, who spent fifteen minutes in the capital Monday afternoon on his way to his ranch in Alberta. About 100 people gathered in Ottawa East on the city outskirts to see the heir to the British throne as he passed through.

Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King was the first to greet the royal visitor as he stepped from his train and the two chatted for several minutes. The prince discussed phases of the Imperial conference and paid tribute to the wonderful hospitality accorded to him in the United States. He was also met by Hon. Martin Burrell, former minister of agriculture, and by Brigadier-General C. F. Winter. To General Winters the prince said that the American polo players were much stronger than the English players. This was due no doubt to the fact that the British poloists were all army officers and did not have the time to give to the game as the Americans.

"We will send a team over next year," said the Prince.

Albert Edward told Premier King that he was expecting to have a quiet visit in Canada after his strenuous activities in United States.

He was glad to be back in Canada and he said that he loved the western country. The prince hoped to get some good shooting, and looked with interest to newspapermen to whom he refused interviews.

Now Lord Renfrew

"You will remember that the prince will not be interviewed," said Capt. Lascelles. "As he is travelling simply as Lord Renfrew.

The heir to the greatest throne on earth presented a most unfashionable appearance when he got off the train. He wore a grey suit which looked as if it had seen better days, while his tan shoes had a like appearance.

The prince wore his regulation blue shirt with a tie with the Guards' colors. He wore a snappy grey hat and on the whole looked to be an unassuming young man. He was the picture of health.

Secret service men in great numbers guarded the royal visitor who was the "prince charming" of old. He smilingly received the salutes and cheers accorded him and left a splendid impression behind him.

No Formalities

There were no formalities whatever in connection with the prince's few moments in Ottawa, an at 3.25 the train left for the west.

BERNARD GRANT GIVEN 3 MONTHS' REPRIEVE

Attorney Regards Action a Good Start Toward Saving Boy's Life.

CHICAGO, Sept. 22.—"Gee! that's good news," Bernard Grant cried when word was brought to him that Governor Small had granted him a ninety-day reprieve. "I didn't have anything to do with the killing and I feel it in my bones that the governor will give me a pardon."

"I feel that the governor's action is a mighty good start on the road to a pardon for Grant", Attorney Thomas Swanson, who is fighting for Grant's life, declared.

The governor, in granting the reprieve, made no mention of the Leopold-Loeb case or of "equal justice for poor and rich.'

The reprieve stays the hanging of Grant until January 17, 1925.

ALIENS SNEAK OVER THE LINE

Hundreds of Immigrants Being Smuggled Into U. S. Via Canada.

PROFIT IN TRAFFIC

MALONE, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Immigrants are sneaking over the Canadian border from Rouse's Point to Ogdensburg in hundreds and working their way steadily down through the State to New York City or other industrial centres where they can mingle in safety with the people of their own race.

Admitting this to-day, Federal officials here charged that there is in Montreal a syndicate of taxicab men openly advertising along the St.Lawrence river front that they will take aliens into the United States without the formalities of complying with the immigration regulations established by the drastic new national restrictive immigration law.

Knowledge of this syndicate came through questioning immigrants who have been arraigned before Federal Judge Frank Cooper for illegal entry into this country.

Beats Bootlegging.

Professional violators of the law, it is said, have given up bootlegging for the more profitable smuggling of aliens across the border. They can get more for carrying a load of aliens across the border over some little used and unguarded route than they can by bringing a load of liquor over The danger of getting caught is also less. Consequently aliens who know that they cannot enter because of the rigid restrictions at the regular port are booking passage to Montreal and then joining the category of liquor and opium in order to get in.

Dozens of them are sneaking into New York city daily, it is believed, and the number is bound to increase as the process becomes better known unless some action is taken.

Federal officials are studying the problem. While up to a year ago, few immigrant cases ever came into court, now the Northern Judicial District of New York is deluged with them. At the last arraignment day in the Federal Court between 50 and 75 were fined $1000 each and sent to jail for there months by Judge Cooper.

On the next arraignment day more than 75 were awaiting the action of the court. This is about as great as the number of bootleggers who are caught in the district. No such numbers were ever known before and Federal officials estimate that for every one who is caught dozens get by. Once across the line, the aliens are comparatively safe because of the large number of foreigners throughout the States with whom they may mingle.

May Raise Penalty.

Judge Cooper is considering increasing the penalty in this district. If the deluge continues it is expected by persons in his confidence that he will regard the onrush of aliens as evidence that three months in jail and $1000 fine is not enough. The jails along the border are filled not with bootleggers but with immigrants, and in the future more may be sent to Atlanta.

The number of immigration inspectors along the border also may be increased. The small force now maintained and organized only to cope with spasmodic attempts to get across the border before the stringent immigration law went into effect finds itself overwhelmed with the carefully planned invasion of immigrants. Civil Service examinations will be held at Albany soon to increase this unit. Transfers may also be made from forces at American ports to the border district.

The attention of the authorities at Washington have been called to the condition, and it is expected that if other means fail some protective agreement may be sought with Canada by which the immigration of foreigners may be checked in Montreal, and other Canadian ports before the aliens get a chance to start for the United States in taxicabs.

NORTH MONAGHAN'S TAX RATE STRUCK

Rate of 12 2/10 Mills For County and 3 6/10 For Township Purposes.

North Monaghan Council held its regular meeting in the Court House, Peterborough, when Reeve H. O. Rye, reported that he had been informed that the residents on the north side of Lansdowne street east of Lock Street, and some of the residents on the south side of the street, in North Monaghan, were petitioning the city for sewer connections. He did not think it advisable, therefore, to proceed with grading and gravelling Lansdowne street as previously arranged with the Board if Works, at the present time. Mr. Ferguson, of the Brinton Corpet Company was present and asked the Council for permission to lay an eight inch water main on Lock Street from Albertus street to Braidwood avenue. He stated that the Brinton Carpet Company were desirous of having the present main on Lock street extended south to Braidwood avenue from the present terminal of the main near Albertus street for the purpose of installing a sprinkler system at their plant.

A resolution was passed that the matter be referred to Mr. Peck for legal advice, and that the Reeve and the Clerk be appointed a committee to deal with the request with full power to act. Mr. Ferguson suggested that in the event of the Company paying the cost of laying the main, estimated at about $1,000, at the present time, and in case the ratepayers of this section on Lock street south, McGill street, Braidwood avenue, and other streets in this locality petition the council in the future for city water, they sign an agreement with the township of North Monaghan that they pay their share of the original cost of laying the said water main, statement of actual cost to be filed by the Peterborough Utilities Commission upon completion of the work, and in case the water main is extended in the future, upon petition of the ratepayers in that section, that the municipality pay the Brinton Carpet Company the actual cost as filed. The ratepayers on McGill street, Braidwood avenue must petition the council and sign an agreement as well, agreeing to pay their share of the difference in cost between a six inch and an eight inch main.

John Whitfield made application for re-appointment as township tax collector, at a salary of $200, the receipt stamp tax to be paid by the municipality, and was appointed.

John McIntosh was present and asked the council of North Monaghan to grant a sum of money, suggesting $50, on condition that the township of Cavan grants an equal amount, for the purpose of gravelling a portion of the Cavan boundary, being the southerly end in the 12th concession of the township of North Monaghan, directly north of where the crushed stone was placed on the concession line directly west of thet provincial highway. Mr. McIntosh proposes interviewing the Cavan council for a grant equal to that given by Notrh Minaghan. A resolution was passed that North Monaghan grant $50, on the commutation of road division No. 2, on condition that Cavan council grants an equal amount. Mr. McIntosh also called the township's attention to the dilapidated conditon of the Town Hall.

Dr. J. A. Morgan was appointed Medical Officer of Health of the Township, in place of the late Dr. Greer.

Tax Rate Struck.

A second meeting was held for the purpose of striking the tax rates for the current year.

Requisitions were received for County rates as follows:

Grant to Road Division 1	200.00
Grant to Cavan boundary	75.00
	$36,210.86

The total assessment for 1924 being $955,390, it will be necessary to levy a rate of 12 2-10 mills to raise the required amount of money for county purposes, and a rate of 3 6-10 mills to raise the required money for township purposes.

The rates on the school sections are as follows:

No. 1	38-10 mills
No. 2	107-10 mills
No. 3	24-10 mills
No. 4	58-10 mills
Separate School rate	15 1-2 mills

Grants Made.

A resolution was passed that the township grant $10.00 to the Ploughmen's Association. Another resolution granted $200.00 to Road Division No. 1 for the purpose of assisting to wipe out the overdraft.

A resolution was passed that the treasurer pay the Freport Sanitarium $46.50 for a patient confined there during the month of August.

The meeting adjourned to re-convene on Monday, 13th October, at the Court House.

MAGNESIA FINE FOR ACID STOMACH

Quickly Neutralizes Acidity. Stops Fermentation, Sweetens the Stomach

Nine people in ten, when food upsets the stomach causing distress, think they have indigestion. In really, they are suffering from "acid stomach.' An excess of acid in the stomach causes gas, heartburn, bloating and sourness.

To have a strong healthy stomach capable of easily and normally digesting three hearty meals a day you simply must keep these stomach acids neutralized and the stomach contents sweet. No artificial digestents necessary. Just ge a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia from any good drug store and take a teaspoonful of the powder or two tablets in a half glass of water right after eating or whenever the slightest pain is felt. The result is amazing and you will be delighed with the almost instant relief it brings. This famous stomach sweetner combines Magnesia and Bismuth in desirable proportion and is not only splendidly effective but perfectly harmless. Its regular use keeps the stomach sweet strong and healthy all the time.

Bisurated Magnesia is well known to druggists everywhere and is used annually by more than a half million people who now eat as they please, in reason with no fear of indigestion.

WEAR WASHABLE GOWN.

When cooking or doing housework it is advisabel to wear a washable gown, and to have enough of these so you can always appear neat and fresh.

BRIGHTON FAIR A BIG SUCCESS

BRIGHTON, Sept. 22.—The annual fall fair of the Brighton Agricultural Society was held here Saturday. The date for Brighton fair this year was later than in previous years, when it was held on the second Wednesday or second Friday of September. The officers and directors worked hard to make this year's fair an improvement, and their efforts were certainly crowned with success. The weatherman didn't do his very best for them, and if he had, there is no doubt but what the 1924 fair would have surpassed any in the last five years. Friday, the preceding day, was ideal and promised well for the morrow. But a rainstorm blew up during the night and Saturday dawned dull and wet. Infrequent showers continued during the morning, but it cleared at noon, and the sun broke through the clouds and shone for a few moments. Then the weatherman made some amends for his previous conduct by holding back the rain until seven o'clock in the evening, thus permitting the afternoon's programme to be carried out.

The attendance was slightly better than last year, and the exhibits in all classes improved and more varied. Competition was keen, not only for the society prizes, but for the special prizes donated by merchants and citizens of Brighton and vicinity. M. E. Maybee, M.P. for Northumberland, and J. F. Belford, M.P.P. for East Northumberland, were among the donors of special prizes. Headlining these latter is a silver cup donated by the local branch of the Bank of Commerce for the best Holstein cow or heifer.

The half-mile track was in very fair condition, considering the morning's rain, and the time of the heats were very little slower than usual. Geo. O. Tice, of Belleville, was starter, and handled the races in his usual capable manner.

Alderville brass band furnished a generous and excellent programme of music, playing on the streets at the noon hour, leading the parade to the grounds and playing there and again in the evening at the town hall bandstand.

Calithumpian Parade Best Feature.

Everyone agreed upon one fact—that the Calithumpian parade, staged by the students and teachers of high and public schools was the best feature of the day's programme. It was certainly a fine stroke of business when the agricultural society officers asked the schools to stage this parade. It was excellent from beginning to end—better even than the Calithumpian parade at the high school field day two years ago. The parade, led by the Alderville band, started from the town hall, going east on Main Street, south on Prince Edward Street, and east again on Elizabeth Street to the grounds. Every student and teacher in high and public schools took part. First came the seasons, followed by the Prince of Wales on his favorite polo pony, and escorted by a guard of honor of Boy Scouts. Miss Canada and the provinces, the Sunny South, King Tut, the Pied Piper of Hamelin, the Ku Klux Klan, the Iroquois tribe of Indians, a gypsy caravan, a Red Cross Corps, a Canadian National train, a Trades and Labor Council, a pipe organ and the Department of Education were among the famous characters and organizations noticed in the parade.

In the evening the Orpheus male quartette, of Toronto, gave a most pleasing concert in the town hall. The members of the quartette are all gifted singers and there were heard to advantag in solo, as well as ensemble numbers.

The officers and directors of the Brighton Agricultural Society who deserve credit for promoting such a successful fair are: President, A. A. Wade; 1st vice-president, A. C. Leslie; 2nd vice-president, C. E. Thorne; secretary-treasurer, Cecil C. Fiddick. Directors—R. O. Quick, H. Sirett, J. J. LaTour, S. D. Ross, A. O. Maybee, C. E. Huff, C. Baker, M. Bryant, E. H. Bate.

A merchant in Peking has a large store in which he sells nothing but plain and fancy collar buttons and cuff links.

NEWS OF BETHANY.

Mrs. F. C. Dawe Had Hand Severely Cut By Broken Glass.

BETHANY, Sept. 22.—Miss Jean Irgram, who has been visiting relatives in the village for the last few weeks, has returned to Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Soden, of Peterboro', spent Thursday, the guests of Mrs. Soden's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Sisson.

Mrs. L. Lamb, of London, is spending a vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Mulligan.

Mrs. (Dr.) Irvine, of Cobourg, is the guest of her friend, Mrs. S. Arnott.

A number of the pupils who passed their entrance are taking up high school work in Lindsay.

Quite a number from the community took in Lindsay fair on Friday and Saturday.

Mrs. F. C. Dawe met with a painful accident on Thursday afternoon. While removing a piece of broken glass from a window, her right hand was severely cut at the knuckle joint of the second finger. Two stitches were necessary to close the wound.

NEWS OF WARSAW.

WARSAW, Sept. 19.—Mrs. Alex Donald, Dr. Lily Young of Campbellford and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Ross, New York, motored to Warsaw and spent Tuesday and Wednesday with friends.

Miss Elsie Tucker has returned from her holidays and Miss Emma Darling left for hers on Tuesday morning.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Watts, on September 5th, a daughter.

Born—To Mr. and Mrs. John Lloyd, on September 5th, a daughter.

Mr. and Mrs. Verne Selkirk are visiting their relatives here. Mr. Selkirk has made a good recovery from his recent serious illness.

Miss Magaret Purchase, Toronto, spent part of her holidays with Miss Edith Tucker.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Payne, Harold and Cessa left on Tuesday morning on a motor trip to Windsor. They plan to visit at several intervening points.

Douro Fair is on Thursday, Sept. 25th. Besides the regular school fair there are to be many prizes. P. G. Towns sent all the school children packages of seeds. He has also arranged for many special prizes for horses, colts, drivers, calves and many other things. In the evening there is to be an entertainment for which young people have been practicing in the school houses for weeks.

There was regular service in the Anglican Church.

Dr. Archibald, Norwood, changed pulpits with Mr. Atkinson on Sunday morning. There was no preaching service at Cottesloe.

Many from Warsaw went to South Dummer on Sunday.

Mr. Weir preached on the answer to the previous Sunday's text, "Where art thou?" Answer: "I hid myself"—in which he showed how "Conscience doth make cowards of us all"—a sermon which ought to help every one who heard it.

Mr. Barret from Peterboro gave an address in the Town Hall on Sunday evening to which quite a few went. Several went over after the regular church service.

At the Woman's Institute last Thursday it was decided to hold their regular meeting on October 9, and have a special meeting as the twenty-first birthday anniversay. There will be a history of the Institute work and etc. An effort is being made to have all the ex-presidents, as well as the present one there.

Mrs. Forsythe gave a very earnest talk on "Temperance". She strongly advocated the O.T.A. She said that we should study all sides of the question, so we could know why we acted. We should do all we can to educate people to the needs of the Act and its enforcement. We do not want our government to be liquor sellers. Where government control has come in it is worse than the open bar. The matter is so important that some other things should be left and all the work possible be done between now and election time. If the liquor people thought any other law would help temperance it would not be the law they want. Some speak of taking away our liberties. It does take away the right of any one to do wrong, and it does protect others. Most laws are: "Thou shalt not"—even the decalogue, on which practically all laws are founded, is much of "Thou shalt not". She read several extracts from papers. One Chicago paper said Government control in Ontario would necessitate quadrupling the American police force.

We know well enough that government control would not be carried out any better, or as well as the O.T.A. The government should see that the O.T.A. is enforced. The law is not perfect but it is conceded to be the best that could be planned.

J. W. Jackson will lecture in the town hall, Warsaw on Sunday, under the auspices of the International Bible Students Association.

MARMORA FANS SAW DELORO DEFEATED

Quite a Number Motored To Colborne For Game With C.G.E.

MARMORA, Sept 23.— A large number of Marmora supporters accompanied Deloro baseball team to Colborne on Saturday last. Amongst these Mr. and Mrs. F. Wells, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Emmorey, Mr. W. J. Cottrell, the Misses Nellie and Hazel Williams, Mr. Jack Nobes, Mr. Ralph Neal, Rev. D. R. Clare and family, Mr. Mathew Auger, Mr. Frank Grant, Mr. Harold Nayler, Miss Florence Sopha, Mr. M. E. Grant, Mr. Charles Shannon, Mr. Charles O'Connor.

Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Wiggins and daughter Helen, of Belleville, attended the Deloro-Peterboro game in Colborne Saturday.

Miss Hilda Thomson and Miss Tessa Cronkrite accompanied Havelock girls' soft ball team to Tweed on Saturday to play Tweed High school.

New Deloro Store.

Additions to the new store at Deloro are now being completed, Ontario's smallest incorporated village has one of the most pretentious stores that even a larger village could command.

Under the painter's skill, the residence of Mr. S. B. Wright recently enlarged, is taking on a most pleasing appearance.

Auctioneer's Debut.

A new local auctioneer has stepped into the field in the person of Mr. Fred Johnston. He handled the gavel for the first time on Saturday, conducting the sale of the effects of Mr. Isaac Wright.

Tweed Girls Won.

School softball team Havelock girls were badly defeated, but this is not to be wondered at, in view of the fact that the Tweed team has for several years proved to be always a winning team.

Mrs. Samuel Rogers and little daughter, of Niagara Falls are visiting Mrs. Fred Gray.

Mrs. George Wright is revisiting the town.

Mr. A. R. Pengilly returned on Friday from his trip to Montreal.

Oddfellows of Springbrook, visited Mount Nebo cemetery last Saturday for the annual grave decorations. A goodly concourse of residents attended the ceremony.

There are 3,000 radio manufacturers and 1,000 distributors and jobbers in this country.

SPIRITUAL CIRCULATION.

An ignorant traveller, tired of walking up and down mountains, might think that God had made a mistake in creating mountains and that it would have been much better if he had made only the plains. This means that he is not aware of the many uses of mountains and of the riches stored in them. For one thing the mountains keep the water in circulation and the circulation of water in the world is just as necessary as the circulation of blood in the body. In the same manner, the ups and bearing the cross keep our spiritual downs of life and the hardships of life in circulation, prevent it from stagnation and bring the soul to countless blessings—Sandhu Sundar Singh.

BROCKVILLE FARMER SUFFERED 20 YEARS

"Les" Booth Finally Got Relief Through Taking Tanlac.

"Since taking Tanlac, I feel so fit it sometimes seems like a dream, for there was hardly a day in 20 years that I did not suffer," is the striking statement of Geo. L. ("Les") Booth, 271 Perth street, Brockville, Ont., one of the best known farmers in Ontario.

"For 20 years, up to three years ago when I took Tanlac, I suffered from rheumatism in my arms, shoulders, back and hips, so bad at times I could not lift my arms to put my coat on. I couldn't even write my name and I just limped about like a cripple. Many a night it looked like I would not live to see daybreak and once I was laid up six months unable to hit a lick of work.

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me. It ended every sign of rheumatism and built up my weight 16 pounds, and since then I have not had a rheumatic ache or pain. If anybody wants to know about Tanlac, just let them see 'Les' Booth."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

TAG DAY NEAR

Just three more days till Tag Day (Saturday, September 27), when, it is hoped the expectations of the Children's Aid Society of a substantial sum being contributed in aid of their splendid work will be realized. The calls upon this society in the interests of neglected and dependent children are ever-increasing, and consequently their revenues from public sympathy with so worthy a cause should show a commensurate increase.

The local organization is, so to speak, a branch of the Children's Aid Society of Ontario, the magnitude of which and the scope of its activities may be gleaned from the following summary of the institution's thirteenth general report for 1923:

Number of local societies, 62. Number of children cared for, 23,998. Children committed as wards during the year, 786; under supervision, 8,809; released from supervision last year, 1,081. Number of children in orphanage, 2,250. Number of children's shelters, 39, with 486 inmates all told. Number of dependent infants in various homes, 225; children in public or private institutions, 2,960. Legal adoptions in two years, 1,581, of which 975 were adopted in 1923; of adopted children the number of Children's Aid wards is given as 639, and adopted children born out of wedlock as 201. The total number of children of unmarried parents investigated was 1,936, and the number of unmarried parents cases acted on in 1922 was 1,162.

This should give a comprehensive idea of the various channels of endeavor in which the Children's Aid are engaged, that unfortunate little ones should have proper care and supervision during those early years when environments play so important a part in character building.

And so, let every one get tagged on Saturday.

FIRST WOLF STORY.

Wolf Returned To Camp and Took His Hide Away.

SOO, Ont., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Geo. Coutu, with the Lang and Ross survey party on the proposed trunk road along the north shore of Lake Superior, shot a big wolf when it came into camp. After skinning the wolf, Coutu placed the hide just inside his tent. There was a box of cheese nearby. When he awoke he found the wolf hide missing and the cheese partly eaten, the remainder of the cheese having wolf teeth marks in it.

WOMAN IMPLICATED.

Wanted To Poison One Husband To Get Another.

MOUNT VERNON, Ills., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—After an all night vigil, Mrs. Elsie Sweetin confessed this morning that she was implicated with Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, of Ina, in a plot to poison her husband and Mrs. Hight, in order that she and the minister could be married, thus confirming the confession made yesterday by Rev. Hight.

Arrested yesterday at her home in Ina, near here, Mrs. Sweetin denied any part in the alleged poison plot, as had been admitted by the minister, but broke down this morning.

VELVET BANDEAU

GOOD ATTENDANCE AT THE REST BOOTH.

Visitors to the Peterboro Exhibition this year were very appreciative of the accommodation afforded by the rest tent maintained by the Well Babies' Clinic authorities. During previous years, mothers of small infants were compelled to wander aimlessly about the grounds, with no refuge in inclement weather. This year, they were made comfortable in the tent provided for them. This season, first aid was rendered in two instances, many women came in and procured the literature provided in the tent, much general interest was manifested, and an attendance of over 800 people was recorded during the Fair days.

AWARDED DECISION.

ST. JOHN, N.B., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Johnnie McIntire, of Glace Bay, Nova Scotia, was awarded the decision in the St. Andrew's rink last night over Frankie Bull, of Toronto, in a ten round bout. The fight was a good one, although most of it was done in close.

His face blanched, and the wattles about his jaws were shaking.

"And—and the cost? Hast thou counted the cost, O Fenzileh? What will happen when Asad gains knowledge of this thing?"

"He shall gain no knowledge of it," she answered him. "Or it he does, the girl being gone beyond recall, he shall submit him to what was written. Trust me to know how to bring him to it."

"Lady, lady!" he cried, and wrung his bunches of fat fingers. "I dare not engage in this!"

"Engage in what? If I bid thee go buy this girl, and give thee the money thou'lt require, what else concerns thee, dog? What else is to be done, a man shall do. Come now, thou shalt have the money, all I have, which is a matter of some fifteen hundred philips, and what is not laid out upon this purchase thou shalt retain for thyself."

He considered an instant, and conceived that she was right. None could blame him for executing the commands she gave him. And there would be profit in it, clearly—aye, and it would be sweet to outbid that dog Tsamanni and send him empty-handed home to face the wrath of his frustrated master.

He spread his hands and salaamed in token of complete acquiescence.

CHAPTER XVIII
THE SLAVE-MARKET

At the Sok-el-Abeed it was the hour of the outcry, announced by a blast of trumpets and the thudding of tom-toms. The traders who until then had been licensed to ply within the enclosure now put up the shutters of their little booths. The Hebrew pedler of gems closed his box and effaced himself, leaving the steps about the well clear for the most prominent patrons of the market. These hastened to assemble there, surrounding it and facing outward, whilst the rest of the crowd was ranged against the southern and western walls of the enclosure.

Came negro water-carriers in white turbans with aspersers made of palmetto leaves to sprinkle the ground and lay the dust against the tramp of slaves and buyers. The trumpets ceased for an instant, then wound a fresh imperious blast and fell permanently silent. The crowd about the gates fell back to right and left, and very slowly and stately three tall dalals, dressed from head to foot in white and with immaculate turbans wound about their heads, advanced into the open space. They came to a halt at the western end of the long wall, the chief dalal standing slightly in advance of the other two.

The chattering of voices sank upon their advent, it became a hissing whisper, then a faint drone, like that of bees, and then utter silence. In the solemn and grave demeanour of the dalals there was something almost sacerdotal, so that when the silence fell upon the crowd the affair took on the aspect of a sacrament.

The chief dalal stood forward a moment as if in an abstraction, with downcast eyes, then with hands outstretched to catch a blessing he raised his voice and began to pray in a monotonous chant:

"In the name of Allah the Pitying the Pitiful Who created man from clots of blood! All that is in the Heavens and in the Earth praiseth Allah, Who is the Mighty, the Wise! His the kingdom of the Heavens and of the Earth. He maketh alive and killeth, and He hath power over all things. He is the first and the last, the seen and the unseen, and He knoweth all things."

"Amen," replied the crowd, as with a stir and rustle the close ranks relaxed from the tense attitude of prayer, and each man sought elbow-room.

The dalal beat his hands together, whereupon the curtains were drawn aside and the huddled slaves displayed—three hundred in all, occupying several pens.

In the front rank of the middle pen—the one containing Rosamund and Lionel—stood a couple of stalwart young Nubians, sleek and muscular, who looked on with completest indifference, no whit appalled by the fate which had haled them thither. They caught the eye of the dalal, and although the usual course was for a buyer to indicate a slave he was prepared to purchase, yet to the end that good beginning should be promptly made, the dalal himself pointed out that stalwart pair to the corsairs who stood on guard. In compliance the two negroes were brought forth.

"Here is a noble twain," the dalal announced, "strong of muscle and long of limb, as all may see, whom it were a shameful thing to separate. Who needs such a pair for strong labor let him say what he will give."

He set out on a slow circuit of the well, the corsairs urging the two slaves to follow him that all buyers might see and inspect them.

In the foremost ranks of the crowd near the gate stood Ali, sent thither by Othmani to purchase, a score of stout fellows required to make up the contingent of the galeasse of Sakr-el-Bahr.

"I need such tall fellows for the oars of Sakr-el-Bahr," said he with loud importance, thus drawing upon himself the eyes of the assembly, and sunning himself in the admiring looks bestowed upon one of the officers of Oliver-Reis, one of the rovers who were the pride of Islam and a sword-edge to the infidel.

"They were born to toil nobly at the oar, O Ali-Reis," replied the dalal in all solemnity. "What wilt thou give for them?"

"Two hundred philips for the twain."

The dalal paced solemnly on, the slaves following in his wake.

"Two hundred philips am I offered for a pair of the lustiest slaves that by the favor of Allah were ever brought into this market. Who will say fifty philips more?"

"Two hundred and twenty for the twain," said a Moor, and the dalal passed on with his wares, announcing the increased price he had been offered.

Thus he completed the circuit and came to stand once more before Ali.

"Two hundred and twenty is now the price, O Ali By the Koran, they are worth three hundred at the least. Wilt say three hundred?

"Two hundred and thirty," was the answer.

Back to the Moor went the dalal.

"Two hundred and thirty I am now offered, O Hamlet. Thou wilt give another twenty?"

"Not another asper."

"They are thine, then, O Ali, for two hundred and thirty. Give thanks to Allah for so good a bargain.

The Nubians were surrendered to Ali's followers, whilst the dalal's two assistants advanced to settle accounts with the corsair.

"Wait, wait," said he, "is not the name of Sakr-el-Bahr good warranty?"

"The inviolable law is that the purchase money be paid ere a slave leaves the market, O valiant Ali."

"It shall be observed," was the impatient answer, "and I will so pay before they leave. But I want others yet, and we will make one account and it please-thee. That fellow yonder now. I have orders to buy him for my captain." And he indicated Lionel, who stood at Rosamund's side, the very incarnation of woefulness and debility

Contemptuous surprise flickered an instant in the eyes of the dalal. But this he made haste to dissemble.

"Bring forth that yellow-haired infidel," he commanded.

"Dost want him for the oar, Ali?" cried Ayoub-el-Samin across the quadrangle, a jest this that evoked a general laugh.

"What else?" quoth Ali. "He should be cheap at least."

"Cheap?" quoth the dalal in an affectation of surprise. "Nay, now. 'Tis a comely fellow and a young one. What wilt thou give, now? A hundred philips?"

"A hundred philips?" cried Ali derisively. "A hundred philips for that skinful of bones Ma'sh Allah Five philips is my price, O dalal."

Again laughter crackled through the mob. But the dalal stiffened with an increasing dignity. Some of that laughter seemed to touch himself, and he was not a person to be made the butt of mirth.

"'Tis a jest, my master," said he with a forgiving yet contemptuous wave. "Behold how sound he is".

He signed to one of the corsairs, and Lionel's doublet was slit from neck to girdle and wrenched away from his body, leaving him naked to the waist, and displaying better proportions than might have been expected. In a passion at that indignity Lionel writhed in the grip of his guards, until one of the corsairs struck him a light blow with a whip in earnest of what to expect if he continued to be troublesome.

"Consider him now," said the dalal, pointing to that white torso. "And behold how sound he is. See how excellent are his teeth."

He seized Lionel's head and forced the jaws apart.

"Aye," said Ali, "but consider me those lean shanks and that woman's arm."

"'Tis a fault the oar will mend," the dalal insisted.

"You filthy blackamoors!" burst from Lionel in a sob of rage.

"He is muttering curses in his infidel tongue," said Ali. "His temper is none too good, you see. I have said five philips. I'll say no more."

With a shrug the dalal began his circuit of the well, the corsairs thrusting Lionel after him. Here one rose to handle him, there another, but none seemed disposed to purchase.

"Five philips is the foolish price offered me for this fine young Frank," cried the dalal. "Will no True-Believer pay ten for such a slave? Wilt not thou, O Ayoub? Thou, Hamlet—ten philips?"

But one after another those to whom he was offered shook their heads. The haggardness of Lionel's face was too unprepossessing. They had seen slaves with that look before, and experience told them that no good was ever to be done with such fellows. Moreover, though shapely, his muscles were too slight, his flesh looked too soft and tender. Even at five philips he would be dear. So the disgusted dalal came back to Ali.

"He is thine, then, for five philips—Allah pardon thy avarice."

Ali grinned, and his men seized upon Lionel and bore him off into the background to join the two negroes previously purchased.

And then, before Ali could bid for another of the slaves he desired to acquire, a tall, elderly Jew, dressed in black doublet and hose like a Castilian gentleman, with a ruffle at his neck, a plumed bonnet on his gray locks, and a serviceable dagger hanging from his girdle of hammered gold, had claimed the attention of the dalal.

In the pen that held the captives of the lesser raids conducted by Biskaine sat an Andalusian girl of perhaps some twenty years, of a beauty entirely Spanish. Her face was of the warm pallor of ivory, her massed hair of an ebony black, her eyebrows were finely pencilled, and her eyes of deepest and softest brown.

She had attracted the Jew's notice, and it is not impossible that there may have stirred in him a desire to avenge upon her some of the cruel wrongs, some of the rackings, burning, confiscations, and banishments suffered by the men of his race at the hands of the men of hers. He may have bethought him of invaded ghettos, of Jewish maidens ravished, and Jewish children butchered in the name of the God those Spanish Christians worshipped, for there was something almost of contemptuous fierceness in his dark eyes and in the hand he flung out to indicate her.

"Yonder is a Castilian wench for whom I will give fifty philips, O dalal," he announced.

The dalal made a sign whereupon the corsairs dragged her struggling forth.

"So much loveliness may not be bought for fifty philips, O Ibrahim," said he. "Yusuf here will pay sixty at least."

And he stood expectntly before a resplendent Moor.

The Moor, however, shook his head.

"Allah knows I have three wives who would destroy her loveliness within the hour, and so leave me the loser."

The dalal moved on, the girl following him, but contesting every step of the way with those who impelled her forward, and reviling them, too, in hot Castilian. She drove her nails into the face of another of her corsair guards.

CHURCH UNION MEETING HERE

Members Will Discuss Means of Voting Themselves Out of Union.

Arrangements have been about completed for the holding district meetings in Peterboro on October 13 and in Hastings on October 14 of members of the congregations of the Presbyterian Churches in these sections, for the purpose of discussing what steps need to be taken in order for congregations to vote themselves out of the proposed Church Union. Prominent speakers will address both meetings.

At the meetings the speakers will explain the exact situation in regard to Church Union and will give full information in regard to what should be done in order for a congregation to preserve itself as a Presbyterian congregation.

Invitations are being extended to those congregations of the churches in Peterboro, Millbrook, Garden Hill, Lakefield, Bethany, Ballyduff, Janetville, Centerville, Omemee, Mount Pleasant, Springville and any other churches in this district to attend the meeting in Peterboro. The meeting in Hastings will serve the congregations in the section farther east of Peterboro.

The meetings will not be restricted to delegates from each congregation, as any one who is interested in the preservation of the Presbyterian Church, is invited to attend these meetings. It is understood that several congregations are arranging to vote themselves out of the proposed Union at the earliest possible date in December, when the legal data for doing so becomes effective.

VIENNA'S MIRTH POINTS A MORAL

Principal Taylor of Queen's Shows Material Prosperity Not Supreme.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press.)— How the life and music and gaiety of Vienna, in the face of cruelty of circumstances, had taught him that material prosperity was not one of the greatest things in human existence was told in a powerful address by Principal R. Bruce Taylor of Queen's University, to the Young Men's Canadian Club last night. Principal Taylor introduced his remarks with some "confidential dope" about the coming rugby season. "If you have any money," he whispered, "put it on Queen's—but don't say I told you so." In the same strain he wandered over to Paris, where, he said, "even for an old timer like myself, there's lots of fun." "Don't believe any one who tells you that the hotels are full and money running over in Austria," said Principal Taylor. "The expensive hotels were filled, he acknowledged, with American tourists, but the people of the country possessed but few of the goods of this world. It was a gruesome fact, the speaker averred, that the one prosperous profession in Vienna was medicine. "Yet it is strange," continued Dr. Taylor, "how gaiety can suffuse through that country which has no future. It is full of laughter and music. The opera is of the finest. This makes we wonder if part of our restlessness is because we have riches and are afraid of losing them. With riches and luxury gone, the essentials of life and laughter are still there in Vienna."

HARVESTING WEATHER.

Business Reported To Be Improving Throughout the West.

WINNIPEG, September 23 (Canadian Press). — Favourable harvesting weather continued to-day throughout the West.

The inspections of new wheat at Winnipeg on Saturday shot up to 919 cars, of which more than one-third graded No. 1 Northern, and 17 cars graded No. 1 hard.

The weather continues fairly mild, with no severity of frost reported from any point.

Travellers and newspaper correspondents report a much improved business tone throughout the country, although the purchasing power of the new crop has not yet been felt.

VOICE OF PEOPLE

To the Editor:

I was very much interested in an article written by Mr. F. M. Dela Fosse that appeared in yesterday's paper. The haunted house referred to by Mr. Dela Fosse is next to a house in which I resided while a resident of Bath, England. It was concealment of birth and not a case of murder as suggested in the article by Mr. Dela Fosse.

IN MILLBROOK AND DISTRICT

Peterboro Pastor Occupied Millbrook Church on Sunday.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 23.—The annual Harvest Thanksgiving services in connection with the Anglican Churches of the parish of Millbrook and Cavan were held on Sunday, Rev. J. D. Paterson, rector of All Saints' Church, Peterboro, being the special preacher for the day. The service in the morning was at St. John's Church, Ida, at 11 o'clock; in the afternoon at Trinity Church (the Marsh) at 3 o'clock, and at St. Thomas' Church, Millbrook, at 7.30 p.m.

All of the churches were beautifully decorated with grains, vegetables, flowers, autumn leaves, feathery asparagras, and mountain ash berries, and the choirs rendered special music appropriate to the occasion. Miss Daisy Murray, of Peterboro, assisted with the musical part of the evening, her solos, "Lead, Kindly Light" and "Nearer my God to Thee," being much enjoyed by the large congregation.

Rev. Mr. Paterson spoke in the evening from Galatians vi., 7: "Be not deceived; God is not mocked; for whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap," urging that thanksgiving for the fruits of the harvest time should be not alone by the lips, but expressed in the lives as well. The reaping from the earlier sowing is due to the bountiful goodness of Almighty God, not to the ingenuity of man, or the efficiency of modern machinery, and an acceptable way of returning thanks is by freely and cheerfully giving of our substance to spread the message of salvation, and to establish the kingdom of our Lord in the world.

The same laws which prevail in the material world work also in the spiritual, and from the harvest of fields to the harvest of souls is an easy step. Four unbroken laws of sowing were emphasized: (a) No man sows without expecting to reap. (b) He expects to reap in kind the same as he sows. (c) He expects to reap far more than he sows. (d) He will reap in kind and quality as he sows, no matter what he thinks.

"Into the life of the coming generation the church of God must pour the spirit of God, sowing into their minds and hearts those Christian principles which will make them the great men and women of tomorrow."

"If you cannot start again yourself you may do something possibly infinitely better—you may sow into other lives the visions and plans which you have failed to work out, and do more by those you influence than would have been accomplished by your own sowing. God will see to it that faithfulness and goodness, sowing in big things and in little things, fail not of their harvest. If it be true, as Bunyan has said, that there is a pathway from the gateway of heaven to the mouth of hell, the converse is also true, and from the verge of hell there is a pathway that leads to the gateway of heaven. The way of the Cross leads Home."

Temperance News.

The local temperance organization, of which G. E. Burnham is chairman, T. A. Aiken convenor for the north ward, and Rev. G. S. Gervan for the south ward, has held a number of meetings recently preparatory to the plebiscite on October 23rd. Plans to give public information relative to the present temperance situation in Ontario are being arranged, and every effort will be put forth to get out the full vote when the decisive day arrives.

Women of every creed and class are being invited to join the ranks of the Ontario Women's Prohibition Committee, Jew and Gentile, Catholic and Protestant, Liberal and Conservative. Mrs. N. W. Rowell is honorary chairman, a prominent Liberal woman, while Mrs. R. G. Smythe, the chairman, is a prominent Conservative. On the list of vice-chairmen appear: Mrs. Gordon Wright, of London, representing the W.C.T.U.; Mrs. W. H. Becker, of Toronto, the Ontario Home and School Council; Mrs. John Somerville, of Toronto, Presbyterian Women's Missionary Society; Mrs. Edwards, of Komoka, Women's Institutes; Mrs. Amos, of Woodstock, the United Farm Women of Ontario; Mrs. Lavelle, of Kingston, the Methodist Women's Missionary Society, and Mrs. Sowton, of Toronto, the Salvation Army. Miss Iva Irvine, Toronto, is secretary, and Mrs. D. McKee, Toronto, treasurer.

Among other organizations whose representatives form the cabinet of the committee, now actively working to get out the full of the women of Ontario on October 23rd are: The Women's Missionary Societies of the Baptist, Congregational and Disciples' Churches, the National Council of Women, the King's Daughters and the Y.W.C.A.

Miss Jean Macnamara, of Toronto, is visiting her sister, Miss Rose Macnamara, and Mrs. E. Westmacott.

Mr. and Mrs. William Bell, of Calgary, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. L. Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Anderson, and Mr. Lorne of Peterboro were guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. George at their home, "Uplands," Fallis Line, on Sunday.

The annual "Rally Day" services will be held in the Methodist Church and Sunday School on Sunday, September 28, when Rev. Frank Langford, of Toronto, will preach morning and evening, and give an address in the afternoon. The special Rally Day programme, "Our Neighbors," issued by the General Board of Religious Education, will be taken up at the afternoon session by a number of the scholars of the school and the C.G.I.T. group, being among those taking part.

Rev. A. McLaughlin and family were visitors in town for a brief time on Monday, on their way through to Keene.

NEW INDUSTRY AT LAKEFIELD

Town to the North Will Soon Rival Pittsburgh—Mine Will Be Opened

LAKEFIELD, Sept. 23.—Lakefield has a definite prospect of a new industry which expects to build a plant near the Government dock and will employ about twenty-five men at the beginning, increasing the number as the volume of business requires it. The discovery of a vein of dolomite on the property of Mr. J. C. Strickland at Eel's Creek is the raison d'etre for the new factory. The vein was discovered years ago and tests were made but the project was abandoned. Recently the vein was re-opened and tests were made, with the result that a company has been formed to develop the product, which is used in a variety of manufactured articles, including paint (where it is invaluable as a filler) and for tooth paste, etc. As this is the only deposit of this mineral in this district its value is very great, and the company is assured of a steady market.

The Fall Fair will be held in the village to-day and to-morrow, and everyone interested, which means everyone in the village and the country adjacent, is hoping for good weather. Four successive years the Lakefield Fair was handicapped with bad weather, but last year the weather man did his best, and the warm bright day brought hundreds to the Fair Grounds. The Fair will be opened this year by Mr. G. N. Gordon, M.P., Deputy Speaker of the House of Commons.

Gardens are brilliant with asters, dahlias, cosmos, zinnias, gladioli and other bright hued blossoms. Scarcely a house but has its flower bed glowing with the late summer blooms. It is characteristic of the people of Lakefield to be flower lovers, and this fondness has beautified the village to no small extent.

In spite of the fact that it is nearly the end of September, the finger of Jack Frost has scarcely touched the leaves, which remain as green as in midsummer. Are we going to have the gorgeous autumn coloring which some people call the best of all seasons in Canada?

School Re-opens.

The Grove School has re-opened with even a larger number of boys than last year. Most of the old boys are back again, and a large contingent of new boys also.

Next Sunday will be observed as Rally Day in the Presbyterian and Methodist Churches.

The Harvest Festival services of St. John's Church will be held on Friday, October 3rd, and Sunday, October 5th. Rev. Walter Cox has made the preliminary announcement, with further details at an early date.

Mr. Gordon Northey was the hostess of a delightful afternoon tea on Friday in honor of Mrs. Morson, who is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Osborne.

EXTRA! BOSTON FLOODED!

Rainfall in Boston the other day was so heavy, that water accumulated in the yards outside South Station. This looks like a sea-going train.

TWO PLEBISCITE QUESTIONS

Two questions go to the Ontario electors on October 23 in respect to the Ontario Temperance Act. They are unlike those utilized in former referendums, being simple and direct and not easily misunderstood. The questions which will be placed before the electors are as follows:

"Are you in favor of the continuance of the Ontario Temperance Act?"

"Are you in favor of the sale as a beverage of beer and spirituous liquor in sealed packages under Government control?"

Premier Ferguson's statement which accompanies these questions goes on to say that Government Control does not mean a system of sale such as is in operation in Quebec or in British Columbia, but that the Government will make all sales. He also says that should the Ontario Temperance Act as now constituted be defeated some new method of controlling the sale as a beverage of beer and spirituous liquors must be adopted. In others words, should the electors decide against the present Ontario Temperance Act the Government will consider itself free to formulate and adopt such legislation as it deems fit under the circumstances.

Forecasts as to the probable result of the coming referendum are perhaps premature, but it seems almost a foregone conclusion that the large majority piled up for the Ontario Temperance Act when this question was last before the voters will be missing this time. The sentiment in the cities and larger towns in Ontario has unquestionably changed. Our cities contain many thousands of electors who are not quite so sure as they were that Ontario's prohibitiin legislation works for temperance. Many are sick to death of witnessing our foreign born population growing fat and rich out of bootlegging trade, while our prison records have been such latterly as to disturb seriously the preconceived notion held in some quarters that when our authorities set their pen to paper and declared the Ontario Temperance Act to effect the police and court officials are automatically relieved of much of their work.

Prohibition in its different phases has been on trial in Ontario for a space of eight years. As a war measure it was successful to some extent, mainly owing to the fact that it closed the bars. And then again it had behind it at that the win-the-war spirit which years has naturally dissipated. In the interval also abuses which in the earlier days were unknown have appeared. The bootlegging industry, highly organized as it is, now thrives like the proverbial green bay tree. The manner in which booze has been and is being purchased from the Provincial Government under the guise of medicine is an insult to the medical profession and a fine example of the doctrine and methods of the sophists. It is neither honestly decent, nor decently honest. — Saturday Night.

LOSE WEIGHT.

Three large unsweetened stewed prunes, ½ cup gluten gruel, 1 cup clam chowder, ¾ recipe scrambled eggs with mushrooms, ½ cup beet greens, ½ cup apple-celery-nut salad with 1 cup shredded lettuce, 1 smal baked potato, 1 pint skimmed milk, 4 tablespoons stewed rhubarb, 2 graham crackers.

Total calories, 1054. Protein, 234; fat, 218; carbohydrate, 602. Iron, .0248 gram.

The prunes and cereal are planned for breakfast, clam chowder and graham crackers with stewed rhubarb for luncheon and the eggs, greens salad and potato for dinner.

Scrambled Eggs with Mushrooms.

Four eggs, 8 button mushrooms, 4 tablespoons milk, 1 tablespoon butter, 2 whole slices whole wheat toast, salt and pepper.

Melt butter in frying pan. Add mushrooms cut in small pieces and fry lightly. Beat eggs slightly with milk and turn into frying pan. Lift with a fork as mixture thickens. Season with salt and pepper and serve on unbuttered toast for the reducing diet.

Total calories, 405. Protein, 129; fat, 205; carbohydrate, 71. Iron, .0071 gram.

GAIN WEIGHT.

Six large sweetened stewed prunes, ½ cup gluten gruel with 1 dessertspoon sugar and ¼ cup cream, 2 waffles with 1 dessertspoon butter and 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 1 cup clam chowder, 2 whole wheat peanut butter sandwiches, 6 ripe olives, 1 cup cream of onion soup, ¼ recipe scrambled eggs with mushrooms on buttered toast, ½ cup beet greens with 2 tablespoons hot tartar sauce, ½ cup apple-celery-nut salad with 1 cup shredded lettuce and 4 tablespoons whipped cream dressing, 1 large twice-baked potato, 4 tablespoons stewed rhubarb, 2 graham crackers, 4 tablespoons chocolate cream pudding with 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 2 French rolls, 1 pint whole milk.

Total calories, 3984. Protein, 379; fat, 1793; carbohydrate, 1812. Iron, .0219 gram.

Cheese, egg, butter and cream add many calories to the twice-baked potato of this menu.

The chocolate cream pudding is just a cornstarch pudding richly seasoned with chocolate and served with whipped cream. This dessert is easily digested, making it a boon to the person who wants to gain.

If more calories are needed in this menu raisins or dates can be added to the cereal and a hearty dessert served for luncheon.

Our Suggestion — Act Quickly

We believe the new Dominion of Canada twenty-year 4½% Bonds offer a desirable investment opportunity. We commend them to the immediate consideration of all investors.

With but $50,000,000 of new twenty-year bonds available and about $107,000,000 of Victory Bonds maturing November 1st next, the demand for new bonds will probably exceed the supply.

For this reason, whether you desire to invest new money or to tender 1924 maturity Victory Bonds in payment, we urge prompt action. It would be advisable to send orders by telegraph or long distance telephone (collect). The price is 97 and interest, yielding 4.75%.

Your instructions will receive our very prompt and careful attention.

HYDRO POWER FOR THE DOURO FARMS

Service Cannot Be Provided Until the Township Signs Contract.

Mr. D. E. M. Grier, of Douro Township, is interested in the use of Hydro power on the farm. His efforts to secure a service from the Hydro is set forth in the following letters:

15th September, 1924.

Mr. L. E. M. Grier,
Box 412, Lakefield, Ont.

C.O.S. Douro Township.

Dear Sir,—We are unable to take any further action with regard to service to you without the signed contract with the township. We enclose a copy of our letter to your township clerk, which may perhaps clear up the difficulties.

Yours truly,
F. A. Gaby, Chief Engineer.
Per F. G. Ireland.

15th September, 1924.

Mr. Frank D. Leahy,
Clerk, Douro Township,
Lakefield, Ontario.

C.O.S. Douro Township re Electric Service.

Dear Sir,—We are advised by Mr. D. E. M. Grier that your Council does not propose to sign the blanket contracts forwarded with our letter of 16th June.

We might say that this contract is a standard form and has been accepted by over 120 townships in Ontario. In simple language, it provides that this Commission shall have the right to build lines within the limits of the township to supply electric service to individuals. The township agrees to pay all costs, but the Commission in turn agrees to assess rates against individuals sufficient to meet these costs.

In practice the working of the scheme is as follows. The contract between this Commission and the township being signed and contracts with individuals being signed, the Commission, at its own expense, builds or has built by contractors the necessary pole lines to supply these individuals. The Commission render bills for service and, provided these are paid, the township has no work to do. In the case of a bill not being paid the Commission would notify the township clerk, who would add the amount of the bill to the assessment against the property owned by the individual.

As the individual contracts are for twenty years and charges are assessable as taxes, the whole responsibility lies on the shoulders of the user of the service.

We expect the township clerk to assure himself that the signature on the contract is that of the owner of the property described.

We trust the above explanation will enable your Council to see its way clear to pass the by-law and execute the contract.

If there are any other points not clear we would be glad to explain them.

Mr. Grier has been endeavouring to obtain this service for several years, and we feel that he is entitled to some consideration from your Council.

Yours truly,
Frederick A. Gaby,
Chief Engineer.

Lakeviews Win Eastern Ontario Honors--Senators and Yankees Both Win--Brooklyn Practically Tie Giants

LAKEVIEWS WIN FROM KINGSTON IN LAST INNING

"Hank" Whitlow's Wallop for Four Bases Starts Rally for Three Runs.

WERE TWO DOWN

Sensation Victory Cleans Up Eastern Ontario for Second Consecutive Year.

COMING from behind in the final frame when victory seemed almost certain to perch upon the banners of the Circle Six crew, the Lakeviews staged a rally in the ninth inning of their play off game with the Kingston crew at Belleville yesterday that gave them three runs and a win by 3-2.

Up to the closing chapter the Lakeviews had been baffled by the steady pitching of H. Smith and the smart fielding of the Circle Six outfit, and had been held scoreless for eight frames while Kingston picked up a run in the first and a second counter in the sixth and went into the final frame two big markers to the good.

Then came the sensation finish.

Whitlow was the hero of the big rally that turned defeat into victory for the Peterboro youngsters.

When the flame-headed centre fielder strolled out to the plate, the first to face Smith in the ninth, Kingston were leading 2 to 0 and the Lakeviews had only had three hits and not a safety after the fourth. Whitlow waited the count out to 3 and 2 and then crashed into the "cripple", driving out a beautiful homer past the score board on which he easily made the circuit.

The mammoth blow unnerved Smith and the Lakeviews were on their way. Whitehouse singled to left, Ash followed with a double to the same field and with the tieing run on third and the winning counter on second an nobody out Smith disappeared from the scene. Clark another right hander taking up the burden.

The relief pitcher fanned Marchen and Halliday but McIntyre saved the day for the Lakeviews by singling to short, sending Whitehouse across with the tieing run. McIntyre stole second. Jimmy Johnston sent a slow roller down the third base line, on which Smith made a bad throw to first and Ash carried the winning counter into port. Cameron rolled to Clark for the third out but nobody cared, for Whitehouse held Kingston safe in their end of the frame and the Lakeviews were in the finals.

It was one grand game of ball with a splendid exhibition of twirling and fielding that was clean cut and sometimes sensational.

Whitehouse Fanned 12.

Frank Whitehouse, Lakeviews staunch left-hander turned in a superb brand of pitching, striking out twelve of the Circle six outfit, allowing but six hits and not issuing a base on balls throughout the contest. Circle Six earned but one marker off his delivery and the Petes southpaw finished in a blaze of glory by fanning five men in the last two frames, his victims including the whole side in the ninth.

His team-mates fielded nicely behind him with Cameron's short-stopping a feature.

Smith, the Kingston right-hander, until Whitlow's crashing homer knocked him off his balance, pitched splendid ball up to that stage, allowing but three hits and no bases on balls. He had blanked Lakeviews for seventeeen innings and the loss was a keen disappointment for the youngster.

Kingston's fielding was good all the way with McPherson the second baseman contributing the feature play when he dragged down Whitehouse's screaming liner in the sixth with one hand. Lovett and C. Smith also had snappy plays to their credit and H. Smith the pitcher had eight assists.

The game was well handled by Umpires Ken Colling and Walter Gerow of Belleville.

The victory gives the Lakeviews the championship of Eastern Ontario and they will now play the McCormicks of Toronto for the Ontario title.

The Story of the Game.

Cameron first up for the Petes rolled to the box. Lebarr got a life when Reid dropped his high fly but Whitlow was thrown out by Lovett and Whitehouse tapped to H. Smith.

Kingston started better. Lovett opened the innings by getting two bases on Whitehouse's low throw to first. McPherson doubled to left scoring Lovett and going to third when Ash's throw to the plate got away from Halliday. Whitehouse stopped the excitement by getting C. Smith's pop fly an striking out Joyce and Reid.

In the second the Lakeviews started a rally but too late to get results. After Ash had hoisted to McPherson and Marchen had rolled to the box, Halliday singled through short, McIntyre lined over McPherson's head for a single and Johnston hit to Lovett and everybody was safe when C. Smith dropped the ball on toss to third. That filled the bases but Cameron's sharp drive was right into C. Smiths' hands retiring the side.

Hartley opened Kingston's second by singling to left and stealing second but Buck fanned. Tetro popped to Whitehouse and H. Smith struck out, Whitlow was thrown out by H. Smith and Whitehouse rolled to McPherson.

Circle Six were just as easy. Lovett fouled to Lebarr, McPherson struck out and Cameron tossed out C. Smith.

Nothing doing either way in the fourth. Ash gave Lakeviews a good start by clipping a single over second but Marchen's grounder to the box was turned into a double play via McPherson and Joyce, and Halliday fouled to C. Smith.

For Kingston Joyce was thrown out by Cameron, Reid fanned and Hartley singled on a roller to Johnston on which the third baseman made a fine play. Hartley died stealing, Halliday to Cameron.

In the fifth McIntyre was hit, Johnston fouled to C. Smith and Cameron fanned. McIntyre stole second but was left there when Lebarr missed three.

For Circle Six Buck was thrown out by Whitehouse on a bunt, Tetro flied to Ash in left and Cameron threw out H. Smith.

Whitlow first up for Lakeviews in the sixth fanned. McPherson made a sensational catch of Whitehouse's liner and C. Smith made a smart play on Ash's roller.

Stole Home.

Kingston increased their lead. Lovett opened with a double to centre and McPherson beat out a slow roller to short and stole second. C. Smith was called out for bunting foul on the third strike. Joyce popped to Cameron. Lovett then stole home, Whitehouse's pitch being in the dirt. It was a squeeze play on which the batter failed to hit but it worked just the same. Reid then fanned.

In the seventh for Peterboro Marchen rolled to H. Smith, Halliday flied to Hartley and McIntyre popped to McPherson.

For Kingstin Hartley fouled to Lebarr, Buck bunted to Whitehouse and was out and Tetro flied to McIntyre.

Peterboro went out in order again in the eighth. Johnston lined to Reid in centre and Cameron and Lebarr both rolled to the pitcher.

In Circle Six's half, H. Smith and Lovett struck out. McPherson doubled to centre but died stealing third.

Lakeviews big ninth has already been described.

In Kingston's end of the frame C. Smith got a life on Lebarr's fumble but Whitehouse was invincible, striking out Joyce, Reid and Hartley to wind up the game.

BROOKLYN GAIN ON THE GIANTS

Wheat's Double Broke Tie With Cubs in Twelfth Inning.

NEW YORK IDLE

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Zack Wheat's double to right centre in the twelfth inning, scoring Mitchell from first, gave Brooklyn a 2 to 1 verdict over Chicago in the opening game of the series here yesterday. Bill Doak, twirling for the Dodgers, allowed but five safe hits, and turned in his tenth victory. The Dodgers gain half a game on the Giants by winning to-day, while the New York club was idle because of rain. Score:

WASHINGTON FEELS PENNANT IS THEIRS

Regard Two Game Lead Safe —Begin Building New Stands.

WASHINGTON, September 23. — The American League pennant is regarded everywhere in Washington as won by the Senators, as a result of their last two victories.

Having overcome both their "jinxes"—Cleveland and St. Louis—in their own bailiwicks, and gone at a 3-to-1 clip against the three most formidable teams in the west during the present campaign for the pennant, the Griffmen will not be overhauled by the Yankees, in the opinion of those who have been following the fortunes of "Bucky" Harris's rejuvenated team.

Each of the pennant contenders has only seven games to play. The two game lead means that if Washington takes only four of its seven remaining games the New York team must win six out of seven to tie and must take all three from Cleveland, and four from Philadelphia to nose Washington out of the pennant.

Baseball excitement, which has been raging so high in Washington in recent weeks that the politicians even have found it difficult to centre interest in the national campaign, broke all bounds in Washington on Sunday night. Around the score boards of all three evening newspapers—two of them on Pennsylvania Avenue—easily 20,000 fans were assembled. It was a pro-Washington crowd, including many strangers, and this was first evidenced when the result of the New York-Detroit game was announced to the crowds and Pensylvania avenue was rent with an ear-splitting shout. There was not much of a din when New York scored against Detroit—even from a crowd that contained thousands of visitors from many States.

"You can't beat out of the pennant a team that fights as a whole with the spirit of the Griffmen," said E. B. Eynon, Jr., secretary of the Washington ball team, who rushed back to Washington immediately after the Cleveland series to begin making arrangements in connection with the holding of the world series games in Washington.

The Washington Baseball Club will now go ahead with the erection of additional stands for the prospective series. These stands will be built in right and centre field. So confident was Clark Griffith that his team would be able to remain ahead of New York in the race that immediately after the Griffmen made their last home stand in Washington he started work on raising the scoreboard and the big fence in centrefield to find room for enlarging the seating capacity of the Griffith Stadium.

When enlarged the park will provide for more than 37,000 fans, exclusive of arrangements for the press and accommodations for several thousand others. Some 8,000 additional seats will be installed in the new "world series" stands.

'AMERICAN LAWN TENNIS'

Mrs. Beamish Explains Miss Helen Wills' Mistake.

There are few better critics on the game of lawn-tennis as played by ladies than Mrs. Beamish, who captained the British side which defeated the Americans at Wimbledon this summer.

In an article on "American Lawn-Tennis," Mrs. Beamish wrote:—

Miss Wills devoted all her time to stroke practice with men players, rather than to a more varied course of playing against sparring partners drawn from both sexes. In this respect, in the writer's opinion, she was ill-advised, since it is a well-known fact that it is far easier to drive hard off fast shots than off slower balls.

Moreover, the strokes of her men opponents were far more likely to win points outright than provide the material for the prolonged rallies that a ladies' game, usually affords. Hence the absence of any ladies among her opponents was an error of judgment.

100 METRES IN 10.7 SECONDS

As a result of his sensational defeat of the American Olympic flier, Paddock, last week, Houben, the German crack, has been invited to run in several events against Paddock in the States. Houben won the 100 metres race at the athletic championships meeting at Stettin in the admirable time of 10.7 seconds.

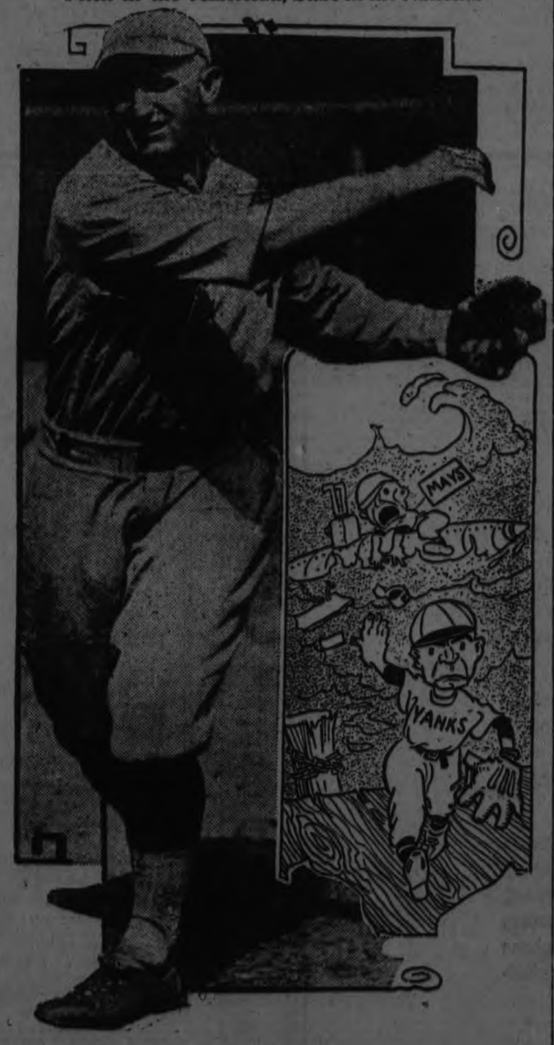
MAYS IS REDS' STAR

Submarine Hurler, Who Wasn't Good Enough To Pitch in the American, Stars in the National.



CARL MAYS

CINCINNATI, Sept. 23.—Carl Mays wasn't good enough to pitch for the Yankees in the American League, so Miller Huggins turned him adrift.

"Go your way and blessings upon your fast ball," intoned the goodly Mr. Huggins.

It was the American League belief that Mr. Mays' fast ball needed blessings. It seemed to have little else.

Mays went to Cincinnati in the National League, a club with many star pitchers, including Donohue, Rixey, Luque and Benton.

Hendricks, who managed the club, told interviewers in the spring he was not counting heavily on Mays. "If he comes through all right, if he doesn't we won't worry."

Mays was late starting, but once started he came with a rush. At times he has stood out as the star of the Reds' staff.

The submarine hurler has a chance to reach the twenty mark in victories. That is good pitching in any man's league.

LOCAL TENNIS NEARS FINALS

AMERICA CALLS FOR SOCCER PLAYERS

An Agreement With United States' F. A. Wanted.

Mr. MALEY'S VIEWS.

The great demand for the services of soccer players in Canada to transfer to United States has become very acute and now the United States clubs are making raids upon the old country teams. Mr. A. S. Maley, Hibernian (Edinburgh) Club manager, writes this:—

A much-discussed subject just now is the American menace. Several well-known players have recently gone across the pond to play football, and we are warned that there are more to follow.

Of course most people are aware that we have no agreement with the United States F.A.; in fact few know there is such a body.

When in Vienna in June I met the president of the body, Mr. Peter A. Peel, and had a long talk with him.

If his legislators are like him, I do not think there would be any great difficulty in coming to a working agreement with the parent body in the States.

It is well to understand the position over there. They do not have professional players. Most of the best teams are work teams. To cut a long story short a man is engaged as a clerk, a bricklayer, or anything else and is given time off to train and play, but he has to work. There is no real engagement, and he can be dispensed with at any time.

If he is injured, I would not care to say what happens, but it is entirely different from what would occur here. The class of play is poor, and very rough.

Of course, any person who is unemployed here (in the football sense I mean) is quite at liberty to do as he likes, but to go away after making an agreement and accepting wages, is distinctly dishonest.

Even although the player who has done so returns the money he got, it is very unfair, as having re-engaged, the position he is to play is regarded by his manager as settled and done with.

I think the American craze will defeat itself, and that before long.

To get into America nowadays takes some arranging, what with passports, vises, etc., and if these formalities are not complied with and the man has to return here after a stated period, it simply means that his occupation here will be gone.

Agreement With U.S. Wanted.

I have heard rumors that players have been booked ahead a year to enable them to go out legally, but I don't know this for certain.

I expect the S.F.A. will take the matter up, and it is quite likely that in the near future an agreement will be come with the United States F.A.

It would be to the benefit of everybody concerned if this were to come to pass.

I have had several letters from works in America asking for particulars of men who have made application for jobs over there and who stated that they had played for the Hibs and others teams. They were nearly all frauds. For this and other reasons, I believe a move towards recognition between the various associations would be welcomed.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. Runners on second and third. The pitcher steps directly toward second but throws the ball to third, catching the runner napping at that base. The pitcher was on the rubber ready to pitch when he turned toward second, stepping in the direction of that base but throwing the ball to third. What is the proper ruling?—C. F. P.

2. Three men are on bases. The batsman hits a grounder to the third baseman, who fields the ball and throws to first base. There was one out at the time. For some reasons none of the runners tried to advance. The first baseman after retiring the batter threw the ball home. Was there a force play at the plate, or did the play at first, retiring the batter, give the three men on base the right to hold their bases?—T.H.

ANSWERS

1. When a pitcher desires to catch a runner napping at a certain base, he must first step in the direction of that base before throwing the ball. You state the pitcher stepped toward second but threw to third. This is contrary to rules and should be regarded as a balk.

2. When the batsman was retired at first base the force was removed and the runners were entitled to hold their bases. There was no force at home plate. Cannot understand why the third baseman, who fielded the ball, did not try for a double play, since none of the runners tried to advance, a procedure contrary to baseball, since it makes a double play an easy proposition.

BRANTS HERE ON SATURDAY

Two Picked Teams Will Battle for the Plenty Cup.

TRAIN AT "Y"

All local soccer fans will be pleased to learn that Brantford Plenty Cup team will be here on Saturday afternoon, September 27th, at Riverside Park, providing the grounds can be obtained. Kick-off at 2.30 prompt.

The local Executive have been in constant communication with the Brantford association, and the following wire was received on September 16th: "No letter received. Is Saturday, 20, suitable? Wire reply. Bert West." This note was received too late, but September 27th wire stated: "September 27th suitable," and the local body have completed arrangements to give local fans some real football.

The Peterborough Plenty Cup players are requested to be at the Y.M.C.A. on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock prompt so as to get into training immediately. Trainer Gatfield will be present to give the boys a good course before the game on Saturday. He was in Brantford last Friday, hence his reason of not being present. At the "Y" at 7.30 o'clock tomorrow night.

The association could not make any definite statement in regards to the playing pitch, and if the Secretary gets word today from Mr. LeBarr re Riverside Park it will be played across the river; if not, the Executive shall meet tonight to fix arrangements accordingly, which may be found in another part of the paper.

HEILMANN HAS BAD YEAR.

One of the big reasons for the failure of the Detroit club to make a better showing this year is due to the batting slump experienced by Harry Heilmann, champion swatter of 1923. Heilmann all season has been about 50 points off form and has had the habit of hitting into double plays when a base hit meant the ball game.

ENGLAND APPROVES LEAGUE PROPOSALS

Economic Blocade of Countries That Enter War Without Consulting League.

GENEVA, Sept. 23 (Associated Press).—Ratification of the amendments made to Article 16 of the League covenant has been deposed at the League of Nations Secretariat by the British Government, which took the official action for the British Empire as a whole, including Canada, Australia, the Union of South Africa, New Zealand and India.

Article 16 of the League, as amended, declares that should any member of the League resort to war in disregard of its agreements under previous articles, it shall be deemed to have committed an act of war against all other members of the League, which hereby undertake immediately to subject it to the severance of all trade or financial relations the prohibition of all intercourse between persons residing in their territory and persons residing in the territory of the covenant-breaking state, and the prevention of all financial, commercial, or personal intercourse between persons residing in the territory of any other state, whether a member of the League or not.

The second paragraph of this article, which is usually called the economic blockade article, declares that it is for the council to give an opinion as to whether or not a breach of the covenant has taken place, and that in deliberations on this question in the council the votes of members of the League alleged to have resorted to war, and of members against whom such action was directed, shall not be counted.

Another amendment provides that the Council may postpone the operation of any blockade measures for a specified period when it is satisfied that such a postponement will facilitate the attainment of peace.

Some 18 states have ratified the various amendments to the blockade article. Amendments to the covenant, however, only take effect when ratified by a majority of the members of the League, and by all the members of the League who have representatives on the Council.

Huge balloon trousers for the men, and gay pink, blue and yellow waists, full petticoats and white caps for the women still are worn in Marken.

The little folks dress just as do their elders. The picturesqueness of the place, maintained with an eye to business, have drawn so many American visitors that not a few of the natives speak English without an accent.

ADVISE IRISH TO STAY HOME

With British Skilled Labor Rejected, Unskilled Southern Irish Have No Chance.

DUBLIN, Sept. 23 (Associated Press).—There are urgent appeals in the Dublin press against the renewal of emigration to America. The Independent says: "We were frequently assured in the past that had Ireland control of her own affairs emigration would cease. But though the British have departed the country is still being drained of its young men and women."

In the past two months the American consul has received 8,000 applications for emigration visas, and the Free State quota soon will be exhausted. The applicants are mostly from the country districts.

Judge Cohalan, of New York, who has lately been in Ireland, has advised young Irish men and women to seek a career in their own country rather than go to the United States or Canada.

It is pointed out that large numbers of skilled British artizans, failing to get employment in America, are returning to Great Britain in a steady stream, and that the prospects for Irish unskilled laborers are extremely unfavorable.

THE LOVE TEST.

Rollicking in its comedy parts and pathetic in its dramatic is "The Love Test," which opened a three-day engagement in the Grand Opera House last night. Beckley, a village where nothing ever happened, needed stirring up, and the way in which it was awakened provides abundant excuse for laughter, of which last night's audience took full advantage. The story of the winsome girl who was left a hotel with her dying father's request that she never sell it, and finds herself in financial difficulties that seem unsurmountable, is one into which pathos and drama are woven with a subtlety that makes a smooth running story of the acts of many divergent characters. Just as the town banker, the big boss of the village, has his greedy clutches on the property because of the heroine's inability to meet the tax bill, her sweetheart returns to clear up the situation. With the aid of a friend, whom he met "in business," this versatile young man is able to flaunt a full release in the face of the blustering curmudgeoen of a banker.

The cast is admirably suited to the requirements of the play, and the members fill their roles to perfection. Ada Howard, as Florence Lee, the clerk, cook, waiter, bell boy and most everything else in the hotel, has an outlet for her vivacious humour. Esther Pinch portrays the loving mother to perfection. Truman Buckmaster, personated by Henry Curvey, is another humorous character who adds to the liveliness of the play, and through an accident in which a mysterious brown bottle appears, is enabled to play an important part in clearing up the situation. Freddie Tryon, commonly called Spike, who should be, if he is not, the hero, is ably interpreted by Arthur Mack. To him falls the honor of making the denouement that sends August Brenizer (Roger Allen), and his upstart son Harold (William Armstrong) to jail.

Jessica Paige, in the part of Mollie Collins, owner of the hotel, and oppressed by the machinations of the village boss, interprets a difficult part with sterling ability.

Evelyn Watson, as Mrs. Spelvin, who knows the secret of the strange request made by Mollie's father, touches with her magic wand the apparent hopelessness of the girl's estate and makes everything end happily.

The suspense is well sustained throughout, and the theme is not lost sight of in the occasional snatches of humor introduced.

An added attraction is the Grand's five piece orchestra, which fills in the intervals with the rendition of several pleasing orchestrations.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS, "TWENTY-ONE," At the Capitol, Wednesday and Thursday.

UNUSUAL PICTURE WILL BE HERE SOON.

"The Man They Could not Hang," Coming to the Grand.

Hardly a newspaper has not at some time or another commented upon the most remarkable case in the annals of criminal history that of John Lee, known universally as "The Many They Could Not Hang."

Lee's book has been picturized and will be the principal feature in an unique programme to make its Canadian premiere at the Grand Opera House, on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, October 25, 26 and 27.

The picture is preceded by a scenic prologue in which Miss Doreen Thompson will be seen and heard as John Lee's mother, and the story will be graphicaly told throughout the screening by W. L. Howe, a well known English actor.

DE MILLE CONQUERS STUPENDOUS TASKS IN BIBLE FILMING

To put on the screen the grandiose early events of Bible history would seem a task beyond human power did not one have the record of what was done in California recently and will be presented to the Grand Opera House audiences in "The Ten Commandments" for two days, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, with a matinee Wednesday. Here is what Cecil De Mille essayed:

The Exodus of Israel from Egypt, the land of bondage. The parting of the Red Sea. The destruction of Pharaoh's chariots when the waters closed. The giving of the Commandments from Mount Sinai. The bacchanalian worship of the Golden Calf by the erring people. Heaven's terrible vengeance on the three thousand idolators.

First he built an Egyptian city in the deserts of central California, then the Court of Pharaoh where Moses announced the Ten Plagues and won his plea, "Let my people go!" Twenty-five hundred actors took part in these scenes, including two hundred and fifty Yemenite Jews from Palestine.

The passage of the Red Sea and the confounding of Pharaoh were accomplished by a cunning mingling of Nature and art, the scenes being taken at Balboa Beach. Nearer Hollywood the graving by Moses of the Twin Tablets from the Divine letters in the sky were superably achieved. Finally in a great canyon the Golden Calf idolatry was staged, with Moses descending from the Mount and a cyclonic windstorm and lightning stroke destroying the worshippers.

The immense work was preliminary to the filming of the modern story which deals with the effect of the Ten Commandments in the life of today. Among the eminent players who worked in one or other of the sequences were Theodore Roberts, Charles De Roche, Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Agnes Ayres, Robert Edeson and Estelle Taylor.

Special Scenery and Music

AT THE CAPITOL.

Something unusual in motion pictures is the feature, "Revelation," at the Capitol Theatre for the first two days of this week. The producer must have remembered that contrast lends interest to pictures, as well as to life, so he took his little dancer, the entertainer of the cafes of Montmartre, and juggled events so that she arrived eventually in a monastery garden, to represent the Mother of God in an old-time legend, and to cheer the last moments of a dying monk. The somewhat far-fetched nature of the story is handled in a manner that puts it over in interesting fashion. It is a fantastic tale, pictured in realistic style, and Viola Dana makes a wonderful little star, changeable, capricious, first a madcap, then a Madonna.

A "Way Down East" touch is given the opening scene by the presentation of the French girl with her child, outcast by her family, leaving it at the "turn" of the convent gate, to be cared for by the nuns, then making her way to Paris where, unlike the heroine of Griffiths' screen masterpiece, she embarks on a frivolous career. An impression of artificiality that may or may not have been the producers' aim, is given to the picture throughout by the swift transitions of mood. At one moment, two vixenish women are fighting tooth and nail on a studio floor, in the next, one of them is posing in a peaceful convent garden, as a Madonna, the inspiration and salvation of a dying monk, the touch of her hand bringing to life the withered rose branches. The theme of the story, evidently one of spiritual import, has a very earthly setting. However, it is out of the ordinary and very intense, and therefore extremely entertaining. Viola Dana portrays the French girl with consummate artistry. She attacks with tigerish ferocity the poor girl who comes to the studio, seeking employment as a model for the Madonna, then presents her with a costly ring; she forsakes her child and turns to the cafes of Paris with apparent callousness, then leaves her lover to come back once more and reclaim it, to earn its living and her own by humble work. Her characterization is very light. In other hands, this "Rosebush of a thousand years" might have been a nobler story, but it would have required a more sacrificial ending. Joline Hellieu, united with her lover and her child in the final scene, works out to an artificial end an artificial but very interesting production.

BARTHELMESS AGAIN IN MODERN ROLE.

Patrons of the Capitol Theatre will see Richard Barthelmess in a modern role for the first time in a year, when "Twenty-One," a First National attraction, will be shown tomorrow and Thursday. Dick portrays the leading role and he is surrounded by a cast headed by Dorothy Mackaill, who again appears opposite him, and others of importance, including Bradley Barker, Joe King, Dorothy Cumming, Elsie Lawson, Ivan Simpson, Nellie Parker Spaulding and Helen Tracy. John S. Robertson directed the production.

The story of "Twenty-One" deals with the struggles of a youth whose parents have permitted him to grow up according to their whim and not according to his wishes. He is the spoilt darling of his society-loving mother and when he meets the factory girl with whom he falls in love, he rebels against the circumstances and drops his mother's fast crowd for her company. He gets into a scrap on her account and is licked by his father, who threatens to have him arrested as an incorrigible.

But he turns the tables on his parents by running away from home and getting work as a taxi driver. Later he blunders into a nest of taxi bandits and in saving his father from their blackmailing schemes, he proves his manhood, marrying in the end the girl of his choice.

"I'm lonesome, father—lonesome for hell!" The months of battling against the old call to the life he had been lifted out of by a priest, are swept away in the agonizing cry, "Slippy McGee," America's cleverest safe cracker, pinned down in the little home of a priest, "playing with butterflies and bugs!" The thought drives him from the only known goodness he ever had known. But—a butterfly brings him back!

In "Slippy McGee," Marie Conway Oemler built such an interestingly human story that it reached its tenth edition in book form. Oliver Morosco has made it even a greater screen story in his picturization for First National release. Morosco calls it his best effort in the years of dramatic productions productions.

"Slippy McGee" is made to live with all his craftiness, helplessness and strength by Wheeler Oakman, who arrives at his best screen achievement in the role. The priest is played by Sam De Grasse, while Colleen Moore is the charming Southern girl for who "Slippy McGee" made his biggest sacrifice. Others in Morosco's specialy picked east are Edwin Stevens, Pat O'Malley, Lloyd Whitlock, Edith Yorke, Evelyn Selbie, Alfred Allen, Robert E. Dunbar, Charles E. THE KID FROM MADRID.

The first of the new series of Leather Pushers opened with a bang at the Royal last night. These stories are so well known that the mere mention of the fact that they are in pictures is sufficient. They are well up to the mark set by former series and should have the same large following.

"Now, then, my hearties," said the gallant captain, "you have a tough battle before you. Fight like heroes till your powder is gone; then run. I'm a little stiff, so I'll start now"—Stars and Stripes.

The FAMILY PRAYERS.

Lady (engaging cook): I think you ought to know that we have family prayers in the morning.

BOBBED HAIR IS PASSING.

Paris Says That the Fashion Is Going Out, and Points a Moral.

PARIS, September 23. — Bobbed hair is going out of fashion, if the Parisian hairdressers are to be believed. The hairdressers, however, admit that thousands of women still are having their tresses cut short and that business was never so good, but they affirm that some women who had their hair shortened in order to be chic now are repenting their act, because they have discovered that putting the clipper and the razor to their necks has developed a nice crop of wiry instead of silken hair, which resembles a days' growth of beard on the face of a man.

At any rate, enterprising hairdressers are encouraging their patrons to let their hair grow again and are promoting the business of their allies, the milliners for the wearing of some sort of contraption for the concealment of the back of the neck and straggy hair growing out again.

"And so there you are, madame," said one ironical marcel waver to a woman, "To be beautiful there is a lot of nice little suffering before you. You might have known that once your hair was cut it would be necessary some day or other to let it grow again."

STUMBLE OVER MIRACLES.

Prelate Declares Conflict Between Science and Religion Far From Settlement.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (Associated Press) —"The conflict between science and religion is still far from being reconciled," said Very Rev. W. R. Inge, the "gloomy Dean of St. Paul's," in his presidential address at the Conference of Modern Churchmen, Oxford.

"It is an open sore," continued Dean Inge, "that poisons the spiritual life of the civilized world. It is difficult for a man to accept orthodox Christianity, as it is presented by the churches, without treachery to his scientific conscience.

"The injury thus inflicted upon religion can hardly be measured. The result is that intellectual honesty is largely drained out of the church, and public opinion within it does not reflect either the best knowledge or the most candid temper of the community.

"The question of miracles is for many the meaning of the conflict between religion and science."

READY FOR VOTE.

Actual Taking of Vote on Liquor Issue One Month Away.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—With the actual taking of the vote on the Ontario Temperance Act a month from to-day, advance preparation on the part of the Government is rapidly reaching the stage of completion as far as the plebiscite is concerned. For some time the Executive Council office and the election officers have been exceedingly busy in arranging innumerable details that precede a ballot. Officials at the Parliament buildings stated this morning that the work was well under way, and that it would be completed well before October 23.

WHEAT AGAIN HIGHER.

Houses With Foreign Connections in the Market.

CHICAGO, September 23. — Largely as a result of buying on the part of houses with foreign connections, wheat averaged higher in price to-day, during the early dealings.

It was said that purchasing for European account totalled for fully 1,000,000 bushels. The opening which ranged from 1-8c to 7-8c higher, with December 132½ to 132 3-4, and May 138 to 138 1-8, was followed by a sag that in some cases went slightly below yesterday's finish. Favorable weather had a pronounced bearish effect on corn and oats. After opening unchanged to 1½c lower, December 103 to 103 3-4, the corn market showed losses all around. Oats started unchanged to 3-8c off, December 51. Later the whole mark t dropped to a material extent.

INVESTIGATED BOARD.

Oshawa Delegation Waited on the Provincial Secretary To-day.

TORONTO, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—Urging that the Department of Education, through Premier Ferguson, conduct an investigation into the administration of Oshawa School Board, a deputation, headed by Mayor Trick and members of the City Council of Oshawa, waited on Hon. Lincoln Goldie, Provincial Secretary, in the absence of the Premier, this morning. The members of the Council charge that there have been irregularities in the administration of the School Board, and they asked for an inquiry into its activities since 1920.

Mr. Goldie promised to take the matter up with the Premier, and intimated that it was likely a board of inquiry would be granted.

MURDER CASE OVER.

Decision Now in the Hands of the Jury—A Brutal Crime.

KITCHENER, Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The jury in the case of Lorne Bowman, charged in the Supreme Court sitting in the Fall Assizes here with having murdered his wife at Elmira on June 30 by using a hatchet, with which he severed the jugular vein in her neck, went out at 11.05 o'clock this morning to determine upon the sanity or insanity of the prisoner. Both the Crown and defence concluded evidence, touching upon the mental condition of the prisoner.

In his charge to the jury, Mr. Justice Wright drew attention to the fact that it was for them to determine if he man was in a fit mental condition to be tried.

The jury was called to the courtroom at noon, but reported they had not succeeded in reaching a decision.

The court adjourned until 2 o'clock.

GENEVA HEARS GERMAN CABINET UNANIMOUSLY VOTED TO APPLY FOR MEMBERSHIP IN THE LEAGUE

Corridors of League of Nations Headquarters Hummed With Discussion of the News.

DRAMATIC SCENE.

Nations Desire To Avoid Any Action That Might Tend To Humiliate Germany.

GENEVA, Sept. 24. — Germany held the centre of the stage in Geneva last night and held it dramatically. The members of the council of the League of Nations and scores of other distinguished delegates formed little groups in the corridors of the league palace and discussed the big news from Berlin that the German cabinet had unanimously voted to apply for membership.

The string, which, according to press despatches, Germany would attach to her application did not seem to worry over-much the members of the council with whom the correspondents talked. The prevailing view was that the explanatory note issued by Berlin was chiefly intended for home consumption and as a sop to the Nationalists, who are said to be fearful that Germany will be made to suffer new humiliations. There seems to be no desire whatsoever here to humiliate Germany but on the contrary, practically everybody last night was voicing deep satisfaction over Berlin's decision, coupled with words of hearty welcome.

Dramatic Arrival

The news reached the league secretariat at rather a sensational moment, for the council in secret session was discussing how best to conduct the league investigation of the armaments situation in Germany which is one of the rights reserved in the council by the treaty of Versailles.

The permanent commission on military and naval matters in drawing up plans for the council to follow when it undertakes the inquiries in Germany had suggested that all the signatories of the treaty of Versailles furnish names for a list from which the investigators could be chosen. This would mean that countries like Poland and Rumania might be called upon to send their Nationalists into Germany in connection with the inquiry as to whether Germany was fulfilling her armament agreement. The council realizes that such a contingency would be humiliating to Germany, and has reserved its decision on this point.

Some idea exists of disposing of this delicate question by combining the German investigation with a general system of armament investigation which is touched upon in the proposed security pact, operating when nations are in dispute.

Another element which may show the way to a satisfactory solution is

APPLICATION IS INDEFINITELY POSTPONED IN BERLIN'S OPINION

Such Is Interpretation of German Cabinet's Communication After Meeting.

"HALF SOLUTION."

Britain's Answer To "Feelers" Regarded As Negative—Adopt "Policy of Caution."

BERLIN, Sept. 24.—Notwithstanding official assurances that Germany is aspiring to an early entry into the League of Nations, political circles in Berlin are inclined to view the tenor of the contents of the communication issued at the conclusion of Tuesday's ministerial council as an indefinite postponement of her application.

While several of the newspaper designated yesterday action by the cabinet, which was presided over by Premier Ebert, as a "half solution," some of the more insistent advocates of Germany's advent into the League are hopeful that further soundings, to be conducted by foreign Minister Stressmann, will bring about a sufficiently auspicious atmosphere to enable Germany to make formal application for admission in the course of a few months, or in time to have it acted upon at a special convocation of the league.

Britain's Reply Dilatory.

Tuesday's action by the cabinet was in no small measure influenced by the nature of the reply made by Great Britain through Ambassador D'Abernon to feelers sent out by Dr Stressmann several weeks ago and which are reported to have been of a wholly dilatory or negative nature, insofar as they concerned Germany's expectations that she forthwith would be accorded a seat in the League's council, and that some degree of assurance would be given her that such topics as the Polish corridor, colonial mandates, the Saar Basin and military control would come up for early disposition or readjustment.

There is a general feeling in Conservative as well as Liberal party circles, that Germanys' formal application for admission to the League must be preceded by a precise pronouncement of her position on the question of war guilt. Under these circumstances, an indefinite adjournment of her entry into the League as seemingly reflected in the cabinet's resolution is received as a piece of cautious policy, wholly dictated by German foreign and domestic interests, which it is declared are intimately locked up with her membership in the League and the legitimate functions of that body.

Entry Not Urged

At no time during the past few weeks when the issue was up for public discussion, was there an over abundance of enthusiasm in political or official circles in favor of Germany's unconditional entry into the League; with the exception of Socialist and Pacifist circles the immediate urgency of such action was never admitted.

No action was taken by the cabinet council yesterday on the question of despatching the much discussed note on war guilt, and it is assumed the sending of this note also will be deferred until the situation with respect to Germany's entry into the League of Nations becomes thoroughly clarified.

STRUCK OIL IN ALBERTA.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 23.—(Canadian Press).—The Geological Survey here has received word from one of its field officers, Dr. Geo. S. Hume, who during the summer has been geologically mapping out and studying the Wainwright district, Alberta, that oil was recently struck in number three well of the British Petroleum Company, and its now flowing slowly.

THE WEATHER

There was a heavy white frost this morning, and the thermometer was down to 30 degrees. The effect of the first touch of Jack Frost will be seen later in the blackened appearance of some of the more tender vegetables and flowers. Last season we had our first frost on Sept. 17th, and the first ice on Oct. 3rd. Fine, pleasant weather continued until the middle of November.—W.P.

Crowd of 100,000 Cheer Airmen Ending Flight

CLOVERFIELD, Santa Monica, Calif., September 24.—The three army world cruising airplanes returned to Clover Field here Tuesday, six months and six days after they left, March 17, to encircle the globe.

The men who have flown around the earth gracefully landed and swept across the field to the flower-strewn acre where the parents of Lieut. Smith, and mother of Lieut. John Harding went forth to extend the first welcome home.

More than 100,000 rose in the grandstands and on the field, and shouted a welcome as the fliers flew over the field, encircling it before droping to taxi to the reviewing stand.

EXPORTS INCREASE.

Canada's Exports For Year Pass Billion Mark In Value.

OTTAWA, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Exports of Canadian products during the twelve months ending August 31 last show an increase in value of $58,917,908 over those of the previous twelve-month period. Imports of foreign products on the other hand, show a decrease in value of $58,315,122 when the two twelve-month periods are compared. Canada's exports during the twelve months ending August 31 last were to the value of $1,060,105,482, according to figures compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. Domestic exports for the twelve months ending August 31, 1923, amounted to $1,001,187,374. Customs revenue collected during the twelve months just ended was $7,812,782 less than in the previous twelve-month period.

The value of goods imported into the Dominion during the twelve months ending August 31 last was $833,645,913, as compared with $891,961,035 in the previous twelve months.

OVER CONFIDENCE.

Two Republican Leaders Express Doubt in the House.

WASHINGTON, September 24 (Canadian Press). — Warnings against over-confidence were voiced yesterday by two Republican leaders after visiting the White House, where they made encouraging reports on the trend of the presidential campaign in the east, particularly in New England.

Senator Pepper, of Pennsylvania, and Senator Dale, of Vermont, brought these reports, and declared that while the situation generally looked most promising, it would be dangerous for the party success to express too much confidence, lest some of the party's supporters fail to vote.

LEADER NOT WORRIED.

Campaign Against Hon. Arthur Meighen Will Fail, Says Lougheed.

CALGARY, Alta., September 24 (Canadian Press). — The agitation in a certain section of the Eastern press to oust Arthur Meighen as leader of the Conservative Party in Canada will not have the slightest effect, declared Sir James Lougheed, Conservative leader in the Senate on his return to-day from Eastern Canada.

"Mr. Meighen is accepting this campaign against him very calmly and quite philosophically, and is not a bit worried about it."

PALESTINE LONG ON HOLIDAYS.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 24.—Fridays, Saturday and Sundays, the Sabbaths of the three faiths in Palestine, are recognized as official holidays for purposes of presentation of negotiable paper, and no promissory notes or bills may be protested on those days, according to a decision of merchants with the Chief Justice. All other officials holidays of Moslems, Jews and Christians are similarly recognized in Palestine.

MINISTER MADE CONFESSION OF POISONING WIFE

Rev. Lawrence M. Hight Was Infatuated With Another Woman.

BOUGHT ARSENIC.

Procured It For Woman To Kill Her Husband—Two Statements.

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., Sept. 24.—The Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, former jockey and race-horse owner, held on the charge of murdering his wife, and heretofore suspected of causing the death of Wilford Sweetin, a parishioner, because of an infatuation for Mrs. Sweetin, made two confessions, in the first stating that he had given poison to both Mrs. Hight and Sweetin, and in the second that, while he was responsible for his wife's death, Mrs. Sweetin had poisoned her husband. He admitted that he and Mrs. Sweetin had planned to marry.

In the first confession the clergyman related that he had administered poison in both cases to ease the pain of his victims.

At first he insisted Mrs. Sweetin was not connected with the crime. In his final admission he stated he had brought the poison given to her husband by the woman. Her arrest quickly followed the second confession.

Fearing mob action, State's Attorney Frank G. Thompson telephoned the Sheriff's office from Ina, asking the jailer to throw a guard around the jail. The prosecutor said feeling was running high at Ina. Fifteen special deputy sheriffs were sworn in immediately.

Each Agreed to Kill Spouse.

"We did it because we loved each other," said the preacher brokenly, after he had made the confession involving Mrs. Sweetin. "We intended to marry."

As news of the preacher's second confession spread and Mrs. Sweetin was arrested and brought from her home in Ina to Mount Vernon, crowds gathered in the streets and started to move toward the county jail, where Sheriff Holcomb already had placed special deputies on duty and was swearing in more.

The preacher's second confession was made in the early hours of dawn when the Rev. C. C. Hall, Moderator of the Mount Carmel District of Southern Illinois, pleaded with him to "make a clean breast of it for the sake of Methodism."

"Brother," Hall had "Brother" Hight by the hand as he pleaded and when the plea was over the latter, hanging his head, asked to be left alone with his Moderator, his "Father Confessor" and a stenographer and then he told it all. When his story was told he held up his right hand and added, referring to the death of a high school girl in Centreville three years ago, "No, I know nothing about that last. As God is my judge I have told you all."

Dr. Hall arrived at the jail about 5 o'clock in the evening. The Moderator asked a deputy to let him talk with the prisoner.

"Brother Hight," the Moderator said, "I feel that you have not yet told all, and I want to ask you, for the sake of the Methodist Church, to tell it. Tell it for the sake of the Church and for God's sake."

Dr. Hight raised his eyes. "All right," he gasped. Then he asked that all save Dr. Hall and a stenographer be excluded, and he told his story.

"We fell in love about six months ago," he murmured. "We loved each other so desperately. We decided we must have each other. We made a love pact. She agreed to get rid of her husband and I agreed to get rid of my wife. We were to be married after they were gone.

Husband's Turn Came First.

"Sweetin's turn came first. He fell ill in July, on July 22. She asked me how to do it best. I told her that arsenic was a slow poison and would arouse no suspicion. She asked me to get it and I did. On that same day, July 22, I went to Benton to the drugstore and bought it, a quarter of an ounce. I signed the poison book to get it.

"I took it to the house and gave it to her! She was to give it to Bim. Three days later she gave it to him and on July 28 he died.

"We had agreed to let some time elapse between his death and my wife's. I decided I would give my wife arsenic some time after the Methodist conference, which is to be held at Carbondale next week. You see, I was to have been sent to a new circuit then and I thought if I was in another community I could do it, and Mrs. Sweetin could come

Clergyman Urges That "Wet" Son Be Defeated

MINNEAPOLIS, September 24. — In an open letter to the voters of Minneapolis, Rev. T. M. C. Birmingham, of Milford, Neb., has appealed for the defeat of his son, Merle Birmingham, who is seeking election to the United States Senate from Minnesota, on a beer-wine platform.

Rev. Mr. Birmingham said he deplored the candidacy of his son on a plank "not the liberty of the Gospel, but the kind that permits transgression and wrongdoing" and asked that the voters give him "a good square knock-out blow."

Merle Birmingham said in reply:

"I believe my father and I are working to achieve the same end—temperance—but we are looking through a glass, darkly, our methods of achievement differ." c

BERNIER BACK FROM ARCTIC

Canadian Polar Explorer Established Government Police Stations.

RAN INTO STORM.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press). — Captain Bernier, of the Canadian Government exploration ship Arctic, yesterday wirelessed to George Wandt of the Westinghouse Company here, word that the steamer would dock at Quebec today, after a successful trip to the Arctic regions.

Captain Bernier, in his message, said that he had had established new police stations for the Canadian Government at Kane Basin and North Devon.

The Captain also referred to the fact that he and the ship's company had listened to a radio concert at the farthest northern point ever reached by wireless, and said that this year's conditions for this sort of reception were much better than last year.

The Captain said his crew and himself were all well. The Arctic started out badly, meeting a tremendous storm in August, off the Newfoundland coast, which necessitated the jettisoning of a portion of her deck cargo of coal. However, other supplies were secured and she completed the trip laid out for her by the Government.

A CODE OF ETHICS.

Three-Day Convention of City Managers In Montreal.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Code of ethics for city managers was held before the convention of the International City Managers' Association which opened a three-day session here yesterday. This code was drawn up by a committee consisting of C. E. Carr, city manager, Dubuque, Iowa, chairman, Louiz Brownlow, Knoxville, Tenn., and C. W. Koiner, Pasadena, Cal.

It is laid down among the fourteen planks that: No manager should use information secured through his position to his own financial advantages; a city manager should remember he is a hired man; he should have the virtue of plain honesty and even avoid the appearance of anything that savors of dishonesty; he should be actuated neither by fear nor favor and deal with both friend and foe with the same fairness; the city manager should constantly strive to keep the community faithfully informed of the plans and purposes of the administration, and take no active part in politics while so employed.

The annual address of President Barle C. Elliott, city manager of Wichita, Kansas, reviewed the activities of the association.

ZEPPELIN FOUGHT IN CIVIL WAR.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 24.—In connection with the proposed flight to America of the ZR-3, it is recalled here that the late Count Zeppelin, inventor of the dirigible, made his first balloon ascension in the United States.

This was during the Civil War when Count Zeppelin was an officer in the Union army. The count never became an American citizen and returned to his native land in 1886. It was during the Franco-Prussian war that he conceived the idea of the dirigible, inspired by the progress made by the French in aeronautics.

HER GEMS ATTRACTED BANDITS

"Mlle. Bobe" Had To Dazzle Her Customers, And Her Display Was Duly Noted By "Night Club" Thieves."

MLLE. EDITH BOBE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.— Broadway demands glitter.

Show and display are the twins of the avenue.

Edith Weeks, who came from Detroit, worked in a garment factory, and graduated into Mlle Edith Bobe gown purveyor to the theatrically select, learned this and built her business.

So, in tracing down the $30,000 robbery of Mlle Bobe, there come to light new chapters in what it takes to be couturier to the easy spenders of the theater, films and cabarets.

As a matter of cold business Edith Bobe had constantly to outdazzle the dazzlers. Theatrical and movie celebreties were her customers.

She had to wear such gems as would bring gasps wherever she appeared. It was good advertising. Her own gowns had to be the last word. They had to be talked about

And she had to entertain. Thus her gown establishment in a fashionable neighborhood was fitted both for business and recreation. A bar was set up in its entirely, from mirrors to brass rails.

Here would gather the great names of the show and film world for parties that were talked about from box office to stage door. Her display room could be turned into a dance floor; the upper floors were equipped with costly Louis XV furniture. She had some 300 rare clocks valued up to $5,000 each.

And this was fine for business. The place became sought. Its reputation travelled to Europe and men of title, visiting America came there.

A few nights before the robbery there has been a party for 90 and Edith had been presented with a diamond bracelet containing 432 diamonds and a $4,000 Ermine coat.

She would appear in the cafes and theatres bedecked with gems.

The public display of gems and costly gowns brought her attention —attention of those daring crooks who prey upon Broadway's petted favorites.

The glitter that won her Broadway fame also attracted the men who robbed her.

WILL HEAR BANDITS.

In Appeal For Leo Davis In Montreal Bank Car Hold-up.

MONTREAL, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—The testimony of Leo Davis and Louis Morel, two of the six bandits under sentence of death for the murder of Henri Cleroux, Bank of Hochelaga chauffeur, killed during the hold-up of the bank's collection car, on April 1, taken by the commission at Bordeax Jail on Monday, will come up before the Court of Appeal on Thursday morning when the proceedings to liberate Davis will be resumed.

The day that the six bandits were sentenced to die, Morel stated that Davis was not guilty of any connection with the crime and later made an affidavit to the effect, which is thought to be included in the record.

KILLED ON STREET.

Farmers Lose Live Stock on the Highway.

TORONTO, September 24 (Canadian Press). — Playing tag with other children at Dundas and Claremont Streets yesterday afternoon, Archie Kefitz, aged 5 years, ran in the path of an automobile, and was fatally injured.

Young Kefitz was being chased by the other children, when he suddenly ran across the street.

In doing so, he was struck down.

His skull was fractured, and he died at nine o'clock last night in the Western Hospital.

The motor car was driven by Jas. McDonald.

FIRST OF HOME BANK CASES IS FINALLY ENDED

Judgment Reserved Until Friday—Second Trial Proceeds To-day.

LONG ADDRESSES.

Defense Counsel Spoke Six Hours Tuesday In Presentment To Court.

TORONTO, Sept. 25. — Judge Coatsworth reserved judgment on Tuesday when prosecution and defence counsel had finished their addresses in the case of Ocean G. Smith, chief accountant of the Home Bank, charged with sending false returns to the department of finance at Ottawa. His Honor said he would give his judgment Friday morning. Meantime the trials of other bank officials will be proceeded with. Sidney H. Jones, auditor of the Home Bank, appeared today, also charged with making false returns.

Gordon N. Shaver, counsel for Smith, took six hours to complete his address to the judge, D. L. McCarthy, K.C., crown prosecutor, took an hour in reply and asked the judge to find Smith guilty of making fourteen entries in both monthly and annual returns to the government, which he knew to be false. Mr. Shaver continued his argument of Monday that Smith was merely a routine officer of the bank and could not have done differently than he did. Mr. Shaver thought that Mr. Smith should have been praised rather than censored for doing his routine duties as well as he did. Mr. Shaver argued that the man who simply drafted a report on the information of others could not be solely responsible for it. He repeated his declarations made before that Smith had made his statements from the books as he found them and that by so doing he was within the obligations of the Bank Act.

Servant of Bank.

In other items he had been instructed in his procedure by the general manager and surely no routine officer could go ahead of the chief of the bank. The crown said Mr. Shaver seemed to think that Smith should have been a detective in the bank instead of a servant. Smith, after the bank's failure, had never dreamed of being arrested as he had a clear conscience that he had done his duty.

Mr. McCarthy said that the accused was not being tried on failure to perform his duty to the bank as the defense argued.

Knew Items False.

"We say that the accused knew that many of these items were false when he put them in the monthly and annual reports to the government," he said. "The accused was responsible for head office books, and we claim that these show that the items were false. We charge that there are eight items on the assets side of monthly reports which were false, and three on the liabilities side as well as the rest and reserve account. Instructions from the manager and Mr. Daly do not discharge him from the responsibility, and he must take the responsibility even if

Plebiscite Bulletin

Sept. 24, 1924 PETERBOROUGH No. 4

In Manitoba-'Conditions are Disgraceful'

THEY have "Government control" of the liquor traffic in Manitoba. But there is no "control" about it. It is Government "sale," and that is an entirely different matter.

Describing conditions in Winipeg to a staff representative of the Toronto Star, who visited Manitoba in order to get the facts, Major Allen, of the Salvation Army, who has charge of all the Army's Police Court work in Winnipeg, said:

"There is no control about it. Conditions are disgraceful. They were not nearly so bad in this neighbourhood when we had the open bar. There must be at least a thousand bootleggers in Winnipeg. They are all around us. See that place over there? I had it raided five or six times. And there's another, and that is nother. And that, too."

YOUNG PEOPLE DRINKING.

Major Allen was asked to explain why a multitude of men would buy from bootleggers when the law enabled men to get liquor freely on a permit. His answer was that there were always thousands of transients in town ho did not know they could get temporary permits or would not take the trouble. Moreover, much of the drinking was by young people whose parents were entitled to permits but did not use them. Their children, not caring to take liquor to their homes, patronized the boarding-houses and other private places that sold illicitly.

The Major said that persons of moderate views who had voted for Government control in the hope that it would curtail drinking by young people at social gatherings and the carrying of flasks on hips had been badly sold. Winnipeg and St. Boniface had a multitude of places where young girls were being taken and ruined —as many as thirty cars at a time had been seen lined up outside some of them.

When told that many conscientious voters in Ontario were wondering whether to give Government control a trial, Major Allen was shocked.

"Tell them," he said, "to hang on to what they have. They would be making the greatest mistake of their lives if they dropped Prohibition." — VOTE FOR PROHIBITION. 1d-72-3542

ELECTED MODERATOR.

Three Ministers Nominated For the Position at Synod Meeting.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.— (Canadian Press.)—Rev. Dr. Alexandrer MacGillivray was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston at its annual meeting ni Knox College chapel yesterday. This, it was stated, was the last meeting of the Synod before the United Church of Canada came into being. Three ministers were nominated for the office of moderator—Rev. William McDonald, Sudbury; Rev. A. K. McLeod, Brighton; and Rev. Dr. Alexander Macgillivray. Rev. Mr. McDonald withdrew his name, and when the vote was taken Rev. Dr. MacGillivray was elected.

FINE GRADE WHEAT.

Record Established For Quality of Wheat Placed at Winnipeg.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—There may be a lot of low-grade wheat in Western Canada as a result of frosts and rain, but there is a fine quantity of high grade wheat. For instance, it was announced yesterday that there was more No. 1 Manitoba hard wheat graded in 24 hours than was reported for the entire 1923-1924 season. A record was established Sunday for cars inspected on the Canadian Pacific lines, according to figures available at offices of the company's transportation department yesterday, there having been 11 cars so labelled for one day, as compared with 10 for all last season.

TRANSFERS EYES TO OPPOSITE SOCKETS

And Claims to Have Restored Eyesight With Operation

CHICAGO, Sept. 24.— (United Press).—What may prove the medical miracle of the century was announced here when Dr. Theodore Kopanyi, a special student at the University of Chicago, submitted proof of complete regeneration of the optic nerve in a series of experiments on fish, frogs, and mice.

In these experiments in which the Chicago surgeon claims to have successfully transplanted the visual organs in every instance under observation, an entirely new field in optical surgery is seen. Making the blind see is his objective.

Changes Eyes Around.

The surgeon begins his experiment by ligating the veins and arteries of the eye. Ligature is the application of sharp, blinding pressure. He then proceeds to sever the optic nerve and muscles of the eye. This accomplished, he tranfers the eyes to their opposite sockets.

According to Dr. Kopanyi, gradual restoration of sight occurs within a period of from four to eight weeks. A blind frog, the physician has found, can be distinguished from a normal one by the fact that the latter always turns away from light.

Dr. Kopanyi has demonstrated before university colleagues that frogs which, after the operation, showed absolutely no sensitiveness to light, gradually turned further and further away from it after the tissues of the optic organ has begun to heal. As time passed the visual nerve showed more and more sensitiveness.

Experiments With Mice.

Mice which had been experimented on were placed on a platform. Some cheese lay below. The blind animals would grope for the food and, after an erratic course, would eventualy reach it. When sight had been restored, the mice would spring upon the cheese in one bound.

Evidence of restoration of sight in fish was seen by the way the fish disported after the allotted period of blindness as contrasted with the painful movements during that period. Dr. Kopanyi looks forward to performing his miraculous operation on the human eye.

League's Library Draws Researchers to Geneva

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—The League of Nations is becoming an important centre of research for American scholars. The library and archives of the league contain a constantly increasing wealth of information, due to the fact that the organization's activities are growing and are taking on ramifications which embrace pertinent modern problems in all parts of the world, civilized and uncivilized. The official registration of all treaties alone constitutes a helpful feature for men and women engaged in serious research.

Among the Americans who have recently conducted research work at the league secretariat is Miss Alzada Comstock, a professor of Mt. Holyoke College, who has specialized in public finance. Professor James Bonbright, of Columbia University, is here studying the economic reconstruction of Europe in general and finds the league library up to date on all questions pertaining to his subject. Professor Mower, of the University of Vermont, is devoting his research activities to a study of reduction of armaments and to a careful survey of the functioning of the league as an international mechanism of constructive endeavor.

A special committee selected from the league staff has placed itself at the disposal of visitors who are using the organization to further their knowledge of international problems.

GERMAN EDUCATORS NOT JUST WELCOME

English Professors Not Anxious That Germans Visit Educational Institutions.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. — German educators who have been planning visits to foreign countries, as was the custom prior to the war, were somewhat shocked when reports reached here recently of a debate at a meeting of the Walthamstow Urban council, London, as to whether a German would be welcome to visit the council's schools. It was stated that Dr. Fritz Karsen, principal of the chief secondary school in Berlin, had asked permission to inspect the Walthafstow educational institutions and the education committee reported that it was agreed that a welcome should be given all distinguished visitors.

Councillor Edwards suggested that in view of the attitude held in England against the Germans on account of the war he would approve deletion of the word "welcome" from the committee's recomendation, and that the word "permission" be inserted instead. He contended that a German should not be welcomed, although he did not wish him to be kept out of the schools. Councillor Llewellyn said that in ten years' time, when history was written with less prejudice, it would be found that Germany was not the only country responsible for the war. Eventually the committee's recommendations were accepted, but Dr. Karsen has not as yet determined whether he will visit Withamstow, as contemplated, under the circumstances.

Other German educationalists who have been looking forward to tours of England and other European countries, for the first time since the war, have taken the stand that unless they are welcome at all institutions abroad, which they have proposed to inspect, they would stay away from these particular schools altogether. All foreigners, it has been pointed out, even French professors, have been offered every facility for inspecting the German schools for several years past. Many English teachers have taken advantage of this opportunity, but few Frenchmen have appeared.

NARCISSUS FAMILY HAS MANY BRANCHES

All Members Are Excluded By Horticultural Order Effective Jan. 1, 1926.

CHICAGO, September 23. — The family of the narcissi is a large one. It includes the daffodils, which are the flowers with large trumpets, which vary in colour from a pale cream to a deep yellow and come in late March or early April, first of the major flowers of spring.

The name daffodil is properly applied only to the large trumpet narcissi. The other hardy type in which the trumpets dwindle until in the poeticus type they become mere cups, sometimes scarlet, are divided into these classes: Incomparabilis, in which the trumpet is not less than one third the length of a perianth petal; barri, in which the cup of trumpet is less than one-third a petal; the leedsi, which have white perianths, and cups of white, cream or citron; the tazetta and tazetta hybrids, in which are the bunch flowered varieties, including the polyanthus and poetaz types; and lastly the poeticus narcissi.

Jonquils are narcissi; as are the tender paper whites which are grown in water, and the Chinese sacred lilies which can be grown the same way.

Whole Family Excluded.

The order of the federal horticultural board in excluding the importation of narcissus bulbs after Jan. 1, 1926, includes the whole family, hardy and tender, without exception.

Narcissi should be planted as soon as they can be obtained. The supply is short this year, because it is reported the production abroad has been reduced in preparation for the embargo, many growers giving their fields over to hyacinths and tulips. The demand for hyacinths to grow in narcissus fields has caused the supply of hyacinths also to be short.

For the out-door garden, the daffodils are the most satisfactory flowers in appearance. Some varieties grow to be two feet high with expanded trumpets measuring three inches across. Coming before the earlist tulips, they are without rivals, and are treasured the more for that. But the daffodils do not last long as some of the types with smaller trumpets. Plant them in a sheltered place, if possible, in a fairly heavy soil, close to a shrubbery border. Do not disturb the unless by good fortune they increase and become crowded. They will probably remain for many years, but may gradually disappear.

These Varieties Thrive.

The leedsi, barri and poeticus varieties, which like a somewhat sandy soil, are much more likely to thrive and multiply in our climate.. If planted in drifts, in the border, or along a path, they will naturalize and may increase until they are crowded, in which case they should be lifted in August and reset.

Plant narcissus bulbs six inches deep and six inches apart and never use manure to fertilize them, but bone meal only.

WEDDING BELLS.

BLODGETT—PETERS.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized in St. James' Methodist Church, in the presence of about forty-five friends and relatives. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. J. D. Richardson, pastor of the church, when Edith Lillian Peters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Peters, Otonabee, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to John Arthur Blodgett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Blodgett of Smith.

The bride entered the church carrying a shower bouquet of white asters, with her bridesmaid, Miss Agnes Lockie, carrying pink dahlias, to the strains of the wedding march played by Mr. Chenhall. The groom was ably assisted by Mr. Gratton Kemp of Lakefield.

After the ceremony a buffet luncheon was served to about twenty relatives of the contracting parties at their future home, 470 Bolivar Street.

to me without a chance of any suspicion.

"If I had only waited for that conference. She got sick early in September and I was impatient and so thought I would do it then."

Hight then signed the following statement:

"I make this statement of my own free will. I make this statement to the Rev. C. C. Hall. Mrs. Elsie Sweetin and I fell in love and intended to get married. We made arrangements to put her husband, Wilford Sweetin, my wife, Anna, out of the way. She, Elsie, asked me what to get and I got arsenic. I bought it in Benton, July 22. I gave it (the poison) to Mrs. Sweetin. I never give her husband any arsenic. I said I did, because I didn't want to give her away and after his death it was up to me to put my wife away, according to the compact. I did not intend to do anything until after we moved, but she, my wife, got sick and I did."

Immediately after this Sheriff Holcomb placed Mrs. Sweetin under arrest.

The texts of the first confession follows:

"I, Lawrence M. Hight, of my own free will, voluntarily, without threat or promises and having been fully informed of my right, that what I say my be used against me, make the following statement:

"That while temporarily beside myself with grief at my wife, Anna Hight's condition, who was suffering intensely and was sure to die, and wishing to save her pain, I put poison in some coffee and gave it to her in the early morning of Wednesday, Sept. 10, 1924, while Mrs. Lusy Laur, my daughter, Mary and Mildred Hight, were in the kitchen in my home at Ina, Ill., Jefferson County, and my son, Robert Hight, was in bed at home.

"That my sole thought was to ease her pain in her dying moments.

(Signed) "L. M. HIGHT."

"I, Lawrence M. Hight, of my own free will, voluntarily, without threat or promises and having been fully informed of my right, and that what I say may be used against me, make the following statement:

"That on Sunday morning, July 27, 1924, at the home of Wilford Sweetin at Ina, Jefferson County, Ill., I placed some poison in a glass of water and gave it to Wilford Sweetin, who drank it. I did it to ease his pain. Elsie Sweetin knew nothing of this and there was never anything between her and myself in any way.

(Signed) "Lawrence M. Hight."

The minister was examined from 9 o'clock last night until 4 o'clock this morning, before the first confession was obtained. He insisted he was temporarily out of his mind when he gave poison to his wife.

At one time during the examination, State's Attorney Thompson said, he read steadily to the clergyman from the Bible for half an hour. Not until he began asking a line of hypothetical questions, the State's Attorney said, did the prisoner show signs of weakening. At one point the pastor asked to be again alone with the State's Attorney, whom he addressed throughout the night as "brother." For two hours more the two men faced each other.

Then the prosecutor appeared, his face white and drawn with fatigue, holding the first written confession.

After acknowledging this confession the minister expressed a desire to Sheriff Holcomb also to confess that he had poisoned Sweetin and asked that "Brother Thompson" be called to the room.

"The Sweetins will kill me if I admit that I poisoned Wilford," he said.

"There aits the Sheriff," Thompson replied, "and he will tell you, and I will tell you, that there will not a man put a finger on you in this county and that you will have to answer for your crime to the court alone."

Then Hight signed the second confession. He was calm thereafter. He told the officers he was scared when they took him from the jail Sunday night as he feared a mob was after him.

Hight intimated he would plead guilty to the charge of murdering his wife. So far no charge has been filed against him in connection with Sweetin's death.

State's Attorney Thompson announced he had sent his brother, Neil Thompson, also an attorney, to White County to investigate reports that a Centreville girl, with whom the Hight family had been intimate, had died under mysterious circumstances three years ago. Several pictures of the girl were found in the Hight home and Hight is said to have asserted the girl had been poisoned by drinking water.

Mrs. Sweetin was prostrated at her home to-day.

Hight declined to surrender his credentials as a minister to the Rev. C. C. Hall, Superintendent of the Mount Carmel District of the Methodist Episcopal church.

GENEVA HEARS GERMAN CABINET UNANIMOUSLY

the insistence of the workers' groups that any convention for control of the private manufacture of arms shall provide provide for regular investigations of armaments manufacturers of all countries.

Application Late

The delegates have interpreted the news from Berlin as meaning that Germany will insist in a permanent seat on the council of the League of Nations, with perhaps some insistence also that any military investigation would not be conducted in such a way as to wound national dignity. It is understood that the Berlin foreign office will continue the diplomatic negotiations already begun in the capitals of the Great Powers so as to be certain that the reasonable conditions attached to the application for membership will be met. Statesmen are agreed that this is the wisest course to pursue, though it is believed that Germany's official application will come so late to prevent action by the Assembly at the present session.

League leaders said they were convinced that German admission would immensely reinforce the League as an international organization, and financial experts expressed the opinion that it would contribute greatly to the operation of the Dawes report. The presence of Germany, they added would greatly improve the running of the entire economic machinery, and hasten world reconstruction not to mention impoving the chance of success of the conference for the reduction of armaments.

Co-operating Now

Like the United States, Germany co-operates to a considerable extent with the league already; she is a member of the International Labor office and takes an active part in opium, health, transit and other activities of a technical and humanitarian nature. The countries entitled to permanent seats on the council are the principal allied and associated powers. These are Great Britain, The United States, France, Italy and Japan.

Presumably the United States vacant chair will be maintained indefinitely, so strong is the conviction in League circles that some day the United States will fill it, if only conditionally. Hence, there is no intention of turning over the United States seat to Germany.

An additional permanent seat could be created without amending the covenant, for the covenant authorizes the council by unanimous vote if backed by a majority of the assembly, to increase the permanent places. China wants the number of non-permanent seats, now six, increased so that China, as a great Asiatic power, can occupy the paradoxial position of possessing a non-permanent seat permanently.

French Acquiescent

The French delegation took the news of Germany's decision to apply for membership with a perfect sentiment of acquiescence, deeming Germany's intention to sound out the powers represented on the council as entirely logical. The French do not think that Germany can be admitted during the present assembly, and look for the summoning of an extraordinary session, probably after the council meeting in January 1925.

The French spokesmen read the semi-official Berlin announcement in a carefully prepared translation and averred that they could see in it no hint of an intention to resusciate the Western war responsibility. They were agreed that the adoption of the Dawes' plan made the problem of Germany's entry into the League much easier of solution.

Aggressor Defined

The drafting sub-commission of the first, or Juridical, sub-committee finished drawing up the protocol articles on arbitration last evening; they produced what they consider in an ironclad definition of an aggressor and ways and means of dealing with would-be belligerents. Their newly drafted Article Six—the only one lacking from the draft they presented before the full committee this afternoon —brings into play a compulsory armistice, to act as a stop-gap if the council finds difficulty in defining which of the two litigant states is the aggressor.

The sub-committee's new article on aggression maintains that a state is presumed to be an aggressor ipso facto, unless the league council by unanimous vote should decide otherwise, if it refuses to submit to arbitration or to conform to a judicial or arbitral decision, or to the recommendation of the council, or 'ignores a unanimous report of the council on an arbitral or a judicial finding that the difference between it and another state is based on a question which international law leaves to the exclusive competence of that state."

Otherwise it is provided that if the council is unable at short notice to determine the aggressor, it is obliged to prescribe for would-be belligerents an armistice, of which it will fix the conditions by a two-thirds vote and supervise execution. here after would-be belligerents refusing to accept the armistice, or violating the conditions of it, will be named as aggressor.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

To the Editor of The Examiner:

Dear Sir,—No one can read Mr. J. H. Burnham's very lucid letters on the Prohibition question without being amused at least, if not enlightened.

Teachers of religion, he says, have admitted the failure of Christianity to reform mankind by their action in pressing for and obtaining from the Legislature a measure of Prohibition to stop the evils occasioned by strong drink. It is very hard to answer logically an argument without logic, but I would like to point out that it was the aroused Christian conscience, appalled at the awful conditions caused by the liquor traffic, which has tied the hands, to some extent at least, of those who, for their own selfish ends, would, without a thought or care, see hundreds of thousands of their fellowmen and women debauched and damned.

To talk as if whisky, and the other abominable drinks that have been concocted by man, were approved by the Deity, who created every thing clean and wholesome and sweet, is, to my mind, rank blasphemy.

"God made man upright, but man has sought out many inventions." No one, remembering conditions that existed under license and looking over Ontario to-day, but must admit that the O.T.A., though enforced in a none too efficient manner, has amply justified itself. Ask the merchants if it is not better for their cash registers? Ask the wife of the drunkard that was, if it is not better for her? Ask the children of the man who drank when he could get it but cannot get it now, if their home is not happier for the O.T.A.

The Examiner is to be commended for the way in which it is continually trying to arouse the public mind to the seriousness of conditions in regard to motor accidents. Conditions in this regard are serious enough in all conscience, but what will it be if every one can start for home with a bottle of liquor in his car, or in case of a party with five or six maybe?

Oh, you say, but under Government control they would not be allowed to drink it till they got home. I would like to ask who would stop them?

What would conditions be like when the careless drivers were reinforced by the drunken drivers?

Fellow citizens of Ontario, do not let us lose the measure of temperance reform that has been obtained, but support it, and demand from the Ontario Government a rigid enforcement. It can be enforced if the will to enforce it is present.

The alternative, we are told, is Government control, and our opponents tell the O.T.A. cannot be enforced; in other words, the Government cannot control the drink when it is tied up tight, but they will be able to control it if there is more of it to control. What reasoning!—Yours faithfully,

GEO. LEADER.

Dear Mr. Editor,—It seems to me the great question before us now is, not to proclaim the perfection of the O.T.A., but to say, by our votes, whether we think it has reduced drinking alcoholic liquors more than any other law passed by the Ontario Legislature for the purpose of controlling the drink evil. As all independent investigations, backed up by official figures, prove that it has done so beyond question, there can be no good reason why we should put our trust in any other form of Government control. Some of the arguments given by the "wets" themselves prove this, such as increased revenue to the Government, notwithstanding the great increase of bootlegging in these places. There always will be law-breakers until the milennium arrives, and it is a fact that in the days of partial prohibition, under license, there were more cases of law breaking than under the O.T.A.; so do not imagine Government control of sales of liquor will stop bootlegging. Those who keep tab on those things know better. Read the report of the Star investigators as to Government control. After visiting British Columbia and Quebec, Premier Ferguson does not want either; and as he has always favored the "wets," it must have looked very bad to him, and he now promises a better O.T.A. law and better enforcement if we vote for O.T.A.

This should encourage all people looking to the best interests of the country to make this majority so decisive that no Government will go against the will of the people. Some of the "wets" believe they can humbug the people all the time. Ever since I came to Peterboro I have noticed very regularly, letters from one who signs himself generally "J. H. Burnham." If such letters indicate the character of the man, he has my sympathy.

As an example, he states "that God made everything so He made alcohol, and so He meant us to drink it." We cannot suppose that such a learned man would not know better, for it is only a little over three hundred years since man learned how to make alcohol by a certain process.

Now, while he was writing this in his characteristic manner, calculated to deceive, he must have known that he was sitting on a man-made article and had his manuscript on a man-made writing pen dipped in a fluid man made. What must we think of a man who fills the "Voice of the People" columns with such absolute nonsense, and then poses as a leader against Prohibition; and in order to make himself solid with the Moderates, he claims "the religion of Jesus to be right but churches are all gone wrong, all social workers are just making pretences, and, in fact, to boil it down, the world is all gone wrong on account of Prohibition." In this you will note, he sets himself up against God himself, who is the greatest Prohibitionist known, and against all man-made laws, for they are both educative and prohibitory, so judge how much nonsense you have been reading from this man.—Yours sincerely,

A. H. ALLEN.

he made the statements in ignorance of the truth."

Mr. McCarthy argued that the phrase in the bank act that monthly reports were to be made out "according to the books" did not affect the liability of the accused.

"The making of the items according to the books might affect the punishment your Honor, if I may say so, but it does not affect your judgment as to whether these items are false or not," said Mr. McCarthy, who finished his address just before 5 o'clock and the judge made his announcement regarding judgment.

The only brush that cleans inside as well as outside!

Have teeth men admire

New polishing brush makes them bright, gleaming

YOU, too, can have a charming smile, white teeth that glisten attractively. A noted scientist has discovered the way. And beauty experts everywhere advise it.

Yellowish, coated teeth are unattractive, repulsive. No matter how pretty your eyes, your hair, your face —your teeth can spoil it all if they are lacking.

Yet the secret is simple. A new polishing brush has been invented. It does what old-fashioned brushes failed to do. It makes teeth look like you have always wanted yours to look. It brightens them up amazingly, and in such a short time!

Not a mere tooth brush

Doctors and dentists recommend this new tooth brush, too—for another reason.

This brush is scientifically shaped —designed to fit your teeth. Its exclusive shape protected by the broadest patents. The bristles shaped to reach all crevices in the back of your teeth, where food lodges, where fermentation and subsequent decay begin.

Thus by protecting your teeth by the careful brushing this brush gives, you lengthen their life. You improve their appearance. Once you have used this brush you will never be satisfied with a lesser brush.

Costs no more

Ask your drug or department store for a Dr. West's Polishing Tooth Brush. Use any dentifrice you like. Costs only a few cents—no more than ordinary old-fashioned tooth brushes. Your money back if you are not delighted.

WEDNESDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1924.

TIMELY COMMENT.

The magisterial rebuke of a young lawyer, who, in petitioning for bail for two young men who are alleged to have been implicated in tax fraud transactions, laid emphasis upon the fact that they are returned soldiers, will likely be heartily subscribed to by the great army of returned men who have zealously guarded their splendid reputations, says the Hamilton Spectator. Like the magistrate, they, too, must be heartily sick of the adverse advertising that is being given returned men as a whole by the introduction of war service as an extenuating circumstance in criminal cases. When a returned man with a fine overseas record is overtaken by adversity and driven by poverty and sickness and unemployment to an offense against the law of the land, the service which he rendered his country is taken into consideration, as a matter of course. But the returned man who embarks upon a criminal undertaking, when there is not a tittle of excuse for his straying from the paths of rectitude, and who quotes his war record as a reason for special privilege, is not playing square with the fellows who marched with him in the great adventure. If every returned man reasoned that his overseas service put him beyond the pale of the law, what a problem the police would have on their hands! Magistrate Jelfs' crisp comment on the subject on Saturday will not be offensive to returned men, if they realize that it was uttered in defense of their reputations.

THE GUELPH TRAGEDY.

A young Englishman committed suicide at Guelph on Sunday by jumping into the river speed.

Despondency over his inability to obtain employment is the reason assigned for his rash act.

The tragedy affords poor advertising for our immigration department, and should cause some earnest thought.

This unfortunate young man is, unluckily, not an isolated type—although it is providential that the majority of men in a similar plight are made of sterner stuff.

He came to Canada hopeful of being able to prosper in this land of opportunity.

Back home he left a wife and family, awaiting the word that the husband and father was making a success of his venture and that the time for re-union had arrived.

And now he's dead.

The rainbow of hope had faded, the golden dream was over.

There was no work for him, no prospects of making a home here for his loved ones, the river beckoned—and he's gone.

But what about the others who, like the Guelph man, are unable to find employment?

How many more are there whose condition is almost as desperate?

Are we to continue to invite immigrants to come to Canada when among those who have already arrived the spectre of unemployment is stalking?

APPLY THE GOLDEN RULE.

Many local motorists who have visited other cities and numerous visiting automobilists declare that there is more careless driving in Peterborough than in the larger centres.

Before resenting that indictment Peterborough drivers should conscientiously endeavour to find whether or not it is justified.

It is complained not only that there is much fast driving, but there is altogether too general a disregard of the common principles of courtesy and of the rights and safety of others.

Cutting corners, carelessness about giving a warning when coming out of side streets into a main artery of traffic, failure to use the customary signals in regard to turning and stopping, an inclination to race by standing street cars and a habit of rigidly clinging to the right-of-way idea, even when an accident is threatened by such action—these are some of the points in which Peterborough motorists are accused of falling down.

If one or all of these charges is true of a large proportion of car drivers, the general case against the city's automobilists must stand.

All these faults could be eliminated by a practical application of the Golden Rule to car driving.

No complicated system should be necessary—if motorists would merely drive as they want the other fellow always to do there would be few complaints and fewer accidents.

A PERFECT EXAMPLE.

To the Examiner the coal strike in Alberta appears as a perfect example of the utter folly and the sheer waste of this method of settling an industrial dispute.

The mine owners of Alberta before the walk-out occurred were endeavouring to find an Eastern market for their coal.

If there were prospects of a successful outcome to this effort the strike has knocked them into a cocked hat.

There are indications that at last the trouble may be cleared up.

Let us hope the reports are true.

The miners of most of the Alberta mines have been idle since April.

That means that the loss in wages, business and dividends has been about five million dollars.

Nobody has gained.

The public loses because a source of coal has been lost.

The miners have lost their wages, and the mine owners their profits, and the shareholders their chance for a dividend.

The warring parties would not accept a board of conciliation.

They preferred to fight it out, although everybody lost, than to compromise.

Employers and workers should ask themselves if the Ottawa Journal does not hit the nail squarely on the head when it remarks: "We guess that nothing that a board of conciliation could do would be expensive as a strike."

BORN TO MISS THE JOY OF IT.

You have to feel a bit sorry for the Prince of Wales. He seems to be a good fellow with an inclination to enjoy himself in a human way, and observe how he is pestered, says an United States writer, and Examiner readers will agree with him, although the reference to the wilds of Canada shows that the writer is mixing up a camping trip with the Prince's visit to his ranch.

Upon leaving home he has to observe the royal custom of travelling incognito—as Lord Rennet, or something equally as good—and yet, before he boards his boat, the world knows all about his incognito.

He finds his steamer packed with folks who have fought to get passage so that they may say "Oh yes, indeed! I came over with the Prince of Wales," and who riot for places from which to stare at him.

If he dances, he is surrounded by a ring of brazen starers and is bound to feel that every female present has marriage or other social designs on him.

He is entertained and slobbered over in some big American cities until he's tired and sick, mentally and, perhaps, physically. Then he goes to the wilds of Canada, "for a good time," with promise to be able to "rough it." And what will he get there?

Will he hang his necktie and white shirt on a bush and make him a bed of pine boughs? Will he put up a tent and fry his own flap-jacks and bacon? Will he carry a canoe over a portage and paddle it through the lily pads of the silvery lake?

Will he tramp out his own crawfish bait from the mud, and smoke a cob pipe? Will he go out among the great pines, alone, as the sun sinks below the mountains, to see, hear and feel nature going to bed?

Will he chop and carry wood for the campfire and sit in its glow to smoke, to think and to praise God for the rhythm of wavelets upon beach pebbles, the hymn of night breezes in the dark forest, the twittering of young birds being put to sleep, the wonder of the stars, and the blessed freedom of a man who is being just himself?

Will he get the relief, the joy of feeling "Here are just God and His great works, and myself"?

Alas! It cannot be. His title is too precious. None of the enjoyable roughness of the wilds for him. His bacon will be served tied with ribbons, his crawfish will be served bathed and polished, his spotless clothes will be served by a professional valet from a palace, and a crowd of flunkies will spoil all the loneliness and naturalness of it.

Poor Prince! None of the splendid wildness of the great outdoors for him.

THE PROBLEM OF EDUCATION.

Mr. Edward W. Bok has written in the Saturday Evening Post a thoughtful and impressive article in relation to a college education. In a broad sense, it is intended to answer the question as to whether or not such a training is essential to the future of a young man. Mr. Box frankly confesses that a convincing and final answer is impossible since the necessary double experiment could never be tried by the same individual; but he does have a great deal to say, out of a rich and somewhat exceptional experience, on this perennial topic.

Mr. Bok himself left school at 13 years of age, and therefore is unable to say what a college education might have done for him. He has, however, been a conspicuously successful man, both in the field of letters and business. He was for 25 years managing editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, and has contributed creditably to the literature of his time. His books have been widely and appreciatively read. He has therefore given indubitable proof, in that and other ways, of his being an educated man in the full and liberal meaning of the term.

Two questions lie at the bottom of this matter: First, as to when a man may be regarded as educated; and second, as to whether or not a college course is essential to his education. Collateral to both these queries is, of course, the much-debated point as to what is education; but that may be left aside for the purposes in view. Mr. Bok's experience in life rather gives the reply to both the questions just indicated. He must be regarded as an educated man, because he has a well-trained and richly stored mind, and can present his thoughts in forceful and correct English. On the other hand, since he never saw other than a common school, and that for but a short term of years, a college diploma would seem not to be a necessary factor in the equipment of a young man for success in life.

To say that a course at college is imperatively necessary, in order that a young man may be held to be educated, is to assert the postulate that education is the monopoly of colleges. It is not. A college is, unquestionably, an excellent place in which to acquire an education; but thousands of men have duplicated the experience of Mr. Edward W. Bok. They have got a broad and sound mental equipment without any help of that nature whatever. There is no other way of putting it than to say they have educated themselves. That it can be done is proven by the fact that it has been done.

Is a young man badly handicapped who has had but elementary schooling? Yes and no. It all depends on the young man. If he has the right stuff in him, life will educate him. If he hasn't, no amount of college education will make a man of him. But we imagine that if he has the right stuff in him to begin with, college education will help, not hinder. And it will be a wonderful thing for his own satisfaction throughout life.

In discussing in this rather practical way the problem of education, it must not for a moment be assumed that Mr. Bok has written a syllable in derogation of colleges. Quite to the contrary. He recognizes them as splendid institutions, having unreckonable potentialities in the general cause of education. He has nothing but commendation for them, as we all must have. But he is naturally disposed, in as modest a way as possible, to point inferentially to his own case, and that of many others, as offering stimulation to every young man who has been denied the privileges and opportunities which a college affords. That is well worth doing.—Ottawa Journal.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 24. — Yesterday's heavy run of cattle at the Union Stock Yards and a fairly heavy first delivery made for anything but a good market yesterday morning. Of Monday's cattle only 3,879 were sold and this left nearly 2,000 on hand. Yesterday morning's first receipts were 69 cars, 990 cattle, 314 calves, 1,415 hogs, and 558 sheep and lambs. Several cars of Western cattle were included in yesterday's arrivals and these were mixed butchers and feeders. Trade opened very draggy, and was low all the morning.

Rogers & Maybee were able to get only 800 head for export on Monday. These included fat steers and heifers, stores, cows and bulls. The prices were lower on steers. The choicest steers cost $7.25 to $7.50 and medium steers $6.50 to $7.00. Heifers were bought at $6.00 to $6.70, stores at $5.75 to $6.50, cows $4.50 to $6.00, and bulls $3.75 to $4.00 a cwt. The same buyers were in the market yesterday morning for any choice heifers at about $6.50 a cwt., and a few extra good cows were bought for overseas at $6.00 to $6.25. Two loads of heavy steers with lots of frame but not enough fat were only bid for at $6.25 a cwt.

The feeder and stocker trade has brightened up materially, but prices are easy with the lower market for butchers. Loads of breedy steers, 1,000 pounds and up, are selling at $6.00 a cwt. and good loads of stockers, 800 to 900 pounds, at $4.00 to $4.45 a cwt. Choice butchers are about steady from $6.25 to $6.50 a cwt., but other butcher stuff devoid of any merit is being offered at $3.50 a cwt. Good to choice cows are a steady to firm market and export bulls are steady. Medium butchers cows are selling at $3.50 to $3.75. The market is altogether too slow to use up the supply and a lot of cattle will have to be held till to-day

Calves are not feeling the absence of the Buffalo demand immediately, and prices were steady yesterday, with tops making 10 1-2 and 11 cents. Good mediums are 8 1-2 to 9 1-2 cents and common calves about 7 cents.

A light lamb delivery caused another 50-cent advance yesterday and choice ewes are 12 cents and bucks 10 cents. Handyweight sheep sold at 7 cents to 7 1-2 cents, and breeding ewes are as high as 8 1-2 cents in some cases.

Hogs have a firmer undertone and seller are trying for a further advance at $9.50 a cwt.

EGG PRICES

OTTAWA, September 24 (Canadian Press). — Receipts of eggs continue to fall off rapidly. The market is firm with very little change in the prices. The quality is good owing to the cool weather during the storing season and the average effect of more care being exercised in the grading under the regulations now in force.

Toronto firm, unchanged.

Montreal firm under steady demand. Jobbing extras 46, storage extras 43, firsts 36, seconds 30.

Ottawa market firm. Jobbing extras 42, firsts 36, seconds 30.

Winnipeg market unchanged. Jobbing extras 38 to 40, firsts 33, seconds 27.

MONTREAL PRODUCE.

MONTREAL, September 24 (Canadian Press). — The export trade in grain here yesterday showed no improvement and the market was quiet, but there was a fair demand from New York exporters for rye and sales of some round lots were made at 2 cents per bushel over the Chicago December c.i.f. bay ports for first half October shipment.

The trade in spot supplies for domestic and country account was moderate and the tone of the market was firm.

A good feeling prevailed in the market for spring wheat grades of flour and prices were unchanged. There was no change in winter wheat prices being firm. A much stronger feeling was noted in white corn flour and prices were advanced 40 to 50 cents, sales being made at from $7.50 to $7.60 per bushel barrel.

The market for millfeed was without any feature to note.

The market for rolled oats was firm, with a fair amount of business done.

Lower prices wer predicted in the baled hay market as the result of the heavy supplies on hand.

A fair amount of business continues to be done in eggs in a whole sale jobbing way, and a firm undertone was present.

There ws a strong feeling in the butter situation owing to the steady demand from English importers, and a fair turnover was recorded for the day. The feature of the cheese trade was be strength that developed and the prices advanced 1-4 to 1 2c for Western goods and Eastern goods 1-4c per pound.

The little red hen

"PUCK, puck, puck, pucKAYah," cackles the little red hen, as she steps off the warm nest, broadcasting to the barnyard that she has just laid a fine, fresh egg. She makes a product that any "manufacturer" might be proud of, and doesn't hesitate to advertise the fact.

A duck egg might be just as good, but the duck evidently doesn't think so. She doesn't advertise, and duck eggs have no market.

To be absolutely sure of buying ANY merchandise, stick to the advertised brands. For their manufacturers believe in them and tell you about them daily in the advertising columns of this newspaper, over their signature.

The duck-egg brands might be just as good but you cannot be sure, if the manufacturers themselves will not admit it!

Read the advertisements regularly. Buy from them. You will then know the source of the products, and whom to look to if they don't measure up.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

A MEATLESS LUNCHEON

....The following tested receipes solve the problem of a tasty luncheon without meat.

Tomato Chowder

2 cupfuls Borden's St. Charles Milk
1 pint hot water
2½ cupfuls canned tomatoes
1 medium sized onion sliced thin
1 tablespoonful butter or butter substitute
4 tablespoonfuls flour
2 teaspoonsfuls sugar
3 teaspoonfuls salt
¼ teaspoonfuls pepper
¼ teaspoonful soda
6 water crackers split

Melt the butter in the top part of the double boiler, add the onion, and cook it gently till yellowed about five to eight minutes Pour in the milk and water, set over the lower part of the double boiler and scald. Mix the flour, salt and pepper with enough cold water to make a smooth cream stir it into the milk and cook about fifteen minutes, stirring occasionally. Heat the tomato with the sugar; when boiling, add the soda and combine it with the thickened milk. For serving, put a split cracker which has been dipped in warm water, in each plate.

Escalloped Macaroni with Cheese

1½ cupfuls Borden's St. Charles Milk
3 cupfuls cooked, drained macaroni cut in two-inch lengths
1¼ cupfuls grated American cheese
2½ tablespoonfuls butter or butter substitute
½ teaspoonful salt, scant
1-8 teaspoonful pepper
Few grains paprika

Make a white sauce of the flour, butter, seasonings and the milk undiluted. Stir in the marcaroni. Thoroughly oil a rather shallow baking dish, put in a layer of the marcaroni, then one of the cheese, continuing in this way until all is used and making the last layer one of cheese. Bake in a moderate oven until browned, about thirty-five minutes.

Sparish Cream.

1¼ cupfuls Borden's St. Charles Milk diluted with 1¼ cupfuls water.
1-8 teaspoonful salt
½ cupful sugar
3 eggs
1½ tablespoonfuls granulated gelatine.
1 tablespoonful vanilla.

Let the gelatine stand in the milk for five minutes, then scald the mixture. Combine the egg-yolks, sugar and salt with the scalded milk, and cook until slightly thickened like a custard. Then stir the mixture into the egg whites beaten stiff; add the vanila. Turn into individual moulds which have been dipped in cold water and when set unmould and serve with light cream, or any preserved fruit.

ROOFS LAST CENTURIES.

St. Paul's Has Not Been Reroofed Since Built in 1710.

LONDON, Sept. 23 (Associated Press).—The leaden roofs of some of England's old churches, a heritage from mediæval times, occasionally have to be melted down, rolled over and then replaced. The lead itself is indestructable, but it has been found that at the end of every 200 years the metal should be recast to give the best results as a roofing material.

The lead on the famous dome of St. Paul's, however, has not been melted down since it was placed in position in 1710.

SURFEITED WITH CEREMONIAL.

LONDON, Sept. 23.—Herbert Rendell, after 30 years given to directing the Court ceremonials in London, has retired. He is the author of a book containing 300 descriptions of the correct dresses to be worn at ceremonial occasions.

Christian Rented $75 Month Home and Kept Address Secret from Partners.

NATION-WIDE HUNT

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—Additional impetus was given the nation-wide search for George R. Christian, defalcating partner in Day & Heaton, Stock Exchange house, when revised estimates revealed that the firm's records may show a shortage of more than $1,250,000.

Members of the firm, one of the oldest in Wall street and honored for fifty-three years, frankly confessed that only now, in the light of an investigation by the receiver's accountants, do they realize how extensive was their associate's embezzlement.

It was learned from a reliable source that the assets of the firm, which voluntarily closed its doors Thursday, will not exceed $700,000. Liabilities of about $1,700,000, it was pointed out, indicate a deficit of $1,000,000.

Christian a Mystery.

Thousands of dollars in securities in the firm's strong boxes had been held in trust for customers, it is said. The same authority expressed the opinion that these securities have nearly all disappeared.

In withdrawing from membership in the New York Stock Exchange, Day & Heaton announced they were unable to meet their obligations because of the defalcation of the partner, Christian. Harry V. Day, of the firm, declared that aside from Christian's peculations, the firm of Day & Heaton would be solvent.

Christian continues to be the mystery man of Wall street. His dual personality, as revealed by his alleged acts of dishonesty, when compared with his record in the office of the firm, baffled not alone his associates of the past twenty-eight years, but was frankly puzzling to the police.

His Tastes Modest.

Through a brother, Louis A. Christian, employed by a brokerage firm of No. 54 Wall street, it was ascertained that the missing man had lived with his wife at No. 1265 Bedford avenue, Brooklyn. At this address little was known of either George Christian or his wife.

The neighbors spoke of them as a home-loving couple who were always together and who seemed to have very few friends.

The home is located in a neighborhood where there are many shops, garages and gasoline stations. The rental of the apartment is said to have been about $75 a month.

Neighbors say that the Christians had a small car, but records of the police department show there had been no license issued either to Christian or his wife.

His brother yesterday declared that he saw George the day he left on his vacation, August 14, but that he had not heard from him since. He further declared that the two families rarely visited each other.

He said his brother's tastes were extremely modest and that the missing man had never had the time to cultivate expensive hobbies.

Rose by Plodding Work.

Mr. Day yesterday attempted a psychological analysis of his missing associate. He traced Christian's career from the time he came into the office to work as a runner at a salary of $5 a week.

By constant attention to business, the boy from Brooklyn worked his way through various positions in the office until he became a partner.

Day after day, and year after year Christian, he said, handled large sums of money in cash and securities and never had there been a discrepancy of as much as a dollar. He guarded the interests of the firm as if his very life were involved, he said. Countless opportunities for dishonest acts, which would have yielded him large sums in cash, presented themselves for Christian, as boy and man, and none of these he grasped, he declared.

He was a plodder. Manhood found him a very tall, very heavy, phlegmatic man, whose interests centred on one thing alone, the welfare of the firm. His promotion to a partnership was inevitable. He knew more about the business and did more for it than any one else.

Always on the Job.

Later he married, his associates came to know him as a most devoted husband. At one time, when his wife was ill, he spoke of destroying himself if her illness took a fatal turn; but even when she was passing through the crisis in her illness he did not absent himself from his work.

According to Day, Christian never took a day off except during vacation. One evening when the several partners of the firm and their wives met in social amity, Christian would stay on the job—to complete an unfinished task.

His income increased, materially. He received a salary and a percentage of the firm's profits which were always very substantial. But he seemed to have little use for money. He neither drank nor smoked and his hours of leisure were too few to afford time in which to enjoy his earnings. He would often declare that his greatest pleasure came through the love of his wife and attendance on his job.

Kept Home Secret.

In the light of recent events, Day now sees cause for suspicion when viewing Christian's attitude along certain lines. Though a man of a very large income, Christian never had a telephone in his home. If he had, it was without the knowledge of the other members of the firm to whom he explained that a telephone would only annoy him.

Early this summer Day left for a fishing trip in Canada. He gave Christian the right to look after all his personal affairs, to open his private mail, to pay any checks that had to be paid and to administer all of his affairs which are said to be very extensive. Before going he asked Christian for his address that he might send him a large salmon to his home.

To this, according to Day, Christian replied to send it to the office so that he could "cut it up and share it with the boys." Day added:

"At the time we loved him for his unselfish attitude. We can see now, however, that there might have been another motive, he wanted his home address unknown."

Wife Also Missing.

Receiver Alfred C. Coxe, appointed by Judge Bondy, was rather confident yesterday that Christian would be found. Side by side with the mysterious disappearance of Christian is the disappearance of his wife. Efforts to locate her have so far proved entirely futile.

The missing man is known to be a lover of devious routes. A year ago he spent several weeks working out a method whereby he could travel to Ohio by trolley car. He eventually reached his goal.

He left on his vacation announcing that he intended to go to Jasper Park, in the Canadian Rockies. Reports from that resort indicate that the Christians had not been there.

A rumor around police headquarters had it that a friend of the missing man had offered to bring him in under certain conditions. This was yesterday denied by members of the firm.

FABLES ON HEALTH.

AVOIDING COLDS.

"Obey the ordinary rules of hygiene if you would avoid a cold," recommended the Mann family doctor.

"Except where nasal defects exist there should be no trouble with recurring colds if a person is living hygienically."

Here are a few points that might be written down and remembered in this connection:

Most people realise that exposure and chilling are likely to produce colds. This is due to a disturbance of circulation brought about through the nerve centres controlling the skin circulation which are oversensitive and feel an immediate reaction.

Now if the skin is put in good shape there is a good chance of overcoming this. Bathing in cool water, with its accompanying reaction, will help build up skin resistance. Getting gradually accustomed to gentle drafts also will help.

Another stunt is to stand in a foot of hot water and rub the body briskly with a good rough washcloth that has been wrung out in water of a temperature of 80 degrees.

Each day reduce the temperature of the water until it reaches 50 degrees. After the rubdown dash cool water on the body.

PINCH OF SODA

Add a pinch of soda to dried apricots when they are nearly stewed and very little sugar will be required for sweetening.

VICE RULES U. S., SAYS CHASE

Nation's Foremost Reformer Blames Movies; Wants Federal Regulations.

By STEPHEN HANNAGAN.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Sept. 23. — Vice is monarch of America, and the king can do no wrong.

That is the assertion of Canon William Sheaf Chase, rector of Christ Church here, an outstanding reformer in what he says is an era of lawlessness and unconvenality.

"The vice trust is in control of the country because from the highest to the lowest official there is a constant fear of antagonizing the wealthy ring," he said.

"To-day the law and public officials are being used to corrupt society. In recent years there has been an increased disregard for the law.

"The vice propagandists claim that existing conditions are caused by the severity of the law, pointing to the Volstead Act with great zest. This is untrue.

"You don't have to be stupid to be a Christian. The more Christian you are the easier it is to see through the shams of these propagandists.

"They tell you nature forces us to ignore the conventional standard of decency. Yet the prize fighter, the race horse, the athlete are all bound by those standards when training to reach the highest possible point of physical strength and endurance."

"Their propaganda is a veil behind which women are sold and men degraded."

Canon Chase, who is President of the New York Civic League, an organization whose influence is felt throughout the country, is a kindly man.

He has neither the appearance nor attitude of the typical reformer. Pale purple sox guarded the expanse between trouser tip and shoe top when he was interviewed.

The movies are responsible for conventional disregard by the generation of flappers and cake eaters, according to Canon Chase, who is in the midst of an attempt to have the motion picture industry controlled by a Federal Motion Picture Commission.

"Make pictures right before they are made," he insists.

"To-day it is commonly believed that 'love means lust.' Men and women marry without a desire for children.

"To think that 'falling in love' is the basis for a proper marriage is exceedingly erroneous. The term 'falling in love' very graphically describes why many people foolishly marry.

"They fall from high ideals of thought, feeling and conscience, and descend to the mere realm of real animals. After the marriage the desire is abated they find neither congeniality of thought, feeling or conscience and hence are mismated.

"Rising in love is the real love."

Smoking will not be prohibited by law—at least not for many years, is the belief of Canon Chase, but the prohibition law will be rigidly enforced and the wet era forgotten in this generation.

What is the ultimate in reformation? Canon Chase was asked.

"To make the law and public officials the agents for increased social righteousness," was his reply.

IRENE CASTLE HAS TREMAN ARRESTED

Charges In a Suit That Ex-Husband Converted $40,000 of Her Securities.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22. — Irene Castle, the dancer who is now Mrs. Frederick A. McLaughlin, has brought suit against her former husband, Robert E. Treman, it became known yesterday through papers filed in the supreme Court here, and has caused arrest in Ithaca on charges that he converted securities to the value of $40,000 belonging to her. The writ was a civil one and Mr. Treman, who is socially prominent in Ithaca, gave bail for his appearance in court.

The papers on file here also disclose that Mrs. McLaughlin is the plaintiff in another action begun in Ithaca against young Treman and his father, Robert H. Treman, a banker in that city. In this she seeks to set aside the conveyance by her former husband to his father in the house in Ithaca in which she lived as Mrs. Tremain. Her contention is that the conveyance was solely for the purpose of preventing her collecting a money judgment should she be successful in her action.

The dancer is stopping at the Algoquin Hotel but could not be reached last night. Her maid there at first said she was out, but would return, and later told reporters that she had gone out of town for the week-end. Her attorney, John Kuhn also was reported not to be at his home in Great Neck.

In Ithaca, however announcement was made by the Tremans that the suit would be contested, and the explanation was given that the money obtained from the sale of the securities had been invested in the Cayuga Pictures Corporation, which exploited the dancer in a series of screen productions when she was Mrs. Treman.

Treman Released on $40,000 Bond.

The suit begun in this county is for the recovery of specific securities and attached to the papers is a photostat copy of a receipt given by Mr. Treman to his wife, acknowledging that she had turned over the securities to him. Appearing before Justice Aaron J. Levy, the dancer asked for a writ of civil arrest, charging wrongful conversion of her property. To obtain a warrant in such proceedings the plaintiff has to file a bond of 10 per cent of the amount sought. Such a bond in the amount of $4,000 is on file in the Supreme Court.

As the warrant could be served by any sheriff in the State, Mr. Kuhn, accompanied by Mrs. McLaughlin, went to Ithaca on Friday and placed the matter in the hands of the Sheriff there. Mr. Treman's arrest followed but he gave bail in the amount of $40,000.

The alleged conversion of the securities occured about the time the Cayuga Pictures Corporation was being organized to exploit the dancer. The papers in the action indicate that Mr. Treman admitted selling securities to the value of $35,000. This money is said to have been invested in the picture enterprise together with $10,000 of Treman's own money. When the corporation was launched the then Mrs. Treman is said to have been placed on a salary larger than the amount for which she is now suing. Several features were made starring the dancer but the enterprize was a failure and finally went out of existence.

Subsequently Mrs. Treman went to Paris and obtained a divorce, later marrying Frederick A. McLaughlin of Chicago. Her first husband, Vernon Castle who was her dancing partner, was killed during the war in an airplane accident in Texas.

Home Now a Fraternity House.

ITHACA, N. Y., Sept. 22.—The Signa Chi Fraternity is occupying the house which figures in the litigation begun in New York by Irene Castle against her former husband, Robert E. Treman. It was to this house, on a sightly estate overlooking Caygua Lake, that Major Treman brought his bride in the Summer of 1919. For two years after their marrigae Mrs. Treman was often in Ithaca; after that she went back to dancing and the stage, and her home saw little of her. The house is one of the show places of Ithaca, has extensive grounds and a bathing pool especially constructed for Irene Castle.

The fraternity, is is reported, paid $67,000 for the property. Title to the house has already been in Mr. Treman's name, it was said here today, though a paper on file at the County Clerk's office admits that Irene Castle has a $5,500 equity in the place, presumably for money herself put into it on December 31, 1923 nearly six months after she obtained her divorce.

A "PEPTIMIST."

An optimist is a man who believes that the seed he plants in the garden will grow and look as good as the pictures on the package.

A pessimist stands beneath the tree of prosperity and growls when the fruit falls on his head.

A "peptimist" is the happy medium between these two.

He does not believe with the optimist that the seeds will produce something equal to the picture on the package, but he does believe that they will grow and bring some return for his labors.

Should the fruit from the tree of prosperity fall on his head, he rubs the bump and grabs the fruit.

When the weather reports say "fair and warmer" he believes it—and carries his umbrella.

Like the optimist, he sees the bright side of things and goes ahead, but he also sees the dark side and prepares to meet it.

And here lies his success—looking not alone on the dark side, but seeing both sides clearly.—Exchange.

THE FLOWER SHOW.

Profit From Show Is Small, But Interest Is Large.

At the conclusion of the report on the Flower Show held in the Armouries, the meeting of the directors of the Horticultural Society held last night recommended that the Society put on the Flower Show annually. The recent Flower Show proved a success from every standpoint, which, according to the judge, Mr. R. Marshall, of Toronto, is exceptional. The financial return to the Society was very small, but it was felt that the city is capable of sustaining a flower show equal to any in the Province. From a number of those who attended the show the remark is made that it was a complete surprise, being beyond all expectations. The Society appreciates that the show could not have been successful had it not been for the generous and whole-hearted co-operation of a great number of citizens, amongst whom were included the Dick & Carew Lumber Company, for the erection of platforms and booths; the Poultry Association, for the use of the tables; the local florists for exhibits; the school children's chorus, conducted by Miss Rannie; the orchestra, conducted by Mr. R. Gliddon; the Y. W. C. A. dancing classes, conducted by Miss Littlefield; Lieut.-Col. F. Bradburn, for the use of the Armouries; the Kiwanis Club, for the fancy costume parade; the Vegetable Growers' Association, for the vegetable exhibits; the Catholic Women's League, for the booths; the Caledonian Pipe Band and Messrs. Smith and Hendry, the Singing Scots; the Boy Scouts, for patrolling the exhibits; the Police Force, for the protection of valuable exhibits; the firms who displayed exhibits of decorated dining-room tables; the amateur exhibitors; the F. W. Woolworth Co., for the use of vases and standards; and last, but not least, the generous support of The Examiner through its columns.

Although the Society cannot promise any large development of the beautification of the city from the profit on the Show of one dollar and twenty-six cents, it is assured that the interest in the Flower Show will result in a greater appreciation of the use of flowers by the individual citizen.

PRINCE IN WEST.

Arrived In Winnipeg This Morning—Spent Several Hours In Town.

WINNIPEG, September 24. Canadian Press. — The Prince of Wales arrived in Winnipeg at 10.15 a.m. today over the Canadian National Railway and planned to spend about three hours here quiet informally before continuing his progress to his ranch.

The special train carrying the Prince and his party was run into a siding at Bugald, eight miles east of Winnipeg, early in the morning, and brought into Winnipeg four hours later than the announced time.

At the Canadian National station he was met by Mayor Framer, who expressed his pelasure at the visit of his Royal Highness.

The Prince said that he was always pleased to visit Western Canada and was looking forward to rest and recreation to be obtained on his ranch. Representatives of other places were also on the platform to greet the Prince, as well as representatives of the railways and a few citizens.

The Prince walked between a solid line of spectators in the rotunda of the station, and entered a motor car, while the crowd cheered its welcome.

He went direct to the Squash Racquettes Club, where he played a game with Col. Arthur Sullivan of Winnipeg.

The game over, the Prince went to Fort Gary Hotel, and at one o'clock to his special train, and the westward journey was resumed. He had luncheon on the train.

It is learned that the Prince will stop over in Winnipeg for a day or two on his return trip, about Oct. 11 or 12th.

When the train stopped for a few minutes last night at Sioux Lookout he was presented with a hindquarter of a moose by a party of United States hunters.

HOME BANK CASE.

Sydney Jones Is the Next Man To Go On Trial.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Sydney H. Jones, former auditor of now defunct Home Bank went on trial before Judge Coatsworth this morning, facing charges very similar to those on which Ocean G. Smith, chief accountant of the Bank, has just been tried. Mr. Jones was represented by D. T. Symons K.C., and R. H. Greer, K.C., while D. L. McCarthy K.C., represented Crown. It is expected that Jones trial will last almost as long as that of Smith which went eleven days.

Mr. Green made strenuous objection to what he called widening the case against his client. He argued that Jones should be tried on alleged falsities in the annual statement to department of finance only, and that the crown has not included statement of finance was first witness. Worth made no decision stating that objections would be dealt with as they occurred in evidence.

B. J. Roberts, secretary of department of finance was first witness. Mr. Greer objected to him expressing opinions on the value and purpose of reports made by banks to government. At request of Crown Mr. Roberts produced letters written by Sir Thomas White in 1916 to the Home Bank requesting particulars of the Prudential Trust Loan, Pellatt and Pellatt Loan and A. C. Frost account. This request for information was prompted by letters from western directors including Hon. T. A. Crerar asking that minister get details on these accounts. Mr. Greer demanded that whole file of Sir Thomas White on these matters be produced instead of the few letters asked by Crown. Mr. Greer said there were letters to late Z. A. Lash and M. J. Haney on this matter and he wanted them produced. H. G. Scott, K. C, representing government said there was no objection to producing whole file as it had already been filed with McKeown commission which investigated Home Bank affairs. At noon adjournment Mr. Greer, was cross examining Mr. Roberts on Department Methods in dealing with bank reports.

WED "FOR FUN," GIRL, 15, TELLS REGRETS IN COURT.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., Sept. 24.—Married "just for fun" last April at Marshall, Mich, Theresa Klein, fifteen-year-old Chicago girl, came into court here to have her wedding to John Katzenberger, twenty-one, of Kalamazoo, annulled.

The child bride told Judge George V. Weimer that she consented to the marriage after Katzenberger told her they would wait until she was sixteen years old before they went to housekeeping. The marriage was annulled.

G.W.V.A. OPENS WINTER SEASON

Best Attended Meeting in Years Heard Healthy Reports of Progress.

OFFICERS ELECTED.

A very well attended, in fact the largest, general meeting for several years was held in the rooms.

The rooms presented a fine appearance, having all been redecorated and a new heating system installed during the holiday season.

These rooms to-day are probably the best assembly rooms in the city, and are now available for rental, and the members are all enthusiastic over the prospects that they will be used by many organizations or private parties for meetings or socials during the ensuing season.

The rooms, with the assembly halls, have, besides the large assembly hall, dining-room, rest rooms, kitchen with full equipment and the large expenditures made this season were unanimously approved by those present.

The resignation as Commander of the Branch of Lieutenant-Colonel N. H. Sutton, M.D., was accepted with regret by all members of the organization. It was expressed by all ranks the splendid work accomplished by Dr. Sutton, both in the army, while connected with the D.S.C.R. and the G.W.V.A., and it was requested that the doctor continue to be an active member of the executive board of the Ontario War Veterans' Association, to which he was elected a short time ago and was a valued member. Local members will be pleased to know that Dr. Sutton is continuing his membership in the local organization.

The financial report of the year was received, and it showed a small surplus over the expenses. While there was a deficit to overcome, brought forward from previous years of over $300, this was cleared up by the year's operations, and a small balance was carried forward for next year's activities.

It was decided that the official year of the local organization would end on September 30th instead of December 31st, as the year's activities are from October 1st instead of January 1st.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing year:

Past Commander — Dr. N. H. Sutton.

Commander—R. E. Layfield.

1st Vice-Commander—C. G. Winterbottom.

2nd Vice-Commander—I. Abraham

Sergeant-at-Arms—V. Stewart.

Executive Committee — P. C. Bonner, I. Davis, O. Hurle, O. Keller, J. Milby, W. G. Nicholls, C. W. Wiggin.

The officers were installed and will take charge as from October 1.

Reports were received from the Memorial Committee, and they showed several fine designs of monuments. It is the wish of the members that a suitable monument be erected at Little Lake Cemetery and St. Peter's Cemetery in memory of those comrades who have fallen overseas and those who are buried in these cemeteries. This will be dealt with and accomplished during the ensuing year.

The Entertainment Committee reported that several social events had been arranged for, and the members can look forward to these events each month of the season. Watch out for further announcement.

The Membership Committee report progress as to last half year, also new drive for members to commence October 1st. The present membership of 350 is to be increased to 1,000. To accomplish this several new features are to be sprung by the boys of this committee. Watch out for further results of membership drive during October.

GERMANY REFUSES ADMIT WAR GUILT

Draws Up Memorandum of Conditions on Which She Will Enter League.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press).—The German Government to-day began the task of drawing up a memorandum setting forth the conditions under which Germany will, in conformity with yesterday's Cabinet decision, apply for membership in the League of Nations. A memorandum will be sent to all Governments which are members of the League Council, and will set forth Germany's desires and conditions. It will ask definite enlightenment as to whether Germany will be offered a permanent seat in the Council of the League, and it will expressly declare that Germany's entry into the League would in no way imply re-affirmation of her war guilt.

CHINA SEEKING JAPANESE AID

Japanese Officer Arrived From Chang's Forces On Important Mission.

BUSINESS SECRET.

TOKIO, Col., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Col. Takam Machida, retired Japanese army officer, now employed by General Chang Tso-Lin in Manchuria as military advisor, arrived in Tokio to-day from Mukden admittedly on an important mission, the exact nature of which was undisclosed.

Col. Machida told newspapermen that "it would be useless to deny that my visit is politically significant."

The vernacular press to-day surmised that Col. Machida carried a request from General Chang Tso-Lin, asking positive aid from Japan in the Manchurian conquest against the Pekin Government for control of the central government of China.

TO MAKE TEST CASE.

Stockholders Do Not Like To Pay Double Liability.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Arguments against the payment by shareholders in the defunct Home Bank of double liability for failure of the bank's assets will be heard on November 17th next. This date has been fixed by Master-in-Chambers Charles Garrow, of the Provincial Law Courts.

One of the transactions which will be aired at the hearing will be the acquisition by the Home Bank of assets of the Banque Internationale, which will be declared by counsel for the appeal to have been null and void. An expenditure of about $300,000 is involved.

It is also alleged that all persons who hold shares sold by the Grain Growers' Grain Company, Ltd., and the United Grain Growers are not shareholders in the Home Bank, because such shares were never validly created, issued or allotted.

A. W. Ballantyne, K.C., who is appearing for the liquidators of the Home Bank, stated to-day that a test case would be made, and upon this the liability of others would hinge. The costs of the test case will be paid out of the bank's estate. Messrs. Bain and O'Donoghue will be counsel for the shareholders.

OGILVIE APPOINTED.

Takes Over Position of Sergeant-At-Arms in Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press).—Col. George Hunter Ogilvie of Kingston was appointed to the office of Sergeant-at-Arms of the Ontario Legislature, at a meeting of the Cabinet this morning. He succeeds the late Frederick Glackmeyer, who died a few weeks ago.

JAPANESE INTERESTED IN ZR-3

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 24.—Among the interested spectators of all flights of the ZR-3 in the region of Friedrichshafen has been a commission of Japaneses naval officers who have been overseeing the construction by a German concern of several airplanes for the Japanese government. The airplane factory is on the edge of Lake Constance, about a mile from the dirigible hangars. The commission arrived here five months ago, soon after the Germans began work on the Japanese contract.

SHAW'S PLAY HURT BULGAR FEELINGS

German Producer Pays No Heed To Protest That Bulgarians Are Being Mocked.

BERLIN, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press). — The Balkan sensibilities were wounded to such an extent through the announcement that George Bernard Shaw's "Arms and the Man" would be produced in Germany that the Bulgarian Minister addressed a formal request to the manager of the theatre, requesting him to desist from presenting the play, which, he charged, mocks and ridicules the Bulgarians.

The German producer, however, was not moved by the protest and designated the diplomat's objection as far-fetched, inasmuch as the Shawian pen spared no one, not even Shaw's own countrymen.

DOCTORS RECOMMEND WHOLE WHEAT BREAD

Campaign In London, England, Against White Bread.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—"The whiter your bread

The sooner you're dead."

It isn't exactly a very enlivening or gay thought, but it is the rather concise way in which the newspapers spurred on by the doctors, have been putting things to the London public.

Frightened by the increase in cancer, hardening of the arteries, rheumatism and other serious complaints British physicians have been urging the public to change its dietary habits.

They say the good old Britan has been eating too much meat and suet pudding and white bread. He is now urged to get busy with fresh fruit fresh vegetables and whole wheat bread.

And the campaign has been so successful that the bakers report an increased demand for other kinds of bread.

ENGINEER KILLED.

Eight Passengers Injured When Train Was Wrecked.

KALAMAZOO, Mich., September 24 (Canadian Press). — The engineer was killed and eight passengers injured when the Michigan Central passegenr train west-bound from Detroit was wrecked on the eastern outskirts of the city this morning.

Arthur Adams, 50, of Jackson, Michigan, is the man killed.

Train No. 1 struck an automobile stalled on the tracks.

Astronomers at Different Points Report Newcomer in the Sky.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.)—A new comet, blazing across the sky two hours behind the sun, was announced at Harvard Observatory yesterday. It was discovered by Astronomer Finsler, of Bonn, Germany, Sept. 15th and observed a day later at Berlin, and Lick observatory sent word yesterday that it was observer there Monday night.

SLOT MACHINES OUT.

Alberta Puts Ban on Them After October the First.

CALGARY, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press.)—Slot machines will become illegal in Alberta on October 1st, and no leniency will be shown those who continue to maintain them on their premises, Attorney-General's Department announced.

SENATOR COTE DEAD.

QUEBEC, Sept. 24. — (Canadian Press.)— Senator Jean Leon Cote, of Edmonton, Alta., died yesterday afternoon in his native village, Les Eboulements, Charlevoix County, where he had spent the last few months, and he was on the eve of returning to his own province. The late senator was born on May 6th, 1867.

FLOOD SWEEPS ON LENINGRAD

Russian City Inundated — Death Toll May Be Heavy.

BUILDINGS RUINED.

(By Frederick Kuh, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

MOSCOW, September 24. — The flood waters which inundated parts of Leningrad to a depth of 10 feet when the Neva burst its banks were receding early to-day, leaving in their wake tangled wreckage, ruined buildings and streets, and a possible heavy death toll.

Diminishing cries for help were heard throughout the night as rescue parties struggled in pitch darkness against the swirling floods, the city's electrical system being completely ruined.

A terrific storm sweeping the Gulf of Finland yesterday caused a great wall of sea water to enter the mouth of the Neva, which flows through the former Russian capital.

The river's artificial banks burst, loosing a wave which washed over the lower city, taking the inhabitants by surprise.

Winter Palace Square, which was the scene of glittering martial reviews when Leningrad, now renamed for the dead Communist leader was known as St. Petersburggg, home of the Czars, was submerged.

Down the Nevisky Prospect, one of the world's most famous thoroughfares, rushed a raging torrent.

Trees along the sidewalks were uprooted, pedestrians caught by the flood were dashed against shop windows, horses and carts were tossed about, frantic cries added to the confusion.

Those who sought to flee down side streets, found the waters swirling up on them from every direction.

Buildings and wharves along the river front were demolished, as were the factories on Vassilevlski Island, in the mouth of the Neva.

Shops and warehouses were flooded, and the city's canals gave way in many instances under the pressure of the flood waters.

Dykes broke here and there, adding to the confusion and destruction. Sidewalks and pavements were torn up.

Superstitious Russians rushed about wailing that the end of the world had come, while the Red Guard turned out to patrol the city and the Communist Party and the trades union organisations rendered first-aid.

It was the worst flood in Leningrad, which during the war was renamed Petrograd in lieu of St. Petersburg since 1824.

Within a short time calls for help reached Moscow and relief parties with food and first-aid outfits started for Leningrad.

Shortly before midnight the word came that the windstorm in the gulf had calmed down and permitted the flood waters to recede.

Traffic gradually was resumed in the flooded streets of Leningrad, although the trams were not able to function.

NEWS OF NORWOOD.

Mrs. John Clysdale Passed Away After a Long Illness.

NORWOOD, Sept. 24.—Mrs. John Clysdale, for a number of years a resident of Norwood, and formerly of Dummer, passed away at her home on Wellington Street, Norwood, on Tuesday morning after a long and painful illness. The deceased, who was a faithful member of the Presbyterian Church, leaves to mourn her loss her husband, two sons, William, of Saskatchewan and John of Dummer, and one daughter, Mrs. Joseph Metcalfe of Dummer. The funeral will be held on Thursday afternoon from her late residence. The Rev. T. M. Wesley, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood, will conduct the service.

Mrs. Marriott and children, of Marmora, are guests at the home of Mrs. J. B. Pearce.

Miss Drucilla Mee returned to Toronto on Monday, after a two weeks' visit with her sister, Mrs. George Bitten.

Mr. Nelson King, of Wallaceburg, spent the week-end in the village.

Rev. T. M. Wesley was in Toronto the first of the week.

Mrs. R. G. Lawlor is in Toronto attending a meeting of the Methodist Missionary Society.

Mrs. A. G. Rogers is visiting in Flint, Mich., the guest of her son, Mr. Basil Rogers.

Miss Una Duffield left on Sunday on a visit with her sister in Weyburn, Sask.

Miss E. Lafoe, of Campbellford, spent the week-end at Ousemore Place.

GERMANY MUST ENTER LEAGUE WITHOUT SWORD

France Opposes Granting Concessions Demanded By Marx Government.

HELP DISARMAMENT.

Cause of World Peace Would Be Advanced By Germany's Inclusion.

(By Henry Woods—United Press Staff Correspondent).

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—The cause of world disarmament under the auspices of the League of Nations has been immeasurably advanced by Germany's decision to enter the League at an early date, leaders of all delegations, including even the French, declared to-day. The moment was most opportune, the League spokesmen said, expressing the unanimous satisfaction felt at the Assembly by the announcement that Germany intended to seek admission soon.

The inclusion of the late enemy in the general arbitration security disarmament pact now being prepared will increase immensely the chances for its success, it is felt.

As Germany already is disarmed, she has nothing to lose, while her agreement to accept obligatory arbitration will strengthen greatly the feeling of security in Europe. It is expected that Germany's decision will hasten Turkey's application and also force a complete change in Russia's attitude towards the League.

Already the guarantees which Germany will ask of the League Council before joining—the Marx Government wants to be assured that they will come in as a first rate Power and have a voice as such in League affairs—are being discussed by various delegations in London, Paris and Berlin.

France will not oppose Germany's entrance into the League in the regular way, but will oppose vigorously making any of the concessions demanded by the Marx Government. The French say they will fight any attempt to "railroad Germany into the League. The French press is quoted as declaring the late enemy must enter the Society of Nations."

TALK NAVAL DISARMAMENT.

GENEVA, Sept. 24.—(United Press).—The League of Nations Disarmament Commission decided to-day that naval disarmaments shall be included in the general conference on reduction or armaments to be held in June, 1925.

The Commission opposed the holding of any preliminary technical conferences.

CONDITION UNCHANGED.

The condition of T. N. D. Kelly, who suffered serious injuries in an automobile accident yesterday morning, remained unchanged this morning, according to reports received from St. Joseph's Hospital.

The Argentine aviator fell into the water and was almost exhausted when rescuerers reached him. He plans to fly to Fuchow some time to-day.

STOP SUFFERING NOW FROM ASTHMA

Go to your regular druggist and buy a package of Dr. Schiffmann's Asthmador today and if it does not give instant relief, and even more, if you do not find it to be the very best remedy you have ever used, go back and your money will be cheerfully returned by the druggist, without any question whatever. No matter what else has failed, Asthmador or Asthmador Cigarettes will give instant relief usually within 10 seconds, but always within 15 minutes. It does not matter how violent the attack, or obstinate the case is, or what else had been tried and failed, Asthmador will relieve instantaneously. If it does not, this package will cost you nothing. Go back and get your money refunded. You are to be the sole judge as to whether benefited or not, and such a personal test will prove more conclusively than merely a "free sample" could possibly do. No risk is run in buying this remedy under this positive guarantee. If your druggist hasn't Asthmador, write direct to Lyman-Knox Co., Montreal.

WEDDING BELLS.

DORAN—KILLEN.

LINDSAY, September 24. — One of the prettiest church weddings seen in Lindsay in years, was solemnized at St. Mary's church this morning at 8 o'clock, when Miss Mary H. Killen elder daughter of Mr. James and the late Mrs. Killen, of Lindsay, was united in marriage to Mr. James B. Doran, C.N.R. City Agent, Peterboro. Nuptial mass was celebrated by the Rev. Dean Whibbs, Rector of St. Mary's church.

The bride who was given away by her father, entered the church to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Ruth Shannon, and was handsomely gowned in kitten's ear crepe, trimmed with hand embroidered French lace, and pearls, and court train lined with pale pink georgette. She also wore an embroidered veil, trimmed with pearls, and carried lilies of the valley and sweetheart roses.

The bridesmaid, Miss Annie Killen, sister of the bride, was attired in a dress of flame crepe romaine and picture hat to match, and carried an old-fashioned bouquet.

Little Leona and Mary Rogers, cousins of the bride, were the winsome flower girls. The former was attired in yellow organdie, trimmed with satin ribbon, and shoes to match, and the latter in pink organdie, trimmed with satin ribbon, and shoes to match Each carried a basket of flowers.

Mr. Parnell McHugh, of Toronto, son of Senator McHugh, of Lindsay, officiated as best man. The ushers were Messrs. John and William Killen, brothers of the bride.

During the Mass, which was attended by a large gathering of the friends of the contracting parties, Mrs. Peter Spratt, of Lindsay, rendered several vocal numbers in splendid voice. These included a wedding hymn, Ave Maria (Cooper), sung at the offertory.

At the conclusion of the Mass, the happy couple motored to the home of the bride's father, Glenelg street west, where a wedding breakfast was served by Coles of Toronto, and where the bride and groom were showered with congratulations by the 60 or more invited guests.

The house was artistically decorated with floral bloom. The general decorative effect was characterized by originality and skill, and was executed by Miss Kathleen Baker, of Toronto Art School. Beautiful pink roses were prominent in the table decorations, while the arch under which the bride received was a veritable bower of beauty, with pink and white asters suspended from satin ribbons.

The happy couple left on a motor trip to New York and other American points, the bride travelling in a French gown of henna shade, with coat of same shade, trimmed with seal. On their return they will reside on Walkerfield avenue, Peterboro.

The popularity of the bride, who was one of Lindsay's most charming young ladies, was attested by the many beautiful wedding presents received. During the past few weeks she was also the recipient of a number of pre-nuptial showers and teas. She will be greatly missed in local social circles.

300 BOLSHEVIK SOLDIERS DIED

Battle With Rumanian Artillery Follows Sacking of Cities.

REBELS ROUTED.

LONDON, September 24. — United Press. — Three hundred Bolshevik soldiers and Bessarabian rebels were killed in a fight with a battery of Rumanian artillery in southern Bessarabia, according to despatches to the Daily Express.

The battle with the artillery followed an attack started by the Bolshevik troops, who were commanded by five uniformed Soviet officers, upon five Bessarabian cities. The Bolsheviks took possesion of the villages, assassinated the local authorities and induced the population to revolt.

Many rebel villages were destroyed when the Rumanian artillery started into action, according to the despatches. The invading Bolsheviks were armed with rifles, machine guns and bombs.

SHADED EFFECTS.

Rosamund's weary eyes quickened to horror as she watched her—a horror prompted as much by the fate awaiting that poor child as by the undignified fury of the futile battle she waged against it. But it happened that her behavior impressed a Levantine Turk quite differently. He rose, a short squat figure, from his seat on the steps of the well.

"Sixty philips will I pay for the joy of taming that wild cat," said he.

But Ibrahim was not to be outbidden. He offered seventy, the Turk countered with a bid of eighty, and Ibrahim again raised the price to ninety, and there fell a pause.

The dalal spurred on the Turk.

"Wilt hou be beaten then, and by an Israelite? Shall this lovely maid be given to a perverter of the Scriptures, to an inheritor of the fire, to one of a race that would not bestow on their fellow-men so much as the speck out of a date-stone? It were a shame upon a True-Believer."

Urged thus the Turk offered another five philips, but with obvious reluctance. The Jew, however, entirely unabashed by a tirade against him, the like of which he heard a score of times a day in the course of trading, pulled forth a heavy purse from his girdle.

"Here are one hundred philips," he announced. "'Tis overmuch. But I offer it."

Ere the dalal's pious and seductive tongue could urge him further the Turk sat down again with a gesture of finality.

"I give him joy of her," said he.

"She is thine, then, O Ibrahim, for one hundred philips."

The Israelite relinquished the purse to the dalal's white-robed assistants and advanced to receive the girl. The corsairs thrust her forward against him, still vainly battling, and his arms closed about her for a moment.

"Thou hast cost me dear, thou daughter of Spain," said he. "But I am content. Come."

And he made shift to lead her away. Suddenly, however, fierce as a tiger-cat she writhed her arms upwards and clawed at his face. With a scream of pain he relaxed his hold of her, and in that moment, quick as lightning she plucked the dagger that hung from his girdle so temptingly within her reach.

"Valga me Dios!" she cried, and ere a hand could be raised to prevent her she had buried the blade in her lovely breast and sank in a laughing, coughing heap at his feet.

A final convulsive heave and she lay there quite still, whilst Ibrahim glared down at her with eyes of dismay, and over all the market there hung a hush of sudden awe.

Rosamund had risen in her place, and a faint color came to warm her pallor, a faint light kindled in her eyes. God had shown her the way through this poor Spanish girl, and assuredly God would give her the means to take it when her own turn came.

At length Ibrahim roused himself from his momentary stupor. He stepped deliberately across the body, his face inflamed, and stood to beard the impassive dalal.

"She is dead!" he bleated. "I am defrauded. Give me back my gold!"

"Are we to give back the price of every slave that dies?" the dalal questioned him.

"But she was not yet delivered to me," saved the Jew. "My hands had not touched her. Give me back my gold."

"Thou liest, son of a dog," was the answer, dispassionately delivered. "She was thine already. I had so pronounced her. Bear her hence, since she belongs to thee."

The Jew, his face empurpling, seemed to fight for breath.

"How?" he choked. "Am I to lose a hundred philips?"

"What is written is written," replied the serene dalal.

Ibrahim was frothing at the lips, his eyes were blood-injected.

"But it was never written that——"

"Peace," said the dalal. "Had it not been written it could not have come to pass. It is the will of Allah! Who dares rebel against it?"

The crowd began to murmur.

"I want my hundred philips," the Jew insisted, whereupon the murmur swelled into a sudden roar.

"Thou hearest?" said the dalal. "Allah pardon thee, thou art disturbing the peace of this market. Away, ere ill betide thee."

"Hence! Hence!" roared the crowd, and some advanced threateningly upon the luckless Ibrahim. "Away, thou perverter of Holy Writ Thou filth Thou dog! Away!"

Such was the uproar, such the menace of angry countenances and clenched fists shaken in his very face, that Ibrahim quailed and forgot his loss in fear.

"I go, I go," he said, and turned hastily to depart.

But the dalal summoned him back.

"Take hence thy property," said he, and pointed to the body.

And so Ibrahim was forced to suffer the further mockery of summoning his slaves to bear away the lifeless body for which he had paid in lively potent gold.

The dalal turned to the portly Ayoub, who was plucking at his sleeve.

He bent his head to catch the muttered words of Fenzileh's wazeer. Then, in obedience to them, he ordered Rosamund to be brought forward.

She offered no least resistance, advancing in a singularly lifeless way, like a sleep-walker or one who had been drugged. In the heat and glare of the open market she stood by the dalal's side at the head of the well, whilst he dilated upon her physical merits in that lingua franca which he used since it was current coin among all the assorted races represented there—a language which the knowledge of French that her residence in France had taught her she was to her increasing horror and shame able to understand.

The first to make an offer for her was that same portly Moor who had soughte to purchase the two Nubians. He rose to scrutinize her closely, and must have been satisfied, for the price he offered was a good one, and he offered it with contemptuous assurance that he would not be outbidden.

"One hundred philips for the milk-faced girl."

"'Tis not enough. Consider me the moon-bright loveliness of her face," said the dalal as he moved on. "Chigil yields us fair women, but no woman of Chigil was ever half so fair."

"One hundred and fifty," said the Levantine Turk with a snap.

"Not yet enough. Behold the stately height which Allah hath vouchsafed her. See the noble carriage of her head, the luster of her eye! By Allah, she is worthy to grace the Sultan's own harem."

He said no more than the buyers recognized to be true, and excitement stirred faintly through their usually impassive ranks. A Tagareen Moor named Yusuf offered at once two hundred

But still the dalal continued to sing her praises. He held up one of her arms for inspection, and she submitted with lowered eyes, and no sign of resentment beyond the slow flush that spread across her face and vanished again.

"Behold me these limbs, smooth as Arabian silks and whiter than ivory. Look at those lips like pomegranate blossoms. The price is now two hundred philips. What wilt thou give, O Hamet?"

Hamlet showed himself angry that his original bid should so speedily have been doubled.

"By the Koran, I have purchased three sturdy girls from the Sus for less."

"Wouldst thou compare a squat-faced girl from the Sus with this narcissus-eyed glory of womanhood?" scoffed the dalal.

"Two hundred and ten, then," was Hamet's sulky grunt.

The watchful Tsamanni considered that the time had come to buy her for his lord as he had been bidden.

"Three hundred," he said curtly, to make an end of matters, and——

"Four hundred," instantly piped a shrill voice behind him.

He spun round in his amazement and met the leering face of Ayoub. A murmur ran through the ranks of the buyers, the people craned their necks to catch a glimpse of this open-handed purchaser.

Yusuf the Tagareen rose up in a passion. He announced angrily that never again should the dust of the sok of Algiers defile his slippers, that never again would he come there to purchase slaves.

"By the Well of Zem-Zem," he swore, "all men are bewitched in this market. Four hundred philips for a Frankish girl May Allah increase your wealth, for, vérily, you'll need it."

And in his supreme disgust he stalked to the gates, and elbowed his way through the crowd, and so vanished from the sok.

Yet ere he was out of earshot her price had risen further. Whilst Tsamanni was recovering from his surprise at the competitor that had suddenly appeared before him, the dalal had lured an increased offer from the Turk.

"'Tis a madness," the latter deplored. "But she pleaseth me, and should it seem good to Allah the Merciful to lead her into the True Faith she may yet become the light of my harem. Four hundred and twenty philips, then, O dalal, and Allah pardon me my prodigality."

Yet scarcely was his little speech concluded than Tsamanni with laconic eloquence rapped out:

"Five hundred."

"Y'Allah" cried the Turk, raising his hands to heaven, and, "Y'Allah!" echoed the crowd.

"Five hundred and fifty," shrilled Ayoub's voice above the general din.

"Six hundred," replied Tsamanni, still unmoved.

And now such was the general hubbub provoked by these unprecedented prices that the dalal was forced to raise his voice and cry for silence.

When this was restored, Ayoub at once raised the price to seven hundred.

"Eight hundred," snapped Tsamanni, showing at last a little heat.

"Nine hundred," replied Ayoub.

Tsamanni swung round upon him again, white now with fury.

"Is this a jest, O father of wind?" he cried, and excited laughter by the taunt implicit in that appellation.

"An thou'rt the jester," replied Ayoub with forced calm, "Thou'lt find the jest a costly one."

With a shrug Tsamanni turned again to the dalal.

"Silence there!" cried the dalal again. "Silence, and praise Allah who sends good prices."

"One thousand and one hundred," said Ayoub, the irrepressible.

And now Tsamanni not only found himself outbidden, but he had reached the outrageous limit appointed by Asad. He lacked authority to go further, dared not do so without consulting the Basha. Yet if he left the sok for that purpose, Ayoub would meanwhile secure the girl. He found himself between sword and wall. On the one hand, did he permit himself to be outbidden his master might visit upon him his disappointment. On the other, did he continue beyond the limit so idly mentioned as being far beyond all possibility, it might fare no less ill with him.

He turned to the crowd, waving his arms in furious gesticulation.

"By the beard of the Prophet, this bladder of wind and grease makes sport of us. He has no intent to buy. What man ever heard of the half of such a price for a slave girl?"

Ayoub's answer was eloquent; he produced a fat bag and flung it on the ground, where it fell with a mellow chink.

"There is my sponsor," he made answer, grinning in the very best of humors, savoring to the full his enemy's rage and discomfiture, and savoring it at no cost to himself.

"Shall I count out one thousand and one hundred philips, O dahal?"

"If the wazeer Tsamanni is content."

"Dost thou know for whom I buy?" roared Tsamanni. "For the Basha himself, Asad-ed-Din, the exalted of Allah."

He advanced upon Ayoub with hands upheld.

"What shalt thou say to him, O dog, when he calls thee to account for daring to outbid him?"

But Ayoub remained unruffled before all this fury. He spread his fat hands, his eyes twinkling, his great lips pursed.

"How should I know, since Allah has not made me all-knowing? Thou shouldst have said so earlier. 'Tis thus I shall answer the Basha should he question me, and the Basha is just."

And so they stood, glaring each at the other until the dalal called them back to the business that was to do.

"The price is now one thousand and one hundred philips. Wilt thou suffer defeat, O wazeer?"

"Since Allah wills. I have no authority to go further."

"Then at one thousand and one hundred philips, Ayoub, she is——"

But the sale was not yet to be completed. From the dense and eager throng about the gates rang a crisp voice:

"One thousand and two hundred philips for the Frankish girl."

The dalal, who had conceived that the limits of madness had been already reached stood gaping now in fresh amazement. The mob crowed and cheered and roared between enthusiasm and derision, and even Tsamanni brightened to see another champion enter the lists who, perhaps, would avenge him upon Ayoub. The crowd parted quickly to right and left, and through it into the open strode Sakr-el-Bahr. They recognized him instantly, and his name was shouted in acclamation by that idolizing multitude.

That Barbary name of his conveyed no information to Rosamund, and her back being turned to the entrance she did not see him. But she had recognized his voice, and she had shuddered at the sound. She could make nothing of the bidding, nor what the purpose that surely underlay it to account for the extraordinary excitement of the traders. Vaguely had she been wondering what dastardly purpose Oliver might intend to serve, but now that she heard his voice that wonder ceased and understanding took its place. He had hung there somewhere in the crowd awaiting until all competitors but one should have been outbidden, and now he stepped forth to buy her for his own—his slave!

She closed her eyes a moment and prayed God that he might not prevail in his intent. And she was herself again. She heard the crowd thundering, "Ma'shAllah!" and "Sakr-el-Bahr!" and the dalal clamoring sternly for silence. When this was at last restored she heard his exclamation:

"The glory to Allah who sends eager buyers What sayest thou, O wazeer, Ayoub "

"Aye!" sneered Tsamanni, "what now?"

"One thousand and three hundred," said Ayoub, with a quaver of uneasy defiance.

"Another hundred, O dalal," came from Sakr-el-Bahr, in a quiet voice.

"One thousand and five hundred," screamed Ayoub, thus reaching not only the limit imposed by his mistress, but the very limit of the resources at her immediate disposal.

Gone, too, with that bid was all hope of profit to himself.

But Sakr-el-Bahr, impassive as Fate, and without so much as deigning to bestow a look upon the quivering eunuch, said again:

"Another hundred, O dalal."

"One thousand and six hundred philips!" cried the dalal, more in amazement than to announce the figure reached. Then controlling his emotions he bowed his head in reverence and made confession of his faith.

"All things are possible if Allah wills them. The praise to Him who sends wealthy buyers."

He turned to the crestfallen Ayoub.

"What say you now, O perspicuous wazeer?"

"I say," choked Ayoub, "that since by the favor of Shaitan he hath so much wealth he must prevail."

But the insulting words were scarcely uttered than Sakr-el-Bahr's great hand had taken the wazeer by the nape of his fat neck, a growl of anger running through the assembly to approve him.

"By the favor of Shaitan, sayest thou, thou sexless dog?" he growled, and tightened his grip so that the wazeer squirmed and twisted in an agony of pain.

Down was his head thrust, and still down, until his fat body gave way and he lay supine and writhing in the dust of the sok.

"Shall I strangle thee, thou father of filth, or shall I fling thy soft flesh to the hooks to teach thee what is a man's due from thee?"

And as he spoke he rubbed the too daring fellow's face roughly on the ground.

"Mercy!" squealed the wazeer. "Mercy, O mighty Sakr-el-Bahr, as thou lookest for mercy!"

"Unsay thy words, thou offal. Pronounce thyself a liar and a dog."

"I do unsay them. I have foully lied. Thy wealth is the reward sent thee by Allah for thy glorious victories over the unbelieving."

"Put out thine offending tongue," said Sakr-el-Bahr, "and cleanse it in the dust. Put it forth, I say."

Ayoub obeyed him in fearful alacrity, whereupon Sakr-el-Bahr released his hold and allowed the unfortunate fellow to rise at last, half-choked with dirt, livid of face, and quaking like a jelly, an object of ridicule and cruel mockery to all assembled.

"Now get thee hence, ere my sea-hawks lay their talons on thee. Go!"

Ayoub departed in all haste to the increasing jeers of the multitude and the taunts of Tsamanni, whilst Sakr-el-Bahr turned him once more to the dalal.

"At one thousand and six hundred philips this slave is thine, O Sakr-el-Bahr, thou glory of Islam. May Allah increase thy victories!"

"Pay him, Ali," said the corsair shortly, and he advanced to receive his purchase.

Face to face stood he now with Rosamund, for the first time since that day before the encounter with the Dutch argosy when he had sought her in the cabin of the carack.

One swift glance she bestowed on him, then, her senses reeling with horror at her circumstance, she shrank back, her face of a deathly pallor. In his treatment of Ayoub she had just witnessed the lengths of brutality of which he was capable, and she was not to know that this brutality had been a deliberate piece of mummery, calculated to strike terror into her.

Pondering her now he smiled a tight-lipped cruel smile that only served to increase her terror.

"Come," he said in English.

She cowered back against the dalal as if for protection. Sakr-el-Bahr reached forward, caught her by the wrists, and almost tossed her to his Nubians, Abiad and Zal-Zer, who were attending him.

"Cover her face," he bade them. "Bear her to my house. Away!"

CHAPTER XIX

THE TRUTH

The sun was dipping swiftly to the world's rim when Sakr-el-Bahr with his Nubians and his little retinue of corsairs came to the gates of that white house of his on its little eminence outside the Bab-el-Oueb, and beyond the walls of the city.

When Rosamund and Lionel, brought in the wake of the corsair, found themselves in the spacious courtyard beyond the dark and narrow entrance, the blue of the sky contained but the paling embers of the dying day, and suddenly, sharply upon the evening stillness, came a mueddin's voice calling the faithful unto prayer.

Slaves fetched water from the fountain that played in the middle of the quadrangle and tossed aloft a slender silvery spear of water to break into a myriad gems and so shower down into the broad marble basin. Sakr-el-Bahr washed, as did his followers, and then he went down upon the praying-mat that had been set for him, whilst his corsairs detached their cloaks and spread them upon the ground to serve them in like stead.

The Nubians turned the two slaves about, lest their glances should defile the orisons of the faithful, and left them so, facing the wall and the green gate that led into the garden whence were wafted on the cooling air the perfumes of jessamine and lavender. Through the laths of the gate they might have caught a glimpse of the riot of color there, and they might have seen the slaves arrested by the Persian waterwheel at which they had been toiling and chanting until the call to prayer had come to strike them into statues.

Sakr-el-Bahr rose from his devotions, uttered a sharp word of command, and entered the house. The Nubians followed him, urging their captives before them up the narrow stairs, and so brought them out upon the terrace on the roof, that space which in Eastern houses is devoted to the women, but which no women's foot had ever trodden since this house had been tenanted by Sakr-el-Bahr the wifeless.

This terrace, which was surrounded by a parapet some four feet high, commanded a view of the city straggling up the hillside to eastward from the harbor and of the island at the end of the mole which had been so laboriously built by the labor of Christian slaves from the stones of the ruined fortress—the Penon, which Kheyr-ed-Din Barbarossa had wrested from the Spaniards. The deepening shroud of evening was now upon all, transmuting white and yellow walls alike to a pearly grayness.

An awning supported upon two gigantic spears hung out from the southern wall of the terrace which rose to twice the height of that forming the parapet on its other three sides. Under this was a divan and silken cushions, and near it a small Moorish table of ebony inlaid with mother-of-pearl and gold. Over the opposite parapet, where a lattice had been set, rioted a trailing rose tree charged with blood-red blossoms, though now their colors were merged into the all-encompassing grayness.

Here Lionel and Rosamund looked at each other in the dim light, their faces gleaming ghostly each to each, whilst the Nubians stood like twin statues by the door that opened from the stair-head.

The man groaned, and clasped his hands before him. The doublet which had been torn from him in the sok had since been restored and temporarily repaired by a strand of palmetto cord. But he was woefully bedraggled. Yet his thoughts, if his first words are to be taken as an indication of them, were for Rosamund's condition rather than his own.

"O God, that you should be subjected to this!" he cried. "That you should have suffered what you have suffered! The humiliation of it, the barbarous cruelty Oh!" He covered his haggard face with his hands.

She touched him gently on the arm.

"What I have suffered is but a little thing," she said, and her voice was wonderfully steady and soothing. Have I not said that these Godolphins were brave folk? Even their women were held to have something of the male spirit in their breasts; and to this none can doubt that Rosamund now bore witness.

"Do not pity me, Lionel, for my sufferings are at an end or very nearly."

She smiled strangely, the smile of exaltation that you may see upon the martyr's face in the hour of doom.

"How?" quoth he, in fant surprise.

"How?" she echoed. "Is there not always a way to thrust aside life's burden when it grows too heavy—heavier than God would have us bear?"

His only answer was a groan. Indeed, he had done little but groan in all the hours they had spent together since they were brought ashore from the carack.

Slaves entered, bearing four enormous flaming torches, which they set in iron sconces protruding from the wall of the house. Thence they shed a lurid ruddy glow upon the terrace. The slaves departed again, and presently, in the black gap of the doorway between the Nubians a third figure appeared unheralded. It was Sakr-el-Bahr.

A WOUND IS AN OPEN DOOR

Absorbine Jr. enables you to shut the door quickly.

The skin is Nature's own protection against germs. When it is bruised, broken or cut, that protection is withdrawn. The door is open. As quickly as possible Nature closes it by forming what we call a scab and renders you comparatively safe against infection. But this scab sometimes takes days to form and until it has fully sealed the wound, even until the wound has thoroughly healed again you must furnish the required protection yourself.

A few drops of Absorbine Jr. in the water will give you an antiseptic wash that will kill all possibility of infection and help nature to heal the wound. As well as being a very powerful germicide, Absorbine Jr. will draw out the inflammation and bring instant relief.

Absorbine Jr. is antiseptic, germicide and liniment in one container—handy to keep always in the house; easy to carry around if you travel.

"Those darn mosquitoes!"

Mr. Mann would fret and fume and the children would become petulant and feverish as the buzzing nuisances made both sleeping and waking hours disagreeable.

Mosquito bites are frequently rank poison; particularly to the delicate flesh of children.

A great deal of the discomfort can be avoided by rubbing exposed parts with a mixture of oil of sassafras with five parts of alcohol. Rub this combination on every few hours.

Immediate application of a paste of baking powder and soda mixed with water sometimes relieves the itching and poison.

Salt has been found by some people to help; while weak ammonia water, diluted carbolic acid and iodine have been recommended where there was a particularly poisoned condition.

KAISER WILHELM ANGERED AT SON

Ex-Emperor Courting Support In Monarchist and Military Circles.

DOORN, September 24. — Life at the Chateau of Doorn has become, particularly during the past few months, extremely animated. Every day, almost, sees the arrival of fine automobiles bringing princes, ex-ambassadors, former ministers and generals who had served under the old monarchial regime in Germany. Some of the visitors leave after a day or two, but others prolong their stay, residing for the time being in expensive "pensions" where they make an ostentatious display of their war decorations, and pay almost daily visits in full dress uniform to the ex-Kaiser.

The former emperor appears to be doing everything possible to entertain and attract to himself the sympathies of all German monarchist and military circles. His consort, Hermine, who burns with the desire and hope of one day becoming empress of Germany, seconds her husband in these efforts in the most active manner, and with all the grace at her command, by holding grand receptions and entertainments.

All these activities have for their principal object, according to what is related in the best informed quarters, to counteract similar ambitious projects entertained by the former crown prince. It is even said that the rivalry between father and son has developed recently into a state of latent warfare, pursued mercilessly on both sides.

The activity displayed since his return to Germany by the former crown prince in political circles, especially among the Nationalists and Monarchists and the younger generation of militarists, rumours of which reach the ex-Kaiser from Berlin serve to rener dthe latter furious against his son. The prince, on his side, is said to show but little of either respect or admiration for the personages of the old regime and its time-honoured traditions.

The ex-crown prince would seem to be desirous of breaking definitely with the ideas and personages of the past, and even to be willing to find himself at the head of a regime purely democratic, provided that it was at the same time nationalist. The former emperor, on the contrary, clings desperately to the ideas and persons of the past, and shows himself a bitter and unchangeable enemy to all democratic sentiments.

ABOUT BOBBED HAIR

Danger of Women Becoming Bald in Spots and Other Illusions.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Project yourself five or ten years into the future before you bob your hair, advises Charles Nestle, vice-president of the Wholesale Beauty Trade Association.

"Consider," he urges, "whether you prefer to have your hair on your head or on your face and distributed over your body.

"In every human being is a chemical laboratory that is constantly producing hair," he explains. "If it is not permitted to grow on the head it will grow elsewhere. Cutting distributes the growth.

"If the fad for short hair continues, baldness will be as common with women as with men in the next generation and so will hairy arms and chests."

Don't Brush Hair Any More.

Nestle is one of the leading hair specialists of the world. Bobbed hair has increased his business as well as that of practically every other hair dressing establishment in the country. So he is quite resigned, from a matter of business, to let the shearing go on. But he believes women ought to realize what they may be bringing upon themselves and their children.

"The reason women have less hair on their bodies than men is because for years they have concentrated so much energy on their heads and have encouraged the growth to settle there," he goes on.

"By brushing and caring for their hair as they used to in the days when hair was their crowning glory women stimulated the scalp and kept it in a condition conducive to the growth of hair.

"Today the bobbed woman rarely brushes her hair. She isn't going to press out the wave she paid money to have pressed in. So she runs a comb through it a few times just as a man does, and that's that.

Bobbed Hair Destroys Illusions.

"Then in order to keep it looking well without real care, she washes it once a week and eventually has so robbed it of its natural oil it is no longer able to grow naturally. The ends split and the hair falls.

"It is true women are spending more time and money at the hair dresser's than ever before, getting shampoos, waves and trims, but their hair is actually receiving less care than ever before.

He maintains that six months after a woman has cut her hair she can notice an added growth upon her arms, particularly if she exercises so that she frequently bring the blood to the surface.

His greatest objection to short hair, however, is his belief that it robs a woman of her sex appeal.

"Women are interesting to men in proportion to their ability to suggest romance and glamour," he concluded. "When she cuts her hair a woman destroys one more illusion—and there are so few left as it is."

A LITANY OF THE NATION.

God, give us eyes to see the human need;
God, give us hands to do the noble deed;
God, give us hearts to bleed when others bleed:
Save us, Good Lord

God, make us great, not with mere power and gold,
But with compassion strong, and meekness bold;
For others, not ourselves, the trust to hold:
Save us, Good Lord

God, make us true, clear as the heaven is clear,
Clean in our way of life, not know ing fear,
Building love's mighty kingdom far and near:
Save us, Good Lord

God, give the world the vision peace which came
Before men's eyes through smoke and battle flame,
Make us a nation worthy of Thy name:
Save us, Good Lord.

BOOK-KEEPING FOR PRACTICAL FARM PURPOSES

Simple Book Has Been Issued By Department of Agriculture.

RECORD FOR YEAR.

Requires No Accounting Skill and Gives All Necessary Facts.

Any merchant handling several different lines of goods would regard it as folly to neglect to keep a complete set of books enabling him at all times to ascertain his profits and losses on the various commodities he sells, his assets and liabilities, and so on. A manufacturer who failed to do so would be heading for insolvency. It is curious, then, that Canada's basic industry—agriculture—should be carried on, so far as individual producers are concerned with it, in so casual a manner with regard to account-keeping. Especially is this strange when it is considered how simple farm book-keeping is by comparison with that of other businesses.

In a survey of some eight hundred farms, conducted some time ago, it was discovered that very few farmers indeed followed anything like a complete method of accounting, while a large number adopted absolutely none at all. These, beyond having a sort of general idea as to "what paid," were often quite hazy as to actual returns from different lines of work.

In order, if possible, to remedy this undesirable state of affairs, the Dominion Experimental Farms' system has published an extremely simple farmer's account book, which will adequately serve all necessary purposes. In size and thickness it is no larger than a school exercise book, and is designed to last a complete year. To "keep" it needs no knowledge of ordinary accounting; simply the ability to write and add; and a record of all transactions might be made in an hour a week. A few plain directions as to making entries, some aids to taking inventories, a table of silo capacities and a gestation table, are given on the insides of the cover, while on the back are printed calendars for last, this, and next year.

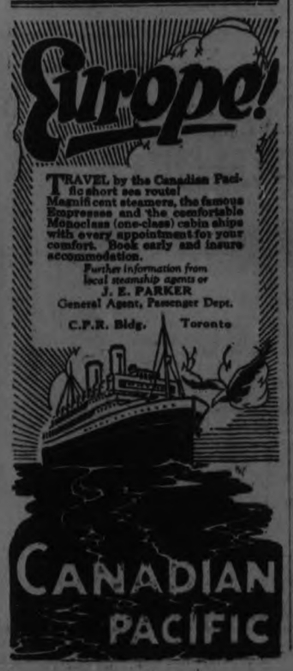
In the book itself are pages for the entry of receipts and expenditures (both of which may be seen at a glance on the same page), relative to cattle, horses, sheep, swine, poultry, crops and labor; and there is also ample space for miscellaneous items. There is a page for amounts owed to and by the farm, and forms on which may be made inventories of land and buildings, of live stock, of feed and supplies, and of machinery. Following is a page on which may be filled out a summary of the year's business, together with the few directions necessary to filling it out intelligently at the end of the year. Further, for the farmer's information, there is a table in which to enter acreage and yield of crops, and one in which to keep a live stock service record.

The whole thing has been reduced to the simplest possible terms, and should prove, to the general farmer, one of the most useful publications issued from the experimental farms for some time. It should be recognized that farming is a business, the same as any other. If a business is not paying, the owner of it wants to know just why it is not doing so. This little book will enable the farmer to keep an accurate record of each department of his business, find out how much he is making from each, or how little, and so be able to adjust matters accordingly.

The "Farmer's Account Book" is obtainable from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, at a nominal charge of ten cents. No postage need be placed on letters of application. Bank managers might well co-operate in securing these account books for farmer customers.

BUTTERMILK CALVES.

Rear dairy calves on buttermilk and save half the cost. It is no longer necessary to use marketable milk or bother with calf meals or gruels, says R. H. Lush of the Kansas State Agricultural College. He has found dried buttermilk just as effective.



The Prize Winners

In The Examiner Colouring Competition.

The following are the winners of prizes in the first colouring competition, when the picture set was that of a cow:

BOYS AND GIRLS UNDER 14.

1—Marion Storey, R. R. No. 2, Omemee, age 13. Prize of $2.00.

2—Walter Sharman, 376½ Water Street, Peterborough, age 12. Prize of $1.00.

3—Bessie Grills, Campbellford, age 12. Prize of 75 cents.

BOYS AND GIRLS 14 AND OVER.

1—M. Hoolihan, 460 Donegal Street, Peterborough, age 16. Prize of $2.00.

2—Lena McCauley, Mount Julian P.O., age 15. Prize of $1.00.

3—Marion McCannan, 612 Walkerfield Avenue, Peterborough, age 15. Prize of 75 cents.

Although no further prizes were announced or promised, The Examiner is so pleased with the quality of the work entered that it has decided to award a box of crayons to each of the following, whose work was considered worthy of commendation:

Anna Murray, R. R. No. 4, Lakefield. Age 11.
Gladys Steele, R. R. No. 1, Keene. Age 16.
Elsie Southern, Campbelford. Age 14.
Wilfred Pluard, Hall's Bridge. Age 13.
Lila Mitchell, R. R. No. 1, Millbrook. Age 12.
Marjory Scriver, Lakefield. Age 11.
Dorothy Smith, Concession Box 638, Havelock. Age 9.
Dorothy Rowland, R. R. No. 3, Peterborough. Age 12.
Joe Barnard, R. R. No. 1, Bailieboro. Age 12.
Leonard Porter, R. R. No. 1, Pontypool. Age 12.
Clarence Stabler, R. R. No. 4, Peterborough. Age 7.
Fred J. Swain, R. R. No. 1, Cavan. Age 16.
Marion Comrie, R. R. No. 3, Keene. Age 13.

The following are in Peterborough city:

Wesley Weese, 201 King. Age 9.
Charlie Clarke, 513 King. Age 13.
Edgar Boland, 860 George. Age 17.
Ray Williamson, 56 Sophia. Age 14.
Della Reynolds, 841 Water. Age 9.
Anna Edmondson, 465 Donegal. Age 9.
Etta Cooke, 193 Wescott. Age 13.
Cedric Robson, 127 Romaine. Age 10.
Marion Dryland, 521 Bolivar. Age 8.
Irene Foster, 585 Patterson. Age 11.
Hazel Jean Laing, 276 John. Age 10.

These prizes have already been mailed to the successful competitors.

Competition Number 2, in which a pig is to be coloured, is open until Saturday, 27th September.

Another picture appears on this page. If you were not in the successful list for Number One, get in on this. Everybody is eligible, whether a former prize-winner or not.

Results will be announced in the first farm page next week.

BALANCE FARM WITH INDUSTRY

Cure for Farmer's Present Difficulties, Says Banker.

SHIFT ACTIVITIES

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—The solution of the farmers' present trouble lies in a balancing of farming with manufacturing, not only in this country but throughout the world.

This opinion is expressed by B. M. Anderson, Jr., famous economist of the Chase National Bank of New York, in one of his recent writings. He says:

"The farmers' present difficulties grow primarily out of the fact that agriculture, relative to manufacturing, is an over-expanded industry, and this is particularly true of grain and live stock.

"Europe, which before the war was the manufacturing center of the world and the world's chief market for farm products, has so greatly reduced its ability to produce and export manufactured goods and its consequent ability to pay for farm products, that the balance has been broken, an agriculture, not only in the United States but also in Canada, in the Argentine and in virtually every other part of the world, is suffering as a consequence.

"Prices of manufactured goods are excessively high owing to the scarcity of manufacturing activity; and the prices of farm products, grain and live stock are relatively very low as a consequence of the relative excess of agricultural production. The balance, will be restored by increasing manufacturing activity, or by reducing agricultural activity, or by both.

The most desirable way in which the balance could be restored would be by an early restoration of Europe. Failing that, the balance can only be restored by the much slower and more painful process of the abandonment of the least profitable agricultural production, the partial shifting of agricultural production from the least profitable lines, such as wheat and live stock, to more profitable lines, such as dairying, market gardening and the like, and the movement of population from the country to the city.

"This process is now going on under the influence of the great discrepancy in prices."

HARDY ALFALFA IS NEEDED HERE

Tests Show That Common Alfalfa is Useless in Ontario.

WIDELY USED

A large number of tests have been conducted in past ten years on the experimental plots at the Ontario Agricultural College with different varieties and strains of alfalfa. It was discovered more than a decade ago that the Common alfalfa from the Central Western States would not live long in Ontario. Variegated alfalfas, such as the Grimm and Ontario Variegated, however, proved hardy in this Province. These two varieties are now increasing substantially as the farmers appreciate their superiority over the Common, violet flowered variety.

In one experiment at the College alfalfa has been cut for hay three times a year for eleven successive years without re-seeding. The first cutting this year, heretofore, is the thirty-fourth crop obtained from the one seeding. The average yield of hay per acre per annum from the eleven years of this test was slightly over four tons.

In another experiment of thirty-four plots seeded in the spring of 1922, the highest yield of hay from the first cutting of this year was of the Variegated type.

The Common alfalfa has variegated flowers of different densities and the Variegated alfalfa has violet, green, blue and yellow of various blends which can be seen when the blossoms are fully opened.

Several carloads of seed of high quality of Variegated alfalfa have been produced and sold for seed purposes in each of the past two or three years in Peel County alone. Also in a number of other counties seed of the Variegated type of alfalfa is being produced.

LOWER HARVEST COST

Farmers in West Will Receive 20 to 30c a Bushel More.

CALGARY, Sept. 20.—The crop will be harvested this year at much less cost than was the case last year. The average wage now being paid is $3 per day; last year it was double that amount. Again not half the quantity of binder twine will be required as was the case in 1923 when the straw was phenomenally long. It is conservatively predicted that with the increased price for wheat and the decrease in the cost of harvesting the crop, that farmers will receive from 25 to 30 cents per bushel more than they did last year.

One of the most satisfactory features at the present time is the abundance of feed throughout the Province. This will mean a huge sum so far as stockmen are concerned.

BURNBRAE HAS FINISHED ALL HARVEST WORK

Rains Held Back Cutting, But Did Not Help Fall Ploughing.

SOWING HELD UP

Corn Cutting Started—Absence of Early Frost Helps.

BURNBRAE, Sept. 24.—The prolonged harvest is over at last, many farmers not being able to finish until last week, owing to continued wet weather. The rains while holding back the harvest, have not been sufficient to make easy plowing and consequently the acreage of fall wheat will not be increased. Much of what is sown will not be in the ground before the end of this week. The cutting of buckwheat is general this week and promises a good yield in most cases. Corn cutting started on the farm of Mr. Thompson, Menie, on Thursday and many will likely follow suit during the next few days. The absence of early frost has improved the corn prospects and there will be a number of full silos in the district.

Threshing has been the order of the day lately, there being four machines in the neighborhood. Mr. Barnum is operating on the 7th line, Mr. Fry and Mr. Connor in the Menie district and the Maybee Bros. on the Rawdon boundary. Some very good yields are reported. Mr. Percy Oddie threshed 1800 bushels of which 500 was fall wheat. Mr. Wm. Rannie's crop will exceed this figure when completed and others while slightly less in total are fully as good in average per acre or load.

Cheese Prices.

Cheese factories are paying for August milk at from 36½ to 39 cents per pound butter fat. The price has not varied greatly since the first of June. The milk flow is dropping off slightly except in cases where a fresh supply of second growth alfalfa or red clover is available.

Ball Player Farmer.

Ernest (Barney) Eagleson of Menie is better known to the public as short stop of Campbellford ball team than as an all-around farmer. However, in his natural element, he is one of the district's most progressive young farmers. His leading item for the past few years has been a large flock of white Leghorns which, while producing a good revenue from eggs, have proved money-makers through the sale of hatching eggs and baby chicks. Barney usually manages to have a sideline too. Last year it was seed oats which were in great demand being grown on one of the cleanest and best farms in East Seymour. This year it is alfalfa hay, of which crop he had five fields for first cutting and four the second. It is his intention to have this baled so as to make easier handling in shipping. He should find a ready sale for all the alfalfa he can grow. In addition Mr. Eagleson keeps a small but select herd of high-producing Holsteins selling his milk at the Menie Cheese factory which is quite close to the farm.

BEST CROP IN YEARS

Farmers in Manvers Are Overwhelmed With Good Things.

JANETVILLE, Sept. 24.—The farmers are havesting the finest crop that the township of Manvers has yielded in many years, especially spring and fall wheat.

Corn, buckwheat and all the root crops are excellent. The potatoe yield is so abundant that from six to eight hills will fill a bushel basket. One man heaped a gallon measure today from one ordinary hill. Everybody is smiling.

REPORTERS LOOK ON BRIGHT SIDE WRITER WAILS

Bumper Crops Are Reported, While Neighbors' Failures Are Not.

ALL IS NOT ROSY

Farmers' Sons Should Leave Farms to Leave More for Others.

BY G. E. STAPLES

CAVAN, Sept. 24.—On almost alt the farm pages running through the Examiner, we have read the best reports of all neighborhoods from Apsley on the north, Campbellford in the East, Cobourg on the South, and Janetville on the West, for the whole harvest.

Wheat running 63 bushels to the acre; wheat running twenty-seven loads off nine acres; rye stalks nine feet high; peas, forty bushels to the acres; mixed grain in an unlimited yield; all have been reported. Wonderful reports of calves, cows, horses and sheep. But while we have heard of excellent five acre yields or perhaps from a somewhat larger field, we have not heard of the next twenty acre field, that was badly killed out by early frost or washouts, or perhaps was lying flat on account of heavy rains. These are things which farmers pass lightly over. It is a very cheerful policy, emphasizing the good, forgetting the poor; but is it a wise policy?

If the city man believes that the farmers are reaping abundantly it tends to cause him to have less patience with the farmers protest that he cannot buy any more than is absolutely necessary, because he is short of cash.

Farmers are frequently heard to remark that we need more farm workers and less men with white collars. Do we? Would it be a benefit to Canada if cheap labor was imported, or several thousand farmers, brought from England?

If this came about, more grain would undoubtedly be grown. The greater the supply, the smaller the price. Would this help the farmer, while he has no grounds to hope that the purchasing value of his dollar will be increased? Farmers must report their poor crops as well as their extra good yields, if they want relief or expect it; and should look on, with pleasure at the migration of people from the country to the city. The more city dwellers the more food will be consumed. Fewer will be left in the country to produce it. This will certainly force prices up and help to equalize things.

One Cavan farmer, whose name I will not mention, but who owns a good farm and is an excellent farmer, told me that he drew in the crop off a ten acre field in four loads. He says he was shopping in Peterboro, recently, and mentioned his poor fields and "darned if one of them would believe him."

The same farmer had a field of peas, which the ground hogs were trying hard to destroy.

He bought a rifle, a box of shells and a ramrod and commenced to shoot as many of the ground hogs as possible in spare hours (that means on wet afternoons). His rifle and outfit cost him ten dollars. After a little figuring he came to the conclusion, that, at peas and oats, mixed, at about seventy-five cents a bushel and running about four bushels to the acre, it would take about four acres to pay for the gun and ammunition, if he killed a ground hog each time he shot, which would be rather fine shooting.

This little story just illustrates what produce the farmer has to give in exchange for any manufactured articles which he buys.

Just a little bit of the other side of the story of life on a farm by way of contrast.

RUSH THAT COLORED PICTURE OF A PIG AND HAVE IT IN THE EXAMINER OFFICE BEFORE SATURDAY.

Two Champions of the West

Two champions of whom California is proud—Miss Faye Lamphier, 1924 prize winner of that state and the Golden State's entrant in the national beauty contest at Atlantic City, N.J., and "Blossy's Sequel," champion Guernsey owned by James A. Brown of Santa Cruz. This cow has the highest record of all living California Guernseys.

COLOR CONTEST WAS A BIG HIT

Over Fifty Prizes Are Being Given For First Competition.

ONE EVERY WEEK.

The Examiner's coloring competition for boys and girls proved more attractive than had been expected, and drew a surprising number of entries. The judges were snowed under with pictures done in crayon, water color, and just chalk and pencil. Holstein, Jersey, Durham and Ayrshire breeds were evident in the majority of pictures, with a few hybrids, where red and black mixed in combinations never seen in a natural animal. The work was neat, and in the majority of cases showed an acquaintance with the use of colors and a general knowledge of the outward appearance of a cow.

So good were the entries that, for this first competition, The Examiner decided to award boxes of crayons to the 24 children with the next best pictures to the main prize-winners.

This competition, which has proved so popular in city and country, will run every week for some time, the same list of money prizes being awarded every week. The picture to be colored this week is of a dog, which should present no difficulty to youthful artists. Please color all the picture, including the kennel and the trees. Real artists will not overlook the cloud that peeps up from behind the dog's kennel.

One little boy forgot to put his age on his picture, and also forgot to have his father or mother sign it. To make sure that every boy and girl has the same chance to win a prize it is necessary that these things be filled in. If you are unable to write on the newspaper, put your name, address and age on a separate piece of paper, have your father, mother, or guardian sign it, and send it in the envelope with your picture. It is not necessary to write a letter.

This picture of a dog may be colored and sent in any time before Saturday, October 4, but you should not leave it until too late. Mail it, or drop it in the Examiner letter-box at the office, addressed to "The Picture Editor."

BEWARB OF WEEDS.

Weeds cost many farmers more than their taxes. The lower the selling price of the land, reduce crop yield and spoil production. They should not be allowed to reseed.

Signor Garlicko caused much merriment when he came forward one night to apologize for the non-appearance of the great soprano, Madame Ella Vator.

"Madame Vator is a leetle horse," he said.

Noticing a ripple of laughter among the audience, he repeated the statement that Madame Vator was "a leetle horse, a leetle horse; had a leetle colt."

Whereupon a facetious occupant of the gallery brought down the house by crying out:

"Well, then, trot her out!"

WINNERS IN A CORN CONTEST

Phillip McConnell Took First Place at Norwood.

FOURTH IN OATS

NORWOOD, Sept. 24.—In the Fodder Corn Competition for this district the following were the winners:

1st, Philip McConnell, Norwood;
2nd, Hugh Cuthbertson, Norwood;
3rd, Stanley McMillan, Norwood;
4th, Thompson Bros., Westwood;
5th, Albert Webster, Dummer;
6th, Fred Patterson, Asphodel;
7th, W. G. Barrie, Belmont.

Three of these contestants won prizes in the standing oat crop. Thompson Brothers coming first, Cuthbertson second and McConnell fourth.

To Sell Or Not To Sell Is Problem Of Stockman

COBOURG, Sept. 24.— "I have the problem before me as to whether I will take 5 cents a pound for nineteen head of thoroughbred young cattle," said a well-known agriculturist who was in town this week-end. "It is this way," he continued, "it does not look as if the price for such cattle will go very high another spring, and grain will be higher this winter, and there you are. Thoroughbreds never look like anything, unless they are fed up well, and that bunch will consume a lot of feed before Spring." He went off with his problem still unsolved, but in all probability he sold the cattle.

BIRD FANCIERS WIN

Cobourg Man Took Many Prizes at Ottawa.

COBOURG, Sept. 24. — Cobourg bird fanciers are winning many awards at the Autumn fairs. Mr. W. Jenkins wins at Ottawa with his English Red Caps were as follows: first on cock, first, third and fourth on hens, first on cockerel, first on pullet.

FOR GOOD POULTRY.

The needs for proper growth of pullets are: 1—Plenty of house room and range. 2—Good feeding. 3—Shade. 4—Cleanliness. Pullets grown under these conditions will give good results in egg production when they mature.

GOOD WEATHER HELPS HARVEST AT MILLBROOK

Garnering In Of Crops Is Nearly Completed in District.

THRESHERS BUSY

Some Fields of Corn Cut and Stooked—Not All Ripe.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 24.—T. J. Lang shipped a carload of mixed stock, including lambs, calves, and hogs to Toronto on Monday and had the distinction of having the best veal calf on the market to his credit last week. The calf, which was a pure bred Jersey, was purchased from James Might, of Cavan, was six weeks old and weighed 215 pounds.

R. McCamus of Ida, threshed his alfalfa last week realizing sixty bushels of seed, a return of about six bushels to the acre.

Fine Weather Helped.

The fine weather last week greatly helped in bringing the harvest to its conclusion, and in getting the ground prepared and the fall wheat sown. Only a very occasional field of oats, with the grain in stooks, is now to be seen as the majority of farmers have drawn in all but their buckwheat, which is ripening rapidly. Some fields of this grain are cut and most of them are ready for the binder except when sown at a late date. The yield is apparently good.

The threshers are still busy in the vicinity, L. S. Morton being on Fallis Line last week. Wheat in some cases averaged from thirty-two to thiry-five bushels to the acre, other claiming a higher yield, oats gave sixty bushels as a return, and peas from twenty-five to thirty bushels, a good showing in either case.

The root crop is most favorable, and will give an excellent yield along all lines if present indications are to be relied upon.

Some Corn Cut.

An occasional field of corn has been noticed cut and stooked, but in the main two or three weeks of fine, warm weather are needed if this crop is to ripen satisfactorily. Put into the silos in an immature condition, as much of it may be in Ontario this fall, means that a large and valuable part of the food content may be completely lost in the juice which leaks away under pressure as the silos are filled. To keep the silage from moulding the corn and other material must be firmly packed, and the silo made airtight.

FALL WHEAT IS UP ON BETHANY FARMS

Next Year's Crop is Some Inches High—Potatoes Are Good.

BETHANY, Sept. 24.—Harvest is completed in this vicinity with the exception of a very few cases. Corn cutting got under way last week. The farmers have practically completed fall wheat sowing and a few fields are up a few inches in height. Turnips and mangolds are going to be a good crop with potatoes a good yield.

MARMORA STILL BUSY

Threshing Going on Apace—Good Yields Are the Rule.

MARMORA, Sept. 24.—Threshing outfits are still kept very busy in the Marmora district and their services will be required over a much extended period this year. Percy Derry's grain has turned out 50 bushels to the acre. From the small farm rented by him Barney Callery has had a yield of 575 bushels.

Finished in Rawdon.

With the threshing operations over, many farmers in Rawdon township are devoting their attentions to fall ploughing. A considerable amount of ploughing has already been accomplished. The ever popular pumpkin is assuming massive proportions everywhere. Buckwheat is being harvested in all directions.

Nothing Unusual To Tell; Just The Average Crops

BETHEL, Sept. 24.—Some threshing has been done around here but there are no exceptional yields to report as the wheat and oats are turning out just ordinary, from 20 to 40 bushels to the acre.

D. McIntyre is in the vicinity threshing alsike clover. This is turning out very poor this year.

H. J. Nelson shipped some cattle on Saturday, R. Walsh of Hastings was the buyer.

PIRATES HARD HIT BY GIANTS

First Game of Big Series Won By Crippled Champions.

STUNNING BLOW.

NEW YORK, Sept. 23. — Playing like champions in spite of a crippled line-up, the New York Giants decisively vanquished Pittsburgh today 5 to 1 in the first game of their all-important three game series. A crowd of 30,000 aroused to a world's series pitch of enthusiasm, saw the McGraw men strengthen their hold on the top and at the same time deal a stunning blow to Pirate pennant hopes.

The triumph put the Giants 2½ games ahead of Pittsburgh which now cannot go into the lead even if victorious in the remaining games of this series to-morrow and Thursday. As Brooklyn was beaten by Chicago McGraw increased his margin over the second place Robins to a full game.

Luque's Victory.

BOSTON, September 23. — Cincinnati defeated Boston 4 to 1 here today. All of the runs were scored in the eighth inning. Luque held the Braves to six hits.

Score:
Cincinnati .. ..000000040—4 10 2
Boston .. ..000000010—1 6 1
Luque and Hargrave; Graham, Benton and O'Neill.

BROOKLYN, Sept. 23. — Dazey Vance fanned eleven men and held Chicago to four hits to-day but three of them were home runs and these spelled defeat for Brooklyn by a score of 5 to 4 in ten innings.

Grantham got two of the circuit swats, both over the right field wall after two men were out. The first came in the opening inning with nobody on the bases. In the third inning, Graham came up after Vance had walked Adams and Heathcote, and repeated his long drive, with the score tied. Hartnett opened the 10th with a liner that bounded into the left field bleachers, scoring the winning run. The score:
Chicago.. .. ..1030000001—5 4 0
Brooklyn .. ..3000000100—4 10 2

Annapolis Getting Ready To Open Football Season

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Sept. 24.—In order to keep Farragut Field, the Middy gridiron at the Naval Academy, in the pink of condition for this season's games, a separate field has been built up and set aside for use of the Navy football men during practice.

The plan was the idea of Rear Admiral Henry B. Wilson, superintendent of the Academy. New soil has been placed on ground that had become hardened through use as tennis courts, and is now covered with fine grass.

Work on the new steel stand on the north side of Farragut Field, and enlargement of the present south stand, has progressed to an extent which assures their readiness for the opening contest with William and Mary, Oct. 4. Rear Admiral Wilson said:

Another improvement made is the placing of a commodious press box at the top of one of the stands. Heretofore newspapermen have been seated directly in front of the Middy cheering section.

The members of the gridiron squad, numbering more than 50, reached Annapolis from their summer practice cruise Aug. 19, and will return about Sept. 16, ten days in advance of their comrades, to begin training.

A SATURDAY GAME.

The idea of this novel contest in Amsterdam, Holland, is to shoot down a slide in a little car and spear a loop holding a tub full of water overhead. If you miss the loop you get a ducking.

YANKEES AND SENATORS WIN

American League Race Passes Another Day Unchanged —Detroit's Fifth.

TO PLAY FIVE.

Yanks Beat Indians

CLEVELAND, Sept. 13.— Cleveland could not hit Bob Shawkey when hits were needed and New York won the second game of the series 8 to 2 today. A wild throw by Ruth in the eighth inning paved the way for the Indians' runs, the ball going into Yank dugout, allowing Stephenson to score and placing J. Sewell on third whence he scored on an infield out. Score:—
New York .... 010 130 021—8 12 1
Cleveland .... 000 00 0020—2 11 1
Shawkey and Bengough; Smith an L. Sewell.

SPORTSMEN LOOKING FOR HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMPION

Boxing Has Received a Set-Back Over Last Fight Fiasco.

The Gibbons-Bloomfield fiasco at Wembley—there is no other word for it—has undoubtedly given a severe blow to the sport. Conversely, it has given it a fillip, because it has aroused renewed enthusiasm all over the country in search for a real heavyweight champion and while there is such genuine regard by the public for British boxing prestige the game must continue to flourish, no matter how badly our promoters may fare in the staging of big events.

The swiftness and completness of Bloomfield's defeat—the man who we had dared to hope would at last break the long sequence of foreign heavyweights' victories over English champions—has set people wondering why England cannot produce a heavyweight of genuine championship class. Surely, they say, there must be a young giant somewhere who could be developed and trained into a world-beater.

Mr. Bettinsons' Suggestion.

One keen Pressman, moved by public opinion, has gone so far as to interview Mr. Bettinson, of the National Sporting Club, on the subject. Mr. Bettinson, a great admirer of that famous Cornishman, Bob Fitzsimmons, suggested that in all probability Cornwall, where men of splnedid physique are bred, might be an ideal place to search for a likely heavyweight.

In another quarter, attention has been drawn to Charlie Smith, a Charlton youth still in his teens, who administered two sound beatings to the massive Isaac Ingleton. Mr. Bernard Mortimer, of Southampton, is strong in his praise of his latest "find," Tom Heeney, who, although not actually an Englishman, is a British-born subject.

It is an old axiom, however (says Sporting Life), that boxing champions usually discover themselves. They are born and not made, and all the searching in the world would most probably fail to find the right man. Your boxing champion reveals himself, as, for instance, Jack Dempsey, who got his living from all sorts of occupations before he took to boxing, and Jimmy Wilde, who was a former pit boy until he decided to try his fortunes in the ring.

Four Western College Teams Have New Football Coaches

SEATTLE, Sept. 24.—Four new football coaches are to direct gridiron activities in the Pacific Coast and Pacific Northwest conferences this year.

Both Oregon schools are to have new men. Joe Maddock, former University of Utah coach, is to succeed C. A. "Shy" Huntington at the University of Oregon, and Paul Schissler of Lombard College, Galesburg, Ill., is to take R. B. "Doc" Ruhterford's place at the Oregon Agricultural College. Glenn Warner, former Univesity of Pittsburgh coach, is to take charge at Stanford University, while Earl "Click" Clark, three years coach at Everett, Wash., High School, has been appointed to handle football at the University of Montana.

INJURIES TO FIRST BASEMEN HAVE BADLY HANDICAPPED SEVERAL CLUBS

First base this year has been a jinx for many of the leading pennant contenders.

Several clubs have been particularly hard hit and have an excellent alibi to offer if they fail to win.

In all probability the Detroit Tygers suffered most. In Lu Blue Detroit has one of the greatest first sackers in the game. Going at top speed, he suffered an injury early in August that cost the club his services for the remainder of the year.

While Derrill Pratt, a second baseman, has done nobly as substitute, he is far from being a Blue. It is baseball precedent that when a team loses its first baseman, it unsettles the entire infield.

Since Blue was forced out of the Detroit lineup this condition has been apparent. Probably it is due to the fact that the other infielders feel they must make their throws deadly accurate, instead of merely letting them go, that has a tendency to throw them off their stride.

Blue a Great Loss.

It is difficult to say how badly Detroit suffered in the loss of Blue. There are many experts who believe that it cost them the pennant, in case the Tygers fail to go over.

The Washington club, another contender, has suffered in like manner. In the middle of the season Judge was lost for several weeks. Just before the start of the final trip of the season, an injured ankle kept Judge out for a week, at the time he was needed most.

Brooklyn has been the other pennant contender to be so handicapped. Jacques Fournier has several times been forced out of the game, the most recent occasion being in the all-important clash with the New York Giants.

The other infield position to make trouble for the pennant contenders has been second base. It has been nearly as bad a jinx as first base.

Aaron Ward Out.

The New York Yankees were badly handicapped by the loss of Ward for nearly two months. Getting back into the game before he was physically fit, his play has suffered ever since.

At Detroit Manager Cobb has tried out a half dozen combinations with indifferent success. Not until he corralled the veteran, Frank O'Rourke, was the position satisfactorily filled.

Marty McManus of St. Louis, a victim of several injuries, handicapped the Browns when he was forced out of the game. At Brooklyn, High, a former third baseman, finally filled the bill at second.

So in case certain clubs fail to come through, their managers will have several very good alibis to offer.

WILLIAMS MADE GOOD IN QUEBEC

Former Belleville Pitcher Had Record of 16 Wins and 2 Losses.

FIVE SHUTOUTS.

BELLEVILLE, Sept. 24. — Baseball in the minor professional ranks and most of the lesser leagues have closed up shop for the season and the different players have drifted home to tell the natives of their town how and why their team won the pennant. One of these persons is no other than the good southpaw of two years ago, Johnny Williams.

Johnny has just closed a successful season with the Quebec Club in the Eastern League, being loaned to that club by the Rochester team of the International League after flitting around with the clubs down in the eastern part of New York State. He had signal success with the Quebecers, winning 16 games and losing but two, most of his wins being of light scores and light hitting. While down there he pitched five three-hit games, two of four, and was successful in shutting out the opposition in five starts which is not a bad record for a boy breaking into fast company for the first time.

Rounded out and weighing 20 pounds more than he did with the local club he looks the picture of health and he says himself he never felt better in his life. The muscles of the upper part of his body have considerably developed, and he gives the credit to the strenuous exercises that had to be taken by the team when they were at home at the gymnasium.

He was very pleased to hear of the win over Oslers and hoped that they would be put out by the Trunkers and was also glad to know that Oulette was having a good season.

Asked for his opinion of the league where he was pastiming, he said it was a little faster than the C.O.B.L., the league being mostly composed of young players, who were farmed out from different big leagues and with strings attached. Wojack, shortstop of the Quebec team, was the find of the season and will surely be found with a big league club when next year rolls around. Stallings, he said, was very much interested in his welfare, and if he did not carry him would send him next year to a league of higher rating than the Eastern League. He wished to be remembered to all his friends in Belleville.

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. What are the rights of the batsman as to stepping out of the box after the pitcher has gotten on the rubber and is in a position to deliver the ball?—D.S.A.

2. Two players go after a fly ball in the outfield and collide, both being knocked unconscious. The batsman has just turned first base when the collision occurred. He reached third on the hit. Was he entitled to advance at his peril after the accident —D.A.B.

3. Batsman tries his best to dodge a wild pitch. His bat comes into contact with the ball and results in a grounder to the pitcher, who retires the batter at first. Is such a play legal, or should the happening be treated as an accident and the ball regarded as dead?—C.G.

4. With the bases filled, a triple steal is started. Runner coming home is retired at the plate on a close play; others reach their objectives in safety. How is the play scored relative to stolen bases?—R.S.

ANSWERS

1. The batsman after getting into the box is supposed to remain there. Conditions often arise, however, that necessitate his stepping out. On appeal, the umpire permits such action, provided the pitcher has not actually started his delivery.

2. The umpire is powerless to give the accident any consideration. He cannot call time until all chances for a play has ceased and the pitcher is on the rubber with the ball in his possession. Runner is entitled to third.

3. The play is legal. The batter who tried to dodge the wild pitch and hit the ball is out when retired at first.

4. On a double or triple steal, if one of the runners is retired, none of the others are credited with a stolen base

SENATORS HAVE GOOD PITCHERS

Walter Johnson Well Supported By Mogridge and Zachary.

DOPE BY EVANS.

WASHINGTON—The great Walter Johnson is the ace of the Nationals' pitching staff. The veteran left handers, George Mogridge and Tom Zachary, are having the best year of their careers. The rookie Zahniser, a right hander, has done very good work. Ira Fred Marberry, a recruit, and Allan Russell, the veteran spitballer, Washington has probably the best relief pitching in the major leagues.

Manager Harris has handled his star with excellent judgment. Johnson has not been used as a pinch pitcher and has always had his required rest. The result—a big year for Johnson. The left handers, Mogridge and Zachary, get plenty of work against clubs that don't like southpaws. Marberry and Russell have been used almost exclusively as relief pitchers and with great success.

The Nationals have a very good pitching staff that has been greatly helped by strong defensive play.

NEW YORK—The five-star pitching staff of the Yankees failed Huggins this year. For three previous seasons it had carried the club to success.

Southpaw Pennock has been the only consistent performer. Injuries and illness handicapped Sam Jones. Bush and Shawkey have been brilliant at times and just as erratic. Hoyt, seemingly with a world of stuff, has had his troubles winning. Gaston, rookie, has helped considerably.

Lack of consistent pitching that has featured the play of the Yankees since 1921, has been the club's biggest handicap.

Coming into the home stretch the Yankee staff has been displaying its real ability. Such pitching throughout the year would have early cinched the pennant for New York.

DETROIT — Southpaw Whitehill easily rates the star of the Detroit staff. This rookie pitcher has tided the Tygers over many a rough spot in the race. Stoner, another recruit, who got away to a good start, slumped late in the season. Rip Collins has been very good at times, not so good at other times. Holloway, a big right hander, in his second year has performed consistenly all year. Wells, a recruit southpaw, has done good work in his first year. Cole has disappointed, while injuries have handicapped George Dauss. Despite this Dauss has done great work.

RATING—Washington has the best balanced pitching staff of the three contenders. It is not a great staff but a very good one. Johnson stands out. While many southpaws in the American League have more stuff than Mogridge and Zachary, these brainy veterans are hard to beat. They pitch with their heads as well as their hands. Marberry, a big right hander who has starred in the role of relief pitcher, may be the sensation of the series, if Washington goes over.

Pennock, as in 1923, is the dominant factor on the Yankees staff while Whitehill, Dauss and Holloway are the consistent Tyger performers.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

The selection of Walter Johnson as the most valuable player in the American League for 1924 is a most popular one.

Sisler, by his phenomenal work in 1922, when he excelled in all departments of play, richly deserved the honor.

Last season Babe Ruth was the unanimous choice of the committee of sport writers making the selection. The Babe pulled a remarkable comeback.

Walter Johnson draws the honor in the third year of competition.

It is fitting that Johnson, after 17 years of remarkable pitching, should be so honored. This has been one of his best years. He won on his merits.

Now if Johnson could get a whirl at the big series, it would be the end of a perfect season. Washington is fighting hard to win the right to take part in the baseball classic. Johnson is the team's inspiration.

The best compliment that could possibly be paid Johnson is the attitude of the rival players of the American League. I have never heard an opposing player say an unkind word about him.

The big fellow is a popular favorite in his profession. Like the fans, the players would like to see him in action in a world series.

No player on the ball field can make enemies more quickly than the pitcher. He is in a position to do many things.

It is the pitcher who humbles the batter by making him pop up or strike out in a pinch. Very often the batter doesn't approve of the tactics used to bring about his discomfiture.

In the 20 years I have been umpiring major league ball, Walter Johnson stands out as the speediest of all pitchers I have ever seen in action.

Opposing batters do not relish facing a pitcher with great speed. If the pitcher happens to be a trifle wild it makes the situation all the more unpleasant.

While Johnson has always been one of the most effective pitchers in the game, largely because of his fast ball, he could have made himself almost unhittable had he cared to resort to unsportsmanlike tactics.

With many pitchers the "beanball" has long been a weapon of intimidation. The "bean-ball" is the throwing of a fast one close to the batter's head, not to hit him but merely throw a scare into him.

Had Johnson resorted to such tactics he would have been even more effective, but would have gained the enmity of his profession.

Johnson, nowever, has always stood for clean sport. I have often heard him say that he would quit rather than intimidate the batter to help his effectiveness.

With the American League umpires, Johnson is as great a favorite as with the players. The reason—he does the pitching and lets the umpires call the plays.

Baseball fans and the members of his profession are delighted at the selection of Johnson as the most valuable player of 1924 in the American League.

It is questionable if a more popular choice will ever be agreed on for that honor.

KINGSTON AND TORONTO HERE

With C. G. E. and Maple Leafs in Double Header on Saturday.

Here's a great Saturday bill for the baseball fans.

Canadian Generals and 4th Hussars of Kingston, Intermediate O.B.A.A. semi-finalists, and McCormicks of Toronto, and Maple Leafs, O.B.A.A. Juvenile semi-finalists, will play a double-header at Exhibition Park on Saturday afternoon. The Juvenile game will start at 1.45 o'clock, at the request of the Toronto club, so that they may return home on the evening C.N.R. train.

Arrangements have been completed to give the crowd the score by innings of the Lakeviews-McCormick game in Toronto.

As it's a fight for the championship in all three games, the week-end contests at Exhibition Park will no doubt attract one of the biggest baseball crowds of the season.

Kingston Hussars will be here looking for revenge. The soldiers are the last hopes of the Limstone City, two other entries in the Ontario race having been chased from the scene by Peterboro teams.

McCormick Juveniles have defeated all-comers in the various leagues in Toronto, and will bring a strong team to do battle against the Maple Leafs.

MUSKALUNGE FISHING AT FRENCH RIVER CAMP.

In the fall when the 'lunge become voracious and the life of a young fish is worth practically nothing, the fisherman comes into his own. Fighters to the last gasp, the 'lunge is the one fish that one prays, will rise to the plug or minnow and when he does—well, try and yawn. The beauty of the woods in autumn, the snappy morning atmosphere when one's blood runs faster, good fishing, warm bungalows electrically lighted and a clubhouse with a huge fireplace, music, dancing—all these may be had at French River Bungalow Camp, which will remain open this year until October 15th, following the request of patrons of the camp. The camp is only 215 miles north of Toronto, and any Canadian Pacific agent will gladly supply all information, make your reservations, etc. An hour's communion with a hungry 'lunge is worth a life-time listening to the other fellow tell about it. R. H. the Prince of Wales, when he visits the capital. And already there is much fluttering in dovecotes of the capital as to who will be included in the chosen few. Ottawa "sassiety," is already busy at costumiers, while aides at Rideau Hall are preparing a list of eligibles.

Prague's Unique Museum Devoted Only To Buttons

PRAGUE, Sept. 24.— "Button, button, who's got the button?" They know in Prague where buttons are to be found, for there is a button museum in the Czechoslovak capital in which every form and type of button ever manufactured is on exhibit. The button museum is one of the most unique institutions of its kind in the world.

The museum was founded by a button manufacturer named Henry Waldes. Within a few years the institution has so expanded that it fills two floors of a large house in the suburb of Wrschowitz.

A study of the materials used is in itself most worth while. There are buttons of gold, of silver, ivory, bronze, porcelain, of precious stones such as turquois, opal, carneol, etc. Some buttons date back 3,000 years before Christ. The flashiest and showiest buttons are those of the eighteenth century, when Europe seemed to enjoy rare luxury.

The most gruesome buttons are the so-called poison buttons, containing a tiny phial of poison and surmounted by a sharp stud. In the days of political assassinations it was an easy thing for a man attending a high society function, such as a ball, to approach his adversary, and, in a crowd, to brush by him in such a way that the button scratched his skin. Into this rent in the skin the contents of the button would then flow, with fatal consequences.

"Life boats are all right for sea going vessels and sailing ships, but we feel that the ZR-3 is safer than any ship which ever plied the water."

THEATRES

AT THE CAPITOL.

RICHARD BARTHELMESS,

Back to "Straight" Roles in New Pictures.

Richard Barthelmess, in one of the most delightful modern stories that has been brought to the screen in a decade!

That the piece de resistance that the Capitol Theatre has the good fortune to offer its patrons to-day and Thursday.

The production is called "Twenty-One." In it Barthelmess, who lately has been distinguishing himself in period costume dramas, comes back to the sort of modern role to which he is particularly well suited.

He is to be seen in the part of a 20-year-old youth, the son of wealthy parents, who are unhappily married, though living under the same roof.

The artificial atmosphere of his home life, obnoxious to the boy, drives him to seek the society of people outside his own exclusive set, so it comes about that he forms a friendship that grows into love for a pretty factory girl.

It is the discovery of this romance that brings about the pivotal change in the boy's life. Learning it is his mother's plan to send him to a ranch to keep him away from the girl, he determines to leave for the city to remain out of sight until he is twenty one, so that he may wed whom he chooses and govern his own life. The girl promises to wait for him. In driver and his romantic adventures driver, ad his romantic adventures grow apace.

There is a desperate encounter with bandits, a picturesque Czecho-Sulovakian dance, a most compromising automobile breakdown and— But wait and see the picture! We can't do justice with words.

John S. Robertson directed it and lovely Dorothy Mackaill is Dick's leading lady. Joe King, Dorothy Cumming and Bradley Barker are among the sterling players in the supporting cast. Also, it's a First National picture.

AT THE GRAND.

TREASURE HOUSE OF RAAMSEES IN "THE TEN COMMANDMENTS."

The biggest edifice ever built for a picture and the largest working company ever taken on location, marked the making of the Bibical story in the first part of Cecil B. De Mille's production, "The Ten Commandments," which will be given its first show in Peterboro, at the GRAND, on Tuesday, and Wednesday, Sept. 30th and October 1st and twice daily on Wednesday, Oct. 1st. The building was the "City of Raamses" four miles from Guadaloup, California, and the people who worked in and around it constituted a location party of 5,000 persons.

The site chosen is one of the most desolate coast streches between Los Angeles and San Francisco. It was, however, deemed the best possible spot to film Isreal's story in Egypt, the treasure city built by their forced labour, and the escape under Moses from the Land of Bondage. All the work people and all the materials had to be brought from Los Angeles 200 miles away.

Compared with the celebrated "Robin Hood" castle that Douglas Fairbanks built, "Raamses" had thrice the area and probably trebled the cost. It was approached by an avenue of twenty-four Sphinxes, and the portals were guarded by four huge colossi of the Pharaohs. Half a million feet of lumber and three hundred tons of plaster went into the main frontage which was 750 feet long by 109 feet high.

Besides the mechanics and artisans of all sorts, 3,000 players were used. Unlike most movie locations, there was no means of accommodating them on the country side. Consequently, a great Tent City had to be set up alongside the Egyptian one. It was supplied by the De Mille engineers with all the public utilities. Two mess halls seating a thousand diners each, 125 skilled chefs, an abattoir and a commissary supplying tons of daily rations were features. And the live stock, including Pharaoh's chariot horses and the flocks and herds of the Israelites, consumed ten tons of hay per diem.

The above enterprise was used exactly eighteen days of filming Israel in Egypt. At the end of that time it was dismantled and little trace of Raamses now remains.

Syphony orchestra is carried entire with the company. Mail orders with remittance now.

UNIQUE MOTION PICTURE COMING TO THE GRAND

A somewhat unique attraction will make its Canadian debut at the Grand, commencing Thursday and will run for three days. The chief feature of the entertainment is a motion picture adaptation over as "The Man They Could Not Hang." The picture will be preceded by an atmospheric prologue in which Miss Doreen Thompson appears as John Lee's mother. W. L. Howe, an eminent English actor, will describe the salient features of this remarkable criminal case.

Musical comedy is undoubtedly the most popular style of entertainment, therefore, the announcement that Schwab and Kusell's splendid company of noted comedians and singers will be seen in the latest musical comedy success, "The Gingham Girl" at the Grand, Thursday evening, Oct. 2nd, will be welcomed by our theatregoers. The fame of this piece and its players have preceded it, through the medium of phonograph records, which reproduce its melodies, and dance orchestras everywhere, who utilize its jingling tunes as the best of the new compositions to inspire devotees of terpsichore. "The Gingham Girl" was the rage of New York after its first performance and its merry airs were whistled and hummed from Harlem to the Battery within a week. It remained as the outstanding attraction in the metropolis for one solid year; its success was so great that another company was organized and sent to Chicago where it played for five months, duplicating the New York triumph.

Each of these companies later played ten weeks in Boston and Philadelphia respectively. This season the best players of the two companies were combined forming one aggregation for a tour that is planned to extend around the world. This is the company to be seen here and in addition to the principal artists there is a chorus of youthful singing and dancing girls who also represent the pick of both companies. Sixteen song numbers, three big finales, and six whirlwind dancing features will be introduced in a background of scenic splendor, enhanced by modish costumes and novel lighting effects, the like of which is seldom seen anywhere.

AT THE ROYAL.

CLEVER CROOK COMEDY AT ROYAL LAST HALF OF WEEK.

William Desmond and Robert Hill, Universal star and director, respectively, have worked together in many screen plays, but they both admit that the most pleasure they ever got out of picture making occurred during the filming of "The Breathless Moment," Desmond's latest starring vehicle, coming to the Royal Theatre Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The play is a crook drama with a distinct comedy angle. Both Desmond and Hill are veterans of the vaudeville stage and they had a great time evolving "gags" for the production. Often during the shooting of some of the scenes in the picture Hill would shout, "Cut," and burst out in a loud guffaw of laughter. He had thought up some new "laugh," and it would be immediately written into the working script.

It was seldom that a scene was filmed that the star also did not contribute a couple of "gags" that added to the comedy quality of the picture.

That the Desmond-Hill combination has a clear and valuable conception of the type of humor that is appealing in a photoplay is shown by the praise of the motion picture public for the comedy feature.

It was written by Harvey Gates and Raymond Schrock. In the supporting cast are Albert Hart, Margaret Cullington, Charlotte Merriam, Robert Homans, Alfred Fisher, Lucille Hutton, Harry Van Meter and John Steppling.

FINDS THE PERFECT FLAPPER

The "perfect flapper" has been catalogued and the perfect specimen has been found. Rupert Hughes who directed "Reno," coming to the Royal Theatre on Monday, needed her for his latest picture, and found her in the person of Marjorie Bonner, who plays a prominent role.

The perfect flapper is slender—Major Hughes says—although there are some stout ones. She has bobbed hair and is generally blonde. Contrary to general opinion, she is widely read, the director say. Her literary knowledge, however, is a jumble of Freud, E. M. Hull, Thomas Hardy, Rider Haggard, Edgar Lee Masters and Ring Lardner. Obviously she dances, swims, smokes a little perhaps, and indulges in all kinds of sports.

SAVED GIRL'S LIFE.

Hero of Rescue Won Out In Race With Train.

EMPORIA, Kan., Sept. 24.—(Canadian Press.) — Heroes of movie thrills have nothing on Raymond Steinmetz, a quick-witted motorist, who saved the life of a five-year old girl by snatching her from the path of a speeding train while driving his motor car at thirty miles an hour.

The child, a daughter of Rev. R. H. Gearsart, had wandered on to the tracks in front of a passenger train. Jumping on the running board, Steinmetz raced the train, and while holding the wheel of his car with one hand, snatched the child with the other just as the train roared by. So close was the rescue that Steinmetz's car bears a dent on the rear fender.

HOME BREW BEER.

The following lines were written by a young lady of Peterboro County, on seeing her father's despairing look when a bottle of his home-brewed beer went skyward in a cloud of foam. It is a parody on the well-known poem, "The Arab to His Favourite Steed," by Caroline Norton:

My bottleful, my bottleful, that standest meekly by,
My bottleful of home-brew stout, almost as fine as rye;
They say thou hast a muddy look, and somewhat sugared taste,
They say the hops and malt in thee are but a sorry waste.

'Tis false, 'tis false, my bottleful, thou well concocted brew,
After the days and nights I've toiled I know it can't be true.
See, I shall test thy excellence, and drain thee to a drop,
Already thou art fizzing as I try to move the top.

My beverage, thou'rt mine no more, nor anybody else's,
For thou hast shot from roof to floor like blooming bromo-seltzes,
Although thou might not as a drink be classified a whizz,
No man may say, my home-brew stout, that you ain't got a fizz!

HAD CORN ROAST.

About twenty members of the Examiner staff embarked on a wild ride last night, when they proceeded to Hiawatha for a corn roast. The sixteen mile drive was made in the Examiner truck, and energetic members of the party assisted materially in assisting the equipage up the many hills that dot the landscape between here and Hiawatha. Their goal was "Seldom Inn," a pretty cottage on the shores of Rice Lake where Ted Rye, "Red" Franks and Ralph Holyman are spending their vacation. The trio proved very genial hosts. A supper of the corn and weiners was accompanied by very strong lemonade, and followed by a short dance and an impromptu programme in which Bobby Baker and Harry Dugan figured prominently, the latter's semi-vocal rendition of an affecting solo, "Meet me, Jennie, When the Sun Goes Down," being particularly pleasing.

LESS HOME WORK.

New Regulations Aim To Make School Work Still Easier

TORONTO, September 4 (Canadian Press). — Public School pupils in Ontario will be relieved of much of their home work by the issue today of new regulations governing the curriculum in the Provincial schools.

New regulations were issued today following a conference between the Hon. Howard Ferguson, Premier, and Minister of Educaton, Dr. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Eduction, and Dr. Merchant, Director of Education for Ontario.

These regulations will be made effective during the present school term.

One of them provides that in each school day of five half-hours there shall be a period of one half-hour during which scholars, under the direction of their teachers, shall pursue independent work and study.

In making the announcement this morning, Premier Ferguson said that this regulation aimed to relieve the pupils of the steady grind where independent study was desired.

It was not intended that home work should be abolished altogether, but with some changes in the curriculum, home work would be rendered less arduous.

CALIFORNIANS FORCED TO ADOPT PRIMITIVE METHODS FOR HUNTING

LOS SANGELES, Sept. 24. — Southern California hunters are facing the prospect of reverting to primitive methods of killing deer this season, as the result of a Los Angeles county emergency ordinance, adopted to prevent forest fires, which prohibts the discharge of firearms in areas outside of incoroprated cities. Other counties are considering similar legislation.

Some hunters have announced their intention of using bow and arrow, while others favor bowie knives or boomerangs.

WEDDING BELLS

TIVEY—ANDERSON

The marriage was solemnized at Trinity Methodist parsonage by the Rev. A. J. Langford, B.A., on Wednesday 24th September of Cloudasey Clara Jane Anderson, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Anderson to Albert E. Tivey, son of Mr. Roland and the late Mrs. Tivey of Peterboro.

The happy couple were unattended. The bride looked very pretty in cocoa canton crepe dress with bead trimming and carried a bouquet of Ophelia roses.

A dainty lunch was served at the home of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. Tivey leaving later for Toronto, Hamilton and points west. The bride travelled in a navy blue Trico-Shan dress, Reindeer Brown coat of English Bolivia cloth with American Opossum fur trimmings and shoes gloves and hat to match.

The groom's gift to the bride was a beautiful Persian Lamb coat, with sable collar and cuffs. On their return Mr. and Mrs. Tivey will reside at 224 Sherbrooke street, Peterboro.

CUSTANCE—BARNES.

A pretty wedding was solemnised in St. John's Church on Monday afternoon, 22nd September, when Eliza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Barnes, was united in marriage with John Alfred Custance, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Custance, of Montreal, Rev. R. C. Blagrave, D.D., officiating The bride was given away by her brother, Mr. John Barnes, of Peterborough, and wore a dainty gown of ivory kitten's ear crepe, with veil held in place by a wreath of orange blossoms, and carried a shower of butterfly roses and lily of the valley. The bridesmaid, Miss Hilda Clements, of Galt, wore a dress of sand canton crepe, with hat to match, and carried a spray bouquet of Columbia roses. Littlt Olive Cookman, niece of the bride, wore a dainty dress of pink organdie and carried a lovely basket of white asters and sweetheart roses. The bridegroom was assisted by Mr. Benjamin Dalton. Mr. F. G. Mann rendered appropriate music at the organ. Mr. Raymond Millard and Mr. Fred Haughton acted as ushers. During the signing of the register Mrs. Doig sang "Until."

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, Monaghan Road. The happy couple leave on Thursday to take up their residence in Montreal.

ENGINEER IS KILLED UNDER GRAVEL TRAIN.

Driver of Contractor's Outfit, near Belleville, is Fatally Injured.

BELLEVILLE, September 24. — Francis Mark Geary succumbed in the Belleville general hospital yesterday as the result of injuries sustained three hours earlier at Fuller on a gravel train while in the employ of the A. W. Robertson, Ltd. How he got under the engine is unknown. It is surmised that he slipped and fell while acting as brakeman.

Geary had been for two seasons engineer on the seven ton gasoline engine which operates on the company's three miles of track in the great gravel deposit in Huntingdon Township.

He was a member of the White Lake Methodist church, and leaves his wife and mother, Mrs. Erastus Geary. His home was at Crookston. Thither the remains were conveyed. Yesterday afternoon at three o'clock the inquest opened by Coroner Dr. Boyce was adjourned until Monday next.

The deceased was a son-in-law of Mr. Alvah Wilson of Wescott St., Peterboro.

NEW CONCRETE HAS AMAZING STRENGTH

Flint Rock From Zinc Mines In Missouri Prove To Be of Great Use.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Sept. 24.—What is believed to be a virtually indestructible concrete mixture for Missouri roads has been found by the State Highway Department test laboratory.

A cylinder of solid concrete, a specimen of a mixture being used by a road contractor in Newton County, was sent to the laboratory for a test. The requirement was that it was to stand a total pressure of 84,000 pounds without cracking

The cylinder stood a test of 200,000 pounds, or 7,500 pounds to the square inch, which was as high as the laboratory apparatus registers. It came out of the press apparently as firm as when it was put in. Under far less pressure solid rock usually splits into fragments.

The test was the most remarkable since the laboratory was established. Sample concrete cylinders from road projects are received almost daily to make sure that the cement and rock mixtures are up to specifications.

The mixture of the record breaking cylinder was 19 parts Portland cement and 2 1-2 parts chat.

Chat is the flint rock fragments from zinc mines in the Joplin district. Rolled flint sand also was used in the mixture.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Editor, the Exam

Sir: Mr. G. N. Gordon in referring to my replies to his untruthful attacks upon me, says he apologizes to the public for "wasting ammunition on small game." His overwhelming vanity and big "I AM," suggests to himself that he is "BIG GAME." It is quite true, you do not require "ammunition on small game," but anything at all will puncture a wind bag, and the bigger the wind bag, the more puffed it is, the less it takes.

Now, permit me to draw your attention to a few punctures in Mr. Gordon's wind-bags:

First, he was challenged to produce one single line from Hansard, or other public record, to show that Mr. Meighen was an approving party to the carving up of East Peterboro. It cannot be done. If Mr. Gordon could have produced such proof he would have done so long ago.

Second: Mr. Gordon does not deny the charge that I made, that Peterboro county was carved up to suit his own selfish ends and at the expense of the industrial welfare of this city and county.

Third: The Liberals of East Peterboro regard Mr. Gordon as a poor sport. If you desire proof, I beg to refer you to the President, Secretary and other members of the East Peterboro Liberal Association, and find what is their view of carving up Peterboro County to suit Gordon.

Fourth: Mr. Gordon was challenged to show one substantial thing that he has done for his riding since he has been elected.

The fact is if he had done anything it would have been proclaimed from the house tops. He has in fact done nothing. He has drawn down in salaries for himself no less than $24,000 in less than three years, but what has he done or even attempted to do for the general benefit of this riding?

Fifth: Mr. Gordon knew that the industries in this city were, and are, struggling for their existence under the pressure of foreign competition brought about by cheap labour in Europe. He was in the House of Commons, when the tariff was still more unfavorable to the manufacturers and their employees in 1920, last session. He did nothing at all to help them. Surely a woo'en man would have done better. He would not have floated away like a big gas bag, but would have stopped by as a prop if nothing else. It is an old adage—the man who bor's does the least.

Sixth: Mr. Gordon made the solemn statement over his own signature that he was appointed as K. C., on the recommendation of the judges. I challenged him to produce the proof. He has not done so, and cannot do so.

I can back up my statements over my own signature. Mr. Gordon quibbles like a police court lawyer portrayed in real life, and is surprised that even your humble servant can write a simple letter that punctures a wind bag, which any school boy can do with a pencil or a pen.

Mr. Gordon started these letters by his abusive attacks, therefore I am forced to reply. Yours truly,

ROLAND DENNE,

September 24, 1924.

Editor of The Examiner.

C.P.R. CREATED CHAOS IN RAILWAY RATES UNDER CROW'S NEST TARIFF

Parliament Never Intended Discrimination, Declared Counsel For Manufacturers In Appeal To Railway Commission—C.N.R. Met Competition of C.P.R.

DOMINION GENEROUS TO THE C. P. R.

OTTAWA, Sept. 25.(By Canadian Press).—"A stump speech" was the description applied by E. P. Flintoft, K.C., of the C.P.R., to the analysis of the C.P.R. finances made by G. G. McGeer, K.C., counsel for British Columbia yesterday in continuing his argument in the Crow's Nest Pass case before the Railway Commission. Mr. Greer was objecting to the C.P.R. plea that it's action in creating "Chaos" in rates was due to the "necessity" of the the road.

"I resent the imputation that I made a stump speech", replied Mr. McGeer, "Our election in British Columbia is over."

The statements made by him which led Mr. Flintoft to intervene may be summed up in the declaration that the C.P.R. had accumulated a surplus from operation, $168,000,000, of which part at least was invested in Imperial and Dominion government securities which were as good as cash. After the C.P.R. counsel had protested, and Chairman McKeown had instructed counsel to proceed, Mr. McGeer added a calculation, taken from the C.P.R. annual report, that its land grant had yielded approximately $247,000,000.

In closing his argument, the counsel for British Columbia declared that the C.P.R. had been treated generously by the Dominion and had behaved unfairly and unreasonably in causing "chaos" in the railway rates in the country.

Harm to Brantford

An immediate remedy was asked for by W. T. Henderson, City Solicitor for Brantford, Ontario, who appeared for the Chamber of Commerce of that city as well as for the city of Galt. He said that if the existing rates were allowed to continue pending an appeal to the higher court, which might take two years, that would be no remedy to Brantford because the harm to Brantford would have been done in that time. He claimed that Brantford was entitled to Crow's Nest rates to Winnipeg and to the West on an equality with Hamilton, where the chief competitors of the Brantford manufacturers were situated. In the first tarriff published after the Crow's Nest contracts were signed, he stated, Brantford was given equal rates with Hamilton.

There was a joint tariff published by the Canadian Pacific and the Grand Trunk said Eugene Lafleur, K. C. railway counsel and not only a C.P.R. tariff.

Mr. Henderson argued that the Crow's Nest agreement applied to all C. P.R. lines and not only to C.P.R. lines in existence in 1897. He contended this as the meaning of the agreement merely as a contract apart from its construction as a statute.

He claimed in closing that if he was wrong in his contention on this point, then Hamilton was not entitled to Crows' Nest rates because Hamilton was not on the C.P.R. in 1897.

Industries Injured

Isaac Piblado, K.C., counsel for the Canadian Manufacturer's Association said he represented the organized industries of Canada, which had been injured by the rates of July 7. He began by arguing that by the Crow's Nest Pass agreement of 1897, the C.P.R. accepted the rates in the contract and at the same time accepted the obligation not to put in force discriminatory rates elsewhere. Any other interpretation would be absurd.

Parliament could not have contemplated that all points not on the C. P.R. lines in 1897 in the west or in the east would be denied the benefit of Crow's Nest rates. Parliament could not have contemplated such discrimination. Parliament could not have contemplated picking out a group of towns and cities as a favorite group of shipping points and giving them a special advantage for all time.

As a striking example of the interpretation of the agreement the C.N.A. counsel cited the finding of Chairman Gillam in the Pacific Coast cities case. In that case it appears that the C.P.R. had put in Crow's Nest rates west of Winnipeg because they are under obligation not to charge rates that were discriminatory. Then, on the top of that bit of evidence, voluntarily given by the C. P.R. Chairman Hillam had ordered them to put similar rates in force on traffic moving eastward from the Pacific Coast.

"Parliament never did anything to create the discrimination", said Mr. Piblado, "there isn't anyone responsible for discrimination except the C.P.R. in the first place and in the second place the C.P.R. and the Canadian National."

"The Canadian National" interposed Frank Watson, of the Government railways, "merely met C.P.R. competition, and it is entitled to do that."

"Well, if we get the C.P.R. discrimination ironed out", replied Mr. Piblado, "the rest will be easily removed The board rose at five o'clock.

WOLVES AT APSLEY.

Carried Off Lamb—Avengers Foiled in Tree Ambush.

APSLEY, Sept. 25.—Wolves have made their annual fall appearance in the vicinity. The other day Albert Wilson, who lives three miles from the village, had a lamb taken only fifty yards from the barn by a big timber wolf. He caught a glimpse of the marauder with part of the carcase in its mouth, and determined to endeavor to avenge the crime, and made plans accordingly. The next night he and Willie Johnston, a noted hunter, tied a lamb to a stake planted near the bush, and climbing two nearby trees with loaded rifles, prepared for an all-night vigil.

After a few hours' wait their patience was rewarded by hearing the weird howling of wolves, and very soon afterwards the animals were heard coming through the brushwood. The lamb, evidently scenting danger, gave a terrified bleat, and with a bound tore up the stake and fled for safety to the barnyard. The wolves kept to the underbrush, and after waiting for some time the hunters decided that their luck was out, and they also retired. They have, however, not given up hopes of eventually being successful, and the next moonlight night will see them on the warpath again.

SAME EVIDENCE IN JONES TRIAL

Home Bank Auditor Had Nothing To Do With Monthly Statements.

CHARGES WIDENED.

TORONTO, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Much of the evidence given in the trial of Ocean G. Smith, accountant of the Home Bank, is being repeated in the trial of Sidney H. Jones, bank auditor, which began yesterday.

R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Jones, who is charged with making out and concurring in false reports and statements objected strenuously to what he called widening of the charges against his client. He claimed that at the time Jones pleaded not guilty the charge had read in making and concurring in reports to the government and that now the crown had added reports to shareholders. He asked for a decision from the judge stating at the same time that he would be prepared to go ahead with any charges the crown might make but he did not think the case should be widened.

Judge Coatsworth gave no general ruling, stating that he would deal with objections to details of evidence as they came up. Mr. Greer in one of his objections stated emphatically that Jones had never made out or sent a statement of the bank's affairs to Ottawa, and during his cross examination of witnesses tried to bring this point out.

Crown's Evidence.

The only evidence for the crown during the day was from S. G. Roberts, secretary of the Department of Finance, and from Thos. Gibbs who was assistant accountant of the Home Bank. Both were mostly concerned with the production and identification papers so far as the crown was concerned. From each Mr. Greer tried to get a statement as to who was responsible for the making out of returns to the government. Gibbs said that the auditor had nothing to do with the monthly statements either in making them up or in signing them. He also stated that he had nothing to do with the yearly statements of unpaid balances and dividends. Mr. Greer taking the exhibit of the annual report of the directors endeavored to show that all the auditor had to do with it was the signing of the auditor's report which was attached to the annual statement as required by the bank act. In his statement before his signature on this report Jones had written that his report was in accordance with the books of the bank.

Mr. Roberts also stated that he did not know for a fact that it was the auditor's duty to send in the report. "It was the business of the bank" he said, although he would not venture an opinion as what official should have done it.

Changed His Name.

In his examination of Thos. Gibbs, counsel for the defence Mr. Greer asked if he did not go by another name in England before he came to Canada 15 years ago. Gibbs admitted that he did and was now known under his middle name only. In England he was known as Thos. Button. He declared that he was still supporting his family in England but found it more convenient to use the name Gibbs instead of Button. He did not know if the accused knew his name was Button or not. McGregor Young is examing witnesses for the crown in this case. Scores of volumes of bank books which were filed as exhibits in the Smith trial are also going in for the trial of Jones.

CHRISTMAS IS NOT FAR AWAY

Do Not Be Among the Late Comers At The Roy Studio This Year.

Sounds a little premature to talk of Christmas and Christmas giving in September—but is it? To be exact, Christmas Day is just three months from to-day, Thursday, Sept. 25th.

Many Christmas gifts can be purchased from the splendidly assorted stocks carried by Peterboro merchants, but there are other gifts of a more valuable and personal nature which require time and planning far ahead of Christmas week. Most popular in this latter class are "Photographs." No other gift is so personal, so appreciated or so appropriate. Your friends can buy anything you can give them except YOUR photograph. The field of giving is a wide one. From "Mother and Dad" to "the boy" away from home. From "Sis" in her new "coming out" gown, to brother "Bill." And then the "Baby"—the whole family wants to know what he looks like at six months. To open up a picture of "Her" on Christmas morning, is almost like having her with you herself. Let YOUR photograph carry Christmas cheer—the final touch that makes Christmas complete.

But here is the point of this little article. "Do it now." The quality that makes "Roy Portraits" so desirable is the product of time and care. Good photographs cannot be rushed. Every year dozens of late comers are disappointed because they cannot get their pictures in time for Christmas mailing. We are anxious to serve you to the best of our ability but we can only do this with your assistance and an early sitting. This week is not too early to arrange for an appointment. So many things may crop up later on—you'll feel better when you know that you have at least 12 Christmas problems settled.

Send Photographs this Christmas—the gift that only you can give.

LORD LONG ILL.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Lord Long is ill from pneumonia, and his condition is very grave.

Lord Long, who as Walter Hume Long was for many years a Conservative member of the House of Commons, and occupied Ministerial positions, was created a Viscount in 1921. He was Chief Secretary for Ireland, 1905-6, and Secretary of State for the Colonies from 1916 to 1918. Among other important public positions formerly occupied by Lord Long were: President of the Board of Agriculture, Parliamentary Secretary to the Local Government Board, President of the Local Government Board, and a Governor of Harrow School. He is 70 years of age.

MEN OF WEALTH IN CIVIC FRAUD

Hamilton Hears of Influences Attempting To Suppress Truth of Tax Frauds.

PUBLIC AROUSED.

HAMILTON, Sept. 25. — While Hamilton is aroused over reports that political, fraternal and other influences are at work to suppress the whole truth regarding the scandal in the civic taxation office arising from the alleged theft of taxes by a score or more of well-known citizens, word given out at the City Hall yesterday was that no action would be taken yet. Crown Attorney G. W. Ballard, in whose hands Mayor Jutten has placed the matter, declined to say if the Crown would wait until the auditors had gone over the whole million items in the tax office before making its expected move.

Opinion Divided.

It is understood that a division of opinion exists in the civic administration as to when action should be taken, some pressing for immediate arrests, while others counsel further delay and closer investigation. From the outset there has been in evidence an authoritative element at the City Hall which has set its face sternly against full publicity, but fast accumulation of wild rumors and suspicious gossip has been felt now as a rising public demand for the whole truth without reservations. The City Hall is a scene of feverish activity these days, as Mayor Jutten received daily reports from detectives, auditors and others.

"This is undoubtedly the worst scandal in the city's history," said Controller Tope, "and that is what we all think about it."

"Will the scandal be hushed?" is the question heard all over the city, despite statements of firm intention to get to the bottom of the mess from Mayor Jutten, controllers and aldermen. Hamilton streets are skeptical.

Many of those who have been paying half their taxes only in return for full receipts already have engaged lawyers to defend them. Further names of suspects were added to the list by auditors yesterday, and the prospects are that more than twenty will be involved now.

Peculiar Cases.

There are some peculiar cases, such as that of one citizen who may be innocent because his taxes were paid by his secretary.

"I haven't slept one night since this thing came out," said another fifty-fifty taxpayer to his counsel. There are rumors that several of those involved have departed hurriedly for the South. One of the most prominent doctors in the city is caught in the mess and there are business men involved whose per-

FRANCO-GERMAN COMMERCE PACT BEING DELAYED

Germany Disposed To Insist On Favored Nation Treatment—Herriot's Promise.

SOME AGREEMENT.

France Desires Extension of Time For Free Entry of Alsatian Products

PARIS, September 25 (Canadian Press). — Negotiation of a treaty of commerce between France and Germany is regarded by business circles in Paris as likely to be a long and laborious affair becuse of the disposition shown in Berlin to insist that Germany be accorded the most favoured nation treatment, and the anticipated resistance to French demands that the period in which products from Alsace-Lorraine be admitted to Germany, free of duty, be extended.

The French imposition of a 26 per cent. recovery duty on importations from Germany has complicated the situation. In addition the French manufacturers, notably the builders of railroad rolling stock and manufacturers of the other materials, have entered formal protests to the Government against any further facilities for the importation of railroad material and other steel and iron products from Germany.

Dumping Feared.

The key feature of the new accord is expected to be in the exchange of French iron ore for German coal and coke. It is thought there will be little trouble experienced in coming to an agreement on these products because of the mutual needs of the two countries. The pinch is expected to come on Germany's demand for favoured treatment on products which French industrial leaders say she is ready to dump on France in alarming quantities.

The first passage at arms, it is believed, will come over the French demand for an extension of the period during which products from Alsace-Lorraine, under the Treaty of Versailles, will be admitted free of duty by Germany.

The Germans, it is understood in well-informed circles here, have already intimated that in exchange for the favour of this extension they will want France to consent at the outset to the principle that Germany be accorded he most favoured nation treatment.

Herriot Embarrassed.

Premier Herriot is said to be embarrassed by the fact that declarations made by him on his return from the London conference to the effect that in exchange for concessions he made there he had received a promise of a favourable commerciay treay with Germany do not now accord with the spirit shown in Berlin. This fact is given in business circles as one of the principal reasons for the imposition of the 6 per cent. recovery tax on German importations.

The tax, it is argued, furnishes material for bargaining. It is estimated in German circles, however, that the delegates from Berlin demand that this tax be abolished before trade negotiations begin.

The phosphate question, which is already settled by private agreement will not come up. Aniline dyes, though, will be an important feature of the discussions. Notwithstanding France is now making more than nine-tenths of the dyes she consumes the other tenth is considered more important than all the rest because it is the most valuable and impossible to obtain elsewhere than in Germany.

Temporary Plan.

It is expected here that the French will, in view of the fact that the agreement is likely to require some time to elaborate, propose a terms modus vivendi whereby Alsatian products will continue to enjoy a German market and deliveries in kind on reparations be provided for pending the adoption of the final accord.

There are already rumours of a disagreement inside the French Cabinet as to the terms of the Franco-German treaty. These were officially denied yesterday, but they persist, nevertheless, in business circles where it is held that certain members of the Government feel that Premier Herriot went too far in promising the country favourable commercial arrangements with Germany.

Exclusive Bachelor Hotel Admits Women

NEW YORK, September 25.—"No woman's land" has passed. It was announced yesterday that the Shelton Hotel, thirty-two story bachelor citadel, on October 1st will open its doors to women. In explanation, the general manager, Chandler, said: "Men are not happy when there are no women around. We have found that the New York man does not want seclusion — from women. Why, he can't even digest his food after a few days of eating in a bachelor dining room."

The Shelton has been operated under the residential club plan.

JURY'S VERDICT IN POISON PLOT

Rev. L. M. Hight and Mrs. Sweetin Are Held Without Bond.

IN SEPARATE JAILS.

MOUNT VERNON, Ills., Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A coroner's jury at Ina yesterday ordered the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight and Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, confessed poison plotters, held without bond to the October grand jury.

As to the death of Wilford Sweetin, the jury found he "came to his death by means of arsenic, wilfully and maliciously administered by his wife, at the instigation of Hight, in conformity with an agreement between them to murder Sweetin." Mrs. Hight, the verdict stated, "came to her death by arsenic, administered with malice a forethought by her husband."

Jail bars and county boundaries yesterday separated the confessed poisoners. Mrs. Sweetin is in jail at Salem, twenty miles north of Mount Vernon, while Hight is in jail at Nashville, twenty-five miles west of here.

In the meantime county officials expressed interest in an announcement of identification of a photograph of a young woman found in the pastor's home, as that of Grace Elliott, who died at her home at Centerville, October 15, 1922, after seven weeks' illness pronounced as typhoid fever.

Village Stunned.

Ina, a village of 400, is stunned by the amazing tragedy involving its Methodist minister and its most beautiful woman. There is a mixture of sorrow, pity and anger.

Sorrow for a woman, respected and popular for many years as a dutiful wife and mother, who poisoned her husband for love of her pastor.

Anger for the man, Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, Methodist Episcopal circuit rider pastor, who poisoned his wife for love of the woman, Mrs. Elsie Sweetin.

Pity for the children, three of the pastor's and four of Elsie Sweetin's, all branded with the indelible stigma of the murders of their family.

Elsie Sweetin, handsome 34-year-old widow of Wilford Sweetin, whom she poisoned with arsenic last July, was much liked and respected. Her disposition was "nice." She was a good church member, a good

C.N.R. MENTIONED IN U.S. ELECTION BY BOTH SIDES

Extolled By Lafollette As Example Of Blessings Of Public Ownership.

THORNTON'S REGRET.

Railway Problems In Two Countries Are Mostly Different—No Comparison.

MONTREAL, September 25 (Canadian Press). — In an address delivered to the Chicago Terminal Committee, who were the guests of the Canadian National Railways at luncheon here yesterday, Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Canadian National Railways, took occasion to voice his regret that the C.N.R. should have been introduced as a factor in the dispute between the major political parties in the Federal election campaign in the United States.

After pointing out that the problem of success on the Canadian National Railways is almost entirely a problem of first increasing the population of the country to a strength sufficient to support the system, Sir Henry showed that this does not mean that the same problem faces the railways in the United States and that therefore the success or failure of the C.N.R. could not be used either as an argument for or against the nationalisation of the United States roads.

"I feel justified in making this statement," he said, "as there seems to be a tendency to draw the Canadian National Railways into the United States politics.

Blessed and Damned.

"Mr. Lafollette is holding up the Canadian National Railways as an example of the blessings of state ownership. Others are holding it up as a horrible example of the vices of state ownership. I rather deprecate that situation and I would be obliged if they would let me look after my own troubles and mind my own business."

Sir Henry went on to point out reasons why the state ownership of railways had taken place in various countries. He explained that in Europe it was a military reason, numerous conflicts making the railways an important adjunct of the military forces. Owing to the fact that Britain had not been invaded for many hundreds of years, railways in Great Britain were privately owned because their military value was considered secondary to their commercial value.

In Belgium they became state-owned though the fear that they would be controlled by Dutch capital under private ownership. In Canada and the United States they are largely privately owned because relatively both countries have been too poor to undertake their construction and the work was done by and left in private hands.

Canada's Problem.

Canada was forced into public ownership through a series of incidents which threatened various railways with bankruptcy and their

THE WEATHER

The freezing point was again reached last night, and another heavy white frost was to be seen this morning. The Northern Lights are once more flashing across the sky, and a particularly brilliant display was to be observed on Tuesday night, long quivering streamers of different colors stretching up toward the zenith. In the old school reader there were some verses on this celestial phenomena, one line of which was:

"Fearful lights that never beacon,
Save when kings and heroes die."

The author of the verses, however, lived where the northern lights were seldom seen, hence it's doleful prophecy. The origin or cause of these lights is not known for a certainty, but they are certainly not caused by the sun shining on the polar ice fields, as was at one time commonly believed. When a display is in progress in the north, a similar display is taking place at the south polar regions. Some have thought that our globe is a gigantic generator, and that at times an overcharge of electricity oozes out at the northern and southern magnetic poles, thus giving us these mysterious but beautiful displays. A few nights ago people living west of Toronto were favored with the sight of a beautiful lunar rainbow. It apparently was not noticed in this section.—W. P.

Who Knows Best? Think and Decide

FOR the most part the people who are circulating the reports that The Ontario Temperance Act is a failure, and that it cannot be enforced, are people who like their glass or bottle and who are finding it hard to get it. They will fill you up with all kinds of tales about the failure of the act if you will but give them the chance. But who knows best about the possibility of enforcing the law, those people or responsible public men who have had years of experience in the actual enforcement of the law?

THREE TESTIMONIES

Sir Wm. Hearst, Premier of Ontario, when the Ontario Temperance Act was passed:

Mr. J. D. Flavelle, of Lindsay, for many years chairman of the Ontario Board of License Commissioners, who had charge of the enforcement of the Act:

Hon. W. E. Raney, of Toronto, who for four years was Attorney General of Ontario:

All say that, everything considered, the Act has been well enforced. The Act has been improved and now is being better enforced than ever. Premier Ferguson says that if the O.T.A. is sustained on October 23, he will still further strengthen the Act and enforce it thoroughly

These men know what they are talking about. You can believe them.

ANOTHER TESTIMONY

Hon. E. C. Drury, ex-Premier of Ontario,—another authority—has recently added his testimony, He says:

"I have had a chance to see the working of the act from the centre of the Government responsible for its enforcement, and it is my settled conviction that the law is not only highly beneficial in every direction, but it as enforceable as any law with which the Province deals. No system of Government control can be so good."—Vote for The O.T.A.

GERMAN BONDS

The German Government Bonds are backed by material values. They are not to be classed with paper currency. These bonds have greatly advanced in value since last February, but some of them are still far below their real value, since the economic conditions of the country have improved.

If you have faith in the efforts being made by Great Britian and the United States to put Germany on its feet invest now, with the prospect of making very, very large profits.

RECORD CROWD AT A RURAL SCHOOL FAIR

Douro and Dummer Well Represented at Annual Event.

WARSAW, Sept. 25.—The annual school fair for the schools in the vicinity of Warsaw was held on September 19th, in Mr. Clarence Watt's field. Everyone present would surely join in the generally unanimous opinion that the fair was a decided success.

Due to the extraordinary day, the crowd was a record one. Representatives from, not only Douro and Dummer, but from the entire surrounding country, all united with that common enthusiasm and co-operation which alone insures success.

The interest of the parents was most inspiring. As a result all the exhibits were of rare quality, the results of untiring effort. All competitions were keen but everyone united with a spirit of good fellowship and real sportsmanship.

The exhibits were arranged before 2 p.m., when the judging began. The vegetables were of excellent quality, showing the gradual yearly improvement effected by Department of Agriculture through the schools. The judging was very marginal so that those winning did so only on minor points.

The writing, art, manual training and household science were of exceptional quality. The preparation of children for life is gradually becoming more efficient in proportion to the stress that is being placed on these subjects.

The most unique quality of the fair was the school parade. Led by the band, the schools marched once around the field in file. The effect was a marvel. To view so many of our younger generation moving about with such harmony and grace, was surely striking. S.S. No. 3, Dummer, was awarded first prize, which entitled them to the special prize of a first aid kit from Warsaw Women's Institute. Following closely was No. 6, Douro, which was awarded second prize.

The school parade was immediately followed by public speaking and singing contests. In the public speaking, Miss Marjorie Frankish of S.S. No. 6,Douro,defeated Master Ivan Drain of S.S. No. 3, Dummer, by a very small margin. Miss Alice Darling of S.S. No. 4, Dummer, carried away first prize in the singing contest.

Stock judging was an interesting feature of the fair. The quality, both of thoroughbred and grade classes, was very exceptional. The winners of the driving and weed naming contests will be announced later.

The sports committee arranged for a full line of sports. Children's races, teachers' races and trustees' races provided amusement for all. The relay race was won by S.S. No. 5, Dummer. Close competition marked the tug-of-war. S. S. No. 6, Douro, was named the winners, with S.S. No. 3, Dummer carrying a close second. The Warsaw team showed true sportsmanship in giving three cheers to their victors.

The Indian River girls softball team defeated the North Dummer team in a game staged in the afternoon. The best clown on the grounds was Wallace Anderson, who provided amusement for young and old. Hector Thompson, imitating "Spark Plug" was awarded second.

To conclude such a perfect day the Sports' Committee treated the children with a substantial quantity of candy.

ADDS TO MEAT LOAF

Your meat loaf will be more attractive to look at if you put a row of hard-boiled eggs through the center so when it is sliced a portion of egg will be in the centre of each.

WESTWOOD HAD A RURAL FAIR

Entry List Much Larger Than Last Year—List of Prize Winners.

WESTWOOD, September 24. — The Westwood Rural School Fair held yesterday afternoon was largely attended, and much interest was shown by the teachers, parents, and pupils.

Mr. F. C. McRae, of Norwood, district representative of the Department of Agriculture, was supervisor of the fair, and much credit is due the pupils in displaying such a large number of exhibits.

This year the entry list has increased from 25 to 40 per cent. over that if previous years, and it was estimated that over 550 entries were made.

A fine showing of work done by both the boys and girls was made, every class being well represented. The grain, corn, roots and vegetables would be a credit to any market gardener. The flowers, of which there were marigolds, phlox, asters, cosmos, and salpiglossis were beautiful, and were arranged in many beautiful nosegays.

The collection of weeds, seeds, native woods, insects and plant diseases displayed the artistic nature of the pupils.

A weed naming competition was held and the prize-winners were: 1, Flora Leeper, S. S. No. 9, Asphodel, 2, Helen Graham, S. S. No. 12, Asphodel, and 3, Marie Metcalf, S. S. No. 9, Asphodel. It was necessary to name twelve weeds shown contestants, and the most correct answers given by the prize-winners were ten.

Races for boys and girls, such as foot races, three-legged races, and wheel-barrow races, were held during the afternoon, while the judges were busy judging the various exhibits in the hall.

In the public speaking contest only one contestant gave a speech, she being Leta Slade, a pupil of Westwood School. The subject taken was that of "Mother," and much praise is due the speaker, as many speakers in public life and work have very often fallen down on this one point.

Four contestants were up on the platform for the singing contest, three girls and one boy. The first prize was awarded to Della Drummond of Westwood School, second prize to Joseph Waters, S. S. No. 9, Asphodel, and third prize to Jessie Graham of Westwood, S. S. No. 1.

The boys' driving contest was won by Morvyn Preston, of S. S. No. 9, Asphodel, John Hewie, S. S. No. 1 being second, and Charles Doherty, S. S. No. 6, Asphodel, third.

No entries were made for the girls' driving contest.

The prize for thae best halter-broken colt was won by Arnold Wood, S. S. No. 1, Otonabee.

Best halter-broken calf—1, Tommy Quinnlan, S. S. No. 4, Asphodel; 2, Guss Bolin.

The members of the board of directors for the Fair are:—Helen Heffernan, Roy Scott, Elizabeth Fitzgerald, Helen G. Graham, Annie Cameron, Kathleen Lynch, Edith Douglas, Dickie Heffernan, Arnold Wood.

Nine schools are included in the Westwood School Fair section namely, S.S. No. 1, Otonabee, S. S. No. 3, Otonabee, S.S. Nos 2, 4, 5, 6, 9, 12 of Asphodel.

How Fat Actress Was Made Slim

Many stage people now depend entirely upon Marmola Prescription Tablets for reducing and controlling fat. One clever actress tells that she reduced steadily and easily by using this new form of the famous Marmola Prescription, and now, by taking Marmola Prescription Tablets several times a year keeps her weight just right. All good druggists sell Marmola Prescription Tablets at one dollar for a box, or if you prefer, you can secure them direct from the Marmola Co., 4612 Woodward Ave., Detroit, Mich. If you have not tried them do so. They are harmless and effective.

ECZEMA ON FACE 2 YEARS

Itched and Burned. Scaled Off. Cuticura Healed.

"I was affected with ecsema which broke out on my face in a rash and itched and burned and then scaled off. It caused much discomfort. I had the trouble two or three years. I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment and they gave relief, and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was healed, in about four months." (Signed) Mrs. Fred Salisbury, Norton, New Brunswick, August 23, 1925.

Use Cuticura for every-day toilet purposes. Bathe with Soap, soothe with Ointment, dust with Talcum.

Sample Each Free by Mail. Address Canadian Depot: "Cuticura, P. O. Box 2616, Montreal." Price, Soap 25c. Ointment 25 and 50c. Talcum 25c. Try our new Shaving Stick.

HIGHWAY OPEN.

COBOURG, Sept. 25.—It is pleasing news to touring motorists to know that the Provincial Highway is now open from Oshawa east to Courtice, a distance of about four and a half miles. From Courtice east there is a detour into Bowmanville.

The opening of the road was marked by a community dance which was held at Courtice on Friday evening.

SLANDER.

A few Kentuckians are being arrested under the new state law against slander and malicious gossip.

If this were a national law and strictly enforced, nearly all of us would be in jail within 24 hours.

Of the many forms of cowardice, the foremost is saying behind a person's back what one wouldn't dare say to his face. Be a decent fellow, is a good slogan. Spike slanderous rumor. If it reaches you, let it go no farther.

FAGS.

Americans are smoking 65 cigarettes for every 58 used a year ago. One result will show up years hence—increased lung trouble, bronchitis and tuberculosis, also throat ailments. The cigarette is too easy to inhale. A safer smoke is the cigar—to inhale which requires leather lungs.

For this reason, it's a pity women —turning to tobacco—don't smoke cigars instead of fags. A confirmed cigarette smoker's lungs, dissected, are found saturated with tiny bits of carbon from inhaled smoke. This is health advice, not preaching.

Extra Vitality to Push You On

GRAPE-NUTS LUNCH SANDWICHES

1 cup Grape-Nuts, 6 hard-cooked eggs, chopped very fine, 2 tablespoons finely-chopped sweet pickles, 1 tablespoon chopped onion, 2 tablespoons finely-chopped celery, 2 tablespoons Chili sauce, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¾ cup thick Mayonnaise.

Mix the ingredients until they are well blended, and will spread easily. Use a silver knife and spread on buttered slices of graham bread. This recipe makes filling for eighteen sandwiches.

EVERY hour of the business day your body uses up a tremendous amount of energy—energy which was fresh when you left home in the morning. Look out for four o'clock then! Look out for the time when you feel like slowing up—when your mind becomes sluggish from the all-day grind. That's when you should be able to call on an extra supply of energy from the storehouse which is filled by only the most highly nourishing foods.

Grape-Nuts is the food you need. It's the most energizing food you can give your body. It's composed of whole wheat and malted barley—wonderfully efficient builders of strength and vitality. The goodness in Grape-Nuts is easily taken into the body, too, for a long process of slow baking concentrates all the food value of wheat and malted barley in a highly-energizing form.

Don't slow up at four o'clock! Push on right through till closing time. Start right away to build up your system so that you can do this. Have Grape-Nuts for breakfast tomorrow. It's the most vitalizing, delicious and economical food there is. Four teaspoonfuls with cream or milk are sufficient for each person and each Grape-Nuts package contains many such servings. Costs 1c per serving. Your grocer can supply you. Ask him for it.

Making wash day pleasant—

Just use Rinso where you used to use bar soap—for soaking, boiling, or in your washing machine.

THE hardest part of wash-day, rubbing, rubbing, rubbing, has given way to the new method of soaking the clothes clean with Rinso.

This wonderful new soap gently loosens the dirt and a thorough rinsing leaves things white and glistening as you never could get them before.

Only spots where the dirt is ground-in, such as neck bands, cuff edges, and the like need a light rubbing, and a little dry Rinso rubbed on these spots quickly makes the dirt disappear.

Rinso is sold by all grocers and department stores

SWEDEN HAPPY IN RESOURCES

Has Largest Population of Scandinavian Countries Budget Balanced.

FEW UNEMPLOYED.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 24.—By comparison with its neighbors, Sweden is the happiest of the Scandinavian countries.

It has the largest population. It has the biggest farming area. It has wonderful water power possibilities already largely developed. It has big iron ore resources. Its timber reserves are enormous. Its budget is balanced.

Unlike most of the countries in Europe, its currency, by comparison with the dollar, has maintained its pre-war status instead of being depreciated.

Housing Shortage.

But like its Scandinavian neighbors, Sweden is suffering from the endeavor of wages to overtake the high cost of living.

It, too, has a housing shortage. It, too, has suffered from business depression. It, too, has had an unemployment problem. And it, too, is unfavorably impressed by our immigration legislation.

The Swedes are "Nordics." They are, therefore, supposed to be welcome in our country. But, whereas in past times of business depression here as many as 20,000 Swedes entered America in one year, now the quota is rigidly fixed at 9,561.

Out on the farms the people resent this. In the big cities industrial leaders like it. If the young men are kept at home, there is a ready supply of labor when business picks up. It all depends upon whose ox is gored.

Fewer Unemployed.

In Sweden, as in all white men's countries, there has been a flow of people from the country to the cities. And a couple of years ago over 150,000 men were unemployed. This has since sunk to below 40,000, of whom 8,000 received public aid and 19,000 were put on relief works, such as road building.

Although Sweden is nearer to Russia than any of the Scandinavian countries, and although it has political relations with that country, the Bolshies have not been able to propagandize as they have in Norway.

They went up against a stone wall in the Swedish Social Democratic party, which is one of the strongest in Europe. Under the able statesman, H. H. Branting, who not long ago was Premier, the Social Democrats have held their own. Today in the Riksdag they are the strongest numerically in both Houses. Whereas the Communists make a pitiful showing—one member in the Upper and seven members in the Lower House.

Socialists Active.

The influence of the Socialists has been felt in wise legislation regarding the eight-hour day, accident insurance and old age insurance.

But where Sweden stands unique in the world is in its handling of the booze question. The laws are largely the invention of Dr. Ivan Bratt. Hence they are known as the Bratt system. The whole object has been to restrict drinking and at the same time take away from dealers the profit interest in the business.

The sale of spirits is limited to licensed companies, so-called system companies, which, according to the law, are not allowed to give their stockholders a dividend of more than 5 per cent. upon capital invested. Any surplus goes to the state and the municipality. Beverages containing more than 3.6 per cent. alcohol may not be sold for consumption off the premises, otherwise than directly from the shops of the system companies.

The right of purchase with regard to spirits and strong wines, containing more than 22 per cent. alcohol, is generally limited to a maximum of about four litres per month.

Use Control Books.

Such right of purchase is given to only one person in each family. In the case of individuals known as excessive drinkers, the right of purchase is either reduced or taken away entirely.

To facilitate control, each person allowed to purchase drink is given a control book, containing requisition forms, which are handed in at each purchase with the signature of the possessor. The right to purchase is limited to the particular shop for which the book has been issued.

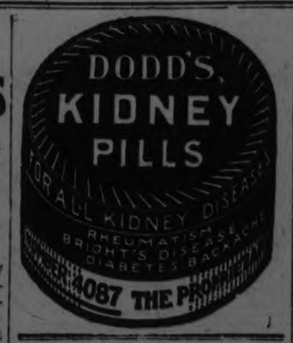
With regard to drinking on premises, this license is still given to private restaurant owners, but on conditions which make the economic interests of the restaurant as far as possible independent of the amount of booze consumed.

No guest may receive more than a fixed amount of liquor and even then the drink is served only in connection with meals.

BEHIND.

There's only one auto for every 36,800 people in China. The cause is cheap human labor—so cheap that machinery cannot compete with it as yet.

At that, though, China is only about 20 years behind America in the matter of autos. She is the greatest undeveloped trade market in the world. You'll probably live to see the time when more American goods will be sold in China than all Europe combined. An advantage is that the Chinese pay for what they get.



FARMERS BUSY PLOUGHING NOW

Interesting Budget of News From Petherick's Corners —Social Events.

PETHERICK'S CORNERS, Sept 25.—The farmers of this locality are busy turning over the soil and preparing the ground for the coming year, most of them having their full grain sown.

The township road gang under the direction of Mr. John Wallace are still repairing the roads near Stanwood, although they intend finishing up their work this week.

Prayer service was held as usual on Thursday evening with a fairly large crowd present, Mr. Morley Petherick's having charge of the meeting. The topic for the evening was taken by Rev. Chas. Daniels who discussed very minutely the coming plebiscite.

By means of a chart which gave many graphic views of the dominion statistics with regard to the results of government control in some of our wester provinces, he showed how far astray from the truth some of the wets are, when they stand up and tell of how government control reduces taxes and the cost of keeping up a police force and so on. He also said that the Ontario Temperance Act had done much to improve our own home cities and towns. One of the examples which he discussed was that of Peterboro, where he stated that statistics show that since 1914 the O.T.A. has reduced committment to jail for drunkeness and disorder, over 90 per cent, He closed his talk by warning the audience how to mark their ballot on October 23rd.

Gave A Shower

On Friday evening last a miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garnet Hay who have just recently returned from their honeymoon. A large crowd of young people were present and report having a splendid time The esteem in which the young people are held was shown by the magnificent array of handsome presents.

A rather serious accident occured on Sunday morning when Donald, the two-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Southworth unfortunately stumbled into the stairway and tumbled down a flight of steps to the floor. Dr. Loucks was immediately summoned and reported that no bones were broken although the little fellow was badly bruised.

Mr. Alfred Barnum is not recovering very rapidly from the injuries which he received last week from being thrown from his buggy while on his way to town.

The annual rally day service was held in Zion Church on Sunday evening with the church crowded to its capacity.

The church was very artistically decorated with flowers, flags and other emblems. The front seats were occupied by the different Sunday School classes who took part in the service. Besides the recitations, choruses and scripture readings given by the younger folk, Rev. Mr. Daniels gave a very interesting talk to the Sunday School taking them on an imaginary trip to China, Japan and many other Oriental countries and visiting the children of these eastern lands, seeing them in their daily activities and telling many interesting stories of these foreign people.

Mr. John Dewey received word on Monday morning of the death of his aunt, Mrs. Robert Dewey who resided in Marmora.

Miss Gladys Simpson was the guest of Miss Hazel Brown on Sunday.

Messrs Albert Petherick, William Petherick, Jr., William Forde, Fred Barnum and Alfred Barnum, motored to Warkworth on Monday evening last to attend a temperance meeting there.

Mr. J. D. Thomson left on Monday for Toronto where he will attend the normal school there. The community join in wishing him every success for the coming year.

Mr. and Mrs. James Potts of Campbellford spent Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Barnum.

Mrs. Thomas Chillman and family, who have been spending the holidays with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Scott, left on Saturday for their home in Toronto. Mr. Chillman returned some time ago.

Born—On Monday, to Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Petherick, a son.

Among those who spent the week-end under the parental roof were: Misses Gladys Spencer, Bessie Meiklejohn, Leah Mckeouin, Alma Simpson and Roy Barnum.

Mr. Dick Cole accompanied by some American campers motored out to Crow Bay one day last week and spent the afternoon fishing.

During the afternoon's catch Mr. Cole was successful in landing the largest lunge to be taken from the waters this season, it balancing the scales at 34 pounds.

Y.M.C.A. IS OFF ON WINTER WORK

Interior of Building Renovated and Improvements Made To Facilities.

GYM OPENS SOON.

Effective use has been made by the Y.M.C.A. authorities of the money at their command this year for renovating purposes. The interior of the old building has taken on a new appearance under the ministations of the painters, and structural improvements add to the advantages offered membess.—

The swimming pool appears in a new coat of glistening white that shines through the clear water and adds to the enjoyment of a plunge, while the walls have been painted an attractive shade that gives that section of the building an airy and fresh appearance. The locker room, hallways, and some of the dormitories have also been newly painted.

Popular as they were last winter, as was attested by the crowds that waited turns to play, the bowling alleys will this year provide amusement for hundreds more. They have been entirely re-surfaced over their regulation sixty feet in length and give ample room for exercise at a skillful game.

The big parlor of the "Y" presents its usual home-like atmosphere, with the wide open fireplace and comfortable chairs that have made it so well known. Above the fireplace is the bronze tablet that tells of the munificence of Mrs. Charlotte Nicholls, through whose generosity the building was provided, and to one side is the tablet commemorating the sacrifice in the Great War of "Y" members.

Activities Begin Soon.

With the winter season approaching, the Y.M.C.A. is gathering its forces for the busy season in gymnasium and class room. The business-men's gymnasium class opens on Monday, October 6, and already any new members are in prospect for this popular mode of relaxation and body-building.

The educational program will this year take on added features, and the well appreciated matriculation classes of last year will probably be extended. A number of those who took the course last winter were successful in passing the tests at the June matriculation examinations.

There is already apparent a big desire among the young men of the city to ling up with the "Y", and applications for membership are steadily rolling in. To supplement the influx the members brought by companions and attracted by the always stirring life of the "Y", a special canvas is being arranged to start on October 3.

Huge New Airplane Handled With Ease On First Test Flight

BROUGH, England, Sept. 24.—Great Britains' dreadnought of the air made its first flight recently from the airdrome which was the hopping-off field of the American world flyers when they left England for America by way of Iceland and Greenland.

The monster machine is said to be the most powerful single-engined airplane in the world. From wing-tip to wing-tip it measures 88 feet, stands 19 feet from the ground and from nose to tail is 54 feet. The plane was built to take the new 1,000 horsepower Napier Cub engine, claimed to be the most powerful air motor in existence. It has 16 cylinders, yet weights only 2,200 pounds. A railway locomotive developing the same power, weighs over 147,000 pounds.

Foreign air attaches came to Brough to see the trial flight of the "Cubaroo," as the plane is called. For a brief space the engine was run, and then with a great roar the plane taxied across the airdrome and was away into the air, with Flight Lieutenant Paul Bulman, one of the most daring pilots of the Roy al Air Force, in command. When the flight was ended Lieutenant Bulman said the air leviathan had handled as easily as a small plane. The response to the contral was wonderful and on landing there was no suggestion of the enormous size of the machine.

Some idea of the proportions of the plane is indicated by the fact that the single propellor is more than one and one-half times the size of a full-sized English billiard table. The tail alone is as large as an ordinary scouting plane. Two staircases from the central cabin lead to separate parts of the machine. One goes to the pilots' cockpit, which has accommodations for two, and the other gives access to a compartment behind the wings which may be used as a machine-gun tower.

The plane is without armament of any kind, but when being used for military purposes it will carry about three tons of bombs or torpedoes. The machine is ostensibly a three-seater, but there is accommodation in the cabin for a large crew, and the stairways make it possible for pilots and gunners alike to be relieved when the machine is in flight or even in action.

When produced in quantities the "Cubaroo" will be used to equip some of the units which are to form part of Great Britain's big home defense scheme, to become operative next year.

From the present activity in official circles, the inference is very strong that the authorities will not wait until the elaborate audit is completed before moving.

Hamilton's sad experience is regarded by many here as an ominous commentary upon the slipshod methods of accounting which are said to obtain in many municipalities, and it is declared that many other cities could, with profit, check up the careless methods of bookkeeping which offer golden opportunities to crooks.

abandonment, which would have worked a serious hardship upon the people of the country.

Sir Henry stated that the state ownership of railways in Canada had proved one thing. "We feel," he said, "that in Canada we have demonstrated conclusively that the officers and employees of a Government-owned railway can be just as efficient, just as loyal and just as enthusiastic as those of privately-owned railways, and the assertion that those who work for a state-owned railway become careless and inefficient is wrong. It depends entirely on how the railway is administered.

Use Canadian Grain.

In concluding his address, Sir Henry declared that he believed the day would soon come when the United States would cease to export wheat and would become dependent upon Canada for its main supplies of staple foodstuffs.

This he felt would be to the advantage of both countries.

HAS LIFE'S HARD KNOCKS TAKEN THE FIGHT OUT OF YOU

If You Are In Your Twenties or Your Sixties, Why Lag Behind Others? Your Housework a Burden—Your Job a Bore? Feel as Good, Look as Well and Be as Active as Nature Intended, Through New Natural Genuine Phospho-Cod Nerve, Blood and Body Building Tonic. That's Not Guesswork, But Judgment.

Weakness, Fatigue, Run Down, Coughs, Colds Mean Loss of Nerve Strength

Your brain is the central power house of your nervous system; thousands of nerves, the wires. They carry the messages—the energy. Your muscles do the work. But you're not one whit stronger than your nerves—they are the source of all your strength. Through overwork, worry, grief, colds, hardship and neglect you become generally run down, fail to get your regular sleep, find it hard to do your work, and are played out at night. Perhaps you're restless, irritable, nervous and fidgety over everything you do. Your internal organs seem to get out of gear, stomach fails to digest food, forming gas and your heart palpitates. You have mean little headaches sometimes like a band around your forehead, cramps in your neck or legs, are constipated. Food don't agree, won't assimilate, you have disagreeable feelings and weakness almost all over. You're so discouraged. Appears there's something wrong with the world—whereas, there's something the matter with you. You're one of those run-down, worn-out, tired, shattered, pepless, frazzled Canadians!

When Using Phospho-Cod You Notice—

First your appetite improves — Food smells and tastes good — Next you sleep better, awake refreshed, strengthened — If you had a cough or cold this soon disappears — Digestion is toned — Gas and bloating stops — Tissues nourished — There's pink in your cheeks — Soon you're in the pink of condition and the whole world looks rosy!

Put Pink In Your Cheeks; Get In The Pink of Condition Through Phospho-Cod Nerve, Blood and Body Building Tonic—Nature's Best Assistant.

Laugh and the world laughs with you, weep and you can enjoy "the blues" all by your lonesome. If you're a woman you no doubt sometimes feel like crying over it and possibly do occasionally. If you're a man you generally swear or at least feel like it. You say "nothing I take seems to help me—if I could only get something to brace me up." You must remember building health and strength is a natural process. In Phospho-Cod has been brought together a vital combination of elements needed to assist perfect nutrition and create a superior building tonic containing the vital hypophosphites of Lime — Manganese — Potassium — Sodium — Quinine and Strychnia which supply required mineral salts for nerve, bone and other body structure. Phospho-Cod also contains the essential valuable soluble extractives of Cod Livers prepared in such a manner as to be pleasant in taste and entirely free from the offensive odor and disagreeable taste usually present in Cod Liver preparations. These nutritive elements are next combined with the Extracts of Malt, Wild Cherries and Blood Root to which are then added Pure Glycerine, Pepsin and delicious, appetizing Port Wine. This new and original formula represents a most effective, pleasant tasting Tonic and System Builder of the highest pharmaceutical standard of excellence, strength, purity and accuracy possible. A product which is being rapidly adopted and prescribed by representative physicians everywhere because of its reliability, efficacy and safety.

MRS. KNOX SUFFERED FOR OVER THREE YEARS

St. John Lady Was Nervous And Had Severe Indigestion That Caused Intense Pain.

"It has been nearly two years since I took Tanlac, but I am more grateful to the medicine than ever, for I have felt just fine to this very day," declared Mrs. Lena Knox, 51 Hilliard St., St. John, N. B.

"For three years, indigestion and nervousness caused me such agony it beggars description. I was actually afraid to eat; at night I would lie awake nervous and sleepless for hours, and finally became so weak and thin I was almost a shadow.

"But Tanlac gave me a splendid appetite, calm nerves and a digestion that is simply perfect. I sleep the whole night through and have gained such weight, strength and energy that I always feel at my best."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold.

FINE WEATHER AT RURAL FAIR

South Hope Rural School Fair Was a Big Success.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 25.—Fine weather favored the South Hope Rural Fair held at Welcome on Tuesday afternoon, upwards of four hundred people being in attendance. The school grounds were well filled and everyone entered heartily into the enthusiasm an pleasure of the occasion.

Colonel J. W. Odell and Captain F. W. McMahon of Port Hope, were judges for the school parade and the physical culture exercises, the former's inspectorate including the nine schools belonging to the South Hope district. The schools and teachers are as follows: No. 1, Port Britain, Miss Rock; No. 2, Wesleyville, Miss Edna Hill; No. 3, Dale, Miss A. Bonner; No. 4, Welcome, Miss M. Woodger; No. 5, Morrish, Miss Knapp; No. 6, Zion, Miss Mary Hatherly; No. 7, Pine Grove, Miss G. Gist; No. 8, Kendal, Miss McArthur; No. 8, Bunker Hill, Miss K. Ramsey.

As is usual at such events, the drills, uniforms, school yells, choruses, etc., were well done and reflected much credit upon the teachers' originality in planning, and their careful training and perseverance in bringing about such excellent results. Prize winners were:

School parade—Nos. 4 and 9, Welcome and Bunker Hill tied for first place; 2, No. 3, Dale; 3, No. 2, Wesleyville.

Physical culture—1, No. 4, Welcome; 2, No. 2, Wesleyville; 3, No. 8, Kendal.

In the prize winning events listed below the names appear in order of merit, the first name being for first prize, the second name for second prize, and so on.

Public speaking—Forrest Inch, Edgar Nichol, Tom Quick, Jean Hawkins, Norma Dickinson and Mary Finnie and Kate Becket a tie.

Gas on Stomach Made Her Nervous

For 12 years Mrs Cook had gas on the stomach and was nervous and short of breath. Finally she took simple glycerine buckthorn bark etc., as mixed in Adlerika, and it did her a world of good. Most medicines act only on lower bowel but Alderika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowel and brings out all gases and poisons. Helps any case gas on the stomach in TEN minutes. McDermid & Jury and E. RUMANIA DISCOURAGES GOATS.

SOFIA, Sept. 25.—The sheep and goat census for the current year shows that there is a pair of sheep, or a sheep and a goat, for every man, woman and child in Bulgaria, with a part of a sheep or a goat to spare.

Sheep, however, are much preferred to goats by the Bulgarian government. The reason is that goats, feeding on the fresh, young tops of shrubs and small trees, apparently are eating the country bare of forests. Hence steps are being taken to discourage their increase.

CHAPTER XIX (cont'nued)

He stood a moment at gaze, his attitude haughty, his face expressionless; then slowly he advanced. He was dressed in a short white caftan that descended to his knees, and was caught about his waist in a shimmering girdle of gold that quivered like fire in the glow of the torches as he moved. His arms from the elbow and his legs from the knee were bare, and his feet were shod with gold-embroidered red Turkish slippers. He wore a white turban decked by a plume of osprey attached by a jewelled clasp.

He signed to the Nubians, and they vanished silently, leaving him alone with his captives.

He bowed to Rosamund.

"This, mistress," he said, "is to be your domain henceforth—which is to treat you more as wife than slave. For it is to Moslem wives that the housetops in Barbary are alloted. I hope you like it."

Lionel staring at him out of a white face, his conscience bidding him fear the very worst, his imagination painting a thousand horrid fates for him and turning him sick with dread, shrank back before his half-brother, who scarce appeared to notice him just then.

But Rosamund confronted him, drawn to the full of her splendid height, and if her face was pale yet it was as composed and calm as his own; if her bosom rose and fell to betray her agitation, yet her glance was contemptuous and defiant, her voice calm and steady, when she answered him with the question—

"What is your intent with me?"

"My intent?" said he with a little twisted smile.

Yet for all that he believed he hated her and sought to hurt, to humble and to crush her, he could not stifle his admiration of her spirit's gallantry in such an hour as this.

"My intent is not for you to question," he replied. "There was a time, Rosamund, when in all the world you had no slave more utter than was I. Yourself in your heartlessness, and in your lack of faith, you broke the golden fetters of that servitude. You'll find it less easy to break the shackles I now impose on you."

She smiled her scorn and quiet confidence. He stopped close to her.

"You are my slave, do you understand?—bought in the market-place as I might buy me a mule, a goat, or a camel—and belonging to me body and soul. You are my property, my thing, my chattel, to use or abuse, to cherish or break as suits my will, holding your very life at my good pleasure."

She recoiled a step before the dull hatred that throbbed in his words, before the evil mockery of his swarthy, bearded face.

"You beast!" she gasped.

"So now you understand the bondage into which you are come in exchange for the bondage which in your own wantonness you dissolved."

"May God forgive you," she panted.

"I thank you for that prayer," said he. "May He forgive you no less."

And then from the background came an inarticulate sound, a strangled, snarling sob from Lionel.

Sakr-el-Bahr turned slowly. He eyed the fellow a moment in silence, then he laughed'

"Ha My sometime brother. A pretty fellow, as God lives, is it not? Consider him, Rosamund. Behold how gallantly misfortune is borne by this pillar of manhood upon which you would have leaned, by this stalwart husband of your choice. Look at him Look at this dear brother of mine."

Under the lash of that mocking tongue Lionel's mood was stung to anger where before it had held naught but fear.

"You are no brother of mine," he retorted fiercely. "Your mother was a wanton who betrayed my father."

Sakr-el-Bahr quivered a moment as if he had been struck. Yet he controlled himself.

"Let me hear my mother's name but once again on thy foul tongue, and I'll have it ripped out by the roots. Her memory, I thank God, is far above the insults of such a crawling thing as you. None the less, take care not to speak of the only woman whose name I reverence."

And then, turning at bay, as even the rat will do, Lionel sprang upon him, clawing hands outstretched to his throat. But Sakr-el-Bahr caught him in a grip that bent him howling to his knees.

'You find me strong, eh?" he gibed. Is it matter for wonder? Consider that for six endless months I toiled at the oar of a galley, and you'll understand what it was that turned my body into iron and robbed me of a soul."

He flung him off, and sent him crashing into the rosebush and the lattice over which it rambled.

"Do you realize the horror of the rower's bench?—to sit day in day out, night in night out, chained naked to the oar, amid the reek and stench of your fellows in misfortune, unkempt, unwashed save by the rain, broiled and roasted by the sun, festering with sores, lashed and cut and scarred by the boatswain's whip as you faint under the ceaseless, endless cruel toil?

"Do you realize it?" From a tone of suppressed fury his voice rose suddenly to a roar. "You shall. For that horror which was mine by your contriving shall now be yours until you die."

He paused; but Lionel made no attempt to avail himself of this. His courage all gone out of him again, as suddenly as it had flickered up, he cowered where he had been flung.

"Before you go there is something else," Sakr-el-Bahr resumed, "something for which I have had you brought hither tonight.

"Not content with having delivered me to all this, not content with having branded me a murderer, destroyed my good name, filched my possessions and driven me into the very path of hell, you must further set about usurping my place in the false heart of this woman I once loved.

"I hope," he went on reflectively, "that in your own poor way you love her, too, Lionel. Thus to the torment that awaits your body shall be added torment for your treacherous soul—such torture of mind as only the damned may know. To that end I have brought you hither. That you may realize something of what is in store for this woman at my hands; that you may take the thought of it with you to be to your mind worse than the boatswain's lash to your pampered body."

"You devil!" snarled Lionel. "Oh, you fiend out of hell."

"If you will manufacture devils, little toad of a brother, do not upbraid them for being devils when next you meet them."

"Give him no heed, Lionel!" said Rosamund. "I shall prove him as much a boaster as he has proved himself a villain. Never think that he will be able to work his evil will."

"'Tis you are the boaster there," said Sakr-el-Bahr. "And for the rest, I am what you and he, between you, have made me."

"Did we make you a liar and coward?—for that is what you are indeed," she answered.

"Coward?" he echoed, in genuine surprise. "'Twill be some lie that he has told you with the others. In what, pray, was I ever a coward?"

"In what? In this that you do now; in this taunting and torturing of two helpless beings in your power."

"I speak not of what I am," he replied, "for I have told you that I am what you have made me. I speak of what I was. I speak of the past."

She looked at him and she seemed to measure him with her unwavering glance.

"You speak of the past?" she echoed, her voice low. "You speak of the past and to me? You dare?"

"It is that we might speak of it together that I have fetched you all the way from England; that at last I may tell you things I was a fool to have kept from you five years ago; that we may resume a conversation which you interrupted when you dismissed me."

"I did you a monstrous injury, no doubt," she answered him, with bitter irony. "I was surely wanting in consideration. It would have become me better to have smiled and fawned upon my brother's murderer."

"I swore to you then that I was not his murderer," he reminded her in a voice that shook.

"And I answered that you lied."

"Aye, and on that you dismissed me—the word of the man whom you professed to love, the word of the man to whom you had given your trust weighing for naught with you."

"When I gave you my trust," she retorted, "I did so in ignorance of your true self, in a headstrong wilful ignorance that would not be guided by what all the world said of you and your wild ways. For that blind wilfulness I have been punished, as perhaps I deserved to be."

"Lies—all lies!" he stormed. "Those ways of mine—and God knows they were none so wild, when all is said— I abandoned when I came to love you. No lover since the world began was ever so cleansed, so purified, so sanctified by love as was I."

"Spare me this at least!" she cried on a note of loathing.

"Spare you?" he echoed. "What shall I spare you?"

"The shame of it all; the shame that is ever mine in the reflection that for a season I believed I loved you."

He smiled.

"If you can still feel shame, it shall overwhelm you ere I have done. For you shall hear me out. Here there are none to interrupt us, none to thwart my sovereign will. Reflect then, and remember. Remember what a pride you took in the change you had wrought in me. Your vanity welcomed that flattery, that tribute to the power of your beauty. Yet, all in a moment, upon the paltriest grounds, you believed me the murderer of your brother."

"The paltriest grounds?" she cried, protesting almost despite herself.

"So paltry that the justices at Truro would not move against me."

"Because," she cut in, "they accounted that you had been sufficiently provoked. Because you had not sworn to them as you swore to me that no provocation should ever drive you to raise your hand against my brother. Because they did not realize how false and how forsworn you were."

He considered her a moment. Then he took a turn on the terrace. Lionel crouching ever by the rose tree was almost entirely forgotten by him now

"God give me patience with you!" he said at length. "I need it. For I desire you to understand many things this night. I mean you to see how just is my resentment; how just the punishment that is to overtake you for what you have made of my life and perhaps of my hereafter. Justice Baine and another who is dead knew me for innocent."

"They knew you for innocent?" There was scornful amazement in her tone. "Were they not witnesses of the quarrel betwixt you and Peter and of your oath that you would kill him?"

"That was an oath sworn in the heat of anger. Afterwards I bethought me that he was your brother."

"Afterwards?" said she. "After you had murdered him?"

"I say again," Oliver replied calmly 'that I did not do this thing."

"And I say again that you lie."

He considered her for a long moment; then he laughed.

"Have you ever," he asked, "known a man to lie without some purpose? Men lie for the sake of profit; they lie out of cowardice or malice, or else because they are vain and vulgar boasters. I know of no other causes that will drive a man to falsehood, save that—ah yes!—" and he flashed a sidelong glance at Lionel—"save that sometimes a man will lie to shield another, out of self-sacrifice. There you have all the spurs that urge a man to falsehood. Can any of these be urging me tonight? Reflect! Ask yourself what purpose I could serve by lying to you now. Consider further that I have come to loathe you for your unfaith; that I desire naught so much as to punish you for that and for all its bitter consequences to me; that I have brought you hither to exact payment from you to the uttermost farthing. What end then can I serve by falsehood?"

"All this being so, what end could you serve by truth?" she countered.

"To make you realize to the full the injustice that you did. To make you understand the wrongs for which you are called to pay. To prevent you from conceiving yourself a martyr; to make you perceive in all its deadly bitterness that what now comes to you is the inevitable fruit of your own faithlessness."

"Sir Oliver, do you think me a fool?" she asked him.

"Madam, I do—and worse," he answered.

"Aye, that is clear," she agreed scornfully, "since even now you waste breath in attempting to persuade me against my reason. But words will not blot out facts. And though you talk from now till the Day of Judgment no word of yours can efface those bloodstains in the snow that formed a trail from that poor murdered body to your own door; no word of yours can extinguish the memory of the hatred between him and you, and of your own threat to kill him; nor can it stifle the recollection of the public voice demanding your punishment. What had you to set against all that, to convince me that your hands were clean, to induce me to keep the troth which—God forgive me—I had plighted to you?"

"My word," he answered her in a ringing voice.

"You lie," she amended.

"Do not suppose," said he, "that I could not support my word by proofs if called upon to do so."

"Proofs?" She stared at him, wide-eyed a moment. Then her lip curled.

"And that no doubt was the reason of your flight when you heard that the Queen's pursuivants were coming in response to the public voice to call you to account."

He stood at gaze a moment utterly dumfounded.

"My flight?" he said. "What fable's that?"

"You will tell me next that you did not flee. That is another false charge against you?"

"So," he said slowly, "it was believed I fled!"

And then light burst upon him, to dazzle and stun him. It was so inevitably what must have been believed, and yet it had never crossed his mind. Oh, the damnable simplicity of it! At another time his disappearance must have provoked comment and investigation, perhaps. But, happening when it did, the answer to it came promptly and convincingly, and no man troubled to question further. Thus was Lionel's task made doubly easy, thus was his own guilt made doubly sure in the eyes of all.

His head sank upon his breast. What had he done? Could he still blame Rosamund for having been convinced by so overwhelming a piece of evidence? Could he still blame her if she had burned unopened the letter which he had sent her by the hand of Pitt? What else indeed could any suppose, but that he had fled? And that being so, clearly such a flight must brand him irrefutably for the murderer he was alleged to be. How could he blame her if she had ultimately been convinced by the only reasonable assumption possible?

A sudden sense of the wrong he had done rose now like a tide about him.

"My God!" He groaned like a man in pain. "My God!"

"What else, indeed, could you believe?" he muttered brokenly, thus giving some utterance to what was passing through his mind.

"Naught else but the whole vile truth," she answered fiercely, and thereby stung him anew, whipped him out of his sudden weakening back to his mood of resentment and vindictiveness.

She had shown herself, he thought in that moment of reviving anger, too ready to believe what told against him.

"The truth?" he echoed, and eyed her boldly now. "Do you know the truth when you see it? We shall discover. For by God's light you shall have the truth laid stark before you now, and you shall find it hideous beyond all your hideous imaginings."

There was something so compelling how in his tone and manner that it drove her to realize that some revelation was impending. She was conscious of a faint excitement, a reflection perhaps of the wild excitement that was astir in him.

"Your brother," he began, "met his death at the hands of a false weakling whom I loved, towards whom I had a sacred duty. Straight from the deed he fled to me for shelter. A wound he had taken in the struggle left that trail of blood to mark the way he had come."

ELECTRIC RAY TO RESTORE HEALTH SOUGHT BY SCIENTIST

DR. JOHN CLAWSON BURNETT AND HIS OSCILLOCLAST. ABOVE, DR. BURNETT'S "CASTLE" WHERE HE CONDUCTS HIS EXPERIMENTS.

ALPINE, N.J., Sept. 24.—From the queer doorways of the white, cubist shaped "mystery laboratory" of the Jersey Palisades there has stepped a young scientist with what he believes to be the key to the fountain of health.

Dr. J. Clawson Burnett is his name, and, with J. H. Hallberg, an engineer, he has been for two years carrying on secret experimentations seeking a fundamental electrical law governing life.

They have tried to prove the practicability of the atomic theory as applied to the human body.

In this respect the laboratory seems to have been haunted by the ghost of the late Dr. Albert Abrams of San Francisco, whose electronic reaction machines created a furor in medical circles. A scientific American investigation declared it impractical shortly after Abram's death.

But Dr. Burnett has contrived a new oscilloclast, designed to heal disease by electric force, and has had the co-operation of an expert electrical engineer. They are going to demonstrate their device before scientists in Chicago and invite strictest investigation.

Dr. Burnett declares he has no commercial interest. He is quite wealthy. If science declares his device to be valuable the world is welcome to it.

"In constructing our machine we worked on the theory that light is of primary importance," he explained. "Therefore vibrations are of primary importance. I think we are at liberty to assume that the whole body is affected by light—or electromagnetic waves.

"I think that in time we will be able to diagnose and cure disease by these electromagnetic vibrations. Medicine, with all due respect to it, is still an art. By means of electricity we hope to make exact diagnosis and cure by exact science. We hope to find a fundamental law governing life.

"We have no idea that we can end disease. Man is too well satisfied with the way he lives to make that possible."

NEW AIRSHIP ON A TRIAL FLIGHT

ZR-3 Will Be Flown To America From Germany After Tests Complete.

CROSS IN OCTOBER.

(By Carl D. Groat—United Press Staff Correspondent).

BERLIN, Sept. 25. — The ZR-3 tilted her slim nose up into a hazy sky to-day for an endurance test that will keep the new Zeppelin out for more than 24 hours.

Commander Eckener, who will fly the newest and finest of German airships to America, and deliver it to the United States next month, steered the giant craft towards Lake Constance, where a series of radio tests were conducted. Experiments were made in determining by wireless the height and general position of the Zeppelin. Later the ship was headed northward, where it was to spend the night soaring over the Baltic, returning to Hamburg and Berlin to-morrow.

The start to-day was to have been made at 7 a.m., but was delayed for two hours. Meteorological reports for the past ten days had been unfavorable, but Captain Eckener decided to go up any way.

It is possible that the ZR-3 may start across the Atlantic about the time that the Shenandoah, queen of the American air fleet, is making a coast-to-coast speed test.

Martial Law Proclaimed To Preserve Property Following Flood

STREETS LIKE LAKES.

LENINGRAD, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—Martial law has been declared here owing to the serious condition brought about by the flood due to the heavy gale of Tuesday. Early this morning the flood waters still remained nine feet above normal but they were showing a tendency to subside.

Militia, firemen and regular soldiers, together with vigilance committees, are preserving order. Great ware houses along the waterfront have been damaged by the flood.

In the adjacent streets the water raeched the second floors of buildings. Many sections of the City of Leningrad are completely isolated Relief work on a large scale has been organized. Telegraphic and telephonic communication with Moscow has been suspended. The Neva River went over its banks five or six feet. Water in the great arterial canal system which intersects the city had risen more than ten feet. Electric power failed and the city was in complete darkness. Train, trolley, telephone and telegraph services were paralyzed. Vehicular traffic was impeded and the famous Nevasky Prospekt resembled a Venetian scene. The big Mareensky Opera house was completely inundated and the broad square in front of the winter palace was like a vast lake. Many roofs were carried away and trees uprooted by the violent winds which at times assumed cyclonic fury. Nineteen deaths have thus far been reported and property damage is enormous.

Lang's.—S. Connell, F. Lowe, T. McConnell, C. Rutherford.

The Omemee committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Lamb on Wednesday evening to further organize.

FLAG.

Germany regaining her Argentine trade, says a headline. She had second place in ocean-carrying trade of this big South American country before the war. England, former leader, still is. Germany and Italy are racing for second place. The American flag is lagging in the contest. As sailors Americans again are on the wane. Interest is in the interior, westward. Proof of this is the popularity of western stories in fiction and movies.

Canadian homes are so well heated in the fall and winter months that many people feel more comfortable in comparatively light weight underwear. In fact they would be hot indoors with heavy knit wear. And so they often risk health in garments other than pure wool.

JAEGER pure wool underwear is manufactured in grades so light and soft that the feel is like silk. On a biting day in winter these garments give you protection. They conserve your vitality. Indoors they are light and cool.

Shrunken garments replaced free. Full instructions for washing pure wool in each attractive, illustrated catalogue. Also complete list of Agents. Write for one.

As it was Belleville got none of ...e breaks yesterday and the "if" ...ounds have material enough to keep ...e Stove League going all winter.

For example, IF Meagher had ...andled a second base pivoting play ...n the first inning more smartly ...with a double killing in sight Oslers ...run total would have been reduced ...by two.

And IF "Babe" Casey, and Weir who was coaching at third base at the time, had kept their heads up in the fourth inning Belleville would have scored another run.

The two "if's" you see represent all the difference between an Osler win by 4 to 2 and a Belleville victory by 3 to 2.

On the other hand Oslers earned all four of their markers while one of the two Belleville runs was a gift by second baseman Fleming.

As was expected Jack Oulette and 'Digger' Joe Spring were the rival pitchers and honors were fairly even. The greatest difference between the two perhaps lay in the ability of the Osler pitcher to solve his rival's delivery. Spring drove in two of his team's four runs, just the margin by which Oslers won while his two hits represented the difference between the hit columns of the two teams.

Hitting Was Light.

Neither pitcher was hit hard, although both were shy of control. Spring allowed but five hits, walked three and hit one, while Oulette was touched for seven safeties, gave four bases on balls and hit a batter. It was one of the breaks of the game that none of Spring's complimentaries helped Belleville while two of the five Oulette passed to first completed the circuit.

The much advertised Osler slugging was not in evidence. Breen's triple was the only extra base hit made by the winners and Hughes, Egan, Dodds, Jones and Benson all went hitless.

The Oslers are a smart looking ball club but they are not the wonderful machine the Toronto press agents picture. Belleville outfielded them yesterday and there was not much to pick between the two outfits.

Fielding Was Good.

The fielding was good all the way although no sensational plays cropped up. Weir handling eight chances perfectly stood out for Belleville and Breen the Osler shortstop, performed nicely, despite an error on his second chance. Dodds' catch of Williams' long fly to centre in the eighth was perhaps the classiest effort of the day.

A mighty crowd, somewhere between 3000 and 4000 people and representing every page of "Who's Who in Baseball" in this section of Ontario, saw the battle. They seemed to be equally divided, so far as allegiance went and there was plenty of support for both clubs.

A Bad Start.

As usual Oulette got away badly. In the three games against Oslers he has been scored on fourteen times and eleven of those counters were registered in the first frame.

In yesterday's tussle Fleming opened up on him with a single to centre and then he hit Hughes. He went to work on Egan and fanned the Osler third baseman and when Burt rapped sharply to Weir the inning should have been over. It was a double play ball if ever one was hit and Weir fielded it cleanly and tossed to Meagher, forcing Hughes, but Meagher handled the play so slowly that Burt beat his lob throw to first. This delay was costly for Joe Breen slammed a triple to deep left field, scoring Fleming and Hughes. Dodd's fly to Ross ended the inning.

Nippy Jones, former Leaside outfielder was first up for Oslers in the second and drew a walk. Benson sacrificed him to second and he caught Mills cold with a theft of third. This good base running put him in position to score easily on Spring's short single to right. Fleming forced Spring and Hughes hoisted a fly to Oulette.

Belleville filled the bases in the third on a pass to Casey, Ross's single to right and a dead ball on Dennis Mills, but with two out Barry Mills rolled weakly to second.

Get Two in Fourth.

...me back in the fourth with two and should have had another. Hagerman gave the inning a bad start by striking out but Williams slammed a long triple to left and Meagher promptly scored him by slicing a single past Joe Breen. Casey drew his second—he got three all told. Oulette failed to help his own cause, looking demurely at a perfect third strike as it sped over the plate. Ross rolled an easy one to Fleming who obligingly let it roll through and Meagher scored. Casey went to third and on the throw in Ross broke for second. Benson's throw to the keystone sack was low and bounced away to one side. Casey should have scored easily but remained on third and watched Weir strike out.

From then on the pitchers had the whip hand. Spring had to pitch to more than three men only once in the last five sessions. Weir singled with one out in the seventh and after W. Mills had fouled to Hughes, stole second. A hit then would have sewed up the game but Harry Mills lined one into Jones' hands for the third out.

Oulette held Oslers almost as tightly allowing but two hits after the fourth.

He was in danger in the seventh when with two out Meagher made the only Belleville error of the game and Burt followed with a single through short, bringing the hard hitting Breen up. His best was a high fly which Weir took nicely.

Oslers however nailed down the game in the eighth and again it was the good eye and the fleetness of foot of Joe Spring that did the trick. There was one out when Jones drew a walk and stole second. Benson popped to Weir. Spring, however, drove a long single to centre scoring Jones after which Fleming struck out.

COLBORNE LOSE THEIR STANDING

Third Baseman Bilcox Declared Ineligible, and Games Thrown Out.

LAND AT BOTTOM.

WARKWORTH, September 24. — The executive of the Northumberland County Baseball League, met at Warkworth in the Community Hall, on Tuesday evening, to consider the protest of the Hastings club against Bilcox, the Colborne third baseman.

The claim was that he was not eligible to play, not having a certificate in this league. Casey Myles, the Colborne manager, claimed that he had signed Bilcox after the season started and had given the application to Mr. Gale, the club secretary, and that Mr. Gale must have neglected to forward it to Mr. Lapp, the league secretary.

Colborne were ordered to produce all their certificates at this meeting, and the one of Bilcox was not produced and as Mr. Gale was not theer to defend himself it was not clear in the minds of the executive that Colborne had ever signed Bilcox.

Mr. Wellman stated that at the game in Hastings a Colborne man had shown him a certificate with Bilcox's name, and also the name of the league secretary, but the Colborne representatives claimed they had no knowledge of any such certificate.

Mr. Lapp claims that he never signed such a certificate, and his word of honor was accepted.

Considerable discussion took place and finally the president, Dr. McKee appointed a committee of three to deal with the protest, namely, Chas. Davidson, Campbellford, Kary Zufelt, Orland, and C. W. Varcoe, of Roseneath.

After about ten minutes deliberation the committee returned, and Mr Varcoe, the chairman, reported that they had found Bilcox ineligible to play with Colborne, and consequently ordered the games won by Colborne with Bilcox in the line-up to be awarded as a win to the opposing teams, and the league standing figured on that basis.

This was done and the standing resulted:

	Won.	Lost	To play.
Hastings	7	2	1
Brighton	7	2	1
Orland	7	3	0
Roseneath	5	5	0
Campbellford	4	6	0
Colborne	1	9	0

Play at Campbellford.

Hastings and Brighton were ordered to play their other game, a protested fixture, at Campbellford, on Monday, September 29th, and the winner declared winners of the second half. The victors are to meet Roseneath, champions of the first half in either Brighton or Hastings on Wednesday, October 1st and in Roseneath on Saturday, October 4th.

Calborne had undisputed championship of the second half previous to this meeting, and it is a hard slap on them but it teaches everybody the lesson that this league is going to live up to its constitution, and also to the O.B.A. rules and regulations.

PIRATES AGAIN LOSE TO GIANTS

Pittsburgh's Pennant Chance Practically Wrecked — New York Flash.

BROOKLYN WIN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 24.—Battling forward with an irresistible rush with their fourth straight pennant in sight, the New York Giants today sent Pittsburgh down to defeat for the second successive time, 4 to 2. It was a crushing and probably decisive blow to the pennant hopes of the Pirates, who now are three and a half games behind the champions. They have a mathematical chance only to catch the leaders and it is a slim one.

The makeshift team, with which John McGraw is making his last stand is one of the most hectic campaigns in diamond history, again the fine twirling of Virgil Barnes, young right hander, the Giants played in sparkling fashion on the defense and made the most of their opportunities on the attack.

Braves Win Two

BOSTON, Sept. 24.—Boston took both games from Cincinnati to-day in a twin bill there, dropping, the Reds from the first division. The score of the first game was 7 to 6. Genewich made three singles and a double in four times at bat. The Braves, giving Barnes better support than Cincinnati accorded Sheehan, won the second game, 5 to 3.

LEGON AT QUEEN'S.

Regarded As Strong Candidate For Outside Wing Job.

KINGSTON, Ont., Sept. 24.—Writing about Queen's football team the Whig sporting editor yesterday said: "'Red' Legon, the erstwhile Peterboro left fielder, is back at College with his chin stuck out and fire in his eyes. Some Rugby seniors are going to be pretty badly crowded in their positions or we miss a guess. Things don't look this over: Flying Wing McLeod, Halves Batstone, Leadley, G. McKelvey, Quarter Baldwin, Centre Lewis, Insides Muirhead, Delehay, Airth, Middles McKelvey, Reynolds, Adams, Outsides Bond, Thomas, Frank McKelvey, 'Red' Legon."

COOPER WAS A COMEBACK

Pirate Pitcher Has Been Big Winner This Year.

PITTSBURGH, Sept. 24.—When it comes to showing complete reversals in form, the old laurel twig must be handed Wilbur Cooper, Pittsburgh hurler. Cooper surely is in a class by himself.

In 1922 Cooper ranked as one of the best pitchers in the old league. He was right up near the top in the averages. He was the main gunner on the Pirates' staff. The following year, however, Cooper apparently lost his stuff. He lost more games than any other twirler in the circuit.

This season the McKechnie gunner appears to have found himself again. At least he is hurling winning ball. At this writing he has won 19 tilts and is fighting it out with Vance, Grimes et al., for the League's top honors. Cooper's work has done much to place Pittsburg up in the National canter. Along with Yde, he has been the club's big winner.

From a premier hurler to a poor one and back again is Cooper's record during the last three years. It is something a bit out of the ordinary, in so far as major league hurlers are concerned.

TWO FOR WATERBURY.

Baltimore Made Poor Showing In Second Game of Series.

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 24. Waterbury walked in with its second straight triumph over the Baltimore International League championship team here to-day blanking their rivals, 5 to 0 is a game marked by the ragged play of the celebrated Orioles. To-day's triumph gives the Brasscos a victory in the series, the third straight annual triumph eastern league teams have won over their international opponents. Score:—

BASEBALL NEWS.

Brooklyn Dodgers beat the great Alexander yesterday, but as the Giants took another fall out of the Pirates, the men of the little Napoleon took a hammerlock on the National League bunting. A few more wild hurrahs were manufactured in Washington when the Senators grabbed another game. So did the Kilties, but their's is the case where a win doesn't help much. So long as Walter Johnson and his fellow-athletes can keep on winning, the Boston bean-eaters have just as big a chance of landing on top as the Kilties have of repeating.

Down at Kingston the mirth is not so noticeable. With two teams already fallen by the wayside, the 4th Hussars are the last roses of the season. The soldiers will come here for an engagement with the Canadian Generals on Saturday full of confidence that they can rout the champions and win one championship for Kingston. The fans in the penitentiary town are incensed over the baseball doings of the summer, including the alleged partiality on the part of the O.B.A.A. in the interest of Peterboro teams, and the Hussars will have reinforcements with them for the trip here at the week-end.

There appears to be some concern in certain quarters over the defeat last Saturday of the local girls' softball team at the hands of the Toronto team. It doesn't make much difference who picked the team, nor does it matter much that the Toronto belles won the contest. More important is the fact that the girls played good softball and did not appear to be worried over the loss of the game. They played to win, and were game losers.

Maple Leafs tackle stiff opposition in the McCormick Juveniles here on Saturday. The Toronto youngsters are a well-balanced team, with pitching and batting strength. The fans should see a great game, with Bradley on the firing line against the visitors. The local southpaw likes the going when it is hardest, and he does his best work when the other fellows are dangerous. It is the first game on the double bill, and teams will open hostilities at 1:45 o'clock. Incidentally, local baseball fans are being given an opportunity to show how much they are interested in the teams who are endeavoring to bring baseball glory to Peterboro. Baseball teams cannot thrive on pass-the-hat collections.

Everybody who admides a team with a kick, will be pulling for a Lakeview win in Toronto against McCormicks. During the progress of the game at Exhibition Park, the score by innings and features of the game will be announced to the crowd, so that the fans will be able to keep in touch with the fortunes of all three teams.

Made Clean Sweep of Chicago Series, While Yanks Beat Cleveland.

THURSTON BEATEN.

CHICAGO, Sept. 24. —Washington closed its American League season here to-day by taking the final game of the series from Chicago, 6 to 3, making a clean sweep of the series.

The victory enabled them to retain their two game margin over the Yankees, who shut out the Indians.

Dayton Will Strive To Become World's Greatest Air Centre

DAYTON, O., Sept. 24.—Twenty years ago Orville and Wilbur Wright, proprietors of a small mechanical shop took a strange looking contraption some nine miles out of town and made their first public airplane flight.

On October 2, 3 and 4, Orville Wright will journey out to that same piece of land, it now is a part of Wilbur Wright field, and watch the invention he and his brother gave to the world, hurtle through the air at speeds which, if anyone had even dared to think of 20 years ago, would have brought more derision than the crude affair of canvas and wire itself.

McCook Field, the experimental station of the American Army Air Service is located on the edge of town. Nine miles out is Wilbur Wright Field. The government either leases, or owns outright, 300 acres at Wright field, but the field itself now consists of 3,500 acres, 5,000 of which recently were given to the government by Dayton, the money for the purchase of the land being furnished by citizens.

The land has been accepted by the government, and it is the dream of Dayton some day to see the field the greatest air center in the world. The Dayton plan is eventually to combine the two fields into one vast plant, which would be a memorial to Wilbur Wright.

McCook Field will be open to all spectators during the meet, and there will be on exhibition giants and midgets of the air, as well as strange mechanical creatures that fly. The Army Air Service helicopter, one of the most recent developments, will be one of the unusual sights.

The Barling Bomber, the world's largest airplane, may be on exhibition, and it is expected that the Shenandoah will be brought out. For contrast to these leviathans, one of the original type Wright planes is being reconditioned and probably will be piloted in a flight by Lieut. John A. MacReady.

CANADIAN APPLES FOR FOLKS AND FRIENDS IN THE OLD COUNTRY

This year's Christmas for our folks and friends across the sea can be made happier by a small remembrance from Canada of a box of our Canadian apples, hand picked and hand packed; their luster and taste tell of our beautiful summer climate. Your grocer can fill such an order. The Canadian National Express will transport and deliver by rapid express service, including refrigerator stowage on steamer, to any station in Great Britain or Ireland from Montreal, Que., and Quebec, Que., up to November 15th, and afterwards from Halifax, N. S., and St. John, N. B., at a rate of three dollars per standard box of apples not exceeding one cubic foot eight inches in measurement or over fifty pounds in weight. Consult any Canadian National Express Agent as to through express rate from your town.

WON LADIES' DOUBLES.

Dr. Phyliss Young and Mrs. H. A. Cranfield Took Final.

Dr. Phyliss Young and Mrs. H. A. Cranfield won the ladies' doubles championship of the city by winning in three hard fought sets from Mrs. C. D. Hewett and Mrs. J. A. Dewart. The scores were: 4-6, 8-6, 6-4. The two teams are very evenly matched, and it was one of the best matches played this season.

In the second round of the men's doubles, F. Bowness and W. Jackson won from Dr. Green and G. Logan, 6-2, 7-5.

The men's singles are into the finals.

The ladies' singles will be in the finals after Thursday's games.

The ladies' doubles are finished.

The men's doubles are reminded that matches not played by Friday, Sept. 26, will be defaulted.

The mixed doubles are in the finals.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Rogers Hornsby, famous star of the St. Louis Cardinals, is one of the greatest batters that ever faced a pitcher.

For four years Hornsby has led the National League in batting with averages close to the .400 mark.

During the greater part of the present season his mark has been well over that figure. He bids fair to take down the National batting honors for the fifth successive year.

If he does, it sets a new record for that organization.

Recently I had an interesting chat with Hornsby, in which the art of batting came in for much attention.

A great many big league managers work on the theory that form in batting plays almost as important a part in baseball as in golf.

If a recruit comes to the big show and shows ability to hit the ball, managers usually are not content to leave well enough alone, if the player's form at the bat is bad.

Hornsby is strongly opposed to such methods. He claims many promising batters are ruined because the managers refuse to let them employ their original style.

"The big idea of every batter is to get his base hits," says Hornsby, "and what does it matter if his style isn't pleasing to the eye, fails to conform to baseball law."

Hornsby is of the opinion that if a batsman is a good hitter in the minors, using his original style, such methods will put him over in the majors.

The case of Al Simmons of the Philadelphia Athletics could be cited to bear out Hornsby's contention.

Simmons, with a fine record in the minors, came to the Athletics touted as a great hitter. When the experts saw his style, at the plate, many of them became dubious.

A right-handed batter, Simmons has the habit of pulling away from the plate with his left foot on every ball pitched.

It is baseball theory that a batsman cannot use such a style and be successful. It is known as the "foot-in-the-bucket" stance.

The dope was that just as soon as the pitchers got wise to his style, they would keep the ball low and outside, thereby making a sucker out of him.

Wise Connie Mack made no effort to change the rookie's style. He decided to let Simmons work out his own salvation.

In commenting on Simmons, few of the experts paid any attention to the extra long bat used by him, which makes up for his pull at the plate.

All year Simmons has been around the .300 mark, while other batters who cut at the ball in so-called perfect style have failed.

Any tip from Rogers Hornsby on batting is worth while.

SIGN OF HARD WINTER IN BIG DISPLAY OF BED QUILTS AT LAKEFIELD'S FALL FAIR

Attendance and Exhibits Passed All Records—Weather Splendid.

HORSE BROKE LEG.

G. N. Gordon, M.P., Opened the Fair and Presented Cups To Winners.

LAKEFIELD, September 25. — The annual fall fair of the Lakefield Agricultural Society was held on Wednesday, with ideal weather. The attendance was well beyond 2,000, and the entries about 1800. All records were broken, and temporary pens had to be improvised for the cattle and horses. The vegetable and grain exhibits were especially notable and the domestic section was much better than usual. The ladies' work department was outstanding, with a particularly numerous exhibit of bed quilts, which might be interpreted as one of the signs of a hard winter.

In the poultry show the entries were more than last year's, and a feature of this section was the predominance of exhibits from this district. The quality of the birds was also higher.

G. N. Gordon, M.P., formally opened the fair. He was introduced by Mr. Henry Coones, president of the agricultural society.

Mr. Gordon congratulated the directors upon their success this year, mentioning the large crowd and the reorganized citizens' band, which he said, was deserving of the support and cooperation of the entire community.

A British Institution.

Agricultural exhibitions were one of the British institutions which we have copied, Mr. Gordon said. The English farmers went with their horses and cattle, meeting friendly competition with the result that Britain became the greate t stock-raising country in the world. These gatherings are important and valuable not only as reunions of old friends, but as community gatherings where people have an opportunity of showing what they can do, and seeing what others can do. It also gives the boys and girls a well-earned holiday and in every way is most pleasant and profitable.

An abundance of music was furnished during the afternoon by the Lakefield band and the Arlie Marks Kiltie band. Among those seen on the grounds were Major T. D. Johnston, M.L.A., E. M. Elliott, Mayor Turner of Peterboro.

The Races.

The result of the races was as follows:

Free for all:
Polly Stout, owned by R. Elmhirst 1311
Heramn W., owned by R. Elmhirst 2123
Prince R., owned by C. Fife 3232

2:35 Trot:
Just Jack R. Elmhirst 11
Betty Avoff, J. Elmhirst 22
Prince R. C. Fife 33

Green Race:
Billy B., Everett Dunsford 11
Mary D., Ernest Dunsford 22
Also Ran, J. Matthews 33

Best comic outfit—1, Clown, Howard Baptie; 2, Barney Google and Spark Plug, Stanley Richardson; 3, market gardener, Garfield Dunsford

Novelty race—1, Everett Dunsford; 2, N. McConkey; 3, Ernest Dunsford.

In the third heat of the free for al "Herman W" broke his right hind leg above the ankle. He turned quickly on the back stretch to avoid a farmer's waggon that had strayed onto the track. Doctors Fraser, Munroe and Gibson advised that the horse be destroyed. There were no veterinaries on the ground.

Prizes Presented

Mr. Gordon presented the following silver cups for the best saddle horse, the Arthur Johnston cup won by Messrs. Kelly of Peterboro; and six cups presented by Gordon—for best horse on halter, won by John L. Hope, Otonabee, best pen of sheep won by T. Beattie, Peterboro; best dairy cow won by Norman McConkey of Smith; best pen of bacon hogs, won by Deyell Bros., of Omemee. Best collection of home made baking won by Mrs. W. Allan, of Bonarlo; best collection of vegetables won by Stanley Richardson, of Lakefield. These cups are to be won three years in succession.

The midway bloomed with kewpies and all the concessions enjoyed a busy afternoon.

This is the second year of fine weather for Lakefield's Fair, and the previous four coming after days, is gratefully years of rain the directors appreciated by

GRAFTON CO. LTD. AT LAKEFIELD FAIR

Fine New 50 Foot Front—New Fall Attire—And Scotch Entertainers Achieve Success.

The first impression one got when coming into the grounds at Lakefield Fair was that it was a big demonstration for the Grafton Co. Facing the midway, and in full view from the gates, was the extensive showing made by the company, that was so large it completely overshadowed the rest of the midway attractions. An artistic new front by the new firm, Harris & Boddy, was of the dimensions of the ordinary side show illustrations, 50 feet long and about 12 feet high. It fronted an exhibit 15 feet deep, the rear being also decorated with last year's front, so that Grafton advertising was seen from all sides. The clothing shown was of the usual fine Grafton quality, featuring particularly the new fall fabrics and styles for men and boys, handsome cards designating the exhibit as the "Grafton Style Show."

To add materially to the interest taken in the Grafton display, an almost continuous programme was put on in front of the stand by Comedians R. Henry and Jack Smith in Highland costume, consisting of pipe selections, songs and repartee, which delighted the crowd, but was anything but a joy to the other midway attractions, which were deserted while the Scotch entertainers held forth. At times the Peterboro boys were assisted by members of the Arlie Marks Stock Company, which arrived by motor from Orillia. They also were in Highland costume, and their announcer reminded the crowd that they were showing in Lakefield that night under the auspices of the Fair directors.

Still another Grafton feature was an outfit with Spark Plug hitched to a two-wheeled rig, in which two well-got-up rube characters kept the crowd in good humor. They were protected from the sun by a large Grafton umbrella, and were on the move all over the grounds.

Two men in charge of the exhibit answered questions regarding the clothing, and handed out literature of attractive appearance that would certainly be carried home by the hundreds who received them.

As the first showing of their new Fair front for this season, Lakefield Fair was considered a huge success from the Grafton standpoint.

This was the thirty-second consecutive year that the Grafton Co. has had an exhibit at the Lakefield Fair, which would scarcely be complete without them. Also every year during that time, the firm has contributed valuable prizes to the winners in the general purpose team class, which are eagerly looked for by the exhibitors.

STORM IN FRANCE.

Railway Tracks Washed Away and Several Persons Killed.

PARIS, September 25. — A storm of cycloic violence is ravaging southeastern France, particularly departments of Vaucluse, Bouches du Rhone and Gard. Ancient City of Orange has been particularly hard hit, a deluge of rain flooding railway station, washing out the track, and cutting the main railway from Paris to Marseilles ,while on the other bank of the Rhone a mile of trackage has been washed away.

A bridge collapsed during the passage of a locomotive, two bodies being found in the debris, and it is feared that others also perished. Meanwhile thousands of travellers are stalled.

The tempest continues to flood the whole region between Vallance and Toulon.

SINKING.

Boston discovers many of its buildings are sinking. The land is sinking with them. The geologists say not to worry that the entire Atlantic coast line of our continent is gradually sinking with a corresponding rise of the Pacific coast.

The modern scientific theory is that the continents are floating on the more central part of the earth like chips on thick molasses. The continents slowly move westward. The resistance encountered wrinkles the advancing side—making the Rockies and other mountain ranges, also causing earthquakes.

VILLAGE SHOCKED.

Details Of Double Murder Beginning To Leak Out.

(By Herbert Little, United Press Staff Correspondent.)

INA, Ill., September 25. — "The Devil did it!" This is the opinion of Ina, shocked beyond anger by the poisoning of Wilfred Sweeten by his wife, and Anna Hight, by her husband, Rev. Lawrence M. Hight.

The 225 members of Rev. Hight's Methodist Episcopal congregation and the other 157 citizens of the town are still dazed.

News stories of the relations between Rev. Mr. Hight and Mrs. Sweeten came to the open as the preacher in a grimy cell at Nashville, Ill., and the woman in the Marion county jail, at Salem, bared their infidelities.

The pastor during his hectic three months love affair, culminating in the deaths of the coal miner husband and the pastor's wife, purchased the milk for his household from the Sweetens. Instead of sending his son or his daughter for it, the pastor always made the trip himself, neighbors said. Many times Hight was seen sititng on top of a pile of lumber across the street in view of the Sweeten house, mopping his brow with a handkerchief in an ostentatious way, suggestive of signalling, after which he would walk away.

Several times the pastor would stop at 2 o'clock in the morning at an all-night counter, explaining that he saw a light, and got up to find out what the boys were doing. He was fully dressed. This happened frequently, especially when Sweeten went to Benton to work.

INQUEST OPENS INTO DEATH OF T. NOBLE KELLY

Coroner's Jury Views Scene Of Collision Between Engine and Car.

CAR GOING SLOWLY.

Several Witnesses Will Testify on Friday—Engineer Will Appear.

The inquest into the death of Thomas Noble Dean Kelly, who died this morning as the result of an accident on Tuesday morning when his car was struck by a Canadian National engine, opened at 11 o'clock this forenoon and adjourned until 8 o'clock to-morrow night. The engineer, fireman and conductor of the train will be called, and other witnesses are being sought.

Only routine testimony was given this morning, Constable John Naples identifying the body. The jury is composed of Herbert McCannan (foreman), William Merrell, John Edgar, Sylvester Hickey, James Chambers, Thomas McAuley, B. W. Manning, W. G. Howden, John Primeau, James Fowler, Thos. Minicola and Francis Driscoll. County Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young is presiding, while County Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducts the Crown's enquiry and F. D. Kerr, K.C., is watching the proceedings on behalf of the family of the deceased. The Canadian National Railway was not represented by counsel this morning.

Upon Detective-Sergeant William Meagher reporting that there were no witnesses to produce this morning, the coroner issued an order for burial, a post-mortem examination being considered unnecessary, and the jury went to the scene of the accident to investigate.

Story of Accident.

When the accident occurred, Mr. Kelly was proceeding in his coupe south on Donegal Street, and the engine, which had left its train and was running to the station for water and orders, was going east. At the point where the accident occurred a building extends to ten feet from the roadway and six feet from the track. By actual test this morning it was demonstrated that it is impossible to see a train approaching from any distance until the car is actually on the track. With the automobile only six feet from the steel rail it is possible for the driver to see only fifteen feet along the track.

Several witnesses who live or work nearby will be called to testify as to whether the engine bell was ringing, the rate at which it was travelling, and the speed of the automobile. Angus Murray, 500 Park Street, an employee of the G. Walter Green Co., was probably the last man to see Mr. Kelly before the accident, and he said to-day that the automobile was proceeding very slowly.

Pieces of glass, presumably from the windshield of the car, are scattered over the railway track for a distance of a hundred feet. Where, it is said, the engine halted is marked by two piles of sand, the engineer having leaped from the cab without shutting off the stream that was turned under the wheels to help the action of the brakes. This sand is 190 feet east of the crossing.

The resumed sitting will be held in the Police Station.

AGREEMENT REACHED.

MARKETING MARKS TIME WHILE FALL GRAIN MOVEMENT BEGINS

Collections Reported Unsatisfactory In This District, But Prospects Better.

VEGETABLES UNCERTAIN.

Potatoes Appear To Indicate a Good Yield — Onions Plentiful a nd Cheap.

At this season of the year, a condition similar to "marking time" seems to intervene in marketing circles. Grains are moving slowly, general staples of all sorts seem to show an uncertain and unsettled condition, and, although the rotation of fruits is much as usual, the backward seasons experienced this year appear to have given an undecided atmosphere to garden and orchard crops as well as to everything else. Mr. J. E. Adams, wholesale grocer, reports collections as somewhat unsatisfactory, with a forecast of better things to come, however, after threshing is completed. Several cars of fall wheat have already gone over the rails in this district, forerunners of the annual movement of grains.

In wholesale circles, slight increases are reported generally. An indication of the trend of the market in canned goods, for instance, is evidenced in a recent advance made by the Dominion Canners on their products, recording a small increase on vegetables and fruits. This advance, coming on the heels of quotations which were regarded when issued as being fixtures for some time to come, is regarded as possibly a hint of still further increases. The advance has to do with beans, asparagus and peas, the latter being a very small pack this year, and canners making only about 65 per cent. delivery. With regard to corn and tomatoes, nothing definite can yet be determined, although it is reported that the tomato crop, while progressing, is not of the best quality for canning purposes, the continued wet weather having tended to make ripening slow, the tomatoes, in consequence, being high in water content. A long, warm fall season is then necessary for a normal pack and for the maturing also of the corn, so far a backward crop.

An association called the Bean Growers' Association, and composed of the larger growers in the counties of Kent, Essex, Elgin and Huron, formed this year for the purpose of marketing the crop, and composed of sufficient growers to control 75 per cent. of the beans produced in Ontario, has ceased to exist, it is rumored, the reason given for the failure of the plan being that proper arrangements could not be made with the elevators.

Vegetables Uncertain.

Forecasts in the vegetable crop line are not much to the fore as yet. Potatoes appear to indicate a good supply for this winter. Onions are said to be much more plentiful and cheaper than in some time. As one wholesaler expresses it, people who bought a few pounds last year and used them mainly for flavoring can buy a peck this season at the same price and use them in their vegetable food capacity.

From California come reports of a poor crop of Lima beans, with re sultant higher prices.

Wholesale prices on canned salmons have advanced slightly. Owing to the small run this year, a short pack, possibly only about forty per cent. of the usual total is prophesied, with scarcity in the Cohoes, a medium grade salmon much in demand. New salmon fishing regulations in the Maritimes are to the effect that "no one shall fish for, catch or kill salmon with nets of any kind from the last day in September of each year to the last day of February following."

From the Bay of Fundy is reported an increased sardine catch for this year, where, for the first six months of the present year, the catch of sardine-herring amounted to 76,625 barrels, as compared with 11,237 barrels for the corresponding period of last year. The first-hand value this year was $158,082, or about $4.50 per hogshead, while last year, according to Government statistics, it was $26,968, or $5.25 per hogshead.

The wholesale coffee market is described as strong, with a recent advance in one well-known brand of one cent on the pound. The "Canadian Grocer," in a recent issue, publishes a short article entitled "Reasons for High Coffee Prices." An increase in coffee consumption is indicated in this article, which records a crop fluctuation during a ten-year period of 13,000,000 bags to 21,000,000 bags, with an average of 18,000,000 bags annually, and a loss in the visible supply during that period of 6,281,933 bags. This loss advanced the market from a basis on July 1st, 1915, of 7 1-2 cents for Rio 7's to that on July 1, 1924, of 15 3-8 cents, and a possible further advance on the same grade to 17 cents. The article concludes: "All through the fluctuations of the market for this ten-year period can be observed very clearly the working out of the law of supply and demand."

Advances in Teas.

In teas also, advances are registered, some grades going up recently by five cents on the pound, although the Japans are not yet affected. Here again, the same law of supply and demand works out, for a writer in "The Grocer," London, England, says: "The consumption of tea throughout the world is so good that it would appear that there is scarcely enough to go round. At the present day, tea costs more to produce, and there are other higher charges, such as increased railway rates and labor, to say nothing of the cost of blending and packing. Therefore, it does not seem feasible for a drop in prices to take place. How long the present bullish state of affairs will last it is difficult to determine. Supply and demand have to be reconciled."

Interest is being taken in the Congos and China greens at the present time, owing to political disturbances in China, which will interfere with shipments from Shanghai.

Although wholesale prices on dried fruits are low at present, there are many indications of later advances, before the heavy consumption demand sets in. As a result of the Greek Government placing an export tax on currants, combined with a strong market, these are quoted at a higher price. Raisins, in which there is a shortage in the California crop, have also increased in price recently. California prunes, now moving in fairly large volume to European points, are strong, as are dried apricots and peaches.

According to reports from the larger packers of evaporated apples, the pack this year in Ontario will be comparatively light. "One reason given," says the Canadian Grocer, "is that the Ontario crop of apples is only about half that of normal, while a large proportion of the apples are too small for evaporating purposes. A short pack this year coming on a bare market will likely mean a fairly high price, probably around 14 cents per pound, as compared with the opening price last year of 10 1-2 cents."

Fruit Crops.

In the wholesale fruit circles, the peach crop in the Niagara district this year has been comparatively light. The crop is characterized by experts as "streaky," that is, some sections show heavy yield, while the converse is true in other districts. The early Crawfords, the Yellow St. Johns, were scarce. The coming Elbertas, ushered in this week, are expected to do a little better, but will only average about one-third of the usual total. Reports from one section where a man harvested 3,000 baskets last year give this year's total at 30, while some orchardists in the St. Catharines district are only getting one basket from a tree. The Niagara-on-the-Lake district has fared better than the rest of the peninsula in this regard, some of the orchards showing a good yield.

The plum crop this year has been large and the fruit is cheap. The German prune plum, from the Niagara Peninsula, the plum which outdistances its Italian cousin of the same variety in the firm quality of its dark blue coated, dark fleshed meat, is expected in local markets this week, along with the best of the greengages, the Reine Claude.

Pears are a good crop this year, surpassing last year's yield, and the grapes, which are about a month late this year, are estimated to yield about three-quarters of the 1923 total. An increased acreage of grapes was put in this season.

Bananas continue cheap in price, but oranges are somewhat higher, with prospects of continued firmness until the new shipments arrive, about the end of November.

Via the Panama Canal.

California fruits for Montreal markets now comes to a great degree by steamer through the Panama Canal, importers finding this route cheaper and quite as satisfactory as overland rail transportation. Food products from the Orient are also coming over the Panama route in ever-increasing quantities, the S. S. Finland landing at New York some days ago with over 600 tons of Oriental goods 33 days after leaving Yokohama, Japan. This constitutes a new record, the average time for this voyage heretofore from the Far East to New York being 44 days. The records was accomplished through transfer at Seattle and San Francisco.

The Sugar Market.

The sugar market is described as quiet, with a firm undertone. Several of the refineries have been slow in making shipments of late, owing to a shortage in supplies of raw sugars, this, despite the fact that Cuba has just completed a record raw sugar campaign, with a total out-turn, the largest in the history of sugar production in Cuba, of 4,066,642 tons, exceeding the previous crop by 463,732 tons, and that of two years ago by 70,255 tons. The total production of the world of both cane and beet sugars for this season has been 19,556,037 tons, or an increase over last season of 1,498,145 tons. Notwithstanding the increase in the Cuban crop this year, the stocks remaining on the island and at refining ports in the United States and Canada do not show any surplus.

A reason advanced for the recent higher values in the raw market and the disposal rapidly of large stocks is the increasing use of sugar, as of tea and coffee, throughout the world. The Far East is absorbing larger quantities than ever before, says Willett and Gray, in the Canadian Grocer. "Japan's consumption for the last six months has increased nearly ten per cent., while India is buying more Javas and sugars from other countries, especially that of Mauritius. Since the war, practically all the Mauritius crop went to England, while at present the greater part of the crop is going to India. Russia is also buying outside sugars, chiefly from Czecho-Slovakia, Poland and Holland. Germany, which had an ample supply at the beginning of the campaign, thought that there would be an excess of sugar and hence authorized exports, but recently they had to abrogate the customs tariff and buy Javas and other sugars to fill out their wants until the new crop of beets was available. France and Holland are also interested in outside sugars, including Cubas. The United Kingdom, where a reduction in duty caused increased use of sugar, has had to increase purchases of Cubas, and as some of the countries from which supplies were formerly obtained are diverting their sugar elsewhere, a further demand from the United Kingdom is likely. In addition to the countries mentioned above as becoming interested in Cuban sugars, Canada has also been a heavier purchaser of Cubas."

COURT REGALIA.

One of Matters To Be Discussed at Labor Meeting.

LONDON, September 25. — Canadian Press. — A mighty howl against the practice of Great Britain's Labor Ministers in attending King George's courts in full regalia, cocked hats, knee breeches, silk stockings, etc., will probably go up in Queen's Hall when the Labor Party holds its 21st annual conference next month. A dozen resolutions on the subject are dow on the agenda. One says that if Ministers find it absolutely necessary to attend the courts they should wear "rational attire," and "if not admitted No. 10 Downing street shall be the place to settle matters requiring His Majesty's presence."

Among the more serious matters to be discussed are calls for nationalization of mines and electric power, municipal distribution of food, and other Socialistic schemes.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

September 25, 1924.

To Editor, The Examiner,

Dear Sir,—Mr. Denne's last display is that of violence and bad temper. That character of letter, answers itself.

Let me repeat. The Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen and every member of the Conservative Party, then in the House, except one, voted to add Douro, Otonabee, and Lakefield to West Peterborough; and Mr. Denne knows it. I was in the chair when the vote was taken and I know what took place.

The reason that Mr. Meighen voted this way was that the unit of the population was 37,500 and West Peterborough, with the three Municipalities added, was practically that unit; and no amount, dodging the issue, can get rid of this fact.

Mr. Denne in his last letter, complains that I received the salary which was fixed by his leader, the Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen, and the Conservative Party, for the Deputy Speaker of the House. Can you imagine Mr. Denne refusing the salary if he had been elected Deputy Speaker?

Mr. Denne is directing at me the same kind of a virulent attack that his election editors, parked in the old Oriental Hotel, at the time of the 1921 Bye-election let loose upon Mr. J. H. Burnham, who I think most people agree, does some independent thinking.

He tries to mislead the public again by suggesting that I started this newspaper fight. What happened was that Mr. Denne went to Norwood and addressed a meeting, at which he made an unprovoked attack upon me, and in which he misrepresented my position.

I just wish to add this, that there is not any question that Mr. Denne and his record will be dealt with at the proper time, and I have no intention of debating it through the Press, when I can get better results from the platform.

Respecting the King's Counsel appointments, the names on both lists were passed unanimously by the judges on the committee, and Sir William Meredith, President of the Supreme Court of Ontario, was Chairman.

Mr. Denne's letter attacking the King's Counsel appointments, slandered some well-known Conservative lawyers, of very high standing; but of course that is a small thing to Mr. Denne.

Yours truly,
G. N. GORDON.

HEALTHY REPORT ANGLICAN SYNOD

Primate Declares Body Not Yet Ready To Discuss Church Union—Danger Of Discord.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—The tenth triennial General Synod of the Anglican church in Canada opened its deliberations in Cronyn Memorial Hall with a large and representative gathering of clergy and laiety present from every diocese in Canada. For ten days the Synod will be in session here for the purpose of considering the church's business and enacting such legislation as may be deemed advisable.

Rev. S. P. Matheson of Winnipeg, Archbishop of Ruperts Land and Primate of all Canada, who received the congratulations of both houses on his completion of sixteen years of unbroken service as Primate of the church in Canada, and also on his celebrating his seventy-second birthday early this month, presided. The Synod had as its guest of honor yesterday the Right Rev. A. C. Headlam, Bishop of Gloucester, England, who is here at the special request of the Primate and who delivered a forceful sermon at the morning session in St. Paul's Cathedral. After the formal opening ceremonies had been concluded, the Primate presented his report in which he reviewed the activities of the church during the past three years and discussed the major issues which had arisen in detail. He declared that the church had forged ahead steadily during the past twenty years, in a manner that should instill its workers with confidence and courage.

Touching upon the question of church union, he stated that the Synod was not yet ready to take action or even to give formal consideration to this issue at this session. A committee appointed to look into the matter of union in accordance with a suggestion emanating from the Lambeth conference had advised postponement of action until negotiations now progressing between three other non-episcopal denominations should reach fruition. In this suggestion of policy the Primate was in thorough accord, believing that by deferring action for the time being, danger of stirring up dissension and discord would be eliminated.

DEATH OF MRS. KENNETH GRIFFIN

News of the death of Mrs. Kenneth Griffin, of Bobcaygeon, came as a shock to her many friends in Omemee. Deceased had been ill only a short time, and being in the prime of life, she bore her intense suffering heroically, and passed away triumphant in the Christian faith. The late Mrs. Griffin, whose maiden name was Gertrude McNeill, was born in Ops, and resided there until the death of her father when she and her mother and brother moved to Lindsay, where, after receiving her education, she accepted a position in J. Sutcliffe and Sons' store, and later entered the Ross Hospital as nurse-in-training, where she remained until a short time previous to her marriage last December. She then became a resident of Bobcaygeon, where her husband had established a good business, and purchased a fine home, but short was the time they were privileged to enjoy each other's companionship until the loved one was suddenly removed by the hand of death.

The sympathy of the community goes out to her sorrowing husband, who was an Omemee boy, also to her bereaved mother and brother in Lindsay.

The funeral services were conducted at her late home on Tuesday afternoon last by Rev. Mr. Hie of Bobcaygeon, and Rev. Mr. Barraclough, of Lindsay, with interment at Riverside Cemetery, Lindsay.

The floral tributes, which were many, bore mute testimony to the high esteem in which the departed one was held.

DENIED THE STORY.

Japs Worked Up Over Reported Halting of Steamship By Americans.

TOKIO, Sept. 25. — (United News.)— Anti-American sentiment in jingo groups here was exemplified when four members of the Taikoshe political group called at the American Embassy yesterday and declared that the rumored halting of the steamship Hokurei Maru by an American squadron, constituted an insult to Japan.

The story of the halting of the ship, which has been denied, had been carried in the vernacular newspapers, which said that American warships stopped the Hokurei Maru for thirty minutes while firing blank charges during manoeuvres off Che Foo on August 19.

Jefferson Caffrey, American Charge D'Affaires here, denied the story and the Taikoshkas retired when told that the reports were incorrect. It will be recalled that the Taikosha group figured in an anti-American demonstration at the Hotel Imperial in June.

ACIDS IN STOMACH CAUSE INDIGESTION

Create Gas, Sourness and Pain How To Treat.

Medical authorities state that nearly nine-tenths of the cases of stomach trouble, indigestion, sourness, burning, gas, bloating, nausea, etc., are due to an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach and not as some believe to a lack of digestive juices. The delicate stomach lining is irritated, digestion is delayed and food sours, causing the disagreeable symptoms which every stomach sufferer knows so well.

Artificial digestents are not needed in such cases and may do real harm. Try laying aside all digestive aids and instead get from any druggist a few ounces of Bisurated Magnesia and take a teaspoonful in a quarter glass of water right after eating. This sweetens the stomach, prevents the formation of excess acid and there is no sourness, gas or pain. Bisurated Magnesia (in powder or tablet form—never liquid or milk) is harmless to the stomach, inexpensive to take and is the most efficient form of magnesia for stomach purposes. It is used by thousands of people who enjoy their meals with no more fear of indigestion.

THE TEMPERANCE ACT.

St. Andrew's Church Pass a Resolution In Favour of Present System.

At a recent meeting of the session of St. Andrew's Church, Peterboro the following resolution was passed unanimously:

"Whereas it is freely admitted that certain features of the present temperance legislation in the Province of Ontario are not all that could be desired, yet we look upon the Ontario Temperance Act as being very much in advance of anything we have previously had, and believe that it has done much to improve the social condition of multitudes of the people of the Province. We are, therefore, convinced that any change at the present time should be in the way of strengthening and perfecting the present Act rather than abandoning it. This we believe the more firmly because the proposed substitute, by Government control, has always proved a failure wherever tried, and has never tended either to sobriety or to law observance."

The makers of Nemo Corsets have designed this new reducing girdle. No rubber in contact with body or undergarments. Adjustable and washable. Closed back, step-in type, four garters, in lustrous peach shade silk finish. All sizes.

TENNIS NEWS

Mrs. Cranfield and Dr. Phyllis Young won the ladies' doubles championship in the local tournament yesterday, defeating Mesdames Dewart and Hewett in a long hard struggle, 4-6, 8-6, 6-4. The score just about indicates the play, which was very even all the way.

The first set was a see-saw to the 9th game, when the eventual winners fell into a slump and made enough errors to lose out the set. In the second set Mrs. Dewart and Mrs. Hewett were leading 5-3, and looked to have the match won, as they were both stroking surely and steadily, but Mrs. Cranfield showed great fighting spirit and drove them back with beautiful placements that were almost unplayable. Mrs. Dewart serving the 10th game was broken through and the score then alternated until Dr. Young closed the set by brilliant service in the 14th game. From this point on Dr. Young increased in effectiveness, particularly at the net, and while the games were all close, the winners had a bit the best of the play.

It is expected that the semi-finals of the men's doubles will be played on Saturday afternoon.

SOCCER NOTES.

It will not be the fault of the local soccer players if the Brantford vs. Peterborough game is not a treat and a great success, because they have practiced faithfully under Trainer Gatfield's attention. Last night the boys spent a pleasant hour at the Y.M.C.A. They officially and unanimously agreed to accept the selection committee's choice of captain in the person of Mr. Andy Jackson, who will endeavor to win the round along with the rest of the team. They had an excellent training course. All the selected players and reserves, also trainer, are requested to meet tomorrow (Friday) evening, at the Y.M.C.A. at seven (7) o'clock, to receive instructions and get together talk. Now boys be present at 7 o'clock.

RUGBY NEWS

Saturday afternoon at 2.30, on Nicholls Oval, the local Rugby fans will get an opportunity to witness the season's first gridiron battle, when North Toronto Collegiate's good team will line up against the local Collegiate squad.

The fans are promised something classy, as both teams will play under conditions which will tend to make the players go the limit, for none of the players are as yet sure of their place on the line-up, and it depends a great deal on the showing each makes individually in Saturday's game whether he keeps his position or in future enjoys watching a large part of the game from the sidelines. This will be especially true in the case of Coach Browne's squad when there are a couple of good men for almost every position, and all are straining to grab a place.

The fans will get a chance to see how the Queen's plays which have one the Kingston University the highest honors during the last two years' work for Coach Browne has trained his men carefully and the plays which he uses are on similar lines to Queen's, and some are the exact play in every detail.

The City League Rugby teams are beginning to line up their men and prepare for practice.

The Excelsiors will hold their first formal workout at Central Park to-night at 5.15, and another tomorrow evening at the same place and hour.

All those who were members of the Excelsiors or the Junior O.R.F.U. team of last year are especially urged to be on hand and also any person who would like to get into the game for the first time would be welcomed and coached.

The coach would like to see the following in uniform at these practices: J. Turner, B. Cowan, MacIntosh, P. Mulholland, S. Fleming, J. Clancy, J. McClelland, Adams, Dinsdale, G. Manning, J. Ward, Ross, Salmon, Collins, Holland, N. McColl and J. Ridpath.

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press). — A British diplomatic officer here yesterday denied reports printed in the press of Guatemala and other states of Central America, according to which British Honduras was to revert to Guatemala and the United States would be permitted to establish a naval base in the ceded territory as part payment of the British debt to the United States.

CANADA TO USE ARCTIC RICHES

Explorer Returns With Story of Mineral Wealth In the Land He Claimed.

GOVERNMENT TO ACT.

QUEBEC, Sept. 25. — (Canadian Press).—The long discussed question as to whether the Dominion of Canada will ever benefit materially from the mineral riches of the northern islands in the vicinity of the Arctic Circle, many of which have been claimed for Canada in recent years by Capt. J. S. Bernier, noted adventurer and Arctic explorer, will appear to be more or less definitely settled with the arrival of the Arctic at this port today.

That there is every reason to be enthusiastic over the almost limitless possibilities in regard to the mineral development of the far north country was the keynote of statements made by members of the expedition to the Canadian Press, information being given out that perhaps in a short period of time, the agents of the Federal Government will take steps to open up and develop what are considered to be huge treasures in mineral ore. The Arctic went as far north as Kane Basin, on the north-eastern coast of Greenland.

FAMILY HAD NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH

Automobile Backed Into the River—Woman and Child Escaped Through Window.

WINDSOR, Ont., Sept. 25—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. William Garlick and her two-year-old daughter, Beatrice, of Detroit, were saved from what seemed certain death after the sedan in which they were sitting dropped into the Detroit River from the ferry dock yesterday.

The Garlick family were returning to their home after a two weeks' tour of Western Ontario. Garlick had the car at the side of the dock while he obtained a Customs permit. Returning to the machine, he cranked it. As he did so it backed and plunged into 40 feet of water.

Garlick immediately jumped into the river and succeeded in rescuing his little girl through an open window of the car. Mrs. Garlick scrambled her way out of the same window, although the car was by that time at the bottom of the river. The ferry Lasalle was at the dock, and Seebellock, a passenger waiting to board it, dived into the river to the woman's assistance. Austin Frost and Kennedy McClure, dock workers, also went into the water, and the three of them helped the father in lifting the mother and child to safety. Except for the shock, neither suffered by the experience.

STEAMER MISSING WITH 25 PEOPLE

Clifton Lost On Lake Huron —Last Heard Of On Sunday.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press). — The whaleback steamer Clifton, formerly the Samuel Mather, bound from Sturgeon Bay to Detroit, with twenty-five persons on board, is more than fifty hours overdue in Lake Huron, officers of the Progress Steamship Company at Cleveland, her owners, announced last night.

Nothing has been heard of the freighter since 10.20 on Sunday morning, when she passed Mackinaw.

Under favorable conditions she should have reached Detroit on Monday night, but a fifty-six mile gale swept Lake Huron from the south-west on Sunday, shifted to the north-west and was blowing hard on Monday, and many large vessels were 24 to 36 hours late in Lake Huran and Lower Lake Superior.

The Clifton was loaded with stone and was commanded by Captain Emmett Gallagher of Chicago.

English Radio Fans Find It Hard To Understand American Language.

LONDON, Sept. 25. — (United Press).—English radio fans in touch with American stations declare there is a crying need for a wireless as hard-boiled oodles catseye brows, ham now, southpaw and 'iron men.'

Radio papers here started an agitation against the mysterious lingo from overseas, saying, "The old King's English is good enough for us," but the younger generation is eagerly mastering the use of such expressions as "Knock 'em for a row of alabaster icicles," while baffled parents listen in with disgust.

It was hoped that Esperanto might bridge the difference between peoples not speaking the same language, but now even Esperanto disciples declare it is impossible for them to cope with the Anglo-American slang.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND.

"THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG."

Truth is verily stranger than fiction and the sensational story unfolded in the film drama, "The Man They Could Not Hang," has been naturally lived and experienced by a man who is alive at the present day—John Lee.

The wildest imagination of fiction writers has never surpassed the wonderful true story of actual escape from death on the gallows. The story opens in a cheerful way and has not the slightest suggestion of gloomy horrors.

The picture is replete with pathetic incidents, relieved here and there with a touch of humor, the humorous portion being chiefly in Lee's boyhood days, while among the pathetic parts are those showing the unswerving loyalty of his sweetheart and the faith of his aged mother in her belief in the innocence of her son—a belief which she never lived to see realized. As a story of the grievous wrong done to an innocent man, the picture provides food for serious thought; as a dramatic graphic point of view it is first-class. Considerable interest is added to the screening of the picture by the well-known English actor, W. Leonard Howe, who describes the thrilling incidents throughout. In the scenic prologue the Miserere will be sung by Miss Doreen Thompson, and the vocal items incidental to the picture will be rendered by the same artist.

Daily matinees are announced for the three days.

"THE TEN COMMANDMENTS" UNUSUAL COMING EVENT

Adolph Zukor and Jesse L. Lasky's presentation of Cecil B. De Mille's magnificent motion picture spectacle, "The Ten Commandments," will begin an engagement of two days at the Grand Opera House on Tuesday and Wednesday, Sept. 30, and Oct. 1. The notable picture, which is being shown this season only in regular playhouses, with travelling orchestra and technical staff, comes to the Grand with the stamp of the enthusiastic approval of New York, London, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia and Los Angeles, in which cities it ran simultaneously for many months last season.

"The Ten Commandments" is said to provide a variety of entertainment unusual in the pictorial drama. It combines the gorgeous pageantry of old Egypt with the setting forth of a modern story of ambition, love and iniquity in present-day San Francisco. Jeanie Macpherson, the maker of the scenario, has brilliantly placed the false ideals of modern life in sharp contrast with the fundamental laws received by Moses on the heights of Sinai.

The pictured events leading up to the revelation of the Commandments are the rebellion of the Children of Israel against their brutal taskmasters; their flight from Egypt; their safe passage through the divided waters of the Red Sea; the pursuit by and the destruction of Pharaoh's army of charioteers, and the tragic culmination of the orgies of the Israelites in their false worship of the Golden Calf. In the modern story the thrilling moments occur when the huge dome of a cathedral cracks and the great structure falls to the ground, and when the breaker of the Commandments, a fugitive from justice, perishes in a storm at sea.

The principal roles in the Biblical part are played by Theodore Roberts, Charles De Roche, Estelle Taylor, James Neill, Lawson Butt, Julia Faye and Clarence Burton. The modern story is acted by Leatrice Joy, Rod La Rocque, Richard Dix, Nita Naldi, Edythe Chapman, Robert Edeson and Agnes Ayres. The musical score which is played by an orchestra of twenty men was arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld.

AT THE REGENT.

"IN FAST COMPANY" FILLED WITH SPEEDY ACTION AND THRILLS.

Something of the speedy action in "In Fast Company," which comes to the Regent Theatre to-day, can be imagined from the fact that persons who have seen it call it "a serial in feature length." That is a true description, although it contains none of the hokum which usually prevails in chapter pictures.

Every stunt performed by Richard Talmadge, star of the Truart production, is possible in real life. In other words, the situations are not forced but legitimate. But it is the speed with which the plot moves, and the fact that Talmadge performs so many daring thrills, that caused those who witnessed it to credit it with being a feature picture of serial value. But unlike a serial picture it is crammed full of comedy. Its fast thrills and comedy are so interwoven that absorbing interest starts with the first scene and keeps up to the very finish. All this makes for entertainment of exceptional merit, and entertainment is what the public goes to picture houses to see.

In the company beside Talmadge, known as "the man of a thousand thrills," are Mildred Harris, Snitz Edwards, Douglas Gerrard, Sheldon Lewis, Jack Herrick and Charles Clary, all players of prominence.

Sheldon Lewis, who plays the scheming lawyer "In Fast Company," a Truart picture, starring Richard Talmadge, "The Man of a Thousand Thrills," which is playing at the Regent Theatre to-day, created lasting fame for himself a few years ago, when he appeared on the vaudeville stage in a tabloid version of "Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde." Critics praised it as the outstanding vaudeville act of the year, and Lewis's performance one of the best of any actor who has appeared in the role.

Lewis has been in pictures ever since their inception with occasional flights back to the legitimate stage, where he is best known as a portrayer of heavy character roles.

His appearance in "In Fast Company," came after that of leading heavy in several pretentious productions an will be followed by an engagement to portray the villain in a forthcoming special feature.

AT THE ROYAL.

WILLIAM DESMOND, CLEVER CROOK IN "THE BREATHLESS MOMENT"

AT THE ROYAL NOW.

"When the busy burglar's not engaged in burgling,
Or hatching his felonious little plans,
His capacity for innocent enjoyment
Is just as great as any other man's."

This was Sir W. S. Gilbert's way of saying that even a crook may be human under his skin. But Gilbert, famous librettist, did not say it nearly as well as William Desmond does. "The Breathless Moment," the new Universal attraction playing at the Royal Theatre, is Desmond's contribution to the sum total of information on the subject. A graphic, thrilling story of practical reform, it teaches a wonderful lesson, cloaked in pure entertainment, much after the fashion of bitter medicine enclosed in a sugar-coated pill.

Desmond, in this play, is really an Americanized Arsene Lupin, master thief, presents a role now to even his varied career before the camera. He portrays an audacious thief who preys on people of wealth much as a modern Robin Hood might do in a dress suit, until he takes over the management of a country grocery store.

Thereby hangs a tale—a tale that makes one of the most gripping, enthralling screen stories of the year. It starts when he rescues the child of his Nemesis, the detective trailing him, from an explosion and fire. The sleuth decides on a course of practical reform for him rather than prison bars, to show his gratitude. He takes charge of a country store and then finds that the problems of business management, made more interesting, perhaps, by his partner's pretty daughter, are fully as interesting as the problem of reaching the inside of a bank vault without due process of law.

There are many tense moments in the play, which is pure drama every second. The battle of wits with the detective, the thrilling rescue from the explosion, the bank robbery he foils, and his struggle with another crook to save the town bank from ruin, are all vivid bits of superb acting.

Robert Hill directed the picture, and a notable cast supports the star, including Robert Homans, Charlotte Merriam, Albert Hart, Margaret Cullington and others. Several remarkable scenic bits help make the offering interesting, and the explosion that ushers in the plot is a striking bit of technical skill in the manufacturing of excitement.

ONE DIVORCE ; TWENTY CENTS.

A divorce for twenty cents. That is the bargain rate in Russia. The scale of Russian divorce prices was one of the interesting facts uncovered by Rupert Hughes while conducting research work for "Reno," which he wrote and directed for Goldwyn, and which will be the attraction at the Royal Theatre beginning Monday.

"Reno" deals with the divorce question, and is presented with all-star cast—including Lew Cody, Helene Chadwick, Carmel Myers, Hedda Hopper and other leading players.

AT THE CAPITOL.

There was a good attendance at the Capitol Theatre last evening. Lloyd Hamilton, the eccentric comedian with the big plaid cap and the high-brow expression, is at his best in "Jonah Jones," the comedy that accompanies the programme at the theatre for the last time this evening The characteristic methods of the funny star have plenty of scope in a hilarious affair that has to do with his adventures with the daughter of a wealthy American. He is attended by his faithful lady-love, the fat and fair damsel who loves him madly, and he has a wild time trying to rescue his inamorata from an aristocratic marriage. The picture winds itself up into a blind alley sort of finale, and then just ends with a bang.

In "Twenty One", Richard Barthelmess has a wonderful opportunity to entwine himself more firmly about the hearts of his many feminine admirers. He is one of those artistic screen stars who seem to be acting from choice, rather than for a salary, giving an impression per force of realness and genuine feeling He maintains a difficult and trying type throughout. As the coddled son of a whimsical mother, he takes all sorts of rebuffs and insults without forsaking his mild role. The audience knows, however, that sooner or later, the worm is going to turn. Just how he finally does turn and proves his inherent manhood is worked out in unexpected fashion. It isn't the girl for whom he performs his deed of daring-do in this picture but it's the girl who keeps him straight.

The outstanding charm of Twenty One" is in the star, the firm faced lad who hews a straight line and emerges triumphant. Not a picture of frazzled remnants of life, of erotic passions, old and time-worn progressing through a series of hectic incidents to an unreal ending, but the picture of clean youth, gallant and unafraid, in the romance of a boy and girl who were faithful through many things. That is the alluring story of "Twenty One" its heroine Dorothy Mackaill, with her somewhat Lillian Gish methods, and its hero the dark youth, Richard Barthelmess, playing a modern role with all the zest and attraction that made him famous in period costume dramas.

"THE RAMBLIN' KID."

Life in the West, not the wild and woolly West of dime novel fame, but the real West of today, is pictured in Hoot Gibson's latest Universal special, "The Ramblin' Kid," which comes to the Capitol Friday and Saturday.

Star of innumerable film plays of Western outdoor adventure, Gibson faces entirely new situations in "The Ramblin' Kid." It is a remarkably human novel, written by Earl Wayland Bowman, and adapted to the screen by E. Richard Schayer and directed by Edward Sedgwick.

Hoot Gibson has not been what is generally called "a western star," for some time. His stories have too much good drama and human interest in them to be called typical western pictures.

In the supporting cast are such popular favorites as Laura La Plante, Gibson's leading woman in many other Universal productions, Harold Goodwin, the juvenile lead in "The Flirt" and "Alice Adams," William Welsh, Charles K. French, Carol Holloway, John Judd, G. Raymond Nye, W. T. McCulley and others.

"The Ramblin' Kid" is a young cowboy with a penchant for playing drunk and shooting up saloons. He does it so often and so artistically that most people believe it's all real. Which is a bad thing, especially when the "most people" includes a certain beautiful young girl whom he'd rather have think well of him.

NEW YORK, September 24. — The continued economic chaos in Russia is one of the greatest obstacles remaining in the way of European prosperity, according to Jean Coundouriotis, chairman of the directors of the Bank of Athens, and a brother of Admiral Coundouriotis, President of the Greek Republic.

Mr. Coundouriotis is spending several weeks in America to look after the interests of his bank's New York branch, which was established three years ago. He recently called upon President Coolidge and Secretary Hughes in Washington, describing to them the political and economic condition of his country. They were pleased, he said, to hear him report that much progress had been made toward stability in the young republic.

The Greek banker declared in his interview that the chief need of Greece in the near future would be large loans—at least $100,000,000—from foreign capitalists in order to finance modern industrial projects, and to provide employment for more than a million Greek refugees from Asia Minor who have poured into Greece as a result of the exchange of populations between Greece and Turkey.

Points to Repayment Record.

As security for these loans, he went on, Greece not only could point to her past record in paying back loans, but also to the prospects of developing a profitable rug and carpet manufacturing trade among her new immigrants from Asia Minor.

"The Greeks in Asia Minor," he explained, "were known all over the world for their wonderful rugs and carpets. Since their return to Greece they have begun to establish rug and carpet factories in Greece for the first time that my country has had such an industry on a large scale. As America is the world's greatest market for rugs and carpets, we expect to do a big trade with the United States in the future."

Through the help of the League and of America, he went on, the situation in Greece had been cleared up to such an extent that he believed the Republic to be secure against either Bolshevism, Fascism or Monarchist reaction.

"There is no chance of a dictator in Greece either a Right Dictator or a Left Dictator," he said. "We are at the beginning of permanent Parliamentary Government. When the new elections are held in a few months, I am certain that the results will convince the world that Greece desires nothing but peace, abroad and at home, and that she has chosen the democratic form of government permanently."

Mr. Coundouriotis said that he did not expect Venizelos to return to power in Greece. While many Greeks would like to have their former democratic ruler at their head again, the banker said, the health of Venizelos was such that he could not reassume the task.

Although many of the followers of Venizelos have differed with him upon details and have joined other parties, the banker said, the entire original Venizelos following still adheres to his main democratic ideas and will never desert them.

HOME BANK CASE.

The Word "Verification" Will Play Large Part In Fate Of Accused.

TORONTO, Sept. 25.— (Canadian Press.)—It was stated by R. H. Greer, K.C., counsel for Sidney H. Jones, Home Bank auditor, now on trial before Judge Coatsworth on charges of making and concurring in false returns on bank affairs, that the word "verification" would play a large part in the fate of his client, Thos. Gibbs, former assistant accountant in the bank and Crown witness, this morning, under cross-examination by Mr. Greer, said the figures as made in the auditors' statements, were "verified" by accounts in books, but witness could not state that values of securities were "verified" by books or bank documents. Witness was asked by Crown counsel if verification of figures was all that was required by the Bank Act. Before he could reply, D. L. McCarthy, Crown Prosecutor, objected, declaring that the witness could not be asked to state an opinion on matter of law or intention of statute. It was a question for the Judge, he said, and would probably constitute a point for legal argument. Judge Coatsworth agreed with Mr. McCarthy aid refused to allow the question.

TONG WAR OPENS.

First Murder Reported In Vancouver Last Evening.

VANCOUVER September 25. — The first murder in Chinatown's long threatened tong war occurred yesterday evening when Lew Hung Chang (better known as David Lew, a law student and business man), was riddled with bullets from a revolver of an unidentified gun man.

Lew was shot down on Bender St., in the Oriental section of the city when coming from behind, the assassin slipped ahead of him, and fired a shot into his heart from two feet distance.

The slain man is said to have been athorn in the side of the big gambling factions, and has stated to friends on different occasions that they would like to "get" him. He also has been active in persecuting others of his companions under suspicion of criminal actions.

THE ROYAL TRAIN.
MELVILLE, Sask., September 25 (Canadian Press). — The royal train, carrying the Prince of Wales, pulled in here on time at 9.40 o'clock last night. One thousand citizens were on the platform.
A delegation from the Melville Veterans and a local club presented the Prince with a bouquet.

Moderation League Busy.

Many Apply For Information—List Of Executive Officers.

Over 3,000 people have applied at the Moderation League headquarters on George street to find whether their names are on the voters' list for the plebiscite on October 23, The Examiner was informed to-day by a member of the Executive. The list is kept in convenient form and queries are quickly answered.

The following comprise the executive of the Peterborough branch of the Moderation League: Dr. T. P. McCullough, William Nelson, Jack Wilson, Frank Young, Dr. T. W. H. Young, J. A. Jobe, Alec Gibson, Jack McCann, Lt.-Col. E. B. Clegg, Douglas Lawrie, Claude Rogers, N. C. Hatton.

HELD UP TRAIN.

Bandits and Machine Guns Used In Running Fight.

WARSAW, September 25 (Canadian Press). — Forty armed bandits with several machine guns yesterday held up a train between Brest and Luniniec, Eastern Poland.

They cowed the passengers, after killing one and wounding two, then blew up the bridge behind the train, and started the crewless engine toward Luniniec, where it stopped out of steam.

The gang looted the baggage and robbed all the passengers, including M. Downarowicz, chief executive of the Brest district, giving them "receipts" in the name of the Revolutionary Committee of the Ukrainians and the White Russians.

The robbers escaped, but M. Downarawicz walked to Luniniec, and organised the pursuit by the garrisons of the nearby towns.

BOAT TURNS UP.

Freighter Clifton Heard From Since the Storm.

DETROIT, September 25 (Canadian Press). — The freighter Clifton, overdue here from Sturgeon Bay since Monday night, put in at Oscoba on Lake Huron, on Monday night, and left on Tuesday forenoon, according to a telephone message today from that port.

This is the first report of the steamer since it left Mackinaw on Sunday morning.

There were twenty-five aboard the vessel, and the owners, the Progress Steamship Company, were preparing to-day to search for the boat.

Oscoba is about fifty miles below Alpena.

INSANITY VERDICT.

Close of Bowman Murder Trial In Kitchener—Prisoner Not Guilty.

KITCHENER, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press.)—Not guilty on the grounds of insanity, was verdict of jury in the case of Lorne Bowman, charged with the murder of his wife in Elmira on June 30th, delivered in a crowded and tense court room at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The jury signified they had reached the decision when Justice Wright mounted the bench promptly at the hour set for resumption of the court. In receiving the verdict, Justice Wright complimented the jury upon the accomplishment of an arduous task and declared he was of the opinion they had done their best to arrive at their verdict. He instructed that the prisoner shall be kept in strictest custody pending the pleasure of the Lieutenant Governor. It is expected that Bowman will be confined to hospital for the criminal insane for the remainder of his life.

DISPLAY OF FLOWERS.
A display of flowers that attracted a good deal of attention at the recent Flower Show in the Armouries was that entered by Mrs. R. T. Hounsell, whose illness this year prevented her from entering her flowers for competition, the display being merely for decorative purposes.

A QUESTION DRAWER.

Women Temperance Workers Held a Meeting Yesterday.

The Women's Prohibition Committee, including the Executive, Ward leaders, their committees and all workers, met yesterday afternoon at the Y.W.C.A. in connection with the W.C.T.U., to discuss methods of carrying on their part in the Temperance Campaign. The room was filled to overflowing with enthusiastic workers, the president, Mrs. S. Armstrong, in the chair. A question drawer was conducted and all difficulties presented by the ladies very ably answered by Mr. A. B. Cunningham whose presence and assistance were greatly appreciated. Mr. Cunningham congratulated the women on their excellent organization and the work that has already been accomplished.

FELL INTO TRAP.

Messenger Involved In Statement Made By Louis Morel.

MONTREAL, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—That the messenger in the employ of Banque Hochelaga was to receive $6,000 and that this messenger fell into a trap was the startling statement of Louis Morel, filed this morning before five judges in the Court of Appeal on behalf of Leo Davis, who, with Morel, is under sentence of death for the hold-up of the Banque Hochelaga automobile in which Henri Cleroux, chauffeur, was shot dead.

Morel said he gave $6,000 out of his share of $27,400, of a total of $137,000 taken, to the messenger, but he refused to give the messenger's name.

FROST KILLS FRUIT.

Market Gardeners Offer Remainder Of Crop At Low Prices.

HAMILTON, Sept. 25. — Market gardeners from Ancaster and other places reported to-day that tomatoes, melons and cucumbers in those districts have been killed by the frosts of the last three nights. They have picked what was left on the vines and offered these to-day at low prices. The frosts have not touched the lower lying areas of the fruit district to the east of the city, but there has been much anxiety about the grapes and the peaches, both of which have been checked by the cold weather.

FATAL LANDSLIDE.

Fifteen Persons Reported Killed in Mountain Village.

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 25.—(Canadian Press).—A landslide last night obliterated a large part of the mountain village of Someo, in the Tessin Canton, crushing twelve houses into ruins and partially burying them. The destruction was increased by a wild mountain stream which overflowed because of the landslide, and inundated part of the village.

A number of inhabitants were killed or swept away. Thus far three bodies have been found.

According to later report, 15 persons were killed and 20 houses destroyed in the disaster, which followed a heavy thunderstorm.

WEDDING BELLS.

BRIEGEL—WALTON.
Very quietly the marriage was solemnized in the Manse of Dovercourt Road Presbyterian Church, Rev. James Wilson officiating, of Aileen Mae, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Walton of Irene avenue, to Mr. Clarence C. Brigel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Briegel, of Peterboro. The bride, who was unattended, wore her travelling suit of navy blue with black hat and Isabella fox fur, the gift of the groom. Immediately after the ceremony the happy couple left to spend their honeymoon in Montreal. They will reside in Toronto.

SYER—MATCHETT.
CAVAN, September 25. — Quiet but pretty was the wedding which took place at the home of Mr. David Hunter, Cavan, at 5 o'clock on Wednesday evening, 17th Sept., when Letitia Georgina, only daughter of Mrs. J. G. Matchett, became the bride of Mr. Thomas Raymond Syer, son of Mr. E. Syer, Cavan.

Rev. F. Matheson officiated.

Mrs. J. C. Swann, aunt of the bride, played the wedding music. The bride, who was given away by her uncle, Mr. J. D. Hunuter, was becomingly gowned in cocoa crepe romaine, and carried a shower bouquet of butterfly roses and baby's breath.

After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served. Mr. and Mrs. Syer then left to spend their honeymoon in Montreal and points East, the bride travelling in a taupe wrap and hat to match. On their return they will reside in Cavan.—Toronto Globe.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARY CRUSE.
COBOURG, Sept. 24. — (Special.)—The funeral of Mrs. Mary Cruse, wife of Mr. W. J. Cruse, Bewdley, whose death took place at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, on Sunday, took place from her late home at Bewdley yesterday and was largely attended. Rev. F. J. Horwood, Camborne, conducted the services, and the interment was at Orono.

Mrs. Cruse, before her marriage, was Miss Mary L. Fowler, of Orono. Besides her husband and family, she is survived also by her parents and by a brother and sister.

FABLES ON HEALTH

CELLAR CLEANING TIME.
With fall days approaching, the Mann family gave a thought to "putting up the fruit for the winter" and getting the cellar in shape.

It was surprising how much junk had gathered during the summer; boxes in which vegetables had been placed; odds and ends left by the youngsters, all sorts of things.

Everybody should give a thought to the cellar at least twice a year. Boxes that may have contained decayed vegetables should be cleaned out. Air the space as thoroughly as possible and then sweep the walls, ceiling, and floor. Then air again.

Remember air from the cellar permeates the house, and be careful that no refuse gathers to poison this air. Give the cellar a weekly inspection to make certain that no decay gathered.

Get the coal bins cleaned out now that the furnace is not in use. Be certain that the furnace pipes are cleaned out before winter sets in.

ELECT CONSERVATIVE.

Result of By-election Will Reduce Government Majority.

VANCOUVER, September 25 (Canadian Press). — The election of A. Cochrane, Conservative, over the Hon. Dr. K. C. MacDonald in the Provincial by-election in North Okanagan was practically assured last night when with only two polls to hear from Mr. Cochrane led his opponent by 180 votes.

The by-election was necessitated by Dr. MacDonald, the sitting member, having been taken into the Cabinet as Provincial Secretary.

The result of the by-election will thus mean that the Government members in the Legislature will be reduced from 25 to 24, from which the Speaker will have to be named.

There are 18 Conservative members, 3 Labour, and 3 Provincial.

JAPAN PRESSES CHINESE RIGHTS BEFORE LEAGUE

Demands Seat on the Council of the League for Oriental Neighbor.

LARGEST COUNTRY

Intervention of League Urged for Relief of Georgians From Bolsheviki

GENEVA, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press). — Indications that the Far Eastern countries, especially China and Japan, will stand together in insisting upon all their rights before the League of Nations was furnished by last night's session of the League of Nations. Japan came out squarely in favor of granting China a seat on the Council of the League as a great Asiatic Power, thus giving expression to Japo-Chinese solidarity.

Persia also backed China's insistence that the great geographical divisions of the world, the principal races and the chief sources of wealth should all be recognized in the distribution of Council seats, and urged that China be given a seat because Asia is the largest country in the world, containing half the human race.

Through the unanimous adoption of a resolution favoring the allocation of seats on the basis of geographical divisions, it would seem likely that the present number of non-permanent seats, which is six, will be increased, so as to include China and perhaps some other countries.

Respect One Another.

Another feature of last night's session of the Assembly was an address by Viscount Ishii, on the question of equitable treatment of foreign nationals in the domain of international commerce upon which the permanent economy commission of the League submitted a preliminary report. Viscount Ishii declared that Japan attached great importance to this question, for she considered that it was one of the most important tasks of the League of Nations to see to it that no member of the League is subject to any unjust discrimination in its international activity in the field of economics.

"In order to facilitate peace and ensure the progress of the world," he continued, "it is necessary that the peoples should respect one another. The question of equitable treatment of foreign nations is a guage of the evolution of the League of Nations." In the last month the dawn of a new era of peace and mutual understanding has been rising in Europe."

Victims of Bolsheviki.

Unanimous approval was given to a resolution calling upon the Council of the League to mediate in

Laborites In Britain Want Nationalization

LONDON, Sept. 26. — Nationalization of public utilities figures largely in the electoral programme of the Labor party, which expects a general election late in November.

The party soon will hold its annual conference in London when it will discuss the following issues:

Nationalization of mines.

Electric power under public ownership.

Food and other domestic supplies for the public by bulk purchase with co-operative distribution.

The labor party will in all probability be defeated in Parliament by the Tories and Liberals on the Irish boundary issue, and the proposed British loan to the Soviet government, so the party has constructed a platform calculated to give Premier MacDonald a commanding position in the popular elections.

FAMILY VIEWS HER AS TRILBY

Defense of Mrs. Sweetin May Contend She Was Under Hypnotic Control.

LOVE LED TO CRIME

MOUNT VERNON, Ill., September 26. — Another battle of psychologists in an effort to save a confessed murderer from the gallows looms up here as the lines for the defence of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, confessed poisoner of her husband, Wilford, in a "love pact" with the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, are drawn by the members of her family and counsel, which she has retained.

While no official announcement of the probable lines of the defence was made members of the family indicated that they would attempt to prove that Mrs. Sweetin administered the poison while under hypnotic spell cast by her pastor-lover.

Spell broken by Death.

She will be pictured to the court as "Trilby" and Hight as the Svengali who broke her power to control her own actions.

With the killing, they say, the spell was broken. Mrs. Sweetin emerged from the trance and now realizes the terrible deed she committed.

She sits listlessly in the dark cell at Salem, a dark skinned, dark-haired woman, eyes of hazy blue shifting restlessly, the flat chest heaving. The lips drawn within the mouth, are released and there is the trace of a burned out fire in her face.

Not the killing is her cross, but the love so suddenly dead. It died so quickly, in the fleeting moment when she knew her pastor lover was dross-counterfeit. And now this woman sits and probes within as colorless as meaningless as a blank sheet of paper.

"I wanted love," she began her tale, another Eve seeking a new Eden.

"And Wilford Sweetin didn't give me the kind I wanted. He was a glacier—cold, no words of affection."

"I married him when I was sixteen. My family was terribly poor. Father had left mother when I was only a few months old. He went to Colorado and forgot my brother Earl and me.

"We went to Ewing, a little town near the farm where I was born and mother took in washing.

Led Religious Life.

MACDONALD AND ZAGLONE PASHA DISCUSS SUDAN

Meeting of British and Egyptian Premiers Arrived at Settlement.

MacDONALD FIRM

Time Not Arrived for Egypt's Administration of the Sudan.

LONDON, Sept. 26.— Premier MacDonald and Said Zagloul Pasha, the Egyptian premier, began conversations yesterday with the intention of presenting the attitudes of British and Egyptian governments on the subject of the Sudan and kindred matters.

Although the meeting did much to eliminate the existing misunderstanding with regard to the Sudan, it is not believed that great progress toward a definite settlement of the question is likely to be made during agloul's present visit to England. The premiers meet again to-day.

Contrary to reports, Zagloul is not proceeding to Paris Sunday, but will remain in London hoping to settle the whole issue of Sudan Suzerainty before returning to Cairo. It is asserted that the Egyptian premier's entire political future depends on his mission here and that if he does not succeed he will be subjected to much embarrassment on his return home.

While Mr. MacDonalds is understood to be doing everything possible to meet Zagloul's proposals, so that he can add another success to his career as foreign minister, he is nevertheless firmly upholding the British attitude that the new Egyptian estate has not yet proved its capacity for administering the Sudan or caring for the welfare of its inhabitants, and that therefore the time has not arrived for Great Britain to shift the responsibility of the Sudan to Egypt.

"IT DOESN'T HURT" SAYS THE HANGMAN

Hungary Seeks Executioner With Steady Nerves—Last One Tender.

BUDAPEST, Sept. 26.—Although ruthless cutting down of expenses has emptied many a government office, and civil servants still in municipal employ cling tightly to their jobs, the Hungaria government has been obliged to advertise in order to fill one vacancy, that of hangman.

"A young, sturdy man with strong nerves," is asked for to replace Michael Bali, who is retiring after 30 years service and means to live in case with his large family on the small estate he has purchased at Fad, near Budapest, out of his earnings. Bali is suffering from rheumatism in his right hand, and feels it is time to make way for a younger man. He is famous for his gentle treatment and compassion for the condemned, and his last consolation always consisted in a whisper "It does not hurt and will soon be over."

BAD INFLUENCE GONE

Berlin Rebuilds Its Palaces —Few From Emperor's Whims.

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—There has been a reaction in Berlin against the style of city architecture which was popular in the old days with William Hohenzollern, and which he was not slow to enforce. The taste of the former ruler is declared today to have been distinctly bad, and now the municipality will have no more of it.

In Potsdam the reaction shows particularly. Here are the palaces of the former royal family, and many of them are being restored to the condition they were in prior to the ascent to the throne of William II. The same policy is to be followed out in Berlin, with its many castles and palaces.

LENINGRAD'S LOSS IRREPARABLE FROM FLOOD THAT LEFT 10 DEAD IN ITS WAKE

Wooden Block Pavements Washed Away — Theatres Invaded and Former Imperial Residence's Treasures Damaged Beyond Hope.

LENINGRAD, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—After two days of gales and floods, Leningrad yesterday began to take stock of enormous damage.

Everywhere the flood which swept in from the Gulf of Finland Tuesday, left wreckage and ruin in its wake. The streets and boulevards, which are paved with wooden blocks, literally floated away while the population were made captives in their homes.

Ten lives thus far have been reported as lost, while there were many casualties. A number of small fires have broken out due to short circuiting of electric wires. Bridges were carried away by the flood waters and the German steamer Merck is ashore in the harbor.

All of the summer resorts along the Finnish Bay have been submerged while the magnificient former Imperial residence at Peterhof is entirely flooded, causing irreparable damage to its priceless collection of royal antiquities. The opera house and nearly all of the theatres of Leningrad were invaded by the waters and the scenery and costumes were ruined.

LIQUOR PIRATE FACES GALLOWS

New Yorker Held in France Threatens to Expose "Higher Up" in Two Countries.

TRIAL TUESDAY

BREST, France, Sept. 26.—Max Jerome Phaff, a German-American, of No. 219 East One Hundred and Ninety-Sixth Street, New York, arrested in Paris, September 16, on a charge of piracy on the high seas, and who stands in the shadow of the gallows if convicted, has been lodged in the naval barracks.

The charge against Phaff grew out of the boarding of the French steamship Malhouse off the Canadian coast last July by pirates who held up the crew and robbed the cargo of nearly 36,000 cases of whiskey and champagne worth over $100,000.

May Hold Higher Ups.

The Phaff case, it is said, is likely to develop some sensational revelations concerning the wholesale smuggling of liquor into the United States.

The defendant declares he is unwilling "to be made the goat," and says he will implicate men "higher up" in America as well as reliable firms in Great Britain.

Phaff's preliminary hearing was set for to-day, but Attorney P. G. E. Gidz, of the Paris and London Bar Associations, acting for the defence, requested a postponement until September 30 in order to study his client's case before pleading.

Will Offer Alibi.

The French law of April 10, 1885, still governs piracy. The penalty is death by hanging. There has been no trial under this law since 1871, when a Greek privateer was tried at Toulon, convicted and executed.

It is the present intention of the defence to challenge the competency of the tribunal. If this is overruled an alibi will be offered which will tend to prove that Phaff was in Halifax when the Mulhouse was boarded.

Phaff, it is understood, may admit that he smuggled liquor into the United States and demand a trial before the United States courts.

The defence may also argue that the owners of the Mulhouse are liable to the American courts.

ARCTIC ICE HURTS RADIO

Vessel on Way to Establish Farthest North Station Turned Back.

OTTAWA, Ont., Sept. 26.—Establishment of the farthest-north radio station in the world, on Herschell Island in the Artic Ocean at the mouth of the Mackenzie River, has been abondoned for this year, the National Defense Department of Canada announces, because of failure of the motorship Lady Kindersley to get through ice in the Artic Ocean with equipment.

Ice in the Arctic Ocean this summer not only caught the Lady Kindersley, but seized the trading schooner Artic of San Francisco, and crippled and turned back the cutter Bear of the United States Coast Guard. This vessel was to have taken off a group of 13 persons left on Wrangell Island, north of Siberia, in 1923.

FARMERS HEARD BY COMMITTEE

Session at Lindsay of Special Board of Enquiry Probing Rural Problems.

MANY TOPICS

LINDSAY, Sept. 26.—The Agricultural Inquiry Commission, which has been appointed by the Provincial Government to tour the province and take evidence relative to the agricultural, economic and business conditions, held a session in Lindsay Thursday afternoon. It was attended by a goodly number of farmers and also those who have business relations with the agriculturists. A great deal of evidence was heard on matters directly affecting the agricultural industry, such as the cost of Hydro on the farm, the low prices obtained for agricultural products and the high prices paid to the merchants for the necessities of life; the scarcity of farm help and the high wage demanded by this help; the cost of agricultural implements; the abolition of the middleman and agent, and the purchase of implements, etc., for use on the farm direct from the manufacturer.

Mr. Wm. Flavelle, of Flavelles, Limited, Lindsay, said he would welcome rigid cream tests by the government. He condemned the unscrupulous methods adopted by some dishonest creameries.

Mr. E. G. Lytle, of the firm of Hogg & Lytle, grain merchants, who do a large overseas business, said that the only salvation for the Canadian farm was a good European market. Conditions had improved of late on the continent, and his firm was now shipping alsike to Germany. He gave the late Drury Government credit for introducing legislation which enabled the farmers to secure Hydro power, and condemned the proposal to reduce the government grants to rural schools.

The personnel of the commission is as follows: Hon. Dr. Jamieson, Durham, Chairman; T. A. Thomoson, Almonte; H. W. Trewartha, Clinton; W. B. Clark, Parham; Wm. Keith, Newmarket; M. M. McBride, Brantford; Wm. Keith, Newmarket; A. Belanger, Clarkston; J. G. Letibridge, Glencoe.

A Losing Game

Mr. E. J. Mark of Oakwood, president of the county U.F.O. stated that there is practically no benefit or financial result in raising beef cattle He stated that it cost the farmer $78.50 to raise a 3 year old grade butcher's steer for the market, and in the end he only received $84. A trifle more profit might have been received if the calf had been sold at two months, as the longer it was kept the more the farmer lost. Selling cattle for breeding purposes is a losing game, stated the president. He agreed that scrub bulls should be eliminated by legislation, some assist-

DEATH RATHER THAN BETRAYAL

Condemned Montreal Bandit Refused to Divulge Name of "Inside Man."

DECISION SEPT. 30

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press)—Final decision as to whether Leo (Kid) Davis condemned to death with five others for the murder of Henri Clereaux, Bank of Hochelaga chauffeur, killed during the hold-up of the bank's collection car last April, will be given a second chance to fight for his life or whether he will hang on October 24, will be given on Sept. 30, when the court of appeals, who have heard his application for a new trial, renders judgment.

At the same time a similar decision is expected regarding Davis' alleged accomplices in the hold-up, Morel Serafini, Tony Frank, Mike Valentino and Frank Gambino.

Inside Help.

The day was one of sensational developments. Louis Morel, ex-Montreal detective, and now one of the condemned men, who in an affidavit swore that Davis had nothing to do with the crime and on which the application for a new trial was made, declared he had been under obligation to give $6,000 out of the bank spoils to a bank messenger, this man, he said, was a "gentleman highly placed" but he was prepared to face death on the gallows rather than betray him and even if offered liberty instead of hanging, he would not give the name away. Morel informed R. L. Calder, K.C., Crown Prosecutor, that he was a man of his word, even if he was a thief, and his word of honor, once given, to the bank messenger, would not be broken.

Contradictions Alleged.

Oscar Gagnon, counsel for Davis, drew attention to what he alleged to be contradictions in the evidence of Neigro, who had turned King's evidence, and also between the latter's testimony and that of other crown witnesses.

His argument was countered by by members of the bench, who held that Davis had admitted that he was acquainted with the plot, and yet had refrained from informing the police. By so doing, he had rendered valuable assistance to the plotters, as the giving of information would have rendered the crime impossible.

MEANING OF WORD 'VERIFY' LOOMS IMPORTANT IN AUDITOR'S TRIAL

Question Raised As To Whether Sidney H. Smith Verified Figures Or the Values They Represented in Home Bank Reports.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—From 3 o'clock until adjournment at 5 o'clock, Judge Coatsworth, conducting the trial of Sidney H. Jones, Home Bank auditor, on charges of making out and concurring in false reports, heard read letter after letter from the records of the Department of Finance at Ottawa, concerning Sir Thomas White's communications with various persons on Home Bank affairs in 1916. These letters were all produced before the Royal Commission conducting the Home Bank affairs and include Sir Thomas White's letters seeking more information on Home Bank finances after he had received requests to do so by Western directors of the bank, including Hon. T. A. Crerar. Some were addressed to the late Z. A. Lash and others to M. J. Haney.

Crown's Objection.

The defence counsel started reading at 3 o'clock and finished at 4.30. Then the Crown counsel started to read letters from the file that the defence had not read, and was still busy reading at adjournment. D. L. McCarthy objected in the first place to the letters going in unless it was shown that they were connected with the accused or that he knew something about them. R. H. Greer, defence counsel, said they might have a bearing on the case and the Judge said he would let them in not wanting to hinder the defence in any way.

"Verified" Figures.

It was stated by opposing counsel at the session Thursday morning that the interpretation placed on the word "verification" would have much to do with the fate of Sidney H. Smith, auditor, the accused. Thomas Gibbs, former assistant accountant, said that the auditor had verified his figures in his report from the books but would not swear that he had verified the values in certain items. The Crown argues that verification means of the values of securities and loans, etc., and not simply verification of figures from the books. The statements from counsel were made after the Crown had objected to Mr. Greer asking Thos. Gibbs what was meant by verification. The Crown argued that such a question was for the Judge to decide, and the Court upheld the contention.

Great masses of papers and returns from the Home Bank were put in yesterday after being identified. Much of the evidence in the Smith trial is being repeated in the case of Jones, and will be put in separately in the case of all bank officials being tried so as to be ready in cases of appeal.

$300,000 SPENT; HAS NO REGRETS

Fortune Flitted in Three Months in Entertainment for "Four Hundred."

$40,000 FOR COAT

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Charles Grant Myers, 2nd, does not regret spending $300,000 in three months, an episode that made him famous overnight. Rather, he says, the knowledge gained from mingling learned a lot and considers the with the four hundred with the price.

It was little more than a year ago that Myers, then just twenty, startled New York society by his lavish entertainments. Dinners, theatre parties, horse races, everything fell to the lot of his friends.

In the office of J. W. Zerega, at No. 25 Broadway yesterday, young Myers told his story.

"I don't regret spending that money. I had a good time, learned a lot, mingled with the best people and reached the peak of society.

$40,000 For Fur Coat.

"I never cared for Broadway. It was only Fifth avenue that I wanted and I got there. But while I had money I certainly did spend it.

FALL MAY BE FATAL.

Workman Repairing Scaffold Dropped 50 Feet On Rocks.

QUEBEC, Sept. 6.—While engaged in repairing a scaffold used by painters in painting the Quebec Bridge, Georges Charest fell fifty feet from the bridge to the rocks at the south end of the structure and Dr. J. R. Dumas, who was called upon to attend him entertains hope for his recovery.

Charest, who only 20 years of age and single weighs over 200 pounds and too heavy, apparently for the scaffold to support him. Charest did not even lose consciousness.

A medical examination, however showed that both legs were fractured and that he had been otherwise seriously injured.

Government Sale, What It Means

A great effort is being made to induce the public to believe that the evils that always are associated with the sale of liquor—no matter in what form—will disappear as though by magic if liquor is sold under so-called "Government control." Here are some facts to think about:

HARD COLD FACTS

Government sale excludes the bar, but provides the bottle. Once the liquor is sold Government control ceases. Where do the bottles go?

1.—Into the homes.
How will this stop young people from drinking?
2.—Into the factory:
Then see industrial accidents increase.
3.—Into hotel rooms.
What chance then for quiet hotel life?
4.—Into automobiles.
The streets are dangerous enough now.

Drunkenness is not the only danger. Most dangerous is the man who only has taken an ordinary drink and who feels all right, but who is ready to take chances and run risks. Vote for the O. T. A.

THE VOTERS' LISTS

TRAIN WAS DERAILED.

Bandits In Russia Responsible For Heavy Death Toll.

ODESSA, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Fifteen person were killed, twenty-five mortally injured and 43 seriously hurt to-day when a Moscow to Odessa express was derailed by bandits about three hundred miles from Moscow.

The bandits disconnected the rails, causing the locomotive and ten coaches and baggage cars to jump the tracks. With the exception of the last three coaches, the entire train, which was travelling at a high speed, was completely wrecked, and the engineer, fireman and conductors being instantly killed. The rails were torn up for a distance of nearly a thousand feet. The injured were rushed to Moscow. The bandits escaped. The wreck was the second in less than a month, caused by the wanton destruction of the track, forty passengers being killed on August 29th in a similar disaster.

$300,000 SPENT

I paid $22,000 for one auto, and $18,000 for another, $36,000 for two emeralds and $40,000 for a fur coat.

"My grandfathers built churches. However, that doesn't mean that I must build them. Since my money went I have been living moderately.

'My Friends Wonderful.'

"All my friends have treated me wonderfully. By friends I mean those that I met during my splurge in society. I can still visit them if I want to and dine with them at any time.

"Will I ever go to work? Well, I may and I may not. That depends entirely on my mood."

The youth who startled Fifth avenue will now live on an income of $50,000 a year, derived from a trust fund left by his grandmother.

EUGENE LEPAGE GIVES TANLAC FULL CREDIT

Stomach Trouble Vanishes And Montreal Man Gains 14 Lbs. On 4 Bottles.

"Since I began taking this wonderful Tanlac, I seem to be getting younger every day. I have gained 14 lbs. on four bottles and everybody speaks about how well I look."

The above statement was made by Eugene Lepage, proprietor of the Prince of Wales barber shop, Montreal, Canada, one of the most exclusive tonsorial parlors in this city. Mr. Lepage further said:

"Stomach trouble had almost completely ruined my health. I was mere shadow of my former self and so run down and nervous I thought I would have to give up my work.

"Tanlac soon had me eating everything, sleeping like a log at night, and feeling as fine as one could ask to feel. My only regret is that I did not learn about Tanlac long before I did."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million boxes sold.

Tanlac Vegetable Pills for constipation; made and recommended by the manufacturers of Tanlac.

ALBERTA GREETS WALES.

Message Of Welcome Sent By Government To E. P. Ranch.

EDMONTON, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Welcome to the Province of Alberta, in behalf of all the people of Alberta, has been expressed to the Prince of Wales through the Provincial Government, which has sent him a brief and informal message to greet him on arrival at the E.P. Ranch.

The desire is expressed also that the Prince will have a good holiday while in Alberta, and the Government will be glad to do anything it can to make that wish come true.

Nothing has been planned, however, in the way of official receptions or visits, so far as the Government is concerned, and the Prince's desire to have a quiet holiday on the farm will be respected fully. The Minister of Agriculture will attend the sale of livestock on the ranch which is scheduled for October 1.

FARMERS HEARD

ance should be given by the government in purchasing well bred bulls. He also claimed that charges at stock yards could be reduced and better feed should be supplied. Shipping charges were also said to be too high.

J. L. Laidley of Omemee stated that 90 per cent of the farmers in the district produced cream for butter and that there is universal dissatisfaction with the tests at creameries. It was pointed out that farmers are criss-crossing in shipping. For instance cream from Muskoka is received in Lindsay, while farmers in this district send to Belleville, Toronto and other points. The solution, he stated, would be government check tests to protect the farmer.

Mr. D. Weir of Omemee, claimed that in purchasing from the manufacturer the farmer had to pay the bulk of the increased taxation. He suggested the elimination of the sales tax.

FEATHER POMPON

The large feather pompon is seen on many of the smartest new felt and velvet hats.

TRY THE DERBY HAT

Say London Shops—Elevate Bowler to Pre-War Honor.

LONDON, Sept. 26.—There is a quiet revolution going on in England in the world of mens' fashions, its outward and visible sign just now being the restoratoin of the bowler hat, as Piccadily calls the Derby, to the place of honor it held in pre-war days.

Up until recent there was a gradual falling off of formality in men's dress, due to the influence of the war. Now the reaction has set in in favor of formal dress. The first indication was the gradual replacement of the soft collar by the old fashioned stiff linen collar. Next the soft shirt for evening wear, which few Britons ever approved, disappeared, its place being taken exclusively by the more dignified stiff front.

Now comes the complete change in hat fashiones. Last year a Derby hat was the exception, but this year it has become the rule. One hatter attributed the change to the predilection of the Prince of Wales to the Derby. At any rate, in Bond Stree and Piccadilly, more than twice the number of Derbies are being sold in comparison with Triblys and Homburgs.

P. Black's Bargain Sale On Saturday

P. Black's two busy stores, corner of George and King streets, will be closed Monday and Tuesday next on account of the Jewish New Year holiday. But in order to meet the requirements of his customers for seasonable merchandise, Mr. Black is holding a big bargain sale tomorrow. Ladies' up-to-date coats, dresses, skirts, waists, etc., may be bought at considerable savings, as well as a special line of stylish millinery. The men will also find complete lines of dependable ready-to-wear, including top coats and suits, all marked down to attractive prices, while substantial bargains are offered in boy's clothing.

again. And there were lots of children—six—but I was always alone. Mother did not have much time for me. I went up to the eighth grade, but when I was twelve I had to go to work. I was a housemaid.

"Well, nobody cared very much for me. And then I met Wilford and I married him.

"I loved him and he loved me. The children came, and they were dear, but there was something missing out of my life. I had been religious and again I sought to regain that deep communion with God.

"About a year ago Hight came to town."

Her story breaks. She gasps. Her eyes widen as with fear. She says softly:

"Hight is in his cell. He hears me!"

And then her odyssey of boredom, the story of a life grown stale, is resumed.

"God, what a life. Sweetin made good money—$40 or $50 a week. He worked in the mines, and he'd come home and go to bed. I wasn't happy.

"And so Hight came. He was our preacher and he told me later that he loved me the moment he saw me. He won my confidence from the start—and later my heart.

Gave him a Pure Heart.

"I gave him a pure heart and I got back a sinful one. I was a good woman and now I am bad.

"It was several months before I really got to know him. Then one night there was a revival meeting. The preacher came to take me.

"He told me he'd rather go with me in the car than anybody else. He then rushed on and told me he loved me. I didn't know what to say. Somebody cared enough for me to tell me about it.

"I went home after the meeting, and I didn't know what I was doing. Everything looked so queer to me. And then he began winning my confidence. I went places with him. And then, I, too, began to love him. But I always remembered that I was married to another man.

"He told me that his wife didn't love him and he didn't care about her. By then he was like God to me, and whatever he told me I believed. So when I told him I didn't love Wilford, and that Wilford did not care for me, I believed that, too."

Hight Suggests Killing.

"It was dusk one day, and we were standing on the church steps at Ina, when he told me that he couldn't live without me, that he had to have me; and that if he couldn't have me any other way he would get rid of his wife and marry me.

"I thought of divorce. I went home and prayed to remain a good wife and mother. I couldn't sleep, and God forsook me. Hight no longer prayed with me. He just loved me. I was a slave and he was a king. I worshipped him and thought that he could do no wrong.

"I had erred but never sinned. For my errors I could ask forgiveness and did, but for my sins there was no prayer. My lips were silent and my heart mute.

"It was on another night, and again in church, that my pastor told me that I belonged to him and that he was mine, and declared that we were going to kill the others in our way.

"I ran down the steps and down the road. It was terrible, too terrible to think about. I went home and dropped to my knees and prayed, and when my husband came home I could not talk to him and I couldn't come near him.

Had to do His Bidding.

"The more I tried to forget what Hight had said, the more it persisted in my mind. And then it just seemed I had to do what he told me, so that when he gave me the poison I put it in the things my husband ate.

"It did't seem terrible any more. Love was the greatest thing in the world. It didn't matter if you killed for it, if you stole for it, if you cheated and lied. If your love was great enough and godly enough, all was forgiven. No one who loved could do wrong and it didn't matter what the world said.

"And when Sweetin died I wasn't at all sorry. The pastor preached the sermon. I remember that it was a good sermon.

"After the body was buried, Hight walked home with me, and he said: 'Well, that's over; I wish the rest of the job was off my mind.'

"Then I began to think how much I had loved my husband, and how good he had been to me. He gave me everything I wanted, but he wasn't sweet—and Hight was sweet.

"If I could have gotten Wilford back, I would have. After all I had been married to him for sixteen years and a woman gets used to her man. I was afraid now that Hight would poison Anna and I didn't want him to. I told him I didn't.

"I didn't want to marry Hight then, for he wasn't a god to me any more. I got tired of him. My mind came back to me, and I knew he was not nearly as good as I thought he was. I was a woman and he was a man and a preacher, and he shouldn't have put sin in my my mind and murder in my heart. I just wanted to think about my children.

"Do you know, I think he is a coward. He shouldn't have said anything about me. And I have three children—they're so dear.

"His face—my husband's—was always before me. It is now I think of him and I know now that I loved him more than I could ever love Hight. He was a coward not to protect me. He drew me out of my happy life with a promise of something better and I have—this.

"But what can I say I have killed because I loved too greatly, and now I have nothing."

The story of a burned out passion is ended! The undefined shoulders shrug wth inner cold. The eyes look out dully as if visualizing the vast vast, dreary future stretching endlessly ahead.

And the woman who killed turns to the hard cot in her cell as the steel door clangs shut behind her interviewer.

Sans prayer, sans faith, sans love, Elsie Sweetin stands alone with her thoughts.

BLAZING OIL SHIP.

Crew Rescued When Radio Carries News of Situation.

NEW YORK, September 26 (Canadian Press). — After a week on a blazing oil tanker 160 miles at sea, 28 sailors, many burned or exhausted by the fumes, were rescued by the steamer Lituania, which arrived here yesterday, when the story was told by Captain J. H. Jorgensen.

The tanker Iber, with a cargo of 2,900 gallins of gasoline, was en route from Philadelphia to Rouen, France, when fire was discovered in the hold.

Efforts to locate the blaze itself availed nothing.

Soon the deck plates were unbearably hot. The flames were creeping toward the tanks.

This was the state of things when Captain Bloomfield offered a wireless call for help on Sunday night.

The Lituania picked up the call and put on full steam ahead.

Sighting the burning Iber at 12.45 o'clock, she found most of the crew adrift in boats, unharmed sailors attempting to relieve the suffering of those burned and exhausted.

The men of the Iber were taken to Halifax, N.S., where they were put ashore for hospital treatment.

FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 26, 1924.

NOT INTERESTED.

Candidly, is it any wonder our tax bills are heavy?

A short despatch from Fort William yesterday affords some insight into one of the chief reasons why civic government is unusually costly.

It was to the effect that that little interest was shown by the taxpayers in the voting on a bylaw to raise $200,000 to complete the Collegiate Institute, and only a small vote was polled.

Two hundred thousand dollars to be expended and the people who pay the taxes are not interested enough in an outlay of that size to express their opinion of it!

Fort William in this respect is neither better nor worse than other cities in the Province.

There is so much indifference on the part of the taxpayers as to the selection of their civic rulers and as to the expenditures of their money that the miracle is not that we are feeling the burden of taxation, but rather that we do not find it much more onerous.

We in Peterborough are just as open to indictment to the charge of culpable negligence of our interests as are the citizens of Fort William.

There is a Collegiate Institute problem here that demands a solution, but apparently the great mass of the taxpayers are not worrying in the least about the matter.

They may awaken when they find that there is no room in the Collegiate Institute for the accommodation of their children, a condition that seems to be rapidly approaching.

WHY MOTORISTS COMPLAIN.

The improvement of Ontario's highways is desirable in the interest of the ever-growing legion of automobile owners, and it is recognized that where construction work is under way on a main artery of traffic there must be needs of some inconvenience to the motoring fraternity.

However, as the Examiner pointed out a few days ago, some effort should be made to reduce this inconvenience to a minimum by insisting that the contractors do their work at top speed, working day and night shifts.

And at the same time some attention should be paid to the detour roads that have to be used while the highways are blocked.

The complaints in regard to the detour made necessary by road operations between Bowmanville and Oshawa are multiplying as the detour continues to grow daily worse under the pressure of the heavy volume of traffic diverted over it.

The road was not in bad shape when it was marked out as a detour, but it was never intended to stand up under present traffic conditions—and it hasn't stood up.

It is doubtful whether anywhere in Ontario where there is a large amount of traffic is there such a bad piece of road as this, over which all the motor cars travelling along the lake front must pass.

If main roads are to be tied up for any appreciable length of time the department should at least endeavour to improve the detours.

SHOULD GO SLOWLY.

Attention will be focussed upon the immigration problem because of the timely resolution passed by the Toronto City Council calling upon the Federal Government not to encourage immigrants of any class to come to Canada during the winter months, and to take more care in passing immigrants from all ports of entry.

This whole question of immigration deserves more attention than it is receiving.

On one hand there is the need of a larger population in this country, to develop the resources, help solve the railway problem and to assist in the building up of a great dominion.

On the other, there is the undeniable fact that at present there is considerable unemployment, and that new arrivals at this time of the year are likely to become a charge on the community.

The Toronto Council desires the Government to go slowly, and the advice seems to be justified.

Large sums are being spent to encourage immigration to Canada.

And to what end?

Merely to add to the army of the unemployed and to increase the burden of the municipalities, upon whose shoulders the Government has laid the responsibility of taking care of the workless.

Until conditions readjust themselves Canada's immigration campaign should be a very modest one, based on the principle that the truth as to conditions here must be told to prospective immigrants.

Under the present conditions it is both cruel and foolish to allow immigrants to come here.

BRITISH AND GERMAN TRADE.

According to reports, there seems to be some anxiety felt in Great Britain in certain quarters that the Dawes scheme, and the loan to Germany will adversely affect trade there, says the Kingston Standard. This fear seems to be felt principally by Labor. It is therefore interesting to see that this view is not shared in by many of the great leaders in finance and industry. The belief of the latter is that the return to prosperity to Germany, and also to Russia, is essential to the prosperity of the world, and that though Great Britain would probably lose at first she would more than make up for this in the end. It is pointed out that the dread of cheap German labor is not as real as it looks, for under a Republic the German workers are not likely to remain content with the small wages which they were practically forced to take under the rule of the Arch Criminal, and as a matter of fact wages in Germany are reported to be rising.

There is one matter which should receive greater publicity and that is as to the truth of the statement that the Germans are making many goods which find their way to Great Britain not entirely finished, but there the finishing touches are applied, and then the goods are sold as British made. This would be an excellent way for the Germans to make money, and the public would be interested in knowing what truth there is in the statement. For our part we are inclined to think it is correct. Letting this pass, it may be said that it is probably due to the large views which British financiers and industrialists have taken in the past that Great Britain has attained the world position she has, and that these same large views being held now presage more prosperity for her and the world.

THE "THRILL" BUSINESS.

Up in Grand Rapids a woman—a wife and mother—is under arrest because she stole dresses from a department store, not because her circumstances influenced her to do so, but because she wanted the "thrill of it."

In Maine a fine young boy was caught while driving a bootleggers' automobile. No, he wasn't a member of the gang. He cared nothing about liquor and did not drink himself, or sell drink to others. He liked "the thrill" of being chased by the prohibition officers and just "stepping on 'er."

In a little town of the middle west, a boy of 14 is in the hands of the constable because he has been scattering tacks and screws along a much-travelled highway adjacent to town, much to the damage of automobile tires and otherwise comparatively good dispositions.

He had no feeling of ill-will against machine or driver, just liked to hear the hiss and pop of air-filled tires and the vocal outbursts of outraged autoists. He liked "the thrill" of it.

A young man in New York has been caught by the police, after a long quest. He had set fire to some 20-odd empty houses. He was possessed by an irresistible desire to hear the clatter of fire apparatus, the shouts and screams of men and women and to see the rush of crowds and the roll of the ominous smoke. He liked "the thrill" of it.

The "thrill" business seems to be on the increase, but, even at that, it stands out distinctively and repulsively because it is exceptional. Reaction from it will come in due time, as always is the case, and law and good order will prevail.

As a matter of fact, people everywhere, in a vast majority, are now going about their usual affairs soberly and sedately, and their influence for even and level living cannot be neutralized by tangents in crime or otherwise.

Common decency never will be and never has been entirely out of fashion.

EMPIRE INDUSTRIES.

"Overseas" for September contains an article by the Hon. Charles A. Dunning, Premier of Saskatchewan, on "A British Empire Conception of Industry." He says that he finds in Great Britain on all hands the old conception that Great Britain is the workshop of the Empire, and that the function of the Dominions and the Colonies is to produce the raw materials, ship these raw materials to the workshop, have them manufactured in Great Britain, and buy the finished product. Mr. Dunning tries to dispel this notion, which is somewhat startling to Canadians. How can one expect, he says, that those who migrate from Great Britain to the Dominions shall leave behind them the British industrial genius? The Canadian tendency is undoubtedly to develop the resources of Canada and manufacture the products at home.

Premier Dunning is undoubtedly right in his opinion that industrial development is and must be an important Canadian activity. This is true, irrespective of the differences of opinion which exist in regard to tariff protection. Canada has resources which are the bases of manufacturing industry: water powers, minerals and forests; and her people are largely of the same race as those who made Great Britain and the United States leading manufacturing nations. It is quite out of the question to talk of this country as a producer only of raw material to be worked up into manufactures somewhere else.

To the objection that the industrial development of Canada may "ruin the Old Land," Mr. Dunning replies with a plea for a new orientation of British industry. He would extend the application of that term from Great Britain to the British Empire. He would have more British capital invested in industrial development in Canada. He shows how an implement industry was built up in Canada, and how great American concerns engaged in that business established themselves in this country. He goes on:

> So when you say that it is dangerous for British industry to develop Dominion resources, you see what happens. Failure to develop them does not mean retention of that market for the industry of Great Britain, but the development of competition of alien industries which will invade even other markets now held by British industry. In Saskatchewan we have clay deposits of greater diversity and quality than exist anywhere else in Canada. The Government is endeavoring to interest the British ceramic industry in the development of this class of industry and the industries based upon it. But it has been argued in Great Britain that to develop this industry in Saskatchewan would create competition for the Old Country's institutions. Now that sounds logical; but it is logical only from the point of view of those who know England only. "What do they know of England who only England know?" says the poet. I tell those British ceramic people who will not develop our clay that they cannot prevent competition arising. Another instance occurred very recently when the largest and most valuable deposit of sodium sulphate in Saskatchewan was taken over by an American firm.

Incidentally it is interesting to note that Saskatchewan, which is regarded as almost entirely an agricultural Province, possesses other industrial resources to which the Premier evidently attaches great importance. Diversified industry would help to solve the problems of the Prairie farmer.—Toronto Globe.

HUGE RYE SHORTAGE.

Europe Buying Heavily In American Market—Price Soaring.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—An estimated rye shortage of 130,000,000 bushels in Europe this season has resulted in an enormous demand for American rye. It is estimated that sales to Southern European countries in the last week alone have been in excess of 10,000,000 bushels. Prices have advanced eight cents a bushel and are now only 25 cents under the level of wheat, whereas a short time ago the difference was 40 cents.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 26. — Including yesterday the receipts of cattle for the week at the Union Stock Yards were 8,261 and the sales up till Wednesday night 585. There were, therefore, less than 700 for sale yesterday. Yesterday morning's receipts were 16 cars, 209 cattle, 19 calves, 24 hogs, and 34 sheep and lambs.

Common butchers were decidedly weak and a few sold as low as $2.75 a cwt. Butchers 'cows were steady. One good cow brought $4.25 a cwt. For a choice heavy bull Rogers & Maybee paid $4.00 a cwt. to go with next week's shipment.

A smaller number of calves were shipped to Buffalo this week and a few were bought for this purpose yesterday at around 9.1-2 and 10 cents a pound. There were too few on sale yesterday to really make a market.

Lambs are closing the week fairly steady at 11 1-2 to 12 cents a pound for light ewes. A small package of choice ewes sold yesterday morning at 12 cents a pound. Most of yesterday's lambs were heavy, and these were not wanted, and were unsold at noon. Buyers expect these to drop a dollar a cwt.

The quotation for hogs remains at $9.25 a cwt f.o.b. and $10.25 a cwt. off cars. Deliveries at the yards were light, but the packers say they are getting all the trade demands.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, September 26. (Canadian Press). — Fresh receipts continue scarce and storage eggs are coming out of the coolers more freely to meet the consumptive demand, with the result that prices are firmer with very little change anticipated.

Toronto firm. Jobbing fresh specials 48 to 50, extras 45, storage extras 43, firsts 38, seconds 32.

Montreal firm under a good domestic demand. Jobbing specials 48 to 49, extras 42 to 43, firsts 36 to 37, seconds 30.

Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta markets remain firm and unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, September 26 (Canadian Press). — There was some demand from British importers here yesterday for grain, and sales of odd lots of Manitoba spring wheat and barley were made for October shipment. The trade in cash grain was rather slow, the demand from exporters and domestic buyers being limited, but the feeling was firm.

The local spring wheat market displayed further strength and smelters generally marked up prices on all grades 10 cents per barrel, which makes a net advance since the first of the month of 40 cents per barrel. There was no change in winter wheat flour, but the undertone was firm and a fair amount of business was done.

A moderate trade was done in white corn flour.

The market for millfeed was without any new feature to note.

The old crop baled hay situation was steady, and prices were unchanged, with a fair amount of trade.

The market for standard grade of rolled oats was firm.

There was no change in the condition of the local egg market, prices being fully maintained.

The trading in local butter was reported quiet.

The cheese trade was not active, owing to the fact that British buyers cancelled their orders owing to the high prices ruling.

STERLING RATES

MONTREAL, September 26 (Canadian Press-. — Sterling exchange rates were quoted here yesterday as follows:

Sterling demand $4.46 3-4

Sterling cables $4.47 1-8

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WINNIPEG, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals yesterday: 1,141 cattle, 62 calves, 594 hogs, 169 sheep and lambs.

There was virtually no change in trading on the cattle market yesterday morning, with bidding on butcher classes inclined to be slow, with prices about in line with Wednesday's close.

The stocker and feeder market showed no improvement, and these classes declined from 25 to 35 cents.

The hog market opened steady, the thick smooths selling at $8.75.

The sheep and lamb market continued firm, with top lambs strong $10.00 to $11.00, and sheep from $6.00 to $7.00.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, September 26 (Canadian Press).—Cattle, receipts 12,000; weighty fed steers closing 25 cents lower; spots more; moderate supply unsold at noon; prices generally back in last week's closing rut; best matured steers, $10.50; several loads long fed 1,350 to 1,580 pound average, $9.50 to $10; handyweight upward to $11.00; many strolngs fat rough native steers, $9.00 and below; shipping demand restricted by approaching Jewish holidays; edge off yearlings trade; good, choice kind steady but slower than on Wednesday; top yearlings averaging 993 to 1,012 pounds, $11.50; in-between grades fat she stock very dull; spots lower; grain fed comprising specialties in demand; canners steady at $2.75 to $2.90 mostly; buls slow; vealers steady to 25 cents higher; Western grass steers about steady at $6.50 to $7.00; feeder dealers taking about 200 head at $6.25 to $6.90 for horned and dehorned kind averaging 800 to 900 pounds.

Hogs, receipts 20,000; moderately active, steady to 10 cents lower, desirable light weight showing maximum decline; top, $10.35; bulk better 160 to 225 pound weight, $9.90 to $10.25; good and choice 250 to 350 pound butchers mostly $9.80 to $10.00; desirable 140 to 150 pound selections largely $9.50 to $9.80; bulk packing sows $8.50 to $8.90; majority strong weight slaughter pigs, $8.75 to $9.00; estimated holdover, 13,000.

Sheep, receipts 18,000; fat lambs uneven; natives steady to weak; spots $2.50 lower; Westerns generally steady; spots higher; bulk natives $12.50 to $13.00; few to outsider upward to $13.25; culls, $9.50; bulk rangers, $12.75 to $13.00; top, $13.40; comeback Western, $13.10; sheep and feeding lambs steady; choice 112 pound fat range ewes, $6.50; bulk fat natives $5.00 to $6.25; choice feeding lambs, $13.00; feeding ewes, $5.50.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 26 (Canadian Press). — Export purchases yesterday totalling 2,000,000 bushels of wheat and 500,000 bushels of rye had much to do with bringing about higher prices for wheat yesterday.

Wheat closed firm, 3-4c to 1 3-4c up, December 136 to 136 1-4, and May 141 1-2 to 141 5-8, with corn varying from 1 cent decline to 3-8 cent gain, and oats showing 1-8 cent to 5-8 cent advance.

In provisions, the outcome ranged from 10 cents setback to a rise of 2 cents.

Guided by an unexpected advance in Liverpool quotations and by a report that Russia had prohibited grain exports, the wheat market here developed strength right from the beginning. Advices telling of continued damage from storms in Europe acted as a further stimulus, and then came increasing evidence that new export buying of breadstuffs on a large scale was in progress. Wet and cold weather in parts of the Canadian North-West added to the upward swing of values, and with word late that snow was falling in Edmonton, the market closed at the day's top figures.

BROCKVILLE CHEESE.

BROCKVILLE, September 26 (Canadian Press). — At the meeting of the Brockville Dairymen's Board of Trade held yesterday 2,865 boxes were made up of 1,970 boxes of coloured cheese and 985 boxes of white, 190 boxes of coloured sold at 17 cents per pound.

The price of the best tube is little higher than that of the poorest.

But the cost of the poor tube may be many times that of the best.

For a poor tube, by causing underinflation, may easily ruin a costly casing.

Poor tubes leak air all the time, imperceptibly. Being usually made of one thickness of rubber, they have tiny flaws which it is impossible to prevent or detect in the making. They cause you to repeatedly run your tires under-inflated or to constantly use the tire gauge and air-line.

Goodyear Tubes are laminated—built up layer on layer of tissue-thin rubber, easily inspected and kept absolutely free of any flaw.

For the sake of your casings, use Goodyear Tubes. For your own comfort and convenience use Goodyear Tubes. For long, satisfactory tube service, use Goodyear Tubes.

He paused, and his tone became gentler, it assumed the level note of one who reasons impassively.

"Was it not an odd thing, now, that none should ever have paused to seek with certainty whence that blood proceeded, and to consider that I bore no wound in those days? Master Baine knew it, for I submitted my body to his examination, and a document was drawn up and duly attested which should have sent the Queen's pursuivants back to London with drooping tails had I been at Penarrow to receive them."

Faintly through her mind stirred the memory that Master Baine had urged the existence of some such document, that in fact he had gone so far as to have made oath of this very circumstance now urged by Sir Oliver; and she remembered that the matter had been brushed aside as an invention of the justice's to answer the charge of laxity in the performance of his duty, particularly as the only co-witness he could cite was Sir Andrew Black, the parson, since deceased. Sir Oliver's voice drew her attention from that memory.

"But let that be," he was saying. "Let us come back to the story itself. I gave the craven weakling shelter. Thereby I drew down suspicion upon myself, and since I could not clear myself save by denouncing him, I kept silent. That suspicion grew to certainty when the woman to whom I was betrothed, recking nothing of my oaths, freely believing the very worst of me, made an end of our betrothal and thereby branded me a murderer and a liar in the eyes of all. Indignation swelled against me. The Queen's pursuivants were on their way to do what the justices of Truro refused to do.

"So far I have given you facts. Now I give you surmise—my own conclusions—but surmise that strikes, as you shall judge, the very bull's-eye of truth. That dastard to whom I had given sanctuary, to whom I had served as a cloak, measured my nature by his own and feared that I must prove unequal to the fresh burden to be cast upon me. He feared lest under the strain of it I should speak out, advance my proofs, and so destroy him. There was the matter of that wound, and there was something still more unanswerable he feared I might have urged. There was a certain woman—a wanton up at Malpas—who could have been made to speak, who could have revealed a rivalry concerning her betwixt the slayer and your brother. For the affair in which Peter Godolphin met his death was a pitifully, shamefully sordid one at bottom."

For the first time she interrupted him, fiercely.

"Do you malign the dead?"

"Patience, mistress," he commanded. "I malign none. I speak the truth of a dead man that the truth may be known of two living ones. Hear me out, then. I have waited long and survived a deal that I might tell you this.

"That craven, then, conceived that I might become a danger to him; so he decided to remove me. He contrived to have me kidnapped one night and put aboard a vessel to be carried to Barbary, and sold there as a slave. That is the truth of my disappearance. And the slayer, whom I had befriended and sheltered at my own bitter cost, profited yet further by my removal. God knows whether the prospect of such profit was further temptation to him. In time he came to succeed me in my possessions, and at last to succeed me even in the affections of the faithless woman who once had been my affianced wife."

At last she started from the frozen patience in which she had listened hitherto.

"Do you say that—that, Lionel—?" she was beginning in a voice choked by indignation.

And then Lionel spoke at last, straightening himself into a stiffly upright attitude.

"He lies," he cried. "He lies, Rosamund. Do not heed him."

"I do not," she answered, turning away.

A wave of color suffused the swarthy face of Sakr-el-Bahr. A moment his eyes followed her as she moved away a step or two, then they turned their blazing light of anger upon Lionel. He strode silently across to him, his mien so menacing that Lionel shrank back in fresh terror.

Sakr-el-Bahr caught his brother's wrist in a grip that was as that of a steel manacle.

"We'll have the truth this night if we have to tear it from you with red-hot pincers," he said between his teeth.

He dragged him forward to the middle of the terraces and held him there before Rosamund, forcing him down upon his knees into a cowering attitude by the violence of that grip upon his wrist.

"Do you know aught of the ingenuity of Moorish torture?" he asked him. "You may have heard of the rack and the wheel and the thumbscrew at home. They are instruments of voluptuous delight compared with the contrivances of Barbary to loosen stubborn tongues."

White and tense, her hands clenched, Rosamund seemed to stiffen before him.

"You coward You cur You craven renegade dog!" she branded him.

Oliver released his brother's wrist and beat his hands together. Without heeding Rosamund, he looked down upon Lionel, who cowered shuddering at his feet.

"What do you say to a match between your fingers? Or do you think a pair of bracelets of living fire would answer better, to begin with?"

A squat, sandy-bearded, turbaned fellow, rolling slightly in his gait, came—as had been prearranged—to answer the corsair's summons.

With the toe of his slipper Sakr-el-Bahr stirred his brother.

"Look up, dog," he bade him. "Consider me that man, and see if you know him again. Look at him, I say."

And Lionel looked, yet since clearly he did so without recognition, his brother explained:

"His name among Christians was Jasper Leigh. He was the skipper you bribed to carry me into Barbary. He was taken in his own toils when his ship was sunk by Spaniards. Later he fell into my power, and because I forebore from hanging him he is today my faithful follower. I should bid him tell you what he knows," he continued, turning to Rosamund, "if I thought you would believe his tale. But since I am assured you would not, I will take other means."

He swung round to Jasper again.

"Bid Ali heat me a pair of steel manacles in a brazier and hold them in readiness against my need of them." And he waved his hand.

Jasper bowed and vanished.

"The bracelets shall coax confession from your own lips, my brother."

"I have naught to confess," protested Lionel. "You may force lies from me with your ruffianly tortures."

Oliver smiled

"Not a doubt but that lies will flow from you more readily than truth. But we shall have truth, too, in the end, never doubt it."

He was mocking, and there was a subtle purpose underlying his mockery.

"And you shall tell us a full story," he continued, "in all its details, so that Mistress Rosamund's last doubt shall vanish. You shall tell her how you lay in wait for him that evening in Godolphin Park; how you took him unawares, and—"

"That is false!" cried Lionel in a passion of sincerity that brought him to his feet.

It was false, indeed, and Oliver knew it, and deliberately had recourse to falsehood, using it as a fulcrum upon which to lever out the truth.

"False?" he cried in scorn. "Come, now, be reasonable. The truth, ere torture sucks it out of you. Reflect that I know all—exactly as you told it me. How was it, now. Lurking behind a bush you sprang upon him unawares and ran him through before he could so much as lay a hand to his sword, and so—"

"The lie of that is proven by the very facts themselves," was the furious interruption.

A subtle judge of tones might have realized that here was truth indeed, angry, indignant truth that compelled conviction.

"His sword lay beside him when they found him."

But Oliver was loftily disdainful.

"Do I not know? Yourself you drew it after you had slain him."

The taunt performed its deadly work. For just one instant Lionel was carried off his feet by the luxury of his genuine indignation, and in that one instant he was lost.

"As God's my witness, that is false!" he cried wildly. "And you know it. I fought him fair—"

He checked a long, shuddering, indrawn breath that was horrible to hear.

Then silence followed, all three remaining motionless as statues—Rosamund white and tense, Oliver grim and sardonic, Lionel limp, and overwhelmed by the consciousness of how he had been lured into self-betrayal.

At last it was Rosamund who spoke, and her voice shook and shifted from key to key despite her strained attempt to keep it level.

"What—what did you say, Lionel?" she asked.

Oliver laughed softly.

"He was about to add proof of his statement, I think," he jeered. "He was about to mention the wound he took in that fight, which left those tracks in the snow, thus to prove that I lied—as indeed I did—when I said that he took Peter unawares."

"Lionel?" she cried.

She advanced a step and made as if to hold out her arms to him, then let them fall again beside her. He stood stricken, answering nothing.

"Lionel!" she cried again, her voice growing suddenly shrill. "Is this true?"

"Did you not hear him say it?" quoth Oliver.

She stood swaying a moment, looking at Lionel, her white face distorted into a mask of unutterable pain. Oliver stepped towards her, ready to support her, fearing that she was about to fall But with an imperious hand she checked his advance, and by a supreme effort controlled her weakness. Yet her knees shook under her, refusing their office. She sank down upon the divan and covered her face with her hands.

"God pity me!" she moaned, and sat huddled there, shaken with sobs.

Lionel started at that heart-broken cry. Cowering, he approached her, and Oliver, grim and sardonic, stood back, a spectator of the scene he had precipitated. He knew that, given rope, Lionel would enmesh himself still further. There must be explanations that would damn him utterly, Oliver was well content to look on.

"Rosamund!" came Lionel's piteous cry. "Rose! Have mercy! Listen ere you judge me. Listen lest you misjudge me!"

"Aye, listen to him," Oliver flung in, with his soft, hateful laugh. Listen to him. I doubt he'll be vastly entertaining."

That sneer was a spur to the wretched Lionel.

"Rosamund, all that he has told you of it is false. I—I— It was done in self-defence. It is a lie that I took him unawares." His words came wildly now. "We had quarrelled about —about—a certain matter, and as the devil would have it, we met that evening in Godolphin Park—he and I. He taunted me; he struck me, and finally he drew upon me and forced me to draw that I might defend my life. That is the truth. I swear to you here, on my knees, in the sight of Heaven! And——"

"Enough, sir! Enough!" she broke in, controlling herself to check these protests that but heightened her disgust.

"Nay, hear me yet, I implore you; that knowing all you may be merciful in your judgment."

"Merciful?" she cried, and almost seemed to laugh.

"It was an accident that I slew him," Lionel raved on. "I never meant it. I never meant to do more than ward and preserve my life. But when swords are crossed more may happen than a man intends. I take God to witness that his death was an accident resulting from his own fury."

She had checked her sobs, and she considered him now with eyes that were hard and terrible.

"Was it also an accident that you left me and all the world in the belief that the deed was your brother's?" she asked him.

He covered his face, as if unable to endure her glance.

"Did you but know how I loved you—even in those days, in secret—you would perhaps pity me a little," he whimpered.

"Pity?"

She leaned forward and seemed to spit the word at him.

"'Sdeath, man! Do you sue for pity—you?"

"Yet you must pity me did you know the greatness of the temptation to which I succumbed."

"I know the greatness of your infamy, of your falseness, of your cowardice, of your baseness. Oh!"

He stretched out suppliant hands to her; there were tears now in his eyes.

"Of your charity, Rosamund——" he was beginning, when at last Oliver intervened.

"I think you are wearying the lady," he said, and stirred him with his foot. "Relate to us instead some more of your astounding accidents. They are most diverting. Elucidate the accident by which you had me kidnapped to be sold into slavery. Tell us of the accident by which you succeeded to my property. Expound to the full the accidental circumstances of which throughout you have been the unfortunate victim. Come, man, ply your wits. 'Twill make a pretty tale."

And then came Jasper to announce that Ali waited with the brazier and the heated manacles.

"They are no longer needed," said Oliver. "Take this slave hence with you. Bid Ali to take charge of him, and at dawn to see him chained to one of the oars of my galeasse. Away with him."

"Wait! Ah, wait! Rosamund!" he cried.

Oliver caught him by the nape of his neck, spun him round and flung him into the arms of Jasper.

"Take him away!" he growled, and Jasper took the wretch by the shoulders and urged him out, leaving Rosamund and Oliver alone with the truth under the stars of Barbary.

CHAPTER XI

THE SUBTLETY OF FENZILEH

Oliver considered the woman for a long moment as she sat half-crouching on the divan, her hands locked, her face set and stony, her eyes lowered. He sighed gently and turned away.

Now that truth had been dragged from its well, and tossed, as it were, into Rosamund's lap, he felt none of the fierce exultation which he had conceived that such an hour as this must bring him. Rather, indeed, was he saddened and oppressed. To poison the unholy cup of joy which he had imagined himself draining with such thirsty zest there was that discovery of a measure of justification for her attitude towards him in her conviction that his disappearance was explained by flight.

He was weighted down by a sense that he had put himself entirely in the wrong; that in his vengeance he had overreached himself; and he found the fruits of it, which had seemed so desirably luscious, turning to ashes in his mouth.

Long he stood there, the silence between them entirely unbroken. Then at length he stirred, turned from the parapet, and paced slowly back until he came to stand beside the divan, looking down upon her from his great height.

"At last you have heard the truth," he said. And as she made no answer he continued:

"I am thankful it was surprised out of him before the torture was applied, else you might have concluded that pain was wringing a false confession from him."

He paused, but still she did not speak; indeed, she made no sign that she had heard him.

"That," he concluded, "was the man whom you preferred to me. Faith, you did not flatter me, as perhaps you may have learnt."

TRADE AGREEMENT.

New Document Provides For Trades Dealings With Australia.

OTTAWA, September 26 (Canadian Press). — It was announced by the Prime Minister last night that negotiations with Australia which have been carried on for several months by the Hon. James A. Robb, Acting Minister of Finance, and the Hon. Thomas A. Low, Minister of Trade and Commerce, have resulted in the conclusion of a trade agreement between the two Diminions.

The agreement is of a reciprocal nature, granting the Dominion of Canada preference in many lines of export, in return for which Canada agrees to extend equally favourable treatment to various Australian products.

Such Quality at the Price as No Other Tailoring House in Canada Can Equal

For months our buyers have been busy securing this magnificent assortment of materials—the finest we have ever shown, from the leading looms of the British Isles. The low price gives no indication of the quality. Specialization in buying cloth, in making in our own daylight tailoring shops, and in selling through our own stores—enables us to make suits and overcoats to measure at the very lowest possible price.

The saving YOU effect is in those charges, added along the way—first, by the wholesaler dealing in the cloth; second, by the wholesale maker of the clothes, and then by the retailer. That's why Regent Clothes are really worth in the ordinary way almost double what we ask for them.

The warning bad breath gives

102 crevices never cleaned—tooth-decay—loss of charm and health

HERE are new facts for every woman, every man, every child.

Scientific investigation has proved that ordinary methods of brushing teeth never reach the 102 tooth crevices. And this, in 76 cases out of 100, causes bad breath.

Then tooth-decay follows. Faces age. Health breaks down.

If you want to know the modern, simple way to brighten teeth—combat bad breath—halt tooth-decay, read this:

A new-type brush

A brush has been scientifically designed to reach all teeth, to clean all crevices.

With this new brush, yellowed teeth may be lightened and brightened 10 shades! A special polishing surface does it.

Decaying food is removed from crevices, and thus the cause of most bad breath removed! Quickly. Easily.

It cleans inside, too!

And tooth-decay is halted!

Dentists everywhere, doctors too, recommend this brush. It does what no old-type brush could do. Yet costs no more!

Now—a test

It is called the Dr. West's Tooth Brush. All druggists and department stores have it. Buy one today and use it for a week. Results will amaze you. But if not delighted, your money will be instantly refunded. A test which shows you the way to better health, greater personal charm, without risk. Make it!

BRITAIN MAKING MEDITERRANEAN BASE FOR FLEET

Concentrating Naval Strength There to Safeguard the Suez Canal.

ROUTE TO PACIFIC

France and Italy Also Adding to Their Warcraft in the Same Waters.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — British naval power next month will, for the first time, be focussed on the Mediterranean, and the Mediterranean fleet becomes the premier command of the British Navy.

Thus may be read the simple announcement that certain battleships are being ordered to the Mediterranean. Though the news of their departure may not seem especially significant, in reality it makes new strategical arrangements for British supremacy at sea owing to the destruction of the German Navy.

Now that the North Sea no longer contains a menace to British security, the most important consideration becomes a short route to the Pacific through the Suez Canal. Four-fifths of Great Britain's wealth lies east of Suez, and the Mediterranean will hereafter see an array of warcraft flying the British flag far stronger than anything maintained there before the war.

Four Ships Under Orders.

Four battleships — the Queen Elizabeth, the Barham, the Valiant and the Malaya—have been ordered to the Mediterranean, the Queen Elizabeth to be the flagship. Those four are stronger than six of the present battleships of the Mediterranean fleet, but only two of these will be withdrawn. The battle cruisers Hood, Repulse, and Renown, which will be undergoing repairs this autumn, also are believed slated for Mediterranean service. If so, Britain will have more dreadnought strength in the Mediterranean than the combined French and Italian Navies.

The British strength in light cruisers and destroyers is to be doubled. One submarine flotilla is to be added and another aircraft carrier.

France is also increasing its Mediterranean fleet and before March will have two new 8,000-ton cruisers of thirty-five knots, three 2400-ton scouts of twenty-six knots and six large submarines.

Italy is building a fast cruiser, heavily armed destroyers and submarines, so the Mediterranean is being turned into an international parking ground for war vessels.

Greatest Naval Display.

There more sea power will be on display than the world has ever known in peace times within such compass.

The British naturally explain their concentration in terms of imperial necessity but certain Italian and French writers are not concealing their uneasiness in that the defence of the British Empire should crowd their own shores with British craft.

By holding Gibraltar, Malta, Suez and Cyprus, not to mention the mandate over Palestine, and the graveyards of Gallipoli, the British have the lock and key of the Mediterranean in their possession. Incidentally, they control the passage of Colonial troops from Africa to France and Italy, and thus the ability of those countries to add to their man power in any national emergency.

French Aviator's Record Made By Daylight Saving

LONDON, Sept. 26.—(United Press).—This couldn't have happened in the United States after 8 a.m. next Sunday.

A French commercial aviator, Lieut. Bafaic temporarily held the world's unofficial speed record yesterday. When evening newspapers flashed the announcement he had flown from Paris to London (245 miles) in 47 minutes—which would make his speed 313 miles per hour.

Later it was discovered there was an hours' difference in time owing to daylight saving in France, hence the actual time of the flight was one hour, forty-seven minutes.

COMMUNITY PICNIC.

Over One Thousand Persons Attended the Event—Good Programme.

DOURO, September 26.—A community picnic that attracted over one thousand persons from all parts of the district was held here yesterday. Mr. P. G. Towns was largely responsible for promoting affair and its success was due to his untiring efforts in this connection. A feature on the programme was a baseball game between Lakefield and Douro, that resulted in a score of 7 to 0 in favor of the visitors. Horse races and sports of all kinds rounded out an excellent programme.

PRESBYTERIANS KEEP UP SYNOD

Large Section Refuses To Enter United Church—Continue Church Court.

HISTORIC ACT.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press). — The action by a large group of members of the Presbyterian Synod of Toronto and Kingston in declaring immediately following the closing of the Synod yesterday that they would continue that body, in electing a new Moderator and a new clerk, and fixing the date for re-assembling of their Synod (the first Tuesday of October, 1925) constituted an historic act in Canadian Church history. It means that they have taken a decisive stand not to enter the new United Church of Canada, and that with Rev. Dr. James Wilson, elected to the office of Moderator, and Rev. Wardlaw Taylor elected to the office of clerk, they will continue the body they have just formed as the Synod of Toronto and Kingston as a court of the Presbyterian Church.

The step taken by this group in forming the new Synod also signifies that they, some 40 or 50 ministers and elders, have broken away from the section of Presbyterianism entering the United Church, and would also signify that practically all the church congregations they represent intend to take the same important action.

THREE MORE ESCAPE AT REFORMATORY

Slipped Away While Guards' Attention Was Distracted.

GUELPH, September 26. — Seizing an opportunity to slip away while the guars' attention was distracted, Hiram Miller of Brantford, Frederick Phelps of Sarnia, and Percy Underhill of Simcoe, inmates of the Ontario Reformatory, made their escape yesterday from the Quarries at that institution where they were working and are still at large. Following their escape the guards made a thorough search of the surrounding country, but were unable to locate them.

They were seen shortly after their getaway at Arkella and are believed to have doubled back through the city on a freight train they are supposed to have boarded on the Guelph Junction railway.

CAUGHT IN TRACTOR.

Kenneth Ames, of Codrington, Met With a Serious Accident Yesterday.

CODRINGTON, Sept. 26.—Early yesterday morning Mr. Kenneth for went to plough for Mr. David Goodfellow a near neighbor and a few minutes after was seen by a pas nearby crawling on the ground.

Mr. Ames stated that he had just started the tractor and as it was quite cold it seemed to him that it was going to stop after he went a short way and he jumped off the moving machine to prime the engine and while doing so his overall leg caught in a wheel and pulled him under the tractor which passed over both legs. The family doctor was called, but was away from home, so the patient was hurried to Campbellford to Dr. Langmuir who examined the limbs and pronounced one bone broken in the lower part of one leg and the other ankle badly crushed.

He is the second son of Walter Ames, a prominent farmer and president of the Codrington cheese factory which is situated about a mile north on the Brighton and Campbellford highway.

HOME DESTROYED.

Emily Township Man Lost House, Contents and a Large Sum of Money.

OMEMEE, September 26. — Last evening about 5 o'clock the home of Patrick Callahan, who resides about four miles north of here, was destroyed by fire. The fire is believed to have started at the rear of the stove. When discovered the fire was making considerable headway and it was too late to save the contents. A large sum of money realized from the sale of alsike and other farm products, was lost in the fire. The property was insured for $500.

MARQUIS FLASHED SWORD FOR WOMEN

Italian Praised Americans Above His Own Countrywomen as the Loveliest.

PARIS, Sept. 26.—From all over France comes reports proving that autumn has not put an end to the mad hunt of wealthy Americans for "bluebird wings," no matter how heavily gilded.

The palatial hotels of Paris and Biarritz, as well as of Venice and San Sebastian are still filled with dollar flinging social potentates engaged in their annual breathless chase after pleasure with its French accompaniment of gambling, dancing and bubbly champagne.

Last week was unusually productive of thrills. A duel at Venice; airy revels which are alleged to resemble the "Four Arts Ball" at Bidart on the Basque coast; and the opening of a "school for love making" in the wilds above Lake Como are among the events recorded in the diaries of the debutantes.

Victorious in a sword duel, the Marquis Della Giajara vindicated not only his own honor but upheld the position of the American woman at the head of the list of world womanhood.

At the Casino at Lido, near Venice, the Marquis publicly praised American women as the loveliest in the world, scoring his own countrywomen, to the indignation of Chevalier Tomaso Rossini, who challenged him to a duel.

Rossini was slightly wounded and declared that he was convinced that the Marquis was correct in his estimate.

An exceptional influx of unmarried fashionable women, whose hearts yearn for soul mates, is expected at Lake Como, where Francesca de Primoli, descendant of Napoleon, has opened an abandoned convent in the mountains above the town, where she avows she will teach women the art of pleasing men.

NEWS OF HASTINGS.

Brighton and Hastings Will Meet on Monday In Baseball Game—Hotel Changes Hands.

HASTINGS, September 26. — Hastings and Brighton play a game of baseball on the Agricultural Ground, in Campbellford on Monday afternoon. The game will decide which team is the winners of the second half of the Northumberland County League schedule, and the winners of this game will meet Roseneath, the winners of the first half for the final games for the Clarke Cup. The umpires for the game will be A. J. Wood of Campbellford behind the plate, and C. H. Davidson of Campbellford on bases.

Minor—Parker.

The marriage took place in St. George's Anglican Church, Hastings, on Tuesday, 23rd September, of Rebecca Dunam, the fifth daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Parker, Water Street, and Gerald Minor, only son of the late Mrs. Minor of Berkley Street, Toronto.

Rev. W. A. Pippen, rector of St. George's Church, performed the ceremony. Miss Dorothy Parker was bridesmaid and Mr. Arthur Parker supported the groom. Little Miss Muriel Bemrose was a charming flower girl.

Mr. and Mrs. Minor will reside in Toronto.

Shipping Wheat.

Two carloads of wheat, approximately 2,000 bushels, were shipped from the local depot on Thursday to the Peterborough Cereal Company of Campbellford. This grain was purchased from several farmers in this locality, and was hauled from the farmers' grainary by the Cereal Company's trucks to the local railroad tracks, and will be shipped out of here by rail.

Personal Mention.

Mr. John Condon, who for some years has conducted a hotel business in Warkworth, has purchased the Royal Hotel in Hastings. Mr. Condon takes over the hotel here in October.

Mr. J. F. Jones, the present proprietor, has for the past few years carried on successfully the above business, and has purchased a home on Bridge Street in which they are now residing.

Mr. J. H. Whatley, who about two years ago moved from Peterborough and opened up an electric shoe repairing shop, has moved back to Peterborough, where he will again open up another place of business.

The funeral of the late Patrick Shaughnessy was held on Wednesday morning from the Church of Our Lady of Mount Carmel. Interment took place in Norwood Roman Catholic Cemetery.

Wednesday afternoon was the last weekly half-holiday that will be held by the merchants of Hastings this year. The places of business will be opened on Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday evenings, and on Monday, Wednesday, and Friday evenings they will close at 6 o'clock.

Miss Queenie Runnels spent Wednesday in Campbellford.

Rev. D. A. Thompson is in Kingston attending the Synod of Toronto and Kingston.

FAKE AN EARTHQUAKE

False Reports Issued to Back Up Faulty Seismic Prediction.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 26.— A false report of an earthquake, issued apparently for the purpose of attempting to justify a faulty seismic prediction, is interesting scientists here. Rome dispatches published in the United States and Europe early in June announced the recipt at the Italian captal of reports from Jugoslavia of a sharp earthquake in the Balkans where, it was stated, houses were crumbled and some casualties occurred. The reports said the center of the earth movement seemed to be near Mostar, Herzegovina.

Prof. G. Agamennone, director of the Italian national seismological obvertaory at Rocca di Papa, near Rome, has ocmmunicated with the Georgetown University seismological observatory here, saying the earth movement was not recorded in Italy, where any such quake would have registered on seismographs, and that, in reply to a letter, the director of the observatory at Belgrade, Serbia, stated no such earthquake was recorded there on the date in question.

A Croatian newspaper pointed out in connection with the report that the earthquake fulfilled one of the predictions made by Raphael Bendandi, a Faenza seismologist, that the Balkan peninsula, from Monday, une 9, and thenceforth, would receive many shocks from earthquakes, especially the districts of Bosnia and Herzegovina.

SYNOD DISCUSSES USES OF PRAYERS

Dead Shreve Attempted To Give Church Its Ancient Heritage.

LONDON, Ont., Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—The General Synod of the Anglican Church in Canada, after a day of strenuous debate, last night disposed of the contentuous subject of the permissive use of prayers of oblation in the Holy Communion service by referring the question to the standing committee on prayer book revision for action at some future date. Thus the opposing forces led by Principal W. H. Vance, of Vancouver, triumphed over the attempt of sponsors of the motion of Dean Shreve, who sought, as his resolution stated, to give the church its ancient heritage.

The protests of the Dean and his supporters that they found fault with the existing liturgy for its "Roman" style and that they were not moving in the direction of Roman Catholicism on the doctrine of transubstantiation did not satisfy the majority of the delegates. Several declared that existing liturgy goes far enough to satisfy any one, that the American church was led astray by the early obstructionists in adopting the form sought by Dean Shreve and that in any event the church in Canada should look for guidance, not to the United States, but to England.

The Synod found agreeable subject matter in the resolution of Dean Tucker of St. Paul's Cathedral, London, to admit women to practically every phase of church activity, excepting priesthood. Numerous speakers concurred in this resolution, and though no opposition has developed many yet remained to be heard and the discussion will continue.

WAS ACQUITTED.

Maurice Day Baldwin Accused of Having Two Wives.

MONTREAL, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Maurice Day Baldwin was acquitted yesterday in the Court of the King's Bench on a charge of bigamy. He was charged with having married Miss Pauline Parkington in Newport, Vt., on July 31, knowing a former wife, Miss Stephenson, whom he married in Montreal on April 26, 1905, to be alive. The latter during the trial, which commenced yesterday morning, stated that after six years' litigation she had obtained a separation from her husband, which was approved by the Privy Council.

Baldwin is a son of the late Right Rev. Day Baldwin, Bishop of Huron, Ont. He was formerly assistan curate to Dean Evans at St. Stephen's Anglican Church, Westmount, and later became rector of All Saints' Anglican Church, St. Denis Street, Montreal.

IS WELL EQUIPPED.

Manchurian War Lord May Become Dictator of China."

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (United Press).—Chang Tso Lin, Manchurian war lord, professes to command an army of 300,000, including foreign staff officers, modern artillery and sixty airplanes, according to George Dixon, an Australian journalist, who just arrived from China after interviewing Chang. It is doubtful, Dixon said, whether Wu Pei Fu can raise more than 200,000 men, while his artillery and airplanes are weaker than those of the Manchu Tuchun.

"The near future may see Chang in Pekin either as dictator of the Emperor," the journalist said. "His ambition is limitless." Dixon looks for "some great hero to rise, as in the olden days," and save China.

SNAKE HAS STEAM-HEATED HOME.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo., Sept. 26.—"Slim", a five-foot bull snake, has obtained a life-time lease on steam heated living quarters. The abode claimed by "Slim," situated in a cave in hot spring crater where the hot water has ceased to flow, but the steam and hot gasses still issue through the opening, was discovered by a party of government naturalists while on a visit here recently.

ONE OFFICIAL FOUND GUILTY

Ocean G. Smith Will Be Sentenced One Week From To-day—The Home Bank Case.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Ocean G. Smith, chief accountant of the Home Bank, was this morning found guilty by Judge Coatsworth of negligence in making out monthly and annual returns of the bank to the Department of Finance at Ottawa. Smith was the first of several officials and directors of the Home Bank which failed in August, 1923, to be charged with offences under the Canadian Banking Act. Judge Coatsworth gave his judgment immediately after the court assembled this morning to continue the trial of Sidney J. Jones, chief auditor of the bank, on similar charges to those upon which Smith was tried. The Smith trial concluded last week. The Judge reserved judgment until to-day. He announced at the conclusion of his judgment that he would sentence Smith a week from to-day.

The judgment as given by Judge Coatsworth follows:

"At the present time, owing to other cases being tried, it would be inadvisable to give in detail the reasons for the conclusions at which I have arrived. I will therefore state only in general terms the findings upon which my verdict is based. First—I find that accused held by law a most important, and one might say strategic, position in the bank, and in relation to its business, and was so recognized by statute and being thereby required to sign monthly statements, he was, so to speak, made public guardian, and being so, it was his duty, before signing any such statement, to satisfy himself as to the truth of facts and figures sent out and contained therein.

"Second—That the monthly returns of May 31st, 1923, and June 30th, 1923, and the yearly return of 1923 all in question herein contain false or deceptive statements and entirely fail to disclose the true condition of the business and transactions of the bank.

"Third—That accused not only had both constructive and actual notice of the transactions of the bank, which were false and deceptive in said monthly returns and yearly statement, but he also lent himself to and took part in what appears by the evidence herein to be of the most objectionable and indefensible of such transactions.

"I therefore find accused guilty under the negligence counts numbers three, six and nine."

Bail for the convicted official was renewed, pending sentence one week hence. E. J. Powell went on bond for $15,000 and F. A. Blachford for $10,000.

Gordon Shaver, counsel for Smith, said there would probably be an appeal from the judgment of the court.

ST. MARK'S CHURCH.

Congregation Observe Harvest Thanksgiving Services.

The ingathering of the harvest has been well observed by the members of St. Mark's Anglican Church, Otonabee. In the first place a splendid collection of tokens of the harvest fields was brought to the church, and there tastefully arranged in readiness for the Thanskgiving service on Sunday afternoon last, when a congregation that filled every available seat, assembled. The service, that of Evensong, was fully choral, the choir of St. George's Church, Peterboro, under the direction of Mr. Quinn, organist, being in attendance.

Their rendition of the anthem "Sing to the Lord of Harvest," soloist Miss Scott, was all that could be desired, and their leading of the service, especially in the singing of the Psalms, drew from the preacher, the Rev. George Bousfield, of Ottawa, a well merited compliment. The Rev. Geo. Bousfield preached a field sermon upon "Thankoffering."

On Tuesday evening in the Foresters' Hall a harvest home bowl supper, followed by a concert, was held. The supper tables were bountifully laden and well patronized. It was a capacity audience in the hall at 8 o'clock, which greeted the first item of a concert programme, which was of high class order throughout. A trio of well rendered orchestral selections opened the proceedings, the members of the orchestra being Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Wilson, Mr. A. Wilson, Masters J. and C. Wilson.

Other instrumental items of the programme were a piano solo, "Chatelaine," by Mr. R. J. Devey; a masterly execution of the piano; duet, "Rondo," by Master Tom Allen and Mr. R. J. Devey, and a mandoline solo by Miss Nichols.

The elocutionists of the evening were Mrs. H. E. Connolly and Miss Tully. The former in her delightful manner treated the audience first to a realistic description of the varied humour of the waiting crowds at "The Coronation of King George V." Secondly to the question "Should Women Propose?" Miss Tully, a youthful artiste, gave a vivid, mirth provoking presentation of a "Scotch Sermon," and responded with a short and lively description of a conversation between Mrs. Clancy and Mrs. Murphy.

Judging by the loud and prolonged applause accorded each vocalist the audience most certainly appreciated the songs rendered, it can safely be said that the singing of each artiste was 'par excellent', to discriminate would be well night impossible. Mrs. Ryerson Ritchie contributed, "Singing to you", and "I passed by your window". Miss Doyle gave, "In an old fashioned town" and "Keep on Hopin'". Miss Buckham's contribution was "A little Brown Hand" and "A Strong Box". "'Neath the Rolling Tide", and "True Till Death", were the songs of the Rev. J. L. Hughes while Mr. Stephenson rendered "When the Ebb-tide flows", and "A Big Brown Bear", the latter song drew from the audience applause that would not cease, Mr. Stepheson responded with a humorous recitation.

Mr. C. E. Coleman in his inimitable manner kept the audience in roars of laughter with his songs, "Hold your hand out, naughty boy", "It's far too early in the morning for to waken me", and "I was the man they left behind", the two latter being given by request.

The accompanists for the evening were Mrs. Hughes and Mr. R. J. Devey

A vote of thanks to the artistes was moved by Mr. J. Smithson who in the course of his remarks said, "we have had many concerts in this hall, concerts of a high order, excellent concerts, but to-night we have had a concert that has excelled all." The motion was seconded by Mr. J. Dixon, (church warden). Before the motion was put to the audience the Rev. J. L. Hughes also included in it the members of the church who had worked so hard in preparing and carrying out the arrangements for the harvest festival gatherings. He also pointed out that they were greatly indebted to the firm of Heintzman and Co., for the splendid piano so willingly supplied free of charge for the entertainment that evening, such an instrument had contributed immensely to the success of the programme. The thanks of the audience was expressed right heartily in the usual manner. Mr. R. J. Devey responded an behalf of all the artistes, "the pleasure was theirs", he said, " to have thus helped forward the St. Marks' Church".

So bountifully had the ladies provided for the supper that much remained over and so, according to announcement at the close of the concert, a supper and social was held the following (Wednesday) evening. A good company assembled who after supper spent a free and easy social time in sings, games, etc., until a late hour.

ARGENTINA GREETS ITALIAN PRINCE

Crowds greeted Prince Humbert of Italy (left) when he rode with President Alvear, of Argentina, on the way to the Presidential Palace in Buenos Aires after the Prince had landed from the Italian warship, "San Giorgio."

EARLY DAYS AT TRENT RIVER

TRENT BRIDGE, September 26.—In talking to the Examiner to-day Mr. John Waters said he with his good wife, were among the oldest residents living here, moving from Armour's Hill, Percy Township, where they were married 57 years ago, having resided here for some 40 years. Mr. Waters first took up residence in what was then the Garratt house (now occupied by Mrs. Graydon.)

At that time there was an occasional steamboat, owned by Fowlds of Hastings, eight or ten times a season, carrying picnic parties, and also taking iron ore from the old dock, up at the Fairbrother resort which had been brought on the old railroad from the Blairton mines, and was taken on the boat to Harwood, and placed on the trains and sent to Cobourg, where it was shipped to the States and manufactured. The cost became too expensive and this work was stopped. At this time Havelock was not in existence. There was no C.P.R. The residents had to go to Colborne or Cobourg to make train conections.

There was then no bridge across the river, and an old scow was used which crossed at the old pier.

There was no store nearer than Campbellford or Hastings, but a Mr. Garratt caused the only excitement by runnng a sawmill, near where the stone pavilion now stands, and Mr. Garratt did a big business, as lumber was so plentiful.

The first Post Office was in a little log house near "Ye Olde Mill," and Mrs. John Lee was postmistress. The mail was carried on horseback from Campbellford three times a week. After 5 or 6 years the office was moved to the front hall of the Sedgwick House, where after 10 or 11 years Mrs. Lee built the small brick part of the present store, owned by Mr. W. Inkster, when the post office was returned to the brick store and attended to by the following: Mr. Dingman, who was succeeded by Mr. Coon—then the late John Richards, Geo. Chiles and Jim Moir. Finally after Mr. Inkster took the store over last spring the office was again transferred to Mr. Pollock's store, where Frank Pollock is the appointed post master.

There was no school nearer than than the Connolly School, 6 miles distant. No church until five years later, as the present brick structure has been in existence for about 35 years. The first minister was Rev. Mr. Marsh, who lived at Campbellford, at a salary of $900 per annum, and he had to pay rent out of this. Mr. Marsh preached in the Bible Christian church (the old log school house of the past, on the lot across from Mr. Michael Vanvolkenberg's farm house), then held service at Trent River in the afternoon, and at Campbellford in the evening.

At this time the place was called "The Narrows," owing to it being the narrowest part of the river between Hastings and Campbellford.

Among the old settlers were Mr. and Mrs. George Brown (Mrs. Brown is now Mrs. John Boyd), Mr. and Mrs. Sargeant, who owned the farm where Mr. Tom Doupe now lives, and Rowland Scriver, who resided on the farm where James Carnrite now lives. These residences along with the house at the dock at present occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ketts at the Fairbrother estate, were the only dwelling houses in existence.

The Sedgwick house was formerly owned by Stewart Wannamaker and passed into the management of the late George Brown.

Forty years ago the only way of conveyance was by oxen and cart, Mr. Waters ploughed his garden with the oxen. There were no buggies within 20 miles.

Mr. Sargent built the first bridge across the main channel; a floating bridge was in commission across the small channel.

The first summer cottage was built by Dr. Jeffs of Havelock, now of Toronto, on the site, nearer the canal, where the Christie cottage now stands. Mr. Waters was bridge tender at the swing bridge for twelve years, succeeding Mr. Tom Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Waters are hale and hearty at the ages of 79 and 77 respectively. Five children survive; they are, Henry of Percy Township; Stanley of near Napanee; Mrs. Ivy, of Kingston, and Mrs. George Cook of Percy. Their youngest son, Bruce, died a few years ago.

At Mrs. Waters' age, she was busy to-day, with a big washing on hand, and without any need of assistance.

ROADS TORN UP.

Houses Collapse With Heavy Loss of Life.

PARIS, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press).—Heavy rains, followed by floods and much damage from gales, is reported from Northern Italy and the Atlantic coast of France. Railway communication has been seriously interfered with, while fishing and other vessels have been kept in harbors. A number have failed to make port, and it is feared some have been wrecked. The rain is falling in ceaseles torrents along the Brittany coast, in Northern Italy, overflowing rivers and streams, have caused landslides, roads have been torn up, numerous bridges and houses collapsing, with heavy loss of life.

A GOOD REPORT.

Settlers In Alberta Are Satisfied With Conditions.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—"We will have a good report to present when we reach the Hebredies," said Rev. Father Alex. MacDonnell, member of the Hebredian commission of inquiry, which will investigate the conditions of their fellow-countrymen in Canada. Members of the commission returning to Winnipeg last night, following a visit to Alberta, reported the new settlers perfectly satisfied with Canadian conditions. "We have plenty to do and we can all be happy," was the general opinion expressed by the settlers to the commission.

OUT

Trade with South America, after a great hullabaloo, is proving disappointing. Brazil has bought 35 million dollars worth of American products in seven months. But the United Kingdom bought 13 times as much in the same period, Canada about nine times as much and Germany about six times as much as Brazil.

China, on the other hand, buys over twice the amount of Brazil's purchases from us. Our big trade market still is across the Atlantic, and our big future market across the Pacific.

KIWANIS CLUB HELD MEETING

Speaker at To-day's Weekly Luncheon Was Mr. F. H. Dobbin.

To-day's Kiwanis Club luncheon was one of the best sessions of the season, and the attendance was near the 100 per cent. mark.

President John R. Marshall was in the chair.

Among the visitors present was Rev. W. Stanley of Havelock and William Doyle of Belleville. The latter is connected with the Income Tax Department, and he was given a mixed reception.

The speaker of the day was Mr. F. H. Dobbin, who this summer spent another extended vacation in the Chamblay Basin in the Province of Quebec.

The speaker referred to this section as one of the most historic parts of Quebec. There you find a new and distinct association that smacks of the old world and its customs. The French-Canadians have a deep knowledge and love of history, and in Montreal this characteristic is noted by the many brass tablets that adorn different buildings and which bear silent testimony to some historic event or record. The farmers in this part of Quebec have been on the land for over one hundred and fifty years, but their methods are not so far advanced as those in Ontario.

In Quebec the church is the centre of all community life, and one can drive for miles and never lose sight of a church steeple.

One old mill in Chamblay supplied a great many of the blankets used in the Crimean War, and the result was so satisfactory to the British Government that large repeat orders followed that brought additional prosperity to the district. This mill has since been dismantled, but the ruins are still in evidence.

Kiwanian J. Wearing, in moving a vote of thanks to Mr. Dobbin, described the speaker as the historian of Peterborough, whose name would be handed down to posterity.

It was intimated that the Kiwanis Club might some day consider the question of marking some of Peterborough's historic spots by tablets.

Our Birthday Anniversary

FOR a whole week now the vast host of friends have been a gratifying sight as they thronged the aisles on all floors. One sunny morning was spied among the crowd the first customer of the Cressman Store 26 years ago, and there, close by, nearly rubbing shoulders in fact, was the lady who had first served her—the first saleslady of the Cressman Co. Staunch and true friends these, made so by fair dealings and conscientious service which, during the intervening years, has brought us many thousands of others. Now we invite them all—old friends, new friends and friends to be—to take part in this, our most successful, 26th Birthday.

Come in and see us. You will not be disappointed, and a marked money saving will be yours.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Getting Ready For the Temperance Vote—Young People Meet.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 26.—Those in Seymour Township who are interested in the plebiscite, met in Campbellford, in the Public Library, on Monday night—Rev. C. D. Daniels of Seymour, presiding.

Committees were formed for the different polling sub-divisions, with the following chairman for each polling-place:—No. 1, West's School—Mr. P. B. Nelson; No. 2, Connelley's School—Mr. Chas. Macour; No. 3, English Line—Mr. Ernest Craighead; No. 4, Menie—Rev. Mr. Shaw; No. 5, Petherick's Corners—Mr. Wm. Forde; No. 6, Stanwood—Mr. Dan Petherick; No. 7, Meyersburg—Mr. J. N. Bertrand; No. 8, Trent Bridge—Reeve Vonvolkenburg.

Young People Meet.

At the Young People's League on Monday, Mr. George Smith, citizenship vice-president, had full charge of the meeting in the absence of the president. Mr. Smith gave the devotional topic, and Rev. W. Elliott gave a short talk on the laws of the province in regard to Prohibition, and the difference between the licence system and the O.T.A. The recreation period was very interesting, Mr. Smith showing some fine views of the city of Halifax, with a short description of each. These Monday evening meetings are well attended.

A Presentation.

A very pleasing event took place at the St. Andrew's choir last week, when they presented Mrs. Thos. Chaplin (who was recently married) with a buffet set, consisting of a large fruit bowl and candles in potty chrome design. Miss Lillian Hay made a few remarks, and Miss Atkinson the presentation. Mrs. Chaplin suitably replied, thanking the choir.

The Sunday Schoolroom of the Methodist Church was filled on Tuesday night for the annual rally meeting of the Royal Templars. Rev. W. Elliott was the chairman, and after the opening hymn and prayer, made a few remarks and announced the programme. Rev. C. D. Daniels, of Seymour circuit, was the speaker for the evening and gave a very clear and concise address on the temperance question. Other items on the programme were:—Solos by Miss Hazel Atkinson, Mrs. Turner, Jack Boyd, and Mr. Spratts; duets by Mrs. Shapter and Miss Jordan; readings by Mrs. Wragg and Lieut. Ross of the Salvation Army. The chairman, on behalf of the Templars, thanked all those who took part in the programme.

Personal Mention.

Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Dalglish, Front Street, motored to Napanee on Friday and visited Mrs. Dalglish's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Allison, then they all motored to Kingston and visited the Kingston Exhibition.

Rev. J. J. and Mrs. Black and children, of Orillia, are spending their holidays with friends at Burnbrae and meeting with all their old parishioners in that vicinity.

Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Bailey and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Abernethy, of town, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Cole at their cottage, "Oak Rest," at Crow Bay.

Rev. C. F. McIntosh left on Monday for Toronto to attend the Synod which is being held there this week. Rev. G. A. and Mrs. Williams, St. Andrew's missionaries at Formosa, also returned to their home in Toronto on Monday, having spent four days in town, visiting and speaking to the societies in the church.

Mr. and Mrs. G. F. Phillips, Garry Street, Mrs. M. Dickey, Mrs. David Dickey and two children, Inkerman Street, motored to Belleville on Sunday and spent the day with Mrs. Phillips' brother, Mr. George Dickey. Mrs. M. Dickey will remain for the week and visit her son.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Henson and family spent the week-end at Crow Bay with Mr. and Mrs. R. Cole at their cottage.

Mrs. George H. Ivey is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Garnett Green, at Cobourg, and will remain there for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Pearce and son, Billie, Hastings Road, motored to Oshawa on Sunday and visited friends there.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Connor, Grand Road, went to Toronto on Friday to spend the week-end with Mrs. Connor's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Eleanor. Mrs. Connor will remain a week visiting her parents and other friends.

Mrs. A. Marles, of Norwood, Mrs. Hayman and two children, Marjorie and Jimmie, of Toronto, spent a few days last week with Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bonney.

Mrs. W. H. Bateson, Victoria Street, who has been visiting Mrs. Walter Scott at Orillia, returned to her home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Valway and son, Doraine, of Flint, Michigan, motored over to Campbellford and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Bullen, Rear Street.

Mrs. C. E. Curtis and daughters, May and Helen, of Peterboro, spent the week-end with her brother, Mr R. J. Bullen, Rear Street.

Miss Maebelle Parry, of Toronto, is spending a few weeks with her aunt Mrs. E. C. Dolman, Bridge Street.

NEWS OF MARMORA.

MARMORA, Sept. 24.—Mrs. John Bateman and Mrs. Isaac Brown attended the Coe Hill Fair on Tuesday.

In preparation for Marmora's Fair a number of men have for the past week been fixing up the track.

Mr. Arthur Chapman, of Kingston, has accepted a position at Deloro.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Blakely of North Dummer, recently visited at Mr. William McCoy's.

Miss L. McCallum is relinquishing her position with the Deloro Smelting and Refining Company at the end of the month.

NEWS OF MARMORA.

Upper School Subjects To Be Taught in Marmora School.

MARMORA, Sept. 26.—Miss Campbell, principal of the Continuation School staff, has obtained permission from the inspector to teach Upper School Mathematics and English. Many of the pupils who otherwise would have only had a few subjects, can now take a full year's work without leaving home this year.

Work was begun on the new subjects this week, and a very promising class of pupils have begun the work.

On Sunday, 28th, the Rally Day services of the Methodist Sunday School will be held. A special programme is being prepared by the boys and girls for their parents and friends.

Miss Aldora McGarvey is home from Toronto on holiday. Miss Mabel McGarvey returned with her.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Gray and family have returned from their holidays.

Mr. J. H. Doig spent Sunday with friends at Stirling.

Mr. James Quinn is taking a short holiday at his home in Kingston.

The pupils of the Public School are practising eagerly for the Fair on the 30th.

EXTENDS THANKS

HOT WATER EVERY MORNING

Makes You Feel 100% Better

If you do not feel well start to-morrow and take one Tanol Calomel Tablet before meals or two at bedtime and don't forget to drink a cup of hot water first thing in the morning to wash all the poisons and wastes from the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels before more food is taken in. This simple treatment will render you immune from such troubles as headaches, gas on the stomach, constipation, biliousness, rheumatism, foul breath etc. The secret of the success of these tanol Calomel Tablets is due to the fact that Calomel is the only drug known that acts upon the liver, without having to take Salts or Seidlitz. Get a few of these simple tablets and you will sure eat better, sleep better, work better and feel 100% better. These tablets can be obtained from F. C. Webber, Charlotte street.

TWO MINORS TO PAY BY DEATH FOR SLAYING MAN IN HOLD-UP

Foran and Dobbs Maintain Their Innocence—Deny Killing.

BOTH POOR BOYS.

Cite Cases of Loeb and Leopold As Evidence of Money Power.

BALTIMORE, September 25. — Two boys, both from poor families, have been sentenced to death in Baltimore.

They are Thomas J. Foran, 18, and Claude Dobbs, 19. They were found guilty by three judges on a charge of murdering Louis Cohen in an attempted hold-up of Cohen's store. One of their companions was killed by the police when he attempted to escape and another confessed and was given life imprisonment.

Both Foran and Dobbs maintain their innocence.

The parents of Thomas Foran live in Philadelphia and their father is a working man. Mrs. Foran says she struggled to bring Tom up "right" and all her twelve children attended Sunday School regularly when young. Tom ran away from home, came to Baltimore, and began to associate with youths with police records.

Charles Mullen, who confessed and brought their conviction, later repudiated his statement, saying it was dictated by the police and that he was forced to sign it.

"I don't know why I made a confession," says Mullen. "I answered yes to the questions of the police. They would not let me alone. It was easier to say yes. Dobbs says that some day they will find the murderer, but it will be after the other boys are dead. I think we should be hanged if we killed a man, but we didn't. We did not have a fair trial. The police told us they would help us prove our innocence, but they bore false witness against us."

"Take Loeb and Leopold," continued Mullen, referring to the two Chicago millionaire youths who admitted murder and were given life imprisonment. "They were guilty, and ought to hang, but they get off. That is what money gets you."

Foran cries in his cell, and says that 'the cards were stacked against us. We are not guilty."

CHARLES DOBBS (ABOVE) AND THOMAS J. FORAN.

The boys were convicted largely by circumstantial evidence. Testimony of eye-witnesses was contradictory. The boys' families have no money, and the matter of an appeal, which is costly, has not been decided.

However, a movement is under way to-day to raise a fund for the defence of the boys. If the boys are found guilty they will be the first white persons executed here in 20 years. Many are indignant because in a similar case three years ago, in which adults killed a man under paralleling circumstances, the accused were convicted and given life imprisonment.

HOPE ABANDONED.

Owners Give Up Hope For Safety of Steamer Clifton.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Hope that the whaleback freighter Clifton, with a crew of 28, survived the storms of Sunday and Monday on Lake Huron practically was abandoned to-day. The only hope held out was by the owners of the vessel. Other boatmen believe that the boat, more than eighty hours' overdue at Detroit, has sunk with her crew and cargo of stone.

A report yesterday that she had put in at Oscoba was ridiculed by lake men, who claimed that the harbor was not large enough for the boat to enter.

Another report that the boat had put in at East Tawas, was also discredited. The steamer Cadillac reported late last night that she saw nothing of the vessel. The Clifton owners base their hope on the fact that no row boats, oars or any wreckage from the Clifton has been sighted. The last reliable information was from Mackinaw, where the boats was reported Sunday night, bound from Sturgeon Bay to Detroit.

FLOOD SWAMPS STEAMER.

Many Ships Suffered From Leningrad Flood—Warship Sark.

LONDON, Sept. 26. — (United Press).—One warship was sunk, a German steamer was sent aground and ships of the Russian Government squadron were badly damaged by the flood waters which poured down on Leningrad on Tuesday, despatches to the Exchange Telegraph said to-day.

The ships were anchored in the Gulf of Finland. All shipping activities there have been greatly damaged owing to the flood.

Every large family in Leningrad has been ordered to provide two reconstruction workers.

HARVEST FESTIVAL.

Special Service At All Saints' Church Last Evening.

The annual Harvest Thanksgiving service was held last evening at All Saints' church, with a good attendance of members of the congregation. The edifice was appropriately decorated for the occasion with a profusion of wheat sheaves, flowers, fruit and vegetables. A full-robed choir was in attendance.

The special speaker of the evening was Rev. T. H. Stanley, M.A., of Havelock, who gave a thoughtful discourse on the evidences of God's care for mankind, as revealed in the harvest.

The reverend speaker took his text from the 17th verse of the 14th chapter of the Acts of the Apostles: "Nevertheless, God left us, not without a witness." The witness and the manifestation of God in the harvest was pointed out by Rev. Mr. Stanley, in 1st the unity of God, as manifested in the one spirit working behind the succession of the seasons, 2nd the fact that God is everywhere, 3rd God's reliability and faithfuiness and the rewards that He returns for man's trust in Him, 4th His gentleness and patience for " productive and all constructive forces are silent and gradual. The forces that destroy are loud and sudden and violent. We grow impatient of gradual ways of changing things for good and are tempted to use force and violence." 5th God's impartiality in sending the sunshines to mature the harvest of the godly and ungodly alike. "God does not repay evil with evil. What a lesson for us. Every wrong-doing carries within itself the seeds of destruction. Jesus came to save the ungodly."

That Jesus Christ is the crown and the completion of the witness of God, and unites in Himself all the good things that God sends us, were the concluding words of the reverend speaker.

The rector, Rev. J. D. Paterson, expressed gratitude to all who had helped in preparation for the services, also to the assisting clergy of the evening: Rev. Mr. Stanley, Rev. [illegible] and Rev. Mr. Kingsford, of St. John's church, saying of the latter that he was probably assisting at All Saints' for the last time, as he leaves for England next month. Rev. Mr. Paterson announced the continuation of the Harvest Thanksgiving services on next Sunday, when the old people from the Protestant Home will attend the morning service, and on Monday evening, when a supper and musical programme will be given. On Sunday also, All Saints' will be honored by the presence of Canon Loucks of Winnipeg, recently nominated for the Bishopric of Brandon, who was the first pastor of the first small All Saints' church in Peterborough, and who has not been in the city since that time, twenty-five years ago.

POSITION RESTORED.

One Way of Getting Your Job Back Again.

ROME, Sept. 26. — (United Press).—A girl secretary who had been discharged from one of the Italian railroad offices in the sweeping economies of the Fascisti regime, hurled herself under the hoofs of Premier Mussolini's horse, crying, "Excellency, I invoke justice." The steed reared and the Premier curbed without the girl being injured.

Dismounting, Mussolini heard her complaint and summoned a lieutenant of the Carabiniers to investigate the complaint.

The incident occurred last week, and the girl has since been restored to her position.

FOUR PERISHED.

Flood Conditions Extend To Other Parts of Russia.

MOSCOW, Sept. 26. — (United Press).—Four children perished and more than 3,000 persons were rescued when Kronstadt was flooded similarly to Leningrad Tuesday, according to a delayed report to the official Russian Telegraph Agency.

Eighty-seven animals — hippopotami, monkeys and ostriches—in the Kronstadt Zoo were drowned.

Martial law was removed in Leningrad to-day and 51 of the 103 factories which were put out of commission with ten million roubles damages resumed operations. The State trading concerns lost five million roubles, while a valuable ethnographic collection in the Russian museum was destroyed. Many of the corpses in the Leningrad Cemetery were washed out. Some score were recovered and re-buried.

MOOSE AND DEER HUNTERS—ATTENTION.

If you haven't been in Northern Ontario, or if you wish a change of territory, now is the time to get busy before reservations are made at the various camps throughout the North country. Deer and Moose, especially the latter, are reported to be extremely plentiful in the Lake Temiskaming district, while Lake Ponage will continue for some years to attract hunters on account of the vast territory and the fact that much of the hunting can be done by launch.

Canadian Pacific Agents will gladly supply information, make your reservations and help you out in any other way, or you may write direct to Mr. Allan Seymour, General Tourist Agent, Montreal, concerning specific information respecting certain territory.

Now is the time to make your final preparations. If you delay, your trip will probably not be as successfu[illegible]

Kaiser Expects A Call To Take German Throne

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—(United Press)—Kaiser Wilhelm is awaiting a call to the German throne and expects it shortly.

This fact was made known today by John R. Philip, a Chicago lawyer who returned to this country aboard the S. S. Resolute after several months spent abroad. He met the former Emperor at Doorn and at that time the Kaiser expressed the belief he would be called back to the throne.

Women and Children Being Used To Protect Fighters

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 26.—Fighting is still going on in Georgia, and the insurgents are battling desperately with Russian troops sent to restore order, according to despatches here to day.

All the fighting is in the mountainous regions, and it is reported the insurgents are forcing old men, women and children to walk in front of them as they advance into the hills.

All railway stations in Georgia and most of the stations in Azerbajan are under a strong military guard.

SPECIAL DRIVE FOR NEWCOMERS

Immigrants Will Be Induced To Settle On Ontario Farms.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—As the result of a conference yesterday morning between Premier Ferguson and Agent General Noxon, who is now visiting Toronto from London, England, Ontario will put on a special drive in the Mother Country to secure families of British agriculturists for settlement upon some of the older Ontario vacant farms. As preliminary steps in the work that Premier Ferguson and Mr. Noxon decided yesterday to push, the Ontario Government is undertaking the preparation of a complete survey of the vacant farm lands in the Province.

Of equal interest and importance in the deliberations as to Ontario's overseas affairs was the discussion and practically the decision as to the establishment in London, or some other strategically situated English centre of central depot, for the storage and distribution of Ontario farm products.

Premier Ferguson thought, and Mr. Noxon concurred in the suggestion, that such a central warehouse would enable the Province to guarantee its English customer a permanent supply of the best quality of Ontario farm, dairy and fruit products, and enable Provincial representatives to distribute in such way as to avoid, to a large extent, the coming into competition with other countries in similar lines of products. Furthermore, explained Premier Ferguson yesterday, after his interview, would give the Old Country dealers a full opportunity of seeing varieties and full quality of Ontario produce.

Immigration matters, trade betterment and better quarters in London, England, for Ontario's Old Country representatives were three of the most important matters under discussion. In connection with the new Ontario offices in London, it was agreed by the Government head and Mr. Noxon that Ontario must put on a better business "front" in London by securing adequate quarters in which to receive business visitors and in which to display her wares, not only in farm products, but in manufactured goods, in which lines Ontario is also going to endeavor to push business.

DUTCH WINDMILLS SUPERSEDED.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 26.—The old windmills of Holland, pictured in so many Dutch landscapes, are slowly but surely going down before modern machinery. They did their work well, and were picturesque, but the electric pump is even more efficient, and its advent is making the windmill a thing of the past.

LOSS BY STRIKE.

Murphy's Replies To Postal Employees' Delegation.

TORONTO, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—Canada's loss by the postal strike of last summer was $399,000, says Hon. Charles Murphy, Postmaster-General, in reply to the Canadian Federation of Postal Employees, following an interview held in the office of the Minister on September 11th. In addition, Mr. Murphy says there was further loss occasioned to individual citizens and to the public because of distraction of service.

Scathing criticism of conduct of strikers is contained in Mr. Murphy's reply. He criticizes some of the strike leaders for their methods and declares that they themselve have admitted that they were wrong in having the men go out. He charges that evidence shows that communications to the men were fabricated and that threats were used against the strike breakers.

GREAT UNREST IN THE BALKANS

Partitioning of Countries After the War Proving a Dangerous Mistake.

AUSTRIA IS KEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—Frederick R. Coudert of this city, international lawyer, who returned this week from a three months' tour through Europe, said that the Balkans were seething with discontent, especially Austria, and that if something was not done immediately to allay the unrest there would be another war in the near future which might have far-reaching consequences.

"Austria cannot go on, cut off from all the provinces which formerly supported the city of Vienna" Mr. Coudert continued. "The parcelling out of Europe by the treaty after the war was the worst thing of its kind. No one seems satisfied. Hungary is likely to have war with Roumania. There is trouble in Czecho-Slovakia, and great unrest in Jugo-Slavia, caused by the Government's seizure of the land from the owners, which is going on daily.

"Austria is the key in my mind to the problem in the Balkans, and must be taken care of, if the Allies desire to have peace in Eastern and Central Europe. Vienna cannot be left as she is now, standing practically alone."

"What about Germany? Do you think she intends to pay the reparations?" Mr. Coudert was asked.

"Yes, to a certain extent," was the reply. "Germany will make the first two payments of 5,000,000 and 20,000,000 gold marks to the Allies to get the British out of Cologne and cause the French to relinquish the territory they are holding, and will then stop."

A MAN HUNT ENDS.

Police Arrested Man Wanted On Charge of Assault—Victim Will Recover.

PENETANGUISHINE, Sept. 26.—(Canadian Press).—A man hunt, led by Chief of Police Watt, County Constable George Lyon and a large number of Boy Scouts, after two days' scouring of the bush south and west of this town, resulted last night in the arrest of Henry Desjardins, following a brutal attack on Mrs. Napoleon Deschamp and her little daughter.

The young girl had been choked into insensibility, and her mother had been seriously wounded by a revolver in the hands of Desjardins on Tuesday afternoon when a man encountered them as they were returning from the bush after a berry-picking expedition. The woman is in hospital here, suffering from a bullet wound through the jaw and a severe graze by another bullet which just escaped penetrating her forehead.

Desjardins recently returned to his home in Penetanguishine, where he has a wife and young child, after serving seven years of a 15-year sentence for criminal assault on a woman. When overtaken by the posse he stated that he had intended to commit suicide, and for that purpose had saved one bullet which was found in the revolver he carried.

Thinking that Mrs. Deschamp was dead, he made a full confession to the police after he was arrested, and is reported to have admitted attacking the woman and her daughter. He is at present in the town jail, and will appear in the morning for a preliminary hearing before Magistrate Huston. At the hospital it is reported that Mrs. Deschamps will recover from her wounds.

A SCHOOL FAIR IN NORTH HOPE

Four Hundred Persons Attended Interesting Event at Garden Hill Yesterday.

MILLBROOK, Sept. 26. — The eighth annual Rural School Fair for North Hope was held at Garden Hill on Thursday afternoon, and was attended by about four hundred people. The fine weather did much to create a spirit of enthusiasm and added materially to the success of the occasion.

Eight schools belong to the North Hope constituency, the list with the respective teachers being: S.S. No. 10, Osaka, Miss Mabel Sleeman; S.S. No. 11, Woodville, Miss Violet Baker; S.S. No. 12, Perrytown, Miss Ada Langdon; S.S. No. 13, Elizabethville, Miss Helen Foster; S.S. No. 15, Beech Hill, Albert E. Hardy; S.S. No. 16, Pine Grove, Miss Evelyn Wood; S.S. No. 17, Pine Hill, Mrs. Carruthers; S.S. No. 18, Oak Hill, Miss Ruby Graham.

Colonel J. W. Odell's inspectorate includes the North Hope district, and the physical culture exercises were judged by him, R. Beatty, of Port Hope, acting in that capacity for the school parade. The marching was a feature of the parade, which was exceptionally good, the uniforms, songs, "yells," and drills were also highly commended.

Rev. H. Bunt, of Canton, was the judge for the public speaking contest. Following their usual custom the Women's Institute, which at Garden Hill is an exceptionally live organization, had a well-furnished booth on the grounds and had no need to complain of lack of patronage throughout the busy afternoon.

CAMPBELLFORD AND DISTRICT

Meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society—Opening Day of the Fall Fair.

CAMPBELLFORD, Sept. 26. — The Ladies' Aid of the Methodist church held their September meeting at the home of the president, Mrs. J. A. Irwin, Front street. There was considerable discussion as to the renovation of the Sunday school room. On motion of Mrs. Elliott and Mrs. Beavis, the executive will meet with the Official Board at their next meeting. Plans were also discussed about a fowl supper and it was suggested that a meeting of the ladies of the congregation be called in the near future and decide upon it.

Temperance Meeting.

There was a good attendance of the citizens of Campbellford, who are interested in the temperance work, at the Presbyterian church on Thursday night. Rev. C. F. McIntosh opened the meeting. After a hymn and prayer Mr. W. J. Armstrong, the representative, elected at Warkworth, for the riding of East Northumberland, was appointed chairman of the Campbellford O.T.A. organization. On motion of A. S. Southworth and W. H. Ashton, Mr. G. A. Kingston was elected as secretary. The following offices were also filled: Treasurer, Mr. George Oliver; Vice-President for Ward 1, Mr. Thos. Rowe; for Ward 2, Mr. R. C. Weston; Ward 3, Rev. W. Elliott and Ward 4, Mr. S. A. Maguire.

The officers of the organization, the vice-presidents of the wards and the ministers of the town are to form the executive.

Arrangements are being made to have Mrs. Gordon Wright, of Ottawa, Dominion President of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, speak in Campbellford on October 9th, 1924. Committees were appointed for each ward to assist the vice-presidents.

Mr. Clifford Adamson and Mr. Stanley Grenham, of Detroit, spent a couple of days at the Methodist parsonage with Rev. W. and Mrs. Elliott. The former is a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Elliott. The young men made the trip in a motor cycle.

Miss Helen Irwin, Front Street, who has spent her holidays with her parents in town and at Bradley Bay, left on Friday morning to take up her studies again at Victoria College, Toronto.

Mrs. Thomas Johnston, of Peterborough, is a guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Johnston, Queen Street. While here she will attend the Campbellford Fair.

The ladies of St. Mary's Parish are making plans for a euchre party on Tuesday evening, 30th September, at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms on Front Street South.

Mrs. W. H. Ashton, Inkerman Street, president of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Bay of Quinte Conference, is in Toronto this week attending a meeting of the General Board of Managers of the society. She will return to her home on Saturday.

The agricultural grounds was a busy place on Thursday, the first day of the Fair, when all exhibits had to be in their places and the judges and directors were at work getting everything ready for the big day on Friday. There are a great many booths preparing for Friday, and also a Midway.

Mrs. R. Kellar and Mr. and Mrs. Bertrand, who have lived on Inkerman Street, are preparing to move to their new home on Queen Street.

Auction sales are the order of the day. Two large ones will be held in town in the near future. Mrs. (Dr.) Macoun on Frank Street, and Mrs. I. T. Frederick, Grand Road, are selling their household furniture.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wannamaker, of Stockdale, spent Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hore on Grand Road.

OMEMEE BARN IS PREY TO FLAMES

John Lintick Tying Up Grain When Lantern Exploded.

OMEMEE, Sept. 26.—(Special)—John Lintick, four miles south east of the village, lost his large barn by fire last night. The blaze started about 9.30 when a lantern exploded. Mr. Lintick was tying up bags of grain at the time.

A big crowd quickly gathered to protect the house, it being impossible to save the barn. Chickens and pigs, the only livestock in the building, were rescued.

PRINCE IN CALGARY.

Sleet Storm Greets Royal Visitor—On Ranch To-day.

CALGARY, Sept. 26.— (Canadian Press).—With a driving sleet storm sweeping the city, Edward, Prince of Wales, arrived in Calgary last night. The Royal Special stopped here forty six minutes afterward proceding to High River where the Royal rancher spent the night on board his train. This morning he will motor to the E. P. Ranch where he is expected to arrive at 10 o'clock.

Prince is suffering from a slight cold which he contracted on his trip across the continent. There was only a handful of people to greet him for the movements of the train had been shrouded in mystery and the public put off the scent by the announcement that the train would not come to the depot as it did.

There was no official welcome although the Prince was informally greeted by Mayor Webster, Inspector Spalding of the R.C.M.P. and Senator Lougheed.

LADIES' TEAM AT DANCE.

Otonabee Softball Team Had Pleasant Entertainment.

The Otonabee Ladies' Softball team were entertained at a dance held at the home of Miss Rosa Gay, 258 Aylmer street.

The evening was spent in dancing games etc. The couples danced to the melodious strains of Buggs' 4-pieces orchestra. The guests numbered in all about fifty.

DENMARK WILL SET THE PACE

Now Talking of Doing Away With Both the Army and Navy.

By MILTON BRONNER.

COPENHAGEN, Sept. 26.—"Let's do away with our army and navy, save money, give the big world an emphatic peace gesture, and rely upon the League of Nations to see that we come to no harm."

That, in a nutshell, is the startling suggestion that the Government of Denmark will make to the Parliament this fall. And all the Danes are het up about it.

The old conservative classes are opposed to it, firstly, because it is the proposal of a Socialist Government, and, secondly, because with the disbanding of the army would come the end of a thousand years of honorable martial history.

The working classes are, in the main, in favor of it. The Government represents them.

The Social Democrats, like the Socialist Labor party of England, are a minority Government. They haven't a majority in either House of Parliament, but are supported by the Radical Liberals. Their argument is that expenditure upon an army and navy for Denmark is sheer waste of money.

* * *

Denmark in point both of area and population is one of the smallest nations in the world. Her total population is 3,267,831, of which over 700,000 is concentrated in the capital. Even upon a war footing the Danish army would only be about 100,000 and Government leaders say this would be inadequate to provide real resistance to any of the bigger nations.

Fifty-six millions of kroner, or nearly 13 per cent. of the revenues of the nation, are spent upon the army and navy. The Government proposes to do away with these. Instead it wants to have a state police force for both the land and water to preserve order.

This would cost only ten million kroner. It is thought many of the present army and navy officers would gladly enroll in the new police force.

The passage of the measure through the Lower House of Parliament is highly probable. If that takes place, the Government will go to the people and ask for a plebiscite on the subject. If successful, reinforced by this, they will then go before the Upper House, which at the present time is considered hostile.

So this fall, when we are discussing "Coolidge, Davis or La Follette?" the Danes will be on street corners and country roads discussing "Army or no army?"

On form, the Danes ought to be a very happy people, but they are not. In spite of the fact that 76 per cent. of the Danish area is devoted to intensive agriculture and that about 92 per cent. of the farmers own their own farms; in spite of the heavy export trade in butter, eggs and bacon; in spite of the present small number of unemployed, there are many things that trouble the Danes.

Their currency has depreciated in the world market.

Many of the banks have been in trouble owing to after-war depression and the investment, on the part of some, in German marks.

The closing of America's doors to many of her Nordic citizens.

As with her bigger Scandinavian neighbors, this is a sore subject, particularly on the part of the shipping companies which used to derive a large revenue from the immigration of Danes to the United States.

It is, perhaps, not generally known that nearly 190,000 Danes live in the United States.

The states with the biggest population are: California, 18,721; Iowa, 18,020; Illinois, 17,098; Minnesota, 16,904; Wisconsin, $15,420; New York, 14,222; Nebraska, 12,338.

* * *

There is slim chance that any such figures will ever again be attained, unless the immigration laws are revised. At the present time only 2,789 Danes per annum are allowed to emigrate to the United States.

The population here in the home country is about 40,000. There is very little room left for further agricultural development. There are no mines and no timber fields.

The excess population, therefore, tends to go to the cities. In times of prosperity this gives a supply of cheap labor. In hard times, this makes bread lines. The state, the cities and the trade unions combined have spent millions of kroner in tiding over the unemployed.

Skilled workers and expert gardeners and farmers look longingly toward America, but the doors are bolted. They conclude there isn't much in being Nodics after all, so far as America is concerned.

COBOURG AND THE DISTRICT

Bowling Trophy Will Remain In Cobourg—Fall Weddings.

COBOURG, Sept. 26.—(Special).—A pretty marriage took place early Tuesday morning at St. Mary's Church, Grafton, Rev. Father Scanlon officiating, when Miss Nellie Lyons, daughter of Mr. Dennis Lyons, Grafton, was married to Mr. Thomas Hogan, son of Mr. Michael Hogan, Cobourg. The bride wore her travelling suit of navy blue with sand blouse and hat, and carried bridal roses. She was attended by Miss Annie Hogan, Cobourg, who wore tan canton crepe and pretty hat. Mr. Peter Cavanaugh was groomsman. Mr. and Mrs. Hogan left after the ceremony to motor to Port Hope, where the wedding breakfast was served. They will reside in Cobourg.

Tennis News.

After two weeks of very keen competition, the finals in the fall tournament of the Cobourg Tennis Club were played off here during the week, nearly forty taking part.

In the ladies' doubles, Miss C. Hogden and Miss K. Stone defeated Miss M. Hayden and Miss G. Tait.

In the men's doubles, Dr. Jamieson and Mr. J. Rooney defeated Mr. Higginbotham and Dr. Mitchell.

Afternoon tea was served at the club-house and the prizes presented.

The mixed doubles have yet to be played.

Bowling News.

The Hopper-Rosevear trophy donated by Mr. W. H. Hopper, Cobourg, and Mr. Rosevear, Port Hope, will remain with the Cobourg Bowling Club for this year. The cup was offered in competition for games between the two towns, two games being played each week, one at Cobourg and one at Port Hope. The competition was terminated this week, and the Cobourg bowlers are forty up on the season's playing.

Clitheroe—Brown.

A pretty marriage took place in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here yesterday, the pastor Rev. W. A. Bremner, officiating, when Miss Gertrude Amelia Brown, daughter of Mrs. George Brown, was married to Mr. Garnet Thomas Clitheroe, of Cobourg. The church was prettily decorated with flowers. The bride wore a becoming brown frock with pretty hat to match, and carried roses. She was attended by Miss Bessie Isaac, of Cobourg, and was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Wm. Brown. Mr. J. Cameron was groomsman.

Mr. and Mrs. Clitheroe left for a trip before taking up residence in Cobourg.

SMOKING STOPPED ON AIRSHIP TRIP

"Either the Cigar Goes Out or You Go Out," Said Commander to Guest.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 26.—Maximilian Harden, the writer, an intimate friend of the late Count Zeppelin, for years was fond of travel by air, and prior to the war he frequently made trips. He had always to promise, however, that he would not smoke during the flight.

It was an old trick of Harden's, so the story goes here, to smuggle cigars aboard the ships every time he made a flight, although he was always cautioned to leave all tobacco and matches on the ground. During flights Harden would manage to conceal himself in some nook of the gondola, where he would have a short, quick smoke.

On one occasion when Dr. Hugo Eckener, commanderd of the ZR-3 on her flight from Friedrichshafen to Lakehurst, New Jersey, was piloting a dirigible on which Harden was a guest, the writer had promised faithfully not to smoke. He had been in the air 12 or 15 hours, and had been watched so closely that he had not opportunity to smoke the smuggled cigars which he had in his pockets. But a storm was sighted ahead, and the officers were busy at their posts when Harden hit himself and lighted a cigar. He was soon discovered, but refused to desist.

Dr. Eckener took the guest in hand. "Either the cigar goes out, or you go out," said the commander, glancing at the window, with the ship several thousand feet in the air. There was no more smoking that trip, nor on any other, for strict orders went out, and they stand to this day, that Harden was never to be allowed to step foot into any dirigible of the Zeppelin company.

RURAL SCHOOL FAIRS OMEMEE

Four Schools Represented at the Event—Omemee News Of Interest.

OMEMEE, Sept. 25. — The rural school fair was held here when four schools from the district met at Omemee on the O.A.A. grounds, and had a real outing. That the interest is still growing was plainly evidenced by the many exhibits, and the smiling faces of the children as they piled up the prize ribbons, were enough to gladden any dull heart. The weather was anything but desirable for an affair of this sort, which is conducted chiefly in the open air but the shivering crowd of spectators waited patiently until the sports were run off and the hour came for the opening of the big tent where all sorts of vegetables, flowers apples, home-cooking and candy, eggs, sewing, etc., were on display. The Omemee School board has never seen fit to enter the village school but a large majority of the scholars show an enthusiastic spirit each year and without the consent of the teachers exempt themselves for the afternoon in order to attend the rural fair.

Promptly at one o'clock, the various school represented, gathered opposite the Post Office and lined up for parade to the grounds, where, upon their arrival, they competed in drill and song. Laing's school with nine, small scholars succeeded in winning first prize, and loud was the applause received, as the teacher Miss Tuck had never experienced a School Fair before. The children were prettily attired in white with trimmings of waxed maple leaves.

In the public speaking contest there were five entries G. McColl of Emily carrying off 1st prize for his speech on "Aeroplanes". Each pupil was commended by the judges for his or her splendid attempt and also for the well-chosen subjects which they spoke on. The other subjects were "A visit to a Black Fox Farm", "Apples", "Holland", and "Coal Mining".

Boys and girls single turnout, horse back riding and many foot races followed and rivalry was keen

A list of prize winners will follow as soon as they are available.

Driver Stopped

Mrs. R. Cornwall received quite a shock on Saturday evening when driving to the village accompanied by her nine-year old son, with a horse and buggy, she was ran into by a fast approaching car. Luckily the occupants escaped injury but the basket of eggs were smashed also the buggy was badly wrecked. The driver of the car stopped and offered to pay all damages.

Mr. James Bushnell succeeded in winning first prize for his driving horse at the Lindsay Exhibition.

Dr. H. Carmichael attended the Medical Convention in Peterborough on Thursday.

Mr. Harry Sherwood was a business visitor to Toronto, last week.

Miss Gladys Fee was a visitor to Peterborough on Tuesday.

TRANSCONA YARD OPENS ON OCTOBER 1

C.P.R. Yardage at Winnipeg Will Have Capacity of 12,699 Cars.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 26. — The Transcona yards of the Canadian Pacific Railway, the largest individually operated railway yards in the world, will open for the season's business on October 1.

The North Transcona yard as it stands at present, with a capacity of 7,444 cars, coupled with the 5,255-car capacity of the Winnipeg yard, brings the total capacity of the Winnipeg Canadian Pacific terminal up to 12,699 cars, or 333 miles of track, exclusive of shop, stockyards and spur tracks. The terminal contains 1,352 switches, six miles of public track, with 38,726 square yards of granite and block pavement, 12,400 yards of gravel roadway and 3,026 private sidings with a capacity of 2,889 cars, which are not included in the figures mentioned.

During the grain season, approximately 6,000 cars are handled in and out of Winnipeg terminal daily. In November, 1923, an average of 6,140 cars arrived and left the terminal each day during the entire month. From September 1 to November 30, 1923, the garin inspections at Minneapolis, Duluth and Chicago combined, totalled 170,250,136 bushels, while during the same period there was inspected at Winnipeg a total of 238,899,032 bushels of grain, or 68,648,896 bushels more than was inspected at the three American points combined.

THE MAN THEY COULD NOT HANG

Something decidedly new in the way of motion picture productions is the film story of the career of John Lee "The Man They Could not Hang" which is being shown at the Grand for the balance of the week.

In the first place the picture is an Australian product the scenes having been "shot" in Sydney, New South Wales.

It is the first Australian film to be shown in Canada and its excellence is a surprise in view of the fact that we in Canada have never associated Australia in any way with the motion picture industry..

And then the story is based on episodes in the life of a real personage not distinguished in any way and only famous because of a most extraordinary intervention of fate that saved him from death on the gallows.

The story of John Lee is one of the most unusual in the history of law administration in England. Lee was convicted on circumstantial evidence of the murder of his employer, an elderly woman. But when he was placed on the scaffold, the trap three times refused to operate. The sentence was then commuted to life imprisonent and eventually he was pardoned.

The film follows the career of Lee from his boyhood days and is always interesting and never gruesome. There has been no attempt to over accentuate the sensational failure of the gallows and the episode is cleverly shown without any harrowing details. The photography is good and acting of the cast thoroughly equal to the demands made upon the players.

Interest is added by an atmosphere prologue in which Miss Doreen Thompson portrays the part of John Lee's mother. Miss Thompson's vocal numbers are thoroughly appreciated. Mr. W. Leonard Howe describes the salient features of the story, a feature that enhances the interest of the production.

"THE MILLIONTH GIRL."

Leatrice Joy Who Plays the Role of Mary in "The Ten Commandments."

Leatrice Joy is widely known as one of the charming younger actresses of the screen. Those who have enjoyed her work in other pictures have certainly a treat awaiting them in "The Ten Commandments," where she plays the role of Mary Leigh, the "Lead" of the modern drama. Around the Lasky studio Miss Joy is frequently referred to as the millionth girl." How she came by that sobriquet is the theme of this story.

Born and brought up in New Orleans, she was hardly more than a school miss when a friend induced her to make her film debut in a semi-amateur production at a Crescent City studio. Encouraged by success, she went to New York and appeared professionally in the graceful athleticism of short fillers for a so-called "movie magazine." Next on the West Coast she went into Goldwyn "Stock" and played a number of important roles in their feature productions. Famous Players then sought her services, and for them she developed into a valued feature player.

When Cecil B. Le Mille wanted a "Ten Commandments" lead who could portray a wide gamut of emotions, he knew from Miss Joy's work in "Java Head," "Manslaughter," and other plays that she possessed this peculiar range of talent. "Leatrice Joy can enact any and every phase of the 'eternal womanly,' was his comment. "She is good-looking without being doll-like; full of character yet not individualistic; the rare personality that is neutral and untypical, but can merge itself in any portrayal. She is the millionth girl."

Mr. De Mille's insight was justified by the event. The Mary of "The Ten Commandments" is a delightful portrayal . One indeed forgets the actress in the reality of the assumption. And Miss Joy has had her reward, not only in the plaudits of the vivid magnetism of the post-war heroine, but through the amply deserved recognition given her by the Famous Players in making her a "feature."

At the Grand next Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE ROYAL.

PLEASING CROOK COMEDY AT THE ROYAL

If William Desmond hadn't been a hero he'd probably have remained a crook, and spoiled the best story he has given the screen in many years. The answer to this puzzle may be found in "The Breathless Moment," his new Universal attraction, now playing at the Royal theatre.

Desmond plays a bunko game of a high order, almost with impunity until he rescues a woman and child from a fire and explosion. This sets him on the right track and he faces a year of reform in a small town. It is either that or jail. The reason it's not jail is because he rescued the child and wife of the detective on his trail. The detective, who was quite human, gave him a chance to make good, provided he would leave town for that length of time.

He takes over the management of a department store in the little town he's sentenced to and leads an honest life. Business problems are many. The store is on the verge of bankruptcy when he takes it over. Business problems prove fully as interesting as those of safe-robbing. One of his old cronies, a crook, comes to "Clean up" the town bank. Then Desmond faces his greatest problem. Shall it be the old life or the new? There's a pretty girl—the daughter of his partner—and—well, Desmond does what any other man in love with a pretty girl would do.

There are tense moments in the gripping play, the battle of wits between the crook and the detective, the thrilling rescue of a woman and child from an explosion, the remarkable conflict between the old life and the new. Hills' direction is splendid and the cast supporting Desmond is one of special note, including Robert Homans, Charlotte Merriam, Albert Hart, Margaret Cullington and Alfred Fisher.

MAH JONG AN AFFLICTION.

In one of the scenes in "Reno," the Goldwyn picture which Rupert Hughes directed and which comes to the Royal theatre, Monday, Carmel Myers, Lew Cody, Dale Fuller, and William Orlamond, play Mah Jong. During the filming of the scene George Walsh also in the cast, touched Miss Myers' arm.

"Carmel," he said, "there has been a discussion in the papers as to whether Mah Jong is an art or a science. Which is it "

"It is neither," replied Miss Myers, "it is an affliction!"

Other players in the all-star cast of "Reno" include Helene Chadwick, Hedda Hopper, Rush Hughes, Marjorie Bonner, Kathleen Key and other prominent players.

AT THE CAPITOL.

HOOT GIBSON IN REAL ACTION PICTURE AT CAPITOL TO-DAY AND SAT.

It was the day of the rodeo.

Ten minutes before the race—two men had wagered ten thousand dollars each, and every hoof of cattle and acre of ground on the outcome.

One of the riders failed to appear His brain was strangely befogged. Repeated efforts to mount his horse, a half wild beast he had captured himself, proved almost vain. No one but he, the Ramblin' Kid, could hold the saddle. Even he could not tell what she would do in her first race.

The cool air cleared his brain as he tossed and jogged towards the rodeo sweepstakes races. Arriving just in time to line up with the other riders for the crack of the pistol.

Bulldogging, exhibition riding and fancy roping ceased when the race even was announced. Everything of major importance to the community for miles around, was centered in this big annual event.

Two men who believed in clean sports, had made this big wager. Another man, big and greasy in appearance, wagered a large amount on the horse which had won the previous year. He was a desperate fellow who would stop at nothing to attain his end.

Ten thousand spectators breathlessly watched the event, Two small groups of individuals anxiously waited to see their fates decided. Down the course pounded the great beasts with their riders urging them to greater speed.

This is only one of the thrills of the latest Universal-Gibson production, "The Ramblin' Kid," starring Hoot Gibson, which is to be shown at this theatre to-day and Saturday.

AT THE REGENT.

EVERY MAN SHOULD LEARN TO BOX, SAYS RICHARD TALMADGE.

"Every man should know how to box," says Richard Talmadge, star of "In Fast Company," the swiftly moving thrill picture now playing at the Regent Theatre Friday and Saturday. "There is a satisfaction in knowing that a man can take care of himself under all conditions. Not only that, but boxing is essential to a motion picture player portraying the more virile roles of the screen. I have been a boxer ever since I knew what its value meant to a star. There is not a single picture in which I have appeared where I have not been called upon to use my knowledge of boxing, and I do know the game.

"And I have appeared in ring contests, too, although I do not make a practice of it. My first appearance in the ring was several years ago when a friend asked me to substitute on the card for one of the boxers who had disappointed him. Just for the fun of it I stepped in, and got my man in the fourth round.

"I must say that boxing as a profession interests me. Right now, I have placed myself in the hands of Leach Cross, the clever old-time pugilist, and he is teaching me a lot I never knew. It was Cross who helped me stage the big fight in 'In Fast Company,' and all who have seen it say it is the most realistic ever screened."

Talmadge has been approached to appear in one of the boxing contests at the American Legion Stadium in Hollywood, and may accept if he finds time enough between his pictures for Truart.

CANON LOUCKS HERE.

Had a Great Deal To Do With Founding Of All Saints' Church.

An interesting visitor who is to be in the city during this coming week end, will be the Reverend Canon Walter M. Loucks, M.A., now rector of All Saint's Church in the city of Winnipeg. Immediately on his graduation from college he came to St. John's Church as curate and while there he did a very great deal towards the founding of All Saint's Parish.

A very small building was procured on Dalhousie street and these services were held for some years. On Mr. Louck's removal from Peterborough he remained in Eastern Canada for some years and then accepted the invitation to a large and influential church in the city of Winnipeg directly opposite the Parliament buildings. There his influence was much extended and his congregation is noted for the numbers of wealthy bankers and grain exchange men who are regularly found in his church. The Primate honoured him by making him a Canon of the Cathedral and only last month he was nominated for the new Bishopric of Brandon which however, he declined to stand for.

Canon Loucks is returning from a trip to Europe and as a delegate to the General Synod he is attending the meetings of that body in London Ontario, at this time. Many old friends will be glad to meet our guest who is to be the preacher at the Harvest Thanksgiving services at All Saint's Church on the morning and evening, next Sunday.

ALL READY FOR BIG BASEBALL BILL SATURDAY

O.B.A.A. Intermediate and Juvenile Double-Header at Exhibition Park.

NEARING THE FINALS

These Games Deserve Big Attendance—Two Important Games.

The stage is all set for Peterboro's big baseball programme tomorrow.

At Exhibition Park with its fine playing field and splendid grandstand accommodation, Kingston and Toronto teams will meet the Canadian Generals and Maple Leafs, Kingston and C.G.E. playing the first game of the final Eastern round, and McCormicks of Toronto facing "Chuck" Bradley and his hard-hitting Maple Leafs in the opening game of the round to decide which team goes into the O.B.A.A. Juvenile finals.

The Juvenile game will start at 1.45 p.m. and the Intermediate battle at 3.30 p.m.

Children accompanied by adults will be admitted free and no extra charge will be made for grandstand seats. The fans are also reminded that automobiles enter the grounds free.

Kingston Hussars are coming at full strength and with every expectation of winning. The team has powerful batting strength and is strong on the defense. Here is the possible batting order of the two teams:

Kingston	C.G.E.
Nicholson, cf	Wolfe, cf
Arneill, c	McCarney, lf
Gourdier, 1b	Ross, c
Twigg, 2b	Rose, ss
Hall, rf	Dugan, 1b
Conley, lf	Barrie, 2b
Fannon, ss	Ranger, rf
Lawless, 3b	McPherson, 3b
Moore, p	Hardill, p

The crowd will be given a "ringside" story of the Lakeviews-McCormick Junior final game at Toronto.

GOOD LUCK TO THE BALL TEAMS

Peterborough baseball players take part in important O.B.A.A. games tomorrow. Lakeviews, 1923 Junior Champions play the first game of the final series with McCormicks at Toronto.

Canadian Generals, twice Champions in the Intermediate series meet Kingston here, in the first game of the final round of the long battle in the East.

Maple Leafs who were defeated in the Juvenile finals last season, and are making a renewed effort to land the championship, play the clever McCormick team from Toronto.

Here's LUCK to all three teams.

DODGERS STILL HAVE A CHANCE

Pittsburgh Eliminated—New York Apparently Sure of Fourth Pennant.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The Giants eliminated Pittsburgh from the National League race today and now need to win only two of their three remaining games with Philadelphia to clinch the pennant.

There were no games scheduled in the American League where Washington maintains a two-game lead over the Yankees and to clinch the pennant need to win three of their final four with Boston even if New York cleans up its four with the fast travelling Athletics. Brooklyn did not play to-day and the Giants increased their lead to one and one half contests over the Robins who even by taking their two remaining games with Boston, can only win the flag if the Giants lose their three with the Phillies. McGraw's team can tie Brooklyn by winning one of the three.

The standing of the contenders:

National League

	W.	L.	P.C.	T.P.
New York	92	59	.609	3
Brooklyn	91	61	.599	2

American League

Washington	90	60	.600	4
New York	88	62	.587	4

SOCCER NOTES.

Halliday, Mitchell, W. James, Strudey, Chambers, T. Foster, Willis, Robertson. The cars leave the plant at 1.30 p.m.

The C.P.C. Grey Birds will meet the Masseys on King Edward Park on Saturday afternoon and the following players are requested to be on hand at 2 p.m.: C. Fenner, G. Baker, H. Hotson, Connors, Eddie Williams, I. Feeley, M. Shadgett, Jenkins, Marsden, P. Vinet, R. Bromley, W. Crosse, F. Taylor.

GIANTS SNUFF PIRATE HOPES

Pittsburgh Lost Third Game In Row To New York On Thursday.

RALLY FELL SHORT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 25.—The New York Giants vanquished Pittsburgh for the third successive time to-day and advanced another step toward their fourth straight pennant on the wreck of Pirate hopes. A crowd of 25,000 whose post-battle demonstration of enthusiasm left no doubt they considered McGraw's fourth straight flag as good as nailed to the mast, saw the fighting Giant clan batter out a 5 to 4 victory and crush beyond recall the last lingering chance of Pittsburgh in the National League race.

The Pirates, however, went down with colors flying in the ninth inning when with two out, they rallied and pulled up to within a run of the champions on Careys' home run drive, which scored Schmidt and Moore ahead of him.

But Art Nehf, veteran Giant south paw, who had outpitched his port side rival, Wilbur Cooper, and put his team in the lead with a homer in the fifth, checked the belated rally abruptly by striking out Kiki Cuyler, brilliant Pirate outfielder, for the second time.

Score

Pittsburgh	000 100 003	4	9 1
New York	000 110 30x	5	9 2

Cooper and Schmidt; Nehf and Gowdy.

Fanned Hornsby Twice

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 25.—The Phillies closed their home season today by defeating St. Louis 5 to 3. The visitors knocked Oeschger out of the box in the first inning but were helpless against the hurling of Betts who held them to four hits during the balance of the contest and twice fanned the mighty Hornsby. Scores:

St. Louis	300 000 000	3	8 1
Philadelphia	100 001 03x	5	8 0

Shields, Stuart, Fowler and Gonzales; Oeschger, Betts and Henline.

Waterbury Sweep Series

WATERBURY, Conn., Sept. 25.—"Dutch" Ulrich held the Baltimore International league champions to five hits in the final game of the series to-day Waterbury winning 7 to 2 and making a clean sweep of the entire series.

Thomas, who opposed Ulrich on the mound, was hit hard many extra base hits contributing to Waterbury's score.

Score:

Baltimore	000 000 011	2	5 3
Waterbury	200 000 01x	7	8 4

Thomas and Greenae; Ulrich and Schauffel.

THE JOY CHILDREN BRING

BERLIN, Sept. 26.—It is the hobby of Dr. Laura Turnau to collect children. She is a welfare worker in Berlin, and her house is constantly filled with little boys and girls for whom she finds homes. "It is a wonderful recreation from the cares of my professional work," the doctor said, "to come home every night with two or three new children tagging at my skirts.

DISCUSSING THE BIG IF

Griffith Has To Build Extra Seats In His Ball Park Whether His Team Wins Or Not

CLARKE GRIFFITH (LE FFT) AND JUDGE LANDIS.

It will be tough on Clarke Griffith, president of the Washington baseball club, if the boys fail to win the pennant. For the Old Fox, owing to the uncertainty of the race, has to go ahead with the construction of extra seats for a world series, regardless of whether his team wins or loses.

The time between the end of the American League season and the beginning of the world series is too short to permit the construction of the seats in time for the big games, so Griff has had to dig down in his jeans and start work right away.

Doubtless the Nationals' president, who is shown here discussing the situation with Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball's high mogul, feels that the boys will bring home the bacon and put the stands to some use.

If they don't Clarke will have to content himself with second place, which, if you ask us, is not so bad, when you consider the low rating the experts gave the Nats before the season's start.

SOCCER GAME AT RIVERSIDE PARK

Brantford Will Be Here for Plenty Cup, Second Round.

KICK-OFF AT 2.30

One of the soccer tit-bits of the Peterboro Football season is announced for tomorrow afternon at Riverside Park. Kick-off at 2.30 prompt. The redoubtable Brantford supply the opposition to Peterboro in the Plenty Cup second round.

Brantford District did not select their team until Wednesday evening when they found out that it was a difficult job to choose an eleven to represent the Telephone City from so many good players, which speaks for itself, that they will be the best and have a reputation of giving an excellent brand of soccer at all times. Secretary-Treasurer Cridland received a communication from Brantford, stating that they will be in Peterboro Saturday.

No official word has been received from headquarters stating who will handle the whistle.

Peterboro boys have been very diligent in their duty to get into proper shape and tonight at the "Y" they will receive the final brush up preparatory to the game next day across the river.

With such an experienced goalkeeper as Charlie Griffin there is no worry. He has played against Brantford on many occasions. And in front of him is two very reliable full backs—Chambers and Rae, who can either play right or left. While the centre half position will be held by Andy Jackson (captain) and will have a strenuous day before him watching the brilliant Brantford centre-man who is always anxious to get a try at goal. The right and left half position is well-filled by Craig and Blowers. Coming to the pivot for the Petes, Richmond will be expected to duplicate some of his snappy goals of this season. The inside berths, Dyer and Mitchell have a creditable record as goal-scorers and have occupied the centre position many a time. The new comer, Clark, at outside right, will give his opponents a merry run at any time, also the most difficult position—outside left, has fallen upon the clever little Thistle player, Burgess, who can shoot as well as outwit any defense, within shooting range. Trainer Gatfield is in charge of the players.

Let us all hike to Riverside Park tomorrow and give the players and the alert directors and officials every encouragement that is necessary to put Peterboro on the soccer map of the universal sport.

The grounds will be in perfect shape for the games and the gates will be open at 1.15 p.m. Tickets have been sold in fairly good numbers as admission, while the grandstands are free.

MINE EQUIPPED WITH AIRPLANE

RENO, Nev., Sept. 26.—Regular operation of an airplane in connection with the business of mining, believed to be the first attempt of this sort, is the plan of C. I. Eastman, an ace of the British Flying Corps during the World War, said he hoped to use the plane not only to travel 60 miles to the mine electric plant, but also for other "errands."

It is Eastman's claim that he will be able to accomplish in a day what with regular methods of travel would take nearly a week.

GIBBONS LOST BOXING SHOES

Tommy Left His Shoes on Toss of a Coin—For Charity.

UP AT AUCTION

LONDON, Sept. 26.—When Tom Gibbons returned to the United States after his victory over Bloomfield he was minus his boxing shoes, which became a prized possession of J. S. Gardner. The American boxer in gathering up his belongings packed only one of the shoes, the other being picked up later by Gardner. Gibbons discovered his loss and announced that he would be willing to toss a coin with the finder of the odd shoe to determine who should have both.

Hearing of the announcement, Gardner went to the Waterloo station when Gibbons was leaving and reminded the American of his offer. Telling of the result Gardner said: "Gibbons was very sporting. He at once volunteered to toss and, producing a coin, threw it in the air. I said 'heads' and heads it was. It meant that Tom had to undo his baggage to give me the other shoe, but he made no bones about it. When I told him I would put both trophies up for auction for some charity he said 'Good boy; see that some poor kiddies get the benefit of what those shoes fetch."

MASTODON UNDER STREET

Laborer Finds Bones 2,500 Years Old—Eighteen Feet Deep.

DENVER, Sept. 26.— Eighteen feet below the surface of a street here recently a laborer unearthed bones that were pronounced by scientists to have been part of the skeleton of a mastodon. The teeth and jawbone were intact.

J. B. Figgins, director of the Colorado Museum of Natural History, hazarded the guess that bones were about 2,500 years old. Mr. Figgins said science never had found a complete skeleton of a mastodon, but had pieced together parts found, using the proportions indicated.

NEWS FROM CAVAN.

Funeral of Howard Keegan Was Largely Attended.

CAVAN, September 26. — The funeral of the late Howard Keegan took place on Wednesday. By his death, at the age of 59, from heart trouble, Cavan has lost one of her best citizens. Practically his whole life was spent in Cavan, where he was known as an honourable business man. He possessed the confidence and esteem of all. He had a quiet, unassuming manner and a kind heart, which won for him hosts of friends. Although he had no family of his own he was interested in everything which was a benefit to, or a wholesome recreation for, the young people. He was interested in and a generous helper both of church and community affairs, and the place left vacant will be hard to fill.

A beautiful and impressive service was conducted at the home by his pastor, Rev. R. T. Richards, assisted by his former pastor, Rev. G. S. Rorke. Mr. Richards based his remarks on the words of Jonathan to David, "Thou wilt be missed, because thy seat will be vacant."

Most pastors spoke of the great help that he had been to them in their work; he was a man of few words, but the life which he lived spoke.

Miss Tinney sang an appropriate solo, "God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes." The Masons read their service before the casket was carried out. The members of the order carried the many beautiful floral offerings, which had covered the casket and tables, these, as well as the large crowd in attendance, testifying to the esteem in which he was held.

His widow and brothers and sisters have the sympathy of the entire community.

He is survived by three sisters, Mrs. T. Staples, Hamilton, Mrs. John Staples, Cavan, Mrs. J. Casey, Valentia, and two brothers, James and Edward of Cavan.

Rural Fair.

The Cavan Rural Fair will be held at Ida on 30th September. All exhibits to be on the ground at eleven.

Special Services.

On Sunday, 5th October, thanksoffering services will be held in the Cavan Methodist Church. In the morning the pastor, Rev. R. T. Richards, will conduct the service and preach. In the evening Rev. Mr. Howard, of Millbrook, will occupy the pulpit. The choir is preparing special music.

Personal Items.

Miss Hazel Hunter has returned from a pleasant visit to the Coast. She also visited friends in the Prairie Provinces and points of interest en route.

Among the Cavan pupils who are attending Peterborough Normal School are Misses Mary Wood, Loretta Barnard, Ethel Falls, Anna Hawthorne, Sybil Robertson, Florence Fallis, and Mr. Gerald Staples.

Mr. Wilfred Franks, Kitchener, visited his aunt, Mrs. R. Matchett, on Sunday.

ROYAL COACH SHELTERS FAMILY.

PRAGUE, Sept. 26.—There is, in the outskirts of Prague, a settlement of poor families living in discarded railways carriages. Among these coaches is what remains of the luxurious private car of the late Empress Elizabeth of Austria, who was murdered at Geneva in 1898.

PERFECT PROFILE

New Effects To Be Tried On Bobbed Heads.

NEW YORK, September 26. — If you have a perfect profile you have a definite obligation to society at large to make the most of it.

Here are two suggestions that have come all hte way from Egypt and India, with a stop-off at Paris, to help you discharge the obligation.

They come from two very wise races of women who delved deep into feminine knowledge and who never came under the levelling influences of clipped hair, sensible shoes, and tailor-mades.

The present vogue for simplicity is passing because women are not innately simple. When they lay aside their fripperies and their gaudy plumage it is only a temporary measure that they may emerge again more gorgeous than ever before.

And when we desire subtleties in dress we always go back to the Orient to find them.

How remarkable it is that the manipulation of a few folds of brilliant silk about the forehead and under the chin of a woman can return to her that subtle mystery and exotic quality that vanishes into thin air when he same woman years a simple white collar.

And in the same manner a jewelled band or so across the forehead and an Egyptian ornament falling over the ears will recreate something of the fascination that was Cleopatra's.

In Paris such hairdresses are very much in evidence and the Frenchwoman is striving in every way to rectpaure the picturesque and the mysterious.

Before the season is over our own flapoers will be trying these effects on their bobbed hair.

GOSSIP OF THE RING

NEW YORK, Sept. 26—(United Press).—Johnny Dundee's resignation as the featherweight champion of the world and Benny Leonard's runaway from a chance to win the world's welterweight championship were a pair of unusual incidents of the busy summer season that put the question to the wise boys: "How come?"

Box fighters are invariably so keen for titles and cash that the unusual action of two of the rings foremost business men convinced nearly everyone that there was a trick some place and the answer is still waiting.

When Johnny Kilbane tired of the featherweight crown he found that he could market the crown for $100,000 and he got that much for taking a tap on the chin from Eugene Criqui that was not hefty enough to deprive Johnny of satisfaction for the rest of his day.

No suggestion is intended that Kilbane took a dive or deliberately sold his title. On the contrary, it is quite possble that Kilbane figured he could get as much for defending his title against Dundee if he could win from Criqui and there is no just reason to figure that Kilbane didn't try to win.

The point, however, as it pertains to Dundee's resignation is that he could have gotten almost as much as Kilbane for losing his title in the orthodox fashion and he might have lost without the black mark of a knockout or without any punching that might make it uncomfortable in his old days.

The wise boys figure that Dundee did not want to fight Kid Kaplan, the choice of the boxing commission, as the logical contender. Dundee said, in tossing the title into the lap of the commission, that he couldn't make the weight of the featherweight class and he wanted to spend the rest of his days among the ligthweights. Dundee never had any trouble making weight, and it was unusual that he should find himself overcome withg fat all of a sudden.

The featherweight class hasn't been any too active since Dundee succeeded Criqui, and perhaps Dundee figured that Leonard would never defend his title again and that he was better than the other candidates for the lightweight championship. If Dundee did pass over his title to avoid being harrassed by the featherweights his prestige would be hurt. It would be held that he had been beaten by a featherweight and had no claims for a lightweight championship bout. If he didn't get rid of the featherweight title the commission could force him to stay in his own class and give preference to legitimate lightweights after Leonards' crown.

As it stand now, Dundee is out the money that he might have gotten by defending his title, but he has prospects for future business that may make him the winner in the long run.

Even if nothing should come of his plans to sneak into the lightweight championship, Dundee can always change his mind. Regardless of who is picked to succeed him, Dundee can say that he is still the champion.

If a good successor is built up while Dundee is in a state of semi-retirement, he can come out and demand a fight for a good purse and get away with it.

Leonard's sudden decision to run out of his fight with Mickey Walker for the welterweight championship, left Walker and the promoters out on a limb, and the wise boys guessing their heads off.

The lightweight champion must have had good reasons—more than a sore thumb—for ducking a fight that would have brought him at least $150,000.

Some cracks were made that Leonard found he couldn't make the welterweight class. He looks big enough to be a middleweight and it's a dead cinch that he never can make the lightweight limit. If Benny wants to remain in the fight game he will have to fight as a welterweight, and yet he passed up what everyone thought was a fine chance to win a second title.

Leonard has gone kind of daffy about the movies and the stage, and he really things that he has a big career ahead of him as an actor. Two titles would have added greatly to his value as an attraction and when he ran out of the Walker fight it might be reasoned that he felt that he felt he wasn't good enough to beat Walker. Many smart critics thought the same way.

Once before Leonard showed a peculiar animosty for the welterweight championship. He had Jack Britton on the floor, being counted out, when he walked deliberately around the referee and tapped Britton on the head, thus losing on a foul.

Leonard certainly must have found out that he couldn't lick Walker or he never would have banged up his hand on the hard head of Pal Moran. Leonard always has been such a sharp, accurate hitter that it is peculiar he should hurt his hand in that way on the eve of a big fight.

Champions bothered by business ideas, have peculiar ways of doing unusual things. Joe Lynch tripped over a pet dog and discolated his shoulder the night before he had a big fight with Joe Brennan.

LASSWADE SOCIAL CLUB ORGANIZED

Rev. C. A. G. Spence Fathering Community Effort In North of County.

APSLEY, Sept. 26.—The Community Social Club for Lasswade is an assured fact—at least, on paper. A well attended meeting to discuss the question, presided over by Rev. C. A. G. Spence, was held last Thursday. Mr. Spence gave an address in which he explained the object of the movement, and the feeling of the meeting was that it was most desirable, and would be a great boon to the young people of the neighborhood. Mr. R. Steen expressed his willingness to rent the house mentioned as suitable quarters—at least, for this winter. After these preliminaries, business was at once entered upon. The following officers were elected:—Patron, Rev. C. Spence; president, Archie Whitmore; vice-president, Alfred Davis; secretary, Edith McColl; treasurer, Lucy Davis; librarian and caretaker, Bernard Steen; committee—Dan Whitmore, Edwin Davis, T. J. Wilson, Ellen Steen.

It was decided to make a membership fee of 10c monthly; meetings to be held on Thursday evenings from seven till ten, and the movement to be known as the Lasswade Social Club. A meeting to make arrangements for the opening night will be held on Thursday next. An appeal is being made to sympathizers to assist the scheme by donating seats, games, books and magazines, and it is hoped there will be a liberal response. There are three lumber camps within easy distance, and no doubt the men engaged there will be glad to avail themselves of the advantages offered by the club. It will mean a pleasant break to the monotony of camp life.

MANILA PLANS STADIUM

Drive Started to Raise $500,000—Official Sanction for Effort.

MANILA, Sept. 26.—A drive to raise $500,000 for the construction of a stadium in the city of Manila, to be known as the "Jose Rizal Memorial Stadium," was given official sanction recently when Governor General Wood issued a proclamation setting the period from Aug. 10 to Sept. 30 within which a campaign for the raising of the sum of $250,000 needed for the beginning of the projected structure may be conducted.

It is planned to complete a portion of the stadium in time for the Far Eastern Championship games which take place in Manila in May 1925. The completed structure is to be a permanent home for athletic contests and al' other forms of public outdoor meetings.

BILLY EVANS SAY

If Washington wins the American League pennant, Manager Johnny Evers of the Chicago White Sox is of the opinion the Nationals will capture the world series.

Coming from a man who has played and managed in both major leagues, it should carry considerable weight.

"The Washington club isn't a great club like the Athletics and Cubs of old," says Evers, "but it is a mighty good one."

"The best thing about the club is its spirit. It is a game club, led by a smart manager. It keeps on trying regardless of the score.

"Spirit is a ball club's greatest asset plus a fair amount of natural ability.

"Spirit, the old fight, won a pennant and a world series for the Braves in 1914. The Boston club of that year wasn't nearly so good a club as the Washington team of this year, yet it overwhelmed the famous Athletics."

Evers points to the Pittsburg club as an example of what spirit means to a team. Johnny regards the Pirates as the class of the National League, but says lack of fight keeps it from being one of the best clubs of all time.

"The Braves of 1914 were one of the worst clubs I ever played on, continued Evers. "At the opening of the season I dont' believe a player on the club had the slightest idea the team would finish in the first division.

"When the race was about half over we started winning. All at once the players began to think we had a chance. As the winning streak continued the belief was strengthened. A game club, it began to capitalize on its spirit.

"In many ways the Washington club of this year reminds me of the Braves of 1914. The circumstances connected with its pennant spurt are about the same. However, it's a much better club.

"No one for a minute will argue that the Braves were in the same class as the Athletics, yet we beat Connie Mack's club four straight. Spirit did it.

"That is why I lean to the Washington team to win the series if it captures the pennant."

The White Sox leader also likes Washington if it gets into the series because of Walter Johnson.

"One great pitcher means everything in a short series," says Evers. "Glance over the records and you will find plenty of proof to bear out that statement.

"Of course, Johnson isn't as good as he was 10 years ago but he is still great.

"A tight ball club like Washington, plus plenty of spirit, and Walter Johnson, is quite a combination in a world series."

Baseball fans like the colorful player.

The player with color is the athlete who is just a bit different.

Ability to swat the ball farther than any other human being has made Ruth one of the most colorful figures in the game.

Rube Waddell was colorful because he was not only great but also eccentric.

The just a good player with color is certain to be far more popular with the fans than the real good player who does his work in a matter-of-fact manner.

Often some little thing about the player wins the approval of fandom and causes him to be a much talked about athlete.

Take the case of Outfielder Matthews, who played brief yet highly sensational engagements with both Philadelphia and Washington of the American League.

In the American League there have been for years many outfielders superior to Matthews in every department of play, yet for a short time Matthews got a bigger play on the sport sheets than many of the noted stars of the game.

For one thing, Matthews had dash, was always hustling. Fans like the hustler, will overlook many of his faults. However, the thing about Matthews that appealed to the fans was his manner of catching a fly ball. It gave him his color.

Instead of taking a fly ball after the usual manner of an outfielder, he would cup his hands against his chest or stomach and make a regular pocket for the ball.

For years Maranville, one of the stars of the National League, has caught fly balls in a similar manner. Being an infielder, there wasn't near the thrill to handling a pop fly in that manner as making a great catch of a hard drive to the outfield.

Philadelphia fans fell for Matthews' style. They yelled loudly when Connie Mack let him go. The same thing happened at Washington.

All of which merely proves that fandom likes the player who does things differently. His unique manner of catching a fly ball was Matthews' best asset.

It is a well-known fact that such a method of handling a fly ball is all wrong for an outfielder.

It prevents him from getting the ball away quickly, in case a hurried throw is necessary.

However, the fans overlooked these faults simply because Matthews amused them with his style. The moral for the ball player is to develop color.

WILKINSON— In loving memory of my dear son Pte. A. F. Wilkinson, 928098, who was killed at Canal De Nord, Sept. 27th., 1918.
To-day recalls sad memories,
Of a loved one gone to rest,
And those who think of him to-day,
Are those who loved him best,
He has gone to be with Jesus,
And in his presence rest.
Inserted by his Mother.

IN MEMORIAM
WILKINSON —In loving memory of our dear brother, Pte. A. F. Wilkinson, who was killed at Canal De Nord, Sept. 27th., 1918
Six years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away
The time was short the blow severe,
Who took from us the one we loved so dear,
For all of us he did his best,
May God grant him eternal rest.

WEATHER A FACTOR.

The Crop Is Late and Needs About Three Weeks—Conditions Good Here.

MONTREAL, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—If the frost keeps off in the corn and wheat states, such as Kansas, Ohio, Wisconsin, President Coolidge will be elected President of the United States. If a killing frost should come there is danger that the Presidential election will be thrown into the House of Representatives, and that would be disastrous for business.

This was the way in which Roger W. Babson views the Presidential election in the United States, as stated in a luncheon here yesterday. The function was held under the joint auspices of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, the Board of Trade, the Montreal Publicity Association and the Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Babson said since he was across the line he could answer the oft-repeated question of who would be elected, and claimed that it entirely depends on the weather. The farmers in the Western United States had been having hard times for the past four or five years, as in Western Canada, thus bringing about the foundation of the third party. During the past two months the prices of corn and wheat had risen, but the crop is very late, and it is necessary that the frost held off for two or three weeks. If the weather is kindly Mr. Coolidge will be elected; if not, the election will be thrown into the House. Conditions make Presidents, Presidents do not make conditions, Mr. Babson said.

Canada Better Off.

Mr. Babson took a more cheerful view of general conditions for Canada in 1925 than he had done for 1924, a year ago.

He felt that Canada was in greater measure through its re-adjustment period than was the United States, due to the wisdom shown here in refusing to follow the second inflation period in the United States.

He took the view that conditions are now better in Canada than in the United States, there being more unemployment and poorer business in the Republic than in Canada. Canadian exports were up and imports down, showing that people were straining every nerve to sell, and not buying more than they had to buy, a condition of affairs that showed present bad times but argued well for the future. Canada was two-thirds through the tunnel and the United States only half-way through. So, barring political disaster in the States, the readjustment was working out normally and satisfactorily, and for that reason he was quite hopeful of conditions in 1925.

Warning to Montreal.

IN POISON PLOT.

Rev. Lawrence M. Hight of Ina, Ill., who confessed poisoning his wife, to marry a member of his congregation, who accuses him of persuading her to poison her husband that she, too, might be free.

PERFECT WOMAN WAS LOVE MATE

"I Still See Her Beautiful Form As I Lie In Cell," Says Hight.

WIFE NAGGED HIM.

NASHVILLE, Ill., Sept. 27.—Behind the bars of the quaint old church here the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, self-confessed poisoner of his wife and abettor of Mrs. Elsie Sweetin who poisoned her husband that she might marry her pastor, reviewed his twenty-six years of married life.

"It would never have happened if my wife hadn't started to nag about everything five or six years ago."

Then he met Elsie Sweetin. He told of the clandestine meetings with her and spoke irritably of the difficulties which a small town presented for their love trysts. He recalled a system of signals which they had though out to deceive prying eyes. He explained:

"When she put her hand on her head in church I was to follow her and pick up a message, which usually breathed love and arranged a secret meeting for the night.

"When she passed her right hand across her heart that meant that her heart was for me and me alone."

Had no Time for Love

He went on:

It was six years ago that my wife became cold. The first thing when I came home she would tell me about the children being bad or would meet me with some other min or complaint.

"I asked her time and time again why she didn't give me her love and her reply invariably was that she hadn't time for them. And I was yearning for the love of a woman who understood me.

"The first time I saw Mrs. Sweetin I loved her I fought the feeling off

INSPECTION OF BANK IN TORONTO NEVER ORDERED

Home Bank's Chief Inspector Said Branch Last Inspected In 1917.

REMINDED MANAGER.

Most of Big Loans Were Made From the Toronto Office.

TORONTO, September 27. — Evidence put in Friday in the trial of Sidney H. Jones, auditor of the Home Bank, on making and concurring in false returns, was largely a repetition of that submitted in the trial of Ocean G. Smith, chief accountant of the bank. One new witness, Edward E. Kemp, who was chief inspector of the bank in 1922 and 1923, was called. He said that in his work he reported to the general manager, and took his instructions from him. He inspected the banks in Ontario and Quebec, the western Canada banks being inspected by the western office officials at Winnipeg. His inspections had mostly been of liabilities and routine.

The last inspection he had made of the Toronto branch was in 1917. Three or four times a year a made out a list of the banks which had not recently been inspected, and submitted it to the general manager. Although he always headed this list with Toronto branch he had never received orders to inspect it. It was was from this branch that most of the big loans were made. He had started an inspection of the foreign department, but had not completed it, the completion being done by Mr. Lancefield. He had never been asked for any information by the auditor.

Was Not Consulted.

Lewis R. Bain, one of the supervisors of the bank, said that he had never been consulted about the credits of the Toronto branch, although he looked after credits in all other branches. The Toronto branch had been taken out of this jurisdiction by orders of the general manager. Witness had never discussed anything with Jones, the accused. He said that all loans of over $5000 or over were considered by the board of directors.

J. H. Braidwood, accountant and ledger keeper in the foreign department and Gordon L. Chapman, assistant manager of the Toronto branch, identified scores of books and returns as made to the head office from their departments. There were so many produced that R. H. Greer, defence counsel, wanted to know if the Toronto office telephone book would be produced.

All these books went in subject to Mr. Greer's objection that they must be in some way connected with the accused. Mr. McCarthy said that the Crown proposed to show that all the information in these books was available to Mr. Jones as auditor for his reports.

Evidence Limited.

Mr. Greer successfully objected to reports and returns dated later than May 31, 1923, going in as evidence as these were not in time for the statements upon which the accused is charged. Many returns of later date than May 31, 1923, were thrown out. Mr. Chapman repeated his evidence given in the Smith trial of identifying the various entries in the Toronto branch office of the big loans made by the bank to various persons.

Vatican Looks For Little Change In French Relations

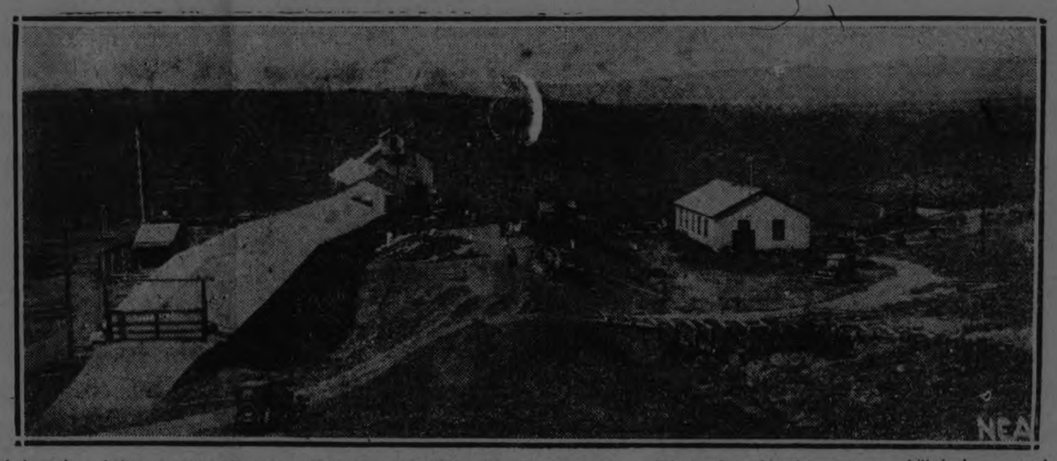
ROME, Sept. 27. — (United Press).—The Vatican, despite the anti-clerical attitude of M. Herriot, Premier of France, feels that there will be little change in the relations between the Holy See and the French Republic for some time to come.

It was one of M. Herriot's campaign promises that he would suppress the French embassy to the Holy See. The Embassy is still in existence and little has been done which would signify any change being made.

In French Catholic circles in Rome, it is generally believed that the present relations between France and the Vatican will continue as at present. It is pointed out that ex-Premier Briand was a stern anti-clerical but changed his hostile attitude because, it is thought, he realized the great value of having a diplomatic representative in Rome as well as having a Papal Nuncio in Paris.

M. Doulcet, present French Ambassador to the Holy See, has recently had very important conversations with the French Premier. French prelates here believe that M. Doulcet succeeded in showing the necessity of maintaining the present relations and of continuing the present diplomatic arrangements.

WHERE 36 WERE KILLED IN MINE BLAST



This is a view of the top of the Kemmerer Coal Company's Mine, No. 5, at Kemmerer, Wyo., where 36 miners were killed in an explosion. Twelve others entombed at the bottom of the shaft were brought out alive by rescue parties. The cause of the blast has not been ascertained

NOBLE KELLY SAW TRAIN TOO LATE C. N. R. CROSSING A TRAFFIC TRAP

Coroner's Jury Finds Death Resulted From Accident on Donegal Street.

ENGINE BELL RANG.

Evidence Conflicted Somewhat As To Warning Signals of Approaching Train.

The jury empanelled under County Coroner Dr. T. W. H. Young to enquire into the death of Thomas Noble Dean Kelly, who died on Thursday morning as the result of an accident on Tuesday, brought in a verdict last night declaring the occurrence that caused death to have been accidental. A rider recommended in the usual form that safety precautions be taken at the C.N.R. crossing on Donegal street.

Engineer Leonard Blair, in charge of the engine that struck Mr. Kelly, told the jury that the injured man said immediately after the accident "I saw you, but it was too late."

Other witnesses gave contradictory evidence as to whether the bell was ringing and the whistle blown for the crossings.

County Crown Attorney G. W. Hatton, K.C., conducted the questioning of the witnesses; F. D. Kerr, K.C., appeared in the interests of the family of the deceased, and W. C. Mills, of Montreal, represented the legal department of the Canadian National Railway. Herbert J. McCannan, was foreman of the jury.

Opening at 8 o'clock the presentation of evidence was concluded by 10.20, and the verdict returned at 10.45

Doctors' Evidence.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien said that he attended Mr. Kelly about 10 o'clock on the day of the accident. Mr. Kelly was lying beside the track. The car was still on the right of way, and Mr. Kelly's head was pillowed on a cushion from the car. He was slightly conscious and badly wounded. He was taken immediately to the hospital. One wheel was broken from the car. An engine stood 150 feet down the track.

In the hospital a further examination was made with Dr. F. P. McNulty. Mr. Kelly was found to have sustained a cut on the left side of his scalp, another over the right eye; others near his mouth, and a deep incised cut over the left kidney; several broken ribs, and a broken sternum. The lung was punctured. He was mortally wounded and died at 5.20 on Thursday morning. Dr. O'Brien was present at 3 o'clock and knew then the injured man was dying.

Dr. McNulty said he was at the hospital when Mr. Kelly was brought there. He would emphasize the injuries to Mr. Kelly's lungs, which would cause death through respiratory failure.

Saw the Accident.

Mark Black, 384 McDonnel street, said he was sitting near an open window on Tuesday morning when he saw a team drawing a load of gravel followed by a bakery wagon, approaching the railroad track. He heard an engine whistle for the Park street crossing. The Ford coupe, driven by Mr. Kelly, tried to cross in front of the bakery rig and was struck.

Mr. Black saw the auto caught on the front coupling of the engine and Mr. Kelly writhing in pain and trying to leave the automobile or fall out. The "Nut Krust" wagon was on the north side when the accident occurred but he could not say positively that it was there after the accident.

Mr. Black stated that he worked for the railway company ten years ago. He was used to noticing the engines' whistles, and couldn't help it. He did not hear the bell ringing when approaching the Donegal street crossing. "Engines frequently come along there without ringing the bell," he said.

The car was pinned on the pilot of the engine when Mr. Black arrived where the engine had stopped. This was about 35 feet from where it was struck. The engine had stopped within two rail lengths of where the car was struck. It was then moved further, but at that time the engineer had control of it. At no time was he travelling more than five miles an hour. Mr. Kelly's car was not going much faster. Mr. Black had a little experience in running an engine. He did not think that sand was necessary to stopping and he did not see any on the rails where the accident ocurred.

Mr. Kelly tried to get out of the car right in front of the engine, the witness said.

Took a Chance.

Frank Manley, Benson Avenue, said he was driving gravel on Donegal Street on the morning of the accident. He was driving a grey team, and was about 25 feet past the track when he heard the crash. He noticed the engine when he was on the track. It was then about 150 yards away.

The horses jumped and ran when the crash startled them. Mr. Manley said Mr. Kelly was under the car with his face buried in the cinders when he lifted the car.

Although when crossing McDonnel Street he saw the engine approaching at the Bonner-Worth Factory, he walked his horses across the track. The bell was ringing, but he did not hear the whistle. He first heard the bell when he was on McDonnel Street, and knew he had lots of time to get across the track.

Train Travels Fast.

Angus Murray, 500 Park Street, an employee of the G. Walter Green factory, said he was on the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred. The car was lying on its side on the south of the track, with Mr. Kelly under it.

The bell on the engine was ringing, but the witness heard no whistle. He saw the engine through the window, but could not say how fast it was going. It was a moderate rate of speed.

Hight Would Be Prison Chaplain If Life Saved

NASHVILLE, Ill., Sept. 27.—The Rev. Lawrence M. Hight, confessed poisoner of his wife in the plot to marry Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, who poisoned her own husband, has planned for his future in case he is sentenced to life imprisonment in jail here he said:

"If I go to the penitentiary I want to be appointed chaplain. I have seen both sides of life—the clean and the seamy—and I believe I would be fitted for such a task.

"I feel as if this all was preordained. God perhaps has thrown me in with prisoners, the transgressors of the laws of man, so that I may study them and pick out their flaws."

INDIAN SECTS SEEK HARMONY

Hindus and Moslems Meet at Delhi To Discuss Cause Of Friction.

300 DELEGATES.

DELHI, India, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Three hundred selected representatives of all the religious communities in India began a conference yesterday to discuss the best means of removing the cause of the frequent friction between the Hindus and Moslems, said to be at the bottom of much of India's unrest.

The conference is the outcome of the fast of the non-Co-operationist leader Gandhi, as a penance for the recent Hindu and Moslem riots.

With Padit Notilal Nehru, the Swarajist leader in the Legislative Assembly, presiding, the proceedings opened with prayer for long life for Gandhi, each delegate praying according to his faith.

Gandhi was not present because of weakness from his nine days of fasting, but he wrote several prominent suggestions as to possible means of appeasing the Hindus and Moslems.

FOURTH DAY OF LULL IN CHINA

Defenders of Shanghai Improve Opportunity To Strengthen Their Lines.

PLANTING MINES.

SHANGHAI, September 27 (Canadian Press). — While the three-day lull in China's Civil War merged into the fourth, unceasing preparations were continued for resumption of hostilities.

The fighting fronts around Shanghai all were quiet early yesterday morning.

Ho Feng Lin, Military Commissioner of Shanghai, visited Nansiang field supply base last night to assure himself that the city's defences were as perfect as they could be made.

Lu Pung-Hsiang, Tuchun of Chekiang, who is defending Shanghai, is making the most of his opportunity to strengthen his entire position by means of entrenchment, barbed wire, and reinforcements.

Two thousand troops and more artillery have been sent to Nansiang.

Refugees from the district surrounding the arsenal report that Ho Feng Lin is planting many land mines in that area.

WAS COMMITTED.

HAMILTON, Ont., Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)— John McClelland, former manager of the Union Bank branch here, wes committed for trial to-day on a charge of stealing $30,000 of funds of the institution. A plea of not guilty was entered. It was stated in the court that when confronted with the charge by police, McLelland admitted a shortage of $25,000, saying he had lost it on horse races.

LEAGUE SHOULD HAVE MEANS TO FORCE RESPECT

Marshal Foch Conveys His Opinion of the Assembly at Geneva.

CHECK UP GERMANY.

France Demands Guarantees of Security—Time Needed To Develop League.

PARIS, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press).—The opinions of Marshal Foch on France's security and the League of Nations, as set forth in his replies to questions put to him by the Revue Hebdomadaire, are expected by the French press to create a deep impression on his countrymen.

The first question was, under what conditions France could place her confidence in the League of Nations. To this the Marshal replied that he had always considered two things lacking in the League, first, that the European nations which were most interested in the maintenance of peace and in the affairs of Europe should have a preponderant voice at Geneva, and, second, that the League should possess material means to make its decisions respected, such as international force, or, better, the national forces of one or more countries at its disposal under conditions to be determined beforehand.

Reduce War Burden.

The second question was whether he believed the League eventually could lighten the country's military burden by a system of international guarantees. To this the Marshal replied in the affirmative, but on the condition that the foregoing conditions were fulfilled previously.

In the article he considers that a reduction in armaments can only be a corollary to guarantees of security and that guarantees will be vain so long as the nations most interested in the maintenance of peace do not predominate at Geneva.

Position of France.

A reduction of armaments in the case of France, according to Marshal Foch, depends on the disarmament of Germany, and it would be unthinkable to entrust control of disarmament in Germany to the League of Nations before, first, an inventory of German armaments is taken and the entire execution of the clauses in the treaty demanded by the Allies is accomplished and checked, and, second, a method is arranged by which the League of Nations shall exercise the right of investigation under the Treaty of Versailles.

The last query put to the Marshal by his interviewer, was whether Foch thought the saying, "If you want peace, prepare for war," could be replaced by "If you want peace, practice justice." His reply was not direct. His opinions, he thought, were those of all true soldiers—that nothing is more desirable than a reign of justice; that the making of war is an abominable calling; that bloodshed and the destruction of the property are detestable, and that the League of Nations is seductive idea, perhaps full of possibilities, but that time must be allowed men to consolidate it before it can be relied upon as a sole guarantee for the maintenance of peace.

The "Hip Pocket" Flask

There are more "hip pocket" flasks carried in the Provinces where liquor is sold under so-called Government control—which really is merely Government sale—than there is in Ontario under the O.T.A. It is true that some men in Ontario carry these flasks, but they do so in defiance of law and the best sentiment of every locality. When discovered they are prosecuted and punished.

THE HIP FLASK MADE LEGAL.

Under Government Sale the Hip Pocket Flask is a legal institution. The stores advertise them. They are price-tagged and displayed in the windows. Big ones; little ones; common glass ones; leather-covered and silver-mounted ones—all sorts of styles and prices; and young men get them for Christmas gifts, and out of these treat their dance partners and the girls they take motoring.

THE YOUNG PEOPLE CARRY THEM.

Andrew Blygh, Vancouver Justice of the Peace, says of his own city: "It is to-day more wide open than ever before, and any night may be seen cabarets in which no liquor is said to be sold, but in which fifty per cent. of the people show signs of intoxication. Dance halls are a public scandal, with young girls slipping from the dance hall to the back alley to take a drink from the hip flasks of their escorts."

FLASKS SOLD OPENLY.

Dozens of Montreal drug stores display in their windows two flat bottles labelled conspicuously, "Two of these contain one quart." Do the boys carry them? They certainly do.

If you want Ontario to make legal the "Bottle on the Hip," then endorse Government control. If not—

MOTOR LAUNCH BURNS.

William Smith Lost Valuable Boat and Sustained Injuries.

When Mr. William Smith, No. 5 Hunter street, was working on the gasoline engine of his launch on Thursday afternoon, a spark from the engine ignited the gas and the resultant fire consumed the boat entirely, with the exception of the engine, and caused several burns to its owner's face and arm.

Mr. Smith tried to put the fire out with the tarpaulin covering of the boat, which was moored at the foot of the Hunter street bridge crossing, opposite the Quaker Oats building. By the time the fire engine was summoned and arrived, the boat was a wreck. It was valued at about $300.

NOBLE KELLY

The building is 30 feet across and has two brick walls, but he distinctly heard the bell ring. Mr. Murray had noticed some close escapes there, one of which occurred yesterday. The noon train travels past that corner at a fast rate, and 25 miles an hour would be dangerous at that corner.

Bell Was Ringing.

Frank Rome, 475 Sherbrooke Street, another employee at the Green Foundry, was at the east end of the shed, about 100 feet from Donegal Street. The bell was ringing when the engine passed the foundry, and the witness heard the crash of the accident. The engine was travelling at an ordinary speed.

Mr. Hatton: "There is no ordinary speed nowadays."

Mr. Rome said it was going 5 miles an hour anway. The engine was not going as fast as the noon passenger train.

There Two Seconds After.

William Wilson,168 Adeline Street, employed at Green's Foundry, said he was present after the accident happened. "About two seconds after," he said, "maybe not that."

The engine was about 200 feet down the track when he arrived.

The bell was ringing when the engine passed, the witness said.

There was a pile of sand on the track about the place where the engine stopped.

Didn't Hear Bell.

Victor Lang, 693 Water Street, employed at Green's Foundry, heard the crash of the accident. He did not hear the bell or whistle.

John Wesley Manley, Monaghan Road, brother of a previous witness, said he is used to teaming across this crossing, and declared it a dangerous place.

Crossing Is Avoided.

Hubert Le Gros was on the scene of the accident shortly after it occurred. The engine was about 150 feet down the track.

The witness said he avoids the crossing because it is dangerous and there is no flagman there.

Says Bell Not Ringing.

George H. Hamilton, living at the corner of Donegal street and the railway, said he was in the house when the accident occurred. When he got to the door he saw the engine about 150 feet away. The sand had been run out to help the engine to stop. There is a pile of sand where the engine stopped.

The bell was not ringing when the engine approached Donegal street. The whistle sounded and the bell rang when the engine was approaching Park street, but Mr. Hamilton was postive that there was no warning for Donegal street.

The engine, he said, was travelling 10 or 12 miles an hour.

The witness was fireman and brakeman on the C.P.R. and had handled the throttle of an engine. The engine should have stopped in 24 or 30 feet at 12 miles an hour. This engine was 150 feet down the track after the accident.

Charles Baker, Gilchrist street, said the crossing is dangerous. He had seen a few narrow escapes there, one on Thursday morning when a horse had to be backed off to allow a train to pass.

Engineer Testifies.

Leonard Blair, engineer of Canadian National engine 2515, which struck Mr. Kelly's car, said he had brought a train from Lindsay and left it west of the city. After Peterborough the train would stop at Omemee Junction. Freights have no schedule, he said and had to await orders and water. He had been engineer for 12 years.

At the time of the accident the engine was not pressed for time. The whistle was blown for the crossings, both at Park and Donegal, and the bell was ringing continuously. The engine was travelling 8 or 10 miles an hour.

He saw the car just as the engine hit it, and applied the brakes. He did not put sand on the rail. The engine went 50 or 60 feet over the crossing, measuring from the rear of the tender. The engine and tender are 52 feet long. The front of the engine had gone 112 feet after it struck the car.

The witnesses who said the sand was released from the engine were mistaken, the engineer said. He considers the crossing dangerous and lives up to the speed limit of 10 miles an hour when crossing it, but does not take any other precautions.

The piles of sand found on the track were not from his engine, the engineer said. It was absolutely impossible for anyone on the engine to see the car before it was struck and the distance he took to stop was the shortest possible.

Mr. Kelly said: "I heard you, but it was too late," the engineer testified.

Mr. Mills asked when the engineer left his engine.

"After the engine stopped."

Fireman Shouted Warning.

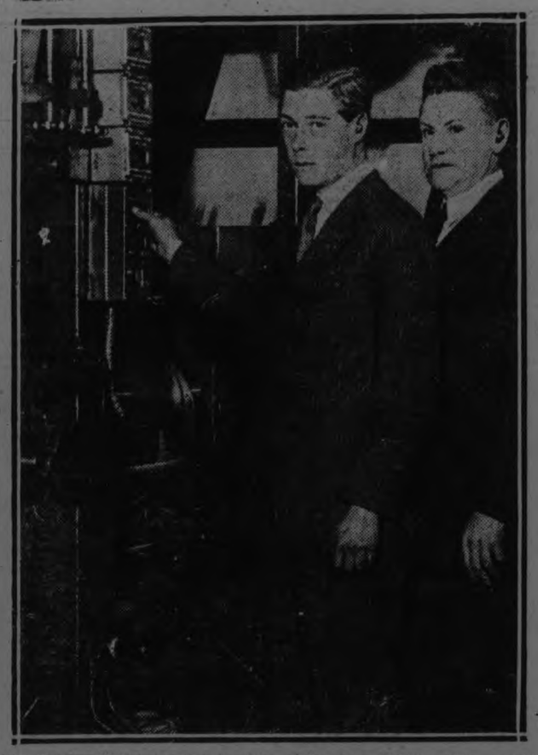
William Downer, fireman on the engine, said he had been fireman seven years. He saw the car just as it came on the track and shouted to the engineer. The bell was continuously ringing from the time the engine left its train. The engineer sounded his whistle for Park street and again when the grey team appeared on the track at Donegal street. The engine was not travelling more than eight miles an hour. The front of the engine was about 100 feet past the crossing. It was not 190 feet. The steps of the engine were 6 or 8 feet west of the semaphore.

The pilot of the engine was just on the planks of the crossing when the car was seen. The fireman considers this a dangerous crossing. The automobile was thrown clear of the track on the south side after it was hit. Mr. Kelly had evidently fallen out of the car door and the car had fallen over on him. There was no jar to the engine and no damage was done to it.

Thomas Renson, conductor on the engine, corroborated what the engineer and fireman had said. He jumped from the engine before it stopped and did not notice where it came to a standstill.

The automobile rolled clear of the engine about 30 feet from the place where it was struck, the conductor said.

PRINCE STARTS THE PRESSES



The Prince of Wales took a hand in giving New Yorkers the orld's news the other day. He started the presses rolling in the plant of the New York Tribune. Here he is seen pushing the button that started them rolling out the endition. At his side is John Lynch, the press room foreman.

Many British War Dead Will Remain In Germany

HAMBURG, Germany, September 27. — The bodies of many British soldiers and sailors who died in the German hospitals and prison camps during the war are to remain in the country permanently.

ha British Government recently acquired several tracts of ground here and elsewhere where cemeteries are to be maintained. The largest burial place will be in the Ohlsdorf Cemetery of Hamburg, where a space for 700 graves has been taken over by the British.

Bodies of soldiers who died in Mecklenberg, Schleswig - Holstein, Hanover, and Oldenburg are to be transferred here, as well as the sailors who died at Borkum and Emden.

DAWN OF WOMANHOOD

A Time of Difficulties When Watchfulness Is Needed.

Some girls upon the threshold of womanhood drift into a decline in spite of all care and attention. Even strong and usually lively girls become weak,depressed and irritable, and listless. It is the dawn of womanhood—most important in the life of every girl—and prompt measures should be taken to keep the blood rich and pure. If your blood is not in a healthy condition at this stage, the body becomes ill-nourished and other ailments develop. If the health is not maintained by a sufficiency of rich, red blood, all sorts of weaknesses are likely to arise. Remember this, Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have saved thousands of girls and women from being lifelong invalids, because of their wonderful blood-making properties.

The value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills to young women whose health was failing has been proved over and over again. These pills are the most reliable blood builder, fortifying weak nerves and creating the liberal supply of red healthy blood which a girl needs to sustain her strength.

You can get Dr. Williams' Pink Pills trough any dealer in medicine, or by mail at 50c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PERFECT WOMAN

until I couldn't resist it any longer. Oh, how I wanted to be free!"

His face twitched and he made a little gesture. Then he continued:

"I was dying for love and I guess Elsie was too. Her husband was a good provider, but he was not affectionate. We were two dissatisfied individuals looking to Heaven for a true mate.

"And behind these bars, alone, deserted by all my friends, I can still honestly say to you that I love Mrs. Sweetin as much as ever."

Sees Her Even Now

"I still see her beautiful face as I lie on the cot in this cell.

"I love her with all my heart, and I know she loved me. Any man can tell when a woman puts her arms around him. Yes, I love her better than life. She is the perfect woman.

"I used to lie in bed dreaming of this woman and the words of my wife that she had no time to love me would keep ringing in my ears.

"Perfect love is not known until perfect love is accepted and given. The world has forsaken me, but that's when the Lord comes in, for if all forsake, the Lord will not.

"I remember the morning I gave my wife the arsenic. She lay in bed, suffering from a paralytic stroke. She weighed 210 pounds and you can imagine the poor woman's plight. Four hours in one position and not able to move as much as her little finger.

"I guess it was about 4 a.m. that the crisis was at hand. I thought for a moment she was going to get well and I prayed she would. It was either a life of nagging or a life with my perfect mate, free.

"But as the daylight was dawning I was hoping she would live."

When He Gave Dose

Tears welled into his eyes and contvition was written on his face for a moment, but it gave way to a sinister look as he went on:

"It was just at dawn that my wife in the faintest whisper asked for coffee. I went for it.

"I didn't say to myself that here was the chance. But perhaps by sub conscious mind was working, for I went straight to the kitchen pantry and reached for the container which held a death and a new life—a free live to live over again. I put a little powder in the coffee.

"I watched her for two days and nights after she drank that stuff until she died."

COOLIDGE LUCK

conditions in Canada. He suggested that Montreal should not go asleep at the switch, and told of what Vancouver was doing. In 1922 that port had shipped 7,000,000 bushels of wheat, in 1923 it went to 12,000,000, and this year it had gone to 41,000,000. Flour shipped out of Vancouver in 1922 was 120,000 barrels, in 1923 it was 432,000, and this year already it had risen to 776,000 barrels. The prospects were that the figure would go to the million mark by the close of the year. Mr. Babson added the comforting assurance that what benefitted one part of the country benefitted the whole country, and urged against sectional differences in Canada.

More Efficiency.

As to labor and wages, Mr. Babson believed, also if history repeats itself, that there would be a readjustment in that regard as in the matter of other commodities, not so much as to wage scales in themselves, but as regards efficiency. He believed labor was going to give more for a dollar in 1925 than in 1924. Even though scales held firm, workingmen, and especially union men, preferred to loaf half the time rather than reduce the scales 10 or 15 per cent., though only recently the boot and shoe industry had reduced wages with the consent of the union, and the textile industry is now in consultation with the unions in regard to a proposed reduction.

ZR-3 Capable of Lifting Forty Tons Dead Weight

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 27. —The ZR-3 will start her non-stop trip to Lakehurst, New Jersey, with 11,100 gallons of gasoline tucked away inside her ribs. This will weigh, at the start, approximately 28 tons. While it is estimated that the route to be followed will cover about 4,500 nautical miles, the gasoline aboard will carry the dirigible possibly 400 or 500 miles further, if necessary. Engineers figure that the five engines operating at the cruising speed of 60 to 65 miles an hour will consume about 100 gallons an hour. The voyage, it is expected will require not more than 100 hours unless unfavorable weather should be encountered. More than 1,000 gallons of gasoline will be taken along for "good measure."

The 100 tanks containing the gasoline are located inside the great frame work of duralumin, suspended from the beams and braces on either side of the keel walkaway or corridor which extends from the nose to the tail. Supply pipes carry the gasoline to the engines, each of which is located in a separate gondola. There are five oil tanks. The process of inflating the ZR-3 with hydrogen gas for the flight required eight days.

Placed on a giant sets of scales minus the gas and gasoline, the dirigible itself, it is estimated, would weight 39 to 40 tons and, when inflated and ready for action, has a lifting power of approximately 40 tons more.

GRASSHOPPERS LIKE ALCOHOL.

OLYMPIA, Wash., September 27. —In a campaign to exterminate the grasshoppers in Okanogan County, of this State, it was found that a mixture used to poison the insects became so attractive when fermented that it was 50 to 75 per cent. more efficient.

Mixture is composed of arsenic, molasses, lemons, oranges, bran and sawdust.

It was first used freshly mixed, but when some that had been left over night and developed alcohol was spread over the ground as an experiment, it was found of enhanced allurement.

Swedish Premier Urges Adequate State Defence

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 27.—Social prosperity will come, not by preaching a holy war against capitalism, but by championing the cause of thrift, work, and confidence, the three great drivewheels of modern machinery, says Sweden's premier, Ernst Trygger, in his key-note address just delivered in Malmo.

The Premier, in opposition to the Social-Democrats, urged an adequate national defence as provided for in the bill submitted to the Riksdag by the present conservative government. Strongly emphasizing this as the paramount issue in the coming elections Mr. Trygger pointed out how Sweden's prosperity and natural wealth spelled danger in their attractions for hostile countries. "There is the greatest peril for the meek lamb grazing on the luxuriant meadows when woles are stalking through the neighboring forests," he declared.

The present situation in the world, the speaker said, although holding strong promise of improvement, does not yet justify unpreparedness, and even the Dawes plan in its practical application is likely to cause serious difficulties. The Premier ended his speech with an emotional appeal, declaring that the voices of our forefathers calls to us, "Forget not Sweden, the ancestral home of liberty, justice and duty."

CONVICTING BOOTLEGGERS.

While Chief Friend of Oshawa makes a rather unusual challenge, his remarks in regard to the conviction of bootleggers are rather to the point.

The head of the Oshawa Police Department declares that bootleggers will not sell to the police or the license inspectors, that proof of sale is necessary, and that the people who want to rid themselves of the illegal sellers of whiskey have the remedy in their own hands.

Let them buy a bottle from a bootleggers, bring the evidence to the police and lay a charge, is the advice of Chief Friend.

It won't be followed, of course, but the challenge will attract attention to the fact that it is not the easiest task in the world to prevent bootlegging.

The sales are naturally not made when the police are around, the dealers in the traffic are protected by the mental attitude of many citizens towards the Ontario Temperance Act, and law enforcement officers are working in the dark.

The Oshawa Police Chief suggests a remedy that would be effective, but nobody knows better than he does that there is little chance of anybody acting upon his suggestion.

SIGN YOUR NAME; MAKE THEM SHORT.

Interest in the O. T. A. plebiscite is growing as the day of voting draws nearer, and the Examiner is being flooded with a deluge of letters dealing with various phases of the situation.

The Examiner has no intention of putting the closure upon a discussion of this most vital question, but for its own protection must insist that henceforth letters dealing with the issue must bear the signature of the writer.

No communication in regard to the questions to be voted upon next month will be printed unless the writer's name is also published.

People who have opinions concerning the Ontario Temperance Act that they want to bring before their fellow-voters should not be reluctant to state their views over their own signature.

If they are averse to doing so they will, however, have to find some other medium than the columns of the Examiner to give voice to their opinions.

Communications bearing the name of the correspondent will be published in the order they are received and as quickly as is possible, but even in their case, it should be understood, that the space available is naturally limited, and correspondents should endeavour to make their letters concise and to the point, see that they are legible and written only on one side of the paper.

If these conditions are fulfilled there will be plenty of opportunity for a helpful discussion of an issue of great interest to the people generally.

THE SCHOOL CHANGES.

Premier Ferguson in his capacity as Minister of Education has apparently made good his promise made soon after the return of his party to power, that he would eliminate non-essential and "frills" from the curricula of the public schools of the Province.

The proof of the pudding, of course, is in the eating, but the changes announced seem to assure a simplification of the system and to make the education of Ontario's school children of more practical benefit to them in after life.

The Premier points out, with much truth, that a considerable portion of the school time has hitherto been devoted to intricate details of certain subjects, difficult for the pupil to grasp and of little value to him when he starts out on his life's battle.

His opinion is that the time that has been devoted to these matters can be used to much better advantage in learning something of real utility.

The curriculum has been revised upon the basis that a child should be taught only the subjects suited to his capacity, more difficult subjects being left to later years in school when the mind of the pupil is able to grasp the details with more facility.

Home work is to be shortened and more time is to be utilized for optional subjects.

The changes are drastic, but they sound logical, and may be of great value in improving the school system of the Province.

It will be interesting to follow their development as they are put to a practical test in Ontario's schools.

HIS NEW YORK FAREWELL.

(From the New York Sun.)

The Prince and his fortunes have departed for the North, and America again assumes a republican form of Government. For three weeks Soyosset was the social capital of the United States; for three weeks the Burden home was its Buckingham Palace; for three weeks the Prince assumed direct dictation of styles and manners; in three weeks he made himself the best known man in the United States.

How could it have been otherwise? His hour and minute of rising and retiring; his schedule throughout the day, his slightest change of clothing, his every smile and glance and gesture were marked and noted and commented on and eagerly eread about by a hundred million readers. So magic was his touch that every young lady with whom he danced a single step rose to instant fame, and even if he took a fleeting glance at a pretty girl her photograph went into every pictorial. Did ever royalty have more power?

For the Prince's visit explains the secret of an enduring monarchy in Great Britain when less democratic countries have long since gone republican. It is not by royalist plots that the crown is made secure upon the royal head; it is not by strength and firmness; it is not by fire and sword.

It is by fine and gracious manners, by diffidence and shyness, by a captivating smile, by being handsome in one's person, a fine sportsman, a good fellow, and, in short, a prince.

Good by, your Highness! Good by, Lord Renfrew! Good by, Dave Windsor! Drop in again some day and your welcome will be just as warm and hearty, just as feverish and boisterous.

IT'S A SKUNK, NEVERTHELESS.

Everything is complicated, to a scientist. Celebrated Professor A. S. Eddington tells an audience (and the explanatory parentheses are our own):

"Take the simple act of my mounting this platform, which is apparently solid. I place my foot on a platform that is travelling 19 miles a second (with the revolving earth). My body, which apparently moves easily, is sustaining (atmospheric) pressure of 14 pounds per square inch. I am hanging head downwards into space. A wind of ether at terrific speed is blowing through the interstices of my body. And the plank on which I step is not solid, but composed of millions of electrons which are constantly bombarding the soles of my feet."

Nevertheless, we hasten to add, all that's happened is that he has stepped upon a platform.

A scientist, seeing a certain little animal, will say: "It's Mephitis Mephitis, a common mammal, allied to the weasels. It can eject a very offensive secretion produced in two perineal glands."

An ordinary man, pondering all this, would say: "Nevertheless, it's only a skunk."

Science has a tendency of complicating the simple. That's what science mainly does—takes the simple, examines it and finds out how complicated it is underneath.

Plain water, to a scientist, is two parts of hydrogen to one part of oxygen, in combination. Of course, he doesn't know what hydrogen or oxygen is, so where is he much better off than before he knew it by any name other than plain water?

Admittedly, scientific analysis leads to progress.

But isn't science making life too complicated? Isn't it responsible for the widespread tendency of the people, to view the simplest situations as if they were complex?

The truth is right under our noses, but we fail to see it because we're looking for something hidden, mysterious, complicated. With this attitude, of expecting to find things complicated, we approach economic, political and social problems that are as simple as A-B-C to any one with common sense.

We are forever seeking bogies that don't exist—fancy names for the skunk. Look how complicated the experts have made the problem of what amounts to Germany paying damages in police court.

WINSTON CHURCHILL GOES HOME.

Winston Spencer Churchill, soldier, politician, orator, journalist, author and artist, recently described as one of the "seven lamps of British Liberalism," has returned to the Tory fold. Son of Randolph Churchill, who, more than a generation ago, was a salient figure of Conservatism, and whose life he has told in one of the greatest of English biographies, Winston Churchill went over to Asquithian Liberalism some twenty years ago. He broke with Conservatism on the issue of tariff reform, and his speeches in the campaign which followed, preserved in book form, are among the most formidable indictments of Protection produced in the English language. Lord Birkenhead, in his brilliant pen portraits, "Men of the Hour," declares that Churchill's defection changed the whole course of British political history.

"In the Parliament of 1906 he would have entered into his Kingdom. His audacity, his parliamentary flair, his amazing industry, would have carried him far beyond any of his rivals, and when the Great War began he would, in my judgment, unquestionably have been the leader of the Unionist party."

Instead the young man who had served as a soldier of fortune with the Spanish forces in Cuba; who had taken part, a reckless subaltern, in the glorious charge of Omdurman; who had effected a wonderful and romantic escape from the jail at Pretoria; who with all his other brilliant qualities was Randolph Churchill's son, went over to the hosts of Liberalism. There, restless, audacious, vivid, compelling, he became one of the doughtiest warriors on the Asquithian side. Combative, insolent, contemptuous of foes, it was said of him that his was the only tongue that could make Mr. Balfour quail. He was happiest when assailing his own old friends and caste; he was the most hated Liberal in Parliament; he was actually assaulted in the Commons by a burly Tory, Ronald McNeill; but his courage never failed. When civil war was threatened in Ulster he went over to Belfast and preached Home Rule right in the Ulster Hall.

His war record was a mixture of the brilliant and the tragic. As First Lord of the Admiralty he had the fleet ready to strike on the morning of August the fourth. His genius invented the tank; he was the driving force behind Asquith; he was the author of the fatally brilliant conceptions—Antwerp and the Dardanelles. But disaster dogged his steps. It was said of him that he saw too much, and tried to do too much, that no one department, hardly one war was enough for him in that meteoric moment. The result was that he fell upon evil days and tongues, was pursued with a rancour second only to that which destroyed Asquith, and passed into temporary eclipse.

But only temporary. The critics who said that he was dead underestimated his resiliency and brains. And so while Lloyd George and Birkenhead and others lingered on the stage to talk themselves into greater extinction Churchill retired and wrote the classic story of the war. His book was not only a great vindication of himself; by common verdict of friend and foe it was a noble piece of literature. Mr. J. L. Garvin, a very competent critics, hailed its prose as reminiscent of Dryden and Gibbon; while other critics saluted its sheer eloquence, its vividness and beauty of style. Churchill had been damned because of Antwerp, for the failure of the Dardanelles, for his ill-starred support of Koltchak. With overwhelming facts and data, with official proofs, with irrefutable logic he turned upon his critics and tore their arguments to pieces. With little of braggadocio, with nothing of malice or recrimination, it was a powerful, convincing apologia.

In the election of last year, Churchill threw in his lot with Asquith. His speeches had all the old potency, especially when on the fiscal issue, but he went down in the general massacre. A second attempt, made some months ago in the Westminster division of London, failed him again; and now, as an enemy of Socialism, he goes back to his spiritual home.

Churchill's career reads like a romance. He was a good journalist and is a great author. He has fought for love of adventure and paints for recreation. He was First Lord of the Admiralty in the world's greatest war. He is a statesman of international repute and an orator of beauty and power. And he is still in his fifty-first year.

Yet other worlds remain to conquer. British Conservatism stands more barren of leadership than at any time since Disraeli "explored ashes and dust." Stranger things have happened than that the returned exile should soon succeed to the sceptre held by Stanley Baldwin with somewhat wavering hands.—Ottawa Journal.

A THOUGHT

YOU HAVE GOT TO EARN.

The absolutely necessary man, the indispensable individual, does not live, save in his own estimation.

You may feel that you are the only one that can fill the position that you now occupy, but when you feel this way, go and have your head examined for congestion of the ego.

Someone stands ready to take your place. It may be that this "someone" has not had your personal experience, but has had other valuable training that you have missed.

It is harder to hold a championship than it is to strive to gain one.

You will be a wise man if you throw into your present position all the energy and all the personal interest you possess. To settle back and feel secure means that you are unconsciously slipping out of your opportunity.

If it is true that a dollar saved is equal to two dollars earned, how certain it is that a job saved is worth two jobs that you have got to earn.

Fine Portraits Must Embellish Passports Of All Americans

BERNE, Switzerland, Sept. 27.—Passport difficulties for Americans have been made a little more annoying by the new regulations of the state department providing that photographs presented for use on passports must be of a specified thickness, of certain dimensions, and must have a white background.

These regulations specify pictures which are wholly unlike the rush photographs supplied by emergency picture galleries the length and breadth of Europe, and force the American applicants to go to regular photographers, most of whom require many days to complete pictures and charge many times the amount travellers pay the specialists in passport pictures.

The contention of the state departent is that the pictures must have a white background so the signature of the applicant, when written across the picture, will be more legible.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

TORONTO, September 27. — Without considering quality, export steers are down easily 25 cents a cwt. and some sent in for export only realised $6.00 a cwt. These were rough heavy boned steers only about half fat. Heavy heifers were about steady at $6.25, with a few as high as $6.70. Around 200 were taken as stores for Scotland and these were bought from $5.50 to $6.25. For suitable export cows the price range was $5.00 to $6.00, and choice heavy bulls cost $4.00 to $4.25 a cwt. Three boats will be available for export next week, and well finished steers and heifers should meet a steady and probably a little better market.

The demand for good to choice butchers was fairly good and there was no decline in these. Mixed loads of steers and heifers in the handy weight class sold readily at $6.25 to $6.50. Good butchers' went from $5.50 to $6.00, and medium from $5.00 to $5.25. There was an avalanche of offerings in the poorer butchers' and sellers were entirely at the mercy of buyers. Bunches of common butchers' sold at $3.00 to $3.25, and some buyers who cater to the cut-rate butchers' stores bought killers as low as $2.75 a cwt.

Butchers' cows were easier except in the good to choice kind. Packers are getting a large number of cows from the West, and this is lightening the local demand. Some good butchers' cows sold from $4.00 to $4.25. Common cows did not cross $3.00 a cwt. Most of the choice bulls were bought for export around $4.00 a cwt. The rest generally taken for bolognas, sold at $2.50 to $3.00 a cwt. Cows for canners and cutters were easier with prices from $1.25 to $2.00 a cwt.

While there was a brisker trade in stockers and feeders this week, prices were not firm, owing to the low quotations on beef cattle. Good loads of 800 to 900 pound stockers sold at $4.25 to $4.75, and heavier feeders from $5.25 to $6.25 a cwt.

Milchers and springers were inactive, but prices were considered steady. Commission men are sending out the usual plea for better finished butchers and the impression is abroad that these and exporters should be a little firmer next week. Low prices have undoubtedly kept some good cattle back in the country.

Lighter runs of calves have assisted in maintaining steadiness in this branch. The Buffalo shippers only took two loads this week, but tops held from 10 1-2 cent- to 11 cents, and good calves were 9 1-2 to 10 cents a pound. Heavy calves 250 to 350 pounds, although fat, are not much wanted and have to be sold around 6 cents a pound.

Lambs made a gain of over a dollar a cwt. at one time, with a sale as high as 12 1-2 cents. The bulk of the good lambs, however, only made 12 cents for ewes and wethers.

Thursday's market was easier at about 11 1-2 cents and packers were prepared to discount heavy lambs a dollar below this. Choice handyweight sheep and breeding ewes are firm from 7 to 8 1-2 cents a pound.

Hogs are up 25 cents for the week at $9.25 a cwt. f.o.b. and sales have been made slightly above this. The week closes with packers bidding $9.25 f.o.b.

WINNIPEG LIVE STOCK.

WISNIPEG, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Arrivals; 618 cattle, 59 calves, 112 hogs, and no sheep

The cattle market continued inactive yesterday, with few sales being steady with the week's decline. Steers sold from $3.00 to $3.50. The plain cows from $2.00 to $2.25. The stockers and feeders were around $3.60.

Due to the light run of hogs the market advanced 25 cents with thick smooths at $9.00.

There was no trading on the sheep and lamb market.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

CHICAGO, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Cattle receipts were 3,000; practically no market on the weighty fed steers; bulk fresh and stale offerings unsold at noon; numerous lots held off market, some without bids; moderate demand for yearlings; no choice steers of any weight here; best long yearlings, $10.25; few loads $9.00 to $10.00; bulk rough fat weighty steers, $8.00 to $8.90; some 1,372 pound averages, $9.90; top for that class; exceedingly narrow demand for fat cows; many held over; shipping demand meagre; local big killers taking few lots at $3.75 to $4.50, mostly canners strong, $2.75 to $3.00; bulls weak to 10 cents lower; weighty kind, $4.15 to $4.35; mostly light to medium weight bulls, $3.50 to $4.00; vealers very uneven, about steady quality considered; bulk $11.00 to $12.00; stockers and feeders fairly active; steady; bulk $5.25 to $7.00.

Hogs, receipts 15,000; strong to 10 cents higher; underweight showing 15 to 25 cents advance; top, $10.40; bulk better 160 to 225 pound weight, $10.00 to $10.30; majority good and choice 250 to 350 pound butchers, $9.90 to $10.10; desirable 140 to 150 pound average largely $9.60 to $9.90; bulk packing sows, $8.50 to $8.90; better strong weight slaughter pigs mostly $8.75 to $9.25; estimated holdover 8,000.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 27 (Canadian Press). — Corn led in the grain markets to higher price levels yesterday in a manner that bordered on the sensational. Broadened speculative demand for corn came about chiefly from a summary issued by the United States Department of Agriculture saying that for this time of year the corn crop is at present even more backward than a month ago. After scoring in some cases an extreme upturn of 6 cents, the corn market closed strong at 3 3-8 to 3 1-8 cents net gain, December 106 1-4 to 106 1-2.

Wheat finished firm, 1 3-8 to 3 1-8 cents up, December 138 5-8 to 138 3-4 and May 144 1-2 to 144 5-8.

Oats showed 3-4c to 7-8c to 1 1-4c advance.

Provisions varied from 15 cents decline to a rise of 35 cents.

40,000 Snakes Used Monthly For Food and Drink In Tokio

TOKIO, September 27. — More than two hundred snake dealers in Tokio supply the city's demand for snakes as food and medicine, according to figures gathered by the Jiji Shimpo, one of Tokio's leading newspapers.

Tokio citizens consume about 40,000 snakes each month, says this paper. Snakes, mostly of the viper family or garter snakes, are either eaten by invalids needing the nourishing factor which science has labelled vitamin A, in which these reptiles are supposed to be rich, or they are consumed as a drink, made by burning them and dissolving the ashes in spirits.

Such consumption of snakes is due to old superstitions, and does not have medical endorsement.

THE WISE WOMAN WILL DRESS TO SUIT HER EYES

By HEDDA HOYT
(Written for the United Press).

SEW YORK, N. Y., Sept. 27 — "Dressing to suit one's eyes" should be the slogan of every woman. So often we hear the expression "she isn't pretty but she has lovely eyes," and this is true of the great majority of women. A noted actress once said: "I am not beautiful as the critics say but I have nice eyes and no one looks beyond them for beauty."

The beauty of the eyes can be greatly enhanced if one gives special heed to the attention of colors and to the shapes of one's hats. Of course there are many types of eyes; oval, round, long and narrow and each type demands certain hat shapes of their own. Matching the character of the eyes is far more important than matching their color and this is an art which each woman must develop for herself.

Study Your Eyes.

Study the character of your eyes and decide to which type they belong. Round eyes should beware of small brimless hats as these emphasize the roundness of the eyes and are liable to make them appear protruding; cloche shapes and wide mushrooms and all hats which tend to slightly shade the eyes will be found to be an asset to the rounded eye.

Narrow oval eyes should follow the opposite rule in hat selections. The narrow-eyed woman will find the off-the-face hat or the rolled brim best suited to her. She should beware of the strictly tailored types as these stiff shapes tend to harden the eyes. Soft draped effects and feather trimmings are usually more flattering to her.

The almond-eyed woman can accentuate the alluring shape of her eyes by wearing hats that are wide at the sides, thus adding to the length of her eyes. If she is dark and of Oriental type she will also find the draped turban a becoming type.

Select the Proper Hat.

Sometimes a woman's eyes are her poorest feature and in this case the sensible thing to do is to select a hat which brings out the lower part of the face such as the turn-down cloche or mushroom. Hats of this type shade the eyes and at the same time accentuate the other features. On the other hand, girls with beautiful eyes will find the cloche or turn-down hat less becoming than other types which do not cast a shadow over the eyes.

Next in importance to the type of the eyes comes color and every woman can bring out the color of her eyes by using the same colors near her face. She need not necessarily choose an entire frock of blue, if she has blue eyes, but she can get the same effect by wearing collar, necklace or scarf of blue. These small accessories can be a great help in bringing out the main color of one's eyes.

The Brown Eyes.

The brown-eyed person finds brown, tan, green, yellow, red, amber and many vivid colors becoming. The blue-eyed blonde knows that she is fortunate in being able to wear almost any pastel shade as well as many dark colors. A great many women do not know the color of their eyes. Some have eyes of shades that are so neutral as to almost be devoid of definite coloring, such as bluish green, bluish gray, grayish green, or brownish green.

The neutral-eyed person must determine which is the dominate shade and choose clothes or accessories of that color to submerge the lesser shade. Women with eyes of neutral coloring can change the dominate color by wearing the less dominate shade about the face.

Emerald Eyes Rare.

For instance, a person with bluish green eyes can almost entirely subdue the greenish cast by wearing certain shades of blue which are just a little darker than the blue in the eye. As a rule most women like to submerge the green cast in their eyes unless of course, the green is that unusual emerald shade which Titian-haired persons sometimes possess. In this case, one wears greens just a trifle lighter than the eye in order to bring out the emerald shade. The green-eyed person should not attempt to wear too brilliant a green or her eyes will have a yellowish cast.

Once in a while we see people with yellowish eyes—tiger eyes, as they are called—and the fortunate ones who possess them will find yellowish colors extremely becoming. Colors such as tans, browns, yellows and greens will all be becoming. Spotted furs such as leopard are unusually startling on the tiger-eyed woman.

HARD WORK KILLS

Machine Begins To Wear Out After Forty Years

The old saying, "hard work never killed any one," is disproved by Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University.

It stands to reason. A machine is capable of just so much work before it becomes worn out. A machine lasts longer, if it is used only occasionally, than if it runs day after day.

And the body is a machine.

Up to the age of 40, it appears very difficult to kill a man by physical hard work, occupational and industrial hazards being excluded from consideration, Dr. Pearl reports.

But after 40, hard work begins to shorten life.

That's why a man should make hay while the sun of youth shines. The bulk of his hard effort should come before he leaves his thirties behind.

At 40, it is not time to take a back seat. But it is time to play the game less strenuously, and to rest more. Whether or not a man is able to do so, depends to considerable extent on whether he wasted his twenties and frittered away his thirties.

Henry Ford isn't the only wise old owl who believes that most people cannot expect to accomplish much until they are 40 or older. Possibly this is true of the actual accomplishments. But the efforts that flower into accomplishments can take place in early manhood.

The seed planted in the twenties and thirties sprouts in the forties and bears its best fruit in the fifties and later.

Hard work does not wear out a man as quickly when he works outdoors, Dr. Pearl finds. This applies to men who do hard physical work indoors, quite as well as to men who work sitting in a chair or standing behind a counter.

The natural life is outdoors in the fresh air and sunshine. An indoor worker can get considerable of these in his spare moments, and they form the real fountain of youth.

Death comes when the body-machine is worn out, just as an auto is ready for the scrap heap after it has done so many miles.

HEAT FAILS TO WITHER A BUMPER DRAMA CROP

By ALICE ROHE
(Written for the United Press)

So much has been said about crop that the sturdiness of the native drama commands attention. Here is one crop that heat cannot wither nor competition stale. This year the new season really begun before the old one ended! New Plays began to crop up as early as August 11th.

And then comes Labor day—the hottest in history—with five new plays and two re-openings—starting off a week of 13 productions! It's rather interesting to note that three of these deal with a supposedly tabooed subject—The War.

One of these war plays "Nerves", by John Farrar and Stephen Vincent Bennett, has been waited with keen anticipation by the "Intelligentsia." They were out in full force too, defying heat prostration at the premiere. Indeed young William A. Brady Jr. the play's sponsor had to put the S.R.O. sign long before all could crowd in.

Interest in this play is due to the fact that John Farrar the youthful editor of The Bookman, poet, critic, is one of the most significant figures in modern American literature. Stephen Vncent Benet is also among the "illuminati."

Not So Good.

Therefore notwithstanding great admiration for these young men we record with keen disappointment that "Nerves" is not a good play. In the first place the main idea—cowardice or nerves—is not adequately developed dramatically to "put over" a war theme. And then the college boy interest is too local. Personally my idea of no way to spend a hot night, or a cold one either, is to hear a lot of college boys and their girl friends with flippant and unfunny chatter revive problems of the great war.

"Pigs" Is Popular.

A play whose popularity is proof against sweltering heat or biting blizzards in "Pigs" is not of the heroic nor the romantic school! It's just plain home stuff with so much humor in the lines and so much superb characterization as to make it imperative for any one who enjoys a good laugh to see it. It looks as though John Golden, the producer had picked another non-stoppable "Lightnin."

"Pigs" is the story of a younger son who wants to start out for himself. He desires to buy a lot of slightly cholera touched pigs—to cure them and resell them. Of course he makes good. And the squeals of the pigs on the stage are more real than the squeals of laughter from the audience. Anne Morrison whose first play "The Wild Westcotts" last year, marked her as the possessor of a rare gift for dialogue and characterization, has achieved a real popular success in her collaboration with Patterson McNutt.

Some New Plays.

The new crop of plays includes Havoc, Nerves, Pigs, Top Hole, The Chocolate Dandies, The Haunted House, The Green Beetle, Rose-Marie, The Passing Show of 1924, Be Yourself, Earl Carrol's Vanities, The Tantrum, Glory, Dancing Mothers, Marjorie, No Other Girl, The Best People, The Dream Girl, The Werewolf, Bye, Bye Barbara, The Easy Mark, Revivals, The Miracle, The Swan, Rain, Stepping Stones, All God's Children Got Wings.

LARGE FAMILIES GIVEN A BONUS

Agitation for Increase in Birthrate Brings Premium for Each Child.

TRY POLYGAMY?

PARIS, September 27 (United Press). — Agitation for increase of the birth-rate of France has reached the stage where a civic premium is given to a father for the birth of a child.

The General Council of the Vosges has taken this remarkable step to arrest the decline of population and encourage large families. For every new-born child in the district the family will be given a bounty of 300 francs, and an additional 50 francs for every child born in a family after the third.

While polygamy is forbidden in France, the suggestion of legalising it causes no surprise in parliamentary and intellectual circles, and the question is being widely debated. Many writers and some politicians are vigorously advocating new laws to meet a condition that is becoming alarming. Professor Charles Richet has declared that within a quarter of a century the forty millions of French people will have been reduced to twenty-five millions.

Suggestions include some degree of legal polygamy, a lessening of the penalties for bigamy, less stringent divorce laws for couples having no children, removal of infidelity as grounds for divorce, and legitimasation of children born out of wedlock.

Complex Problem.

The problem is complex, and presents many phases that must be taken in consideration. As a result of the war the female population of France is greatly in excess of the male population. Most students of the subject champion the cause of this percentage of girls who, under the law, cannot honourably become mothers. They argue in no uncertain terms that unless the laws are altered immorality will increase apace. Housing shortage and high taxation are factors that make the young men hesitate to build a home. The new feminism has been charged with contributing a disinclination on the part of many modern women to burden thmeselves with the cares of motherhood.

"It is illogical and contrary to nature to allow one man only one woman a a time," is the extreme view of M. Georges Anquetil noted author of "La Maitress Legitime" (The Legitimate Mistress), a sensational book advocating free love which in 13 months has had a sale of 250,000 copies, a remarkable record in France. The author insists that its success is not due to curiosity over the subject, but to the social aspects of a problem.

Answers Question.

M. Anquetil has just answered emphatically in the affirmative the question put to him: "Shall we weaken the bonds of marriage?" He said:

"You have actually in Europe 18 millions—in France alone 2 millions—of young girls condemned by the war massacre of the males and stupid monogomy to the physiological and moral miseries of the celibant, or to unions that the law does not recognise and the scandalised and virtuous bourgeoirie rebukes. You have that or so many potential mothers lost. Unmarried mothers, under our system, are too often driven by the cruelties of society to the public welfare home where they leave their children to a life of misery.

"We have in France four girls to one man at what was regarded before the war as the marriageable age. Mormon missionaries are quite justified in declaring that polygamy conforms to the Bible."

Scientific Frankness
on a subject known as woman's oldest problem

THIS is a subject which vitally interests every woman. A subject every woman will understand.

Modern science has found a better way—safer, less embarrassing, more hygienic—than the old-time "pad."

It is called KOTEX

Discovered in wartime France, now 8 in 10 women in the better walks of life have discarded makeshift methods for it.

KOTEX is far more absorbent than ordinary cotton. It absorbs 16 times its own weight in moisture.

Women who seek daintiness, peace of mind, exquisiteness and security under all circumstances, use it. Once you do, no other method will ever satisfy. And millions will tell you this.

FRENCH STYLES OFFER VARIETY BUT NO CHANGE

No Radical Turnover in Designs—Frocks Are Slender and Straight.

FLARE ON COAT

Pantalette Frocks Are Featured for Evening Wear By Cherult.

By HEDDA HOYT

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 27.—(United Press.—While the majority of French designers and couture houses favor slender lines with widening hem features, long sleeves and short skirts, there are details of variations sponsored by these various style leaders which offer many suggestions, as may be seen in the following Fall style summary.

Callot favors straight, sheath lines with wide decorated bands extending about the hips. These low hip bands may be embroidered, or beaded and in some cases the decorative note extends in front only. Apron front effects are another Callot idea and these are used in conjunction with the wide hip band on many of the afternoon frocks. Callot's sleeves are frequently long with fullness above the elbow and a tight-fitting lower portion. Fringes are also sponsored by Callot and these are added to give the flounce idea to the otherwise straight-lined frock. Callot's favorite colors this season are russet, brown and maroon for day time wear and yellow, Madonna blue, salmon pink and coral for evening wear.

No Radical Change.

Lucien Lelong declares that Fall will see no radical change in the silhouette as frocks will continue to be slender, straight and beltless as far as below the hips, then widening all the way around the skirt in some sort of fullness. Lelong's skirts remain short. His evening wraps all have sleeves and he is not including one cape model in his Fall display. Tailored suits will either be strictly tailored or "ensembles"—dresses with coats to match. The coats of these "ensembles" extend within a few inches of the bottom of the frock with a tendency toward a flare at the coat bottom. For evening wear Mr. Lelong likes chiffon combined with fur. For day time he favors ribbed silks and shiny surfaced silks. His sports coats add a new note to the sports selection as they are all trimmed with spotted furs among which are leopard and burundunk—commonly known as chipmunk.

Slender Lines

Charlotte who has made many of the frocks for American motion picture stars in slender lines with low waist-lines. Belts are placed extremely low in many instances. What fullness is introduced is suggested in the tunic skirt which is cut on the bias and posed over a very under foundation. Charlotte's foundations, by the way, are always separate from the gown itself. Charlotte favors the long, tight sleeve, and believes that they add slenderness to the silhouette. Collars in many instances are high. Others are upstanding affairs in back terminating in a V-shaped front.

Pantalette Frocks

Cheruit is featuring pantalette frocks for evening wear, the pantalettes, however, do not extend beneath the skirt, and they are only noticed when the skirt is raised. Full ruffled frocks are those which choose the pantalette as an accessory. Many of Cheruits evening frocks follow 1880 lines.

For daytime wear Cheruit is featuring straight, beltless frocks with a slight widening at the hemline.

Lavin, whose lines are always graceful, carries out the long sleeve idea by using wide, pleated sleeves which are gathered into a wrist band. Lavin's sleeves generally begin from an offshoulder armhole and they may be embroidered or made of several colors of chiffon, sewed together to form wide stripes and then finely pleated. Apron fronts and low waistlines are favorites of Lavin. Crepes are generally sponsored for daywear and beaded embroidered effects are popular.

French Style Notes

The Directoire influence is noticed in the huge bows which appear at the front of the collars of tailored suits. Reveres and jabots also express the Directoire influence.

Small felt hats now show a tendency towards abandoning the 'cloche' shapes as they are beginning to have turned up brims extending all around. Many of the Fall felts are trimmed with velvet bows or feather pompoms.

Fur scarfs made of flat furs are replacing silk scarfs in the fall collection. They may be two and a half yards in length and are most popular in mink or squirrel.

Leather belts, buttons, bindings and fringe adorn many new sports frocks. Appliques of leather on cloth are shown on new fall garments of sports variety.

CENTURY OLD FIRM CLOSES ITS DOORS

Iron Company In Heart of City's Office and Shopping Centre.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Sept. 27. — (Associated Press).—One year less than a century ago an iron mill was built on the outskirts of Pittsburgh. It was a small affair, constructed on the banks of the Allegheny River by the firm of Miltenberger and Brown. For 99 years it grew and played an important part in the city's industrial life, but now, instead of being on the outskirts of Pittsburgh, it stands within a few blocks of the very heart of the city's shopping and office centre.

And this is the chief reason the oldest independent iron and steel mill in Pittsburgh is being torn down. The firm of Brown and Co., Inc., the present owners, is going out of business because there is too much business. The site of the mill occupies about three acres, and if it continued operation it would be necessary to expand. And there is no room for expansion. On three sides are tall buildings and on the other is the river. J. Stuart Brown, grandson of the founder, said he did not wish to assume the responsibility of erecting a new plant elsewhere, and he felt he deserved a rest. Consequently the business will be discontinued.

Decision to stop work in the mill was reached last June, and not a wheel of its machinery was turned since. When running at full capacity the plant employed between 400 and 600 men. Most of the old employes have found work elsewhere.

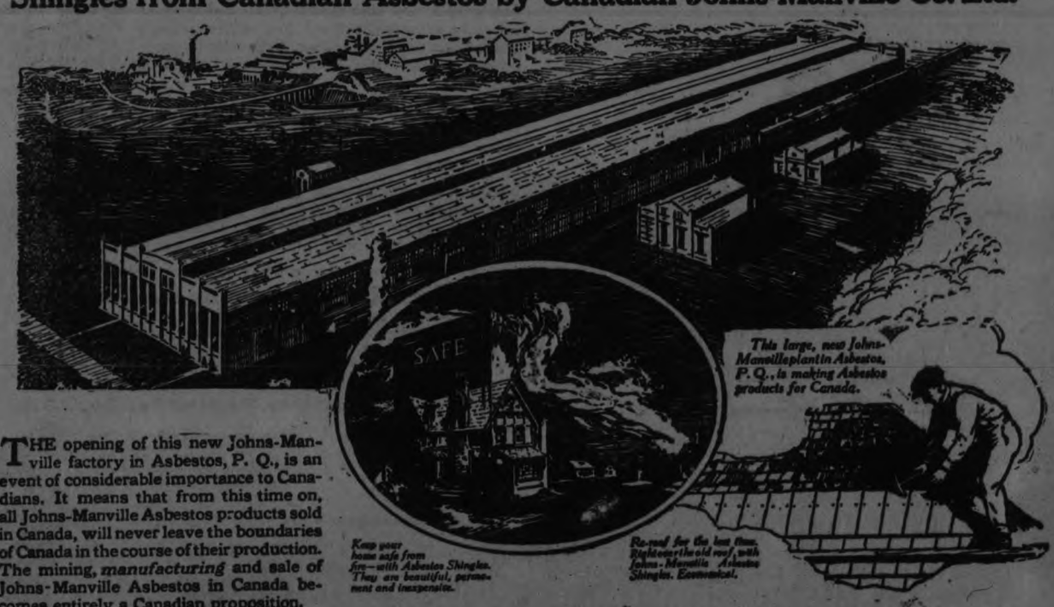
A new CANADIAN factory

To manufacture Insulating Materials, Fire-Proof Roofings and Shingles from Canadian Asbestos by Canadian Johns-Manville Co. Ltd.



THE opening of this new Johns-Manville factory in Asbestos, P. Q., is an event of considerable importance to Canadians. It means that from this time on, all Johns-Manville Asbestos products sold in Canada, will never leave the boundaries of Canada in the course of their production. The mining, manufacturing and sale of Johns-Manville Asbestos in Canada becomes entirely a Canadian proposition.

This new plant, covering 4½ acres, and developing 2500 horse-power, is situated right beside the Johns-Manville Asbestos mines. Thus expensive haulage costs on raw materials are eliminated. This saving will be passed along to Canadians in the shape of remarkably low prices.

It means more work for Canadian labor, quicker deliveries to Canadian dealers, and a greater service to Canadians everywhere.

Hold your car in leash—with Johns-Manville Asbestos Brake Lining. Brakes are safer and last longer with Johns-Manville Asbestos Brake Lining.

Now Asbestos Roofing at the same price as ordinary roofing

This new plant makes it possible for you to get Johns-Manville Asbestos Roofings at the same price as ordinary roofing materials. And you know that there is no roofing material with the advantages of Asbestos. It is fire-safe, it is weather-tight, it cannot rot, dry out or corrode. It is permanent. It is the most economical roofing you can buy—because it is low in first cost, and seldom, if ever, needs maintenance expense.

Asbestocel Pipe Covering

Johns-Manville Improved Asbestocel is the most efficient pipe-covering per dollar of cost that you can buy. Cover the heating pipes in your house with it. You will save a great deal of fuel every winter and your house will always be comfortable.

Power Plant Materials

Johns-Manville Asbesto-Sponge Felted Insulation for high pressure steam lines in industrial plants is less liable to breakage, has longer life and higher efficiency than any other insulation.

Johns-Manville packings, insulations and high temperature cements, are based on Asbestos and its allied products. They are preventing fuel waste in plants everywhere and saving thousands of dollars every day.

Other Johns-Manville products include: Industrial Flooring, Architectural Acoustics, Asbestos Textiles, Automotive Equipment, Boiler Insulations, Refractory Cements, Packings, Housline, Asbestos Wood, Corrugated Roofing and Siding, etc.

CAMPBELLFORD FAIR GRACED BY AUTUMN'S GLORY AND BIG CROWD

Weather Favored the Directors With Its Blandest Smiles—Exhibits Good.

ATTENDANCE RECORD.

Campbellford Defeated the Brighton Ball Team—Elmhirst Horses Win Two Races

(By Staff Reporter.)

CAMPBELLFORD, September 27. — The 1924 fall exhibition of the Seymour Agricultural Society passed into history yesterday with an attendance surpassing that of any previous year. Thursday, the first day, was merely a preliminary. Yesterday was the big day, and ideal weather brought out a crowd estimated at the gate as being in the neighbourhood of 7,000.

Exhibits were in the main satisfactory, with every section showing good quality. The amusements provided were light. Campbellford had a Midway show this summer, with a big patronage, and the Fair this year consequently went without the usual side shows that provide entertainment for the crowd. However, there were several of the dart games that are always popular, a novelty in kewpie prize shows in which the chief performers were tall harlequin dolls, whose obliging mouths held pipes from which projected toy balloons. The patrons turned wheels grach gradually filled the balloons with air, the one of the dozen to break first deciding the winner of a prize. One of the games was run by the Boy Scouts of Campbellford, under the direction of Scout-Captain F. Wiltshire, the proceeds to go towards buying first-aid kits for the troop.

A vendor who had a good trade was the purveyor of "conversation" novelties, his whistles and kazoos emblazoned with buttons bearing inscriptions such as "I shake a wicked shoulder" and "Be my jazz baby."

There were several booths selling soft drinks and light refreshments, a palmist, and two stands where meals were served, one under the direction of the Girl Guides, captained by Miss Grace Payne, the second maintained by the Willing Workers of Christ Church (Anglican), with Mrs. Fred Linton in charge. This last was directly beneath the judges' stand, and the cries of "Keep away from that pole horse" perforce mingled with requests for a "hot dog" or a "piece of lemon pie."

The judges had dispensed with the usual bell as a starter, and used a gong instead. The horses facing on a dirt track which was heavy with dust, providentially escaped from trampling the scores of people who wandered at their own sweet will back and forth.

Montgomery's Mare Wins.

Three races, with purses amounting to $400.00 divided between them, were run off yesterday, a free-for-all, and two classified races, a 2.20 and 2.35 trot. The winner of the free-for-all was Bessie Brooks, owned by Frank Montgomery of Peterborough, 1-1-1. Second and third comers respectively were Polly Stout D. Elmhirst, Indian River), 2-2-2, and Roy Mack (S. Watson, Cobourg), 3-3-3. Roy Mack was said to be running off his usual form in yesterday's event. Time, 19 1-4, 19 1-4, 19 1-2.

Just Jack, owned by A. Elmhirst of Indian River, a new horse in racing annals, and half-brother of Herman W., the horse which was injured at Lakefield Fair, and shot later, won the 2.20 event, 1-1-1, with second and third winners in Cy Mack (C. Garrison, Frankford), 3-2-2, and Lillian Patch (S. Watson, Cobourg), 2-3-3. Time: 49 1-4, 49 1-2, 59 1-2.

The winner of the 2.35 event was Betty Azoff also owned by A. Elmhirst of Indian River 1-1-1. Prince R. owned by C. Fife of Indian River, came second, 3-2-3, and Bertha Todd (Jack McNaught, Tweed) was third, with a standing in the three heats of 4-3-2. Jennie Bison, owned by F. Bennett, of Campbellford, also ran. Time: 39 1-4, 39 1-2, 39 1-4.

Judges for the races were Ross Turley and R. T. Dunlop, both of Frankford, and Dr. H. S. Allen, of Warkworth. The starter was Geo. Tice of Belleville, and the timers J. R. Battisby of Campbellford, and James Freure of Warkworth.

Slowest Car Won.

An event which excited a great deal of interest was run off when seven automobiles entered for a contest in which four-cylinder cars were to be driven once around the half-mile track in high gear, the prize to the machine driven slowest. The cars started on low gear, shift ing to intermediate, and then to high. The use of brake or clutch was forbidden, and a car stalling was definitely out of the contest. One car stalled almost at the post, but the others made the goal, with the exception of one entrant, stalling on the home stretch. The car to arrive last, after a snail-like progress around the track, was a Star, driven by Fred Rowe, of Campbellford, while the second winner was H. Cassan of Campbellford, in a Gray-Dort.

Prizes of $3.00 and $2.00 respectively were given for this event by John L. Hay.

A prize of a 4-gallon can of Polarine motor oil, given by the Imperial Oil Company to the best lady automobile driver was won by Mrs. Earl Williams of Campbellford. The three contestants were required to execute the figure eight, both backwards and forwards, in front of the judges' stand.

Two prizes of three and two dollars, given by Mr. J. E. Birks for the best pair of roadsters, driven once around the track, went to T. W. Snarr of Harold and George Gummo of Warkworth.

Prizes of the same amount, given by Dr. S. L. O'Hara, for the best single roadster, harnessed to four-wheled rig, and driven twice around the track, were awarded to Charles Vance of Stirling and George Gummo of Warkworth.

Judge Deserted Babies.

An event that created considerable interest was the baby show. Over a dozen dimpled darlings, arrayed in their best bibs and tuckers, were ready for the show, but the doctor in charge was called away before the judging commenced, and by the time another doctor was requisitioned the babies had melted away, only four remaining for a long patient hour.

There were three boys and one girl, all under the year limit specified by The Peterboro Examiner, which awarded a first and second prize of three and two dollars for the two best —Leora Fern Hubbell, an eight-months old girlie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Hubbell -- Campbellford, drew first award, and the second went to Ralph Shearer, six months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Shearer, R. R. No. 2, Hastings. One of the remaining babes came from Havelock, the other from Campbellford. Dr. A. G. Armstrong of Roseneath, was the brave physician who judged the infants

Christ Church Team Won

Two games also enlivened the afternoon, one a football event between St. Marys' and Christ Church teams in Campbellford, the other a baseball game between Brighton and Campbellford. The football game was won by Christ Church team, scoring four goals against their opponents total of naught.

The line-up was as follows: Christ Church: Goal, Rev. Mr. Clarke, Backs; Page and Armstrong, half backs; Beatty, Parish, Sargeant, O. L.; Poulter, J. L.; Cubitt, C; Cleveley, J. R.; Blackwood, O.R.; Romaine

St. Marys': Goal; Wood, Backs; Collins and Brennan; Half-backs; Forestell, Welsh, Lemoire, J. L.; Bush, O. L.; Hawkridge; C Fitzpatrick, J R.; Seiner, O. R.; Hessan. A. P. Hinds acted as referee

Brighton Defeated

In the ball game between Brighton and Campbellford, the home boys won by a 10 to 4 score. "Toly" Ivey, the high school player, held the heavy-hitting Brighton aggregation to six hits and turned back an even dozen by the strike-out route. Outside of the fourth and eighth, he was never in danger. Jacky Cowell realized the ambition of every ball-player by slamming out a home run with the bases full. He also had two singles, and Charlie Holmes had three hits, two singles and a double, and accepted three hard chances in the field. Campbellford scored two in the first on an error and two hits, four more on the second on two hits Ibey and Daniels singled and Blakeley was hit by a batted ball, then Crowell picked out one in the groove and it sailed over the centre fielder's head to clean the bases. Plate and base umpires were Adams and Bates of Brighton.

The line-up follows: Brighton: Way, p; Frise, c; McKee, 1b; Cameron 2b; Scriver, 3b; Solomon ss; Brown, lf; Somes, C., f; Thorne rf; Campbellford—Ivey, p; Nesbitt, c; Shillinglaw, 1b; Daniels 2b; Holmes 3b; Eagleson ss; Blakeley lf; Crowell, cf; Wood, rf.

The exhibits were very good, although the Fair suffered to a certain extent, it was said, by the Picton Fair being held on the same date In the long building fronting the entrance were housed the poultry on view, with a total of about 650 birds. The judge, C. H. Wilson, of Whitby, considered the showing an excellent one, "far above the average run of Fall Fair showings", and pronounced every class good in quality White Wyandottes seemed to predominate, and White Leghorns made a good exhibit, with some nice Columbias and Black Wyandottes. The fancy varieties were excellent, as also were the turkeys and water fowl.

The Poultry Show

One of the biggest exhibitors and also the biggest prize winner was H. Lush, of Peterboro, showing in the neighborhood of 130 birds, with about eighty first awards for them. James Coyle of Warkworth showed White Rocks, W. J. Abernethy of Campbellford, director in charge of the poultry had Columbias and Black Wyandottes, Roy Bell of Campbellford, H. VanAllen of Stirling, C. H. Curtis of Warkworth and Stanley Nelson of Seymour, all had big showings, and Lorne Hutchinson of Warkworth had some good waterfowl

A few rabbits occupied hutches at one end, a brown mottled member thrusting its head from its enclosure doing some investigating work on the rear of the collar of an unsuspecting male visitor.

A red building across the road was devoted to a display of ladies' work, and here were very interesting exhibits. The various entries, although not large in any one section, were arranged in a particularly tasteful and attractive manner. Upstairs was painting and needlework of many varieties. There were some good oil and water-color sketches and drawings in crayon and pen and ink, a few pretty pieces of hand-painted china in the new lustres, and painted cushion covers, one an effective affair on velvet, with a long-legged crane stepping gingerly in parade before a group of surprised-looking bulrushes. First prize awards were affixed to a horse-shoeing interior, a lovely bowl of pansies and a still-life fish.

Along the walls, in shelves guarded by a wooden railing, and in the central portion, on overhead racks, were hung and displayed various types of needlework, fancy and plain There were some beautiful things in embroidery, including an odd linen runner with crocheted edges, its panels adorned with huge California poppies, whose petals were raised relief from the design. There was some dainty wear for infants, embroidered lingeries and linens that included some exquisite pieces of tatting. Beaded blouses were on view, in fragile materials, and there were warm quilts, one composed of puffed up silk squares and edged with wide red velvet band. Labor-saving kitchen devices, knitted woollen socks and woollen mats and rag floor rugs were on view, all of excellent workmanship.

Display of Flowers

Downstairs was a big display of cut flowers and some potted plants and ferns. Gladioli and dahlias, zinnias and cosmos and asters, ball marigolds and scabiosa, a basket of everlasting intermingled with painted leaves and bulrushes, were artistically arranged. C. Palliser was the judge in this section.

Mrs. Wm. Hume and Mrs. C. Macoun had charge of the Domestic Science and Home baking section, in which there was a truly wonderful display. Under central wired screens, arranged with an eye to effect, were on view. An innovation in the display of the bread and cakes was the small sample piece cut out and placed on top, presumably to show the interior well-being of the piece. The loaves were noble specimens, as were the cakes and pastry. A couple of big chocolate cakes had maple buds as an upper decoration. Pies had intricate designs in their air-holes, there were meat pies also, of a depth and toothsomeness that Dickens would have delighted to describe, and tarts and doughnuts and cookies, meat loaves and half a dozen ramekins filled with rice for a special entry.

Canned and potted fruits and preserved also made a goodly showing, the piece de resistance a glass of green relish in a slim glass, with green and red mingled effectively in its interior.

Fruits and Vegetables.

The display of fresh fruits contained apples and grapes and pears and there were some fine looking vegetables on view also. Cards bearing names of the exhibits were helpful and interesting. There was honey with a big bee in attendance on one exhibit; maple sugar in a big round cake and butter in prints and crocks. A few entries were in the home made soap section, and there was a line of noble cheese against the wall. The judges in these later sections were C. F. Lewis of Stirling and W. H. Bailey of Madoc.

The exhibit of roots and grains was bigger than for some years past, the special award of J. N. Stone, given to the exhibitor capturing the most prizes in this section going to S. L. Terrill of Wooler, who own a similar award at Stirling Fair. G. S. Vanvolkenburg was the superintendent in charge of vegeables, grains and seeds.

In the live stock section, the cattle in both beef and dairy classes had about 200 entrants. Pure bred Ayrshires were the largest class in this section of the country where this breed of cattle has so many admirers. Thos showing in this class included Alex. Hume, E. A. McCook, Wm. Stewart and George Dunk of Campbellford; F. M. Rutherford of Bonarlaw, whose Ayrshires took 13 first prizes at the Lindsay fair, and 12 in Peterboro, and Fred Howe of Harold.

Holsteins, a small class, were shown by Messrs. Ward, of Dartfort, and William Wynn of Campbellford, while Garnet Kerr of Campbellford, had a great herd of pure bred Jerseys; Chas. Bedford and Henry Dunham of Campbellford, showed Shorthorns and M. Peterson of Norham had the fine beef cattle, the Aberdeen Polled Angus. Along the fences andw in the cattle barn the herds were tied. W. F. Stevens of Huntingdon, Quebec, secretary of the Ayrshire Breeders' Association, judged the dairy cattle, and W. A. Douglas of Caledonia, the beef cattle. The superintendent of the beef cattle classes was C. E. Bonnycastle; W. M. Stephens had the Holsteins and Jerseys, W. A. Wynn, the Ayrshires.

Swine in a very small showing of about twenty-five or thirty, principally Tamworths, were in waggons opposite the stalls where cattle were ranged. Mr. Heath of Stirling had the biggest showing. The pig and sheep section was in charge of Fred. Hendy. Mr. Shields of Lansdowne judged the swine, and sheep were judged by W. A. Douglas of Caledonia. In the sheep section, with about a hundred entries, Leicesters were most prominent, with the biggest exhibitors in J. G. Honey of Roseneath and Fred. and George Hendy of Campbellford. Mr. Honey also showed Dorset Horns and Southdowns; C. H. Curtis of Warkworth and Alyea and Son of Colborne had Oxfords and Shropshires, and George Hutchinson of Warkworth had Lincolns.

Heavy Horses.

Judging in the ring went on until the closing hour, about 5.30, with plenty of entries in every class, a big list in the general purpose and agricultural type horses, and some fine driving animals. S. Wellbank, of Belleville, judged the heavy and general purpose horses, and W. W. Anderson of Belleville the light animals. One of the judges raised an objection at the end of the showing to the general practice at Fairs of including heavy draught horses in the general purpose class. Superintendents in charge of the horses were: Henry Watters, for the heavy draught, general and agricultural purposes, and James C. Anderson for the roadsters, carriage and saddle horses and lady drivers. Large exhibitors in the heavy horse class were W. J. Bland, W. J. Ross and A. Bennett of Seymour Township.

The special prize of three dollars given by L. A. Denike and Son for the best lady driver was won by Miss Stanbury, driving a horse owned by Edward Stanbury, of Campbellford. McKelvie and Cook's two prizes of three and two dollars for the best boy drivers, of thirteen years or under, went to (1) James Fox of Wooler, and (2) Geo. Hendry of Campbellford; Garnet Kerr's two prizes of the same amounts for first and second place in the best saddle horse event were won by E. Stillman of Campbellford and Russell Peake of Campbellford, and E. Stillman was also adjudged the best boy rider, of sixteen years and under, winning Alex. McDonald's prize of three dollars.

The highest scoring team of any class, for which John Locke offered first and second awards of three and two dollars respectively, belonged to Alfred Bennett and James Leonard, both of Campbellford; the highest scoring brood mare and foal for F. W. Wood's prize of three dollars, was owned by G. Van Volkenburg of Campbellford, and the best carriage teams, for Chas. Duncalfe's prizes of three and two dollars were owned by V. Richardson of Stirling and J. H. Tucker of Belleville.

Included in the minor exhibits on the grounds were those of a certain type of wallboard, an electric generating machine for farm use and a distribution of literature connected with the raising of the best type of bacon hog, supplied by the Canadian Packing Company, and distributed by M. McKinnon.

The Campbellford band, under the leadership of Bandmaster Cowell, played in excellent fashion during the afternoon. The programme for both days included a final evening dance.

Owing to an engagement to judge sheep, swine and dairy cattle at Barrie and Collingwood Fairs, the popular president of the Seymour Agricultural Society, Mr. John Locke, was absent yesterday, but the energetic and efficient secretary-treasurer, Mr. J. N. Stone, looked after all arrangements in a highly satisfactory manner.

The following are this year's officers of the society: President, John Locke; 1st Vice-President, H. Waters; 2nd Vice-President, Geo. Van Volkenburg; Secretary-Treasurer, J. N. Stone.

Directors—Dr. S. L. O'Hara, T. J. Horkins, J. C. Anderson, W. M. Stenhens, Wm. Abernethy, E. A. McCook, Fred. Hendy, Garnet Kerr and A. Hume. Lady Directors — Mrs. Chas. Macoun, Mrs. T. L. Prepare for the Indoor Days.

SUMMER is on the wing. The days are shortening—there's a chill bite in the wind that's hustling the fallen leaves up and down the side walks. Soon you will have to forsake the great outdoors for the warmth of the fireside—leave the activities of the links or tennis court for the comfort of the living room. The indoor days will be here.

Will you be as happy "within four walls" as you were outside? Will your surroundings be as congenial?

Let wallpaper make your home as beautiful and enjoyable as the outdoors. Wallpaper will bring all the warmth and color and life of nature right into your own home.

Re-decorate now, so that the indoor days will be welcomed when they arrive. Re-paper your home with Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper. You will find in this famous line an exceptionally wide range of patterns and color-treatments to choose from. It affords a wonderful scope for the expression of your personality—your taste—your ideas, on your walls. More than that, Staunton Semi-Trimmed Wallpaper means a far quicker and more economical job than you could have done with any other paper.

Your dealer will show you this famous line.

Note the famous "Semi-Trimmed" feature of Staunton Wallpaper. The selvage, instead of having to be laboriously trimmed off with straightedge and knife, is knocked off simply by rapping the ends of the roll on floor or table. Think of the saving in the paperhanger's time and the consequent saving to you.

Hope For Safety of the Clifton Has Been Abandoned.

CLEVELAND, O., Sept. 27.—A hydroplane, tugs and beach patrols have been added to agencies already being employed to find some trace of the whale back freighter, Clifton, now definitely believed to have foundered with her crew of 28 officers and men in the gales which swept Lake Huron on Sunday night. The owners have abandoned hope for safety of Clifton and her crew.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM TUCKER

William Tucker, passed away at his home Lot 1, Concession 1, Dourc on Friday September 26th., aged eighty-five years and five months. The funeral will take place from the family residence Monday, September 29th at 1.30 p.m. Interment at Warsaw Cemetery.

FRIENDS

How many friends have you really got, yes, how many friends do you know? Just how do you tell just who is, or not, and how does real friendship grow?

A fellow will claim he's a friend of yours and his greeting for you is a smile. He feels that that one little thing assures that he is a friend worth while.

You only may see him when things are okeh and you carry no troubles to sift. But supposin' things change on the very next day; is he ready to give you a lift?

Expressions of sympathy; loans, now and then, will often give folks a new start. A friend sets you pluggin' all over again when your own backing hasn't the heart.

The answer to friendship is simple, at best; it's something that's easy to sum. I'll hang to the fellow, and pass all the rest, who's for me whatever may come.

Is Your Blood Hungry for Iron?

Iron Is The Red Blood Food That Gives You Strength, Energy and Power—How to Make The Test That Tells

Actual blood tests show that a tremendously large number of people who are weak and ill lack iron in their blood and that they are ill for no other reason than lack of iron. Iron deficiency paralyzes healthy, forceful action, pulls down the whole organism and weakens the entire system. A pale face, a nervous, irritable disposition, a lack of strength and endurance and the inability to cope with the strong, vigorous folks in the race of life—these are the sort of warning signals that Nature gives when the blood is getting thin, pale, watery and literally starving for want of iron. If you are not sure of your condition, go to your doctor and have him take your blood count and see where you stand or else make the following test yourself: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired; next take two five-grain tablets of Nuxated Iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see how much you have gained. By enriching the blood and creating new red blood cells, Nuxated Iron strengthens the nerves, rebuilds the weakened tissues and helps to instill renewed energy and power into the whole system.

Unlike the older inorganic iron products Nuxated Iron is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black nor upset the stomach. The manufacturers guarantee successful and entirely satisfactory results to every purchaser or they will refund your money. It is dispensed by all good druggists.

DROWNED IN PAIL.

ST. CATHARINES, Sept. 26. — (Canadian Press.)—Robert, the 17 months old son of William R. Reid, was drowned in a pail of water lying on the floor in the house this morning. The mother discovered the child's position ten minutes afterwards, but every effort to resuscitate it were futile.

His aching back relieved

"I suffered with aching back which interfered with my work on the railroad. It was so bad that I had to give up my work for about two months. Then I started using Gin Pills. I got relief in four days so that I could go back to work."

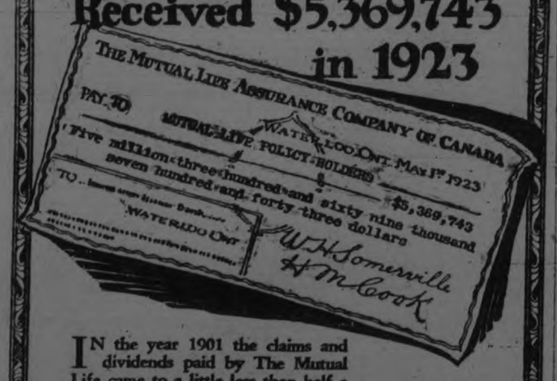
Mutual Policyholders Received $5,369,743 in 1923



IN the year 1901 the claims and dividends paid by The Mutual Life came to a little less than half a million dollars. Last year The Mutual Life of Canada paid to policyholders and their beneficiaries $5,369,743 —more than ten times the amount paid in 1901!

Who can say what sorrows were sweetened, what anxieties were eased, by the distribution of these great sums? Who is there that doubts the benefit of Mutual profit participation when $2,193,081 out of the above amount was paid in cash to participating policyholders in profits for one year.

Let our agent explain Mutual Profit Participation. Write us for literature.

TWENTY 'DON'TS' FOR MARRIAGE

Judge of Divorce Court Gives Advice For Men and Women

GREAT RECONCILER

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 27—Judge Thomas F. Graham, famous as "the great reconciler" through his success over many years in divorce courts in bringing estranged couples together, believes that a policy of "look before you leap" would do much to prevent marital smashups.

From his twenty years' study of the divorce problem and handling thousands of divorce and annulment cases he has evolved a set of warnings for both girls and young men. If these are followed, "the great reconciler" believes, the divorce could will have less business in the future.

Here are his suggestions:

"Bewares" For Girls.

Never marry a man who does not read the sport section of the newspapers. Young fellows who profess no interest in manly, outdoor athletic sports are not apt to be interested in anything or anybody but themselves. They make poor husbands.

Never marry a man who plays cards for money. Love for games of chance is almost certain to supplant all other loves, greater than love for home, wife and children.

Never marry a man who says he has no bad habits. He is pretty sure to have a vice much worse than smoking or even drinking. If he's of the "holier than thou" variety he soon will becomes a pest.

Never marry a man your parents object to, unless your parents are most unreasonable. It is court history that 65 per cent. of all elopements end in the divorce courts.

Never marry a man who says he does not care for children. He's an unnatural, selfish man and not to be trusted.

Never marry a man because he is a good dancer. Perhaps that is the only thing he can do well. Men who have intelligent feet seldom have anything in their heads.

Never marry a man who detests dogs. If you do you'll find he is incapable of loving anything, even himself. Something is wrong with that sort of man.

Never marry a man who drinks on the sly. If he isn't fair and square on that subject, he'll deceive you and cause you many a heart break on other accounts.

Never marry a man who speaks slightingly of your parents or of old people. He's not the man for any woman. He'll neglect you when you begin to get wrinkled and gray.

Never marry until you are old enough to know what you are doing. Sixteen-year-old brides too often are 17-year-old grass widows.

"Bewares" For Men.

Never marry a girl who has lily white hands when her mother's are calloused and roughened by hard work. That girl won't be a good helpmate.

Never marry a girl who wants you to take her to a show every night and is never content to let you "sit up" with her in her own home. She's not the type that will make a home for you.

Never marry a girl who keeps her room or the parlor littered with signed photographs of former or present beaux. She's a collector of heart throbs and she, more than likely, won't stop flirting after she marries you.

Never marry a girl who is ashamed of her parents and does not want you to meet them. She's the wrong sort of a girl for any man.

Never marry a girl whose only thought is clothes. If that is the calibre of her brain she'll never be a real wife or mother. Always she will be a clothes hanger and she'll keep you broke.

Never marry a girl who insists that you take her to places of amusement that are beyond your means. If she is that thoughtless before marriage, she will not bother about your financial affairs after your marriage.

Never marry a girl who is immodest in her dress. No man wants a blush because of his wife's appearance. And never marry a girl who is slovenly and untidy. That, in a short time, will kill even the most ardent love.

Never marry the promiscuous kisser. She'll cause you lots of grief and heart pangs later on.

Never marry a girl several years older than yourself or many years younger. The difference in ages will cause many a "spat" later on and "spats" are the harbingers of alimony.

And never marry a girl who is not fond of children. That sort of girl is not natural. Childless homes, except in unusual cases, are not enduring.

AID CONVICT'S HUNGRY FAMILY

The Philadelphia Prison Welfare Association cares for the little girl (above) while her father is in prison. Dr. S. P. Ross (insert) is the head of the Association. Lower picture shows one family left destitute, except for the aid of the Association, when the breadwinner went to jail. His mother, 80, wife and three children are in the picture.

By BOB DORMAN.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Sept. 27—"Has it ever occurred to you that when a man is arrested and placed in prison, he is fed, kept warm and has a place to sleep, while those who have been dependent on him, and who are in no way responsible for the commission of his crime, are left to shift for themselves—often to go cold and hungry and to be thrown into the street because they cannot pay their rent?"

Dr. S. P. Ross, head of the Prison Welfare Association of Philadelphia, was leaning forward in his chair, emphasizing his question with shakes of a long forefinger.

His organization takes care of scores of families of men in prison.

Continuing, he said: "Society is defeating its own ends in its present methods of handling crime.

"Children, dependent upon the support of a father who is in prison, go hungry and cold. They question the worth of a system that condemns them to privation and want for a crime of which they know nothing.

"They grow up with a grudge against the world—a grudge which too often leads them into the same paths of crime that their father has already trod.

"The man in prison whom we claim is being reformed, is too often the victim of idleness. Theoretically he works. But any manufacturer would go broke whose employees turned out no more than prison labor.

"Let them work—not in competition with labor in the outside—but in making those things which the state must have in its various institutions, its hospitals, its offices, its penitentiaries. There are not enough men in prison in any one state to make all that the state requires.

"Let these men be paid standard wages, and let the wages be sent to their dependents, if any. If they have no dependents, pay them a lower scale than those who have.

"Why should society pay double, as at present, for the upkeep of its wrong doers? We put a man in prison and pay taxes for his upkeep. And his dependents must also be supported by society — if not through taxation, through contributions by charitable organizations.

"By working and earning money for the support of their dependents these men can still feel that they are useful members of society—that they are of some good in the world. That society is only restraining them from the commission of further crime by imprisoning them, and not solely from a motive of revenge.

"They can feel that when they leave the pen, they can once more take their places in the world. They will not have received, as most of them do at present a post-graduate course in crime.

"They will not come back into the world to find their loved ones the victims of cold, hunger and privation. These men love their dependents the same as you and I, and they resent as bitterly, any injustice to them.

"Conditions as they now are, lead these men to a bitter hatred of the society that has ill-treated their loved ones.

"Here's one case of many that we are helping.

"The husband got drunk one night, found himself broke, and went out to get some money by highway robbery, in the course of which his victim was badly hurt.

"He was caught, tried and sentenced to 38 years.

"His mother and wife spent their little savings to try and clear him. With his sentence they were destitute. The wife was about to give birth to a baby, her third.

"The husband went to prison, leaving an 80-year-old mother, a wife and two children of 5 and 4, with a third to come, and no means of support.

"We are taking care of them, sending the children to school, and trying to make good citizens of them.

"But our funds are limited. We can only take care of a few of the cases that come to our attention.

"It is a problem that society must face or it is a problem that will destroy society. For in it lies the answer to much of the present increase in crime.'

LEAST RESISTANCE

Natural for Some Men to Follow the Easy Way.

Electricity follows the path of least resistance. So does falling water, rushing back to its source, the sea. So does the agile mercury from the broken thermometer, obeying gravity by darting down to the lowest level it can reach.

Man too obeys this natural law —follows the path of least resistance.

In other words, man inclines to the easiest way.

While it is natural for man to follow the easiest way, his progress comes by taking the more difficult roads or paths. Progress is not unnatural. But nature makes us pay the price.

We never get anywhere by following the easiest way.

It is easier to sleep on the ground, exposed to the weather. But man, beginning with his first crude huts, on to the luxurious skyscraper apartment house of the modern city, has taken the more difficult way—knowing that effort's reward is worth its price. The comfortable home is well worth the energy expended in getting it and in maintaining it.

Work is not the pleasantest thing in the world, despite the Big Talk of the platitudes—most of which are written by lazy dawdlers. The philosopher who urges mankind to toil is rarely energetic himself. But that does not lessen the truth and wisdom of his teachings.

Work is not the most enjoyable way of putting in our time. It certainly is not the easiest way—the path of least resistance. Yet we all know that work is what moves us ahead—brings us our necessities and comforts.

Men are resigned to their lot and are not following the line of least resistance—when they work at their daily tasks.

But when work is over and man relaxes, he slips into the easiest way.

Particularly in his reading matter. He drifts through the entertaining, recreational news—scandal, crime, the unusual. These are the easiest way—requiring no brain effort. Too bad, that political news and speeches require thought and, accordingly, get little of the attention they deserve. Yet if people every four years gave a bit more thought to national politics, it might lead to easier ways in their job of making a living.

It's a mistake to kid national politics. Admittedly a dry subject, it is really a prizefight in which prices and living conditions are to large extent determined for the coming four years.

NEW IRIS VARIETIES HAVE GREAT CHARM

Gardeners Will Have To Replace Old To Get Most Beautiful Specimens.

Such great improvements have been made in iris that gardeners who desire to have the most beautiful flowers now face the fact that many old varieties must be discarded to make room for the finer new ones.

At the same time there are many old varieties which are finer than anything similar in the new lists, and of the new ones there are far too many. Only a collector who takes pride in the number of his varieties and the completeness of his collection need buy all the new ones. The gardener who is content with the knowledge that he or she has the finest of these flowers will find it easy to select them.

Fine American Variety.

Lent A. Williamson is an American variety which one should grow because it is the finest produced by our breeders. It is a better variety than Alcazar, though not much better, and rather more expensive. It stands forty-two inches high, produces flowers freely, and its blossoms are giants.

Of the new blues from abroad, which differ so far as color is concerned in minute degree, Ballerine is almost a duplicate of the much praised Lord of June and is a far better flower. Its standards are upright, while Lord of June flops and Ballerine grows taller.

Among the so-called pink iris the American variety, Seminole, surpasses Opera, which it resembles. A group Seminole in the sunlight glows with a ruby light. Medrano is an imported variety darker than these—a smoky claret.

Ambassadeur Is Bronze Beauty.

Vilmorin in France has produced the best of the new bronze varieties, the finest being Ambassadeur, with bronza standards and maroon falls. This variety is luminous in the sunlight.

Perhaps the tallest iris is Prospero, which even exceeds Ballerine. It is of English origin, with lavender standards and purple falls, a large flower— standing four feet tall.

Less imposing in height but possessing a charm which has already made experts declare it the best of the blue irises, is Mme. Gaudichau.

The prizes on these new varieties are becoming lower each season and it will not be long before they will be available to all gardens.

GERMS

The pious need not be shocked because George Washington's great-great-grandfatner drank beer. Wine and beer with light drinks for those days of brandy, rum, whisky and gin.

Nearly every one drank as a substitute for the polluted water which was the rule long ago. Water was unsafe to drink. Science has made it safe. Many a man with a faded red nose and high blood pressure will comment that progress has its price.

THESE WIVES CAMPAIGN

... of candidates in the race for President are actively campaigning. They are: Mrs. Robert M. LaFollette (right) and Mrs. Burton K. Wheeler, wives of the standard bearers of the Progressive party. The picture shows them in conference.

WILL EXCHANGE DUDS

Hubby Will Find a New Era for Clothing Ideas

BOSTON, Sept. 27.—There is hope ahead for the man whose chief worry is his wife's wardrobe—

The hope is that her wardrobe will be his wardrobe.

The garments, the gowns, frills and laces, the silks and satins—all these that have been heretofore exclusively milady's fancies—are to be milady's husband's fancies, too!

What she wears he will wear—what he wears she will wear.

Man and wife will go hand in hand to the dressmaker to select their season's outfitting—

Apple sauce! says the men, but hear what Miss Grace Ripley, Boston style designer and instructor in design at Boston University, has to say of the styles that are to come.

"It will come as sure as we move in cycles," she predicts. "One need but look at the styles of today to see the future—providing you know something of the history of clothes.

Mens' Clothes Brighter

"Look at the men. Their trousers are getting baggier day by day. Their colors are getting bolder, brighter—ties, shirts, sox! They are even taking to perfume in no mild manner—oh, yes, some of them call it a shaving lotion but the smell stays with them all day."

But what sort of an outfit is this community affair to be?

A costume suggestive of the doublet," answers Miss Ripley. "A cape and belted smock affair reaching just below the hips, and knee breeches, to be worn with long hose —why we even have it today in the golf suit.

"Incidentally, you dont' think that everybody who wears a golf suit plays golf, do you?"

"Men are sick of wearing layer upon layer of dull clothing. Women used to suffer it, but they emancipated themselves—did you ever stop to think how little a woman wears?"

"And men are getting away from stiff collars. The soft, low neck is becoming popular with them.

"They are daringly taking on fancier shoes.

"They have forsaken the ugly and uncomfortable heavy underwear that once was theirs. Their pajamas are

"Even their hair! Ask any barber how vain a man is today about how his hair is cut."

Vie With Women

Miss Ripley sees no escape for the man from the day when he will vie with women for fastidiousness in styles.

But for the immediate future Miss Ripley predicts feminine styles are ... a reaction, a temporary one, in which luxury and folly are to ... such garments as corsets, petticoats, bouffant skirts.

"That will last only a year or two, however," she says, "and then the evolution of style will continue along its merry way until it reaches that happy state when feminine and masculine styles will be interchangeable. Of course, the women is already far ahead of her mate in meeting a compromised style. Masculine effects have long been poplar with the feminine side."

Incidentally, Miss Ripley sees a great menace ahead in the community wardrobe—she predicts it will be conducive to divorce.

"Can't you imagine wardrobe incompatibility being a cause for divorce?" she asks. "Husband and wife will each want to wear the same ... on a day—and they'll settle their argument in the divorce court.

"Of course," Miss Ripley adds, "the husband ought to be glad, anyhow, for his wardrobe bills won't be what they are today."

OTTOMAN WEAVES

Ottoman weaves in both silk and wool are very prominent in winter style collections.

CHANTILLY LACE

Chantilly lace with the pattern worked out in gold or silver threads is extremely fashionable.

GOLD LACE

Collars and cuffs of gold lace are liked on black velvet gowns that follow very straight, simple lines.

LITTLE RUFFLES

A most unusual effect is achieved by rows of little ruffles of fur on a long moleskin wrap.

AFTERNOON GOWNS

For afternoon gowns one may select from velvets, corded silks, heavy satins and crepes and not go wrong.

BEADING USED

Beading, jeweled plastrons embroidery and lace are found on the newest evening gowns.

LONG TUNICS

Long tunics of rep or jersey are worn effectively with skirts of large plaids or checks.

MIRRORS IN ROOM

Make Dark Rooms Gay and Enhance Value.

Mirrors transform small rooms into banquet halls, sombe places into gay, inactivity into a living, throbbing picture.

Wherever they are placed they enchance the value of a room's appearance. Their purpose is to reflect life, and they do it in the home.

Place a mirror on a large wall in a small room, and that room is doubled in space, practically. It widens a narrow passage into a wide hallway, or may lengthen a vestibule into twice as long a reception hall.

Perhaps the most effective spot to place a mirror is opposite the fireplace or opposite the front windows, if there is a large enough wall to accomodate it. Opposed to the fireplace, the mirror is particularly charming in winter, when the glow of the fire is reflected on the other side, creating the illusion of another fire.

Set facing the windows, especially in summer, the mirror brings the outdoors into the home. The colors of the trees and flowers come inside and add fresh life to the home.

A mirror is also pleasant above the mantel of the fireplace. The wall theer seems to be made especially for that purpose, and at times a mirror looks betters than a painting or tapestry in that position.

The rather dull spot between windows is another place for a long narrow mirror, with pehaps a small wall-table and a vase of flowers in front of it. The spot is no place for a picture, because the light from the windows at either side blinds one to an effective view of such a hanging there. But the mirror helps dispel the light of the entire room so that even this "blind" spot is lightened.

The most popular mirror of today is the long narrow kind. In fact, it has been popular ever since mirrors came into use in the sixteenth century. Mirrored doors were the mode during the regency of Louis XV in France, in the first quarter of the eighteenth century, and they are still most effective in enlarging and beautifying the home.

Try a mirror in all sorts of ways, and some of the most pleasant surprises in home beautifying will result.

SONG

Only one song in a thousand makes a hit and brings profits to the publishers and writer, says E. C. Mills. He's chairman of the American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers.

Many will be surprised that so few songs go over big. And yet the situation is no different than in other lines of work. For every one who succeeds, a thousand or more fail outright or at best never reach more than very mild success.

Success is the exception, failure the rule. More profitable to study failures and try to figure why they failed, than to analyze the careers of the rich and famous. What not to do is quite as important as what to do.

SMALL BUCKLE

Very large buckles of last season are rarely seen on pumps this year, but small buckles or ornaments are used to fasten the strapped models.

EXIT

Fifteen years ago it was not unusual for a popular song to sell three million copies. Now it's a rare composition of sheet music that reaches a third that much.

E. C. Mills blames this on the decline of piano and violin playing. Its' so much easier to stick to a 50-cent record on the phongraph or tune in on the radio than to practice for years and probably get nowhere. Man used to have to create his own music. Now it's cut-and-dried and served to him, like nearly everything else.

PETERBORO HOUSEWIVES BUSY WITH PRESERVING KETTLES AND SEALERS

The Fruit Season Is Progressing Through Its Several Stages—Prices In Stores.

The preserving kettle and the glass sealer are having their annual workout these days, with the fruit season progressing through its several stages. Peaches, although the crop this year is comparatively light, are of fairly good quality. The Crawfords are on their last legs, and will give way this week to the newer Elbertas. Crawfords have been selling from 75 cents to $1.50 per basket, with the closing quotations a little higher, eleven-quart baskets, No. 1, selling this week from $1.70 to $1.80. Plums, a good crop this year, and cheap, are priced at three and four quarts for a quarter in the stores, with Damsons at 15 cents a quart and select blues at 65 and 70 cents for an 11-quart basket. The Reine Claude gages are in this week at 90 cents and one dollar for the same size basket. Canteloupes are crowding into the markets in large numbers, selling in large 20-quart baskets at 85 cents and a dollar, in the various sugar sweet and salmon flesh varieties.

Pears are a fairly good crop this year, especially the Clapp's Favorite, a good preserving pear, in 11-quart baskets, at 75 and 85 cents. Bartletts range from 75 to $1.00 a basket, and small preserving pears sell from 50 to 70 cents a peck.

Apples are an unsatisfactory crop, coming along in small quantity and of indifferent quality. Duchess and Wolf River sell at 30 and 40 cents a peck, crabapples are 40 cents a peck. Bananas, which some of the merchants sell only by the pound, still remain low in price, as has been the case throughout the summer season, but oranges are not as cheap as heretofore. The markets wait for the next Californian crop, expected about the end of November. Huckleberries are in the stores in small quantities at 25 cents a quart, and there are a few stragglers of the lottenberries, the step-sister of the thimbleberry, at 20 cents a box.

There are sweet potatoes, long, light-colored, in the stores, at two pounds for a quarter, and the second crop of butter beans at the same price. Although tomatoes are unobtrusive, there appear to be plenty of them, priced from 39 cents for an 11-quart basket to a dollar a bushel. This is a good onion year. The tearful vegetables are with us in large quantities and low prices, sufficient to warrant anyone engaging in the boiled onion food regimen that is considered good for so many things. A patient who embarked recently on a week's exclusive diet of boiled onions, with all other articles of food barred, reports the progress which such an ordeal should warrant.

Mushrooms from local gardens are retailed at 75 cents a pound.

Although September is the first of the fall "r" months, there are not many oysters on view. The small quantity available sell at 40 cents for half a pint, a quotation considerably lower than last year's opening price.

Another rather scarce commodity is nuts. Reports from outside centres indicate a short crop. The quoted price on budded walnuts in the stores is 50 cents a pound.

Prices of dairy products are firm. Eggs, which are scarce, and appear to be concentrated in small lots in the farmers' hands, increased in the past week by from one to three cents on the dozen. New cheese is quoted at 23 and 24 cents a pound, the old variety at 40 cents.

Butter remains at 38 and 40 cents a pound for the creamery brand, with dairy selling at 35 to 38 cents.

With regard to the butter situation, interesting figures come from the Department of Agriculture at Edmonton, in Alberta, a Province which recently embarked on an intensive grading campaign. A report says: "Continued improvement in the quality of cream and butter as a result of the official grading system is shown. During the seven months there has been a total of 8,940,975 pounds of cream graded by the Government graders, an increase of 20.1 per cent. over the amount of the same period last year. Of this amount graded this year, the "special" grade has shown an increase from 40.9 per cent. to 45.9 per cent., and the percentage of "firsts" has grown from 36.7 to 39.9, while the lower grades have been reduced from 17.9 per cent. to 10.1 per cent. The same improvement is shown in the butter grading, where the "firsts" have increased from 62.6 to 67.8 per cent. of the total amount graded, while the lower "second" grade has been reduced from 15.7 to 11.7 per cent."

An increase of nearly 25 per cent. in Alberta creamery butter production for this year is recorded, the 1923 total being 17,750,000 pounds, that of 1924 22,000,000 pounds.

The advantages pertaining to the grading system and the resultant widening and increase of marketing fields which is a natural sequence of it is co-related with another factor; the opening up recently of fresh avenues of trade in the United Kingdom to Canadian exporters of dairy produce. This is illustrated in a Montreal despatch in a recent issue of the Canadian Grocer:

"Butter exports from Montreal to the United Kingdom have greatly increased this season," says M. H. Gault, freight manager of the White Star-Dominion Line. "In the past few years Canada sent practically no butter to England through this port, largely due to the fact that the Australian and New Zealand exporters were able to underbid the exporters of the Dominion. Now, however, the tables are reversed and Canadian butter is being sold at a lower figure than that from the Antipodes."

The article goes on to say: "There are at the present time large quantities of butter, most of it from Alberta and Saskatchewan, and all of it of very high quality, in cold storage here and there is no reason why it cannot be sold in England as the price is reasonable.

"The freighter Cornishman last week took 4,000 boxes of butter to Bristol, while a few days later the Caledonian sailed with 6,000 boxes, and it is expected that the Turcoman will sail this week with at least 5,000 boxes aboard. The White Star-Dominion Line are naturally pleased at this turn of affairs, for their steamers were originally built with a generous refrigerating accomodation for butter, an accomodation which of recent years has not been taken advantage of."

In the wholesale markets, hogs on the hoof, "select graded," show a slight increase over last week's prices. Prices of hay and bran remain stationary, with prospects for unchanged quotations for a few weeks to come. In the hide markets, advances are recorded, owing to large recent demands from over the border for Canadian hides.

The strawberry, old Dr. Johnson's favorite fruit, still remains with us, although there are not many boxes of the fruit on sale in the stores. A vendor on the local Saturday market has strawberries every week, of the Everbearing variety, and a lot described as a new crop, of nice, red berries, is being sold at 25 cents a box by a door-to-door salesman.

A RURAL FAIR AT ROSENEATH

ROSENEATH, Sept. 26.—The annual Rural School Fall Fair for Alnwick Township, held at Roseneath, was a decided success.

The day was ideal, warm enough for the girls that were wearing white dresses, and encouraged the parents to come out and make a regular picnic for the family.

The following schools took part: S.S. 1 and 25, Alnwick and Haldimand, Miss Bremner, teacher; S.S. 2, Alnwick, Mr. M. Davey and Miss Clark, teachers; S.S. 3, Alnwick, Miss C. McGee, teacher; S.S. 21, Haldimand, Miss M. Baker, teacher; S.S. 22, Haldimand, Mr. L. Roberts, teacher; S.S. 9, Percy, Miss Heffernan, teacher.

At 10.30 the Strathcona drill took place, three schools being entered. No. 2, under the direction of Miss Clark, took the first prize, No. 21 took second and No. 22 third.

At 1.30 the four schools who were in costume paraded in front the entrance gates, and from there across the grounds to the baseball diamond, where all the exercises were gone through before the judges. The school to win the highest total score was No. 21, known as the Burnley School. These scholars were dressed in red and green clown suits, each one carrying a fan to match the suit. No. 2 came second, with the girls dressed in navy skirts and white middies, with red, white and blue caps and hoops bound in the same colors. Nos. 1 and 25 came third, dressed something similar to the former, except that they carried flags.

The results of the different items were as follows:

Marching—1 and 25, 2, 22.
Special feature—9, 21, 22.
Singing—21, 2, 22.

The day's routine was ably conducted by Mr. W. H. Smith, district agricultural representative at Brighton. Those who assisted Mr. Smith in the judging and scoring were: Mrs. Smith, Miss Jewel Simpson, Messrs. B. I. Phillips, C. W. Armstrong, R. McColl, all of Brighton, and Mr. K. Crews, of Trenton.

Mrs. Andrew Brown of Roseneath and Mrs. W. J. Hibb of Fenella acted as judges on the domestic work in the hall. To these ladies fell the task of judging the flowers, which was no mean job. In the one class, bouquet from home garden, there were thirty-one exhibits. The entries in the cooking classes were many and the quality and quantity of the fruit and roots were equal to many of the local Fall Fairs.

The following is a list of the prize winners in the different classes, with the number of the school section:

NEWS OF WARSAW.

Frank Harding Hurt At Ottawa Fair—Silo Filling.

WARSAW, September 26.—Warminster Cheese Factory report for August:

178,142 pounds of milk made 14,975 pounds of cheese. This is at the rate of 1 pound of cheese from 11.89 pounds of milk.

Average price per cwt. paid to patrons was $1.18.

Milk testing 3.4 per cent. was $1.19.

Number of pounds butter fat was 5,845.97.

Price per pound butter fat is 35.06 cents.

Patrons are paid according to the milk test, and these cheese are sold through the United Dairymen.

Mrs. Frank Harding spent the week-end in Ottawa. She went to visit her husband who is in the hospital there, and it will probably be a month yet ere he can return home.

Mr. Harding had his team of oxen at the Fair in Ottawa, and by by some means, fell from the cart. He felt his knee painful, but thought it was only bruised, so kept on it for the remainder of the day. By then it was so swollen it had to be treated before anything could be done for the knee. It was found that he had sustained a simple fracture of the knee-cap, the same one which he had fractured badly in the spring while fishing.

Silo filling has begun in North Dummer.

Tuesday and Thursday nights' frost touched tender things quite badly in sheltered places. Some of the corn has been quite frosted.

TRICK FAUCET SERVED BOOZE.

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 27.—A double action faucet which when turned one way flowed moonshine liquor and when turned the other flowed water was faound by the police dry squad in a recent raid. The faucet was "fed" with whisky from a barrel buried four feet under the ground in the basement of an alleged "soft drink" establishment and was forced into the tap by a compressed air arrangement.

KEEPING ICE CREAM.

Ice cream can be kept perfectly hard for several hours if it is placed in a paper cooking bag with the ends folded tightly to keep out the air, and is placed directly on the ice in the refrigerator.

One Hundred Dollars Guaranteed Every Month of Her Life By The Confederation Life Association

FOUR years ago, an Ontario business man, being well, strong and insurable, took out a Monthly Income Policy in the Confederation Life Association.

Two and a half years afterwards, he died.

For the past eighteen months his widow has been receiving, regularly each month a cheque for $100.00.

This income is guaranteed to her for life.

If she should die before she has received 240 monthly instalments, that is, before 20 years are up, the remainder of the 240 instalments will be paid to her heirs.

This monthly income is not an isolated example. Many others are receiving monthly cheques—some for more—some for less.

If you would like to provide an income such as this for your wife, mother, or other beneficiary, or if you would provide such an income FOR YOURSELF for life after a term of years, write for particulars and find out for how small a yearly deposit you can receive this and many other benefits.

PROHIBITON AND EMIGRATION ARE NORWAY'S CHIEF PROBLEMS

Big Illegitimate Trade In Alcoholic Drinks Under the Dry Law.

U. S. Immigration Quota Closes Exit For Many Norwegians.

CHRISTIANIA, Sept. 27.—Prohibition of whisky and brandy has brought about a big illegitimate trade in these alcoholic drinks.

The thousands of miles of coast lines, with their islands and their river mouths, have given smugglers of prohibited liquors every chance to play their illegal business.

The police and the navy have found themselves unable to cope with the bootleggers and the smugglers and the effort has made increasing demands upon the national treasury.

All this sounds like the United States. But in this case it happens to be in Norway, which is not only enduring some of our own troubles in fighting the booze demon, but this fall is about to have a big political battle in which booze is to be the main issue.

Different Problem

But the Norwegian problem differs in many aspects from the American.

As long ago as 1836 the Norwegians began their prohibition battle, but it took the form of war on alcoholic drinks like whisky, brandy, schnapps and strong lines like port and sherry. Just as with us this received a tremendous impetus at the outbreak of the war.

To save grain and potatoes as foodstuffs, the Norwegian government early in 1914 war months forbade their use in the manufacture of alcoholic beverages and also the sale of alcoholic drinks.

In 1919 an advisory plebiscite on prohibition was taken. Four hundred and eighty-seven thousand nine hundred and ninety-nine votes for and 304 207, against. The government, therefore, introduced and passed into law a bill prohibiting highly alcoholic rinks and also strong wines.

This meant wines with over 14 per cent alcohol. Immediately an extraordinary condition developed. One of the main exports of Norway is fish. Two of the best customers are Spain an Portugal.

Spain said: "If you bar our sherry, we bar your fish."

Portugal said: "If you bar our port, we bar your fish."

Law Modified

Therefore the law was modified so as to admit wines with 21 per cent alcoholic content. But the sale of wines was taken out of private hands

A state wine monopoly was created. In other words, a creation of the government imports all wines consumed in Norway and disposes of them. Beer can be freely manufacture, sold and bought. But smuggling of prohibited dring has become so prevalent and so profitable and the efforts of the state have been so fruitless that the late conservative government proposed the prohibition be repealed. This was defeated.

The conservatives resigned and a radical ministry was formed. This fall the elections for the Storthing will largely turn on the question of retaining or repealing prohibition.

Immigration Problem

That isn't Noway's only trouble. Norwegian immigration in bad years in the home industry used to go as high as 27,000 most of whom went to America. Being farmers inured to hardship and hard work, they became splendid citizens of their adopted country. But under the new U.S. laws Norway's annual quota is cut to 6,000.

There are patriots here who rejoice. They say this will keep the flower of their young manhood at home to develop Norway's industrial, timber and water-power resources.

Others point out, however, that with the United States so largely closed to Norwegian immigrants, with Canada demanding farm labor and nothing else and with Brazil and Argentina too far away and too hot, there is no place for young men to go when times are hard.

Unemployment Costly.

Norwood only has 2,649,775 people. But it has over 10,000 unemployed and over 10,000 more on state-aided relief work. Unemployment has cost the state and the municipalities several hundred million kroner.

Unemployment, together with the high cost of living, has given Bolshevik agitators their chance. There have have been many labor troubles.

Some time ago a big strike occurred in the iron trades. The courts declared the strike unauthorized and illegal. The leaders calmly admitted it. Later the employers locked out 80,000 men. Settlement was effected only after six months' hardship.

The Bolshies have ruined the Social Democratic party as a force in the state. Out of 150 members of the present Storthing, they have only eight, whereas the Communists have 29.

This extreme element in Norwegian life is a new phase. But those who listen to Bolshevik blandishments are largely confined to the cities. The biggest element of the population is agricultural.

Farmers and Fishermen.

In the main the nation is still a nation of farmers and fishermen. The farmers own their own farms. But they are small farms where living is hardly won. And when the farmer dies his farm goes to his eldest son. The other boys then have to move out into the world. We used to get most of this splendid material. Now we only get 6000.

And think what these farmers are used to; their farms are so rocky that the farmers actually carry earth to the rocks, spread it and grow a thin crop of hay.

The weather is so damp that the cut hay is hung out to dry on wires like the wash on a line.

The winter rains wash the earth off the rocks. All the work has to be started again the following year.

NATURAL BEAUTY

CHICAGO.— Trend of modern beauty culture is toward making a woman look natural, according to Emily Lloyd, local beauty expert.

NOTHING TO EQUAL BABY'S OWN TABLETS

Mrs. Georges Lefebvre, St. Zenon, Que., writes: "I do not think there is any other medicine to equal Baby's Own Tablets for little ones. I have used them for my baby and would use nothing else." What Mrs. Lefebvre says thousands of other mothers say. They have found by trial that the Tablets always do just what is claimed for them. The Tablets are a mild but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels and sweeten the stomach and thus banish indigestion, constipation, colds, colic, etc. They are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

TO END DIVORCE

Says Fifteen Years Should Be Limit to Marriage Certificates.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26.—To end divorce abolish the life sentence for marriage culprits, advises Mary Young.

"The life sentence no longer fits the offense," she complains. "Fifteen years should be the limit to the validity of the marriage certificate, after which it may be extended indefinitely until death do us part, or it may be dissolved decently without red tape."

This serious minded actress, who plays the part of the very modern wife in "Dancing Mothers," has very definite ideas about marriage. She herself was married at 14, and believes that the greatest happiness granted to women is possible through marriage.

"But it may also bring the greatest unhappiness," she goes on, "and all of us cannot be poured in the same mold. Most of us admit there is something radically wrong with marriage or divorce would not be so prevalent, but few of us have the courage to come out and suggest changes.

"The happy marriage—and happy marriages are in the majority—need not suffer because the contract must be occasionally renewed. The unhappy marriage is the one to profit by the change."

As it is now, divorce is the only remedy, she points out, and that is a poor way, since the reputation of the husband or wife or both may be damaged in the transaction and the home and its traditions smashed so that the children suffer.

"With a time-limit marriage," she argues, "the contract to love, honor and obey automatically expires at a given time, and those who make mistakes in selection are given an opportunity to find happiness elsewhere. The arrangements for the care and upbringing of the children may be made with honesty and mutual confidence."

We are a liberty-loving race, she believes, and we need fewer restrictions in marriage instead of more. No institution can take the place of marriage, but greater happiness will be possible only with greater freedom.

"It may be that the home of the future will not be a common home. Many husbands and wives today have separate homes and find a happiness in two that is denied them in one.

"Freedom in marriage should not be confused with license. It merely means that both the husband and the wife have an equal opportunity for self-development and a career, if the woman desires, as well as the old obligations of one providing a home and one keeping it.

"The economic freedom of women has revolutionized the home, and has made marriage a different problem in adjustment than it used to be. Our increasing divorce rate is an indication that the institution of marriage needs repairs and modern improvements."

COMMON CHRISTIANITY

In reporting the funeral services of the Rev. E. B. Lytle, Methodist Episcopal pastor for twelve years in Burlingame, Cal., the California Christian Advocate narrates this touching incident:—

The service was attended by the clergymen of all the religious faiths in the community. Just before the close of the service, the Catholic priest, the Rev. James A. Grant, slipped out of the building and hastened away. The Catholic Church stands one block away from the Methodist Church, where the funeral was held. As the ministers and pall-bearers were taking the casket from the church, they realized why it was that the priest had absented himself. He had gone to the Catholic Church, and as Brother Lytle's body was borne from the place where he preached for so many years, the bell in the Catholic Church was tolled in his honor and memory.

Acts like this are evidence that ecclesiastical lines cannot divide true brethren in Christ. It is a pity that they occur so rarely. It is ten thousand pities that forces are at work which can only result in making them even more exceptional.

"Tired and Worried Nervous and Despondent"

Mrs. M. Chevalier, Belle River, Ont., writes:

"For eight years I suffered from despondency and nervousness. Sometimes I could not sleep at night for worrying and the next day I would be so tired that my work was a burden to me. I began using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and can say I am now entirely relieved of the nervousness from which I used to suffer, and things do not worry me as they used to.

"Dr. Chase's Ointment also relieved me of eczema on my arms, which had bothered me for three years. My house is never without Dr. Chase's Medicines."

At last she was moved from her silence, and her voice came dull and hard.

"I have learnt how little there is to choose between you," she said. "It was to have been expected. I might have known that two brothers could not have been so dissimilar in nature. Oh, I am learning a deal, and swiftly!"

"You are learning?" he echoed. "What are you learning?"

"Knowledge of the ways of men."

His teeth gleamed in his wry smile.

"I hope the knowledge will bring you as much bitterness as the knowledge of women—of one woman—has brought me. To have believed me what you believed me—me, whom you conceived yourself to love."

"If I have a mercy to beg of you it is that you will not shame me with the reminder."

"Of your faithlessness?" he asked. "Of your disloyal readiness to believe the worst evil of me?"

"Of my ever having believed that I loved you. That is the thought that shames me, as nothing else in life could shame me, as not even the slave market and all the insult to which you have submitted me could shame me. You taunt me with my readiness to believe evil of you——"

"I do more than taunt you with it," he broke in, his anger mounting under the pitiless lash of her scorn. "I lay to your charge the wasted years of my life, all the evil that has followed out of it, all that I have suffered, all that I have lost, all that I am become."

She looked up at him coldly, astonishingly mistress of herself.

"You lay all this to my charge?" she asked him.

"I do." He was very vehement. "Had you not used me as you did, had you not lent a ready ear to lies, that whelp, my brother, would never have gone to such lengths, nor should I ever have afforded him the opportunity."

She shifted on the cushions of the divan and turned her shoulder to him.

"All this is very idle," she said, coldly.

Yet perhaps, because she felt that she had need to justify herself, she continued:

"If, after all, I was so ready to believe evil of you, it is that my instincts must have warned me of the evil that was ever in you. You have proved to me to-night that it was not you who murdered Peter; but to attain that proof you have done a deed that is even fouler and more shameful, a deed that reveals to the full the blackness of your heart. Have you not proved yourself a monster of vengeance and impiety?"

She rose and face him again in her sudden passion.

"Are you not—you that were born a Cornish Christian gentleman—become a heathen and a robber, a renegade and a pirate? Have you not sacrificed your very God to your vengeful lust?"

He met her glance fully, never quailing before her denunciation, and when she had ended on that note of question he counter-questioned her.

"And your instincts had forewarned you of all this? God's life, woman Can you invent no better tale than that?"

He turned aside as two slaves entered bearing an earthenware vessel.

"Here comes your supper. I hope your appetite is keener than your logic."

They set the vessel from which a savoury smell proceeded, upon the little Moorish table by the divan. On the ground beside it they placed a broad dish of baked earth in which there were a couple of loaves and a red, short-necked amphora of water with a drinking-cup placed over the mouth of it to act as a stopper.

They salaamed profoundly and padded softly out again.

"Sup," he bade her shortly.

"I want no supper," she replied, her manner sullen.

His cold eye played over her.

"Henceforth, girl, you will consider not what you want, but what I bid you do. I bid you eat; about it, therefore."

"I will not."

"Will not?" he echoed slowly. "Is that a speech from slave to master? Eat, I say."

"I cannot I cannot!" she protested.

"A slave may not live who cannot do her master's bidding."

"Then kill me," she answered fiercely, leaping up to confront and dare him. "Kill me. You are used to killing, and for that at least I sould be grateful."

"I will kill you if I please," said he in level, icy tones. "But not to please you. You don't yet understand. You are my slave, my thing, my property, and I will not suffer you to be damaged save at my own good pleasure. Therefore, eat, or my Nubians shall whip you to quicken appetite."

For a moment she stood defiant before him, white and resolute. Then quite suddenly, as if her will was being bent and crumpled under the insistent pressure of his own, she drooped and sank down again to the divan. Slowly, reluctantly, she drew the dish nearer. Watching her, he laughed quite silently.

She paused, appearing to seek for something. Failing to find it, she looked up at him again, between scorn and intercession.

"Am I to tear the meat with my fingers?" she demanded.

His eyes gleamed with understanding, or at least with suspicion. But he answered her quite calmly:

"It is against the Prophet's law to defile meat or bread by the contact of a knife. You must use the hands that God has given you."

"Do you mock me with the Prophet and his laws? What are the Prophet's laws to me? If eat I must, at least I will not eat like a heathen dog, but in Christian fashion."

To indulge her, as it seemed, he slowly drew the rich-hilted dagger from his girdle.

"Let that serve you, then," he said, and carelessly tossed it down beside her.

With a quick indrawn breath she pounced upon it.

"At last," she said, "you give me something for which I can be grateful to you." And on the words she laid the point of it against her breast.

Like lightning he had dropped to one knee, and his hand had closed about her wrist and with such a grip that her arm felt limp and powerless. He was smiling into her eyes, his swarthy face close to her own.

"Did you, indeed, suppose I trusted you? Did you really think me deceived by your sudden pretence of yielding? When will you learn that I am not a fool? I did it but to test your spirit."

"Then now you know its temper," she replied. "You know my intention."

"Forewarned, forearmed," said he.

She looked at him with something that would have been mockery but for the contempt that colored it too deeply.

"Is it so difficult a thing," she asked, 'to snap the thread of life? Are there no ways of dying save by the knife? You boast yourself my master—that I am your slave; that having bought me in the market-place I belong to you body and soul.. How idle is that boast. My body you may bind and confine; but my soul—— Be very sure that you shall be cheated of your bargain. You boast yourself lord of life and death. A lie! Death is all that you can command."

Quick steps came pattering up the stairs, and before he could answer her, before he had thought of words in which to do so, Ali confronted him with the astonishing announcement that there was a woman below asking urgently to speak with him.

"A woman?" he questioned, frowning. "A Nasrani woman, do you mean?"

"No, my lord. A Moslem," was the still more surprising information.

"A Moslem woman, here? Impossible!"

But even as he spoke a dark figure glided like a shadow across the threshold on to the terrace. She was in black from head to foot, including the veil that shrouded her, a veil of the proportions of a mantle, serving to dissemble her very shape.

Ali swung upon her in a rage.

"Did I not bid thee wait below, thou daughter of shame?" he stormed. 'She has followed me up, my lord, to thrust herself in here upon you. Shall I drive her forth?"

"Let her be," said Sakr-el-Bahr. And he waved Ali away. "Leave us."

Something about that black, immovable figure arrested his attention and fired his suspicions. Unaccountably almost, it brought to his mind the thought of Ayoub-el-Samin and the bidding there had been for Rosamund in the sok.

He stood waiting for his visitor to speak and disclose herself. She, on her side, continued immovable until Ali's footsteps had faded in the distance. Then with a boldness entirely characteristic, with the recklessness that betrayed her European origin, intolerant of the Moslem restraint imposed upon her sex, she did what no True-believing woman would have done. She tossed back that long, black veil and disclosed the pale countenance and languorous eyes of Fenzileh.

For all that it was no more than he had expected, yet upon beholding her—her countenance thus bared to his regard—he recoiled a step.

"Penzileh " he cried. "What madness is this?"

Having announced herself in that dramatic fashion, she composedly readjusted her veil so that her countenance should once more be decently concealed.

"To come here, to my house, and thus " he protested. "Should this reach the ears of thy lord, how will it fare with thee and with me? Away, woman, and at once!" he bade her.

"No need to fear his knowing of this unless, thyself, thou tell him," she answered. "To thee I need no excuse if thou'll but remember that, like thyself, I was not born a Moslem."

"But Algiers is not thy native Sicily, and whatever thou was born it were well to remember what thou art become."

He went on at length to tell her of the precise degree of her folly, but she cut in, stemming his protestations in full flow.

"These are idle words that but delay me."

"To thy purpose then, in Allah's name, that thus thou mayest depart the sooner."

She came to it straight enough on that uncompromising summons. She pointed to Rosamund.

"It concerns that slave," she said. "I sent my wazeer to the sok to-day with orders to purchase her for me."

"So I had supposed," he said.

"But it seems that she caught thy fancy, and the fool suffered himself to be outbidden."

"Well?"

"Thou'lt relinguish her to me at the price she cost thee?" A faint note of anxienty trembled in her voice.

"I am anguished to deny thee, O Fenzileh. She is not for sale."

"Ah, wait," she cried. "The price paid was high—many times higher than I have ever heard tell was given for a slave, however lovely. Yet I covet her. 'Tis a whim of mine, and I can not suffer to be thwarted in my whims. To gratify this one I will pay three thousand philips."

He looked at her and wondered what devilries might be stirring in her mind, what evil purpose she desired to serve.

"Thou'lt pay three thousand philips?" he said slowly. Then bluntly asked her—

"Why?"

"To gratify a whim to please a fance."

"What is the nature of this costly whim?" he insisted.

"The desire to possess her for my own," she answered evasively.

"And this desire to possess her, whence is it sprung?" he returned, as patient as he was relentless.

"You ask too many questions," she exclaimed with a flash of anger.

He shrugged and smiled.

"You answer too few."

"In a word, Oliver-Reis," said she, "wilt sell her for three thousand philips?"

"In a word—no," he answered her.

"Thou'lt not? Not for three thousand philips?" Her voice was charged with surprise, and he wondered was it real or assumed.

"Not for thirty thousand," answered he. "She is mine, and I'll not relinquish her. So since I have proclaimed my mind, and since to tarry here is fraught with peril for us both, I beg thee to depart."

There fell a little pause, and neither of them noticed the alert interest stamped upon the white face of Rosamund. Neither of them suspected her knowledge of French which enabled her to follow most of what was said in the lingua franca they employed.

Fenzileh drew close to him.

"Thou'lt not relinquish her, eh?" she asked, and he was sure she sneered. "Be not so confident. Thou'lt be forced to it, my friend—if not by me, why, then, to Asad. He is coming for her, himself, in person."

"Asad?" he cried, startled now.

"Asad-ed-Din," she answered, and upon that resumed her pleading. "Come, then! It were surely better to make a good bargain with me than a bad one with the Basha."

He shook his head and planted his feet squarely.

"I intend to make no bargain with either of you. This slave is not for sale."

"Shalt thou dare resist Asad? I tell thee he will take her whether she be for sale or not."

"I see," he said, his eyes narrowing. "And the fear of this, then, is the source of thy whim to acquire her for thyself. Thou art not subtle, O Fenzileh. The consciousness that thine own charms are fading gets thee trembling lest so much loveliness should entirely cast thee from thy lord's regard, eh?"

If he could not see her face, and study there the effect of that thrust of his, at least he observed the quiver that ran through her muffled figure, he caught the note of anger that throbbed in her reply:

"And if that were so, what is't to thee?"

"It may be much or little," he replied.

"Indeed, it should be much," she answered quickly, breathlessly. "Have I not ever been thy friend? Have I not ever urged thy valor on my lord's notice and wrought like a true friend for thine advancement, Sakr-el-Bahr?"

He laughed outright.

"Laugh as thou will, but it is true," she insisted. "Lose me and thy most valuable ally is lost. For look, Sakr-el-Bahr, it is what would befall if another came to fill my place, another who might poison Asad's mind with lies against thee—for surely she cannot love thee, this Frankish girl whom thou hast torn from her home "

"Be not concerned for that," he answered lightly. "This slave of mine shall never usurp thy place beside Asad."

"O fool, Asad will take her whether she be for sale or not."

"If he can take her from me, the more easily can he take her from thee. No doubt thou hast considered that, and in some dark Sicilian way considered too how to provide against it. But the cost—hast thou counted that? What will Asad say to thee when he learns how thou hast thwarted him?"

"What do I care for that?" she cried in sudden fury, her gestures becoming a little wild. "She will be at the bottom of the harbor by then with a stone about her neck. He may have me whipped. No doubt he will. But 'twill end there. He will require me to console him for his loss, and so all will be well again."

At last he had drawn her, pumped her dry as he imagined. Indeed, indeed, he thought, he had been right to say she was not subtle. He had been a fool to have permitted himself to be intrigued by so shallow, so obvious a purpose.

"Depart in peace, O Fenzileh," he said. "I yield her to none."

His tone was final, and her answer seemed to accept at last his determination. Yet she was very quick with that answer, so quick that he might have suspected it to be preconceived.

"Then it is surely thine intent to wed her." No voice could have been more innocent and guileless than was hers now.

"If so," she went on, "it were best done quickly, for marriage is the only barrier Asad will not overthrow. He is devout, and out of his deep reverence for the Prophet's law he would be sure to respect such a bond as that. But be very sure that he will respect nothing short of it."

"And thy purpose would be equally well served, eh?" he questioned her, sly in his turn.

"Equally," she admitted.

"Say 'better,' Fenzileh," he rejoined 'I said thou art not subtle. By the Koran, I lied. Thou art subtle as the serpent. Yet I see whither thou art gliding. Were I to be guided by thine advice, a two-fold purpose would be served. First, I should place her beyond Asad's reach, and second, I should be embroiled with him for having done so. What could more completely satisfy thy wishes?"

GOVERNMENT AIMS.

Sources of Revenue May Be Restored To Municipalities.

TORONTO, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Withdrawal at far distant date from field of municipal taxation assistance to Provincial Industries and conservation and development if Province's resource were the central features of program which Premier Ferguson outlined last evening for his administration. The occasion was banquet tendered to him and to Hon. Dr. Godfrey by Mimico and Humber Bay Conservative Association.

The Premier discussed problems and aims of Government. Under the former heads mentioned the necessity of restoring confidence in institution of Government which involved dismissing and punishing inefficiences and malefactors found in public service, also he discussed need for revenue. With regard to this latter point he admitted that Province during the past few years had invaded fields of revenue to which it had no right, but which it must retain for immediate present because of need of funds. He said, however, that the Province intended to restore to municipalities as soon as was possible, these sources of revenue.

SALVAGING WRECKAGE.

Some Estimates Place the Damage at One Hundred Million Dollars.

LENINGRAD, Russia, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—With the partial subsidence of the flood caused by last Tuesday's storm, the stricken population of Leningrad began yesterday the task of salvaging the wreckage left by the worst disaster that has visited the city in a hundred years. Everywhere there are many tales of heroism and of hair-breadth escapes from death. The city, which already bore multiple scars from the revolution, presents a melancholy aspect. There is destruction, debris and desolation everywhere. Thousands are homeless. The flooded area covers fifty square miles. It reaches to Cronstadt, where one hundred houses were wrecked and a 110-ton crane was carried aawy. Some estimates place the property damage as high as $100,000,000.

Spotted typhus has broken out in this storm-swept city, adding its sorrows to the flood. Over a hundred cases of disease are being registered daily, and doctors and nurses are overwhelmed in the work of caring for patients.

One of the most gruesome aspects of the flood was the havoc wrought in cemeteries, where newly made graves were washed out and bodies floated away in the streets. The dangers of pestilence are very great and the authorities are taking extraordinary measures to check the spread of the disease.

The city is gradually returning to normal calm, although suffering grievously from the effects of Tuesday's storm. The Government has appointed a committee to appraise losses caused by the flood and to determine sums necessary for reconstruction and relief work.

The Good Maxwell—
The Good Friend of Its Owners

Owners of the good Maxwell look upon their cars with a feeling akin to positive gratitude.

For the good Maxwell has enabled them to regard the motor car as something more than merely a means of transportation.

Maxwell dealers are in a position to extend the convenience of time-payments, on a plan that is attractive to the buyer.

If you examine into the basic reasons for such performance, and for Maxwell's economical, care-free service, you discover that both the new transmission and new rear axle are strong and rugged enough for a truck; that the simple device of a platform spring under the front end of the motor, combined with the balancing of reciprocating parts to the fraction of an ounce, practically eliminates any sense of vibration; that in proportion to weight, it is actually stronger than cars costing two, three or even four times as much.

The good Maxwell is thus fulfilling, with almost startling success, the mission its makers proclaimed four years ago, when they announced that—"The new and powerful organization now manufacturing the good Maxwell is able to give and proposes to give, motor car values so unmistakable that they cannot remain for a moment in question."

CROP REPORTS

AGRICULTURA INQUIRY COMMITTEE HEARS VIEWS OF PETERBOROUGH COUNTY FARMERS ON PROBLEMS FACING THE COUNTRY TO-DAY

Scope of Hearing Ranged From Marketing of Milk to Issue of Motor Licenses.

DISPARITY IN PRICE IS PRINCIPAL POINT.

Arthur Carveth Declares Farmers Are Absolutely Disgusted With Conditions As They Are.

KNOCK DAIRY ACT.

Several City and Country Representatives Urge Establishing Instructor at Peterborough.

The small number attending the session of the Agricultural Committee of Investigation held in the Court House yesterday afternoon indicated, W. H. Bradburn, M.P.P., said, the good conditions prevailing in Peterborough County.

Few more than a score of men, representing the farm and factory, appeared to place their problems and complaints before the committee, which consisted of T. A. Thompson, M.P.P. for North Lanark; W. W. Black, M.P.P. for Addington; M. M. McBride, M.P.P. for North Brant; and A. Belanger, M.P.P. for Russell.

The chairman, T. A. Thompson, said the committee is formed to hear complaints regarding agricultural or business conditions in this section. He explained the formation of the committee by Premier G. Howard Ferguson with the approval of the other parties. The committee is non-partizan.

Mr. Thompson introduced Mr. McBride as the champion of labor and Mr. Black and himself as representing the Conservative party. The farmer and labor representatives were called away through home needs, but Mr. Belanger made his appearance towards the end of the session.

Farmers Disgusted.

"My opinion is the farmers are absolutely disgusted," declared Arthur Carveth of Indian River. It seems a short time ago the wheat went up a few cents a bushels and the flour jumped 75 cents. We have sent delegations and done all we can but we are still buying at lowered prices. The farmers clubs are falling down. Men say "what's the use."

A lot of Holstein men are not satisfied with the standard Dairy Act. "We don't say we are not getting an honest test but the test is away down." The volume of milk from pure bred herds makes up to some extent for the loss in test, Mr. Carveth admitted. Still some say that before they were paying by test they got more than now.

Mr. Carveth would not say the test is being improperly taken. There are quite a few producers dissatisfied, he said, with the straight butterfat test.

The rate for wheat is now 1.12 when wheat dealers draw the wheat from the farm. Bread is 20 cents a large loaf and flour has gone up from $3.60 to $4.25.

Mr. Carveth said he had called several meeting of the farmers club and could get no response. The farmers say "What's the use."

Disparity in Prices.

Samuel Armstrong of Indian River said he represented the U.F.O. on invitation of Mr. Morrison. The only grievance the farmers have is that of the disparity in prices, and he had no suggestion to offer.

"Freight rates are too high," Mr. Armstrong declared. "They are out of proportion to the price of the goods we handle."

Regarding his dairy activities the speaker said he is absolutely opposed to the Dairy Standards Act.

In shipping hogs, the people in Indian River found their proportion of selects are falling. At one time the district shipped 60 per cent selects, and this, the chairman said, is a record high for the province. Now it is down to 25 per cent. Mr. Armstrong approves heartily of the system of grading, and the feeding, he admitted, may be to blame for the decrease.

Drover Gets It.

Vivian Milburn of Peterborough said the reason for the decrease in select grades may be that they are not being paid for on the select basis. One of the improvements that might be made would be to make payment to the farmers on a grading basis compulsory. The drover gets the benefit now. The farmer may form his own shipping club but in other cases the drover gets the hogs and has them graded.

Mr. McBride suggested that co-operative marketing may be the solution.

Packers Falling Down.

G. A. Brethen, M.P., of Norwood, asked whether grading has fulfilled its purpose of raising quality and whether the principle should be carried to the packing house. "I don't think the farm should be the goat or be blamed for the lack of quality in carcases," he said.

Mr. Thompson: "That is one of the greatest faults in Canadian bacon. It is not uniform. Our packers have brought in millions of carcases of bacon, soft corn fed, from United States and put it on the market as Canadian cured bacon. That has more to lower the reputation of Canadian bacon than almost anything else.

Mr. Brethen said it looked as though the packers were falling down on the job and the bacon should be graded all the way from the farmer to the consumer.

The question of teaching agriculture in schools is an important one. Being a farmer interested in advancement of the business Mr. Brethen said he thought in view of the drudgery attached to it great benefit would be attained by making it more like play. The knowledge gained through education would have this effect. It takes more effort to play football for an hour than to fork hay but there is no complaint from the footballers. Creating enthusiasm in farm work will go far towards making young men satisfied with the calling.

"I believe it is vital to the success of farming to have a knowledge of the job," Mr. Brethen continued. "I believe there is a little more hopeful feeling among farmers in this district."

Mr. Brethen is a supporter in diversified farming, he said, and is carrying this out on his own farm. Specialists lose in times of depression in their particular line.

The speaker pointed out how in shipping milk to Toronto the man who handles the milk there gets 2.2 cents while the producer, with his expenses for feed, buildings and labor, gets only 2 cents. The farmer has often to rise at 3.30 in the morning to get the milk to the station.

Short Hours Blamed.

The cost of distribution includes the shorter hours the men work. This means increased cost and longer hours for someone else. The farmer works long hours, because he has to to break even. "I would be glad if we could all work shorter hours, but I can't see why we farmers should have to get up at 3, 4 or 5 and work until 8 at night in order that someone else can get off with 8 hours a day. It is not common justice between man and man. It works the same way between industries and laboring men. There is a vicious system there that has everyone involved," declared Mr. Brethen.

Mr. McBride pointed out that the man who delivers milk also starts work at 3 o'clock and is paid only $18 or $20 a week. The fruits of production by farmers, miners, and factory worker have not gone to the men who produce. The milk delivering man has to pay for milk, bread and clothes out of his pay roll, and there he comes up against the visame way."

M. Brethen suggested that the solution might be the using of the farmer's product in the centre of population in which he is located. He suggested that the labor on the farm might be reduced and the cost lessened by better animal and grain breeding. "There are too many farmers trying to milk 20 cows when they would have more milk from ten, just as much profit, and half the labor. The pastures are eaten bare. The land should be treated in the sae way."

Mr. Brethen defended the Dairy Standards Act, saying it has the tendency to produce a better quality of milk and take better care of it.

Mr. Thompson pointed out that the public prosecutor whose duty it was to prosecute the men who watered milk has been done away with by the Dairy Standards Act. The farmer who waters his milk under the present system simply steals from himself.

The agricultural representative will test the milk as a check on the creameries, the committee said, for the protection of the farmer.

Farmers Not Fair.

F. C. McRae, Agricultural Representative of Norwood, said hundreds of samples of milk and cream are tested every year. Too often, he said, it is not a fair sample that comes to the representative. Some tested over 2 per cent more than the cheese factory allowed but on taking a sample himself Mr. McRae was able to bring it down. The farmer should be very careful about taking samples.

Very often, Mr. McRae said, two or three cows of a herd of 15 will bring down the test of the lot.

Motor License Question.

Andrew Brown represented the Local Branch of the Ontario Motor League in protesting the issuing of motor licenses from Toronto.

Besides the inconvenience to farmers in having to travel miles in search of a commissioner of oaths to have the affidavit signed, there is the trouble encountered by dealers in making sales.

Tourist Traffic.

Leon Frazer, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said the question of demand for the farmer's product is a vital one. The Chambers of Commerce will consider the formation of an association to further tourist traffic to supply a market. Ontario is the only Province without a Province wide organization to encourage tourist traffic. No thinking man will oppose the development of the traffic and the matter should be taken up by the Provincial Government.

Mr. McBride said the government is alive to the situation.

The visits of farm classes to city factories should be developed, Mr. Frazer suggested. It is an education to the farmer and an enlightment as to city conditions.

Cheese Selling.

H. B. Cowan of Peterborough suggested that in Western Ontario the present farcial system of selling cheese might be improved. Some of the cheese is shipped to Belleville where better prices are obtained than in the Western Ontario market. A proper sale of chese should be organized. Freight rate is at present the difficulty, and export rate not applying and there being no stop-over allowed.

Mr. Cowan explained that his company recognizes that Canadian produce in future will have greater competition in the British market than ever before.

Concerning competition in Great Britain with the Danish farm produce Mr. McBride expressed the opinion that Canada cannot be successful, since the Danish farmer is a peasant, living in a house that would be despised by the Canadian yeoman.

Revise Education.

The system of dairy instruction in Ontario needs revision, said Mr. Cowan. The instructors are compelled to devote much time to the grading of cheese. A factory's product may grade number 2 and the instructor may not have the time to devote to bringing up the quality.

The suggestion is that a certain number of men be appointed to test cheese only. One or two men might be placed at Belleville and after finding poor cheese go out of the factories and stay there until the condition is corrected. This will permit of a concentration of the work of the instructors on the factories most in trouble.

Experimental Farm Here.

Mayor J. J. Turner said that in connection with the Normal School there should be an experimental farm or plot of land to round out the education of those who attend there. He also protested the issue of motor licenses from Toronto. A formal reslution will be sent by the City Council at its next meeting in connection with this.

His Worship expressed the hope that the committee's deliberations will be profitable since agricultural prosperity is the foundation upon which industrial well-being is built.

Dairy Methods Change.

G. A. Gillespie was greeted by Mr. Thompson as a man who had rendered great service to the dairy interests of the Province.

Mr. Gillespie said today the dairy methods are changing for the better, but not perhaps in this section. The farmers is the backbone of the country. It has been harder to sell than to buy but conditions are changing and Europe may be able to buy more after a settlement of the political differences there, and the increased market will help the Canadian farmer.

Mr. Gillespie approved the establishment of demonstration farms throughout the Province. They should not be educational alone, but should operate on a profit and loss basis as a practical demonstration of efficiency. Using the best methods of the worst farm in the district could produce paying results, Mr. Gillespie declared, and the fact can be better taught through the eye than the ear.

Unless a cow is giving 10,000 pounds of milk she is not giving value. This should give 100 per cent over the cost of feed, he said.

Mr. Gillespie thought that some of the graders are inclined this year to class number 1 cheese as number 2, a reaction from last year when the opposite applied. Cheese that is wrong and will go wrong should go into third grade.

Hope For Future.

Col. T. D. Johnston, M.P.P. for East Peterborough, said some trouble in his district is caused by farmers having acquired property at the war time high prices. If the farmers get good value for the things they sell things will work out well. There is no cause for lack of confidence in the farming business.

Hydro On the Farm.

Mr. Milburn said co-operative marketing will develop need of sympathetic legislative support, and asked for the committee's help.

"Can Hydro be supplied to the farmer at comparative cost to the city?" Mr. Milburn asked as suggesting a subject for attention. The trouble seems to be with our local councils.

The need of competent farm help is felt by farmers in this district, and the bringing out of qualified Europeans to do this work should be undertaken by the government.

Advice Not Needed.

Samuel McGee, Norwood, said farmers are getting a lot of advice from people who know nothing about the work.

"Forty years ago the farmers were making money and there were no men going through the country getting great big salaries for teaching farming when they have never done a day's work on the farm," he declared.

"The newspapers will show up the man who is making a lot of money out of the livestock business and get men into it who were never intended for it," was another complaint from Mr. McGee. "I don't believe the Dairy Standards Act is a fair thing. It discriminates against the Holstein cow."

Wants A Farm.

Roland Denne, President of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition Board, said Peterborough is the centre of the Midland district. It does not matter to the people of Peterborough where the demonstration farm goes as long as it is within a radius of the people of the district.

"We should have an agricultural representative in Peterborough," Mr. Denne said. Our farmers have to go 20 miles for information. They can't take advantage of the benefits supplied, but they are eager for help.

Messrs. Milburn and Carveth agreed with Mr. Denne and George Fife said he had often gained assistance. One occasion was in the obtaining of help, which did not work out very satisfactorily. The workers, whom Mr. Fife referred to as "those cattle" came here only as a way to get into United States.

"It cost to raise a child somewhere about $500. Help will take no less than $25 or $30 a month and that was beyond my pocketbook," Mr. Fife declared.

He thanked the government for raising the price of road labor from $2.50 to $3.00 a day. The farmers had to come up to this and couldn't get help. Mr. Gillespie is getting twice as much as he used to for making cheese, pleaded the spokesman from Otonabee. A sole for a plough cost $2.60 when it could have been cast for 80 cents. The railways are charging too much too. "They're holding us up," Mr. Fife declared. "The farmer salesman has increased his price from $12 to $17. "He's in the ring with the rest of them."

"In East Peterborough there will be ten sales for taxes," he said. "We're going back every year."

Speaking on schools Mr. Fife said he lives in one of the oldest settlements in Otonabee and his children have to walk three miles to school. The people near whom the school is situated have as much voting power as he has, although he pays as much taxes as twenty of them, Mr. Fife said. "They put it all over me," he added.

Mr. Thompson in closing the session remarked on the business like way in which the matters affecting this district had been presented, and intimated that the resuls would be placed before the department for consideration.

Precocious Pullet Lays Eleven Eggs In a Week

OMEMEE, Sept. 27.—Mrs. J. Longmuir has a Plymouth Rock Pullet, not quite five months old, which has laid eleven eggs, beginning a week ago.

FARMERS MUST BE MECHANICS TO MAKE GOOD

Machinery Has Become Important In Modern Farming.

CARE NEEDED.

Serious Danger From Exploding Boilers—Machinery Rusts.

Good farmers these days must be good mechanics.

For the use of machinery has become one of the most important activities in modern farming.

Machinery has replaced the mule and horse, and is gradually eliminating the farm hand. It has helped speed up farming and has enabled the farmer-owner to cultivate large tracts of land with practically no help and with much greater success than the older methods afforded.

Yet, to many a farmer, machinery is new and strange and mysterious. If he happens to get a tractor, as a starter, he has to depend on the dealer for service when anything goes wrong. Mechanics, gas or steam power, is still something new in farming.

For this reason, farming has incurred a new and serious danger. The fire hazard has increased, due to the flying sparks of harvesters and the exhaust of tractors. Loss of life and accidents to men in the fields have also increased, due to lack of knowledge of the machinery in use.

Boilers Explode.

One of the serious dangers that has been recurring in various parts of the country is that of harvester boiler explosions. The harvesters, used only for a comparatively short time each year, are left to gather rust and almost fall apart before the next usage. Brought out again, without being cleaned or overhauled and inspected, they form one of the greatest dangers the farm hand must face.

If the farmer were a good mechanic, he would know that any piece of machinery that has been unused even for a week should be cleaned, overhauled, tightened up, oiled and tested thoroughly before being put to work.

Horses have to be cared for, groomed, fed and treated properly every day whether they worked or were idle. Yet little such attention is paid machinery during its enforced idleness.

Machinery, however, can generally go without attention provided it is well groomed before being used again. If the farmer is not mechanically inclined, he should have his machinery prepared for good service by a competent mechanic and engineer. The cost of such service may save him the cost of new machinery, not overlooking the liability of accident and fire due to poor apparatus.

Good Care Needed

Use of even the best machinery requires care and the knowledge of mechanics. A good automobile driver is one who knows his car, not alone one who can drive. Similarly, a good tractor or harvester operator is one who can take good care of his apparatus.

Due to the rough usage and other difficulties peculiar to farming conditions, greater attention must be paid to tractors and other farm machinery than is given similar apparatus used in city streets and factories. Changeable weather conditions make this more difficult, but this is all the more reason why the farmer should be careful with his machinery.

Manufacturers furnish rules and means for the care of their products and these should be followed to the letter, for best results. They mean longer life for the machinery and a saving to the farmer.

LENGTHEN USE OF HERD SIRE BY EXCHANGES

Proper Care and Comfortable Quarters Add To Life of Good Stock.

HELP NEIGHBORS.

Tried and Proven Sires Should Have Preference Over Unproven, Animals.

It is a lamentable fact that many sires that have later proven to be valuable breeders have had a limited period of usefulness to their breed, due to the fact that they were disposed of before their breeding ability became known. Early disposal is sometimes due to a disinclination to risk the insecurity to life and limb entailed in keeping aged breeding animals around, but more often is due to the gradual impotency, inadvisability of in-breeding and the lack of facilities for keeping two herd sires. Be the causes what they may, the fact remains that, in many cases, better use could be made of many of the outstanding sires in the country that meet with slaughter while still in prime breeding condition.

With most classes of stock, proper care, comfortable quarters, plenty of exercise, and due cautions on the part of the attendant reduce impotency in the animal and the risk of attendants being injured by aged sires to a minimum. Also in most classes of stock, the get of the sire mature sufficiently early to enable a fair estimate to be made, through the get, of the breeding ability of the sire before the latter has to be disposed of to avoid in-breeding. Such being the case, it would seem advisable for the breeder to study his breeding results closely and retain as long as he possibly can those sires that show outstanding merit.

Co-operation with neighbors or other breeders (where accredited herd regulations will allow), in such a way that sires may be exchanged for a number of years and then be used again in the original herd, is one method that could be resorted to on the part of the first owner of a tried and proven sire. Another method that shouls prove workable is for two parties conveniently situated who have valuable tried sires to exchange services for such of their own animals as are closely related to their own sires. Following out these suggestions would extend the usefulness of a bull, for instance, from the usual three or four years to seven or eight years.

The greatest possibilities, however, in extending the period of usefulness of proven sires are in getting the new breeder to appreciate the value of these proven sires and to buy them whenever possible in preference to the untried young sire. Instances without number could be quoted where money has been lost and years of breeding have been wasted, so far as improvement of herds and flocks was concerned, through the use of untried sires that have proven misfits.

On the other hand, many good sires that have been offered for sale have gone to the slaughter-house for want of a buyer. In the interests of the breed and the advancement of breeding generally, every owner of a tried and proven sire should, when he is through with him, endeavor to put him in the hands of someone who can make further use of him. Likewise, anyone looking for a new sire should see that the supply of tried and proven sires is exhausted before purchasing a young unproven one.

This system is followed as between the Central and Branch Experimental Farms, and has given excellent results.

Denmark has increased its acreage for orchard grass by about 10 per cent, although the crop will be about the same as last year.

Airplanes Menace Favorite Home of Mosquitos When Pilots Spray The Swamp With Poison Dust

MOUND, La., Sept. 27.—In the happy days, before the coming of airplanes, Mrs. Mosquito lived in the middle of a quiet, secluded swarm and raised her family of little skeets unmolested.

Those days have gone forever.

Now a look of fear spreads itself over Mrs. Mosquito's maternal countenance every time she hears the humming of a 'plane.

That's because scientists in the Department of Agriculture have conspired with flyers in the Army Air Service to ruin Mrs. Mosquito's once happy home life.

The first stroke of the conspiracy was to attack the swampy region hereabouts, which malaria mosquitos —aristocrats of their kind—are particularly fond of using as a summer resort and breeding ground.

A 'plane, piloted by Lieutenant R. C. McDonell, flew over the entire district, spreading a poison dust made of Paris Green and Tripoli Earth through a specially constructed spray-gun apparatus attached to the machine.

When McDonell ended his flight the mosquitos of the region were gone.

The flyer piloted his ship high enough above the trees to avoid contact and circled them to completely cover the surrounding marsh. By travelling through the air he was able to spray swamps and bogs which could not have been reached in any other way.

As a result of McDonell's successful experiment, plans are being formulated to have airplanes wipe out mosquitos in other malaria regions.

FROST PASSED OMEMEE CROPS

Harvesting Practically Completed—Buckwheat Alone Remains.

POTATOES EXCELLENT

OMEMEE, Sept. 27.—Mr. Jermyn Palmer, who conducts a livery stable here, sold his black team of horses to Mr. Wilson, of Woodville, on Tuesday.

Harvesting is practically all finished in this vicinity except the buckwheat, and grave fears were expressed lest the frost would appear before the grain ripened, but, so far, no damage has resulted, and many fields are already in the stook, while cutting has commenced in others.

Green fields of fall wheat are already appearing, while many more fields are only being made ready for the seed. Clover, which was cut early, in order to have a good yield of seed on the second growth, is not ripening, and more sunshine will be needed to give good results.

Early potatoes are being dug and are an excellent crop, but there are complaints about the late ones commencing to rot while the stalks are still green.

Many citizens are experiencing great difficulty in getting the tomatoes to ripen, while others have an abundant supply where the land is loamy or sandy. All garden vegetables are a wonderful crop; also early apples and plums appear in large quantities, the latter ranging in price from 45c to $1.15 for an 11 qt. basket.

Pears were retailing at 65c per basket and peaches at $1.50, which is a high price for this luscious fruit.

Jack Frost made his first real appearance on Tuesday night when he nipped the tender vines of the cucumbers, pumpkins, etc. Ice was noticed at an early hour on the water troughs. Tomatoes, beans, etc., were being hurriedly garnered in for safe keeping the following day.

THRESHING AT MARMORA.

Good Yields Continue, Although Area Sown To Grain Is Small.

MARMORA, Sept. 27.—Threshing continues still with good results. Owing to the comparatively small acreage devoted to grain in this section, the grain figures do not look so imposing as in other places, yet the amount per acre compares favorably. Those who have completed threshing are now turning attention to corn, this being an exceptionally fine crop.

Marsh hay is being cut by farmers also, who are caught up with the more important work.

APPLE CROP FAILS.

L. O. Clifford, M.P., Expresses Opinion That 25 Per Cent Yield Expected.

COBOURG, Sept. 27.—L. O. Clifford, M.P., a prominent apple buyer of Ontario County, is quoted as saying that the apple crop in the district west of Bowmanville and around Oshawa, will not be twenty-five per cent. of normal this year. Around Markham and Pickering, also, the crop is declared to be largely a failure. Heretofore, there has usually been an output there of from ten thousand to fifteen thousand barrels, and the shortage in the yield this year will mean a corresponding financial shortage to the orchardists of that locality.

AMERICANS TAKE HOMESTEADS.

Edmonton.—There continues to be a brisk demand for homesteads in Northern Alberta. During the past week 20 were filed at the Edmonton office Newcomers are from many lands, but Americans predominate.

NEW FORAGE CROP.

Korean Lespedeza is the name of a legume which has been developed in certain parts of this country as a new forage crop. It is especially beneficial in the middle eastern states and is spreading into the west.

DOUBLE SOWING OF FALL WHEAT

Cavan Farmers Increase Acreage—Corn Being Cut.

BETTER FOR FROST.

CAVAN, Sept. 27.—The harvest is practically finished in Cavan, except for a few acres of buchwheat and an odd field of oats in stooks.

Farmers are cutting their corn. The recent frosts have given a warning that the season has come for this work.

Cavan does not seem to have as great an acreage of corn this year as in some previous seasons.

Between Millbrook and Lindsay more fields of good corn are noticed.

Some farmers, who grow corn for ensilage and fill it into their silos, claim that the corn needs a couple of slight frosts before cutting, as it cures better and is not so apt to ferment in the silo.

More acres are being sown with fall wheat this season than is usual. Some farmers have almost doubled the number of acres sown.

Early potatoes are being raised and are proving an excellent crop.

MARKETING PIGS AT GOOD PRICE

Omemee Men Dispose of Many at $9.25 and $9.80 a Hundred.

HARVEST BUCKWHEAT.

TRENT RIVER, Sept. 27.—Mr. Wesley Redden, of 14th Concession, shipped five pigs this week, the total weight of which was 900 pounds, receiving $9.25 a hundred. He also sold ten pigs, six weeks old, but did not receive a high price for these. On this farm there is a well loaded crop of buckwheat which has not been harvested yet as the threshers will be there some time next week. Mr. Redden's silo, 12 by 30, blew down a short time ago and as he does not intend to rebuild, he sold the fallen timbers to Wm. Fisher of Seymour West.

On the farm of James Longmuir the potatoes are an excellent crop and are being dug this week. Mr. Longmuir shipped seven pigs, five months old, the weight totalling 1,200 pounds. He received last week $9.80 a hundred. Mr. Longmuir expects the silo filler this week.

PLOWING MATCH FOR YOUNG MEN

Ontario County Plans New Feature for Fall Affair.

GIVE GOLD MEDALS

COBOURG, Sept. 27.—Ploughing matches seem to be much in favor in the Central Ontario district this year, and several are being planned. Representative farmers of South Ontario met recently and decided upon a big home ploughing competition for boys and young men instead of the regular ploughing match. It was felt that, with a match of this kind, a larger number of contestants will take part, as the contest consists of the ploughing of three acres at home. It is hoped that a number of boys and young men will compete, who, next year, will turn out to a county match. The classes have been divided into three—for young men of 30 and 24 years and boys of 18 years and under. It was arranged that three men from each township were to form committees to work in conjunction with the Agricultural representative for Ontario County, W. M. Croshery. Messrs. W. A. Dryden, R. B. Smith and Ralph Mowbray were appointed a committee to secure four gold medals for presentation.

SKUNK RAISING IS PROFITABLE EXPERT STATES

Volunteers for the Profession Are Not Numerous Yet.

HOW TO DO IT

Habits of Skunk Are Well Known—Ranching Described.

THE raising of skunks commercially is now being carried on successfully in quite a few localities, particularly in the United States. While pelt prices are low at present, they are cheaply and easily raised.

Nearly every person who is at all familiar with wild life is familiar with the habits of our common skunk. For this reason I shall not give a detailed account of their habits and general peculiarities, as I shall take it for granted that the reader already understands these things.

Breeding.

The breeding season arrives the latter part of March. The period of gestation being about 34 days, the young arrive the first few days in May. Allow one male to serve from five to seven females. The males should be mated with the females about November 1, and may be left in the same pen with the females until the breeding season is over. About the end of March separate your males from your females and place each female in an additional pen, where it may remain to have its young, undisturbed from outside noises or undue excitement until such time as the young are large enough to wean.

The next box must be so constructed that no rain can enter its interior. Fresh, dry hay is best for nesting material. This should be supplied preparatory to the time the young are born. New ranchers must not forget what I have said in regard to the privacy of the female during the pupping period, for if she is disturbed, in all likelihood she will get excited and carry the young about the pen looking for a hiding-place. And such treatment is, needless to say, sure to kill some of the young.

Feeding.

Cow's milk and stale baker's bread is a very good diet for the young skunks just beginning to eat for the first time. Butcher's scraps and horse meat can be fed after the animals attain a fair size and are able to use their teeth in chewing the more solid foods.

Feed your adult skunks once a day just before sunset, but your young skunks should be fed lightly twice a day. Your food supply should consist of cooked potatoes, cooked pumpkins, stale bread and clean, fresh meat which provides a very well balanced ration. They are also rather fond of corn when it is in the milky stage, and this should not be overlooked as an important article of food during the summer months.

If your site for a fur farm is selected in or near a fair-sized town, table scraps may be obtained at the local hotel, usually for the taking away. As a whole, I have found that to buy worn out horses for food is far less work and cost as compared to raising rabbits for such a purpose.

The latter part of July the young skunks must be weaned. The females should be separated and placed in one yard with not more than seven females in a yard, while the males should be placed in other yards with not more than two males together in a yard. The young kittens from two different litters should not be allowed together when first weaned, and the weaker should be separated from the stronger animals and given special food and attention. To provide that, only a few animals will be allowed together at any one time of the year, it will be necessary to build a yard so partitioned that a large number of small pens are available at all times in which to confine them. Fifteen pens each in size six by twelve feet will accommodate a hundred skunks, figuring that the majority of them are females.

Pens.

In the most northern provinces, like Northern Ontario, the nest boxes for skunks during winter months necessitate being sunk in the ground to a depth of two feet, but in warmer parts the box may be placed on top of the ground with a load of straw or a pile of manure thrown over it to keep the animals warm.

Procure a wooden box of one inch board composition about two by three feet in size, which is large enough for from three to six animals, and from one end run a chute four feet long through which the animals may be allowed to pass in and out when the box is covered with straw. A load of horse manure thrown over the box is sufficient means of protection from the cold and frosts.

As the skunk is practically dormant during the cold winter months it eats very little and requires very little attention. On a warm winter's day one might throw some small chunks of fresh meat near the entrance of the den and they will carry this into the den and eat it at their leisure.

Nature of Skunks.

Skunks show considerable indivuality, but their disposition once established they do not vary. And they vary in general peculiarities, even animals from the same litter. Some will continually fight others away from the food at meal time, some will never tire of digging deep holes in the ground for dens in which to deposit their young, no matter how much you may discourage them by filling in the holes which they dig; some will not hesitate to discharge their scent at you, while others do not do so unless seriously molested. Some relish a certain food which others will not touch, and while some get quite tame other remain shy and wild, regardless of any effort to tame them.

Y.W.C.A. HELD A FALL RALLY

Health, Eduction and Recreation Discussed at Gathering.

HALL CROWDED.

The annual Fall rally of the Young Women's Christian Association was held last evening, with an attendance which packed the big gymnasium. The chair, in the absence of the president, was taken by Miss M. Dickson. Mr. E. E. Ingall led in prayer.

The different points emphasized in the triangle which represents the triune life of the Y.W.C.A. institutions were treated in short addresses by several speakers. Mr. Ingall spoke of the intellectual standard upheld by the 'Y', saying that education taught one to do what he should do, when he should do it, and how he should do it, whether he wanted to or not. In the 'Y', the girls wanted to do good work. It was the best environment for an all-round education.

Dr. H. M. Yelland, at the last moment, in the unavoidable absence of Dr. A. Moir, who had been invited to speak, took up the health side, advocating the advantages to health to be derived by attendance at 'Y' courses.

Rev. R. Pogue, who had been asked to speak on the religious side of the life, was also detained and unable to be present. G. A. Gillespie spoke on the Y.W.C.A.'s work, from the standpoint of a business man, saying that the good training given by it enabled business girls to be more alert, on time, and interested in their work. The business men of the city, he said, should help to support the 'Y' on this account.

Mrs. M. A. Morrison gave the point of view of the mothers, saying that the 'Y' training made better mothers and home-makers, emphasizing the excellent atmosphere of the boarding-home for the girl, and inviting all mothers to come in at any time and observe the girls at work or at play.

Miss Thelma Paxman, one of the residents, spoke of the various advantages offered by the Association, of the excellent staff maintained at the local building and of the various sports and good times enjoyed by the girls. All of the speakers referred to the fine building which houses the Y.W.C.A. in Peterboro.

The various speakers were thanked by Miss Dickson and Miss Leta Brownscombe, the secretary, followed, with a general outline of the different classes for the coming year.

A musical programme followed, with several numbers by the dancing classes, including Saucy Sue, danced by Evelyn Armstrong and Mary Dunlop, the Russian Rhapsody, by Florence Adams, Violet Davidson and Isabel Davidson, a gypsy dance by Florence Waudby, Jessie Gregory Rose Puttick and Elda Bradley; Playtime in Holland, by Anna Edmondson, Margaret Dunlop, Ruby Jackson, Barbara Foster, Dorothy Foster, Mary Dunlop, Evelyn Armstrong, Bertha Lobban and Bertha Edmondson.

Dainty refreshments were served later in the green room, decorated like the hall, with quantities of pretty flowers and leaves. Arrangements for refreshments were in hands of Miss E. MacVannel, coffee was poured by Mrs. E. Morrison and Mrs. W. D Scott and assistants included the Misses Agnes Stout, Lillian Speers, Neva Truesdale, J. McIntosh, Bessie Latimer and Viola Payton.

FRANCE SUFFERING.

Bad Weather Continues and Crops Will Suffer as Result.

PARIS, Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Unprecedented bad weather from which France is suffering, shows no sign of change for the better. Instead, in some sections it is growing worse, causing damage in regions hitherto unaffected. A fresh violent storm burst over Toulon last night, flooding the cellars and stores. Nearby coast resorts were ravaged.

In Eastern France the Rivers Saone and Doubs and their tributaries are rising rapidly. Even the far-away Ruhr valley, in Western Germany, is involved in the meteorological disaster, having lost half its wheat and potato crops.

READY TO START.

The Americans Will Provide a Naval Patrol.

FREIDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, Sept. 27.—The ZR-3, the giant dirigible, built by the Zeppelin Company for the United States, will start on its trans-Atlantic trip to Lakehurst, N.J., on October 5th or 6th, provided that the weather over the Atlantic ocean is favorable at that time, the director of the company announced to-day.

The American Navy Department, it is stated, is sending three vessels to take up stations at different points on the Atlantic for the purpose of keeping the Zeppelin company officials advised of weather conditions.

FABLES ON HEALTH

SOME KITCHEN HINTS.

Keeping the pantry and kitchen in sanitary condition was another problem Mollie Mann took upon herself when the hygiene course was started at her school.

The Mann kitchen was a bit old-fashioned without the tiled floors and such as go into many more up-to-date places.

Food chambers should be closely watched. They should frequently be washed with and scrubbed with hot soapsuds. Use a brush. A few drops of ammonia in the water will help. Dry a cloth and let the sun bake upon it.

Clean the ice-box thoroughly and frequently. Do this when the ice is low. Hot, soapy water should be used on the ice racks. The ice chamber should be particularly well scrubbed. The waste pipe should be removed and boiling water poured through it.

The pantry should be most carefully watched to see that no fruits and vegetables are rotting and that no foods are giving forth bad odours.

Keep the shelves carefully washed and disinfected, for it is from here that the food for the table comes, and no chance of contamiantion should be taken.

GIRL SHOT HERSELF.

Young Girl Was on Her Way To a Mental Hospital.

WINNIPEG, September 27. — A young girl whose name the provincial authorities refuse to divulge, hired a taxicab on Thursday evening, and asked to be driven to a mental hospital. When she was near that institution she produced a revolver, and shot herself in the breast.

The girl who is said to have been a former patient at the hospital died almost instantly.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

When a frock is divided against itself, it is very smart to make the upper part of the same silk that lines your coat.

The ensemble costume is the most important part of the Autumn wardrobe. It may be a long tube coat over a frock or a not-so-long coat over a blouse of the same length and a narrow skirt. It is very new to match up the top and bottom of the costume, making the coat and skirt hem of plain wool and mating the silk of the lining with the upper part of the frock. The silk may be a plaid, a print or a plain crêpe or crêpe satin in a contrasting color—yellow crêpe with navy rep, white satin and black cashgora

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

The Editor, The Examiner:

Sir: Mr. G. N. Gordon's letters were at first ferocious and interesting, then they became quite tame and submissive, and now they have at last become monotonous and dull.

He has been challenged time and again to furnish proof from parliamentary records of one single statement made by Mr. Meighen in the House of Commons where he approved of the carving up of Peterborough county to suit Gordon, and still the same monotonous sound comes from Mr. Gordon, as from a parrot in a cage, "Meighen did it! Meighen did it!"

There is no reason why Mr. Gordon should not give an account of his stewardship. It is his record and not mine that the people are interested in. Ever since he has been a member he has seen a steady flow of over One Million One Hundred Thousand Dollars a year from the port of Peterborough into the Canadian treasury. These immense yearly sums have been collected from the people through this port in the form of income taxes, sales taxes, customs duties, revenue stamps, and other impositions too numerous to mention.

It is but reasonable to suppose that some part of these annual tributes to the national treasury would return to this section, in new and useful public works. Millions of dollars a year have been and are being spent in other sections of Canada from Vancouver to Halifax, but when it comes to Peterborough, all you can find are votes for maintenance, replacements, and repairs, and, of course, Gordon's own salary of $8,000 a year. But again you hear the parrot calling: "Meighen did it—Meighen did it."

The fact is that the best interests of this city and county are suffering through the incompetence and neglect of Mr. Gordon and his entire lack of initiation.

When the tariff was being revised last session, and important changes were being made to the disadvantage of certain factories in Peterborough, Mr. Gordon stood by like an Egyptian mummy, and opened not his mouth. He must have known that many factories in this city were suffering from foreign competition, and that the pay roll of their employees was becoming less and less, but what did Mr. Gordon care for manufacturers and their hundreds and thousands of employees? He prats about the workingman, and pretends to be his friend, but when it comes to do anything of a practical character to benefit him, Gordon is "not there with the goods."

On the other hand when it comes to creating trouble and mischief for a manufacturer and loss of wages to employees, then you will find Mr. Gordon right there with both feet One illustration may be given, but others more unworthy may also be given. A few years ago certain employees of the Canadian General Electric were encouraged by Mr. Gordon to continue their strike in the face of impending curtailment and hard times. Hundreds of employees lost hundreds of dollars apiece in listening to his selfish advice, and allowed themselves to be used to serve his own selfish ends.

When the electors of West Peterborough come to act on Mr. Gordon's advice hereafter, they will do the opposite of what he advised, and doing so, they will act in their own best interest.

Yours truly,
ROLAND DENNE.

The reason given for this action on the part of the company is the threatened legal proceedings by the Ontario Hydro Power Commission of Ontario in regard to a quarry purchased by the Cement Company from the Commission.

HOTEL DESTROYED.

Six Hundred Guests Left the Building During the Fire.

DELMONTE, Calif., Sept. 27.—(Canadan Press.) —Hotel Delmonte, centre of playground internationally known to tourists and sportsmen for its beauty and golf links, was destroyed by fire of undetermined origin which started this morning and continued to burn at daybreak.

The fire alerm sent six hundred guests scurrying from the building in scant attire to witness the destruction of the main structure, valued at approximately one million dollars.

Art treasures, valued at $75,000, were saved by townspeople.

PRODUCE SOLD SLOWLY TO-DAY

Butter 37 To 40 and Prices of Vegetables Were Low.

MARKET CROWDED.

Many of the vendors at the farmers' market this morning faced the prospect of returning home with a goodly supply of the produce they had left. The many carts were loaded with eatables of every variety from garden and field crops, and the supplies overflowed on the curbs and crowded the ways for the passers-by. Upstairs the same conditions prevailed. There was plenty of verything for sale and prices were low.

Patronage of the Peterboro market extends to a good radius. From Cobourg every week comes a motor truck with light vegetables and fruits; butter women from Millbrook are constant sellers in the basket section, and this morning a motor truck came in from the St. Catharines district, loaded with pears and plums. Good looking Bartletts, opening at a dollar for a large basket, sank to 65c finally, and plums in eleven-quart containers were 35c.

Potatoes were plentiful this morning at a general price of $1 a bag. Apples also were very plentiful There were big, good-looking Gravensteins and Wolf Rivers at $1 a bushel, one man selling his Wolf Rivers at a dollar a bag. Wealthies were 35c a peck; Found Sweets and Jubilee Sweets 25c; and a few small Snows were 35c. A small quantity of Yellow Transparents at 35c a basket had a quick sale, and Alexandras were in demand at 25c a peck. One vendor had a new apple in this district, a Quebec Sweet, a combination in taste of a Tolman Sweet and a Snow. These were 35c a peck.

Large white onions in bunches were a nickel, and generous bunches of carrots the same price. Damson plums were 15c a quart, blue plums and green gages were 10c a quart, or three for a quarter, and upstairs there were red plums at 75c a large basket. A few grapes were on sale at 65c a basket, crabapples were 30c a peck, and small green pears were 40 and 50c a peck.

Elderberries were on sale at 40 and 50c a large basket, and wild grapes were 50 and 60c in 11 quart baskets.

Big sweet red peppers were 40c a dozen and tomatoes were 25 and 35c a basket. Green tomatoes were 25c a basket and small red tomatoes the same price. Bright yellow egg tomatoes were 10c a small box. Gherkins were a dollar for a six-quart basket, string beans 3 quarts for a quarter. Cauliflower were 20 and 25c and vegetable marrow from 5 to 15c.

One man had the sheep and goats evidently divided in his white onion supply, one basket being priced at 15c a quart straight, while its companion, similar in quality and looks, was 2 quarts for 25c.

Pure clover honey on the open market was 20c a pound. In five lb. pails, basswood sold at 95c, light amber at 85c, and mixed at 70c.

Corn was selling at 3 dozen for a quarter. One vendor had a new, fine-looking variety, Burpee's Sunnybrook, at 15c a dozen.

Crated fowl, Buff Orpingtons and Silver laced Wyandottes, were selling at 75c apiece on the open market.

Upstairs there was plenty of fowl. Chickens were 28 and 30c a pound; hens 25c; ducks were from 25c to 27c a pound. Butter was 37 to 40c a lb., and cream 30c a pint.

Asters were selling on the open market at 10c a dozen.

Horses offered for sale this morning by the auctioner met with a cool reception. One nice little black mare that centred its attention on getting the remants of an apple that a small boy persisted in eating in front of its nose, was led away after failing to get any bid, and a pair of strong-looking blacks were retained by their owner after a bid of a hundred dollars refused to budge from its position.

DECIDE PLANS FOR STATUE.

OTTAWA, Sept. 26.— The cabinet council will on Monday finally decide on the plans and design for the statue of Sir Wilfrid Laurier on parliament hill. It is believed that the design of a Montreal man has been found satisfactory and that the location of the statue is the principle point to be settled before public announcement is made.

A LIQUOR CARGO.

Twenty Cases of Scotch Whiskey and a Touring Car Taken.

SARNIA, Ont., Sept. 27.—Provincial Officers bagged twenty cases of what is said to be Scotch whiskey in a large touring car on the river road near Port Lambton yesterday morning and arrested John Welch, of Windsor, and Samuel Sonnel of Detroit, on a charge of violating the O. T.A. The two men appeared before Magistrate C. S. Woodrow today and the hearing of their case was fixed for October 6. Bail was granted. The value of the cargo at current prices was estimated at $1,000 by the officers. It is alleged that the liquor had been loaded into the car from one of the export scows just prior to the arrival of the officers.

WILL HAVE BALANCE.

Police Department Making An Effort To Save Money.

At a meeting of the Board of Police Commissioners yesterday afternoon, Magistrate O. A. Langley presided in the absence of Judge Huycke. Mayor J. J. Turner was present also Chief Constable Newhall and City Clerk Armstrong. Accounts for the month were presented and approved. From present indications the Board will complete the year with a substantial balance and the chief has hopes of having this amount applied to the purchase of a new automobile. Business of a routine nature was disposed of.

JOHNSON LOSES SENATORS' GAME

DEFEAT ATHLETICS.

BOSTON, Sept. 26. — Washington pennant aspirations received a rude jolt to-day when Ferguson pitched Boston to 2 to 1 victory over the Senators in the first game of four scheduled to be played here. New York's victory, while Washington lost, reduced the Senator's lead in the pennant race to one full game. The League leaders made only seven hits.

Another blow to Washington hopes came when Walter Johnson, the club's pitching ace, was hit on the left elbow by a pitched ball in the fifth and apparently severely injured. Marberry pitched the eighth inning against Boston. After 13 consecutive victories, Johnson figured as losing pitcher.

Washington .. 000 000 010—1 7 0
Boston.. ....000 200 00x—2 8 1
Johnson and Liebold; Ferguson and O'Neill.

Yankees Advance

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 26.—Their backs to the wall and fighting desperately in the hope of overtaking the Washington Senators, New York pounded its way to victory when Philadelphia's defense weakened in the fifth inning. The final score was 7 to 1. For four innings Gray baffled the Yankees' attempts to break through his delivery and was retiring them in order on easy pop ups and puny grounders. But Pennock was sailing along just as smoothly and though the Athletics managed to get men on base in each of the first three innings, they were unable to come through with the hits in the pinches. The first break in the hurling duel came in the fifth inning and the visitors, quick to take advantage of its effect on Gray's equilibrium ,followed with some solid clouting that clinched the game. Score:—

New York .. 000 050 200—7 10 0
Philadelphia .. 000 001 000—1 8 2
Pennock and Bengough; Gray, Burns, Heimach, Harris, Hasty and Perkins.

Tigers Win Easily

CHICAGO, Sept. 26.—"Rip" Collins held Chicago to four hits to-day while Detroit hit Faber and Lyons opportunely and easily won the first game of the series here 8 to 2.

Score:
Detroit .. ..300 120 101—8 15 1
Chicago .. .. 101 000 000—2 4 3

DO YOU KNOW BASEBALL?

BY BILLY EVANS

QUESTIONS

1. When a baserunner passes a preceding runner on the lines, who is out, the man passed or the runner who did the passing?.—S. A. K.

2. For seven innings neither team is able to score. In the last of the eighth, with two out, the third man up hits a home run. The next two men get bases on balls. The game is then called on account of rain. What is the final result, 1 to 0, or does the score revert back to the seventh inning and the game stand a tie?—E. R. O.

3. Can a batter, after being sent in as pinch hitter be removed for another substitute hitter after the team in the field has made a change of pitchers? When a relief pitcher is sent in what must he do before he can be removed?—R. T. Y.

ANSWERS

1. A baserunner is automatically out the moment he passes a preceding runner.

2. The final score is 1 to 0. The fact that the home team was not able to complete its half of the inning before the rain set in has no effect on the home run. Rule 25, relating to called games, completely covers the situation cited.

3. It is permissible to remove a pinch hitter at any time. If there are balls and strikes on him the substitute batter merely takes such count. This is very often done when the two managers begin a battle of wits. It is different when a relief pitcher is sent into the game. He must pitch until a batsman has either been retired or reaches first in safety. This rules was made to prevent managers from jockeying, by announcing pitchers they had no intention of using.

DECISIVE GAME IN GREAT RACE

American League Winner Can't Be Declared Until Very Last Game.

YANKEES THREATEN.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Washington's lead in the American League was reduced to one full game Friday when the Senators faltered on the threshold of their first major league pennant and lost a 2 to 1 decision to the Boston Red Sox, while the Yankees were winning from Connie Mack's Athletics 7 to 1.

With three games yet to be played by each team, it is certain that the pennant cannot be decisively won by either team now before Monday, neither team being scheduled for a Sunday game. If Washington wins its full slate of three games yet to be played with the Red Sox, thef cannot be knocked from its supreme perch despite a similar performance by the Yankees over the Athletics, but if the Washington foot slips again in Boston the Yankees may yet slide under the wire ahead.

The situation in the National League remained constant yesterday, neither the Giants nor Brooklyn being scheduled to play. The Dodgers are hanging by a proverbial thread, one defeat sending them down into the ruck without a chance of doing better than getting a tie with the Giants if the National League champions lose all three of their scheduled games.

The standing follows:

Ameriran League.

New York	89	62	.589	3

LEAFS WIN IN EXTRA INNINGS

Free-Hitting Game With Buffalo Stretched Into the Eleventh—38 Hits.

ROCHESTER LOSE.

BUFFALO, Sept. 27.— Notwithstanding the fact that Manager Howley was short on players this afternoon the Mapel Leafs stepped out and won from Buffalo, 11 to 9 in 11 innings, Judd went the whole distance for the Leafs while the Bisons tried four pitchers, none with any success until Reddy stepped into the box. In all there were 38 safe blows registered, Toronto getting 23 Onslow with six. Home runs were banged out by Anderson, Will Kelly Layne and Onslow.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Ty Cobb, holder of many records, has set a new one that is probably even safer than Babe Ruth's mark of 59 home runs.

In the first inning of the game of September 20, between Detroit and New York, Cobb singled over second base.

That hit gave him 200 for the present season. Made the ninth season in which he has made 200 or more hits.

Prior to that base hits on the part of Cobb, the record had been jointly held with Willie Keeler.

Making 200 hits in a season of 154 games is an unusual feat. It means better than a safe blow per game.

Turning the trick nine seasons, in a career that has extended over 19 full campaigns, is certainly an extraordinary accomplishment.

The season of 1924 is Cobb's twentieth year, as he came to the majors in the fall of 1905.

Then, just to show that he is far from through as a speed merchant he proceeded to steal second and third, much to the surprise and disgust of the opposition.

Most of the worthwhile batting records are now held by Cobb. He hasn't much to shoot at.

Babe Ruth's home run record of 59 is one of them, but Cobb has never been noted for his slugging ability.

It is the opinion of the baseball experts that Cobb's feat of making 200 or more hits for nine years of his career will stand for years and years, if not forever.

In the major leagues there are perhaps a half dozen players who have a chance to equal or break the performance. However, it is reasonably certain to say that most of them will have passed out of the majors before matching the feats of Cobb in this respect.

Realizing that he cannot go on forever, Cobb has practically decided he will not serve as a regular next season.

It is his present intention to serve as bench manager, breaking into the game merely as pinch hitter, or when the condition of the rest of his outfielders make it necessary.

In speaking of his record batting performances, Cobb credits his success to having made a study of the pitchers and fielders, plus nature's gifts, a good eye and speed.

Incidentally Cobb is of the opinion that batting ability is more or less a natural gift. However, he emphasizes the fact that every player can improve his batting eye if he makes the proper effort.

TENNIS RESULTS.

Dr. Phyliss Young and F. C. Webber Win Mixed Doubles.

The mixed doubles final was played Friday afternoon at 4.30. Dr. Phyliss Young and F. C. Webber won from Mrs. J. A. Dewart and Walter Jackson, 6-4, 6-3. All the games were closely contested.

C. S. Brown and Dr. Ray Scott won from O. A. Langley and H. Tamplet, 6-3, 6-4.

G. C. Scott and H. A. Cranfield won from Dr. Smith and Mr. Emsley of Lakefield, 6-0, 6-3.

BASEBALL FANS ARE WORKED UP

Theory That Money Is Big Factor May Be Exploded.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—(United Press).—Out west, where the baseball bugs breathe fire and snort smoke at the mere mention of New York, there will have to be a new squawk organized if the Brooklyn Robins win the National League pennant.

Even if the Robins fail to land no better than second or third place, the theory advanced, and generally believed in the west, that money is the biggest factor in baseball will have been exploded.

As long as the Giants keep on winning the pennant the fans can work themselves into a wrath and ask maledictions upon a club that can buy a pennant winner. The Giants have spent a lot of money on players, but Charley Ebbets certainly has never been accused of being reckless with the cash of the Brooklyn club. He has taken as much kidding in the public print about his frugality as the Prince of Wales has read about his horsemanship.

In answer to any more thrusts about his relation to Harry Lauder, Ebbets may be able to say this winter: "Spend money? Why should I be a sucker? I win pennants, and look at my roll."

Compared to Babe Ruth, Willie Kamm, Jimmie O'Connell and several others there isn't an expensive ball player on the Brooklyn team. There are several, in fact, that were picked up off the bargain counter or salvaged from the baseball dump.

Jack Fournier came to the club from St. Louis in a trade for Hy. Myers.

Andy High was purchased from the Memphis club for $5,000.

Milton Stock came from St. Louis in a deal for Mike Gonzalez and some cash.

Johnny Mitchell was bought from Minneapolis for a small sum.

Jimmy Johnston was obtained in a trade with Oakland.

Ivy Olson came from Cleveland for the waiver price.

Zach Wheat cost $1,200.

Ed. Brown came from Indianapolis in a trade.

Jack Deberry cost $5,000.

Dazzy Vance cost $10,000, and he's worth $100,000.

Burly Grimes came from the Pirates in a trade.

Dutch Reuther was secured from the Reds in a trade for Marquard.

Bill Doak was passed off by the Cards for Dickerman.

Decatur was signed as a free agent.

On its actual cost to the owner, the Robins are worth not much more than the Yankees paid for Babe Ruth, and if the profit is rated on the investment, the Robins probably have made as much money as the Yankees. Babe Ruth, of course, has paid, or will pay, for the Yankee stadium. But who is going to keep the big plant going when the Babe goes?

During the baseball meetings in Chicago last winter, Ebbets allowed the news to become public that he had offered $200,000 to the St. Louis Cardinals for Rogers Hornsby.

This was received with the greatest amusement, and it was the general opinion that Ebbets would have gone home dead if Branch Rickey had taken him up on the offer.

Ebbets insisted, however, that he was sincere. He said he had made money in Brooklyn and that he was going to reward his customers by putting some of it back in the club.

He did put some of the cash back into the team. He didn't spend a whole lot, because the player market is decidedly stagnant, but what he did spend certainly came back to him with a little to spare.

Ebbets is a smart baseball man and he has the valuable advice of "Uncle" Wilbert Robinson to help him in appraising the ability and value of players.

Another sock at a well-established theory would result from a Brooklyn victory. The idea that there must be a plentiful sprinkling of youth on a team may hold in many cases, but it doesn't go with the Robins. They have one of the oldest teams in the big leagues.

Zach Wheat, captain of the club, and a fine outfielder, is 36 years old, or more.

Ivy Olson is 39.

Vance, Reuther and Doak, mainstays of the pitching staff, are over 30.

Fournier, Johnston and Stock are past 30.

Tommy Griffith is 36.

Deberry is 30.

Johnny Mitchell, one of the youngest men on the club, is 26, and Ed. Brown is 29.

Roberts, Ehrhardt and Hollingsworth are youngsters, but they are far from the kid age.

The team is a combination of veterans, castoffs and minor leaguers. It is quite possible that no other manager but Wilbert Robinson could have made a pennant winner or a contender out of such material.

Robby got the results because he knows ball players and can handle them. He developed a winning combination only after he had experimented for more than a half season in getting the right players for the right places. He tried three combinations and it was not until July 26, when he placed Johnny Mitchell at shortstop, that he found a working organization.

LARGEST RADIO CONFERENCE TO MEET SEPT. 30

WASHINGTON, September 27. — (United Press.) — The 3rd National Radio Conference which convenes here on September 10th, will be the largest in the history of the national radio communication, according to reports issuing from the Department of Commerce.

Convened at the call of Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, the conference will have as its paramount object, the better voluntary regulation of radio. Two such conferences have already been held and the reports indicate that the result of these has been a lessening of friction and misunderstanding through the voluntary cooperation of the industry ,the public and the Department of Commerce.

Secretary Hoover said that the growth of radio and particularly the multiplication of broadcasting stations and the consequent congestion of the air has made necessary a consideration of many subjects and perhaps a revision of some present methods.

To be Considered.

Some of the matters which will be considered at the conference are:

(1) Revision of the present frequency of wave length allocations to reduce interference.

(2) Use of high frequencies or short waves.

(3) Classification of broadcasting stations; possible discontinuance of Class C stations.

(4) Interconnection of broadcasting stations.

(5) Limitation of power; division of time; zoning of broadcasting stations.

(6) Means of distinguishing the identity of amateur calls from foreign countries.

(7) Interference by electrical devices other than radio transmitting stations.

(8) Relations between Government and commercial services.

Groups Represented.

To facilitate the work of the conference the various groups in the radio field have named representatives who will constitute the advisory committee. Groups which will be represented are as folloys:

Listeners, Marine Service, Broadcsting, Engineering, Trans-oceanic Communication, Wire Inter-Communications, Manufacturers, Amateurs Point-to-Point Communication and government department.

Secretary Hoover plans on having public hearings at which all persons or organizations having suggestions to make or views to express on any features of radio activity will be given a chance to do so.

WARSAW MAN HURT

Joseph Myles Fell Backwards Into a Revolving Cylinder.

WARSAW, Sept. 27. — While working around a threshing machine on the farm of Wallace Anderson, near here, Joseph Myles fell into the back of a revolving cylinder. The quick action of William Hawthorne, who pulled Myles out of the danger zone, and Arthur Payne, who quickly reversed the engine, saved Myles from probably instant death. As it was he had his ankle badly crushed and was removed to Nicholls Hospital in the ambulance. The board on which Myles was standing broke and he fell backwards. The men around him shouted and drew the engineer's attention to his predicament. First aid was rendered on the spot. Dr. D. Munro was called.

BOUNDARAY ISSUE.

Legislation Will Be Passed Setting Up Ulster Boundary Commission.

LONDON, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Utterances of spokesmen for the Irish Free State and Northern Ireland on the boundary dispute assume grave tone as the time approaches for reassembling of parliament next Tuesday. At the session it is expected that Legislation will be passed providing for setting up of boundary commission.

Ulster Association to-day appealed to members of Parliament to vote against boundary commission bill and James McNeill, high commissioner of Free State in London, demanded the fulfillment of Anglo-Irish treaty by formation of a boundary commission. Alluding to recent utterances made in Northern Ireland, McNeill in a statement said: "Threats of violence by British members of Parliament are not helpful." "Those who adhere to the treaty and consented to killing of our friends to maintain this treaty, naturally regard with disfavor the visits of British legislators."

The Ulster Association in its appeal to Parliament to vote against legislation for boundary commission, says: "Ulster does not come to you to-day as suppliant asking favors. She comes as she has a right as a loyal daughter of the Imperial household, to ask you to see that justice is done."

DAYTON AIR CARNIVAL WILL HAVE SOME OF MOST HIGHLY PERFECTED MACHINES INCLUDING THE HUGE BARLING BOMBER

DAYTON, O., Sept. 27.—(United Press.)—The most highly perfected machines developed by science in its rapid conquest of the skies will fly over Wilbur Wright Field in the air circus in connection with the International Air Races October 2 to 4.

Heading the list lighter-than-air craft will be the great silver Shenandoah, the largest dirigible ever seen in this country and the largest in the world aside from the ZR-3, which is to be delivered to the United States shortly by Germany.

Largest Airplane.

In the heavier-than-air division will be the Barling Bomber, "Leviathan of the skies," which will fly each day of the race. The Barling is the largest airplane in the world. It is driven by six propellers which in turn are driven by six Liberty Motors of 650 horse-power each. It has room for 2,100 gallons of gasoline and was built to carry six tons of bombs.

Although it is a clumsy looking ship, the Barling rides an even keel and it is not uncommon for passengers—it will carry nine—to shave themselves while sailing along at 90 miles an hour.

The big bomber has been overhauled for its exhibition flights next month and has been painted silver to match its sister ship of the gas type, the Shenandoah.

Many Small Craft.

Contrasting with these two air monsters are dozens of smaller craft —ordinary observation balloons, pigmy flivvers, notably the "Skeeter,' 'a tiny airplane driven by a 17-1-2 horsepower motor which is capable of making 105 miles per hour on the economic fuel consumption of 20 miles to the gallon of gasoline

Orkneys Produce Strange Animals and Plants

KIRKWALL, Scotland, Sept. 27. —The Orkneys, which always have been a source of delight to scientists, have this summer been the playground for a party of Edinburgh zoologists who are introducing themselves and eventually the world to a number of new species of animal and fish life.

The investigators spent much time in tracing the development and learning the habits of a little known species of watersheep which is found only near the island of North Ronaldshay. These animals feed on seaweed and inhabit the beaches of the island. Nature developed for them legs from eight to ten inches longer than those of a normal sheep, which allows them to wade for food. As a result of their unusual diet their meat has a salty taste, their wool is particularly coarse and strong, and they grow larger than normal sheep.

Thee zoologists are also studying creatures known as "Sholties" and what are called "sea-anemones," both being found only in the Orkneys. The latter as yet are unclassified and have no scientific name. They are plants which grow on rocks and when covered by water open and spread out circles of leaves like dandelions, but when the tide is out they fold up and almost entirely disappear. They are not flowers, as their habits indicate a carnivorous animal existence. They kill their victims by poison and then devour them, and their leaves act as tentacles to grapple food.

SLEET IN WEST.

Drenching Rains Continued Over the Prairies Last Evening.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press.)—Drenching rains and sleet continued last night over the prairies following spectacular advances on the exchange, which are expected to be repeated for the October option if these unfavorable conditions for field work continue.

Not since 1904 has the autumn equinox brought such a heavy precipitation as at present. A week of high, dry winds, will be necessary before field work can be continued or grain moved in at country elevator points.

BATTLE ON BOAT.

What Investigating Officers Found In Vancouver

VICTORIA, B. C., Sept. 27. — (Canadian Press.)—Provincial police officers investigating the disappearance of Capt. Gillis and his son of Vancouver schooner Beryl G, reported to headquarters that they had found signs of a fierce battle on the boat.

Blood stains and bullet holes have found on the vessel and the police are satisfied that Captain Gillis and his son were murdered and their bodies thrown overboard.

Bishop Finds Moral Tone Of United States Improving

MANILA, Sept. 27.—Bishop John W. Robinson of the Methodist Episcopal Church, with headquarters in Bombay, India, thinks the moral tone of the United States is improving and that it is becoming a better place in which to live. He is returning to India after spending several months in the United States. He has lived more than thirty years in the far east.

"Greater charities are being announced," said the bishop, "mankind is more thoughtful of his neighbor, and more hospitals are being erected to care for the sick, making the United States a better place to live in. I visited all of the larger cities of the country, north, south, east and west and saw no drunken men. Christianity is strong throughout the counry, greater churches are being built, and more progress is being made."

MOST FEARED ORGANIZATION

MOSCOW, Sept. 27 (Associated Press) —To Russians the Cheka is the most-feared organization in Russia, the very mention of the name cannoting terror and ruthlessness. Its chief purpose is to suppress counter-revolutionary activities and to punish all who attempt to injure the present Soviet regime.

In a larger sense the Cheka resembles the American Secret Service or the English Scotland Yard, except it has much greater scope, exercises plenary powers, acts as "judge, jury and executioner," maintains its own army, prisons, and is all-powerful in every department of Russian life. There is no appeal from its decisions.

With the Red Army, the Cheka constitutes the most formidable weapon the Bolsheviks possess for maintaining themselves in power. No person, no group, no community, however influential, is strong enough to resist the all-embracing tentacles of the Cheka octopus which reach out to every nook and corner of Russia. The number of counter-revolutionaries and political prisoners it put to death during the revolution and terror runs into tens of thousands.

Since the late Premier Lenine introduced the so-called "new economy policy" of the government, the Cheka has been rechristened with a view to depriving it in the minds of the Russians of its sinister aspect. It now goes by the mild name of "state political department," or "G. P. U.," these being the initial letters of the Russian words. In it are employed many of the agents of the old Czarist secret service, whose knowledge of old political offenders is of special value.

The G. P. U. is the most highly organized and severely disciplined of all Societ institutions, and its members are the most devoted to the Communist cause. Any disclosure of its plans by an employe or agent would mean certain death. Its working force numbers hundreds of thousands of men and women. Every employe of every communistic institution throughout Russia is a potential agent or spy of the G. P. U.

Felix Djerzhinsky, the mild-speaking, soft-mannered Pole who brought the organization up to its present high state of efficiency, has been elevated to the chairmanship of the Supreme Economic Council, but he still directs the broad policy of the G. P. U.

Within the building serving as the G. P. U. headquarters is a great courtyard, along the sides of which are steel-barred cells. The occupants are regarded as the more dangerous of the political prisoners. They are awaiting either death or deportation to Siberia for life.

"COMMANDMENT BREAKER" WON SUCCESS BY WORK.

No other male picture actor has come more rapidly to the front the last six months than Rod La Rocque. It is curious that the bad young man of "The Ten Commandments" never had a chance to be a boy. For Rod, a product of the Middle West, was a child actor at five, vaudevillian at ten, and a "kid" screen heavy at sixteen. To-day at twenty-seven he puts a sincerity into his roles of gay and sportive youth that any idler might envy. In fact, his "Ten Commandments" commandment-breaker is such a hit that Paramount is starring him in "feature pictures."

Some profile "shots" of Rod La Rocque remind one of Rodolph Valentino, while a front view suggests the gleaming eyes and ruggedness of Monte Blue. At least, so some "fan" editors have doped it out, but it seems more likely to the common and garden folk that the young Chicagoan is chameleon in features and temperament, with malleability of both derived from his French forbears.

Being neither typical leading man, comedian nor villain, Rod had a hard row to hoe. He played stock in some of the flourishing mid-west Main Streets, next came to New York and "supported" Francine Larrimore, Alice Brady and Mae Nash in stage plays. After a season or two he was back in pictures which he had first tried as a "kid" at Essanay. With Mae Murray in "Jazzmania" and "The French Doll" he was entertaining, but still his metier had not yet arrived.

The coveted opportunity came at last when Cecil B. De Mille wanted to present in "The Ten Commandments" the don't-care, get-it-and-get-it-quick spirit of unrestrained youth of the post-war period. In young Contractor Dan McTavish of the Bible-named spectacle, Mr. De Mille gave La Rocque the gamut of emotions to play upon. In the play "The Ten Commandments" broke him. In real life "The Ten Commandments" made him.

THE GINGHAM GIRL.

"The Gingham Girl," one of the outstanding musical comedy hits of recent years will be the attraction at the Grand on Thursday evening, 2nd October, with a cast of noted comedians and vocalists who are seldom seen away from the stages of New York and Chicago. The piece is in three acts, magnificently mounted with scenic settings of exceptional splendour, twenty groups of appropriate costumes and costly furniture effects; the whole being enhanced by many new and novel electrical devices, creating indescribable scenes of exquisite beauty which is a feast for the eye and serves as a delightful background for the unusual love story and its entrancing musical score. The book is by Daniel Kusell, music by Alber Von Tilzer, lyrics by Neville Fleeson, dances originated and put on by Sammy Lee, and the whole staged by that wizard of the theatre, Edgar MacGregor.

There is a well defined plot dealing with the love affair of Mary and Johnnie, two young people who leave a small New England town and go to New York in search of fame. The characters are drawn from life which has a tendency to make the story ring true and the wholesome humour naturally bubbles forth radiating every scene.

Among the musical numbers in "The Gingham Girl" which catch the popular fancy and are whistled throughout every city where the piece is presented are: "The Down East Flapper," "The Twinkle in Your Eye," "As Long as I Have You," "Tell Her While the Waltz is Playing," "Sweet Cookie," and 11 other hits that have been broadcasted through the medium of the phonograph. At the end of each of the three acts, a finale is sung by the entire company, a pot-pourri of all the numbers in the piece serving as the finale at the end of the last act.

Youthful singing and dancing beauties are in the chorus, and the keynote of the performance is pep, and the spirit of youth.

This attraction comes here after scoring triumphs in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia.

WHO'S WHO IN THE THEATRE. ROBERT BRUCE MANTEL.

Born in Irvine, Ayrshire, Scotland, not far from the birthplace of Bobbie Burns, the poet. When five years of age his parents moved to Belfast, Ireland, where he attended school until he was 16. It was the intention to make of him a barrister, on account of a natural bent toward oratory, but success in amateur theatricals turned him to stage. He made his professional debut in the Theatre Royal, Rochdale, England, October 22, 1876. Two years later he came to America in the support of Mme. Modjeska, playing Tybalt in "Romeo and Juliet." After touring a season here he returned to England to play leading characters in Shakespearean productions given by Miss Ellen Wallis. In 1883 he took his first long step towards stardom in the character of Loris Ipanoff in "Fedora," with Miss Fanny Davenport. This was at the old 14th Street Theatre, in New York City, scoring such a success as led to his becoming a noted stellar attraction, presenting such romantic dramas as "Tangled Lives," "Monbars," "Corsican Brothers," "The Marple Heart," "The Face in the Moonlight," "The Dagger and the Cross," and "The Light of Other Days." He finally discarded the romantic drama for Shakespeare and the classics ad is to-day recognized as the leading exponent of historical tragedy, presenting a repertoire unsurpassed by any other tragedian. At the head of his own large and competent company of Shakespearean players he comes to the Grand opera house for Friday and Saturday, including a Saturday matinee, October 3rd and 4th. He will present "Richelieu," on Friday, 'As you Like It," Saturday matinee, and "Richard III" on Saturday night.

AT THE CAPITOL.

BEGINS WHERE OTHERS END

Stahl Production Opens at the Altar and Ends There Too.

"Why Men Leave Home," the John M. Stahl production which shows Monday and Tuesday at the Capitol Theatre, is a romantic drama which begins where most dramas end —at the altar.

It is not a story of courtship days, but a story of modern married life, a story of the lives of thousands of young American couples who let romance die the morning after they have said "I do."

We don't know where Stahl learned so much about life, but we know that he knows it as no other director does, and he portrays it in a human, simple manner, which makes you forget that it is only a picture He makes you live in it; he makes you breathe the very atmosphere of the scenes and gradually leads you to an unexpected climax, which makes you sorry that the picture can't continue many reels longer.

While the story is adapted from Avery Hopwood's satirical drama of every day married life, it possesses a distinctly Stahl touch because the director has eradicated the sting which Hopwood's play had on the stage. He has not shifted the burden of blame to either side, though he has given the woman the best of it—just as the women should have the best of it.

The all-star cast, which includes Lewis Stone, Helene Chadwick, William V. Mong, Mary Carr, Alma Bennett, selected with more than the usual care. It was selected for balance, for drawing power, for fitness to portray the roles and for a genuine artistry that cannot fail to appeal.

Stahl has a reputation for being a consistent producer of successful pictures, but none of his former productions, as successful as they have been ,can approach "Why Men Leave Home" for real drama, suspense and human interest. It stands out pre-eminently, even among Stahl productions.

The picture is one of the very best of First National's program this year.

BETTY COMPSON STAR IN PARAMOUNT SCREEN VERSION OF CYNTHIA STOCKLEY STORY, "DALLA, THE LION CUB"

A story of the African veldt with its hidden dangers, volcanic hates and cyclonic loves—that's "The Female," Sam Wood's latest Paramount picture, which comes to the Capitol, next Thursday. It's an adaptation of Cynthia Stockley's powerful novel "Dalla, the Lion Cub".

Cynthia Stockley knows Africa as well as the average person in a small town knows his Main street. Several of the works of this popular author have been screened, prominent among which have been "Pink Gods" and Ponjola." Her novels and stories are colorful, packed with tense, dramatic action and they lend themselves admirably to the screen.

In "Dalla, the Lion Cub," which for screen purposes has been rechristened "The Female", Miss Stockley tells the story of an ignorant, illiterate, unsophisticated little Boer girl, of great natural beauty and courage who becomes a dazzling, accomplished woman of the world, showing the aptness of her name, "the lion cub" by the ferocity with which she pursues joy and happiness, routes her enemies and forces the realization of her dreams.

It is a role that calls for an actress of marvelous beauty and finished ability—one who can portray a dual personality with sincerity and skill. Film fans will agree that Betty Compson was the ideal choice. It is a part exactly suited to her radiant personality. In support of Miss Compson, Director Wood has assembled a notable array of screen talent. The four featured roles are in the capable hands of Warner Baxter Noah Beery, Dorothy Cumming, and Freeman Wood.

WILLIAM FARNUM RETURNS TO SCREEN IN GREAT MELODRAMA

William Farnum, after having lived retired for some years, returns to the screen in "The Man Who Fights Alone", a powerful melodrama of life, in which this remarkable player has a typical Farnum role. Remembered for his many gifted interpretations in the past, "The Man who Fights Alone" will draw Mr. Farnum's admirers to the Capitol next Friday and Saturday to see his latest production. "The Man who Fights Alone" is a stirring action picture and has been well received by critics everywhere it has shown.

WHY DO PEOPLE GET DIVORCES?

By Helene Chadwick

(Leading player in Goldwyn's new Rupert Hughes' photoplay, 'Reno,' which comes to the Royal Theatre on Monday).

Divorces seem necessary. Not every marriage, as we know, can be a happy one, and certainly it is better that a couple discovering they have made a mistake be given a chance to start over again and have some hope of happiness.

But when the number of divorces each year reach the alarming number they have in American at present, it is patent that something is wrong somewhere. It is always interesting to consider reasons, her they have in America at present for this untoward condition that sees tens of thousands of homes broken up yearly.

Faults very often lie at home. I think many matrimonial difficulties might be averted if the husband and wife understood each other not simply as such, but as man and woman. There are certain things, call them psychological or what you will, that are inherent in the relations between man and woman that must not be overlooked. A realization of these facts, and the practice of a certain tolerance, would, I feel sure, result in a mutual understanding that would in some degree, at least, lower the number of divorce suits taken into court.

Consider how many couples, on the verge of divorce, have been reconciled in court by an understanding judge who opened their eyes to things to which they had been blind. But not all judges can weigh all cases, therefore it is necessary for the principals in the case to take on themselves the respousibility for sound judgment.

First, every woman should consider the quality a man demands in a wife, and sincerely endeavor to cultivate those qualities. Men are much the same in this respect, in their eyes a wife is a wife, and she must strive to be that.

Men are strange creatures. For all of being men, and strong, they are much like little boys, and like to be petted. But too much petting palls. On the other hand, they like a woman to ask advice of them, that they, the men, may look down from the magnificent heights of their superiority. For man does feel he is a superior being.

So, a wife should learn that her husband is not always in the same mood, and should consider when he wishes to be petted, and when he wishes to be the strong oak to which she clings for support. Too many wives regard their husbands in the light of an old shoe, which is always the same, and men do not like to be classed with outworn pedal adornments.

Husbands, on the other hand, very often, and too often, do not consider that a wife has a mind of her own, that she thinks and has ideas. She does not like these ideas always to be scorned as the wild fancies of some inferior being, incapable of thinking or acting for herself any more than she likes to have them treated with the condescending tolerance with which one treats the immature ideas of a child. She likes to be a baby to her husband at times, true, but there are other times when she must be taken seriously.

Therefore, it would seem a possible cure for many matrimonial ills is understanding and tolerance, practiced in the deeper sense of the words.

Anyway, I have been asked what I thought, and, that is what I think.

At the Royal, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday

AT THE CAPITOL

The "Ramblin' Kid," with Hoot Gibson in the stellar role, is the feature at the Capitol Theatre tonight. It opened last evening with an interested audience watching the adventures of a real Western cowboy, taking the central part in a rodeo that is the main event of the production. Doped by a rival, the cowboy goes through with a spectacular race on his great yellow horse.

So much cheap melodrama and so many hokum situations have been crammed down the throats of the motion picture public under the guise of "western plays" that many persons have become skeptical of screen dramas which savor of this brand.

It is a distinct relief to find a picture which rings true to the type and does not misrepresent. "The Ramblin' Kid," the Universal multi-reel feature starring Hoot Gibson, has been billed as a new kind of western. At any rate, it is a "real" western.

The picture fairly exhales the atmosphere of the western cattle country and the scenes of the big sweepstakes race at the Prescott rodeo, furnish a genuine thrill of the old time horse race when the best horse won. This race was carefully filmed and the photography, credited on the screen to Virgil Miller, is unusually clear. Other scenic shots in the picture are worthy of special mention.

Gibson's portrayal of the eccentric cowboy who worked alone and who acquired his title from the rest of the cowboys because of his habit of restlessness, is very natural and effective. The cowboy star has more than ordinary opportunity to display his dramatic talent and demonstrated that he really can act.

Edward Sedgwick, the director, evidently was looking out for his star. And he knew what the star could do, too. For one has no regret of the several close-ups. They are well done.

Laura La Plante is well cast as the sweet girl from the city who falls in love with The Ramblin' Kid and Harold Goodwin is excellent as "Skinny" Rawlins, the Kid's pal. Jack Dempsey, in the "Fight and Win" series, in an episode dubbed "So This is Paris," rounds out an excellent and entertaining programme.

LABOR SLIDES TO DEFEAT AT BRITISH POLL

Conservatives and Liberals Gird Themselves For the Coming Battle.

EXPECT COLLAPSE.

Party Failed To Produce the New World People Expected—Election Soon.

(Copyright, 1924, by the United News).

LONDON, Sept. 27.—Britain's first Labor Government is sliding to the end of its career.

Conservatives and Liberals alike to-day are preparing for a general election which, observers believe, will mark a futile and mild finish to the regime which entered into power with the vision of building a new world.

There is every indication that the general election may be precipitated within the next few weeks. New developments may possibly delay the election until next spring, but Britain knows that the days of its Labor rulers are already numbered.

The Laborites are attempting to prolong their stay in office in the hope that their waning prestige will flame up again.

The Opposition is awaiting what seems to be the fitting moment for scuttling Labor's craft.

In the early months of their power the Labor leaders sailed a triumphant course. Now they are among the rocks of a half dozen vexatious questions on any one of which they may be wrecked. They have found that governing Britain was not as easy as it seemed. Labor began by boasting that it would solve the country's problems on assuming power, but when the moment of assumption of power came the Labor leader found it impossible suddenly to change the Governmental system without Russianizing the country.

Within a few months after that day when, with beating drums and challenging colors, Labor entered office one of the Laborite Ministers goaded by Opposition taunts, pleaded that we "can't evolve schemes like a magician pulling rabbits out of a hat."

The Opposition knew this. The Opposition and the country in general realized that Labor had done its best, but members of the Labor leader's own party failed to see why Labor had not built its new world.

Representatives of the Order will be present from all parts of the district.

180,000 DIVORCES, ONE YEAR'S RECORD.

Do you know that:

Last year 180,000 new divorces parted 300,000 men and women and changed the lives of 1,000,000 children?

That in some states every third marriage is dissolved, and the average husband and wife live together only four years?

That in spite of the Constitution some states do not recognize divorces granted in other states?

That the 48 states have 48 divorce laws? South Carolina grants no divorces at all on any grounds; New York allows 1; New Hampshire 15. In the whole country there are 35 different grounds for divorce?

These are some of the interesting facts brought out by Rupert Hughes in his new Goldwyn production, "Reno," which comes to the Royal Theatre on Monday for a three days' engagement, with an all-star cast including Lew Cody, Helene Chadwick, Carmel Myers, Hedda Hopper, George Walsh, Rush Hughes, Marjorie Bonner, Dale Fuller, Kathleen Key and other leading players.

Major Hughes' story, written directly for the screen, deals with a vital question in a comprehensive manner. It indicates the desperate need for a uniform divorce law, and considers what compromises are possible between those who believe that divorce is the fatal disease of our life, and those who believe it is the cure-all for many evils.

Their many friends here will regret their departure, but will unite in wishing them success in their new field of labor.

LITTLE BOY SENDS PICTURE FROM WEST

The Examiner's Coloring Contest Draws Wide Attention—New Picture Next Week.

If there was a prize for distance in The Examiner coloring competition that is running every Wednesday on the Farm Page, it would be won this week by Arthur Williams, an eight-year-old boy who sends in a picture from Winnipeg. Arthur is entered in competition number two, which closes to-day.

Scores of entries are arriving every day for the competition, and the coloring of the pictures is improving. There is still a week in which to complete and send in the picture of a dog, number three.

On Wednesday next, on the farm page, will appear a new kind of picture. Just as a change from the animals, and there are still a horse, sheep, goat and others to come, The Examiner will print a pretty picture of a farm girl in a foreign country. This is a really attractive picture, and will give the young artists more room for variety than is to be found in the smaller pictures. The same list of prizes will be offered.

HELD CARD PARTY.

Under the auspices of the promoters of the Sacred Heart League, of the Immaculate Conception parish, a card party was held last evening in the parish hall, with about twenty tables filled. Prizes were won by Mrs. J. O'Toole and Mr. Wm. Welsh.

AMERICANS IN BATTLE ON THE CHINESE FRONT

Bloodless Action at Shanghai Recaptured Raided Property.

MARINES LANDED.

Counter Offensive By Chekiang Troops Drives Back Hsiang Army.

(By D. C. Bess, Unied Press Staff Correspondent.)

SHANGHAI, September 27. — American Marines went into action to-day in a bloodless battle with the Chekiang troops.

The Chinese, part of the badly shaken army of Lu Yung Hsing, had raided the Standard Oil Company compound here.

With Chi Hsieh Yuan's two armies virtually at the city gates, the Chekiangs are becoming increasingly difficult to control.

The raid on the American property, which is on Chinese territory, took place this morning.

The Marines were aboard the war vessels, which have been stripped for action in the harbour for a fortnight.

A landing party came ashore and made for the compound, routing the Chinese and disarming them.

The Americans were posted on guard at the Standard Oil property.

The battle lines between Huangdoo and Liuho were quiet to-day, while rumours o fa concerted drive on General Lu's army came in.

It was reported that Sun Chang Fang and Chen Wyo Yung were preparing a combined attack on Ges. Lu, one advancing from from Hang Chow and the other from Kashing. Along the Huangdoo and Liuho front both sides are strengthening their positions.

In some places the trenches are not more than 100 yards apart.

SHANGHAI DEFENDERS MOVE.

SHANGHAI, September 27. — Chekiang troops defending Shanghai started a terrific counter offensive today. Half of General Lu Yung Hsiang's entire army was thrown against the Kiangsus in a surprise attack.

The unexpected manoeuvre was effective, and Lu's troops made an advance toward Nanking.

Up to this this time, the opposing armies had been eyeing each other from trenches less than 100 yards apart, with Chi Hsieh Yuan, who had Lu surrounded, expected to take the initiative.

WAS RE-NOMINATED.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., September 27. —Governor Alfred E. Smith was yesterday unanimously re-nominated by the Democratic state convention.

The nomination came after a great demonstration lasting 15 minutes during which the delegates paraded and danced through the hall.

Wednesday night — What the Scriptures Say About Hell.

Thursday night — "What the Scriptures Say About Heaven."

Friday night—"What the Scriptures Say About the Gospel."

All invited.

MUSKALUNGE FISHING AT FRENCH RIVER CAMP.

In the fall when the 'lunge become voracious and the life of a young fish is worth practically nothing, the fisherman comes into his own. Fighters to the last gasp, the 'lunge is the one fish that one prays, will rise to the plug or minnow, and when he does—well, try and yawn. A hot shore dinner in the heart of the 'lunge territory, French River, a rest, and then a recounting of the day's sport around the open fire, is something one never forgets.

The beauty of the woods in autumn, the snappy morning atmosphere when one's blood runs faster, good fishing, warm bungalows electrically lighted and a clubhouse with a huge fireplace, music, dancing—all these may be had at French River Bungalow Camp which will remain open this year unutil 15th October following the request of patrons of the camp. The camp is only 215 miles north of Toronto, and any Canadian Pacific agent will gladly supply all information, make your reservations ,etc. An hour's communion with a hungry 'lunge is worth a lifetime listening to the other fellow tell about it. Think it over.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Sutton, of Montreal, are visitors in town.

The lady members of the Peterborough Golf Club held a field day on Thursday. The competitions were followed by the service of afternoon tea, attended by about thirty of the members, arrangements in charge of Mrs. A. H. Stratton and Mrs. A. E. Coulthard. Miss Florence Scott, the captain, supervised the contests. Miss Marjorie Hatton won the round, Mrs. R. Grant the driving competition, and Miss Norah Ely approaching and putting.

Mrs. R. Spratt and daughter Mary, of Lindsay, are guests of Mrs. H. A. Owen.

Miss Bessie B. Ross, who has been spending the past week in Stirling, the guest of Mr and Mrs. E. Morton, returned to her home to-day.

Mr. Alex. Kearney, Vancouver, B.C., is East on a visit to his father at Young's Point, and is visiting friends in the vicinity.

TRADE CONDITIONS.

Retail Sales Show Slight Improvement During the Week.

WINNIPEG, Sept. 27.— (Canadian Press.)—The weekly trade report to the Canadian Credit Men's Trust Association, Limited, states:

Halifax—Wholesale trade conditions are fairly good. Retail sales show a slight improvement, but no marked change is looked for until cooler weather sets in. Collections in most districts are continuing satisfactory.

St. John—Wholesale trade conditions are fairly good. Trade reports satisfatcory sales, Collections fair.

Montreal — Groceries fairly steady demand. Fruit and vegetable lines good, collections only fair. Drygood sales not completed.

A GOOD SUGGESTION.

A gentleman who was unfortunate to meet with an accident a few days ago, desires to draw the attention of automobile drivers to the danger of getting out of their cars on the left-hand side or the side away from the pavement. The gentleman states he was wheeling down George Street, and just as he was about to pass a standing car the driver opened the door and ran into it and the man, throwing him off his wheel and injuring him to some extent.

He suggests that drivers get out on the pavement at all times.

PRINCE SATISFIED.

Inspected the Cows and the Chickens and Wrote Home To Father.

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Sept. 27.—(Canadian Press).—Complete satisfaction with the condition of the ranch buildings and livestock was expressed by the Prince of Wales when he made his first inspection trip over his ranch Friday afternoon. Although somewhat fatigued by his four-day journey, and suffering from a severe cold in the head, the Prince, accompanied by General Trotter, Sir Walter Peacock and Prof. W. L. Carlyle, inspected his new buildings and rode his ranger for two hours. The Prince spent the remainder of the evening reading and smoking his favorite pipe. He also tuned in for a special radio concert from Calgary, and before retiring he wrote several letters. No visitors were received on the first day of his holiday.

CALEDONIAN CLUB MUSICAL EVENING

The Scots Have Opened Their Winter Programme.

The inauguration of the winter schedule at the Caledonian Club last Friday evening with a Whist drive was followed this week with a musical evening. Well over one hundred members and friends participated in the real old time character singsong in Victoria Hall last night. Mr. Wm. Grieve in his amicable style opened up the programme and the "Two Aristocrats", Miss Jessie Patterson and Miss Clark rendered a Scots comedy that was a merry-maker right through. During the evening Miss Grieves, Miss Gamble, Mr. Alex. Clark, Miss Patterson, Mrs. Alex. Anderson entertained with song. One artist in particular, Mrs. David Ross, amazed the company when she sang that most difficult piece "The Song that Reached my Heart", in a clear-cut tonal soprano voice with perfect enunciation. The gentlemen added spice to the programme as Mr. Brown, Mr. Laughlin rendered songs which was followed by Mr. Alex. Clark, who was heard to advantage in characteristic recitation of the small boy. At the end of the musical part, the energetic committee supplied refreshments. This is just one of the many social functions that the Scots club provide during the long winter months.

WEDDING BELLS.

SWANSTON—BURGESS.

A pretty wedding took place at nine o'clock this morning at St. Luke's Church, when Helen Beatrice, only daughter of Mrs. J. Burgess and the late J. Burgess, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony to Maxwell John Swanston, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Swanston. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Geo. J. Bousfield.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Mr. T. Harry Adams, to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Mr. W. Thompson. The sacred edifice was beautifully decorated for the occasion with a profusion of autumn leaves and asters.

The bride, who was unattended, wore a lovely frock of brown French crepe, with hat to match, and cinnamon fox fur, and carried a bouquet of yellow chrysanthemums. Witnesses to the signing of the register were Mr. James Burgess, brother of the bride, and Mr. W. S. Swanston, of Milwaukee, brother of the bridegroom.

After the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Swanston left by motor for London, Ontario, and other Western points, the bride travelling in a chic costume of pearl grey crepe, with hat and shoes to match.

The young people received many handsome gifts, among them a bridge lamp from the City Hall office staff, of which the bride was a popular member. The bridegroom, a member of the staff of The Peterboro Examiner, is well-known in sporting circles in the city, having been catcher in the Central Ontario Baseball League for some years.

Out-of-town guests present for the ceremony were Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Swanston, of Milwaukee, and daughter, Betty Jane, and Mr. and Mrs. Irwin, of Rochester, N.Y.

FERGUSON—WESTON.

The marriage of Samuel Ferguson and Kate Violet Weston, both of return will reside in Peterborough.

Rev. Mr. Langford at the home of the bride, on Monday, 22nd September, at 3.30.

The young couple were unattended and the ceremony was witnessed only by the immediate friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left on the 3.50 train for Toronto, and on their Women School Teachers of the City Unite in Resolution.

At the annual meeting on Friday afternoon, the Women Teachers' Guild declared itself strongly in favor of the O.T.A. This resolution was very unanimous, as it was felt to be in the interests of good citizenship, and of the present and future welfare of the boys and girls. The women teachers of this city, coming into contact with hundreds of children and their homes, feel they can unite with teachers through out the entire Province, in proclaiming that the Ontario Temperance Act has been a most vital factor in making many a home safer, happier and more comfortable for its children.

MACDONALD WILL GO TO COUNTRY IF CENSURED ON RUSSIAN TREATY

Premier in Sharp Speech at Derby Defies Liberal or Tory To Say Prestige of Britain Has Suffered Under Labor Administration.

NAVY NOT OFFERED TO LEAGUE

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald, speaking Saturday at Derby, dared the House of Commons to censure the Government over the Russian treaty. If it did the Government would go from the House to the public platform, he said, but he did not believe that the country wanted to break with the present Labor regime.

As for the loan the Prime Minister declared that it would be largely spent in this country, and in explaining that Parliament would be asked to fix its conditions hinted that it might be in the neighborhood of £30,000,000.

Mr. MacDonald also called for fair play for both Northern and Southern Ireland, and in asking for moral courage in dealing with the peace problem at Geneva denied explicitly that the British navy had ever been offered to the control of the League of Nations.

Hits at Winston Churchill.

The Prime Minister began by referring to Winston Churchill's recent speech as a constitutionalist and anti-Socialist. He said Mr. Churchill was always lively in inverse proportion to his sense. He had not, he said, had time to read Mr. Churchill's speech, because he had been too busy wiping up the mess of his predecessors.

"I defy Liberal or Tory to say that the name of the country, the reputation of the country, the position of the country in the eyes of the world have suffered in the least degree by the existence of the Labor Government.

"When the Labor Party went into office black flags were flying half mast high, and it was predicted that grass would soon be growing in our streets. Lord Rothermere had one eye on the workhouse and the other on an asylum. It was all delicious rubbish they talked then. They are now beginning to get afraid because we have not ruined the country."

Mr. MacDonald attacked Sir Robert Horne for his predictions of trade distress.

"Our political opponents," he complained, "have been telling business men that the Labor Ministers were not honest. They have maligned and slandered us and even our personal characters have not been sacred. Let them have it. But I give them this warning: We have forgotten nothing and we shall forget nothing."

The Prime Minister contended that Labor had done well in office. If it had not entirely succeeded it had tried.

"We have moved some things," he said, "but some things have not been moved."

Irish Boundary Question.

Then taking up the Irish boundary question, the Prime Minister said the fact was that the treaty had been found unworkable. Oh, if his opponents could have brought against him the accusation that he had executed the treaty proved to be unworkable! He appealed to Tories, to Liberals and to Labor to come together and for the sake of the honor of the country secure a settlement of the bargain solemnly entered into with Southern and Northern Ireland.

"Not Ulster," cried some one in the audience.

"Oh, yes," retorted the Premier, "Ulster has got to be dealt with as fairly as Southern Ireland."

Speaking of Geneva Mr. MacDonald said:

"There are difficulties—great difficulties. There is difficulty about security. Nevertheless militarism—force secure nothing. This nation was on a terrible brink when it was asked to sign a treaty of mutual guarantee. That is past. The thing we have got to do is to outlaw war."

Mr. MacDonald emphasized the need of moral courage and the need of steady progress until the problem is solved. He denied that the British Government had mortgaged the British navy to the League of Nations. The nations of the earth, he said, must be led into such a state of confidence as would enable them to take paper risks, which, after all, were negligible risks. They must go steadily forward, doing all they could to attain world peace. Arbitration, he urged, was a definite step. It was not an opinion but a fact.

In denouncing Tory propaganda against the Russian treaty, Mr. MacDonald said he was no more Bolshevik because he wished to make peace with Russia than peace with Turkey would make him Mohammedan. The Government in its Russian negotiations had stood at all times for certain definite principles.

Then Mr. MacDonald explained certain features in the proposed treaties. The Treaty of Commerce and Navigation gave England the most-favored-nation clause, which had always been refused her. She had obtained other valuable concessions and "when you are making a bargain you don't always get your own way, not even with your wives." The general treaty would re-open the Russian market to British merchandise and restrain, in fact put an end to propaganda. The treaty also provided for claims and loans. For some time British Governments had been trying to get Russia to admit her debts and to agree to the setting up of machinery to fix liability, but in these British Government had failed. The Labor Government had succeeded in both.

Puts Blame on Lloyd George.

"Don't forget the real facts," proceeded the Prime Minister. "If you blacken a man's eye you are expected to compensate him. I can let the cat out of the bag. One of the difficulties of settling with Russia is the legacy of Lloyd George. He levied war upon Russia and Russia is putting in a counter-claim upon us. Some of Lloyd George's acts are still having a serious effect upon the international affairs of Europe.

"What could we do? We have not settled claims, but we have drafted a document which we believe will settle these claims. We are not giving a loan to Russia. All we have done is to guarantee a loan, which is a little different, and the amount, terms, conditions and purposes to which the loan is to be applied were all set forth and provided for. Then what is all this bother about? It is said that the loan is to be for a hundred million. Not a third of that amount was ever mentioned. The sum of one hundred millions was mentioned because that was the amount Lloyd George had on his conscience.

"The loan is to be used for construction only. The loan which the Russian Government hopes to raise on the guarantee of the British Government will be largely spent in the purchase of material and goods in this country. It is a business arrangement. It is not complete, but it is a beginning.

"If we are to have Europe pacified you cannot have large countries outside the co-operating nations. We cannot bring peace to Europe if we leave Russia out. That is the biggest reason for these Russian treaties. We shall not ask the House of Commons for a blank cheque. We shall state the amount and we shall ask Parliament to decide the conditions under which it will guarantee the loan, how it shall be spent and the securities that must be demanded.

"Our opponents say they will not have these treaties. Very well so be it. Those opposed to these treaties are opposed to a settlement with Russia and trade with Russia. If the House of Commons will not allow us to make these treaties the House of Commons had better censure us. Office is a great honor, but office has burdens; a grandeur very soon goes and drudgery accumulates, which stays. Still, it is a great thing to have served one's country.

"If the House of Commons says we must go, in the words of one of my friends it will be a happy message. But I do not think that the country wants a break. If we are forced to go we shall go from the floor of the House of Commons to the public platform."

THE WEATHER

The dry weather of the past two weeks was brought to a close Sunday evening by a heavy downpour which continued all the night, and at time of writing is still falling heavily. The total for last night alone was 1.90, or a fraction less than two inches. The "probs" on Saturday foretold "showers," but this time they were a little astray, unless a deluge can be classified as a shower. In the course of a twelve months, 90 to 95 per cent. of the probs. come true, wholly or partially, but more errors are made in the spring and fall than at other seasons. When they prove correct little notice is taken of the fact. When they prove incorrect—well, the error appears most glaring.—W.P.

Miss Vera Micheles had to leave Russia with her family when revolutionists started shooting up the nobility. Instead of becoming a lady in waiting to the Czarina she became a college girl in America—at Radcliffe. She's just won the highest position there for herself, being elected president of the Student Government Association and making Phi Beta Kappa.

BELIEVE DRIVER INTENDED TO KILL

Struck Wife and Ran Over Man With Her On Sidewalk.

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., Sept. 29.—Smylie Muirhead, 35, of this city, was killed at four o'clock on Saturday afternoon, it is believed by the police, by Frank Barned, 26 years of age, 7 Horn street, London, Ont., and Ruth, wife of Barned, had her right leg broken.

Barned, it is alleged, ran close to his wife, stopped and spoke to her then a few minutes afterwards mounted the sidewalk with a heavy car, struck Muirhead who rolled over and over, drove right over him and struck Mrs. Barned. He then drove away.

The alarm was given and the car was found, a few minutes afterwards, with the front smashed near the lower bridge. Mr. Muirhead, his wife and Mrs. Barned were walking together when the affair happened. The Barneds have been separated for two years, she having been engaged in teaching at Queenston.

She had been living with Mr. and Mrs. Muirhead here. A description of Barned has been sent broadcast, and it is believed his arrest will be effected soon, as he is easily recognized. He walks with a pronounced limp, having an iron brace on his right leg.

LATIN STUDENTS BEST.

American Classical League Says They Lead in Other Studies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 29.—Students who include Latin in their school curriculum show superiority over non-Latin students in other subjects, it has been found by the American Classical league, which today made public the third instalment of its report based on an inquiry which was conducted over a period of several years. The margin of superiority of the Latin group of students included in the survey as a whole is about 13 per cent., the league finds.

Bookkeeper of Cowan Chocolate Co. Arrested at Brockville.

BROCKVILLE, Ont., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—On a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $4,900 from the Cowan Chocolate Co., Montreal, for which he is said to have been a bookkeeper, Bertram Cecil Smith 23, and unmarried, was arrested here early Sunday morning in a lodging house by Montreal and Brockville police. He has been here for the last ten days.

C.O.B.L. UMPIRE DROWNED SUNDAY

Frank Hallinan Met Death When Car Plunged Into Toronto Bay Sunday Night.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Frank J. Hallinan, well-known baseball umpire in amateur, "semi-pro." and professional leagues, was drowned at 7.05 Sunday night when the sedan car he was driving plunged into the bay at the foot of George Street. At first the police believed three persons were in the car, but late last night Superintendent Lang of the life-saving crew, who dragged the water in a slip until ten o'clock was satisfied Hallinan was alone in the car.

Mrs. Vera Gibson, who was looking out of a window of her home at the foot of George Street at the time, was the first to discover the accident. She told the police she was attracted by the speed of an automobile passing her home. Fearing something was wrong, she looked out of the door and saw the car go into the water. She communicated with the police.

GAVE LIFE FOR DOG

C. P. R. Station Agent Tried To Save It From Train.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont., Sept. 29.—Harry F. Parks, station agent for the C.P.R., was instantly killed at Walford, when he ran in front of an oncoming C. P. R. freight train to save his dog, which was standing on the tracks. Mr. Parks was standing talking to another man on the station platform when his little girl called his attention to the fact that the dog was standing in front of the train. He jumped to save the animal and the train passed right over his body, mutilating it beyond recognition. The other man did not know the train had struck Parks until the cars had gone by. Parks had been in the employment of the C.P.R. for 15 years.

IRISH BOUNDARY BEFORE BRITISH HOUSE TUESDAY

Premier Has Declared Government Will Stand or Fall on Measure.

MAY BE STORMY

Partisans of North and South Prepare to Battle Over Boundary.

LONDON, September 29. — Parliament comes back to Westminster on Tuesday in an atmosphere reminiscent of the old days when Irish affairs could produce a crisis overnight in British politics.

Although the boundary dispute between the Free State and Northern Ireland has not yet reached the crisis stage, the unreconciled sections of Ireland appear determined to stereotype the differences which have so long divided them, and there seems no way out of their difficulties except with British Parliamentary aid.

While other grave problems await Parliamentary solution, the Irish boundary dispute is the only one demanding immediate consideration, although the Labour Government's treaty with Soviet Russia is due for bitter opposition when it receives the scrutiny of the House of Commons. It may be subject to hostile questions, but its disposition is to be deferred until Parliament resumes deliberations on 23rd October after a recess when the Irish Bill is disposed of.

By common consent it has been arranged that Parliament's immediate business will be confined to the enactment of legislation necessary to enable Great Britain to name the Boundary Commissioner who will represent Northern Ireland, thereby meeting the deficiency occasioned by the North's flat refusal to name its own Commissioner.

The Labour Government anticipates the overwhelming support of the Liberals for its Irish Bill, and it is expected that the measure will be passed through all its stages in the House by Friday night. The House will then adjourn to await the action of the House of Lords.

Although the Boundary Bill is bitterly opposed by the Conservative members from Northern Ireland, and likewise a bitter pill for most British Conservatives, it is pointed out that the political expediency probably will render anything but perfunctory opposition improbable on the part of the Conservatives.

Government Stands or Falls on Bill.

Premier MacDonald has declared that he will stand or fall on the Irish measure and this, according to the Labourites, would mean a general election should the Conservatives in the House of Lords delay or amend the Bill.

Accordingly, it is not expected that the Conservative opposition in the Commons will go to the length of submitting an official motion for the rejection of the Bill, although such a motion may come from a private member sympathetic with Northern Ireland's opposition to the Boundary Commission.

The Cabinet meets to-day to discuss the Irish measure, but it is expected that its consideration will be only perfunctory, as the Government claims it has ample votes for the passage of the Bill. The Cabinet, therefore, is expected to devote most of its time to India, where a grave state of affairs still exists.

While the attack which Mr. MacDonald's enemies are planning on the Russian Treaty must be deferred for a month, it is entirely in order that the Premier will be subjected to hostile questions as soon as the opportunity presents itself next week.

Besides the problems involving the Irish boundary and the Russian Treaty, which have recently become grave, the situation occasioned by Turkish incursions into Iraq also is regarded as dangerous. Iraq undoubtedly will be a subject for interrogation, as well as the conversations which Mr. MacDonald is now carrying on with the Egyptian Premier, Said Zaghlul Pasha, concerning the future of the Soudan and other kindred British-Egyptian questions.

Mr. MacDonald's Derby speech on Saturday indicated this, and also the manner's settled determination to defend himself against the fierce attacks being levelled against the Russian compact.

TORONTO FIREMEN JAILED SATURDAY

Four Firemen Charged With Arson Arising Out of Series of Alarming Fires.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—On charges of arson arising out of a series of alarming fires which had kept the district in trepidation for weeks, three members and one ex-member of Kennedy Heights volunteer fire brigade in Scarboro Township were arrested on Saturday afternoon and placed in custody at the Don Jail. One of the prisoners is captain of the brigade, Jack Wormington, and others are First Lieutenant Alex. Moore, Roy Wormington and Charles McGlade.

The arrests were made by Constable Hammer of the Provincial Police, following information laid by Fire Marshal E. P. Paton, who states that from two of the prisoners he has obtained written confessions implicating others.

Thirst for glory, coupled with the desire to impress upon the community the need for better fire-fighting equipment was the motive to which the Fire Marshal ascribed the alleged crimes.

BIG DIRIGIBLE'S ATLANTIC TRIP OCTOBER 5 OR 6

ZR-3 Undergoes Final Overhauling for Air Flight to United States.

BIG CRAFT READY

Will Carry 30 Tons of Gasoline—Warships to Observe Weather.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Germany, September 29. — Preparations for the trans-atlantic flight of the ZR-3, the Zeppelin-built giant dirigible which is to be turned over to the American Navy after its voyage across the sea to Lakehurst, N. J., are to begin immediately in anticipation of beginning the long air journey on October 5 or 6th.

One of the first tasks in equipping the big airship for its history making trip will be taking on board of 30 tons of gasoline and 800 lbs. of food for the crew and the Americans who will be on board. The work of overhauling the dirigible will begin at once. One of the motors will be taken down and minutely inspected for flaws by the technicians.

During Friday's rain, when the ZR-3 was returning to Friedrichshafen from her successful trial trip over Germany, the huge envelope absorbed several tons of water. Several days will be required for the envelope to dry out. By next Saturday Dr. Hugo Eckener, director of the Zeppelin Company, in charge, expects that everything will be spick and span for the departure.

It was announced that the weather prospects were good for the early part of October. Word was received to-day that three American war vessels would be stationed points on the Atlantic route for the purpose of keeping the dirigible navigators advised of weather conditions.

Lieutenant Commander Garland Fulton, the American naval officer, who has been observing the construction of the giant dirigible by the Zeppelin Company, had advised Washington that the airship will start for America within seven or eight days.

SHIPS ORDERED TO OCEAN.

WASHINGTON, September 29. — The airship ZR-3 is expected to sail for the United States in about a week, the navy department was advised by radio from Captain George Bootlegging Under Government Control.

"GIVE us Government Control, and this will wipe out The Bootlegger"—so declare those who are opposing the O.T.A.

But will it?

British Columbia has Government Control. Let us see how it works:—

H. H. Stevens, M.P., in a recent public address in Vancouver, said:—

"Never in the history of this Province was Bootlegging comparable in magnitude and murderous results to what it is to-day."

He quoted the case of "one man who got 60 barrels of beer in one month: another got 169 in the same period. A woman appeared in Court in a suit to recover $18,000 from her partner in the Bootlegging business, as her share of the profits of 16 months' sales"!

He added, "Drinking Clubs have sprung up, like mushrooms, everywhere. Hundreds of them exist all over the Province."

Where do the Bootleggers get their liquor?

Some obtain it from the Government Dispensaries to sell to people who have no permits. All who buy from the Dispensaries must pay $5.00 per year for a Customer's permit.

But a much greater number import the liquor direct from other Provinces, or from across the sea. And still others distil it for themselves.

BOOTLEGGING FLOURISHES IN MANITOBA

They have had Government Control in Manitoba for less than a year. Already bootlegging and the ill-legal sale of liquor have become so flagrant it is a public scandal. In an effort to control it the Government was forced to change some if its regulations. In this connection the Winnipeg Free Press said recently:

"The brewers did not make even a pretence at observing the spirit of the law. Beer was being sold illegally and in large quantities in Winnipeg hotels, and brewers could not but have known that they were parties to the lawbreaking that was going on. They had a good thing in the legal sale of beer, but that was not enough for them. They had no regard for the law of the people."

HEAVY PENALTIES IMPOSED

In another copy of a Winnipeg paper appeared an account of one day's proceedings in the Police Court during which one bartender received a three month's sentence for a first offense for illegal selling, the paper adding: "Magistrate Macdonald in delivering sentence remarked on the prevalence of illegal selling and the necessity for stern measures to put a stop to the practice." The magistrate went on to fine two men $200 and costs and another man $300 and costs, one of the three being charged with having liquor in other than a private residence. Still another man was charged with illegally keeping liquor for sale.

The fact is there is less ill-legal selling and bootlegging in Ontario than in any other province in Canada. Therefore vote for the O.T.A.

COLD TIPS GIVEN TO BANK MANAGER

Manager of Union Bank Branch In Toronto Framed For $30,000 of Bank's Money.

HAMILTON, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)—Officials of the Union Bank of Canada are determined that hand-book operators alleged to have "framed" John F. McLelland out of large sums of bank's money by handing him tips on "cold ones" shall be brought to book.

McLelland was a former branch manager for the Union Bank at King street and Spadina avenue, Toronto. He is charged with having embezzled $30,000 of the bank's funds. When asked how he disposed of the money he is alleged to have said that he "wasted it on horses."

At the instigation of officials of the Union Bank, John V. Baird, a young clerk in a Hamilton hotel, near where, the police say, handbook was conducted, was arrested in Buffalo yesterday.

Baird was arrested on a warrant, charging him with stealing over $5,000 in money of the Union Bank of Canada within a period of six months and also with obtaining over $10,000 from the bank by false pretenses.

When arrested, Baird is credited with having stated that the money obtained from McLelland was won honestly in a gambling game.

HELD GOOD DEBATE.

Peterboro Debaters Lost Out In Contest With Victoria County.

LINDSAY, Sept. 29. — Messrs. Murray Smith and Archie Tolmie, of Woodville, brought honor to Victoria County on Friday when they met two clever young debaters from Peterboro County and were successful in winning a decision.

The debate was held in connection with the Inter-County debates arranged throughout the province by the U. F. O. Young People's Clubs. The Victoria County debaters first won in a very keen series of debates in this county and then were drawn against Peterboro County. It is expected that they will meet debaters from some county to the west of Lindsay, and the Post joins with their many well wishers in hoping that their success will be continued.

Friday night's debate took place at Centreville, on the Peterboro-Port Hope Provincial Highway. The hall was well filled with an interested audience and the sole judge was Mr. Melville H. Staples, M.A. The subject named by the head organization was: "Resolved that private enterprise had made greater contribution to the world's progress than co-operative enterprise." Messrs. Douglas Devell and Harry Campbell of Centreville championed the cause of Peterboro County and had the negative side, while the Victoria County team took the affirmative side.

Both sides debated carefully and well, but the decision finally went to Victoria. The judge was quite frank and fair in his criticism and commended the local debaters on their decisiveness, their clear-cut logic and their method of substantiating arguments by quoting and referring to well-known authorities.

Among those present from this section were Mr. and Mrs. F. G. Sandy of Omemee, A. J. Mark, Rev. Dr. Morrow and C. Rich of Oakwood, Rev. E. Rowland of Omemee and Newton Smale and Caleb Smith of Lindsay.

ABSENT 31 YEARS.

Canon Loucks Recalls Some of the Events In His Active Life.

A visitor to the city over the week-end who was hailed with joy by many of the older residents was Rev. Canon Walter M. Loucks, M.A., rector of All Saints' Church in the city of Winnipeg, who spoke at the harvest festival in All Saints' Church yesterday.

It is thirty-one years since Rev. Canon Loucks left Peterborough, and, as he says himself, when he left he felt that his heart was broken. As his train pulled out of the station, he gazed with sorrowful eyes at the Ashburnham hill, and the three tall masts which then adorned it, until the last vestige of the city was lost to sight.

Speaking at the morning service at All Saint' yesterday, the Canon referred to the excellent health he had enjoyed throughout his whole life, his only illness being a slight one when here, when the "kind nursing at Nicholls Hospital" afforded him a quick recovery. The three outstanding sorrows of his life, he asserts, have been the occasions when he was compelled to leave his churches and go to other charges.

Peterborough was the scene of the Canon's first clerical labours. From 1890 to 1893 he was curate of St. John's here, and, with Ven. Archdeacon Davidson, pulled down with his own hands the old rough-cast building which stood where All Saints' Sunday School now stands, and helped to erect the little mission, which was the commencement of the present All Saints' Parish, opened on 22nd anuary, 1917.

From 1893 to 1902, Rev. Mr. Loucks was priest-vicar of Christ Church Cathedral, Ottawa, and another sorrow met him when he left this charge and went as rector to St. Matthew's Church, Ottawa, where he stayed until 1913, removing at that time to Winnipeg, where he is Rural Dean and rector of All Saints' Church.

Rev. Canon Loucks, a fine-looking man with white hair sweeping back from a high forehead, bright blue eyes twinkling behind glasses, in suit of dark tweeds and a clerical collar, brisk alert, active, admitted his age as fifty-five, "but I don't look it do I?" he said, and he certainly does not. He recalled many old friends of former days, among them the late Father Rudkins, Mr. Harry Rush, and Mr. Walter Stocker, and John Adlam, for long a familiar figure on the streets of Peterborough, and one of the Canon's first converts.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK.

The annual Fire Prevention Week is announced to begin a week from today, and communities are expected to accentuate the necessity of greater interest in eliminating fire hazards and in reducing the danger to life and property from this source.

Peterborough's record during the past few months so far as fires are concerned has been excellent, but we cannot afford to rest on our oars.

Eternal vigilance is the price of safety from fire losses, and it is the duty of every citizen to co-operate with the Fire Department in rendering Peterborough as far as possible immune.

There are many ways in which this co-operation can be provided, and some of the most important will be outlined during Fire Prevention Week.

The most effective as well as the most simple assistance that the average citizen can offer, of course, is based on the foundation of cleanliness.

If cellars, attics and sheds are kept free from rubbish of an inflammable nature one of the most threatening of fire hazards will be completely obliterated.

The fire prevention campaign is a movement that merits general support, and the Examiner therefore calls the attention of its readers to the significance of next week's effort.

A COMMUNITY LOSS.

The long, long cortege of automobiles that followed the remains of Noble Kelly to their last resting place on Saturday was more eloquent testimony to the affection and regard in which he was held by the people of this district than any printed words could be.

In the passing of Mr. Kelly Peterborough has lost a citizen of sterling worth, and hundreds of people in the city and county have lost a warm-hearted friend.

He enjoyed among his old neighbors in Bridgenorth and among his newer acquaintances in this city almost unique hold upon their affection and esteem.

Quite, unassuming, always ready to help a good cause, always accepting the Golden Rule as his guide in his business relations, never oblivious to the rights of others, Noble Kelly was a model citizen.

In his short residence in Peterborough he had made himself of most valuable service to a number of useful activities. His qualities were prized by the Rotary Club, he was President of the Peterborough Riving Club and a hard-working Director of the Peterborough Industrial Exhibition. He will be missed in these organizations, as he will be missed by his legion of friends in Peterborough and throughout the whole district.

PREPAREDNESS AND PEACE.

Arthur Brisbane, as editorial writer for the Hearst papers in United States, has the largest audience of any writer in United States. As an example of peace because of preparedness a few days ago he cited the case of Jack Dempsey, and said:

"Those that consider preparedness and defence day a menace to peace, please notice this:

"Jack Dempsey is prepared. If you doubt it pull his nose. As he went through thick crowds last night everybody knew him, everybody was POLITE. Nobody slapped him or insulted him, and he didn't hit or insult anybody. HE'S PREPARED, and people let him alone. He lets them alone unless they get in the ring with him.

"As it is with individuals, so with nations. When they are prepared they have peace."

Very picturesque, no doubt, but faulty just the same, says the London Advertiser. If Dempsey were in a crowd and came out safely, does it indicate anything? He got no better treatment than the others who made up that crowd. No person started a fight, no person was kicked in the shins, and no person's nose was pulled.

The Toronto Star admits that Dempsey is prepared, but asks "What does he do?" His job in life is to look in every direction for somebody to fight with, whose block he can knock off, and pull in fifty or a hundred thousand dollars as a reward for his superior state of preparedness. What is the use of his prowess if he doesn't use it, how does he know he has more of it than others if he doesn't go out and prove it?

As it is with Dempsey, so it is with nations—if they are prepared to lick anybody on earth they don't want to hear a chirp from anybody or they'll knock 'em out and take three-quarters of the gate receipts and the moving picture rights.

"GOD KNOWES."

It is not improbable that the bob-hair "phantasy," as we alientists may be inclined to call it, is a matter of cycles. In a spirit of levity, it might even be said that it has all the appearance of having been attained by application of sickles, but let that pass. The main point is that bob-hair is not new or original with this age or moment, nor is the wrath it excites without precedent.

As far back as 250 years ago, we learn from a letter written by John Chamberlain of London—John was some writer in his day—the women of England went on such a short-hair debauch as to reduce "their men folks, and even royalty," to a state that was "almost frantic." Indeed, the indignant and outraged King ordered the Bishop of London to call his clergy together "to inveigh vehemently against the insolencies of our women, and theyre wearing of brode brimed hats, pointed dublets, theyre hair cut short or shorne." In addition and significantly, the King gave it out straight that, "if pulpit admonitions will not reform them, I will proceed by another course."

Mr. Chamberlain was so sadly impressed by the conduct of the clipped women that he closed his lugubrious letter with this comment on the situation and the King's order: "The truth is, the world is very much out of order, but whether this well mende it God knowes."

That, mind you, was 250 years ago—in 1680 to be exact—and here we are again. The world thenadays, as it had been from the moment Adam and Eve violated the law of domicile, was galloping toward the devil despite the efforts of its disturbed royalty and frantic men. Today, short-sighted, short-changed and short-haired, it is doing the same thing again, or yet, according to those who claim to know. Always, always headed for the devil. And what "will mende it God knowes."

A REAL MENACE TO ONTARIO.

In the heat of the present battle between the advocates of the retention of the Ontario Temperance Act on one hand the people who believe in the efficacy of Government control on the other, there is danger of one phase of the drink problem being lost sight of altogether.

The reference is to the sale on a fairly large scale of strong beer over the bar in hotels in Toronto and elsewhere throughout the Province.

That there is such sale there cannot be any doubt.

The weight of testimony goes to show that the traffic is being carried on with rather startling boldness.

The plebiscite to be taken next month has no bearing upon this matter, for whether the Ontario Temperance Act remains or Government control be adopted it seems assured that the sale of strong beer will go on until a more vigorous and more effective method of stamping it out is adopted by the authorities.

The vast majority of the people of Ontario, the Examiner feels certain, would vote against any proposal to restore the open bar.

Yet the plain truth of the matter seems to be that to a considerable extent the bar is in operation again and under conditions far more serious than when its traffic was legalized.

When the bar was licensed there were restrictions as to hours, and the penalties for the violation of these regulations and for the sale of liquor to minors were severe enough to make most hotel proprietors keep within the law.

The condition that Ontario is facing now is that strong beer is being sold with no such restrictions as to hours.

Standard hotels may operate their refreshment counters all night and all day Sunday if they wish, so that the hotels engaging in the illicit traffic are under no restraint such as existed under the old system.

And boys in their 'teens have no particular difficulty in purchasing strong beer in such places.

Whatever the result of the plebiscite there should be a determined effort to check the development of this dangerous trade.

If Ontario does not want the old licensed bar back much less does Ontario want the sale of beer over the bar with all the restrictions that governed the licensing of hotels removed.

The expansion of this traffic is a real menace in this Province, and the evidence seems to indicate that there is expansion along these lines.

It should be stopped at any price.

THE WORK OF THE LEAGUE.

While the League of Nations may not have accomplished all that its founders expected, it had already more than justified its existence before the Fifth Assembly convened at Geneva. Of its activities during the first four years Professor Archibald C. Coolidge, of Harvard University, in a recent issue of "Foreign Affairs," in an article on "Ten Years of War and Peace," writes as follows:

"The league has in truth assumed a tremendous sum of responsibilities as well as of aspirations. The difficulty of the task has been added to by the incorporation of the covenant into the peace of Versailles. The motives which dictated this step were of the highest and in keeping with the idea of 'the war to end war,' but the results have been disadvantageous to both league and peace treaty. The combination of the two has among other things increased the suspicion which the majority of the voters in the United States felt towards the whole work of the peace conference and has helped to keep us out of the league which we took such a part in forming. Our refusal to honor President Wilson's signature was a blow as stunning as it was unexpected. That the league has survived is strong testimony to its vitality. Although people differ about the importance of—its actual achievements, in its comparatively crippled condition, and contrast them with the dreams of world regeneration which it was to have made real, no one can deny that whatever it has accomplished has been unselfish and for the good of humanity. To Soviet Russia the league may be an embodiment of the evil bourgeois spirit, to the United States it may be an association of foreign idealists who wish to meddle in our business, to Latin America it may mean chiefly an opportunity to take part in the general affairs of the world free from the aegis of the United States, but to much of Europe it represents the one hope of the future against the recurrence of the disasters which have brought her to the verge of ruin."

The Fifth Assembly by its commitment to a scheme of compulsory arbitration, which was endorsed by 46 nations, promises to place the league in a dominant position in world affairs. The new plan provides that if any nation refuses to abide by the decision, it becomes in the act an "aggressor," and as such certain to be opposed by all the moral and economic forces and, in the end, if necessary, by military strength of the members of the league. The great gain lies in this new definition of aggression. Everybody has been, or has professed to be, against an aggressive war. But the difficulty has been to determine when a given war is aggressive. On the theory that attack is the best defense, an argument could be made out, has indeed been attempted by the Germans, that their invasion of Belgium and of France was not really aggressive. Now, all these obscurities and quibblings about words have been swept aside, and a practical and clear definition of the aggressor in a war between nations has been adopted. The aggressor country is the one that, having refused arbitration, or an appeal to the International Court, proceeds to sustain its quarrel by force.

If the scheme of compulsory arbitration is finally confirmed by the assembly, it will be the greatest step toward world peace that has yet been taken and will make it almost impossible for any nation to remain outside the league.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL NOTES AND COMMENT.

Peterborough is glad to welcome the Shriners today for the dash of colour and novelty they add to the usual drab routine of every-day life.

It is a tribute to the popularity of Hon. Hal. McGiverin, new Minister without Portfolio in the Ottawa Cabinet, that his promotion has been endorsed by the press generally, regardless of the party affiliations of the newspapers.

EGG PRICES.

OTTAWA, September 29 (Canadian Press). — The recent fine weather has stimulated a slight increase in production. Demand for extras is firm and insistent, with prices hardening. Exports to Great Britain are showing a daily increase.

Toronto firm.

Montreal firm, under a good consumptive demand, egg prices practically unchanged. Turkeys 38 to 40, chickens 28 to 32.

Ottawa receipts light. Jobbing extras 42, firsts 38, seconds 30, retailing extras 50 to 53, firsts 45 to 48, seconds 35.

Prairie Province markets firm and unchanged.

MONTREAL PRODUCE

MONTREAL, September 29 (Canadian Press). — The trade in cash grain on the local market on Saturday was very limited, although prices were well maintained.

The spring wheat flour situation was unchanged, with a moderate amount of business passing for both export and domestic account.

The market for winter wheat flour was firm and the trade was quie.

No change of any importance occurred in the millfeed trade, and the prices were firm at the recent advances noted.

Rolled oats were steady.

The butter trade was featured by the continued demand from Britain for supplies and prices moved into slightly higher ground.

A strong feeling prevailed in cheese, owing to foreign buyers purchasing large supplies.

A large business was done in eggs on Saturday, although the price trend was steady.

QUEBEC BUTTER.

MONTREAL, September 29 (Canadian Press). — At the Quebec Agricultural Co-operative Society auction sales held here last week the total offerings amounted to 3,050 packages, as compared with 4,150 packages for the previous week, and 2,225 packages for the same week last year.

There was a keener demand from exporters for the different lots and prices closed 3-4c per pound higher with No. 1 creamery, and at the final sale, selling at 35 3-4c per pound lower than the corresponding day a year ago.

At the boards in the country prices were also stronger, and at St. Pascal the offerings sold at an advance of 1 1-16c per pound at 34 1-16c per pound.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, September 29 (Canadian Press).—Immense export business in wheat, together with the fear that the corn crop was in imminent danger of big damage by frost whipped grain prices upward on Saturday, but lively profit-taking wiped out the wheat gains.

On the advance, all deliveries of wheat and of rye outdid the season's previous top price record.

Wheat closed easy at 3-4 cent net decline to 1-8 cent rise, December 138 1-2 to 138 5-8, and May 144 to 144 1-8 cent, with corn 1-4 to 4 5-8 cents up.

Oats showed 1-2 to 3-4c to 7-8c advance; and provisions were unchanged to 17 cents higher.

It was estimated that export purchasing of wheat amounted to 3,000,000 bushls. In addition, foreign buying of future deliveries of wheat were of considerable magnitude. Meanwhile reports were current that the rye crop in Germany was so meagre that the German import requirements would exceed the total drop of rye in the United States, and that quantities of wheat would have to be bought instead of rye.

Complaints were also at hand telling of wheat crop damage and harvest delay in Great Britain and other European countries.

A THOUGHT

NO BAR TO ACHIEVEMENT.

The mother of Paderewski died when he was a babe. Three years later his father was exiled to Siberia. At twelve he started to study the piano, and the teacher told him his thumbs were too stubby, and his fingers not suited—that he had better play a horn.

At his first public recital he was compelled to improvise, so difficult were the passages. At sixty-two he has the distinction of being the greatest financial success as an instrumentalist.

In comparing your own small success with that of some man who has made much money, a great professional reputation or some remarkable achievement, never make the mistake of losing your own enthusiasm. Never make the mistake of thinking that the success of some great man is largely due to the gift of genius, or to the advantage of greater talent.

Paderewski's thumbs were stiff and his fingers short, but his perseverance was sixty-two years long.

You will find on careful investigation that the individual who has inspired you to make a comparison, has risen by the hardest kind of hard work.

Every last genius works under the lash of personal pride and a great desire to do the thing better than it was ever done before.

If you have this "personal pride," physical handicaps are no bar to achievement.

of the series dealing with the establishment of the BANK OF MONTREAL at representative points in CANADA and elsewhere

THE PARIS subsidiary of the Bank of Montreal is situated in a quarter rich in historic interest. From a lofty column in Place Vendôme the statue of Napoleon looks out upon an imposing square the construction of which began in 1686 under authority of Louis XIV.—a square which has witnessed many of the city's greatest demonstrations and which now mirrors the social and business life of Paris.

Here, in the heart of the capital of France, the Bank of Montreal in 1919 established a subsidiary office in the Ritz Hotel Building. In February, 1922, the business of this office had become so extensive that enlarged quarters were opened near by at No. 6 Place Vendome.

Roman Ruins In England To Enrich British Museum

HARROGATE, Sept. 27.—Further details of the discovery near Harrogate of the 2,000-year-old Roman city of Isurium make it apparent that the city covered about 70 acres and was surrounded by a wall a mile in circumference, nine feet thick, and about 20 feet high.

The find is one of the most interesting made in England for 50 years, and has attracted the attention of noted archeologists of Great Britain and the continent. The excavations were easily recognized as the ancient Roman city by coins and other relics found. Its location is on the exact spot indicated in the sixteenth century maps of Roman Britain.

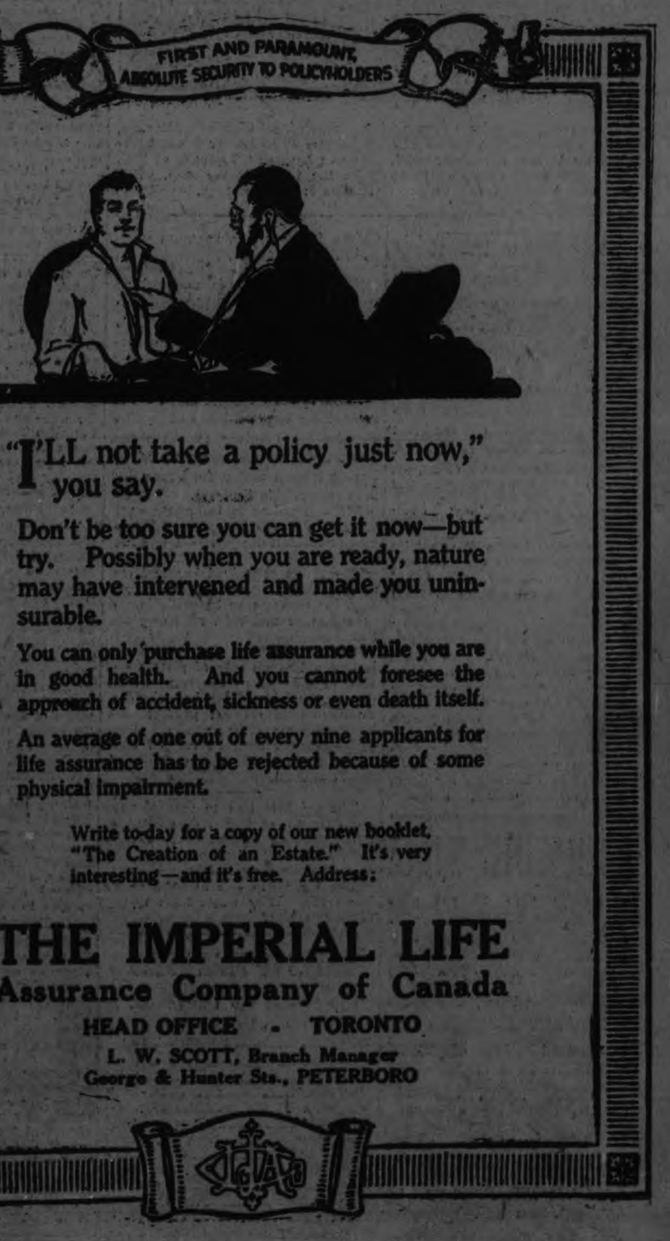
Already much of the wall has been exposed, including portions of a multiangular tower. Close by were portions of a building, probably a grain warehouse, with the stone work in perfect preservation. A Roman road 30 feet wide was discovered a short distance from the granary.

Many coins and much pottery and glassware have been found scattered over the entire city. The work will be continued until the entire city has been uncovered. It is probable that most of the relics will be presented to the British Museum.

$19,750.

That's the price paid for one book—$19,750! This is at a New York auction of old and rare volumes. The book in question was a copy of Sanderson's "Biography of the Signers of the Declaration of Independence."

Things are unbalanced when any man can pay for a lone book, tattered and old, more than the average family can save in a lifetime by working their fingers to the bone, even though spending the money does put it into circulation.



"I'LL not take a policy just now," you say.

Don't be too sure you can get it now—but try. Possibly when you are ready, nature may have intervened and made you uninsurable.

You can only purchase life assurance while you are in good health. And you cannot foresee the approach of accident, sickness or even death itself.

An average of one out of every nine applicants for life assurance has to be rejected because of some physical impairment.

WOMAN GHOST, IN HIP BOOTS, CAUSES TERROR IN HERSHEY

She's Hatless, Coatless, of Towering Height and Dressed In White! Three Men Swear To It.

LANCASTER, Sept. 29.—Blinds are drawn and doors locked after nightfall in the neighborhood east of Hershey, for there is a ghost abroad.

Three men, whose integrity is not doubted have seen the spook and only the brave venture from their homes after dark.

The ghost, all agree, seems to be a woman more than six feet tall and like tall apparitions of fiction is accompanied by an animal. The Hershey ghost always is followed by a magnificent white dog, apparently a wolf hound.

Lewis Cassady, Merle Smith and James Smith first saw the mysterious woman as they were leaving the home of John Brenberger at Areba and Santhome avenues.

As they walked along they became aware of the presence of a fourth person. They turned and saw the ghost woman. She nearly brushed sleeves with the men, without exchanging a word.

The three agree that she was at least 6 feet 6 inches tall and that her shoulders were broader than those of the average man. A drenching rain was falling at the moment, but the woman was hatless and coatless and carried no umbrella. Instead, she wore boots that reached to her hips.

Their blood ran cold, but the men followed at a distance until they neared a cemetery, where the woman vanished among the tombstones. While they stood discussing the occurrence the specter again appeared and started toward them.

The trio retraced their steps to the Brenberger home and secured the aid of Patrolman George Lafferty. The officer had no faith in ghosts and agreed to search the cemetery.

Together they returned to the graveyard. It was pitch dark, a brisk wind was blowing and the rain fell in torrents.

The officer led and picked his way, guided by the ray from a pocket flashlight that silhouetted the cold tombstones against the darkness. It was too much for the other men. The officer had gone only a short distance when he discovered that he was alone. Then he, too, decided to wait until daylight.

Farmers say the woman has been seen within the last twelve hours in the same neighborhood, clad in the same attire and followed by the same white dog.

LADY LUCK RODE WITH HIM

Lady Luck surely must have been riding alongside Charles Novotny, chauffeur for the United States Forest Servce, when his truck got bodly smashed up in San Fernando, Calif. He was hauling 600 pounds of T.N.T. That was more than enough to wipe the town off the map. But through some freak of good fortune it didn't happen.

CURB DRUG HABIT.

Meeting Will Urge Limitation of the Growing of Raw Materials.

To curb the traffic in habit-forming drugs, an international conference will be held in November in Switzerland. The American delegates will strike directly at the heart of the problem. They will urge limitation of the growing of poppy, cocoa plant and other raw materials that furnish drugs for addicts.

Could any way be more direct and sensible?

It is too direct to suit countries that make big profits out of growing the raw materials. They had the same proposal put up to them a year ago. Result: They're sidestepping, talking about curbing manufacture or drugs, appointing committees.....anything to avoid curtailing the output of raw materials.

As long as the poppy and other raw materials for drugs are grown, they'll be made into drugs.

It wouldn't, by the way, be difficut to put on the brakes. The growing of raw materials for drugs is a highly organized industry. Opium farming is a common occupation in the orient.

Curbing murder is a problem strikingly similar to curbing the drug traffic. As long as pistols are manufactured and sold by mail to any one with the price, pistols will be used to kill.

Local or state regulations, such as compelling registration and police permits for revolver purchase and possession, are easily frustrated by buying from a mail order house that sells concealable firearms.

It's a problem in interstate commerce and it should be ended by the proper interstate agency—a national law.

There's an organized hue and cry against this proposal. Quite naturally, for money's to be made in the manufacture and sale, all along the line.

The mainstay of the propaganda is that a ban on sale of pistols except to officers of the law would disarm the law-abiding householder. Nonsense! He could protect his home with a rifle or sawed-off shotgun—which cannot be carried concealed through the streets by murderers and thieves.

The quickest way to control anything is to abolish its existence. Stop growing opium, etc., except for legitimate medical purposes, and you stop the drug traffic.

The tiger will bite as long as he has teeth. Why waste time trying to muzzle him?

LABORS REMEDY FAILS TO HELP UNEMPLOYMENT

MacDonald's Government May Split on Situation It Did Not Make.

POLITICAL CAPITAL.

Labor's Opponents Take Advantage of Adverse Criticism of Russian Treaty.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Whatever the verdict of the country on the MacDonald Labor Government's Russian, Irish, German and other policies, unemployment looks like the rock on which Britian's first Labor administration may split.

Impartial observers concede that it is not fair to blame MacDonald and his colleagues for their failure to reduce materially Britain's million and a quarter odd unemployed list during the first six months of their tenure of office without a majority in Parliament, but the opposition political parties are pointing out that Labor professed to have a complete remedy for unemployment—which, so far, has not materialized.

December 31, 1923—just before the Labor government took office—there were 1,285,623 people unemployed in Great Britain, as shown by the official lists issued by the Ministry of Labor. That is to say, this number of people were drawing the government unemployment benefits. There were others unemployed, or part employed. With the advent of spring and summer there was the normal—but nothing abnormal—reduction of the number of unemployed pensioners, and now that winter is approaching Premier MacDonald is up against it. The unemployed list is gradually—normally, of course—increasing, and the Labor government will find it hard to explain the failure of their much-boomed "remedy."

Strongly For "Free Trade."

For political party purposes, British Labor is strongly for "Free Trade' (despite the highly "protectionist" nature of the Trade Union organization and ideals), and one of the first things Chancellor of the Exchequer Philip Snowden did was to abolish the so-called "McKenna duties"—a war-time protectionist measure imposing extra taxation on various manufactures, motor cars, pianos, etc., normally largely imported from abroad but which could be and were being manufactured in Britain.

This was hailed as a triumph for Free Trade, but unfortunately it led to many British factories closing down The protectionist press naturally made the most of this, but eliminating all suggestions of partizan bias, the cold official figures issued by the Ministry of Labor showed that within three weeks from the abolition of the McKenna duties, Britain's unemployed list was increased by over 74,000, and that unemployment was increasing at the rate of about 16,000 per week. On that date the number of unemployed was 1,122,200—or 163,433 less than just before MacDonald took office. According to plain statistics, this 163,423 will be more than wiped out under normal conditions before mid-winter.

Remedy Has Failed.

Whether the claim of opposing politicians that this state of affairs is due to the abolition of the McKenna duties s true or not, it is an embarrassing fact for the MacDonald government to face, that their remedy for unemployment has failed to materialize. And the unemployed man with a vote is not likely to be so fair in his appraisement of MacDonald's achievements as the comfortably housed and fed observer, who admits that it is not MacDonald's fault.

The trouble was that MacDonald and all leading Labor politicians said at the last election that they had a sure solution to the unemployment problem, but once in office they found that the solution was not so clean-cut or easy of realization as they had imagined. What the solution was has never been disclosed.

One of the things that has brought matters to a crisis politically is the opposition expressed by British miners to the Dawes plan of setting Germany on her feet. British Labor has always expressed friendliness towards Germany—many Labor leaders, including Ramsay MacDonald, bitterly opposed the war—and since the signing of the Versailles Treaty, British Labor, by innumerable speeches and resolutions, has urged the restoration of German industry and credit, and the cancellation of indemnities, penalties, etc.

Miners Change Stand.

Yet the moment Premier Ramsay MacDonald had secured adoption of the Dawes plan by the Allies, the Miners Federation of Great Britain decided that it would cut into their industry too much and proceeded to demand its abandonment. Since the war, when they had, admittedly, a fat and favored trade, British miners have been hard hit, and the occupation of the Ruhr—however it might have been denounced by Labor oeaders—brought grist to the mill of the British miner. The application of the Dawes plan, according 2 the Miners' executive, threatens further setbacks and losses, with inevitable unemployment, to British coal mines. Let the German pay "reparations in kind" any way they like, but not in coal, say British miners. Ramsay MacDonald has temporarily side-stepped receiving a miners' deputation, but he cannot evade this burning question. And the matter will not end with the miners, for most of the other trades affected will take similar action, according to close observers.

Furnishes Political Capital.

The idea—cleverly fostered by the Rothermere Press—that the setting of Germany on her feet industrially and financially will hurt British trade and industry, has cut into the nation's mind, and increasing unemployment returns provide Labor's opponents with much political capital.

The Russian agreement, for which Labor—as a political unit—has been agitating since the conclusion of hostilities, now seems something in the nature of "Dead Sea Fruit," for it is clear that the Soviets' promise nothing except that if Britain lends one pound they may possibly pay back five shilpoint Conservative and Liberal political managers are taking—and Labor has no satisfactory answer to the charge. It is now generally conceded that if Parliament rejects the Russian Treaty, when it reassembles Sept. 30, the Labor government would not risk an election on this point.

EXPERT ADVICE IS NEEDED BY NOVICE

Radio Material Should Be Selected By Man Who Knows It.

By CARLTON E. BUTLER,
Radio Engineer.

The use of good materials in your radio set cannot be over emphasized. There are enough uncertainties about entering on the construction of a radio set that you cannot afford the expense of investing money in poorly built and inefficient parts. If the set does not operate as it should after construction you will be at a loss as to whether the circuit, your workmanship, or the material you have used is the source of the trouble. Too often the circuit is blamed for poor functioning of the set which is directly traceable to poor material. If it does work there is always the question as to whether it would not work better if a first class socket or condenser were used instead of the poor quality one you have at present.

Two different experimenters may build the set which will be described in another article. One man may buy the very best parts obtainable and have excellent results. The other man may use inferior quality apparatus and only get mediocre results for his work. The man who built his set of the best materials will probably have excellent service from his radio set while the other man will be forced to repair his outfit oftener than a second hand Ford, and put up with very uncertain performance of his receiver.

The highest priced apparatus is not always the best, although it is more apt to be. Exercise the same amount of investigation and discrimination in the purchase of your radio apparatus as your wife does in the selection of her vegetables, and a great many of your radio troubles will vanish. If you are a novice in the radio game be sure to hunt up some of the radio amateurs, the young lad in your neighborhood who has a transmitting set, or the confirmed radio bug in your circle. They have learned a great deal about the game through personal experience and will be more than glad to advise you the proper articles to buy, and what is just as important, what not to buy.

Two messages received from Germany read:

"Duration flight, 33½ hours, completed without any apparent difficulties. No report as yet from the contractor, but feel fairly certain contractor will propose to start transoceanic flight as soon as station vessels can reach station. Consider this as stand by; definite word in twelve hours."

The second message on Saturday follows:

"Request station vessels proceed stations. Contractor says he will be ready start transoceanic flight in seven to eight days. He will wait until station vessels report ready, but desires them ready in one week, if possible, so not to miss possible favorable weather on day ship ready to start. Please acknowledge and inform when station vessel will be ready."

Instructions were issued to the three ships sent to their stations to observe the following orders:

"Maintain rapid communications between the observation ship and Washington; between the station ship and the observation ship; to gain communication between the observation ship and the ZR-3 as soon as she sails.

"The operators on the ZR-3 are Germans and probably will not be familiar with the United States navy procedure or operating signals. In that case international procedure should be used."

FABLES ON HEALTH

FIGHTING A COLD.

"Once a cold has been contracted the rules for prevention should be reversed," the Mann family doctor admonished.

"It is then advisable to avoid drafts, various fluctuating temperatures and skin exercises.

"The great idea then is to keep the body warm, and the feet in particular. A hot footbath is a good thing right off the bat; then a hot drink; then a good purgative, and a good rubbing of neck and chest with camphorated oil.

"When the footbath is being taken it is a good idea to wrap the body in a blanket and then immediately go to bed. A bath with water at 95 to 100 degrees is restful to the nerves and skin.

"Eat lightly, preferably vegetables. And, afterward, build up the body and skin to avoid recurrences."

GOULD ROWS LAID BARE BY SISTER

Mrs. Shepard Tells Court of 'Saving' Frank and Thwarting Mrs. Angel's Blackmail.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Frank Gould's difficulties with his brothers, George and Edward, and her successful efforts to place him in a position of trust that "would save him from going under," were related yesterday by his sister, Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, the former Helen Gould, who testified before Referee James E. O'Gorman in the suit for an accounting of the $82,000,000 estate of the late Jay Gould.

The famous case in which Mrs. Angel was convicted of an attempt to blackmail the Gould family by representing herself as a former wife of Jay Gould, also was mentioned. Mrs. Shepard identified letters of that period and added:

"I may have seemed somewhat vindictive in asking for the punishment of this woman, but I regarded my vindictiveness as justified. It seemed to me that so many persons were the subject of blackmail who had not the courage to fight."

Mrs. Shepard testified she interceded in the affairs of the Gould estate on behalf of Frank Shortly after her father's death in 1892. She said George had been taken into the office of the estate when only fifteen years old, and she suggested that Frank be made a director in the International and Great Northern Railway before he became of age.

"I thought he should have an active part in the affairs of the estate," said Mrs. Shepard, "and I still think the theory was a good one."

"It is France or America, play or business," she wrote at the time in a letter to George about Frank's future.

Speaking of Frank's reported attempt to gain proxies of Missouri Pacific stockholders apart from those held by his brothers, Mrs. Shepard said she believed this was true and said she had turned proxies of her own over to him.

Other Women's Teeth are whiter, clear, glistening—why not yours?

Remove the dingy film that's clouding them—you'll be surprised that your own teeth are as pretty as anyone's—make this unique test.

THAT most of us have pretty teeth without ever revealing them, is the remarkable assertion of many high dental authorities.

This is why:

Run your tongue across your teeth, and you will feel a film. A film which you cannot see with your eye, but which absorbs discolorations and hides the natural color of your teeth.

Remove it and your teeth take on a new beauty. Maybe you have really beautiful teeth without realizing it.

Film is charged too with most tooth-troubles. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. Germs breed in it. And they, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So, besides loss of tooth beauty, film is a serious danger to healthy teeth. You must remove and constantly combat it. It is ever present, ever forming.

Old-time dentifrices were unable to combat it successfully. So most people had unattractive teeth no matter how often they cleaned them. And tooth troubles were a serious problem.

Now modern science has discovered a new way. A new-type tooth paste called Pepsodent that acts to curdle film, then harmlessly to remove it. No soap or chalk, no harsh grit dangerous to enamel.

"Thou dost me wrong," she protested. "I am thy friend. I would that—"

Whe broke off suddenly to listen. The stillness of the night was broken by cries from the direction of the Bab-el-Oueh. She ran swiftly to the parapet whence the gate was to be seen and leaned far out

"Look, look" she cried, and there was a tremor of fear in her voice. "It is he—Asad-ed-Din."

Sakr-el-Bahr crossed to her side and in a glare of torches saw a body of men coming forth from the black archway of the gate.

"It seems as if, departing from thy custom, thou hast spoken truth, O Fenzileh."

She faced him, and he suspected the venomous glance darted at him through her veil. Yet her voice was cold.

"In a moment thou'lt have no single doubt of it. But what of me? He must not find me here. He would kill me, I think."

"I am sure he would," Sakr-el-Bahr agreed. "Yet mused thus, who whould recognize thee? Away, then, ere he comes. Dids't thou come alone?"

"Should I trust any one with the knowledge that I had visited thee?" she asked.

She moved quickly to the door, to pause again on the threshold.

"Thou'lt not relinquish her? Thou'lt not—"

"Be at ease," he answered her on so resolved a note that she departed satisfied.

CHAPTBR XXI

IN THE SIGHT OF ALLAH

Sakr-el-Bahr stood lost in thought after she had gone. Again he weighed her every word and considered precisely how he should meet Asad, and how refuse him, if the Vasha's were indeed such an errand as Fenzileh had heralded.

Thus in silence he remained waiting for Ali or another to summon him to the presence of the Basha. Instead, however, when Ali entered it was actually to announce Asad-ed-Din, who followed immediately upon his heels, having insisted in his impatience upon being conducted straight to the presence of Sakr-el-Bahr.

"The peace of the Prophet upon thee, my son," was the Basha's greeting.

"And upon thee my lord," Sakr-el-Bahr salaamed. "My house is honored."

With a gesture he dismissed Ali.

"I come to thee a suppliant," said Asad, advancing.

"A suppliant, thou? No need, my lord. I have no will that is not the echo of thine own."

The Basha's questing eyes went beyond him and glowed as they rested upon Rosamund.

"I come in haste," he said, "like any callow lover, guided by my very instinct to the presence of her I seek—this Frankish pearl, this peri-faced captive of thy latest raid. I was away from the Kasbah when that pig Tsamanni returned thither from the sok; but when at last I learned that he had failed to purchase her as I commanded I could have wept for very grief. I feared at first that some merchant from the Sus might have bought her and departed; but when I heard—blessed be Allah—hat thou wert the buyer I was comforted again. Fo thou'lt yield her up to me, my son."

He spoke with such confidence that Oliver had a difficulty in choosing the words that were to disillusion him. Therefore he stood in hesitancy a moment.

"I will make good thy loss," Asad ran on. "Thou shalt have the sixteen hundred philips paid and another five hundred to console thee. Say that will content thee; for I boil with impatience.

Sakr-el-Bahr smiled grimly.

"It is an impatience well known to me, my lord, where she is concerned," he answered slowly. "I boiled with it myself for five interminable years. To make an end of it I went a distant perilous voyage to England in a captured Frankish vessel. Thou didst not know, O Asad, else thou wouldst—"

"Bah" broke in the Basha. "Thou'rt a huckster born. There is none like thee, Sakr-el-Bahr, in any game of wits. Well, well, name thine own price, strike thine own profit out of my impatience and let us have done."

"My lord," he said quietly, "it is not the profit that is in question. She is not for sale."

Asad blinked at him, speechless, and slowly a faint color crept into his sallow cheeks.

"Not—not for sale?" he echoed, faltering in his amazement.

"Not if thou offered me thy Bashalik as the price of her," was his solemn answer.

"Ask anything else that is mine," he continued, "and gladly will I lay it at thy feet in earnest of my loyalty and love for thee."

"But I want nothing else" Asad's tone was impatient, petulant almost. "I want this slave."

"Then," replied Oliver, "I cast myself upon thy mercy and beseech thee to turn thine eyes elsewhere."

Asad scowled upon him.

"Dost thou deny me?" he demanded, throwing back his head.

"Alas!" said Sakr-el-Bahr.

There fell a pause. Darker and darker grew the countenance of Asad, fiercer glowed the eyes he bent upon his lieutenant.

"I see," he said at last, with a calm so oddly at variance with his looks as to be sinister. "I see. It seems that there is more truth in Fenzileh than I suspected. So!"

He considered the corsair a moment with his sunken smoldering eye.

Then he addressed him in a tone that vibrated with his suppressed anger.

"Bethink thee, Sakr-el-Bahr, of what thou art, of what I have made thee. Bethink thee of all the bounty these lands have lavished on thee. Thou art my own lieutenant, and mayest one day be more. In Algiers there is none above thee save myself. Art, then, so thankless as to deny me the first thing I ask of thee? Truly, is it written 'Ungrateful is Man."

"Didst thou know," began Sakr-el-Bahr, "all that is involved for me in this—"

"I neither know nor care" Asad cut in. "Whatever it may be it should be as naught when set against my will."

Then he discarded anger for cajolery. He set a hand upon Sakr-el-Bahr's stalwart shoulder.

"Come, my son. I will deal generously with thee out of my love, and I will put thy refusal from my mind."

"Be generous, my lord, to the point of forgetting that ever thou didst ask me for her."

"Dost still refuse?" The voice, honeyed an instant ago, rang harsh again. "Take care how far thou strain my patience. Even as I have raised thee from the dirt, so at a word can I cast thee down again. Even as I broke the shackles that chained thee to the rower's bench, so can I rivet them on thee anew."

"All this canst thou do," Sakr-el-Bahr agreed. "And since, knowing it, I still hold to what is doubly mine—by right of capture and of purchase—thou mayest conceive how mighty are my reasons. Be merciful then, Asad—"

"Must I take her by force in spite of thee?" roared the Basha.

Sakr-el-Bahr stiffened. He threw back his head and looked the Basha squarely in the eyes.

"Whilst I live not even that mayest thou do," he answered.

"Disloyal, mutinous dog! Wilt thou resist me—me?"

"It is my prayer that thou'lt not be so ungenerous and unjust as to compel thy servant to a course so hateful."

Asad sneered.

"Is that thy last word?" he demanded.

"Save only that in all things else I am thy slave, O Asad."

A moment the Basha stood regarding him, his glance baleful. Then deliberately, as one who has taken his resolve, he strode to the door. On the threshold he paused and turned again.

"Wait!" he said, and on that threatening word departed.

Sakr-el-Bahr remained a moment where he had stood during the interview, then with a shrug he turned. He met Rosamund's eyes fixed intently upon him, and invested with a look he could not read. He found himself unable to meet it, and he turned away. It was inevitable that in such a moment the earlier stab of remorse should be repeated. He had overreached himself him, a full consciousness of the horrible thing he had done, which seemed now so irrevocable. In his silent anguish he almost conceived that he had mistaken his feelings for Rosamund: that far from hating her as he had supposed, his love for her had not yet been slain, else surely he should not be tortured now by the thought of her becoming Asad's prey. If he hated her, indeed, as he had supposed, he would have surrendered her and gloated.

And then her voice, crisp and steady, cut into his torture o consideration.

"Why did yo i deny him?"

He swung round again to face her amazed, horror-stricken.

"You understood?" he gasped.

"I understood enough," said she. "This ling a franca is none so different from Frenc'." And again she asked—

"Why did you deny him?"

He paced across to her side and stood looking down at her.

"Do you ask why?"

"Indeed," she said bitterl , "there is scarce the need perhaps. And yet can it be that your lust of vengeance is so insatiable that sooner than willingly forego an ounce of it you will lose your head?"

His face became grim again.

"Of course," he sneered, "it would be so that you'd interpret me."

"Nay. If I have asked it is because I doubt."

"Do you realize what it can mean to become the prey of Asad-ed-Din?"

She shuddered, and her glance fell from his, yet her voice was composed when she answered him—

"Is it so very much worse than becoming the prey of Oliver-Reis or akr-el- lahr, or whatever they may call you?"

"If you say that it is all one to you there's an end to my opposing him," he answered coldly. "You may go to him. If I resisted him—like a fool, perhaps—it was for no sake of vengeance upon you. It was because the thought of it fills me with horror."

"Then it should fill you with horror of yourself no less," said she.

His answer startled her.

"Perhaps it does," he said scarcely above a murmur. "Perhaps it does."

She flashed him an upward glance and looked as if she would have spoken. But he went on, suddenly passionate, without giving her time to interrupt him.

"O God! It needed this to show me the vileness of the thing I have done. Asad has no such motives as had I. I wanted you that I might punish you. But he—O God!" he groaned, and for a moment put his face to his hands.

She rose slowly, a strange agitation stirring in her, her bosom galloping But in his overwrought condition he failed to observe it. And then like a ray of hope to illumine his despair came the counsel that Fenzileh had given him, the barrier which she had said that Asad, being a devout Moslem, would never dare to violate.

"There is a way," he cried. "There is the way suggested by Fenzileh at the promptings of her malice."

An instant he hesitated, his eyes averted. Then he made his plunge.

"You must marry me."

It was almost as if he had struck her. She recoiled. Instantly suspicion awoke in her; swiftly it grew to a conviction that he had but sought to trick her by a pretended penitence.

"Marry you!" she echoed.

"Aye," he insisted.

And he set himself to explain to her how if she were his wife she must be sacred and inviolable to all good Moslems, that none could set a finger upon her without doing outrage to the Prophet's holy law, and that whoever might be so disposed Asad was not of those, since Asad was perfervidly devout.

"Thus only," he ended, "can I place you beyond his reach."

But she was still scornfully reluctant.

"It is too desperate a remedy even for so desperate an ill," said she, and thus drove him into a frenzy of impatience with her.

"You must, I say," he insisted almost angrily. "You must—or else consent to be borne this very night to Asad's harem—and not even as his wife, but as his slave. Oh, you must trust me for your own sake! You must!"

"Trust you?" she cried, and almost laughed in the intensity of her scorn. "Trust you! How can I trust one who is a renegade and worse?"

He controlled himself that he might reason with her, that by cold logic he might conquer her consent.

"You are very unmerciful," he said "In judging me you leave out of all account the suffering through which I have gone and what yourself contributed to it. Knowing now how falsely I was accused and what other bitter wrongs I suffered, consider that I was one to whom the man and woman I most loved in all this world had proven false. I had lost faith in man and in God, and if I became a Moslem, a renegade, and a corsair, it was because there was no other gate by which I could escape the unutterable toil of the oar to which I had been chained." He looked at her sadly. "Can you find no excuse for me in all that?"

It moved her a little, for if she maintained a hostile attitude, at least she put aside her scorn.

"No wrongs," she told him, almost with sorrow in her voice, "could justify you in outraging chivalry, in dishonoring manhood, in abusing your strength to persecute a woman. Whatever the causes that may have led to it, you have fallen too low, sir, to make it possible that I should trust you."

He bowed his head under the rebuke which already he had uttered in his own heart. It was just and most deserved, and since he recognized its justice he found it impossible to resent it.

"I know," he said. "But I am not asking you to trust me to my profit, but to your own. It is for your sake alone that I implore you to do this."

Upon a sudden inspiration he drew the heavy dagger from his girdle and proffered it, hilt foremost.

"If you need an earnest of my good faith," he said, "take this knife with which tonight you attempted to stab yourself. At the first sign that I am false to my trust use it as you will—upon me or upon yourself."

She pondered him in some surprise. Then slowly she put out her hand to take the weapon, as he bade her.

"Are you not afraid," she asked him, "that I shall use it now and so make an end?"

"I am trusting you," he said, "that in return you may trust me. Further, I am arming you against the worst. For if it comes to choice between death and Asad, I shall approve your choice of death. But let me add that it were foolish to choose death whilst yet there is a chance of life."

"What chance?" she asked, with a faint return of her old scorn. "The chance of life with you?"

"No," he answered firmly. If you will trust me I swear that I will seek to undo the evil I have done. Listen. At dawn my galeasse sets out upon a raid. I will convey you secretly aboard and find a way to land you in some Christian country—Italy or France—whence you may make your way home again."

"But meanwhile," she reminded him, "I shall have become your wife."

He smiled wistfully.

"Do you still fear a trap? Can naught convince you of my sincerity? A Moslem marriage is not binding upon a Christian, and I shall account it no marriage. It will be no more than a pretense to shelter you until we are away."

"How can I trust your word in that?"

"How?" He paused, balked; but only for a moment.

"You have the dagger," he answered pregnantly.

She stood considering, her eyes upon the weapon's lividly gleaming blade.

"And this marriage?" she asked. "How is it to take place?"

He explained to her then that by the Moslem law all that was required was a declaration made before a kadi or his superior and in the presence of witnesses. He was still at his explanation when from below there came a sound of voices, the tramp of feet, and the flash of torches.

"Here is Asad returning in force," he cried, and his voice trembled. "Do you consent?"

"But the kadi?" she inquired, and by the question he knew that she was won to his way of saving her.

"I said the kadi or his superior. Asad himself shall be our priest, his followers our witnesses."

"And if he refuses? He will refuse" she cried, clasping her hands before her in her excitement.

"I shall not ask him. I shall take him by surprise."

"It—it must anger him. He may avenge himself for what he must deem a trick."

"Aye," he answered, wild-eyed. "I have thought of that, too. But it is a risk we must run. If we do not prevail, then——"

"I have the dagger," she cried fearlessly.

"And for me there will be the rope or the sword," he answered. "Be calm They come"

But the steps that pattered up the stairs were Ali's, He flung upon the terrace in alarm.

"My lord, my lord Asad-ed-Din is here in force. He has an armed following with him"

"There is naught to fear," said Sakr-el-Bahr, with every show of calm. "All will be well."

Asad swept up the stairs and out upon that terrace to confront his rebellious lieutenant. After him came a dozen black-robed janissaries with scimitars along which the light of the torches rippled in little runnels as of blood.

The Basha came to a halt before Sakr-el-Bahr, his arms majestically folded, his head thrown back, so that his long white beard jutted forward.

"I am returned," he said, "to employ force where gentleness will not avail. Yet I pray that Allah may have lighted thee to a wise frame of mind."

"He has, indeed, my lord," replied Sakr-el-Bahr.

"The praise to Him" exclaimed Asad in a voice that rang with joy. "The girl then"

And he held out a hand.

Sakr-el-Bahr stepped back to her and took her hand in his as if to lead her forward. Then he spoke the fateful words.

"In Allah's Holy Name and in His All-seeing eyes, before thee, Asad-ed-Din, and in the presence of these witnesses I take this woman to be my wife by the merciful law of the Prophet of Allah the All-wise, the All-pitying."

The words were out and the thing was done before Asad had realized the corsair's intent. A gasp of dismay escaped him; then his visage grew inflamed, his eyes blazed.

But Sakr-el-Bahr, cool and undaunted before that royal anger, took the scarf that lay about Rosamund's shoulders and raising it, flung it over her head, so that her face was covered by it.

"May Allah rot off the hand of him who, in contempt of our Lord Mahomet's holy law, may dare to unveil that face, and may Allah bless this union and cast into the pit of Gehenna any who shall attempt to dissolve a bond that is tied in His All-seeing eyes."

It was formidable. Too formidable for Asad-ed-Din. Behind him his janissaries, like hounds in leash, stood eagerly awaiting his command. But none came. He stood there, breathing heavily, swaying a little, and turning from red to pale in the battle that was being fought within him between rage and vexation on the one hand, and his profound piety on the other. And as he yet hesitated, perhaps Sakr-el-Bahr assisted his piety to gain the day.

"Now you will understand Why I would not yield her, O mighty Asad," he said. "Thyself hast thou oft and rightly reproached me with my celibacy, reminding me that it is not pleasing in the sight of Allah, that it is unworthy a good Moslem. At last it hath pleased the Prophet to send me such a maid as I could take to wife."

Asad bowed his head.

"What is written is written," he said in the voice of one who admonishes himself. Then he raised his arms aloft.

"Allah is All-knowing," he declared. "His will be done!"

"Amen," said Sakr-el-Bahr very solemnly and with a great surge of thankful prayer to his own long-forgotten God.

The Basha stayed yet a moment, as if he would have spoken. Then abruptly he turned and waved a hand to his janissaries.

"Away" was all he said to them, and stalked out in their wake.

CHAPTBR XXII

THE SIGN

From behind her lattice, still breathless from the haste she had made, and with her whelp Marzak at her side, Fenzileh had witnessed the first angry return of the Basha from the house of Sakr-el-Bahr.

She had heard him bawling for Abdul Mohktar, the leader of his janissaries, and she had seen the hasty mustering of a score of these soldiers in the courtyard, where the ruddy light of torches mingled with the white light of the full moon. She had seen them go hurrying away with Asad himself at their head, and she had not known whether to weep or to laugh, whether to fear or to rejoice.

"It is done," Marzak had cried exultantly. "The dog hath withstood him and so destroyed himself. There will be an end to Sakr-el-Bahr this night." And he had added:

"The praise to Allah"

But from Fenzileh came no response to his prayer of thanksgiving. True, Sakr-el-Bahr must be destroyed, and by a sword that she herself had forged. Yet was it not inevitable that the stroke which laid him low must wound her on its repercussion? That was the question to which now she sought an answer. For all her eagerness to speed the corsair to his doom, she had paused sufficiently to weigh the consequences to herself; she had not overlooked the circumstance that an inevitable result of this must be Asad's appropriation of that Frankish slave-girl. But at the time it had seemed to her that even this price was worth paying to remove Sakr-el-Bahr definitely and finally from her son's path—which shows that, after all, Fenzileh, the mother, was capable of some self-sacrifice.

She comforted herself now with the reflection that the influence, whose waning she feared might be occasioned by the introduction of a rival into Asad's harem, would no longer be so vitally necessary to herself and Marzak once Sakr-el-Bahr were removed. The rest mattered none so much to her. Yet it mattered something, and the present state of things left her uneasy, her mind a cockpit of emotions. Her grasp could not encompass all her desires at once, it seemed; and whilst she could gloat over the gratification of one, she must bewail the frustration of another. Yet, in the main, she felt that she should account herself the gainer.

In this state of mind she had waited, scarce heeding the savagely joyous and entirely selfish babblings of her cub, who cared little what might betide his mother as the price of the removal of that hated rival from his path. For him, at least, there was nothing but profit in the business, no cause for anything but satisfaction; and that satisfaction he voiced with a fine contempt for his mother's feelings.

Anon they witnessed Asad's return. They saw the janissaries come swinging into the courtyard and range themselves there whilst the Basha made his appearance, walking slowly, with steps that dragged a little, his head sunk upon his breast, his hands behind him. They waited to see slaves following him, leading or carrying the girl he had gone to fetch. But they waited in vain, intrigued and uneasy.

They heard the harsh voice in which Asad dismissed his followers, and the clang of the closing gate; and they saw him pacing there alone in the moonlight, ever in that attitude of dejection.

What had happened? Had he killed them both? Had the girl resisted him to such an extent that he had lost all patience and in one of those rages begotten of such resistance made an end of her?

Thus did Fenzileh question herself, and since she could not doubt but that Sakr-el-Bahr was slain, she concluded that the rest must be as she conjectured. Yet the suspense torturing her, she summoned Ayoub and sent him to glean from Abdul Mohktar the tale of what had passed. In his own hatred of Sakr-el-Bahr, Ayoub went willingly enough, and hoping for the worst. He returned disappointed, with a tale that sowed dismay in Fenzileh and Marzak.

Fenzileh, however, made a swift recovery. After all, it was the best that could have happened. It should not be difficult to transmute that obvious dejection of Asad's into resentment, and to fan this into a rage that must end by consuming Sakr-el-Bahr. And so the thing could be accomplished without jeopardy to her own place at Asad's side. For it was inconceivable that he should now take Rosamund to his harem. Already the fact that she had been paraded with naked face among the Faithful must, in itself, have been a difficult obstacle to his pride. But it was utterly impossible that he could so subject his self-respect to his desire as to take to himself a woman who had been the wife of his servant.

Fenzileh saw her way very clearly. It was through Asad's devoutness—as she herself had advised, though scarcely expecting such rich results as these—that he had been thwarted by Sakr-el-Bahr. That same devoutness must further be played upon now to do the rest.

Taking up a flimsy silken veil, she went out to him where he now sat on the divan under the awning, alone there in the tepid-scented summer night. She crept to his side with the soft, graceful, questing movements of a cat, and sat there a moment unheeded almost—such was his abstraction—her head resting lightly against his shoulder.

"Lord of my soul," she murmured presently, "thou art sorrowing."

Her voice was in itself a soft and soothing caress.

He started, and she caught the gleam of his eyes turned suddenly upon her.

"Who told thee so?" he asked suspiciously.

"My heart," she answered, her voice melodious as a viol.

"Can sorrow burden thine and mine go light?" she wooed him. "Is happiness possible to me when thou art downcast? In there I felt thy melancholy, and thy need of me, and I am come to share thy burden, or to bear it all for thee." Her arms were raised, and her fingers interlocked themselves upon his shoulder.

He looked down at her, and his expression softened. He needed comfort, and never was she more welcome to him.

Gradually and with infinite skill she drew from him the story of what had happened. When she had gathered it she loosed her indignation.

"The dog!" she cried. "The faithless, ungrateful hound! Yet have warned thee against him, O light of my poor eyes, and thou hast scorned me for the warnings uttered by my love. Now at last thou knowest him, and he shall trouble thee no longer. Thou'lt cast him off, reduce him again to the dust from which thy bounty raised him."

But Asad did not respond. He sat there in a gloomy abstraction, staring straight before him. At last he sighed wearily. He was just, and he had a conscience, as odd a thing as it was awkward in a corsair Basha.

"In what hath befallen," he answered, "there is naught to justify me in casting aside the stoutest soldier of Islam. My duty to Allah will not suffer it."

"Yet his duty to thee suffered him to thwart thee, O my lord," she reminded him very softly.

"In my desire—aye!" he answered, and for a moment his voice quivered with passion. Then he repressed it, and continued more calmly:

"Shall my self-seeking overwhelm my duty to the Faith? Shall the matter of a slave-girl urge me to sacrifice the bravest soldier of Islam, the stoutest champion of the Prophet's law? Shall I bring down upon my head the vengeance of the One by destroying a man who is a scourge of scorpions unto the infidel—and all this that I may gratify my personal anger against him, that I may avenge the thwarting of a petty desire?"

"Dost thou still say, O my life, that Sakr-el-Bahr is the stoutest champion of the Prophet's law?" she asked him softly, yet on a note of amazement.

"It is not I that say it, but his deeds," he answered sullenly.

"I know of one deed no True-Believer could have wrought. If proof were needed of his infidelity he hath now afforded it in taking to himself a Nasrani wife. Is it not written in the Book to be Read, 'Marry not idolatresses?' Is not that the Prophet's law, and hath he not broken it, offending at once against Allah and against thee, O fountain of my soul?"

Asad frowned. Here was truth indeed, something that he had entirely overlooked. Yet justice compelled him still to defend Sakr-el-Bahr, or else perhaps he but reasoned to prove to himself that the case against the corsair was indeed complete.

"He may have sinned in thoughtlessness," he suggested.

At that she cried out in admiration of him.

"What a fount of mercy and forbearance art thou, O father of Marzak! Thou'rt right as in all things. It was no doubt in thoughtlessness that he offended, but would such thoughtlessness be possible in a True-Believer—in one worthy to be dubbed by thee the champion o the Prophet's Holy Law?"

It was a shrewd thrust, that pierced the armor of conscience in which he sought to empanoply himself. He sat very houghtful, scowling darkly at the inky shadow of the wall which the moon was casting. uddenly he rose.

"By Allah, thou art right!" he cried. "So that he thwarted me and kept that Frankish woman for himself he cared not how he sinned against the law."

She glided to her knees and coiled her arms about his waist, looking up at him.

"Still art thou ever merciful, ever sparing in adverse judgment. Is that all his fault, O Asad?"

"All?" he questioned, looking down at her. "What more is there?"

"I would there were no more. Yet more there is, to which thy angelic mercy blinds thee. He did worse. Not merely was he reckless of how he sinned against the law, he turned the law to his own base uses and so defiled it."

"How?" he asked quickly, eagerly almost.

"He employed it as a bulwark behind which to shelter himself and her. Knowing that thou, who art the Lion and Defender of the Faith, wouldst bend obediently to what is written in the Book, he married her to place her beyond thy reach."

"The praise to Him who is All-wise and lent me strength to do naught unworthy!" he cried in a great voice, glorifying himself. "I might have slain him to dissolve the impious bond, yet I obeyed what is written."

"Thy forbearance hath given joy to the angels," she answered him, "and yet a man was found so base as to trade upon it and upon thy piety, O Asad."

He shook off her clasp, and strode away from her a prey to agitation.

She saw him halt, and fling up his arms, as if apostrophizing Heaven, as if asking a question of the stars that twnkled in the wide-flung nimbus of the moon.

Then at last he paced slowly back to her. He was still undecided. There was truth in what she had said; yet he knew and weighed her hatred of Sakr-el-Bahr, knew how it must urge her to put the worst construction upon any act of his, knew her jealousy for Marzak, and so he mistrusted her arguments and mistrusted himself. Also there was his own love of Sakr-el-Bahr that would insist upon a place in the balance of his judgment. His mind was in turmoil.

"Enough," he said almost roughly. "I pray that Allah may send me counsel in the night."

And upon that he stalked past her, up the steps, and so into the house.

She followed him. All night she lay at his feet to be ready at the first peep of dawn to buttress a purpose that she feared was still weak, and whilst he slepy fitfully, she slept not at all, but lay wide-eyed and watchful.

At the first note of the Mueddin's voice, he leapt from his couch obedient to its summons, and scarce had the last note of it died upon the winds of dawn than he was afoot, beating his hands together, to summon slaves and issuing his orders, from which she gathered that he was for the harbour there and then.

"May Allah have inspired thee, O my lord!" she cried. "What is thy resolve?"

"I go to seek a sign," he answered her, and upon that departed, leaving her in a frame of mind that was far from easy.

She summoned Marzak and bade him accompany his father, breathed swift instructions of what he should do and how to do it.

"Thy fate has been placed in thine own hands," she admonished him. "See that thou grip it firmly now."

In the courtyard Marzak found his father in the act of mounting a white mule that had been brought him. He was attended by his wazeer Tsamanni, Biskaine, and some other of his captains. Marzak begged leave to go with him. It was carelessly granted, and they set out, Marzak walking by his father's stirrup, a little in advance of the others. For a while there was silence between father and son, then the latter spoke.

"It is my prayer, O my father, that thou art resolved to depose the faithless Sakr-el-Bahr from the command of this expedition."

Asad considered his son with a sombre eye.

"Even now the galeasse should be setting out if the argosy is to be intercepted," he said. "If Sakr-el-Bahr maud, who shall, in Heaven's name?"

"Try me, O father," cried Marzak.

Asad smiled with grim wistfulness.

"Art weary of life, O my son, that thou wouldst go to thy death and take the galeasse to destruction?"

"Thou art less than just, O my father," Marzak protested.

"Yet more than kind, O my son," replied Asad, and they went on in silence thereafter, until they came to the mole.

GAMBLERS.

Fifteen and twenty years ago, on the New York Stock Exchange, speculation centred in railroad securities. Roughly, two shares of railroad stock were sold for every industrial share that changed hands.

Speculation has shifted to industrial securities. In the first eight months of 1924, four industrial stocks were bought and sold for every railroad stock "traded."

Quite a revolution in gambling—a shift from transportation to production as the stakes.

Guard Your Mouth

Let WRIGLEY'S be the guardian of your mouth and throat.

It will combat trouble of various kinds. It helps to keep the teeth free from food particles that ferment and cause decay.

It has an antiseptic effect. It relieves acid mouth and thus not only prevents harm to the teeth, but serves to sweeten the stomach.

It stimulates digestion and helps to prevent the forming of gas that causes dyspepsia.

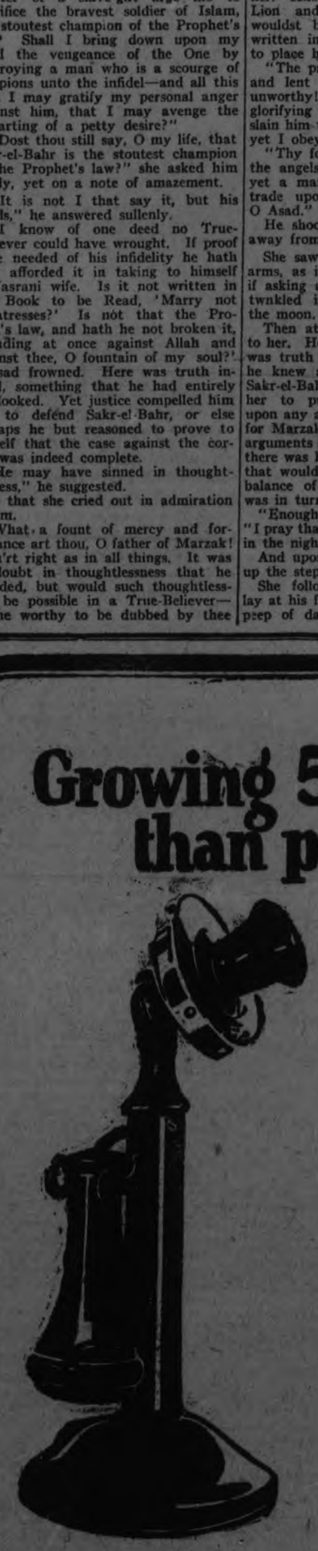
Growing 5 times faster than population



"More population", Canadians cry—for one reason, because every new citizen adds to the demand for what we have to sell.

But the use of the telephone is racing far ahead of the increase in population. The number of new telephones increases, according to the average of the last ten years, by over 11% a year. Population increases about 2%.

As each new subscriber adds to the value of YOUR telephone, its potential value to you becomes over 11 per cent greater each year.

TELEPHONES GROWING.

Port Arthur and Fort William Set Up Record Of One 'Phone To Every Five Persons.

FORT WILLIAM, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press.)— A new telephone directory to be issued here shortly shows that Fort William and Port Arthur have 6,300 subscribers of whom 3,700 are in Fort William and 2,600 in Port Arthur. This is a higher proportion than any other city on the American continent, Manager Moore claims. There is a telephone for every five cial speaker yesterday, at All

CANON LOUCKS HERE.

Conducted Services In All Saints' Church Yesterday.

Rev. Canon W. M. Loucks, M.A., rector of All Saints' church, Winnipeg, and formerly curate of St. John's, Peterborough, was the special speaker yesterday, at All Saints' church, in the institution of which he was instrumental. The Harvest Thanksgiving services, which commenced at All Saints' last week, were continued yesterday, and the sacred edifice was appropriately decorated with sheaves of wheat and barley, vegetables, flowers and fruits.

At the eleven o'clock morning service, Rev. Mr. Loucks prefaced his sermon with a brief reminiscence of his former life in Peterborough, then went on to emphasize of the lessons to be drawn from the harvest season. The first was the law of growth; "first the blade, then the ear, then the full corn in the ear." "We do not grow to full maturity at first. We see this law working in every department of human life. Sometimes we set up false standards. We look too closely toward material things. We may have progressed wonderfully in material ways, as far as methods of harvesting are concerned, since the days of Ruth, but Ruth's character has never been surpassed. From the standpoint of character, we have not progressed."

The second lesson was that of co-operation, the co-ordination between Gbd and man that resulted in bountiful harvests. Referring to actual scenes witnessed by himself in the west, when a splendid harvest field might be utterly ruined within twenty minutes by a sudden hailstorm, the reverend speaker said: "I do not attempt to explain these things. I do not attempt to explain the unexplainable or solve the insoluble. There are some philosophers who are ready enough to explain what God does not decipher for us, but I say, like good old Queen Elizabeth: "Christ's word He spake. He took the word and brake it, and what that word did make it, that I believe and take it."

"There must be that actual spiritual co-operation between the agricultural west and the industrial east. There must be less of this pulling apart. The communion of saints should not only be a theological doctrine, but an actual experience in daily life."

The third lesson was the one of results. "He that sows sparingly shall reap sparingly." "St. Paul uses that illustration concerning our alms and our gifts. There are those men and women who are generous in outlook, willing to help in deed and word, who scatter and yet whose goods increase, and there are those who withhold in word and deed, mean, niggardly, going down to their graves unlamented. In not only money, but in everything you possess, you are the steward of God." The speaker here made an appeal for generous giving in church matters. He said that early in life he had decided that he would be a tithe-giver, returning to the Lord one-tenth of his earnings and he had never suffered in any way through his givings.

In the harvest also, he continued, was a marvellous illustration of the law of cause and effect. "What you reap, you sow unfailingly. If a young man sows wild oats, he will reap wild oats. It is a terrible law. Nature never forgets. Nature never forgives .Nature is hard and inexorable and grinding in the way that she repays. Remember this law, and, because God has been good to you, keep clean and pure and true."

"The seed is the word of God. We should sow it in our lives and then clear the rocks and cut the thorns to make the soil ready and for the good fruit which will spring up from it."

Old Masters.

A new maid from the country had been engaged, and her mistress, who lived in a fine house, was showing Mary Ellen round the various rooms and instructing her in her duties. At last they reached the best room, where the valuable picures were kept.

"Now," said the lady to the servant as they passed before an extensive row of masculine portraits, "you must be very careful when dusting these. They are all old masters."

Mary's jaw fell, and an awestruck look came over her face.

"Lor' mum," she gasped, "who'd ever have thought that you'd been married all them times?"

ENFORCED DENTISTRY IN NEW YORK SCHOOLS SHOWS FINE RESULTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 29 (Associated Press.—Because of its deep interest in the subject, the best method to care for the teeth of school children is being sought by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. The Association began with 3,000 youngsters in the public schools four years ago. At this time, 90 per cent. of the children examined needed dental work. To-day this percentage is only 49. The number of cases requiring extraction has been reduced 63 per cent., and the need for fillings has gone down 77 per cent. During the first year 14 children out of every hundred got diplomas for clean mouths; during the last year the diplomas ran 59 to the hundred.

"Communities are only beginning to awaken to their responsibility of providing a complete preventive dental programme for school children." Bailey B. Burret, general director of the association, said to-day in making public the report on the four years of study. The responsibility for organizing and interpreting this service in oral hygiene has fallen on John C. Gebhart, director of the A.I.C.P.'s department of social welfare, who has prepared an appraisal of four years' experience with the demonstration."

Mr. Gebhart's report, in part, follows: "When this intensive plan was first undertaken, a very limited dental service was already in operation. The city authorities co-operated in the larger idea, and the School of Oral Hygiene of Columbia University also helped. Each year a corps of undergraduate students, under careful supervision, has given prophylactic cleanings to the school children of the area concerned. To say that in four years these students have given 10,088 cleanings tell only part of the story. They have been crusaders for oral hygiene in this district. By completing an entire class of children each day, they rapidly run through an entire school, and that with a minimum of confusion or interruption of school work.

"The increase in those needing no corrective dental work and in those awarded diplomas for having kept their mouth clean has been steady. There has also been a marked reduction (from 85.4% to 46.4%) in children requiring fillings, for the most part in first permanent molars. While the proportion needing fillings is slightly greater than last year, the proportion needing extractions has been reduced from 40.3% to 32%. This is again a most encouraging sign, for it means that more children have savable teeth than last year, and for such, fillings rather than extractions are indicated. There is also direct evidence that the fillings required are of a far less extensive nature than when that work first began, for in 1920, 60% of the fillings were urgent, while in 1923 only 37% were urgent.

"Everywhere one sees a marked awakening of all elements in the community to the importance of this work accompanied by a willingness to co-operate in every way to make it a success. The principals and teachers in the schools of the district have made real sacrifices in providing the necessary space. Practical instruction in oral hygiene is made a part of the classroom work by the grade teachers.

"Principals and teachers also co-operated in the sale of toothbrushes to the children at the nominal price of seven cents. As a result of these efforts practically all of the children now purchase toothbrushes in school.

"The demonstration has proved that a dental service which is administered as an integral part of the daily school programme produces the most widespread and lasting results. Our experience has shown that, when the dental clinic is in the school building, children can be sent directly from the classroom to the dental clinic with a minimum of waste time, both for pupil and operator, and with a minimum amount of confusion and disruption of classroom work."

OBJECT TO DRESS.

Labour Men Protest Against Adoption of Court Dress.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—Eight red-hot resolutions, protesting against MacDonald's adoption of "that foolish Court dress," "that ostentatious display," that concession to "the manners and customs of the old order," occupy a prominent place in the agenda of the British Labor party's annual meeting, to be held in London in October.

These eight resolutions protesting against the silk knee-breeches and the premier's ornamental sword are symptomatic of the revolt in the British Labor party against the concessions which the Labor government has made in various directions.

Want Control.

In fact, a number of local organizations have put down resolutions demanding that the Labor ministers and M.P.'s submit completely to the control of the Labor party, reporting to the party executive from time to time and taking instructions. These organizations view with great distaste the concessions which the prime minister has made to the other two parties.

Another significant resolution would check the growing power of the intelligenzia" and the "ex-Liberals" in the Labor party by providing that at least nine members of the party executive shall be trade union members "actually working at their trades." Still another resolution forbids the adoption of any candidate who has not been a member of the party for at least three years.

DINORAH GALOU, HER BABIES FRET FRANCE

By MILTON BRONNER.

PARIS, Sept. 29.—The imaginative mind of Dinorah Galou, pallid, blonde, middle-aged wife of a struggling doctor, has precipitated a baby farm mystery so complicated as to leave the best detectives of France baffled and dazed.

They feel that if ever they can unravel the romancings of Mme. Galou from the strands of actual evidence they will have a most sensational expose of traffic in babies.

Meanwhile they hold the Galous on charges of unlawfully registering themselves as parents of babies and seek to figure out whether Mme Galou is the victim of a psychological twist or had criminal intent.

Here is a brief summary of the most discussed mystery on the continent:

Dr. Fernand Galou, son of poor parents in Agen, France, worked his way through college and had a good record in the war. His slate up to this moment is quite clean.

While French troops were quartered in Constantinople he met and wed Dinorah Coarer. Dinorah told him a highly romantic story. She said she was the daughter of a marquis who had been wandering in India when he met the beautiful daughter of a maharajah, kidnapped her and eventually married her. Her mother, she said, died in childbirth.

At any rate the doctor and his romantic bride settled in a white cottage with pink shutters at Agen and there her further romancings penned the present mystery.

They had several young children with them. One day Mme. Galou announced the birth of a baby. Yet on the following day she appeared in the garden smoking a cigarette. Neighbors gossiped. Rumors spread.

A day later she announced twins.

Police arrived. They found letters showing that the Galous had been in correspondence with unmarried mothers of Southern France with a view to adopting babies. It was reported that a dozen babies had been sent them.

It was next reported that they took babies from rich unmarried mothers and were well paid to have the secret kept.

DR. AND MME. GALOU, WHO HAVE ALL FRENCH POLICE PUZZLED.

Dr. Galou announced that the adoptions had been arranged because his wife had the "mother complex" and had been herself unable to become a mother.

Police investigated. They found the children were not babies of the rich. Quite the contrary. They were offspring of poor, working families. As near as police could learn no harm had come to them.

Some older ones were found working as domestics in private families.

The final puzzle presented the police was why the Galous should have adopted them at all. The financial status of the Galous was found to be all but desperate. The parents of the children were in no position to pay for anything.

There seems to be no doubt that they were baby farmers for illigitimate children, but why should the impoverished take upon themselves a little horde and why should they so persistently fabricate?

Every possible trail is being followed, but meanwhile the police are completely baffled.

A FRIEND OF THE BIRDS

By DR. B. H. COLGROVE.

The most wonderful hotel in the world is located on Jack Miner's farm at Kingsville, Ontario, about thirty-five miles southeast of Detroit. The guests come from as far north as the Artic Circle and from as far south as the Gulf States. They carry no baggage, are not required to register, pay nothing for board or lodging, stay as long as they wish, and when they get ready to leave, they take the elevator for the sky parlor—the great blue vault above them—and off they go in beautiful winged flotillas, honking and quacking their happiness and gratitude that such a good man as Jack Miner should have provided a free half-way house and sanitarium for their benefit.

This is Jack Miner's wild goose and duck sanctuary, and it's one of the sights of Canada. The birds learned that he was a friend of theirs, communicated that fact to their acquaintances, and now thousands of them in their spring and autumn migrations visit his little watering resort for a few weeks' lay-off and recuperation. Jack's feed bill runs pretty high. It takes from 1,000 to 2,000 bushels of corn per year to satisfy his feathered visitors and not slight anybody. That's more feed than some people would buy for their distant relations who come to visit them. But he loves the birds and the birds love him; and where mutual affection exists, the matter of expense doesn't count. Lots of people wouldn't feed all this corn to wild birds. Instead of feeding it to birds, they'd use it to make corn whiskey.

All these wild birds who come to visit Jack have gotten so they know him personally, and they're as tame as kittens when he's around. He has studied their vocalization, and he declares that he understands what many of their throat sounds mean. There is no doubt in his mind that they talk to one another just like people, only their vocabulary is more restricted and they have no dictionary to look into. If they had a dictionary, they might do better. Many of these birds return to him year after year in their biennial trips across the country, the tags on the birds' bodies showing this. Many, however, are shot or meet with other misfortunes and do not come back.

So you see that Jack Miner exemplifies a high type of Christianity. He is protecting bird life and striving to preserve it for future generations. How wonderful! What an appealing story of devotion to these lowly creatures of the earth who are here to adorn it and make us happy! What an eloquent rebuke to the thoughtless and murderous who slaughter our beautiful and fast-diminishing game life, not from necessity but from pure wantonness.

Jack Miner is not only a naturalist, but a humanitarian, philosopher, raconteur and fun-maker. Humor bubbles and foams from his conversation cup. Optimism and kindness ooze from his pores. He has no college diploma and was kicked out of school by old man Necessity at a very early age. But despite these literary handicaps, he's one of the best informed men you ever met, and as a public speaker and entertainer he can make rings around many of our long-haired college professors and oratorical heavyweights. He doesn't wear a clawhammer coat when he lectures. He saves the money he'd have to pay for a clawhammer and uses it to buy corn for his birds.

He is a forester and is planting trees all around his premises. When he dies, they will be living monuments to his memory, homes for his birds, and of great practical use to coming generations.

ARMS AND LEGS.

The English sportsman had been rather nettled by the casual way in which the Highland ghillie had been addressing him all day. At last the proud spirit rebelled.

"You don't seem to understand whom you are addressing," he said pompously. "I would have you know my good man, that my family have been entitled to bear arms for many hundreds of years."

"Hoots, sir, that 's naething at a'," scoffed the Scot. "My family have been entitled tae bare legs ever since the time o' Robert the Bruce."

Asked to Call Again.

Snobb: I called on the Munniswell to-day. Stylish people, house splendidly furnished, received me very graciously, and asked me to call again.

Gunn: Always heard they were very exclusive. How did they entertain you?

Snobb: Oh, I didn't stop long. Only called with a bill for groceries. But I thought it was very kind of Mrs Munniswell to ask me to call again.

TERRITORY IN CHINA OPENED TO GOSPEL BY BICARBONATE OF SODA

How a whole north west territory of China was opened to the Gospel by one small box of soda bicarbonate and a 'Family Doctor' book, was related by Dr. F. Howard Taylor, medical missionary connected for many years with the China Inland Mission, in an interview yesterday when he stated that indigestion as a national plague was even more prevalent in China than in Western countries.

"Over here in America," Dr. Taylor declared, "people have enough common sense to know that an attack of indigestion is simply a dangerous signal—a gentle hint, as it were, from their stomachs to go easy on something, that they know perfectly well is not good for them. But in China where there is even more indigestion, owing to the highly seasoned and rich food that Orientals are famed for, supersitition goes before common sense, and they honestly believe that a pain in the stomach is the wrath of a demon venting its rage by warfare within."

"Just to show how simple effective remedies which have the power of relieving this particular sort of misery are regarded in China, Dr. Taylor told a story of a young missionary who used one of the most common—with results.

Agonizing Wales.

"On a honeymoon in a houseboat, he and his wife were basking in the sun of a peaceful afternoon, when they were alarmed by the most blood curdling, the most agonizing wails. Seeking the source, they found that the groans issued from one of the men who were pulling the boat.

Not having the least idea what was the matter with him, they referred to a "Family Doctor" which had been discovered in an old medicine chest and quickly diagnosed the trouble as an attack of acute indigestion; soda, bicarbonate—a half-teaspoonful was prescribed,—and no sooner had the dose been given than the man showed signs of recovery.

"While a simple household remedy is a simple household remedy, and nothing more, to some of us with whom soda bicarbonate is a daily or hourly performance, it was to these superstitious natives a miracle. Had not a dire and dreadful demon been cast forth from the body of one of them?"

Cured Mrs. "Mandarin."

"Much to his embarassment, the young missionary became to be looked upon as a god, and the contents of the small white package as a magic and potent medicine. Passing through a city where his fame had already spread, he was approached by a worried mandarin, who beseeched him to cure his wife who had been strapped down to a stone slab for many days.

"Again the mysterious powder was effective and the missionary's reputation firmly established. Try as he might to assure the natives that the cure was a simple chemical process they refused to look upon him as anything short of a god. Spacious and beautifully fitted quarters in Hanchung were provided for him, and he soon established one of the biggest evangelistic centres in China.

"Is Dr. Grampleton moderate in his charges?" asked the old lady.

"Oh, yes," answered the man. "He does his best to bring illness within the reach of all."

LITTLE OF EVERYTING.

LONDON, Sept. 29.—There used to be a popular song over here in which the question was asked: "Where do the flies go in the winter-time?"

And the answer was that they went into the blackberry jam. Similarly, a song might now be written asking where all the old bicycles go when American kids get through with them. And the answer might be—Denmark, and particularly Copenhagen.

That great capital city and port has more cyclists than any other place in the world. Out of its 700,000 people, it is estimated that over 200,000 use bikes.

The auto porcession in Fifth Avenue, New York; Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, and Michigan Boulevard, Chicago, has nothing on the bike parade in the Ostergade. In the rush hours, tens of thousands of Danish men, women, boys and girls are to be seen hurrying to or from their work

The file past is endless. It is dizzying. So much is this the case that the police have drawn up special traffic regulations for people using bikes.

And on certain busy boulevards, portions of the street are reserved for up and down bike traffic.

It's a merry tale, and illustrates just how much of a figurehead King Haakon is in his republican-minded, independent Kingdom of Norway. Recently at a party the king dropped his handkerchief and a gentleman hastened to pick it up.

"Thanks, ever so much," said the king, gratefully. "I can't afford to lose it. It's the only thing in Norway I am allowed to poke my nose into."

Even though the king of Sweden is away somewhere in his kingdom holiday-making, the ceremony of changing the guards at his ugly palace in Stockholm is a great show.

Every day at noon it attracts hundreds of his faithful subjects to the place.

In the middle of the great court stands the officer of the day, a fine figure, immaculate in his natty uniform of gray, adorned with Swedish blue. Off in the distance is heard a fine military band playing a swinging Swedish military air.

Here they come. Boom, boom, boom! Followed by the troops in blue uniform and wearing polished high patent leather boots. And—shades of Kaiser Wilhelm—they are doing the real, authentic goose-step!

No Prussian guard ever slapped his feet down with a prettier strut than do these tall soldiers who guard the place where the king sleeps when he is at home.

Modern days in Denmark. Gray haired mother and two daughters, 17 and 19, sitting at table at one of the side-walk terrace restaurants the leading Copenhagen hotels have in the summer-time.

They have been drinking coffee and eating pastry. Now its lighting-up time. Daughters put fire to cigarettes and inhale with delight.

Not so mamma. She is of sterner stuff. With business-like manner she produces a small brown cigar, bites off the end, lights, and sends a blue cloud of smoke into the air.

Votes for women have apparently been followed by cigars fo rwomen.

A JAZZLESS TOWN.

One of the Hopes of John E. Brown in College Town.

SILOAM SPRINGS, Ark. (United Press).—A "jazzless" university in a "jazzless" town—where courses of study play a more important part than football schedules, and students are more interested in their studies than social fraternities and sororities

That is the vision of John E. Brown, evangelist, philanthropist and self-made man, who already has established here a unique college, named after him, which is run on the basis of "pay-by-work."

The John E. Brown College is an institution of higher learning with an enrollment of about 300 boys and girls whose parents are not financially able to send them to college. The students work in the morning and go to school in the afternoon, or vice versa.

Beautiful Site.

The new institution of learning, which is to be named the John E. Brown University, is to be located at Sulphur Springs, Ark., where recently Brown purchased 80 acres of land and several suitable buildings nestled snugly back against the beautiful Ozark mountains.

Brown obtained financial backing for his educational institutions from the many friends he has made while travelling over the United States with the Salvation Army as an evangelist.

Must Pay Way.

"I am going to establish the new university at Sulphur Springs for young people whose parents want them to grow up without being influenced too much by "jazz" tendencies of the present day," Brown says. "It will be necessary for the students to be able to pay their own way."

Brown could have spent the money on his college here, but he reasoned the two types of schools might not mix, the one being a work-as-you-go institution, and the other quite different.

Poverty stricken, Brown started to make his way working in the lime kilns near Rogers, Ark. One night at Rogers he heard a Salvation Army programme and was highly impressed. He joined up, and to-day is one of the most widely-known evangelists in the south and west.

"I'm introducing a brand-new invention—a combined talking machine, carpet sweeper and letter opener," said the agent, stepping briskly into an office.

"Got one already," answered the proprietor. "I'm married."

MARSTON AND OUIMET LOSE IN SEMI-FINALS

ARDMORE, Pa., September 29 (Canadian Press). — Youth was servtd in large measure in the semi-final round of the National Amateur Golf Tournament yesterday. George Von Elm of Los Angeles, dethroned the champion, Max R. Marston of Philadelphia by 7 and 6, and Robert T. Jones, Jr., of Atlanta, eliminated Francis Ouimet of Boston, 11 and 10.

Either Jone or Von Elm will become champion as the result of the final 36-hole round to-day. They have never met before in the national tournament.

Jones, second in the qualifying round with a score of 144, has had the more formidable foes to eliminate, Marston excepted.

Von Elm, tied for the eighth place in the qualifying list with a score of 150, has attracted attention all the week by the lowness of his medal scores in match play, although Jones, with a 73, had the better medal yesterday by three strokes.

Posibly it was the physical and mental strain of protracted 36-hole matches that caused Francis Ouimet, former open and amateur champion, to suffer the worst defeat of his career yesterday. Out of 26 holes played he won two and halved eleven.

Jones shot like the machine he is at his best. For 26 holes he took one over fours, or two over par, on the rugged, heavily trapped and watery course.

Von Elm, who is a skilled boxer, waited for openings and then smashed through. Taking advantage of every slip of the champion save two, both of which resulted in halves, Von Elm was over par ten times in the thirty holes of his match with Marston, but in only four cases was Marston better.

Playing coolly as if in stroke competition, Von Elm never made two poor shots through the green in succession, while Marston, especially in the afternoon round, was timid with his irons.

AMERICAN AIRSHIP IS MANNED BY CREW THAT BOMBED LONDON

Every Member Flying ZR-3 Across Atlantic Saw War Service.

DON'T LIKE TO TALK

Dr. Hugo Eckener, Commander of the Crew, at First Ridiculed Zep.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, Sept. 29. — (Associated Press).—Every man of the crew of the ZR-3 is an "old air dog," having seen much dirigible service prior to 1914 and during the war, when the big lighter-than-air machines were particularly active. Many of the officers and men have made so many flights that they have lost all count of them.

Dr. Hugo Eckener, president of the Zeppelin company and pilot of the ZR-3 on her flight across the Atlantic, is credited with more than 800 flights. Dr. Eckener, who is 56 years of age, began life as a journalist. When Count Zeppelin announced his intention of building rigid airships Eckener took great delight in writing articles attacking the "air castles" of the dirigible inventor. Dirigibles, Dr. Eckener contended, were impractical and something the world could get along very well without.

Count Zeppelin withstood the broadsides of the young editorial writer as long as he could, until finally he invaded the haunts of his critic and eventually convinced him that dirigibles did have a future. During the war Dr. Eckener was an instructor for the Zeppelin works, and he commanded the LZ-120, one of the reparation ships delivered to Italy.

Captain Ernest A. Lehmann, second in command of the ship, who is to be vice-president of the Goodyear Zeppelin company in the United States, was commander of five different airships during the war. Years ago he started recording the number of flights he made but after the count ran into the thousands.

Hans C. Flemming, navigating officer and second in command, also was a dirigible pilot during the war, and holds the record for height, according to Zeppelin officials. On one occasion, during an attack near London, Captain Flemming took his machine up nearly 27,000 feet and dodged the airplanes of the defense forces of the British capital. But Capt. Flemming, like many of the other war time "Zep" officers and men, doesn't like to talk of his war experiences.

Wilhelm C. Siegle, chief engineer of the ship, was the most active of any of the crew in the work of building the ZR-3, being director of construction. He has been with the Zeppelin works many years.

Franz R. Wittemann, chief quartermaster, was formerly in the German mercantile marine service and became an aviator during the war. Walter Scherg, quartermaster, also was in the German flying corps, and Lieutenant Hans von Schiller joined the Zeppelin forces in 1915. He is credited with 38 night flights over London during the war.

All the officers, as well as most of the crew, speak English. Dr. Eckener and Lieutenant von Schiller are the only officers who plan to return to Germany, the others remaining in the United States, either with the Goodyear Zeppelin company or with some other concern interested in aeronautics.

DRIVES OFF BANK ROBBERS

President of Illinois Concern Saves $90,000 in Vault.

KINCAID, Ill., Sept. 27. —Bruce Shaw, President of the Kincaid Trust and Savings Bank, drove three robbers from the bank with a revolverto-day, when they failed in an attempt to obtain $90,000 in payroll money in the bank's vault.

A satchel containing $2,000 which they had gathered up was dropped in their flight. A bank employe was wounded in the leg during the short revolver fight.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

STANDING ROOM ONLY

If you are alive in 1950, you'll pick up a newspaper and read the announcement: "United States now has 150 million population." In 1974, the figure will have risen to 200 millions. So predicts experts.

Even then there wouldn't be any real over-crowding.

The soil of United States can support a population of 300 millions without any more demand upon imported food than exists now, according to Department of Agriculture.

Some optimists even claim that Texas could grow enough food to feed the whole world. Any one who has traveled extensively in Texas is not apt to pick a quarrel over this claim.

These figures are especially interesting because scientists lately have been having a recurrence of the over-population fear that makes economists wear long faces periodically.

This time, however, they are twanging a different string. There's not as much concern about adequate food supply for the future as there used to be. What the scientists fear now is rather a shortage of industrial power.

But when the crisis rises, there's always some one to step forward and solve it.

Scientific agriculture—increasing the food yield of an acre—has been man's answer to the problem of increased food supply for larger population.

And power sources will be expanded and new ones opened up when needed. We still have the tides to harness for power, and the winds and falling water of rivers, not to mention sunlight now wasted and the terrific power locked up in the atom.

Why is the population increasing so rapidly, not counting gains by immigration, inasmuch as big families are no longer the rule?

The answer to this is that medical science has cut down the death rate among the young. The ravages of disease are being curbed in maturity as well as youth, further increasing the population.

In the year 1830 the world had only 850 million inhabitants. Since then the population has doubled. Professor Ross estimates that in the year 2023 the world will have three and a half times as many people as now.

"Race suicide" is a mythological evil, doesn't exist at all, from a broad world viewpoint.

The day may come when all habitable parts of the earth will be as overcrowded as China. But we'll all be gone and forgotten by then. And the overcrowding problem will be solved some way, is a pretty safe bet.

As for the present, and America in particular, our farmers would be grateful for more mouths to feed with their surplus products.

WHEN TWO OF A KIND ARE WINNERS

THE ETERNAL PROBLEM

The Higher Cost of Living is Always With Us.

One generation of people has about the same problems as another. As a sample: The high cost of living is an eternal problem. They had it thousands of years ago, just as much as we have it now. And they tried about the same remedies—such as laws against profiteering, fair price lists, etc.

The reason our economic problems remain unsolved, century after century, is because they are considered as cold-blooded scientific problems instead of human problems.

The trouble begins in our schools. We teach the rising generations all the truths, sophistries and bunk propaganda of economics. But we give them very little training in human decency—kindliness, fair play, the Golden Rule.

Quite naturally, men who have not been trained in Christian principles do not practice these principles when they get power over the necessities of life.

Take the problem of the farmer, who has been getting less than his share of prosperity. This problem has for the most part been considered as cold-bloodedly as if it were a surgical operation.

Politicians and economists and writers have come forth with numerous solutions, based on statistics. Their arguments usually wind up with the plea that, if the farmer's buying power isn't restored to him, he cannot buy city-made goods.

That's true. But there's more to it than the selfish or material side. It's more than an economic problem. It's a human problem. The farmer is a human being. He has a right to a fair share of general prosperity. If he doesn't get it, he suffers—so do his wife and children. His children in particular, suffer by not getting an even chance in education and inheritance. But most of this is ignored. The talk runs to law of supply and demand, cycles, prices, balances, etc.

Some day this is going to be a mighty fine world to live in—but not until people realize that the only solution for most material problems is spiritual—Golden Rule, decency, tolerance, Christianity.

Material suffering is the result of violating spiritual laws.

FASHIONS & FOIBLES

by Shirley Sharon

At Pierre's and Sherry's and the other smart Park Avenue restaurants one sees frocks of pale French gray silk crêpe, the smart Reboux felt hat, plain pumps, simpler gloves and even sheerer stockings.

GRAY is the new color, so new that it is extremely fashionable and also because it is so new not yet general and popular. One sees taupe, mouse and stone gray occasionally, but the smartest shade is the very clear and delicate French shade. One sees it on excessively smart women at Pierre's and Sherry's in wool suits or silk crêpe frocks and with them gray or black felt hats of the new wrap-around shape, gray suède or black pumps and very sheer gray stockings.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

LOSE WEIGHT.

One whole large orange, 1 cup creamed dried beef on 2 pieces whole wheat toast, 1 cup beet greens, 2 lamb chops en casserole, 4 ounces watercress with lemon juice, 4 ounces fresh cherries, 1 toasted gluten roll, 1 whole wheat, roll, 1 pint skimmed milk.

Total calories, 1194. Protein, 306; fat, 263; carbohydrate, 625. Iron, .0187.

The creamed dried beef is made with skimmed milk, about four of the very thin slices found in the average butcher shop and about one dessertspoon of butter. Pick the beef into bits and "frizzle" them in butter, then stir in one tablespoon of flour and when the mixture is well blended slowly add milk, stirring constantly.

As the ordinary creamed dried beef is made with whole milk and much more butter it's quite necessary to make the diet dish separately. Made with skimmed milk as suggested the total calories exclusive of toast, amount to 261.

Lamb chops carefully trimmed, peas, carrots and string beans are used in the casserole dish.

GAIN WEIGHT.

One whole large orange, ½ cup cooked wheat cereal with 1 dessert spoon sugar and ¼ cup cream, 4 cornmeal pancakes with 2 tablespoons butter and 4 tablespoons maple sirup, 2 heaping tablespoons potato souffle, 1 cup creamed dried beef or 2 pork chops, 4 tablespoons apple sauce, 1 cup beet greens with 4 tablespoons hot tartar sauce, 1 cup cream of mushroom soup, 2 lamb chops en casserole, 4 ounces water cress with 2 tablespoons French dressing, 4 ounces fresh cherries, 4 tablespoons frozen rice pudding, 2 tablespoons whipped cream, 2 nut rolls, 2 slices bread, 3 tablespoons butter, 1 pint whole milk, 3 new potatoes in parsley butter.

Total calories, 4067. Protein, 466; fat, 1691; carbohydrate, 1910. Iron, .0191 gram.

As it's sometimes a bother to make two creamed dishes the pork chops and apple sauce are suggested for the gaining menu.

Left-over mashed potatoes are combined with eggs beaten separately and baked in individual molds or one large one for the potato souffle.

The rice pudding is suggested for the luncheon dessert. No eggs are used. The rice is cooked until soft in milk and water, combined with sugar and sifted stewed or canned fruit pulp. Half the bulk of rice is the proportion for the whipped cream what is folded just before freezing.

SCHOOL COUNCIL HELD A MEETING

Reports and Routine Business Followed By Election Officers.

The Home and School Council is the Executive body with which the several Ward Schools and Schools Associations are affiliated, the whole working together in an earnest effort to enlist the attention, sympathy and help of parents in the school welfare of their children, and to try and realize that no more important duty appertains to the family than the careful care of the child attending school. Both physically and mentally that the parents might co-operate with the teachers in having children interested in studies, assisting in progress by careful attention to such home work as assigned, and sending the child, or children out to school in a cheerful and receptive frame of mind. Our schools represent our largest city investment and most responsible responsibility. The whole organization is designed and kept up and supported that every child shall gain so much of education as it will or can absorb, and nothing is lacking that the very best facilities and surroundings are provided. But with out the hearty cooperation of parents, and most parents, it may be observed, have children of school age the benefits of the beneficient system are not gained. To interest parents, in each ward, or connected with the school in that ward, or schools, if more than one, are held meetings for conference, suggestion and association, and all are most cordilly invited to attend.

The annual meeting of the Council was held on Friday evening last, in the Chamber of Commerce Rooms, by courtesy of the Board of the organization The attendance was a good one, nearly all members being present. A brief summary of business transacted follows.

The President, (Mr. F. H. Dearborn, reviewed such matters as interested the meeting, and growing out of the operations of the Council, during the last official year. Touching on the several activities as put on by the several school clubs. These are noted in reports, given verbally by ladies, active in the interest of the clubs, Mrs. Pollock, for King Edward Club, reported that activities, from force of circumstances had centered in relief work. Many needy children had been assisted with gifts of minor articles of warm clothing, and it was rather expected that the coming winter would call for additional thought and care for those not happily situated.

Mrs. Connolly, for the Prince of Wales Club told that in all the club had earned and expended nearly $50.00 in relief work, sending a delegate to the Toronto Convention, providing the school picnics which was attended by over 600 children and many of the parents, a real Community Out-door Festival. In addition the Club had gone on with and partially fitted up the Teachers' Room, and had provided appliances for the kitchen. In all the year had been a fairly successful one.

Mrs. H. G. Walker spoke of what had been done at Queen Alexandra School and by the club. Interesting to the pupils, teachers and those of the parents who attended, was the Pratorical Contest, with something of recognition for the child, or children, which excelled in making a short address. It was gratifying to find that considerable interest had been aroused. Needing funds to carry on with, and so avoiding the appeal to parents, a rummage sale had been put on, by and for the children, and $30 realized. Certain zealous members whose names might worthily be lettered on the hall walls of the school had engineered a paper collection and from the bundles collected, with the aid of the boys and their go-carts, gained $20.00. The annual school picnic had proved to be a pleasant affair and enjoyed by those who attended.

Mrs. Johnston, for the Queen Mary School Club, said briefly that the activities of the club included the school picnic, a rummage sale and a small amount of relief work.

A fixed date for the Association and Council meetings was discussed. It was decided that meetings should be assigned for the first Friday in November, as the annual meeting. Further on in the meeting it was also decided that meetings of the Executive should be held on Nov. 21st, 3rd Friday in January, and on the 3rd Friday in March.

The president read a resolution passed by the Toronto Home and School Council, endorsing the Ontario Temperance Act, as being the best means as yet devised, to control intemperance. It had been suggested that this council should pass a similar resolution.

Some discussion ensued as to whether the council was authorized to pledge the several affiliated Associations in the city, without consultation as to the views held on the matter. Personal feeling might be expressed, if the meeting now sitting were considered as an open one. It was finally decided that the Council could act, if it thought advisable to do so, and it was formally moved by Mrs. Walker, and seconded by Mrs. Connolly:

"That this Association of the Home and School Council place itself on record as favoring the Ontario Temperance Act, and in opposition to the proposed system of Government Control."

Members expressed views that while the present act was not all it should be, we were indebted to it for much improvement in social conditions, and the removal of liquor from the reach of thousands who before got and used liquor to the detriment of their families.

Rev. J. W. Gordon, pastor of St. Andrew's church, came and kindly addressed the meeting, taking for his theme: "Things Parents Could do to Help the Teacher."

Mr. Gordon said he had been a teacher, and observant while so engaged that he was a parent, and also observant in such respect. Summarized the points he put forward were:

That the child rarely gets enough sleep. It was a potive help to the teacher to have the child come to school properly rested.

Diet is important. Children should not have to eat hastily, at meals, but in view of the physical condition of the child and the assimilation of the nutritive energies of the food, eat as leisurely as possible. It is not fair to the child to be hurried off to school hastily fed.

Parents could materially assist by inculcating, 'No tales from school.' The siding of the parents with the child as against the teacher often took place on erroneous statements. A small child is often an indifferent reporter and offers a distorted view of some instruction or occurrence. In all cases of doubt, why see the teacher who would most cheerfully and sympathetically confer with the parent. Children learned from one another and in such way the beginnings of a rebellious attitude was gained, as against reasonable study and obedience to rules of the school.

Children, when studying at home, should have a quiet place in which to do the work. Distractions do distract and work done in noise and confusion is seldom well done.

Parents should hesitate to criticize in the presence of children, and affirm that methods and rules of teaching were wrong. There was ever the possibility that the child's report as to matters of discipline and instruction would be such as a person of immature years could not sense properly. And many children viewed the teacher as a daily despot. That all rules and observances were unnecessary. That they should be allowed to read and study just as they wished, or not at all. Practically as one goes to a store and selects what is pleasing or avoids what is not liked. It often resulted that the child gained the idea that its work was behind wholly on account of the supposed failings and faulty methods. If such were the home attitude little progress would be made.

Comment was made by Mrs. Morris (member of the local Board of Education), and who commended the simple suggestions as made by Rev. Mr. Gordon and a vote of thanks was tendered for the interesting address.

The election of officers for the ensuing year was taken up, resulting as follows:

Hon. President—The Convenor of the Supervision Committee of the Board of Education, for the time being.

President—F. H. Dearborn.

Hon. Vice-President—Mrs. S. T. Medd.

First Vice-President—Mrs. W. R. Morris.

Second Vice-President—Mrs. Alex Mowat.

Secretary—F. H. Dobbin.

Asst. Secretary—Mr. Bolton.

Treasurer—(to be named by the President).

Executive Committee—The Presidents of each of the Ward Clubs as affiliated with the Council.

On motion the number of the Executive Committee was enlarged by adding two from each Club, one of which should be a teacher.

The following list of supervising officers for the several local associations as affiliated with the Council was announced:

Queen Alexandra School Club—Mrs. H. G. Walker.

Queen Mary School Club—Mrs. Breckenridge.

King George School Club—Mrs. J. Ellis.

King Edward School Club—Mrs. Pollock.

Prince of Wales' School Club—Mrs. J. S. Peters.

Central School Club—Mrs. E. A. Howson.

May's School Club—(to be determined).

The preparation of a list of speakers to address at intervals, the several gatherings of parents, teachers and pupils at the Ward Schools Club gatherings, during the winter, was left in the hands of Mrs. Morris, to prepare and communicate to the secretaries of the local associations.

The meeting then adjourned.

NEWS TRENT RIVER.

Victim of Car Accident Able To Be Out Again.

TRENT RIVER, September 29.—Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Rose and Miss Ethel, of Ye Olde Mill, spent Wednesday with Mr. and Mrs. John Armstrong, Hillview Farm.

Melville Wight, who had his forehead cut in the car accident on Sunday, is so far recovered as to be able to be out and around again.

Rev. James Skene, a former pastor of Knox Church, Havelock, called on friends one day this week.

Mr. S. J. Dolman, of Campbellford, spent a few days this week at his cottage.

Mr. James Paget has the contract to build a new kitchen and dining-room at Rest-a-While Cottage.

Miss Gange, guest at the Cook Cottage, returns to Toronto this week.

Mr. and Mrs. Hay, of Toronto, arrived to-day, and are guests at the same resort.

Mr. Jim Wight, of Detroit, arrived this week, called here to the bedside of his cousin, Mr. Andrew Wight.

The death occurred on Wednesday afternoon at Nicholls Hospital, of Susan Finch, wife of the late Charles Finch, formerly of Rylstone. Mrs. Wesley Tedden and Mrs. John Lawson are sisters of the deceased. The funeral was held on Friday interment taking place at Zion Cemetery, Petherick's Corners.

A phonograph has been introduced into the village "public," and the landlord, after running off several records, asked one of his audience—a big agricultural laborer—what he thought of the invention.

"Why," he replied, "Aa nivver could git on wi tinned meat, and Aa'm hanged if I like tinned music."

THE OLD BUS RAMB LED RIGHT ALONG

Legionaires from Centuria, Wis., entered this old bus in the contest to determine the oldest car driven to the American Legion convention in St. Paul. With street lamps for headlights and a Cognac barrel for a gas tank, they made the trip to the convention city under their own power.

ROTARY TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF T. N. D. KELLY

Luncheon To-day Converted Into Impressive Memorial Service.

LOSS TO THE CLUB.

Rev. Harold Young Describes Deceased As An Ideal Rotarian.

A striking testimony to the regard in which the late Noble Kelly was held was provided to-day by the fact that the luncheon of the Peterboro Rotary Club of which the deceased was a member, was converted into a memorial service. The usual programme was dispensed with; no business matters were taken up and the proceedings were eloquent of the great sense of loss felt by members of the Club in the sudden taking off of Rotarian Kelly.

The service was opened by the sympathetic singing of "The Crossing of the Bar" by Rotarian Douglas Carlisle after which Rotarian Rev. Harold Young paid a most eloquent tribute to the memory of Mr. Kelly. Uppermost in the hearts of the members of the Rotary Club he said was the feeling that they had lost one of their most esteemed and useful associates. Only a week ago Rotarian Kelly had been one of their number at the weekly luncheon and had helped to plan some of the future activities of the club.

Rotarian Young referred to Mr. Kelly as a splendid citizen and an ideal Rotarian. He had carried the principle of Rotary into his every day life, always remembering the motto "Service before self" in all his dealings. His life had been distinguished by chivalry, purity, love of his fellows, kindliness and consideration for others and in every respect he had been a splendid citizen. His death represented a heavy loss to Rotary and it remained for his fellow members to close up their ranks and to go on in their work, faithful to the ideals of Rotary as had been Noble Kelly.

Rev. Mr. Young's eloquent tribute voiced the feelings of every member of the Rotary Club.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

Editor, Examiner:

Dear Sir: Mr. Denne can carry on a debate in the paper, with the assistance of friends, much better than he can debate a subject from the platform. The reason for this is quite clear to most of us.

If there is anything that Mr. Denne should not have spoken about, is the strike and lockout in the Canadian General Electric, a few years ago. Mr. Denne's defence of the management of the C.G.E. is a very lame one.

What really happened was this: A number of the employees of the C.G.E. were dissatisfied. After a failure to reach an amicable settlement, a strike took place. Overtures were made to the President and General Manager, and information reached the representatives of the men that they would be allowed to return on a certain Monday morning, pending negotiations for an appointmet of a Board of Conciliation.

On the Sunday night before this Monday morning, a responsible and highly respected citizen of the city told me at my home that the management had decided to refuse to allow the men to return on any such terms. On Monday morning the men found that they were locked out, and the Mayor of the City of Peterborough, an Alderman and myself were requested to go to the city of Toronto to urge the President and General Manager to consider a Conciliation Board and a settlement of the differences that had arisen. This was absolutely and positively refused by the management. I then made representations, at the suggestion of the representatives of the men, to the Minister of Labor of the Borden government; and representations were also made to Sir Adam Beck, with the suggestion that he attempt to influence Senator Nichols, who was President and General Manager of the company, to have a Conciliation Board appointed. These efforts were unsuccessful. Influential men at Toronto, who were shareholders of the C.G.E., were asked to assist in the matter, and I believe that they did make effots to do so, but the management refused to be so influenced.

Strike-breakers from the United States were unlawfully in Canada, but the Borden government declined to take any action to deport these men until their work was done.

I expended $160.00 in this labor trouble, besides several days' time, in an effort to get an adjustment. I then found that no settlement could be reached; but strike-breakers were being dumped at the back fence of C.G.E. from the train at Kendry's Station. After this treatment was net out to the men, I expressed the wish that the men should succeed, and that I hoped that they would. I have been told by large employers of labor of this city, and by officials of the company, the treatment of the men at that time was a mistake. My opinion was that it was more than a mistake, and that it was harsh and ungenerous.

Mr. Denne, being a sympathizer of the management, is said to have expressed his views in the words that "the men would get theirs," meaning that they would be defeated in their objects.

Let me cite a case in the industrial world, that took place shortly before this. The gigantic General Electric Co. of Schenectady, New York, had differences which affected an army of employees. The company took a broad view, and the men did likewise. The result was that a student of industrial and social problems, who was then known as Mr. Mackenzie King, was called in and developed a plan of operation, which both the company and the men accepted, and which they are working under to-day, so I am advised by good authority.

If a similar plan had been adopted here, there would not have been the heart burnings, the disappointments and the bitterness that did develop. My own view is that with the present management, a change of policy has taken place, and a more friendly attitude is taken by the management to the employees.

Mr. Denne's contribution of sympathy for the management, and distrust for the men employed, earned him the support of the late Senator Nichols, in his effort to organise the C.G.E. As a political machine, in the 1921 election, when the C.G.E. employees were invited for sources of influence to support Mr. Denne in his election campaign.

I am glad to say that I have been assured from authority of the C.G.E. management that hereafter there will be no interference, and no suggestions will be made, as to how men and women should vote, but everyone will be permitted to exercise his own judgment.

With this policy I am in accord, and I would not accept the interference that took place on Mr. Denne's behalf, if I could get it by simply saying the word.

Yours truly,

G. N. GORDON.

Editor.—The controversy involving Mr. Gordon and Mr. Denne has developed into a serial, and in order to bring the issue to a close and make room for other copy, The Examiner suggests that both Mr. Gordon and Mr. Denne write one more letter each, and both letters will be published in the same issue of The Examiner. If this is not satisfactory to the letter-writers, The Examiner will be glad to consider the controversy closed with the publication of the above letter.

PRINCE IS ACTIVE.

Spent Three Hours Pitching Hay, Etc., Etc., Etc.

HIGH RIVER, Alta., Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—The Prince of Wales intends to put in his time during the few remaining days he will spend at his ranch near here. To-day will be devoted to haying and inspecting and making future plans for his ranch, to be followed by ride on range. On Tuesday the Royal visitor will entertain at luncheon at the ranch for a few Alberta old-timers and ranchers, and will also enjoy another ride on range.

On Wednesday the Prince will preside at a big sale of blooded stock on his ranch, and will leave late in the afternoon to board his special train for Calgary, arriving there at 9.30 p.m. The train will be immediately transferred to the Canadian National lines and go through Jasper Park via Edmonton. The party will reach Jasper Park about noon Thursday, spending the balance of the day there, and leave Thursday for Vancouver.

This programme is subject to minor changes, but in general will be carried through as outlined. The Prince expects to spend two or three days in Vancouver and Victoria, and then will come back to Calgary, via Canadian Pacific Railway, probably spending a few hours in Banff, arriving in Calgary Oct. 9th.

It is possible that a short visit will again be paid to the ranch on that date. The Prince and his party will then go on east to Winnipeg, Ottawa and other eastern Canadian points, making a brief visit at each and sailing for England from New York.

The Prince is keeping up his reputation for indefatigible activity, and his personal staff are hard put to keep up with him. As an instance for this, after three hours of labor at pitching hay, and as a preliminary to a shooting trip, the Prince hiked out Saturday to climb to the top of a small mountain near the ranch, just to get a view of the country.

CONFESSED CRIME.

Wild Out-Of-Doors Life Drove Man To Confess To Murder.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Sept. 29. — Rain-soaked and dishevelled, with his clothing bearing marks of 60 hours out of doors, Winto Perrin, 50, surrenered himself to-day to answer for the slaying of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Frances D. Rawson, 77, and for the shooting of his sister-in-law, Miss Nina Rawson.

LINDSAY COURT OPENED TO-DAY

Murder Case That Shocked Community Four Months Ago Reaches Another Stage.

(By a Staff Reporter.)

LINDSAY, September 29. — Four months ago to-day Beatrice Fee was buried in the cemetery at Emily with her lover's diamond ring on her finger, and to-day Frederick McGaughey appeared to answer a charge of murdering her.

The case is being heard by Mr. Justice Logic of Hamilton, at the Fall Assizes, and is being prosecuted by Peter White, K.C.

The prisoner is defended by Knight, Frost & Frost, of Lindsay.

McGaughey, who is 24 years of age, was committed for trial by Magistrate Jesse Bradford on 2nd June, after a coroner's jury had found that "Frederick McGaughey shot and killed and murdered Beatrice Fee."

The tragedy occurred on Sunday evening, 25th May, when Miss Fee was spending the holiday week-end with her parents at Omemee. She was employed in the Mail Order Department of The T. Eaton Co., Toronto.

With McGaughey, whom she was engaged to marry, the nineteen-year-old girl went for a drive. McGaughey accused her, it is said, of keeping company with another man, and when she denied the charge he drew a revolver and shot her four times. The weapon jammed on the fifth shell.

Miss Fee made a gallant struggle for her life, and bore the black marks of her jealousy-crazed lover's attack on her arms and body.

Death resulted on Monday evening from internal hemorrhage and shock.

After McGaughey had dragged the wounded girl into the house which she had expected happily to enter as his wife, he attempted to commit suicide, but was stopped in a struggle in which he lost part of two fingers.

Doctors have examined the accused on behalf of the defence, and a plea of insanity will be entered.

LINDSAY, Ont., September 29.—Although the opening of the Fall Assizes with its hearing of two murder charges, was not scheduled until one o'clock, the Court Room was crowded long before noon, and the corridors held hundreds of people when the grand jury was sworn.

His Lordship fixed the time for opening the petit jury hearing in the event of a true Bill being returned, for nine o'clock on Tuesday morning.

The address to the grand jury merely intimated that there were two charges of murder to be investigated, and defined the scope of the charge.

The petit jury was dismissed at 1.15 when the grand jury retired.

RADIO-MOVIES.

Hetty Green's son believes, from experiments he and his staff of engineers have made, that it will be possible to broadcast radio-movies within 18 months. Not long to wait.

The next step will be some form of television, by which you'll look in a box or on a screen and see, by radio, a show, prizefight, battle or presidential inauguration afar off.

Radio is solving considerable of the passenger transportation problem by making it unnecessary to travel to "be in on the entertainment."

NEWS FROM CAVAN.

Mrs. E. Syer Entertained the Cavan Women's Institute Last Week.

CAVAN, September 29. — On Thursday afternoon Mrs. E. Syer entertained the Cavan Women's Institute. There was a good attendance.

Miss B. McNeil, the president, conducted the meeting.

Mrs. D. J. Hunter and Mrs. R. S. Staples had been appointed to provide the programme for the meeting, and after the routine business was concluded they took charge.

One interesting number of the programme was a discussion on the culture and care of bulbs, led by Mrs. M. Sutton, Milbrook, who is always very successful in growing them.

Mrs. Sutton told how they should be planted and cared for, and answered many questions, asked by the members.

A letter was read by Mrs. Hunter from Miss M. Phillips, who had conducted the sewing class in the spring. Miss Phillips has been at this work continuously all summer, principally in the north country, having been as far as North Bay. Throughout the area devastated by fire, the classes were given quite free of charge, and she had always a large class.

A discussion and exchange of recipes for nickles followed.

Mrs. R. S. Staples read a short sketch from a paper, bearing on the topic of "A Girl's Place in the Home and Community."

The hostess served lunch and a social hour was enjoyed.

The October meeting will be held on the third Thursday of the month, in the evening, at the home of Mrs. Chester Fee.

Bulbs have been purchased for the members, and they will be distributed as soon as they arrive.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Paul attended Orono Fair.

Mrs. H. Long was also a visitor to Orono Fair on Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Tinney visited Mrs. Tinney's parents at Nestleton, and attended Blackstock Fair.

Rally Day service at Fairmount proved an interesting and beneficial service. Rev. Mr. Barton was the special speaker. Cavanville Sunday School was well represented.

IT PAYS TO ADVERTISE.

The Purity Defence League

The O.T.A. is not Prohibition. Why?

Because it allows grape wine of any alcoholic strength to be made and sold, and it is made and sold in Ontario in immense quantities. This wine is four times stronger than real beer, and is as strong as the usual drink of whisky.

Because it allows home-brew to be made from any fruit or grain at home, and it is now the general practice to make it there. It can be made of any strength, and is usually a sleep producer of the first order.

Because it cannot prohibit the illegal use of imported liquors since people are ready to pay so high a price and O.T.A. agents are so frequently only confederates of the bootlegger, in disguise.

To call the O.T.A. Prohibition or even a respectable temperance measure is to misrepresent it, and if persisted in becomes a deliberate falsehood.

Government control will stop all that, because it will provide liquor at a cheaper rate and deprive the bootlegger of his market while it limits sale to those who should have it and will end the ruin of the home by home-brew. 1d-76-3634

The little red hen

"PUCK, puck, puck, puckAYah," cackles the little red hen, as she steps off the warm nest, broadcasting to the barnyard that she has just laid a fine, fresh egg. She makes a product that any "manufacturer" might be proud of, and doesn't hesitate to advertise the fact.

A duck egg might be just as good, but the duck evidently doesn't think so. She doesn't advertise, and duck eggs have no market.

To be absolutely sure of buying ANY merchandise, stick to the advertised brands. For their manufacturers believe in them and tell you about them daily in the advertising columns of this newspaper, over their signature.

The duck-egg brands might be just as good but you cannot be sure, if the manufacturers themselves will not admit it!

Read the advertisements regularly. Buy from them. You will then know the source of the products, and whom to look to if they don't measure up.

NO STARTLING CHANGES IN FUR COAT STYLES

By HEDDA HOYT
United Press Fashion Editor.

NEW YORK, N.Y., Sept. 22 (United Press).—Remodelling the fur coat to suit this fall's style will not be a difficult task, as there seems to be no startling changes in the fur coat silhouette. Furriers returning from Paris state that three lengths are being made up for the coming winter; the short hip-length jacquette, the three-quarter, and the 45-inch.

Due to the increasing popularity of short skirts, furriers place more confidence in the popularity of three-quarter length types than in longer or jacquette types. Straight lines prevail this season in most models, although the circular front effect is used on many models which have the side-front fastening.

Both shawl collars and up-standing types are to be used this season. Sleeves do not show any great changes, as most of them continue quite wide. Some of these are fur trimmed at the cuff and others have no cuffs whatever.

Scarf Collar.

Short and three-quarter length models are sometimes made with the fur scarf, which is like a fur stole, and it is thought that these scarf effects will be popular in the United States and Canada. The scarf is usually made of the same fur as the garment. This gives a new idea to the woman who is planning on having the long coat shortened, as the border, which is cut off, can be used to make the scarf. Scarfs are worn with one end in front and the other end thrown over the shoulder and falling in the rear.

Monkey Fur Trims.

Monkey fur seems to be more popular that ever with the Paris furriers. The fur is applied in a novel way, being placed upside-down or rather applied the wrong way, which gives a fluffy, fuzzy effect. Both daytime and evening coats are lavishly trimed in monkey fur about the hem borders, collars and cuffs. A lovely combination for the evening wrap is the white ermine coat, with wide border of moneky about the hem and on cuffs and collar. Monkey is also lovely when combined with gray squirrel or with broadtail.

Rabbit.

Just now there is a great vogue for Havana-dyed rabbit in Paris, and this lowly fur is being made up into the most intricate designs. It will not be popular in the United States, however, on account of the high cost of labor in that country, which would bring the cost of the rabbit fur coat up too high for the average person. The Parisian woman wants a new fur coat each season, and she wants a cheap coat that will look expensive, whereas the American woman buys a fur coat that will last several winters, and she demands a good wearing fur.

Ermine.

Ermine will probably be as popular as ever this fall for evening wear. While the Americans seem to prefer dyed ermine of late, the Parisians will have only the pure white ermine wrap. This winter we will see the ermine wrap lavishly trimmed in ermine tails about borders, collars and sleeves. Wide use of both ermine and mink tails will be seen this coming season.

Chiffon and Fur Scarfs.

The vogue for scarfs is showing itself in wide stoles of chiffon, which are trimmed with appliques of fur. Sometimes two layers of chiffon are used, such as black over red, and either narrow strips of fur are put on in crosswise effect on the entire scarf, or there are appliques of fur with fur tail borders. Brown chiffon over gold chiffon is used with appliques of mink, which are set on with gold embroidery and the ends of this scarf are trimmed with mink tails. These lightweight scarfs will, doubtless, be popular for evening wear, as they make a becoming and light wrap for the shoulders. The black and white idea is carried out in many models, either with ermine or imitation ermine fur combined with black and white chiffon.

HIGHER BIRTH RATE.

This Is France's Plea, And It Is a Good Guarantee Of Peace.

STRASBOURG, France, Sept. 29.—Canadian Press. — A plea for a higher birth rate in France as "the best guarantee for peace," was made by General Sereigny, secretary of the higher council of national defence, in the course of a lecture here yesterday.

"Most elementary prudence," he declared, "demands that France rely upon herself when we evacuate the Rhineland in 1935. If nothing is done in the meantime to modify the situation France will have six million two hundred thousand men capable of bearing arms and Germany will have eleven million four hundred thousand."

JEWISH NEW YEAR.

On Sunday, Sept. 28th, At Sunset, the Jews Ushered In Year 5685.

TORONTO September 29. Canadian Press. — With the blowing of trumpets, with solemn prayers and haunting melodies, with feasting and good wishes, "Rosh Hashanah," the Jewish New Year's Day was celebratbrated at the hour of sunset yesterday.

According to tradition the Jewish religious era began with creation and still follows the ancient lunar year, each month beginning with the new moon, so on Sept. 28th at the going down of the sun, the Jews ushered in the year 5685. As the civil calendar is used for all ordinary purposes, the New Year festival is strictly a religious occasion.

TWO DIED SUDDENLY

Miss Amelia Robinson Died From Pneumonia, Brother Succumbed From Heart Failure.

TORONTO, September 29. Canadian Press. — Miss Amelia Robinson, for 25 years a teacher of the Board of Education class in the Girls Home, on Gerrard street east, and her brother, Henry James (Tom) Robinson, aged 49 years, a prominent business man of the Soo, are dead, at the family residence, Dovercourt Road.

Miss Robinson died on Friday afafter only a brief illness from pneumonia, and her brother was summoned by telegraph to attend the funeral. He arrived here early on Saturday morning and assisted the other members of the family in arranging for the funeral of his sister.

On Saturday night while at home he was stricken with heart failure or acute indigestion and died.

THEATRES

AT THE ROYAL.

RUPERT HUGHES' "RENO" FILLED WITH THRILLS, COMEDY AND WISDOM.

Rupert Hughes has written and directed an unusual film play in 'Reno,' which was produced at the Goldwyn studios and which opens to-day at the Royal Theatre for a run of three days.

One success after another has been the story of Rupert Hughes' film experience. "Souls for Sale," his latest previous great picture, stamped him as being one of the greatest of creative artists.

The characters in "Reno" are vividly and realistically portrayed by such screen folk as Helene Chadwick, Lew Cody, George Walsh, Carmel Myers, Hedda Hopper, Dale Fuller, Kathleen Key and Rush Hughes. Other well known people in the cast are: Marjorie Bonner, William Orlamond, Howard Truesdale, Robert de Vilbiss, Virginia Loomis, Richard Wayne, Hughie Mack, Victor Potel and Jack Curtis.

The photography is beautiful, nad many brilliant lighting effects were secured by John Mescall.

The theme of the story is skilfully built about the confusing divorce situation existing in the United States. Guy Tappan, a New Yorker, is whirled through three marriages, and on the third, when trying to gain possession of his children from his second wife, he runs into a series of serious obstacles in the shape of laws, assorted and otherwise. He finds that in some states he is not married at all, in others he is claimed by three wives, and in others he faces the penitentiary as a bigamist. A thrilling love story runs throughout which builds the structure up to one of the greatest climaxes ever seen on the screen. Part of the picture was taken in beautiful Yellowstone Park and the great geysers form a natural background which words fail to describe.

In all, "Reno," is one of the greatest pictures of the year.

BASE BALL PICTURE FOR ROYAL THURSDAY—HOOT GIBSON'S BEST TO DATE

Universal City's studio baseball team rated high in the motion picture colony's winter league, figures prominently in "Hit and Run," Hoot Gibson's new starring feature, which comes to the Royal Theatre next Thursday.

Some of the lads who support the star in the line up are former professionals, some of them still are, so there is plenty of the real thing in the picture. The picture was previewed before a group of professional ball players in Los Angeles, who voted the battling average of the production at 1000, both in entertainment value and fidelity to detail in the matter of baseball atmosphere.

The story was evolved by Edward Sedgwick, Gibson's director, who was once the star catcher of the University of Texas team, and later a professional. Sedgwick was assisted in the preparation of the story by Raymond L. Schrock, who has teamed with Sedgwick in the writing of many of Gibson's most popular productions.

Mike Donlin, former star outfielder and heavy hitter of the New York Giants, plays the role of a major league scout in the film. Gibson's role is that of a cowboy who is the pride of the Cactus league ned who breaks into the big circuit by way of a unique habit of hitting 'em hard and far.

The picture is essentially comedy, but is well balanced with drama and thrilling incidents. It's a great picture for those who love baseball and worth while for those who would rather stay home than sit in the bleacers.

LEATHER PUSHERS AT ROYAL TO-NIGHT.

The second round of the new Leather Pushers is an added attraction at the Royal to-night. Billy Sullivan is very popular with Royal patrons, and the stories from Colliers are too well known to go into detail here. One of the series will be shown every Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

AT THE CAPITOL.

HOPWOOD STRIKES A RICH VEIN OF HUMOR IN "WHY MEN LEAVE HOME."

It is a distressing fact, but a fact nevertheless, that the marriage state is the most popular butt of the modern humorists. The vaudevillian, the joke writer and the songster all have a failing for this type of humor, and it must be confessed that all of us, whether we are married or not, appreciate such fun and relish it highly. There are so many angles to married life that it would indeed be remarkable if it did not present so many opportunities for the funmaker.

That is one of the reasons for the immense success that is being achieved by "Why Men Leave Home," a First National picture, produced by John M. Stahl, which is now the feature at the Capitol to-day and Tuesday. The author, Avery Hopwood, is one of the most successful writers of to-day, but in none of his other plays has he struck such a rich vein of humor. With a young married couple and the man's stenographer as the central figures he has woven a tale that is a gem of humor, and Producer Stahl has converted it into a photoplay that evokes continuous shrieks of laughter from the audiences.

The leading players in the cast are Lewis Stone, Helene Chadwick and Alma Bennett, aided in the fun-making by Mary Carr, Hedda Hopper, William V. Mong, Sidney Bracy, Lila Leslie, E. H. Calvert and Howard Truesdell.

AT THE REGENT.

"BREAD" ON SCREEN A BIG PRODUCTION.

Elaborate Cast and Settings Feature New Metro-Goldwyn Picture.

"Bread," the Metro-Goldwyn version of Charles Norris' great novel, opens at the Regent Theatre to-night, and will prove to the satisfaction of everyone that it makes as fine, if not finer, a picture than a book. It has all any photoplay could possibly contain for the kind of entertainment the whole family wants—drama, comedy, and some well-placed melodrama combine to keep the audience on the edge of its respective seats.

"Bread" is a story which will touch responsive chords in every part of every audience. It deals with intimate, modern, personal sides of the everyday experience of every life.

Business, or the Home?

Women who face life in the modern business world and women who have found happiness in marriage will both find their own problems dramatised before them in startling fashion in "Bread." It is safe to say that no film has ever come so close to the life of the nation in daring portrayal of modern themes and experiences than does this photoplay achievement.

Victor Schertzinger, who directed Jackie Coogan's "Long Live the King" and "A Boy in Flanders," has exploited to the full every dramatic phase of the famous novel.

The cast assembled for this film is one of the best of the year. The chief part is played by Mae Busch, who has been growing in popularity by leaps and bounds as a player of difficult dramatic roles. She has won a vast public by her work in "The Christian," "Name the Man," "Nellie, the Beautiful Cloak Model," "The Shooting of Dan McGrew," and "Broken Barriers."

Robert Frazer the Hero.

Robert Frazer, who has been called by Pola Negri "the best lover on the screen," plays opposite Miss Busch. Mr. Frazer has lately appeared in many big films, among them "Women Who Give," "Men," "When a Man's a Man," "Jazzmania" and "Broken Barriers."

Pat O'Malley, whose Irish features have shared the screen with Laurette Taylor, has an important role in "Bread." Wanda Hawley is in it, and stages a long-expected comeback. Hobart Bosworth, Myrtle Stedman, Ward Crane, Raymond Lee and Eugenie Besserer are other favourite players in the cast.

"Bread" was published by E. P. Dutton & Company last season, and immediately became the subject of a nation-wide discussion. The screen version was prepared by Lenore Coffey and Albert Lewin. The picture is presented by Louis B. Mayer.

AT THE GRAND.

CATHEDRAL BUILDING AND THE CINEMA

In a recent number of Harper's Magazine appears an unusually interesting article, by Elizabeth Robins Pennell, upon the romance of cathedral building, and particularly the building of the Cathedral of Saint Peter and Saint Paul at Washington, illustrated with a series of exquisite etchings by Joseph Pennell. Mrs. Pennell deplores the fact that, save in the case of Van Eyck and a very few of the old masters, artists have failed to see and record the beauty of a cathedral in process of construction, with the amazing arrangement of the scaffolding in itself, and the equally amazing contrast to the arches and gables and pinnacles and richly decorated surfaces at its side.

In his etchings, Mr. Pennell caught and preserved perfectly the mystery and beauty of the cathedral in the making. By an odd coincidence at precisely the same time that he was engaged in this work at Washington, employing the tools of the etcher's art, the newer art of the moving picture camera was being utilized in San Francisco to record a similar scene as a part of Cecil B. De Mille's photo-drama, "The Ten Commandments," which will be presented at the Grand Opera House Tuesday and Wednesday. So nearly alike in artistic preception were the eyes of the distinguished etcher and noted producer that the views chosen of the subject are almost identical. A further coincidence lies in the fact that the cathedral in Washington and the cathedral in San Francisco, under construction at the same time, bear the same names, Saint Peter's and Saint Paul's.

As Mrs. Pennell points out in her article, the opportunity to see a cathedral in the course of its building is by no means an everyday occurrence. For many years the Cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York, was the only building of its kind under construction in the United States. During the same period the Pro-Cathedral in London and the new cathedral in Liverpool were being built. The Washington cathedral, begun sixteen years ago is now the only great edifice in process of building in this country. The San Francisco edifice, though magnificent in its proportions and design, is not like the other buildings mentioned calculated to endure through centuries to come, but for the purposes of making the picture, "The Ten Commandments," for which its use was permitted, it met every artistic and architectural requirement.

In Jeanie Macpherson's story, which forms the second part of "The Ten Commandments," the building of the great church is a point upon which centres much of the dramatic interest. The structure seems to have a real personality and to play a part of its own; precisely, as in Hugh Walpole's novel, "The Cathedral," the huge brooding edifice exerts an unescapable influence upon all those who dwell within reach of its shadow. The building of the church in "The Ten Commandments" is the crowning piece of rascality and greed on the part of Dan McTavish, the breaker of all moral laws; and the pitiful tragedy of the story comes when the immense dome, built of inferior concrete, cracks and falls, burying under its debris the old mother whose beliefs were ridiculed by her money-mad and pleasure-mad son.

"THE GINGHAM GIRL"

Schwab and Kusell's big production of the musical comedy hit, "The Gingham Girl", comes to the Grand October 2, Theatregoers have read the unstinted praise heaped on this merry piece and its players, by critics in New York, Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia, which was reprinted in leading magazines, and as the musical numbers have been reproduced in phonograph records distributed throughout the land; the amusement loving public is familiar with the high order of merit of this particular attraction, therefore, it is not surprising to learn that "The Gingham Girl", tests the capacity of the theatre wherever the piece is presented. The book was written by Daniel Kusell, music by Albert Von Tilzer, lyrics by Neville Fleeson, dances arranged by Sammy Lee and the piece staged under the direction of Edgar MacGregor. The story is interesting depicting the adventures of Mary and Johnnie, who leave their country homes to seek fortunes in the city; the plot has many twists and there is an abundance of wholesome humor that is decidedly refreshing. It is a charming love story studded with 16 catchy songs including: "The Down East Flapper"; "The Twinkle in your eye", "You must learn the Latest Dances", "As Long as I have you", "Tell her While the Waltz is Playing", "The Wonderful Thing We call love", and others. Six big dance numbers form a special feature which has much to do with great success achieved The company embraces the names of comedians and singers who have established reputations and the chorus consists of sprightly girls, each of whom dances expertly, in addition to possessing a well trained voice and a particular type of beauty of her own. The piece is mounted with magnificent scenic settings, 20 groups of costumes that gladden feminine hearts and novel lighting effects.

"THE GINGHAM GIRL," at the Grand, next Thursday, October 2nd.

ROBERT BRUCE MANTELL IN CLASSICAL REPERTORY.

That admirably endowed actor and scholar, Robert Bruce Mantell, who has done so much to promote interest in classical drama in our theatre, will come to the Grand Opera House for two nights and Saturday matinee, Friday and Saturday, 3rd and 4th October, bringing with him his lovely and talented leading woman, Miss Genevieve Hamper, and his entire New York company.

The famous thespian will begin his engagement with that near Shakespearean drama, "Richelieu," written by Sir Edward Bulwer Lytton; at the Saturday matinee Shakespeare's romantic comedy, "As You Like It" will be presented, and the engagement will conclude with Shakespeare's thrilling historical tragedy, "Richard III."

If your theatre-worn emotions refuse to react to bedroom farces, cabareting musical comedies, morbid sex-drama, or narcotical crime thrillers—if you want to get away from some of the superficialities of our so-called civilisation for an hour or two, drop into the Grand either night or the matinee during this engagement, and refresh your mind with something in the dramatic line that is really worth while, something that has stood the test for three hundred year safter the passing of the builder, for Shakespeare is more popular to-day than at any time in the history of the English-speaking stage. There is never a night but that somewhere in this world a Shakespeare play is educating, thrilling and delighting an audience.

And Mr. Mantell with his superb organisation is doing more to keep Shakespeare before the public, affording the youth of the country an opportunity to set great plays well acted, than all other theatrical influences combined.

Lakeviews Play 17 Innings Tie - Giants Win Fourth Straight Pennant - C.G.E. 5, Kingston 7

JUNIOR O.B.A.A. RECORD SMASHED BY LAKEVIEWS AND M'CORMICKS IN 17-INNING BATTLE ENDING 3-3

First of Junior Finals Produced Spectacular Game for Big Crowd at Willowvale Park.

YOUNG SOUTHPAWS WENT WHOLE ROUTE

No Runs Scored After the Fifth—Whitehouse Struck Out 25.

CROWD OF 3,500

Game Lasted Three Hours and a Half — Whitehouse Got Three Hits.

(By F. D. C.)

Lew Lebarr's fighting Lakeviews held McCormicks, Toronto Junior champions, at bay for three hours and a half in their own lair at Willowvale Park Toronto on Saturday in the first game of the series for the junior championship of Ontario and when time was finally called after seventeen innings of sensational ball, honors were even with the score firmly knotted at 3 runs each.

The figures had remained that way from the fifth inning, the teams battling on for twelve more frames without either side being able to push another counter over the plate.

What a ball game!

Frank Whitehouse, Lakeview's crack southpaw was pitted against "Irish" Rasson, McCormick's great little left-hander, and for seventeen long innings the two best junior pitchers in Ontario gave an exhibition of super fine twirling that had the 3,500 spectators pop-eyed.

A merry dance that pair of portsiders gave the battlers.

Whitehouse struck out 25 of the McCormicks; Rasson set down 23 of the Lakeviews on strikes.

In fact of the twenty-one men who got into the battle before it was over, Whitehouse himself was the only player who did not fan at least once. Gillespie, the McCormick right fielder, got the brown derby in this respect, striking out six times in seven trips to the plate.

It was a pitcher's duel that by reason of its length and the number of strike outs registered, set a new record for O.B.A.A. junior series and the most remarkable game in which any Peterboro team has figured this year.

Whitehouse Was Great.

Whitehouse has turned in some outstanding pitching feats for the Lakeviews but his performance on Saturday reached a new level of achievement. He had a world of stuff with plenty of hop on his fast one and a drop that had McCormicks completely at sea. When they tried to step out in front to meet his drop Frankie blew the fast one by them and when they were set for the fast one he'd cross them with a back-breaking hook. And the longer the game went the better he worked, not allowing a hit or walking a man after the twelfth and striking out eight men in the last five frames, including the side in the fifteenth.

Rasson Real Rival.

Rasson, a little fellow had much the same brand of stuff as his Lakeview rival, and gave a grand exhibition. Whitehouse struck out two more than he, and had considerably the advantage in control, walking but three men while Rasson passed four and hit an equal number of Lakeview batters but on the other hand McCormicks got eleven hits as against nine by the Peterboro crew.

Both pitchers deserve all kinds of credit not only for the stuff they showed but for their coolness under fire and the stamina that carried them through seventeen innings. Each team had a number of openings to register the tally that meant victory but both Whitehouse and Rasson were invulnerable when a hit spelled disaster for their team.

Both Defenses Good.

Behind this remarkable pitching both teams played sterling ball. There were errors of course—you have them in nearly every game and Saturday's battle almost doubled the length of the usual fixture—but only one on each side figured in the run-making and there was plenty of fielding worthy of senior teams. Baseball sharps as the game went into extra innings predicted that one team or the other would crack but the blow up never materialized.

The most spectacular defensive plays fell to the lot of the McCormicks. Eisner pulled down a screaming liner from Whtilow with his glove hand, Swing in left field made a beautiful catch of Ash's hard drive that started out like a homer and Gillespie robbed Whitehouse of a hit by a diving shoe-string grab. For Lakeviews Whitlow's running catch of Woodrow's short fly in the sixteenth stood out. Johnston grabbed a liner frm Swing in the second and Marchen handled several wicked rollers splendidly.

The work of the catchers was another feature. Both Halliday and Boyd handled their pitchers nicely and the former with twenty-six chances and the latter with twenty-eight had nothing that looked like an error.

Whitehouse topped his sensational pitching by leading Lakeviews on the attack getting three clear hits. Ash and Johnston got two each while Swing with three and Eisner with two safeties were the most successful McCormick hitters.

The Scoring.

Whitehouse had to do his stuff right in the first inning. He walked Swing to open the frame and after Eisner had fanned Boyd hit to Cameron for what should have been a double play. Marchen dropped the toss, putting two McCormicks on but Whitehouse fanned Clark and Gillespie.

Lakeviews opened the scoring in the second. Whitehouse singled to left and after Ash had struck out Marchen drew a pass. Halliday slapped a single over second scoring Whitehouse, after which Cheu and Johnston whiffed.

McCormicks equalized in their half. Henry struck out but Sinclair drove a long high fly to right for three bases and crossed the plate on Woodrow's sacrifice fly to Whitlow. Rasson singled over second but Swing hit to Johnston who made a nice catch.

Lakeviews got two on with two out in the third but failed to score while McCormicks robbed themselves of a chance. Eisner led off with a drive down the right field foul line good for three bases but was called out for not touching second base. Boyd struck out, Clark singled to centre and stole second, only to be picked off that base by Whitehouse and Marchen.

Both Score in Fifth.

The last scoring of the game was done in the fifth, each team getting two counters with the aid of a solitary hit.

In Lakeviews half Johnston was hit and was sacrificed to second by Cameron. Lebarr hit to Rasson who thre to third. Johnston eluded Woodrow with a beautiful slide. The McCromick third baseman then tried to get Lebarr at first but threw over Henry's head, Johnston scoring. A pass to Whitlow and Whitehouse's third hit, a single to right, filled the bases and Ash walked, forcing in Lebarr. There was a great chance for more but Marchen popped to Clark and Halliday flied out to Swing in left.

McCormicks evened it up in their half. With Woodrow out of the way Rasson walked and Swing sacrificed him to second. Eisner bounced a single of Marchen's leg to score Rasson. Boyd walked. Clark hit to Cameron who threw low to first, Eisner registering. Gillespie fanned to retire the side.

That ended the scoring but not the thrills for the afternoon.

The battle went on for twelve innings more but the final punch was always prevented by the clever work of the two pitchers.

Chance in Eleventh.

Lakeviews came the closest to scoring and would undoubtedly have won the game in the eleventh had they played safe. Griffin opened the inning by walking and then got caught off first base. Singles by Johnston and Cameron followed, on which the winning run could have been scored, and then to make it worse Johnston was nipped off third when Lebarr struck out.

McCormicks best chance was in the twelfth when they too were guilty of bad baseball. Swing opened with a single to centre and was moved up on Eisner's sacrfice. Boyd flied to Ash. Brown beat out a slow roller to Marcnen and then Swing tried to steal home and was an easy out.

From then on the pitchers had the attack almost completely stopped. The only two McCormicks to get on in the last five frames were Gillespie and Rasson, on errors by Cameron and Lebarr, while Lakeviews got only Johnston and Lebarr on the paths, the former getting the only hit off either pitcher after the twelfth.

McCormicks will clash with Lakeviews at Riverside Park Saturday and judging from Saturday's battle it should be one of the best fixtures of the year.

GIANTS WIN PENNANT

Fourth in Row Decided in Saturday's Game With Phillies.

NEW YORK, Sept. 26. — The Giants can stop worrying now. For the first time in the history of organized baseball, a club has won four straight pennants. The Giants turned the feat before 25,000 fans at the Polo Grounds, Saturday, beating the Phils, 5 to 1, while the Robins were obligingly losing to the Braves. A great load was removed from the minds of the 25,000.

Clinching the National League pennant was far easier than the preliminary work which went ahead. The ceremony was conducted with ease and celerity and the Phils, although fighting with all the aggressiveness that Arthur Fletcher could summon, had little or nothing to offer in opposition. They scored a run in the first inning and scared the crowd, but the next eight rounds saw a string of ciphers for Philadelphia and an intermittent succession of ones for the Giants.

Jack Bentley made sure of the pennant by limiting the Phils to four small hits, carefully allotted where they would do the least harm. As a matter of cold, hard fact, Jack should have had a shut-out, a muff by Travis Jackson in the first letting a runner score from second who should have been out. The Phils in that frame scored without the aid of a hit. Holke singled in the second.

ROBINS CLINCH SECOND PLACE

Vance Pitching Out of Turn Beat Braves—Pirates Third.

LOST TO CUBS

BROOKLYN, Sept. 28.—Brooklyn clinched second place in the National League pennant race by winning its final game of the season from the Boston Braves to-day 5 to 1. To make the victory certain Dazzy Vance pitched out of his turn, and was invincible, holding the Braves to five hits, two of which came together in the ninth.

HUSSARS BUNCH HITS AND BEAT ELECTRICS 7 TO 5

Kingston Intermediates Displayed Strong Attack And Extra Bases Featured Game.

FIRST OF SERIES

Moore Fanned Ten Electricians—C. G. E. Infield Played Clever Game.

Canadian General Electrics struck an unexpected snag Saturday in their pursuit of their third Intermediate O.B.A.A. championship when Kingston Hussars beat them 7-5 right on their own mudheap. The champs were outhit and outplayed in every department of the game. Moore, the big right-hander, had the heavy hitters swinging wildly at his slow hooks or else hitting weak rollers to the infielders. His teammates gave him splendid support. They wobbled at times but none of their errors were costly.

Hardill, on the other hand, was not in his usual good form and the visitors managed to bunch their hits to the best advantage. They were helped by some listless work which allowed them several extra base hits.

The soldiers are a bunch of big fellows, all sluggers, and they sure smashed the old pill on Saturday. Twigg and Fannon were the only members of the team to go hitless.

The locals connected heavily with Moore's curves but his outfielders held up in good style and the inner defence got in the way of most of the hard grounders. However, the locals took full advantage of the visiting heaver's numerous charities.

C.G.E. Infield Good.

The local fielders gave their battery good support Barrie, Rose and MacPherson all contributing good stops and throws. Nicholson, the visitors' speed artist, started the game with a hit and essayed to steal second. A fast throw from Ross to Barrie had him cold and thereafter the Hussars took no chances on beating Bob's arm.

The visitors opened the scoring in the third. Lawless doubled over third. Moore was safe on Dugan's fumble. Nicholson struck out but Arniell shoved a long drive over Wolfe's head for three bases. Cordier hit to Hardill and Arniell was run down, Gordier going to third. A momentary lapse of memory on the part of the locals who started to stroll back to their positions, forgetting the runner on third, permitted Gordier to score.

Ross Scored Two.

The Electricians got two of them back in their half. Hardill rifled one over second for a single. MacPherson fanned and Wolfe was passed. McCarney rolled to Twigg who fumbled, and the bases were full. Ross dropped a single over short scoring Hardill and Wolfe but a good throw from Nicholson caught Ross at second. Rose rolled to Gordier.

The visitors added one in the fourth when Hall doubled and scored on Conley's single. This ended the scoring till the eighth.

In the eighth Gordier was walked and went right around on Hall's double to right. The Electricians cut into the lead in their half. Dugan doubled and Ranger singled. Barrie popped to Fannon. Hardill double to left to score both runners. McPherson sacrificed him along but Wolfe fanned.

Hussars Get Two More.

The visitors added another pair in the ninth. Fannon walked and Lawless singled. Moore doubled to score both but a good relay, McCarney to Rose to MacPherson caught the batter at third.

The locals made a desperate attempt to tie it up but the gathering darkness aided Moore. McCarney struck out. Ross walked and stole second. Rose singled to score him and stole second. Dugan and Ross struck out.

The locals go to Kingston on Wednesday. They expect to master Moores' pitching in the second attempt and win the game.

BISONS THIRD AS RACE ENDS

Rochester Wind Up in Fourth Place—Leafs Lose Last Games.

SEASON CLOSES

BUFFALO, Sept. 28. — Buffalo defeated Toronto in the last game of the season, to-day's score being 6 to 3. The victory gives the Bisons third place in the race. It proved a hard fought battle played for the most part in a light rain. Joe Reddy had excellent support while Stewart wavered a little, his own balk aiding in his defeat. Each team registered the same number of hits Reddy's triple being the longest blow of the contest. Score:

Cobb to Give White Sox Chance to Escape Cellar.

CHICAGO, Sept. 28. — The Chicago White Sox and Detroit battled ten innings to-day to a ten to ten tie and darkness forced a suspension of what was to have been the final game of the season here. A victory would have given the White Sox a chance to tie Boston for seventh place, if Washington should defeat Boston to-morrow.

To-night Manager Cobb of Detroit agreed to play the game over to-morrow giving the Sox one more chance to gain at least a tie for last place in the league.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 28.— St. Paul clinched the American Association pennant yesterday when it defeated Louisville 5 to 3, in the second game of a double header, while Minneapolis was winning from Indianapolis, 3 to 1

BRANTFORD WON SOCCER CUP TIE THREE TO TWO

Both Teams Gave an Excellent Exhibition of Soccer in Plenty Cup Game.

GRIFFINE BRILLIANT

Brantford Now Meet Toronto in the Next Round in Toronto.

Peterborough soccer boys had to admit defeat to Brantford Plenty Cup team by three goals to two in an excellent brand of soccer before a good attendance of spectators. The visitors arrived in the city on the noon train and departed at 5.30 p.m. for Brantford with the second round game tucked away and to meet Toronto in the next round.

The Peterborough team made a creditable debut on the field and Richmond at centre had two clever goals to his credit, while Brantford team was not weak in any position, as every player was an experienced man.

Mitchell of Peterborough was injured in early part of the ninety minutes and required Trainer Gatfield's attention.

Brantford Lost the Toss.

Captain Jackson won the toss and decided to kick into the north goal. Drake sent Ferguson away on the left, but his parting shot was wide of the mark. Griffin sent Richmond down into Bramtford territory, where Mason stopped the Petes centre in the nick of time. Blowers returned to Mitchell who passed forward but Jackson's (Brantford) head nullified the attack. Baxter grasped the opportunity to let his outside winger transfer the play. Rae tackled him to gain possession and sending Clark away down the wing. He dropped a beautiful centre to Richmond's foot who tested Stone with fast ground shots. A few minutes later the Brantford goalkeeper fisted clear one of Clark's individual efforts. At the other end Fraser compelled Griffin to fist over the bar from a dropping shot. Then a concentrated Brantford attack made things interesting around Griffin's charge when Fergusson missed by inches.

Richmond Opened Scoring.

Jackson (Petes) centre-half found Drake a very slippery man to watch and from midfield play the Petes player sent Clark down the wing, and without hesitation lifted the ball across to Richmond, who dribbled past the defence pair about five yards out, then rattled the net inside the crossbar for the opening goal amidst great excitement. Encouraged by their success the Petes went right back again through Mitchell and Richmond. Jackson and Procter sandwiched the Petes inside man when in the act of shooting. It was noticed after this raid that Mitchell's effectiveness was marred through the very severe injury he sustained on his hip and sides.

Fraser Equalised.

Play was of a ding-dong character hereafter, with the defence players of each team holding the forwards in check when any attack was attempted. Twice in succession Griffin made spectacular saves from splendid tries by Aird and Richardson. Burgess on the left made a raid upon Stone's goal, but he viewed Brantford's custodian clutch the ball in the corner of the upright. From the goal kick, Fraser travelled down the wing with the ball at his foot, and while on the run shot hard and fast at waist-high height. Griffin saved his shot, but the force behind carried the sphere into the net. Both teams, now even, made the game more snappy as the players tried every football move to get within shooting distance, but Chambers and Rae were stopping them at the crucial moment.

Players Claimed Offsides.

It was pleasant to view such an excellent brand of soccer, but the Peterborough boys sustained a setback when Fraser, lying unmarked, on the extreme right, gained possession amidst protests from the Petes' defence for offsides, but the referee ruled otherwise. The Brantford player paid no attention to their claim, but went straight ahead to give Griffin a hard one to hold which rolled into the net, much to Griffin's dislike.

At this reverse, Peterborough attacked in a vengeance against the Brantford citadel, but found Stone & Co. giving no scope whatever to even up the score, just before half time was announced. Half time, Brantford 2, Peterboro 1.

Half Time.

No sooner was the ball centered, on resuming, than Richmond in a very characterstic dash, left the defence pair behind and from a right foot drive beat Stone all the way with a rocket rising shot. The teams, now on even terms after getting two goals apiece, gave the enthusiastic spectators their money's worth when the style of play would go to long-swinging passing, then all of a sudden the Brantford boys would immediately adapt themselves to the Scots' close passing combination, and this respect the two Brantford inside men were masters in this art, which resulted in the wing men being fed systematically, much to the Petes' half-backs' dissatisfaction.

Drake's Winning Goal.

Play ran from end to end without any issue. The forwards on each team made progress occasionally in the dangerous area without any successful issue. On mid-field play the Brants' half-backs passed the ball from one wing to the other until Dickson, noticing Fraser all alone, punting across to him. Quick as a flash the Brantford right winger sent a ball along the ground to the centre forward's foot, who picked the opposite corner from which Griffin was standing and a shot he could not have saved at any time.

Griffine's Clever Display.

No matter what the Peterboro boys would do to reduce the leeway, they found their opponents giving no latitude with the ball. Time and again Brantford would pepper the Lift-lock boys' goal with all kinds of shot, but Charlie Griffine was fisting, clutching and picking up the ball in a marvellous fashion from the eager Brantford forwards. At the time wore on it was evidently noticed that Brantford were the superior team on the attack and the defence about the same. There is no use giving any excuse for the defeat, because the visitors were the more seasoned and experienced players. Although retiring from the Plenty Cup, the Peterborough boys made a very creditable showing in a three to two struggle. Full time, Brantford 3, Peterboro 2.

Goal scorers—Brantford: Fraser 2, Drake 1. Peterboro: Richmond 2.

The Teams.

Brantford— Stone, goal; Mason and Jackson, backs; Procter, Baxter and Dickson, half-backs; Fraser, Richardson, Drake, Aird and Ferguson forwards.

Peterboro— Griffine, goal; Rae and Chambers, backs; Craig, Jackson and Blowers, half-backs; Clark, Mitchell, Richmond, Dyer and Burgess, forwards.

Referee—Alex. Mitchell.

LAKEVIEWS' FINAL AT HOME SATURDAY

Whitehouse and Rasson Will Renew Their Battle at Riverside.

The Lakeviews, whose sensational seventeen innings game in Toronto Saturday is the talk of the fans, and who, apparently of all the Peterborough teams, are in the best position to bring an Ontario title here this season, will play their last home game of the year at Riverside Park on Saturday against the McCormicks, the Toronto junior champions.

The game is part of the final series for the Ontario championship, Lakeviews having tucked away Oshawa, Belleville and Kingston in the east, while McCormicks have disposed of Niagara Falls and Guelph.

It promises to be one of the outstanding games of the 1924 season. Frank Whitehouse, of the Lakeviews, and "Irish" Rasson, the little McCormick southpaw, are the two best pitching prospects in the junor ranks in the province, and the renewal of their duel here will be full of interest.

Manager Lew Lebarr, of the Lakeviews, who has financed the operations of the club at heavy loss to himself for several seasons, is asking the support of the fans to the extent of purchasing tickets for Saturday's game. The pastboards will go on sale at once and there should be a hearty response. Lakeviews won the Ontario championship last year, and are in a fair way to repeat the exploit, and local baseball enthusiasts should indicate their appreciation by providing a worth while gate for Saturday's game.

SCOTT DEFEATS WEBBER IN MEN'S TENNIS SINGLES

Won Three Sets in Five After Slow Start — New Was Effective.

RETAINS TITLE

Dr. Phyliss Young Also Repeats as Winner of Ladies' Singles.

Saturday afternoon was the big day at the Peterboro Tennis Club's Monaghan Road courts.

In the first match at 2.30 p.m. Dr. Phyllis Young won from Mrs. J. A. Dewart in the ladies' singles finals. Score 6-2, 5-7, 6-4. This match was a great battle all the way. Mrs. Dewart was as steady as clockwork, and deserves great credit for the fight she put up. If Miss Young had not been at the top of her game it might have been a different story, but Dr. Young was there in all stages and with all her strokes working perfectly. Her back hand drive won many a point. In the second set Mrs. Dewart gave her best, and had Miss Young down 5-2 at one time, and won the set 7-5. Miss Young, however, came back strong in the third set, and although Mrs. Dewart gave her a strenuous battle, Miss Young's drives to the back line were too much for Mrs. Dewart. The tennis enthusiasts who witnessed the match were all thoroughly satisfied with the exhibition of tennis, and their only regret was that for one to win another must lose. This win for Dr. Phyllis Young gives her three championships — ladies' singles, ladies' doubles with Mrs. Cranfield, and mixed doubles with F. C. Webber.

Scott Defeats Webber.

Mr. G. C. Scott won the men's singles in five sets, 3-6, 6-4, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2. He demonstrated to the tennis fans that he is still strong in the pinches. He may be beaten a few times during the summer, but when the city tournament rolls around he is there with the old control. On Saturday his placement was perfect when he would tighten up.

In the first set Webber won 6-3. Scott, playing a careful game, was warming up slowly, and did not seem worried in the least.

In the second set Scott was going a little better, and won out 6-4, although he fed Webber a great number of shots at the net for kills.

In the third set Scott lost 4-6, but was still going smoothly and trying for the corners and cross court and missing by inches.

In the fourth set Scott was 6-0. In this set he showed the fans what he could do, and with his new lob stroke which he developed since last season, he had complete command of the game, playing Webber from side to side and chasing him to the back line with lobs, very few of which were returned.

In the fifth set Scott continued his perfect placement and deep lobs and won out with a 6-2 score.

The tournament will likely be completed by next Saturday. The men's doubles are still to be finished up. Semi-finalists:

C. S. Brown and Dr. Ray Scott play Dr. C. D. Hewett and F. C. Webber.

A. C. Scott and H. A. Cranfield play F. Bowness and W. Jackson.

Club members are reminded of the dance to be held at Chemong on Tuesday, Sept. 30, for members and their friends, and that admittance cards may be obtained from the committee—Miss M. Holmes, Miss R. Carr, Mr. F. Bowness and Mr. W. Jackson.

TIE GAME IN DUMMER

C. P. C. Juniors and Township Team Each Scored Three Goals.

The C.P.C. Juniors journeyed to North Dummer on Saturday afternoon to play the replayed game in the competition and after a well contested game in which some excellent soccer was witnessed the games again ended in a draw of 3 goals each. Mr. J. L. Howarth refereed the game.

The Teams

C.P.C.—T. Foster, A. Halliday, W. Oxley, J. Robertson, M. Strudley, W. Chambers, J. Mitchell, I. Buchanan, W. James, J. Downer, H. Follis.

North Dummer—Bryan, W. Garveth, A. Jory, Taylor, H. Jory, G. Little, R. Payne, F. Bell, H. Munro, Harold Darling, H.. Darling.

BROWNS POPULAR.

Browns, particularly the reddish browns, are very good this season, both in velvets and in wool materials. They combine particularly well with fashionable furs.

ORONTO CREW OO MUCH FOR OUNG PETES

laple Leafs Were Off Colour In First-Two Innings and Handed Game To McCormicks.

SCORE WAS 5 TO 0.

Large Crowd That Filled the Grandstand Gave Youngsters Poor Encouragement.

Maple Leafs were handed a setback in the O.B.A.A. Juvenile race at Exhibition Park on Saturday when shut out by McCormicks of Toronto, the score being 5 to 0. The visitors played at the top of their form while the Leafs worked poorly in the early stages of the contest and also wasted what few hits they garnered off the Toronto heaver, on the runways. But badly as the locals misbehaved, they hardly deserved the verbal broadsides from small groups of fans hidden safely in the grandstand. Cries of "call the game" from a home crowd is mighty poor encouragement to a pitcher, who, with the bases filled, retires the opposition without a run it was rank ingratitude to Bradley after three years of clever pitching performances.

Spectacular fielding plays featured the game. Benson, the visitor's second baseman, with Verrill at first, stopped the Leafs' attack by clever fielding, and Buckingham who moved in to second base when O'Connor was injured and replaced behind the bat by Benson, made a seemingly impossible catch of Scully's drive over second. The Leafs' third baseman, also came through with some nice work, and his play on Park's smash in the ninth to retire the side was done as neatly as anything seen on the diamond during the afternoon.

McCormicks' scored a pair of runs in the first on a brace of doubles and an infield error and added two more counters in the second on misplays by the Leafs. Bradley fanned two batsmen in this frame. The visitors hit in another run in the fifth. An infield error allowed McCormicks to get away in the eighth and they filled the bases. The local pitcher then fanned the fourth batter and retired the side, following grounders to the box.

The Leafs had a runner at third with one down in the fourth but Delehaye was nailed at the plate by Benson who handled Corbett's grounder. In the sixth, Grant was doubled off second to kill a rally, and Corbett was caught off second in the seventh when the Leafs had two on and nobody out. Bradley came up in the eighth with two on and two out but fell a victim to Moffat's pitching.

The box score:

STRIBLING BOOKED UP.

Pug Will Be Matched Against Jack Delaney In November.

NEW YORK, Sept. 27.—Despite the belief of critics that he is overworking his pugilistic offspring and running the risk of 'burning him out' "Pa" Stribling has mapped out another ambitious campaign for "Young" Stribling, young Georgia light-heavyweight, during the next few weeks.

"Pa" has signed for his son to box Jack Delaney, clever Bridgeport, Conn., battler in a six round match at Madison Square Garden on November 7, it was announced to-day and has several other matches booked or pending before them. To-morrow the Georgian is stated to meet Vic McLaughlin at Raleigh, N.C.

DECISION TO STRIBLING

RALEIGH, N.C., Sept. 28.—(Canadian Press).—Young Stribling of Macon, Ga, outpointed Vic McLaughlin of New York by a small margin a ten round bout here last night, according to the decision of the majority of newspapermen.

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER.

ONLY TWO EXTRA BASE HITS IN JUNIOR GAME

Whitehouse Fanned Side in Three Innings—Opponent in Two.

The seventeen innings pitching duel between Frank Whitehouse, of the Lakeviews, and Rasson, of the McCormicks, of Toronto, Saturday, had many notable features. One was that in that long struggle there was only one extra base hit by each team, and that the outfielders of the two clubs only had a total of nine chances, McCormick outfielders retired five men and Lakeviews four.

In eight innings of the seventeen Whitehouse only pitched to three batters and Rasson's showing in this respect was exactly the same. Whitehouse fanned the side in the 1st, 4th and 15th innings, while Rasson did the trick in the 2nd and 4th.

Another feature was that Johnston, of the Lakeviews, got the only hit made in the last five innings. When two pitchers are going twelve frames, can cut the swatting to one hit in the next five innings, there has got to be stamina as well as stuff to offer.

The strike-out record is worth giving. Lakeviews: Lebarr 4, Whitlow 3, Johnston 3, Ash 2, Cameron 2, Halliday 2, Cheu 2, McIntyre 2, Halliday 2, Marchen 1. Total 23.

McCormacks—Gillespie 6, Boyd 3, Sinclair 3, Rasson 3, Eisner 2, Clark 2, Henry 2, Brown 2, Swing 1, Woodrow 1. Total 25.

BILLY EVANS SAYS

Is great pitching more interesting than superlative batting?

The remarkable swirling of Dazzy Vance, star pitcher of the Brooklyn club, is responsible for the query.

Is Vance's chances of establishing a new pitching record as interesting to the fans as was Babe Ruth's feat of making 59 home runs?

Fandom, I believe, is as much interested in great pitching as hitting. However, pitching doesn't draw them at the gate as does the feats of swat.

Ruth, when he was establishing his record of 59 home runs, was breaking attendance records everywhere. The fans flocked to the park to see him in action, cheered him when he hit a homer, "razzed" him when he struck out.

While the National League fans have marveled at Vance's great pitching, still the fact that he was scheduled to pitch established no new attendance records.

Which merely proves that while the fans may be equally interested, they want to see the hitting of home runs but are content to read about extraordinary pitching performances.

When Vance won his 26th game with only four losses for the season, he surpassed the mark made by Bill Donovan in 1907. That year Donovan won 25 and lost four.

Joe Wood in 1912 captured 34 games and lost only five for a percentage of .872. This is the best mark ever made by a major league pitcher in the history of the game.

Vance has a chance to break this record if he can add two more victories to his credit before the close of the season and suffers no losses. That would give him a final rating of 28 won and four lost for a percentage of .875.

This surely has been a great season for the Brooklyn star. After being tossed around in the minors for years he finally comes into his own. He ranks today with the great Walter Johnson.

Peculiarly enough, both Johnson and Vance use the same style, a fast ball being their best asset.

The fine showing of Vance and Johnson this year, as well as the improved pitching in both major leagues, makes it seem as if the twirlers were working themselves back to a fifty-fifty proposition with the batsmen, who for years have been supreme.

MASSEYS WIN FROM C.P.C. GREYBIRDS 1-0

Cooper Scored Only Goal in Turner Charity Cup Game.

The C.F.C. Grey Birds and the Masseys met in the first round of Mayor Turner's Charity Cup competition on Saturday afternoon, and a very poor game ended in a win for Masseys by one goal to none.

The Grey Birds won the toss and had the advantage of the wind and sun. Jenkins made an effort to score in the first minute of the game. Cooper relieved and Bettingsley became dangerous; it was not long, however, before the Grey Birds' citadel fell. Fenner came out of goal, and Bittingsley passed to Cooper, who was well placed, and made no mistake. Half-time: Massey 1, Grey Birds 0.

Upon resuming the Grey Birds had much the best of the game, but their shooting was very weak, and Edgar had no difficulty in keeping his goal intact. Feeley once made a run and sent the ball across the goal, and three players missed an open goal.

Masseys were content with the lead and concentrated their attentions on defensive tactics. Masseys enter the next round.

The teams:

Masseys—J. Edgar; Naish and Pulley; Ashmore, Cooper and Westlake; Slaughter, Laughlin, Vinet, Bittingsley, and Fowler.

Grey Birds—C. Fenner; G. Butler and H. Hotson; A. Downer, E. Williams and Feeley; F. Taylor, P. Vinet, M. Shadgett, A. Bromley, and Jenkins.

Referee—S. Calladine.

PRINCE GIVES GIRL PONY

Miss Diana Guest, daughter of Captain, the Right Honorable, and Mrs. Frederick Guest, of Wheatley Hills, L.I., is happy with "Ashby," a polo pony the Prince of Wales gave her from his own string. The Prince made the presentation himself.

HORNSBY HOLDS BATTING LEAD; RUTH STILL FIRST IN AMERICAN

Cardinals' Star, With .421, H as Chance to Set New Major League Record—Yankee Slugger, With .379, Has Lead of 5 Points—Yde a nd Johnson Top Pitchers.

With the baseball season almost at an end, Rogers Hornsby is still far in front in the race for the individual batting championship of the National League. The Cardinals' star, who now has a mark of .420, has a fine chance to set a new major league batting record by surpassing the mark of .420, now held by George Sisler and Ty Cobb. Wheat of the Robins, who is second, has a percentage of .372. Young of the Giants, is third, with .357, Cuyler of the Pirates is fourth with .354, and Roush of the Reds is fifth with .350. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Frisch, New York, 121.

Most hits made— Hornsby, St. Louis, 221.

Most two-base hits—Hornsby, St. Louis, and Wheat, Brooklyn, 42 each.

Most three-base hits — Roush, Cincinnati, 21.

Most home runs— Fournier, Brooklyn, 27.

Most stolen bases—Carey, Pittsburgh, 47.

Leading pitcher— Yde, Pittsburgh, 15 victories, 3 defeats, .833.

In the race for the individual batting championship of the American League, Babe Ruth of the Yankees is still setting the pace for his rivals. The big slugger now has a batting mark of .279. This is five points higher than that of Stephenson of the Indians, who is in second place among the regular batsmen. Jamieson of the Indians, ranks third with a percentage of .357. Bib Falk of the White Sox, is fourth with .351 and Eddie Collins of the White Sox ranks fifth with a mark of .349. Leaders in other phases of play follow:

Most runs scored—Ruth, Washington, 142.

Most hits made—Rice, Washington, 213.

Most two-base hits— Heilmann, Detroit, 44.

Most three-base hits—Pipp, New York, 19.

Most home runs— Ruth, New York, 46.

Most stolen bases—Collins, Chicago, 42.

Leading pitcher—Johnson, Washington, 23 victories, 6 defeats, 793.

GAVE A BANQUET TO BETHANY TEAM

Team Received Good Support From the Home Fans But Poor Support Away.

BETHANY, Sept. 29.—The citizens of Bethany and surrounding district gave a very fine social evening for the Bethany baseball team in the Town Hall on Friday evening. The hall was filled to capacity. The decorations were very pretty, and showed much thought and taste. In the basement where the supper was served a large square of asters were arranged against the wall, and the three letters, B. B. T., written in white asters, on a background of red and blue ones.

In the early part of the evening there was progressive euchre, but from ten o'clock the main part of the programme was enjoyed.

Hooper's four-piece orchestra provided the music.

Dancing was enjoyed until about twelve. Then time was given for a few speeches.

Mr. Wesley Staples of Lindsay gave a talk explaining that Bethany was present to honor the ball team, who had won all their games in the East Durham League, then defeated the champions of East Peterboro, losing finally to a team who had been the champions of Ontario for the past two seasons, and stand a strong chance to become so this year also. He applauded the self-sacrifice which the boys of the team had shown, in going into the play-offs, to put Bethany on the map, as possibly nothing else would, when they might have been making more for themselves at home.

Mr. Wm. Hanna, president of the ball team, next made a few remarks, and thanked the people of Bethany for the support rendered the ball team all summer, and stated that the team appreciated it. He remarked that even though they had small crowds at home, it was because the visiting team failed to bring their supporters, while at other places the crowd was generally half from Bethany.

Supper was served after the speeches and then the dancing was continued for a time.

Altogether it was a very enjoyable evening, and the ball team fully appreciated the honor conferred on them, and enjoyed the evening.

Dr. J. Hamilton has been the manager of the Bethany team this season, and has proved a most capable manager. On more than one occasion when a member of the team was prevented from attending a game, the doctor donned a ball suit, and in spite of being out of practice, took his place as one of the Bethany nine and played a good game, doing this on the occasion of the last game with the C.G.E. at Peterboro.

EPINARD LOST IN GREAT RACE

Nosed Out at the Tape By August Belmont's Ladkin.

CONTEST THRILLED

NEW PORK, September 29. — In one of the most brilliant and thrilling contests between thoroughbreds that have been witnessed in America in a generation, Major August Belmont's three-year-old cold Ladkin nosed out Pierre Wertheimer's four-year-old colt Epinard at the finish of the one-mile International Special No. 2 at the Aqueduct Course of the Queen's County Jockey Club on Saturday afternoon.

A length and a half back came F. A. Burton's Wise Counsellor, winner of the first International Special at Belmont Park on Labour Day.

These three were the only factors in the contest, the Rancocas Stable's Zev, the Salubria Stable's My Own, and I. B. Humphrey's Little Chief finishing in that order.

Ladkin carried his 119 pounds to victory in 1 minute 36 2-5 seconds, two-fifths of a second slower than the record for the course established by Harry Payne Whitney's John P. Grier in 1921 under 127 pounds. The track was in perfect condition for fast time. It was a grilling battle for horses and jockeys from flag-fall to finish, and 20,000 wildly enthusiastic spectators cheered frantically as the field swept down the long home stretch.

Clarence Kummer was up on the winner, a chestnut son of Fair Play and Lading, bred at Mr. Belmont's Nursery Stud in Kentucky and trained by Louis Feustel, who also trained Man-o'-War, and the jockey rode a perfect race.

By his victory Ladkin earned $28,750 for Major Belmont, and also won a handsome bouquet of flowers which Pierre Wertheimer, with rare foresight and graciousness, had sent to the stewards' stand before the race, "to be presented to the owner of the winner."

The French horseman's share of the stake was $5,000, while $1,000 went to F. A. Burton as owner of the third horse.

The Loser Acclaimed.

As the horses came back to the scales there was enthusiastic acclaim for the winner, but when Epinard trotted back to the judges' stand he was accorded quite as cordial a reception, for his owner, trainer, and jockey have made hosts of friends in this country and a victory for the French colt would have been extremely popular.

DARWIN TULIPS ALL COLORS BUT YELLOW

They Also Lack a True Blue, But Purples Furnish Desired Shades.

While Darwin tulips are said to have all colors except yellow, they also lack a true blue, but have several purples which come as close as one would wish. Two of these purples, La Tulipe Noire and Zulu, are almost black. There are two almost pure white varities, Painted Lady, which has a tinge of heliotrope, and White Queen, faintly tinged with pink. A white and black color scheme worked out with either pair of these is truly striking.

The best of the tulips are the Rev. H. Ewbank, and Dream, both of which find their best companions among the Cottage and Breeder types, where yellow and orange tints abound. As the Cottage tulips blossom later than the Darwins and Breeders, one of the orange Breeders would be best.

Faust One of Largest

The largest and most beautiful of the purple Darwins is Faust. It grows thirty inches high and is a huge flower of a dark satiny purple. This variety, as well as those which are almost black, look wonderfully well with the pinks in which the Darwin class is richest. No other class of tulip can provide such pinks.

The variety Clara Butt is known as the best pink Darwin, and it would be hard to dispute this tribute Its pale beauty is never so striking as when contrasted with a dark purple, such as Zulu. For those who prefer more color the variety Princess Elizabeth will have a greater appeal than Clara Butt. It is taller and larger and more of a rose pink Massene is accurately described as an apple blossom pink, and is at its best as a cut flower, lacking the positive coloring which counts most in the border. Suzon is a very beautiful pale pink, flowering later than the others.

Have Overlay of White

The variety Ariadne, usually classed as a red, is really a dark rose, and blossoms early. It is twenty-eight inches high with large flower, and is less flaming and more beautiful than the truer reds. Of these the Darwins have many, including Harry Veitch, Farncombe, Sanders and Bartigon.

All the Darwin tulips have an overlay of white which may be compared to the bloom on grape. Its effect is to soften the color, making it resemble those paintings of chalk which are called pastels. This make it difficult to find two varities which do not harmonize and for this reason mixtures of these tulips are less objectionable than other mixtures.

CANADA FAVORED.

Canadians Have Much To Be Thankful For This Year.

BRIDGEBURG, September 29. — Canadian Press. — That Canadians have much to be thankful for and that with prosperity returning and a bountiful harvest, Canada is one of the most favored nations of the earth, was the declaration of Ven. Archdeacon A. Cameron MacIntosh, former rector of St. Paul's Anglican church and a veteran of the world war who spoke at the harvest home services held yesterday.

"Canadians nationally and individually should at this time extend to Providence heartfelt thanks for generous blessings he has bestowed on this favored land," he said.

WEDDING BELLS

WARNER—SARGENT

The Methodist Parsonage, Newcastle, Ontario, was the scene of a pretty wedding last Wednesday, when, Annie Isabelle, elder daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Sargent and Gordon F., son of Mr. and Mrs. F. Warner, both of Westwood, Ontario were united in marriage. The ceremony was conducted by Rev. E. B. Cooke, assisted by Rev. M. B. Tucker. The bride wore a costume of cocoa satin crepe with lace trimmings, the only jewelry worn was a barpin the gift of the bridgroom. After a dainty luncheon with Mrs. (Rev.) E. B Cooke as hostess, the happy couple left on the CN.R. train for New York. The bride wore a coat of dark brown Marvella cloth trimmed with moufflaw fur and small French hat.

MECCA CAPTURED.

Very Little News Is Being Received By the Outside World.

LONDON, Sept. 29. — (Canadian Press).—While Moslem world is anxiously awaiting the confirmation of the report that Mecca has been captured by Wahabis—fanatical Mohamedan Puritan reformers, who held the Holy City for a few years at the beginning of the nineteenth century—what little news is reaching the outside world by way of rumor suggests that the report is likely to be true. King Hussein, who during the great war made Mecca the capital of his new Kingdom of Hedjaz, is reported by the Daily Chronicle.

FIGHT ON SHIP.

One Man Under Arrest and Other Man In Hospital.

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., September 29. — On Sunday afternoon while the steamer Morgan Junior, of the Steel Trust fleet, was on Lake Superior downbound, two of her firemen became engaged in an altercation ending in a knife cutting affray, which may end seriously. Fireman Richardson was badly cut around the body and abdomen by knife in the hands of C. French. On arrival of the steamer at the Soo officers placed French under arrest and was taken to jail. Richardson was taken to the Marine hospital.

RAILWAY GATES BROKEN.

Heavy Rain and Mist Made Gates Invisible and Two Are Missing To-day.

The heavy rains last night caused much damage at the Candian National Railway crossing on Charlotte street, when two of the gates were crashed into and broken off, when the downpour of rain and mist made the lowered gates invisible. The two south gates on Charlotte were the ones that suffered the damage, the first one being broken at 10.10 o'clock last night. The driver of the car that crashed into the gate at ten o'clock is said to have seen the gates down and applied the brakes of his car but he was so close when he noticed the safety pole across the street that he skidded right into it. The second gate was broken about midnight wet roads and heavy rain causing this accident. Neither accident was the fault of the driver as the roads were so slippery that it was impossible to stop a car without skidding a gread deal. Neither car suffered very great damage and no one was injured.

"DEATH-RAY."

From San Francisco the inventor, Edwin R. Scott, claims he and other American scientific workers were experimenting with "death-rays" before the Englishman, Grindell-Matthews, was ever heard of. Invention rarely is the creation of any one man, but rather the outcome of generations of effort, each of a long chain of inventors contributing his share to the final product.

We fail to see, though, how the invention of a murderous "death-ray" or any other such device of warfare is much to boast of. The original inventor of the rifle was Satan in human form.

SHANGHAI SHAKEN BY BOMBARDMENT

Fiercest Battle Ever Fought In China Took Place This Afternoon.

SHANGHAI, September 29 (Canadian Press). — The fiercest battle of modern China's history raged along the entire Shanghai front this afternoon.

Apparently it is the final phase of the local conflict.

Chi-Hsieh's troops attacked first, hurling back the Chekiang forces, who made gains in a surprise attack on Saturday, but before long the battle assumed such intensity that it seemed that both sides were on the offensive.

Artillery, bombardment planes, and machine gun fire kept up a terrific bombardment that shook Shanghai.

MAHATMA IS FASTING.

At Last He Has Agreed To Break His Fast, On Thirteenth Day.

CALCUTTA, September 29. — "Mahatma" Gandhi has agreed to break his fast, now in the thirteenth day, when his doctors consider his life is in danger.

The non-cooperationist leader is fasting as a demonstration against the strife between the Hindus and Mohammedans, which has inflamed all India.

OBITUARY.

CATHARINE ENGLISH.

The death occurred in this city on Sunday, September 28th, of Catharine Chambers, wife of the late Samuel English in her 72nd year.

Mrs. English, who has resided in this city for over 20 years was born in Kingston, Ontario. She was a faithful member of St. John's church. One week ago she suddenly became seriously ill and was confined to her bed. Her husband, Samuel English, predeceased her eight years ago.

The funeral will be held on Tuesday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock from D. Belleghem and Sons' funeral chapel and proceed to Omemee for interment. Rev. R. C. Blagrave, of St. John's church, will officiate.

BEATRICE WALKEY.

Died, on Monday, Sept. 29th, Mrs. Beatrice Walkey, widow of the late W. H. Walkey, 47 Benson avenue.

The funeral will leave the family residence on Wednesday afternoon, October 1st, at 3.30 o'clock and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery, where burial will take place.

JAMES SUMNER.

James Sumner, of 103 Rubidge street, died this morning from the effects of a gunshot wound in the arm, sustained while out shooting about a week ago. He was well known in football circles in this city, having played with the Thistles last year and the Grey Birds this season.

The funeral will be held on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock from the family residence, 103 Rubidge street and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery for interment. The Rev. J. D. Paterson of All Saints' church, will officiate.

L. J. SQUAIR FUNERAL.

On Friday afternoon the funeral of L. J. Squair took place from the family residence, corner Benson avenue and Wolseley street, to Little Lake cemetery. The funeral was under Masonic auspices and the following pallbearers officiated: Messrs. Harry Rush, W. M. Lang, R. Gliddon, R. Denne, G. Carruthers and A. Gibson. Rev. R. Pogue conducted the services. Friends were present from Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa. The floral tributes were many and beautiful.

HEBREW HOLIDAY.

To-day Is the New Year of the Old Testament.

To-day and to-morrow signalise in the annals of the Hebrew residents of the city the commencement of the most important annual period in the Jewish calendar.

To-day is Rosh Hashonah, the New Year of the Old Testament, and marks the beginning of a ten-day period, ending on the evening of 7th October, when prayerful service is continued, to usher in Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement.

Rosh Hashonah, according to the Biblical computations, is the day of all creation. Monday, 29th September, is the first day of the year 5685.

The day is a day of thoughtful rejoicing, and is given over to prayer, thanksgiving and contemplation. The period of prayerful service which follows it prepares to ask forgiveness for the sins of the past.

Yom Kippur, the Day of Atonement, is one of fast and denial, and is considered a Sabbath of Sabbaths by orthodox Jews.

Miss E. I. Laing, sister of the bride, and Mr. W. M. Beavis, witnessed the ceremony.

FERGUSON—WESTON.

The marriage of Samuel Ferguson and Kate Violet Weston, both of Peterborough, was solemnized at the home of the bride on Monday, 22nd September, at 3.30 p.m. Rev. A. J. Langford officiated.

The young people were unattended and the ceremony was witnessed by the immediate friends and relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Ferguson left on the 3.50 train for Toronto, and on their return will reside in Peterborough.

SPARLING—LEESON.

A very pretty wedding was solemnized at three o'clock Saturday, September 27th, in George Street Methodist Church, when Beatrice H., daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Leeson, of Douro, was united in marriage to Edgar V. Sparling, of Toronto, son of Mrs. Eliza Sparling and the late Henry Sparling, of Cargill, Ontario. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. W. Harold Young.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in a gown of poudre blue canton crepe, trimmed with gold lace, with hat to match, and bouquet of sweetheart roses and lily of the valley.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lexa M. Fife, of Toronto, and Miss Georgina Morton, of Kingston. Miss Fife wore ample green georgette, trimmed with lace, and Miss Morton a gown of turquoise blue satin, trimmed with lace. Both carried bouquets of roses and lily of the valley.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Cecil F. Wilson, of Toronto. During the signing of the register, Miss Mabel Dixon of Toronto sang "For You Alone," with organ accompaniment by Mr. J. H. Renwick, who also played the wedding music. Ushers were Messrs. Wm. Leeson and Percy McNaughton.

After the ceremony, a recention was held at the home of the bride's parents in Douro, when a buffet luncheon was served to about seventy-five guests. The house was prettily decorated for the occasion in white and pink.

Mr. and Mrs. Sparling left on Saturday night for a short honeymoon. On their return, they will reside at 49 Lee Avenue, Toronto. The bride wore a grey suit, with hat and shoes to match, and also wore the present of the bridegroom, an Isabella fox fur. Presents to the bridesmaids were leather handbags, to the best man a pair of gold cuff links. The young people received a large number of useful and handsome gifts.

Among the out-of-town guests were Miss Dorothy Lynn, Miss Nellie Dixon, and Messrs. Wm. Smith, John Jones, Douglas Sales, H. T. Sabin of Toronto, and Mrs. R. M. Sparling of Goderich.

MRS. MARKEY DEAD.

Wife of Editor of Woodstock Sentinel-Review Passed Away.

WOODSTOCK, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—Mrs. Helen Markey, wife of John Markey, editor of the Woodstock Sentinel Review, died very suddenly at her home here this morning. She was in her usual good health yesterday, but early today complained of pains in the region of her heart, and died shortly afterwards.

Mrs. Markey was formerly Miss Helen Currie, native of Perth County, and C. P. R. ticket and telegraph agent at St. Mary's. All her married life was spent in Woodstock, where she was prominent in women's activities, being associated with the Local Council of Women.

HOME BANK CASE.

Trial of Sydney Jones Continued This Morning.

TORONTO, Sept. 29.—(Canadian Press).—In the trial of Sydney H. Jones, auditor of defunct Home Bank this morning, Gordon L. Chapman, former assistant manager of Toronto Branch, explained various entries in ledger of Branch and told Court State of any accounts on May 31st, 1923. Cooper Mason current account on that date showed an over draft of $19,000; Cooper Mason in trust account was overdrawn by $13,523; A. J. Pattison Jr., Co., was overdrawn $153,792. Canadian Property Company $1,401,494. T. S. O'Connor $5,024. Under cross examination witness said policy of Bank in authorizing loans was settled by General Manager although witness had given credit without higher authority believing that his position was sufficient authority.

Witness said that monthly statements to Head Office did not contain names of parties who had secured loans.

Mr. Greer objected to statements and books entries being allowed as evidence until Crown showed what connectin they had with accused, Mr. McCarthy said that as Crown Counsel he was obliged to lay foundation and that connection would develop when other witnesses were called, Mr. Greer though this connection should be established immediately. Mr. McCarthy retorted that if defence counsel had followed case he would see where connection was being established. Judge ruled that entries and statements be put in, if they were not revelant, they would not be considered but Crown must be given opportunity to establish its case. Mr. Greer drew from Mr. Chapman admission that monthly statements made from Toronto branch to head office did not give details of loans and that figures and balances contained on the were in actual accordance with books, monthly statements did show amount of loans made to directors.

MAN NOT MISSING.

Mr. George Harvey Stays at House of Refuge Near Lakefield.

A report current on Saturday that Mr. George Harvey, a well known resident of Smith township, was missing has been characterized as without foundation in fact, Mr. Harvey, who stays at the House of Refuge, left there on Wednesday to go down to his own house, and returned the same evening. The house owned by him was not burned, a fire in the immediate neighbo'hood having given rise to this rumour. Mr. B. Lockington, of R. R. No. 9, who holds the keys for Mr. Harvey's house, says also that no attempt was made recently to procure the keys from him as stated.

The Purity Defence League

The white slave traffic looms up again with appalling results. The U.S. Government and all our Canadian Governments have organized an intensive campaign to offset traffic organized by the worst of human kind. Petting parties and the bar-in-the-car are the open doors by which the young are tempted to their doom. The increased wealth and strength of the underworld will, it is said, send Prohibition back whence it came, for even the most fanatical cannot see its terrible by-products without fear and horror.

Sixty thousand girls sucked under in America in a twelvemonth by the Underworld, whose agents are everywhere. Give the Government all the control we can to help it to save the girls. 1d-76-3619

A TRIP TO MARS WOULD TAKE ABOUT 40 YEARS

An airplane travelling 100 miles an hour would not get you to the planet Mars until you had shot onward through space for about 40 years.

At 1000 miles an hour, the trip would take four years.

No airplane could travel 1000 miles an hour for more than a few days without getting its machinery so hot it would be unable to function and continue its flight.

No airplane could ever carry fuel for a trip of four years or more. Of course, power might possibly be electrical, received by radio from a superstation back here on earth.

Any way you look at it, even the wildest dreamer cannot see any possibility of men ever flying out to visit other worlds.

Nature has chained us to our earth and its immediate vicinity. There is no escape except by death.

* * *

A flying trip to the moon is not impossible in the future centuries when men will be phenomenally advanced in invention compared with now.

Airplanes that will travel 1000 miles an hour are just a matter of time.

A plane of that speed would travel from the earth to the moon in about 10 days. To the moon and back in three weeks or less!

* * *

The flying machine is undoubtedly man's greatest invention to date, in the sense of being marvelous on a big scale, with the possible exceptions of X-ray and radio.

How long until you'll own your own airplane, a flying flivver, safe to ride in? Sooner than anyone expects.

"Even admittin' dat folks am descended from monkeys," said Uncle Ezra, "I knows some people dat ain't no special credit to deir ancestors."
